The results of the senior pronunciation exercise have been compiled, and show some things of special interest. Of the thirty one questionable words given, all of them were missed by at leastt one student, the word "realize" being mispronounced but once. The biggest stumbling blocks, with the number of times each word was missed are given below: lamentable (72), inquiry (90), extraordinary (50), finance (37), comparable (22), evidently (21), status (35), height (21), asked (32, resources (26), experimentation (20).

Those students who went through the entire test without an error are, Roberta Robison, Ann Truett, and Robert Stevenson.

Following is the complete exercise as it was given to the seniors.

The tenth series of the modern Olympic Games has passed into history, levaing a NEW series of records both for ATHLETIC performance and in the field of FINANCE. In all events on the program of the games, ADMIRABLE, achievements were recorded.

The APPARTUS employed for timing in the races was almost perfect, and nothing COMPARABLE to the running track was ever known before. It was apparently without DEFECT. OFTEN in previous games a LAMENTABLE feature has been charges of unsportsmanlike conduct. These games PRODUCED very little of this. Evidently each ATHLETE REALIZED his position and RECOGNIZED it as his DUTY to himself and to his country to be a sportsman.

An event always full of ROMANCE is the Marathon race, won this year by an athlete from the Argentine. Much interest centered about the questionable STATUS of Nurmi, who was to have represented Finland in that event. An INQUIRY into his eligibility resulted in his disqualification.

The EXTRAORDINARY achievements of Carr in the four-hundred meters race, of Miller, clearing the bar at the dizzy HEIGHT of fourteen feet, one inch, in the pole vault, and of the Japanese swimmers are after all, only DETAILS in making the Tenth Olympics MEMORABLE.

It may be ASKED whether the records set can ever be surpassed. It is safe to say that every effort will be made still FURTHER to improve methods of training and the physical conditions of the track and field. Whether there remain yet undeveloped RESOURCES of physical dexterity and skill is an INTERESTING question which only time and EXPERIMENTATION can answer.

In the first COLUMN on the next page will be found interesting DATA regarding the games. Also we are reprinting the ADDRESS of Vice-President Curtis, delivered at the opening of the Olympic ceremonies.

DR. H. E. ORR WILL REPRESENT MARYVILLE AT SYNOD MEETING

Dr. H. E. Orr, head of Maryville's Bible Department, will be in Lebanon, Tennessee, the first half of next week where he will attend the regular meeting of the Synod of Tennessee. Dr. Orr will read a report on Maryville College which Dr. Loyd compiled, but was unable to give on account of the conflict of this date with that of his eastern trip.

After the close of Synod on Wednesday night, Dr. Orr will remain in Lebanon where he will represent Maryville College at the celebration of Cumberland University's 90th anniversary. An attractive and valuable program has been outlined for Thursday and Friday, including as speakers, Dean Hoskins of the University of Tennessee; Robert L. Kelly, Executibe Secretary of the Association of American Colleges; E. L. Orr, Nashville, Synodical executive of Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi, a brother of Dr. Orr; John E. Edgerton, former President of the National Association of Manufacturers; and Senator Hull of Tennessee. The program includes many other valuable speakers.

Dr. Orr will remain in Lebanon for this two-day program and return to Maryville to assume his teaching duties the first of the following week.

LLOYD'S SPEECH

(Continued From Page One)

phy. However, his words are full of key ideas that reveal his philosophy. A Christian philosophy should be built with the purpose of achieving what Matthew Arnold called "seeing life steadily and seeing it whole." A Christian philosophy will have in it elements from various schools of philosophy and will be built around the central fact that personality is the supreme value of the universe. On this basis a personality of God, freedom of man, and the immortality of the soul are reasonable conclusions.

IV. Current Trends of Thought

In working out a Christian philosophy one must take account not only of the types of thought which have been more or less common through every age but also of the trends which offer special encouragement or special opposition to the Christian philosophy today. There are at least four trends which can be mentioned here.

1. The spirit and method of science are the dominant characteristics of modern thought. A Christian philosophy must be based upon the scientific spirit and make use of the scientific method so far as possible. Its difficulties will lie in the fact that some thinkers will insist that science can get at all the truth. The fact, however, is that life is so built that some things cannot be measured and tested by science as such and yet may be known to be true.

2. The second trend of present day thought may be called Mechanism. It is akin to the old but now discredited philosophy of Materialism. It is perhaps a child of our machine age. It takes some things that have been shown in the laboratory to be true and then makes sweeping assumptions that this is all the truth. It says that the world and man are but machines. It leaves no place for God or human freedom. It is based upon a half-truth but it cuts across the central facts of a Christian philosophy and must be understood to be counteracted.

3. What is called Humanism is a third trend. It has many advocates. It is based upon a mechanistic view of the world, casts aside all belief in God and puts its attention upon the cultivation of the present life of man. It might be called religion without God. It assumes that man is sufficient unto himself. Earnest people are easily drawn into its philosophical conclusions but its fallacy lies at the same point that the fallacy of Mechanism lies.

4. A familiar trend of thought today might be called Cynicism. Not a few modern writers basing their world view upon Mechanism express their feeling of futility about the world and become masters either of serious pessimism or of "debunking" or of "smart-aleck wisecracking."

A wholesome Christian philosophy is not only needed in the face of these currents of thought but may be permanent and reasonable.

OUR COUNTRY, AND WAR

The patriotic term "our country" has become in the minds of young thinking people one of the most intangible expressions imaginable. What is our country? Too much thought on this subject destroys, or has to do with the ultimate destruction of some of our most fanciful, and would be genuine, dreams of youth.

In grade school we are continually aware of the fact that Christopher Columbus discovered our country, George Washington won its freedom, and Abraham Lincoln kept it unified. This remains impressed upon our minds. That fact has doubtless recurred to many students who have had relatives in the recent war, some to die, because a central power infringed upon the rights of our country. In the war, we heard the term "slacker" used in a very disparaging sense. . . . the slacker was shunned because he would not die for his country.

An unprecedented, and unexpected tendency has been noticeable in younger people, especially they came to realize that their libes were exploited for the benefit of congressmen and millionaires, young people began to look about them and take account of various things. Since then, definite steps have been taken through the medium of Christianity for the outlawry of war.are. Probably the most significant steps occurred in 1930 at the meeting of the International Council of Religious Education of Youth at Toronto, Ontario. This group of young people went on record as being opposed to war and as being opposed to accepting any personal part in carrying out warfare. A very significant peace movement at least psychologically significant, was the World Sunday School Conference held in Rio de Janeiro in June, 1932.

What does this movement to abolish war mean? To our indelibly impressed minds, so constructed by our youthful "patriotism", occurs the thought that the youth of Canada and the United States consists of so many cowards.

To our more rational minds, that have come to learn more truth each day, this movement shows a step that signifies great courage. Besides this move other organizations have acted accordingly, and in many cases, students in universities have taken an independent stand, being opposed to war in all its phases and relationships.

Does it mean that people won't fight for their country? Apparently, it does. It means that youth has come to realize that a country is made up of no more and no less than just the people who reside within its borders. When we fight in war, we fight for the representatives, who declare the war, depending on the inebitable aid. Our country is something to be cherished for its founders; those men who died that it might live, and those men who had dreams of its future perfection. That is where we get the patriotism that is so deeply instilled in our minds. We don't sing "The Star Spangled Banner" for the United States of 1932. It is for the colonies of 1776 with the "spirit of '76" in the background.

People are beginning to realize the value of life and the futility of war. Now we are truly on the fence. War has never yet been outlawed. . . . even though scientists say that it can never occur again. Only a few significant changes are necessary, however, before it will be settled one way or the other. One of these changes, in favor of world peace, was made by Italy about two months ago when that country junked $30,000,000 worth of battle ships. The great powers of our world could profit greatly by this significant and brave example.

CHAPEL PROGRAM

As we observe, we realize that one of the most significant adjustments to be made recently on the hill is the slight, but effective, variation that has been included in the chapel program. The chapel programs for the latter part of last year, and during this year, are of a high and enjoyable type. Much advance has been made toward eliminating the routine effect that must, to a certain degree, characterize all chapel programs.

This reference applies particularly to the Saturday morning programs. At this time, the well selected music is an appreciable variation from the more or less stereotyped program during the first four days. It is the time when each person worships in his own way . . . it is "self directed" worship. As the music is being played, everyone is entitled to his own thoughts. Some sit and think; some seek contact with God; some become lost in the entrancing music. Then, there are those who listen for mistakes in the music; or merely look about them, or study, as usual.

In any event, it is evident that more real worship is being accomplished, and more personal searching takes place in this service than in any other service. For the sake of better chapel programs we hope it might continue.

The Evening Meal

by Grace Noll Crowell

The preparation of an evening meal
By any woman, anywhere, may be
A ceremony beautiful to see,

Recalling clear, sweet evenings long ago
At Emmaus, or Bethany, when One
Beloved guest had come at set of sun.

And Oh, that other quiet evening meal
Within an upper room—the grace He said
Above the scarlet wine, the broken bread!

An evening meal is such a gracious thing,
It matters not how plain may be the fare
So long as love and loyalty are there.

The supper hour—a magnet drawing home
The ones who have the need of food and rest!
All women know this hour of day is best.

WORLD TODAY

The new State of Manchukuo has just been recognized by Japan. It is the result of the military success of the Japanese Army in Manchuria. It is 400,000 square miles of Chinese territory and because of this appropriation by the Japanese, the Chinese rebels are stubbornly resisting the Japanese troops.

In order to settle the bonus question to the satisfaction of the veterans of the World War, they would receive one hundred billion dollars according to recent calculations.

Roosevelt has just finished touring the western states, speaking in Kansas, in Salt Lake City at the Mormon Tabernacle, Seattle and Portland, Oregon and returning to Topeka. He outlined his farm plans in the middle western states, his railroad plans at Salk Lake City, and general utility plans on the western coast.

Germany has been refused the right to arm by the ruling powers. Apparently Germany has not yet been deemed safe with battleships and is considered presumptious for wishing for the right to have them.

Prof. Max Wolf, Director of the Hoenigstuhl Observatory and a celebrated specialist in Spectrum Analysis and celestial photography, died recently at the age of 69 years.

Columbia University is building a new library at an approximate cost of $3,500,000. It is to be named South Hall and is the gift of Edward Harkness. Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, laid the cornerstone for the new building.

It looks as though the last relic of British power will have disappeared from Ireland within the next few weeks. Governor General James McNeill was put out of office by the Executive Council of the Irish Free State. In London the Governor General offered his resignation to th King who accepted it.

As an answer to Roosevelt's arguments presented during his western campaign, President Hoover is touring the west speaking first at Des Moines, Iowa, with emphasis on a well developed farm plan.

Brazil's war has finally come to an end after three months of fighting and two years of poitical disturbance within its borders. The rebels deserted their General and forced him to surrender unconditionally.

Triangle Club

At a meeting of the Triangle Club held September 9, the following officers were elected:

Bob Stevenson—President
Betty Brewer—Vice President
Louise Reichelderfer—SeScrtary
Warren Warman—Treasurer
Harry Mathias and Betty Woodwell—Program Chairmen

ON CRIME

By Lazell

Though the days of freedom that were Al Capone's have become something of the past, there is a man in Chicago who is not convinced that this civilization of ours has been spoiled alone by men of the Capone strain.

He is Prof. William E. Dodd, professor of American History at the University of Chicago, who some time ago had his views aired in a nationally-known magazine. Prof. Dodd believes that Americans of today are privately boasting of the fact that "their fathers and grandfathers joined the mob of the 1860's, and stayed up of nights to man the underground railroads in order that national laws might be made null and void."

There is another fellow in this country who also presents a distasteful side of the land supposedly governed by the people and for the people. He is one who writes under the pseudonym of Jay Franklin.

While Dodd says that the people who developed this country violated its law whenever it suited their purposes, Franklin adds that the Constitution was formed in order to keep Alexander Hamilton out of the presidency.

Here are a few selections from Prof. Dodd:

"In any great city of the country there are today more violent deaths in a year than there are in the whole of Great Britain. . . . .

"Unthinking and unreading people attribute these deaths and the accompanying robberies to the Eighteenth Amendment and its enforcing law of 1919. . . ..

"It is an acknowledged fact that the Eighteenth Amendment carried in all but five or six states by large and lawful majorities."

Dodd goes on to point out the vicious tendency to flaunt the law and he attempts to nullify the efforts to enforce it. He says that "there is such a thing as playing too long with fire."

In a thoroughly satrical vein, Franklin, in a part of one of his latest books, makes the statement that "the cops are gangsters, with a difference; they are gangsters operating with the support of the law and the connivance of society, for the purpose of controlling crime."

Although there is not a complete presentation of facts there is a great deal of truth in the closing paragraph of his chapter entitled "Less Law and Order". It reads:

"Once we conquer the police and purge our legislatures of the lawyers, we can set about a sane revision of our courts and codes and prisons. . . Our prisons are schools of crime, overcrowded and dangerous, administered by greedy or stupid political appointees."

The man who is called the leader of America's crime wave of recent years, Al Capone, is now supposed to be spending the Indian summer behind the bars of a federal penitentiary. But the ironical part of it all is that he pled guilty to charges of tax evasion and prohibition conspiracy.

Eight others connected with his nefarious operations were similarly convicted. In other words, nine of the country's worst criminals were sent to jail for not filing income tax returns on money which every man and woman in this country knows was the result of unlawful activity.

Without doubt there would be more than 100,000,000 badly shocked persons in the United States if newspapers published accounts of some of the crimes that come to the attention of newspaper reporters. But the preponderance of known crime and the potentia scurrilousness of most criminals are testimony to unwritten news stories.

But how can we expect to break the power of the underworld when men like Dodd can point out such circumstances as "the brazen and continued violation of the Federal Anti-Slave Trade Act of 1807 by men powerful enough to control Governorships, to dominate Congressional delegations, and to guide Federal courts and Cabinets." Things like that go on today with a modern touch.

Right now in New York there is a former senator being held on an indictment based on his alleged connections with a lottery. No more than ten years ago several members of a President's cabinet were successfully accused of tampering with Naval Oil property.

Perhaps the cause of all this trouble is the type of man now holding most of this country's municipal, state, and federal public offices. In the words of Rafael Sabatini, the intelligence of most politicians is measured by the extent to which they are able to tax our credulity, and present day observers can easily appreciate the extent to which the voting American has been duped.

SPORTS

Scotties Trek to Greeneville To Lock Horns With Untried Tusculum Gridders Today

College Band and Students Accompany To Help Squad's Cause

The Highlanders left here this morning determined to come back with bacon and Tusculum's scalp. In the ordinary course of historical events the Pioneers have been the ones who have received the sympathy of the mass, but this time Maryville is hoping for complete annihilation of the Greeneville crew by the Scots—exemplars of air and ground attack in the football sense.

Along with the team went the band and a group of student followers who were lucky enough to have the wherewithal. The game is scheduled to start at 2:30, thereby giving those who couldn't leave with the rest at 7:30 opportunity to cover the 50 miles from here to Tusculum.

Although the general trend of events during the past three or four years has been not to overemphasize the capacity of the Highlanders, Murfreesboro Teachers and Wesleyan can be counted upon to vote for Maryville's chances this afternoon.

When this story was written there was very little information on who would start in the backfield or who would make up the line. It is probable, however, that Captain Martin Gillespie and Steve Boretsky will open for the Scots.

Tom West has been steadily improving at a half position, and whether he starts or not he is sure to see action. Two of the newer men, Wade Clarke and Gray, are also in line for action against the Pioneers. John Kizer has also improved.

The past week didn't give Lombe S. Honaker much chance to work on the team, but what he didn't tell them in skull practice wouldn't cover a three-cent postage stamp. It is likely that the mentor was able to fill his charges with sufficient knowledge to stop Tusculum if the machine clicks.

Bob Thrower never has much to say about the forward wall, nor has he said very much about its chances up at Greeneville. But one thing is certain, and that is that the boys will gladly die for Thrower and Maryville.

Out on the wings Cecil Stone and Jack Atkins are all set to put on the Moffatt or Derryberry trick. With all respects to John White, these two boys now playing end for the Scots have got the stuff. Stone turned in one of the best examples of defensive and offensive plays against Wesleyan that has been seen here in many moons. Atkins, hampered by small bruises, didn't get going until the latter part of the game, and when he did, Rube McCray breathed a prayer of thanksgiving that he hadn't started earlier.

Lou Kolman and Stroud Gwynn—either one of them may start in Atkin's place. Whatever it is they play they will do their best.

"Butter" Atchison, Ted Burns, and Collins in the guard positions are sure to grind keen axes. Whatever the outcome they will have done their best.

Jim Holloway and Don Wilson will carry out the tackle assignments. Jim is improving rapidly in view of the fact that this is his first real season of competitive football. Don speaks for himself. Hope, the big Wesleyan tackle, can also tell much about the way Wilson stopped him.

Standing firmly at center will be the one and only Ray Russell, one of the cockiest, fightingest, friendliest fellows seen around here in some time. If Russell doesn't outplay his opponent he'll probably talk him out of a victory.

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

While "Georgia" Beale is in the state of convalescence after a very unfortunate and painful accident, we sit down to do that which we can't do best. . . . but maybe can do. At least. . . . this will include the writer's slant on the thing.

—S—

There could be only one thing to rival the pain of a broken jaw. That is the pain a Georgia person must have had to endure last week when the news got out that little V.P.I. had tramped over the Georgia steam roller in another of those moral victories—another of these "set-up" affairs. You know, Maryville plays poor teams first. . . but let's forget about that.

—S—

Something has to be arranged whereby we can all meet Lenoir-Rhyne's sports editor. We've heard of reading egotism into a headline, but now we have it in the raw. The Sports head for September 23, in "The Lenoir-Rhynean" was like this. . . . L. R. Bears will defeat Wofford in Hot Grid Contest Tonight. Victory seems inevitable as L. R. Squad Rounds into Shape. Heavy line will Hold Off All Attacks. Boy! What a promise, what a promise! In September 30, we read, Lenoir Rhyne Drops First Game to Wofford 16-0. In the obituary we find that "after playing amazing defensive football throughout the entire first half and, offensively, taking the ball to Wofford's one-yard line in the second quarter, Lenoir-Rhyne's 1932 Mountain Bears dropped a heart breaking 16 to 0 decision to the invaders". That's story number two. Story number three will come out some time after November 11, and since Maryville and L. R. meet then, we deem it well to clamp down. We'd advise Captain Gillespie and his boys not to read "The Lenoir-Rhynean", or they might be constrained to forfeit.

—S—

Being an Illinoisan by birth, at heart, and soul, and a Chicagoan as far as World Series games go, we don't feel particularly talkative about those nasty old World Series. Charlie Root expresses our sediment (dirt) when he says that "Babe Ruth is not human". So you're tellin' us, Charlie! Looks like some of those Chi Gangsters could at least have taken Ruthie for a joyride.

—S—

John Stone, the lambaster from Detroit, was showing at Maryville last week. Stone doesn't look much the dangerous hitter that he is, but we guess he looks a bit different to the mound boys in the American. Stone batted the best pitching in the world for over .300 this year. . . and that's something. In Maryville, Stone showed the way in football and baseball especially. He was one of the best pivots in Maryville College football history.

—S—

Another celebrity came our way last week in the form of Geese Woodard. Old Geese seemed to be as happy to be here as we were to see him. It looked very much like old times. We'd like to see Joe, bootin' 'em up among the boys again, but that apparently is out of the question, resembling in that respect, the mountain hike.

—S—

Hooray for the Wildcats. Kentucky University leads the Southern Conference. We're writing this Thursday, so don't quote us for any time after Saturday. Anyhow the Wildcats have won two games and that's got anything else beat in the Conference. We rather expect that K. U. will have the same number of wins after playing U. T. that they had immediately before. Is there anyone to call that one?

—S—

With the harmony boys (perfect blocking-excellent interference, etc.) going to Greeneville, the yell leaders and the yell followers should get a much deserved rest this week. At least they'll change atmospheres. When we battle the Monarch boys from King College, we'll be looking around for real yell interference from the grandstands.

COLLEGIATE SWAPS

Believe it or not, the Editor wishes to continue the practice of inflicting on the ECHO readers a column of collegiate news such as the writer doled out to bored readers last year. Perhaps he has a grudge against the student body; perhaps he has gone out of his head; but most likely he wants to fill up some corner of this page which he knows will not be read anyway.

—:—

College Humor, the Irosh Bible, is planning to begin the practice of using a full-color photograph of a beautifu co-ed on its cover each month. Schools all over the country have been invited to send in pictures of candidates for the office. Athough only universities can compete, we can think of several Maryville gals who would grace the front of anybody's magazine.

—:—

An item in the University of South Carolina's GAMECOCK states that graduates of that school o. journalism has been unusually successful in procuring jobs. We have no athoritative news, but we are willing to wager that the roster of said school was filled to overflowing this fall. And why not?

—:—

We understand that several members of the Clemson College orchestra have turned song writers over the vacation. The worst part of the affair is that they kept the numbers they wrote. At least we can be thankful here at Maryville that none of the Carnegie tuba friends are showing any inclinations to compose compositions for insipid tenors to blow through their noses.

—:—

Every college in the country opened for business this month and most of the college newspapers published their first issues. In each of the papers that the writer has perused, the sports editor made long and lusty pleas for more and louder cheering. The ECHO sports editor after hearing of this unanimity, states that he is pleased to note that other editors think enough of his idea to use it in their work.

—:—

News comes from the University of Tennessee that head Coach Neyland is pointing his team for the tilt with Maryville now a couple of weeks away. He hopes to have his team in great shape in time for this contest.

Freshmen And Sophs Are Victorious In Football Contests

Jess To Allen Makes Effective Passing Combination

The preliminary games in the annual intra-mural football tournament have been played, and their results demonstrates the desirability of "new blood". The two games played were won by the "under-dogs", the members of the two lower classes.

The Freshmen and the Juniors met in bloody fray on Wilson Field Wednesday afternoon. Through the efforts of the mighty passing combination, Hubbard to Quigley, aided and abetted by their ever fighting team mates, the Freshmen won a brilliant victory from th battered but hard fighting Juniors.. The final score, 7-0 in favor of the Frosh, was the result of a sensational fifty yard pass from Hubbard to Quigley.

It was in this contest that "Senator Beale from Gawgia", ye Junior Associate Editor of the HIGHLAND ECHO, received a grievous and well-nigh fatal wound. Beale had the misfortune to have his jaw broken, which means the suspension of political speaking for a period of six weeks. (A rising vote of thanks will be given the Freshman in chapel Tuesday morning.)

In the second battle of the tournament the Sophomores laid low the lofty Seniors by a score of 7-0. The touchdown was scored for the Soph by a miraculous pass from Harry Jess thirty-five yards over the goal line to Rex Allen. The Seniors, by hard fihting, held their opponents to this lone score.

The final match of the tournament is scheduled for this afternoon. The outcome of a match between two such powerful teams promises to loom high in blood shed and low in points scored. May the best man win.

Florida Club

The Florida Club met last Tuesday night and the following program was presented:

Popuar Songs—Leslie Osborne, accompanied by Irene Browning

Reading—Mary Katherine Mize

Lucy Houser

"Breaking the Ice"—Roberta Robison

Tap Dancing—Dan Hicks

Vocal Music—George Buffalo

Mr. Hicks and Mr. Buffalo were accompanied by Martha Watkins.

After the program, the members gathered around the piano and sang, "We are the Boys from Old Florida", and "The Orange and Blue".

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN POPE, Representative

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

Tornado From King College Will Open Conference Season Friday Against Highlanders

Tennis Tournament Advances To Quarter Finals Despite Rain

Haub Continues To Show Promise Among New Racqueteers

With favorable weather on Saturday of last week and the first part of this week, the annual fall tennis tournament continued to advance according to predictions, with few exceptions. The tournament was held up the last of the week on account of excessive rains. It was probable that some of the quarter final matches could be played off today.

Of the twenty-four men left in the running last week, only nine of them remain in the play for the championship. Fishback continues to stay on the tourney ladder although he has not reached the quarter-finals yet. Nothing seen on the courts this fall looks capable of disposing of Coach Smith's right hand man. As soon as Fishback disposed of Quigley, a comparatively easy accomplishment, he will meet Karnell of Hanover University fame. That, however, does not quite speak for itself. Fishbach should take Karnell,, although a real battle is expected.

Next in line comes Hurst and Talmage. Talmage's consistent play should net him a victory in this encounter, although Hurst has a serve that bears much watching.

Queener upset the dope container last week when he whipped Moore something like 6-2, 6-3. Moore was somewhat handicapped by an oversize jaw, the direct result of having one of his molars pulled. However, Queener had the usual consistent winning game, placing practically all his shots. Gillingham and

(Continued On Page Four)

King Will Come Prepared To Give Coach Honaker's Boys Severe Lacing

Special to the Highland Echo:
Bristol, Tennessee, Oct. 7.

The King College squad today went through their last hard workout of the week in preparation for the Lees McRae game Saturday night under the lights at Tenneva Field.

The Lees McRae game is the last warm up game before the Tornado starts plugging for the conference championship.

With another week's practice ahead before the Tornado meets Maryville, her first conference game, Commander Richerson hopes to iron out the remaining rough spots in the offense and have a scoring punch that was lacking in last year's squad.

From present indications one and possibly two Maryville boys will see service in the Maryville game. Converse Davis, captain of last year's McCallie team, and Luke Caldwell, former Maryville high school star. Both boys have shown up well in practice. Davis is fast developing into a triple threat man. His punting and passing was one of the highlights of the V. M. I. game. Although Caldwell reported late for practice he has shown himself an end of outstanding ability and will see much service during the season.

In addition to these two men, King will bring to Maryville a veteran squad composed of twelve letter men of last year's team and six or seven freshmen who were outstanding on their high school teams.

After becoming partially civilized a Kongo tirbe got heavily in debt and took to the jungle again. We can understand that impulse.

Sometimes a man who thinks he is hard boiled, is really only half-baked.

Recommended by the English Department of MARYVILLE COLLEGE

Webster's Collegiate

The Best Abridged Dictionary because it is based upon WEBSTER'S NEW INTERNATIONAL—The "Supreme Authority." Here is a companion for your hours of reading and study that will prove its real value every time you consult it for the wealth of ready information that is instantly yours.

106,000 words and phrases with definitions, etymologies, pronunciations, and use in its 1,268 pages. 1,700 illustrations. Includes dictionaries of biography and geography; rules of punctuation; use of capitals, abbreviations, etc.; a dictionary of foreign phrases; and other helpful special features.

See it at your College Bookstore or Write for Information to the Publishers. Free specimen pages if you name this paper.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO.
Springfield, Mass.

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENT'S STORE
... For ...
DRUG SUPPLIES

Smart Fall Shoes

All Styles
$5.

Friendly Five Shoes For Men

You may be sure that with a pair of Friendly Five Shoes on your feet you are style-wise and in good taste. Fashioned from the finest leathers obtainable they are built for men who like the best in footwear. And don't forget that Friendly Five Shoes offer you a wide selection from which to choose the right shoes, no matter what the occasion . . . Come in and try a pair.

CHANDLER-SINGLETON CO.
DEPARTMENT STORE

OBSERVATIONS

Hannah's Right Swafford Elucidates Not "Ballyhoo" Little Alexander

As we keep getting deeper and deeper imbeuded in the darker mysteries of our various curricula, and as our eyes become dim, we are forced to admit our failing ability to see so well. We resort in that case to what we hear. . . . and what we hear of. The latter of these brings out some very entertaining revelations.

—0—

Inasmuch as we have spent only two years on the Hill previous to this one, and, in that we are not particularly brilliant, we are not fortunate (it's conventional to run a question mark in parentheses after the word "fortunate") enough to be in the process of learning the right and wrong, as instructed to the voluble seniors—of which Bill Hannah is an integral part—in Dr. Orr's ethics, but not always ethical, class. We don't choose to analyze that sentence, by the way. Bill you know, revealed his belief in Sandy Claws last week in one of the duller moments of the class. It was considered a joke for the time, but things assumed a different light that evening when Bill was seen strolling about the campus with little old Virginia Carter. Maybe confessions are good for the soul. At least, if many of these homesick frosh could reap such results, they might be willing to confess their belief in the "Grand Old Man."

—0—

Well—Lucille Swafford breaks into the column again. We don't want anyone to think for a minute that we haven't been observing Lucy. . . we have been, but there's not been anything peculiar up to now. . . . . that is, peculiar to Lucille. In the conventional discussion concerning the noise or lack of noise made by a falling tree in the forest, Lucille rounded out the conclusion once and for all. . . . . She says that the whole thing is impracticable since there wouldn't be anyone there to chop the tree down. Placing ourselves in the shoes of the psych teacher, it seems that we'd be wont to utter three sounds, upon hearing such a brilliant answer. They are OH, OHH and OOOHHHH.

—0—

Then there are those aspiring 'A' students who sit in class and elucidate the professor on the deeper phases of his subject about every two minutes. But . . . . this is THE HIGHLAND ECHO, not Ballyhoo, so we'll not print our humble, yes, very humble, opinion of that particular race.

—0—

Now, even the weather man has a grudge against us. Recently we commented on the congestion of the Library on rainy days. Thereupon, it began to rain on Monday and rained, yea verily, four days and four nights, and the library took on the appearance of Noah's big boat except that the variety of passengers wasn't quite so great. We do believe that Thaw could have floated had she not been anchored. But after all, we are in East Tennessee where the rainfall is supposed to be next to that of Oregon, or someplace far away.

—0—

Someone has to upset the dope bucket in everything. This time it's Prof. Queener, who devotes some of his spare time to tennis. Last week it was "Moore has now to defeat Queener before reaching Gillingham." Let it be said, that this column never made any statement concerning the Gillingham-Queener match, notwithstanding the fact that young Gillie was on our tennis squad last season. We don't guess wrong twice. . . . we won't guess twice.

—0—

Just for one reason, or another, or two others we wish to tag this follwing Observationn with "by Alexander". We won't use the word "Corrupt", since it is used in his article twice. . . .

We have a fine bunch of "upper Classmen" this year. I deem it beyond the power of any last year's freshman to corrupt the majority of them in any way. If any said corruption was tried it would have no effect at all. For the most part they are an unbesmirchable, distinguished group. On hurriedly glancing over them, we find that they all are. But therein lies the fallacy of man. I have in mind an old proverb of which I have forgotten the exact wording. It was something like this: A man wouldn't squirm unless he was pinched. This is said in all due respect to our (uncorrupted) editor. . . . . or should we say Dick.

—0—

We'd suggest another proverb, rather an axiom, to Alexander of which we remember the exact wording. It goes like this. . . . . Little people should be seen and not heard.

Home Ec Club

The following are the officers for the Home Ec Clug for the coming term:

President—Mary Cornwall
Vice President—Dollie Putnam
Secretary—Sue Prince
Treasurer—R. Swisher
Program Secretaries—Betty Brewer and Margaret Kellar.
Editor—Dot Parr
Chairman of Entertainment—Frances Mingea

Le Cercle Francais

At the last meeting of the French Club last year the following officers were elected:

President—Virginia Ross
Vice President—Phyllis Dexter
Secretary—Walter Cloud
Treasurer—Dorothy Nethery
Editor—Marie Bailey
Program Secretaries—Norma Spilatore and Willimae Renegar
Pianist—Martha Watkins

Georgia Club

Students from Georgia held their second meeting of the year in Bainonian Hall Tuesday, October 4, and elected the following officers President, Annette Luetje; Vice-President. Maxie Smith; Secretary and Treasurer, Charlie Beale; Program Secretaries, Willie Lee Houston and Phillip Cory; Editor, Helen Rusk

TENNIS

(Continued from page three)

Queener met Friday and Gillingham was victorious. Gillingham now meets Haub, a Junior. He is a new man, and untried, but he is expected to wallop Gillingham if he is wallopable. Haub has some real class according to tennis critics.

In the lower ranks of the tournament, Snedeker will meet John Phay in a practical toss-up. Phay should win here if he is up to par. It is probable that some of these games will have been played before th ECHO goes to press, so all we can do is hope our guess is as good as the second guesser's.

An attempt will be made to play all quarter final matches Monday, and to finish the tournament by Wednesday, according to John Phay, the newly elected Tennis Captain.

ALUMNI NEWS

Current news of alumni shows a marked tendency on the part of old students to enter the untried, but true, state of matrimony. In the "Alumni News" for this week there are four announcements concerning recent weddings, or weddings to be, of five former students on College Hill.

Invitations have been received to the marriage of Miss Virginia Crider '32 and Mr. James W. King '25, the ceremony to take place in Marion Kentucky on October 14th.

Miss Crider was one of the most popular members of last year's class, and Mr. King is well-known to college students as office manager of Proffitt's.

Their many friends are happy to know that they will be at home in Maryville after November 1st.

Announcement has been received of the marriage on September 6th, of Margaret Auld, of Mercer, Pennsylvania, to Robert Everett Webb, of Syracuse, New York.

The bride attended Maryville College during the years 1929-1931. The groom, who is a graduate of Pennsylvania State College, received his M. S. degree last June, and is employed by the Dairymen's League in Syracuse. Mr. and Mrs. Webb will be at home at the Baalbeck Apartments, 15030 Genesee Street, Syracuse.

The marriage of Walter Matthews will be of special interest to old graduates. Mr. Matthews married Miss Beatrice Durbin last Monday at Bowling Green, Kentucky.

Mr. Matthews, who is a graduate of the class o. '29 will be remembered for his chalk talks and his work in the Maryville Glee Singers. He is, at the present time, connected with the Venard Advertising Service of St. Louis, Missouri.

Surprise and romance are the two words that come to mind in the announcement of the marriage on September 23, of Miss Dorothy Miller, and Samuel W. Gillingham, both of Glendale, New Jersey.

The couple kept the wedding a secret until last week. Mrs. Gillingham said that she and her husband, whom she had known eight months, slipped away quietly to advoid the publicity of a formal wedding.

Mrs. Gillingham is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. Earl Miller of Glenside, and Gillingham, who graduated with the class of 1932, is a son of the Reverend and Mrs. Clayton H. Gillingham of Glenside.

Harold Hunter, son of Dean E. R. Hunter had his tonsils removed by Dr. Burchfield, last Tuesday morning. According to latest reports Harold is beginning to feel fine again, although he is not yet talking to capacity.

REPUBLICANISM

THE LIMIT IN BUNC

The Democrats are going to make a great appeal to the common man in this campaign. Roosevelt has emphasized his party's alleged interest in the man who has suffered from losses during the depression and in vague phrase has promised aid.

Isn't it strange that the Democrats choose as their standard bearer a man born in the purple? Franklin Roosevelt is a millionaire. He inherited his wealth from his father who was vice president of Delaware and Ohio railroad. He was born on a great estate and lives on it now. He has another home in New York.

Jack Garner is also rated a millionaire. He started without wealth but is now the holder of a large fortune. The fact that both are rich men isn't anything against either of the Democratic candidates. But the word put out that Roosevelt understands the troubles of the common man better than Herbert Hoover and that he sympathizes more truly with him, is political bunc and nothing else. Roosevelt never has known during his long life what is to have a want, much less need for which the means were not available. Hoover, self-supporting from his youth up, knows all about hardship from personal experience. He not ony knows what it means to be poor but he has shown his sympathy for those in distress without parading it as a political asset.

There is going to be bunc aplenty put out in this campaign. It will deceive many. But the Roosevelt boomers can hardly hope to get away with such evident hoey as millionaire Roosevelt's championship of the forgotten man.

Mr. W. B. Jones, Jr. '28, was a visitor on the Hill over the week-end. Mr. Jones has recently completed his work at Vanderbilt University in Sociology, and is now an instructor in that institution.

Now Democrats outnumber Republicans in the U. S. Senate by one with the appointment of Walter Walker, Colorado Democrat, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Chares W. Waterman.

DEMOCRACY

HOOVER AT DES MOINES

Mr. Hoover's trip into the capitol of the corn belt, territory safely Republican since the civil war, can mean but one thing, that is, that Iowa is on the verge of going Democratic. His speech was an earnest and fighting effort, but his twelve points for economic recovery will not ring true to those with memories in their mind of a "radio in every home", a "chicken in every pot", two "cars in every garage" and the "abolition of poverty" promises of four years ago.

Some sixteen years ago Woodrow Wilson said the Rpeublican party had not had a new idea for fifty years. One can add sixteen more years to that now because Mr. Hoover's main remedy for the farm situation is a higher tariff. He has forgotten that the Smoot-Hawley-Grundy tariff act was to bring us out of the depression in 30 days.

Mr. Hoover, in talking on the tariff, always insists on Americans comparing high (?) prices here with lower prices in other countries. He conveniently forgets that those foreign countries have tariffs as high and even higher than ours. If our tariff made our prices what they are, prices in other countries would be even higher.

Mr. Hoover's promises to do certain things after the election sounds very convincing until one remembers that he is president and wonders why he has not and does not do something before the election. After his western trip some ardent partizens proposed to see him in a new leadership. If the old Hoover of the past four years has done so much, why do they need to see a new Hoover now?

In fact, Hoover's trip into the West was typical of his leadership because, according to reports, he and his advisers recognized they were fighting a lost cause but the greatest of pressure had to be brought on him to budge him to make an effort in his own behalf. If such effort is necessary to move him in his own behalf, cannot one see him just working his head off for the farmer, the unemployed and the needy throughout the land.

Outside of his political advisors probably only one group can bring enough pressure on Heover to make him act and that group as everyone knows is the big business men of the country. They get the action which Mr. Hoover so glibly promises to others.

In all seriousness one has to sympathize with Mr. Hoover in his great defensive effort. His speech rang with the emotions of a condemned man pleading in his own behalf. It was an apology without admitting any wrong; a plea without contrition of heart; a promise to do better without any change of mechanism or habits or ideas. Sensible people know this is impossible.

Too many times we go to a theatre optimistically and come out all misty optically.

SOCIALISTS
COME TO THE BIG RALLY
Monday Night
In Voorhees Chapel
Minor Parties Cordially Invited
(Paid Advertisement)

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

CITY SHOE REBUILDERS
EXCELLENT SHOE REPAIRING
Agents: Elizabeth Smith, Memorial; Kinser Bros., 303 Carnegie

MONROE'S CONFECTIONERY
— FOR —
Toasted Sandwiches and Confections
COLLEGE STREET

TIP TOP BARBER SHOP
Come in and see us
At our New Location on College Street
Across from Presbyterian Church

KODAK FINISHING
... FOR ...
Best Results and Permanent Prints
BRING YOUR FILMS TO
THE WEBB STUDIO
220 COLLEGE STREET

PALACE THEATRE
Next Week
Monday-Tuesday
Paul Reno's Revue
30—PEOPLE—30
On the Stage
Matinee and Night
Change of Program Daily
Regular Prices

You Will Like These New Sport Frocks
$6.95

One and two piece frocks and two piece suits of soft wooly fabrics. They are wearable, practical and perfectly adorable. Sizes for women and misses.
Proffitt's
DEPARTMENT STORE
THE STUDENT'S STORE

Featuring Max Factor's Society Make Up
and Max Factor's Individual Beauty Service
We have secured a limited allocation of Max Factor's COMPLEXION ANALYSIS CHARTS which, when filled out by you, will be forwarded to him for his personal attention and answer.
Most of our greatest living stars owe a great part of their success to Mr. Factor's intimate knowledge of the art of make up...now available to you!
MAX FACTOR'S years of theatrical artistry and skill are now yours... in Society Make Up...what Max Factor has done for the Stars, he can do for you.
COSMETICS OF THE STARS
Featuring Max Factor's Society Make Up
City Drug Company
AGENTS

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 — THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, OCTOBER 15, 1932 — NUMBER FIVE

SENIOR CLASS HAS ENJOYABLE PARTY IN COLLEGE WOODS

First Festival Sees Seniors Back To Nature's Campfire.

Members of the Senior Class enjoyed a supper party in the College Woods Monday evening, October 10. This was the first social meeting of the class this year.

The seniors met in front of Pearsons at 5 o'clock and went in a more or less compact body to the flats along the branch in the woods. Here a camp fire had been built, and around this fire the embodiments of Maryville's dignity gathered for some good old fellowship.

A short impromptu program was given by talented members of the class. These were called by special request. After the first three numbers an intermission was called and food was served to the long-suffering ones. On the menu were hot dogs and buns, cookies and marshmallows, apples and coffee.

When the guests were refreshed the program was continued, and the entire group sang in chorus a number of songs. Some of the individual numbers on the program were: readings by Don Briggs and Marion Pflanze, songs by Virginia Ross and Jean Campbell, and dances by Al Duff, and Helen Thompson and Virginia Ross.

The party was ably chaperoned by Dr. and Mrs. McMurray and Dr. and Mrs. Fields. At 8:00 p. m. the group returned to the main campus for the resumption of senior duties

Golf Course Project Supplies Subject For Debate Tuesday Night

Six Extemporaneous Speeches To Be On Phases of Athletics

For the regular Tuesday evening meeting of the Public Speaking class, the following program has been arranged: An opening debate on the question, Resolved: That a dollar per year should be added to the student actvity fee for maintaining a golf course. Clifford Moore and Douglas Carhart will debate on the affirmative side and Frank Mease and Harry Wood will debate the negative.

Extemporaneous speeches have also been arranged on the general subject of athletics:

The Advantage of the New Athletic System for Women—
Clifford Withers

The Advantage of the New Athletic System for Men—Wissler

Intercollegiate Basketball for Women—Nez Hamrick

Four Year Gym Requirement for Women—Willie Lee Houston

Wasting Time on the Golf Course—
Reeder Carson

Co-Ed Activities on the Golf Course—Harry Walrond

STRAW VOTE TAKEN

In order to get a sort of forecast regarding the outcome of the election to be held on the Hill November 8, a straw vote was polled in Pearson's Hall last Thursday night. The girls showed that they want to "Keep him on the job" the vote showed. Hoover was the leading candidate with a total of 55 votes. Roosevelt won a close second with 39 votes, and Thomas, the socialist candidate brought up the train with 6 votes.

PRESIDENT LLOYD COMPILES FACTS ABOUT MARYVILLE

Article Reprinted From Summer Issues of Maryville Times

Dr. Lloyd wrote, during the past summer, at the request of the Maryville Times editor, a series of short articles which he called "Facts about Maryville College". Each of the subjects was pubished in succeeding issues of The Times. The subjects in their order are: (1) Its History and Students; (2) Its Place Among the Colleges of Tennessee and the United States; (3) Its Teachers and Officers; (4) Its finances; (5) Its Curriculum and Scholarship; (6) Its Student-Help Program; (7) Its Religious Program; (8) Its Contribution to this Area.

Each of these subjects was of parallel importance, and excited much interest among the townspeople toward their college, the facts concerning which many were still unaware. The second of these articles, "Its Place Among the Colleges of Tennessee and the United States" should be of particular interest to Maryville's Students. It is published in full in this issue as it apeared in The Times.

There are in the United States today approximately one thousand colleges, universities, and professional schools, in which were enrolled last year about one million students. In high schools there were about four and a half million, and in elementary schools over twenty million boys and girls. Thus, the next few months will see twenty-nine million children and youth of our nation attending school. This is one-fourth of our total population. Education is indeed a mammoth business.

The increase in number going to college has literally been astonishing within the past twenty-five years, and especially from the Word War until 1928, when the peak was reached; since 1928 the number has remained about the same.

When Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson was a college student a little over a half century ago, all the 75,000 college students of America could find seats in any one of a dozen present day football stadia; when he became President of Maryville College thirty-one years ago, that number had grown to 167,000; when the writer was a student under Dr. Wilson a little less than

(Continued on page two)

KIGER, McCURRY, AND KNAPP HAVE SUMMER BUILDING CAMPAIGN

Professors Build Two Houses Near Campus And Remodel One

During the past summer some of the faculty kept themselves in the habit of work by overseeing the repairing of their homes or by the building of new ones.

Prof. Kiger and family are now settled in their new home on Hillside Avenue. The house has eight rooms and two baths. Both the house and garage are built of native marble stone. A concrete terrace runs around the front and side of the house. One of the prettiest views of Maryville can be seen from the home.

Mr. McCurry had a stone bungalow built on his lot on Wilson Avenue. It has 6 roome and bath and a full height basement. The house was completed in time for Dr. and Mrs. Hill Shine to move in this fall.

Dr. Knapp had a great many repairs made upon his home. The basement was excavated and a new furnace installed. The house was re-papered and painted inside and out. The yard was graded and a new garage built. When the repairs were completed, Professor and Mrs. Queener moved in to the Knapp house and have occupied it since that time.

Rev. Ivan Wilson Of Persia Speaks In College Chapel

Missionary Of Sixteen Years Pictures Situation In Persia

Rev. Ivan O. Wilson, missionary in Persia for the last sixteen years, was a guest in Maryville this week. He spoke at the Presbyterian church on Thursday night, and led the devotions in chapel on Frilay morning.

On Thursday night Rev. Wilson addressed an audience in the Presbyterian church. His message was not only designed to interest return missionaries, but also laymen.

He outlined, as a basis for his address the political, social, and religious history of Persia for the past century. He also spoke of the contemporary situation there, and distinguished between the rival political factions which are keeping the country in an upheaval.

From political history, Rev. Wilson turned to the Persian field of missions, with its importance and relation among other foreign mission fields today. He described the limits of the several mission bodies in Persia, and remarked the fact that there the missions are called by some other name than Presbyterian or Baptist which better identify their purpose to the mind of the Persians.

Rev. Wilson spoke on Friday of the difficulty of working among the Moslems, and sketched the history of the mission work in Persia. The movement there is a hundred years old, but the first convert was not secured until fifty years ago.

Rev. Wilson characterized Persia as an awakening nation, one who has become tired of her long restriction, and, restless with the stirrings of her intellect, is preparing for entrance into the stage with other nations which are alert and vital in the contemporary action of the world.

HOME EC. CLUB

The Home Economics Club met Wednesday night and the following program was presented:

"The Trend of Fall and Winter Fashions", a short talk, Mary Ammons.

"Some Little Bug", reading, Mary Katherine Mize

The program was concluded with a cake contest, and the singing of several songs pertaining to Home Ec.

Democrats boast harmony— but factions speak louder than words.

FORMER STUDENT OF MARYVILLE EXHIBITS SUPERIOR TRAINING

Barbara Lyle Makes Score of 90 In Comprehensive Examination

The efficiency of the biology department of Maryville College was again proved this fall when Barbara Lyle entered the Presbyterian Hospital Training School in Philadelphia.

Miss Lyle, who was graduated last year, is in a class of "probationers", three of whom are college graduates. At the beginning of the term, without any opportunity for a review, she was given a comprehensive examination in anatomy. She made a grade of 90, as a result of which the State of Pennsylvania has recognized her college work in anatomy and physiology. This recognition excuses her from work in these subjects, although she attends lectures in order to learn the applications made in nursing.

Dr. Vincent T. Shipley, of the Maryville College class of 1913, is on the staff of hospital. Dr. Morris Crothers, son of Rev. W. H. Crothers of Maryville, is an intern there. Mrs. Crothers and Eleanor Franklin, '27, are also on the staff.

Miss Lyle writes of having met Dr. John Grant Newman, '88, and of attending Dr. G. Campbell Morgan's church.

First Interracial Meeting Held Last Saturday In Thaw

Reports From Conferences Heard By Representatives To Maryville

"The purpose of the Interracial Commission is to promote friendliness and cooperation among the students in the organization," said Jesse Carter, vice president of the East Tennessee Student Interracial Commission, after the meeting held here last Saturday afternoon.

"One feature of the meeting was a period of informal fellowship in which each person present got acquainted with someone from another school," Carter stated.

The Commission is one phase of the work of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. through their World Fellowship Committees. It is now organized in Knoxville College, Morristown College, Maryville College, and the University of Tennessee. Plans are being made to include Carson-Newman, Tusculum, Swift Memorial, Tennessee Wesleyan, and Hiwassee Colleges in the near future.

The World Fellowship Committee will present the program at the Y. M. C. A. meeting tomorrow afternoon. A quartet from Knoxville College will sing, and Prof. Daves, head of the Sociology department in that school, will speak on the international Y. M. C. A.

"We hope," Carter concluded "that the work will increase in interest and scope on the Hill this year by the organization of an active local group and as the result of such projects as exchanges of professorships in the sociology departments."

The program of last Saturday's meeting was as follows:

Devotions—Jesse Carter

Violin Solo—Clark Latham

Report on Blue Ridge Conference—
Roberta Robison

Solo—Norma Spilatore

Report on King's Mountain Conference—Mary Scroggin

STAFF VACANCY

Andy Newcomer, business manager of the Highland Echo staff wishes to announce a remaining vacancy on the business staff. The opening is for a woman who should be able to typewrite, and should be interested in advertising work.

This vacancy is open preferably to juniors or sophomores, although a freshman girl may apply for the position.

A conservative politician is one in office.

LITERARY SOCIETIES

Many new Theta and Bainonian ribbons appeared during the past week after the opening night last Saturday. At that time the new girls became members of one of the two societies and were ushered into their respective groups with cheers and applause.

Of the girls who joined Saturday night 57 became Thetas and 56 Bainonians. A few girls chose to wait until later to decide.

The societies will each hold a meeting tonight to which all society members are invited.

FORMER STUDENTS OF MARYVILLE ACHIEVE DISTINCTION IN LAW

Alumni Win Honors In Teaching And Practice of The Profession

Maryville Alumni are to be found in all but three of the states of the Union and their occupations are almost as diverse as their localities. In looking over a list of those engaged in the different professions, we find a large group prominent in the practice of law.

If we begin at home, we would mention first the Hon. T. N. Brown, L.L. D., and a graduate of the class of '77. During the more than fifty years of his active life in Maryville. Mr. Brown has been recognized as a leader, not only in his profession, but in all community interests. He is, at this time, president of the First National Bank and is chairman of the Finance Committee of the College. He has served in practically every office in New Providence Church and was for some time a member of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education.

All the members of the law firm of Gamble, Goddard & Gamble; Judge M. H. Gamble, '05, Homer A. Goddard, '12 and J. C. Gamble, 26; are Maryville College graduates.

Judge Gamble is widely known and honored as a successful lawyer and forceful public speaker. He has maintained a close connection with Maryville College, serving as a director for many years and being a member of both the finnace and administration committees.

Mr. Goddard is a skillful lawyer, prominent in the Republican party and is city attorney for both Maryville and Alcoa.

"Joe" Gamble recently entered the firm, after his law course at the University of Michigan. He is remembered on the Hill as a popular student and as a leading athlete.

The law firm of Crawford and Crawford is composed of Judge John C. Crawford '97 and John C. Crawford, Jr. '27.

Judge Crawford in addition to his large law practice is the County Judge, and previous to his election to that office was judge of the juvenile court. Judge Crawford is also a director of the college and a member of its finance committee.

John Crawford, Jr. completed his

(Continued on page two)

POLITICAL PARTIES WILL RESUME RALLIES NEXT TUESDAY NIGHT

Effort Being Made To Create Serious Tone During Campaign

Due to the fact that the political rallies held under the auspices of the public speech class, in an attempt to educate the students of Maryville College to the problems confronting the voters and the candidates offered by the Democratic, Republican, and Socialist parties, have become the scenes of riotous boisterousness, plans for future meetings have been altered.

All three parties will hold their rallies next Tuesday night at 6:30. As yet it has not been decided which group will use the Y. M. C. A. auditorium, or which classrooms in Thaw will be used as the meeting place of the other two groups. An announcement concerning this will be made Tuesday morning in chapel. The text of the announcement will have no bearing on the relative importance of any group.

Verton M. Queener, instructor of the debate and public speech class, asks that there be no disturbance, not only because the meetings were intneded to be of a serious and instructive type, but also for the sake of the speakers, who are trying to express logic in their talks, and are taking the campaign seriously.

In all probability, if the new plan for the campaign fails to work out well, the entire scheme will be abandoned, and those desirous of seeing the campaign a success will be the losers.

President Al Duff Appoints Student Council Committees

Representatives From Council Chosen To Fill Six Committees

At the meeting of the Student Council on Tuesday night, a number of committees were appointed by President Duff. They were as follows:

Pep Committee— James Lang, Wesley Culver, Donald Briggs, and Mildred Purviance.

Date Committee—Elizabeth Gillis, first semester, and Lucille Swafford, second semester.

Student-Faculty— Seniors, Elizabeth Duncan, Nathalia Wright, and A. Duff; Juniors—Elizabeth Gillis, Warren Warman; Sophs—Theron Alexander; Freshman— Toots Blazer.

Highland Echo Selection— Ellen McRae, Leslie Webb, Frances Minges, and Robert Tripp.

Social Committee—Andy Newcomer, chairman; Harry Mathias, and Frances Mingea.

Welcoming Committee— Arthur Lazell, chairman, Robert Overly, and George Fischback.

OBSERVATIONS

Quenelle and Then Lazell — Vick Scraps Baby Grand

And now again, from our observatory on fourth floor Carnegie, or thereabouts, we cast our four eyes, glimmers, peepers, lights, lamps, searchers, or something of the sort, on the world around. The above comes as a result of sitting through one of Dr. Hunter's slanguage courses.

—O—

When it's evening, one can look out at the two mountain ranges in the distance and wish he were there. If it's night he looks out the window and can see but the flickering lights in the little old town. If it's morning, he can't see out for blue smoke caused by the roomie's fire, or ire, concerning the noticeable lack of heat, or lack of water in the bathroom, or his own lack of patience in regard to each of them.

—O—

We were interested, as well as curious indeed, to learn, according to Mr. Quenelle's interpretation, that the sophomores scored a loan touchdown on the seniors.. Probably we should say "over" them, inasmuch as this is a passing game. The only explanation we can find is that the seniors will pay it back next year to the sophomores.

—O—

We didn't know just what would be forthcoming when we passed out to the frosh for a tryout subject, "Knights and nights at Maryville". (This was for a feature. . . not a news article). What we did find was much to our enjoyment, and. . . .to our elucidation, likewise. To

(Continued on page two)

ROBISON REPLIES

If I had been my parents, I should not have sent all of our five daughters to the same insitution of higher learning—particularly if I were to be the fifth of the five.

It might not have been so bad to have had one member of the family whose reputation I should have had to live up to—or down—but five are about four too many. And when I had called the roll of all my cousins who have from time to time graced these halls, I stood before a veritable Charge of the Bright Brigade. There was the girl who had started the Y. W. C. A. store, the one who had inaugurated the institution of May Day in the college, the boy who had been distinguished for his singing, the girl who had assisted in English and been editor of the Chilhowean, and last—also least—the fairy-like creature who had flown across the stage in "Peter Pan."

To have everyone I meet, from the school engineer to the president emeritus, tell me that I have an illustrious name to carry on is inspiring; inspiring to trepidation and tears. But I should not have said "everyone"—the dean of women did not mention the illustrocity of our name and fame. At this unexpected silence I began to wonder. I remembered phrases which had dropped from my sisters' and cousins' lips when they were discussing college activities: "You, a leader in the religious life of the campus", "We can never be sure whom we are influencing'", "'Such an act is not a prank, it is a grave offence'", "'If the girls whom I depend upon turn out like this, where am I going to get my leaders?'"

So here I stand between the devil and the deep blue sea. With the attainments of my family to the left of me, the mischief-making of my family to the right of me, mine not the last to try, mine for the first to sigh.

THE HIGHL AND ECHO

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

GERALDINE SMITH - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, October 15, 1932

EDITORRIAL

As we get into the real fight in the political campaign, we become so much absorbed in the spirit of the thing that we fail momentarily to look at the election in the light of other things. It would surely be interesting to know what the historian will have to say about the election of 1932.

To get lost in the spirit of the thing is one condition, and to stand off and observe is another. Assuredly, they give far different impressions. Using no scruples whatever, having on prejudices that show, and caring little about who wins or who loses, it appears that this election has more back biting, more whispering campaigns, more sham, and less manhood involved than any election ever held in the United States. Of course, our knowledge of that can be gained only by a rather false comparison between what we see now, and what we read about in former elections and political skirmishes. That is why we wonder about the historical interpretation.

Corruption and money still reign in politics. We try to psychologize ourselves into believing that all's well, but we have to shut both eyes and stop up our ears to believe such a thing. We've had no change for the better in our minds since the stock market crash. The only change is an insignificant one. . . . . we speculate on a smaller scale because our facilities are not what they were.

If this or any age can be judged by its politics and by its political leaders we can rest assured that there is plenty of house cleaning to be done before we reach, or even near, the state of perfection.

COLLEGE POLITICS

There is another political matter that students are all conscious of, but it is one that will tolerate little mention, apparently. College politics has been one of the most looked-down-upn element in many colleges, and Maryville stands out among the others in this respect.

From an editorial viewpoint, it is felt that a school without plenty of good live politics would resemble a house without anyone in it. Politics can be utilized to be beneficial to everyone, and to say the least, to be suitable preparation for a rounded life. On Maryville's campus we have had many close contests, many popular campaigns, and interesting experiences, as a result of college politics. One of the saddest facts in this respect is that campaigns must be kept under cover. . . that we must resort to the conventional "whispering campaign."

Why don't we bring our politics out from under cover? Why don't we show our man's record, and then back him on his merits as a leader? By that system we can have fair contests, and it would destroy one of the most contemptible circumstances now in existence. . . that is the practice of using a person simply as an instrument of a clique.

We want to see men and women as they are. When a person can't come out himself and stand on his own record, he doesn't deserve to be backed, privately or publicly, and by all means, he doesn't deserve the position for which he tries. It might be wise, as college representatives, to profit by the national government's mistakes and begin to clean house.

PEP COMPLEX

In the course of the school year we've heard of very little in the way of athletic events, except in the "pep" sense, or relation. In various school papers with which we come in contact, we see editorials and articles which devote space to the conventional pep alibi, or explain the loss of games because of the lack of pep. Then, mention is very often made of the student who fails to show his school loyalty because he does not develop into the proper "rah-rah" type. We're being constantly reminded that if the student body doesn't support (by yells) the team, it can't expect a winning aggregation.

Last year with the University of Tennessee, Maryville ran neck and neck with their opponents through the entire track meet in an effort to decide the supremacy of the two schools. U. T. won the meet by a very narrow margin. There wasn't a person crying about the lack of pep in explaining the loss. It was, for an appreciable change, the team, which lost. Why can't we give our football teams credit for an occasional loss?

It seems a bit queer that to be a loyal student one must acquire the ability to yell long and vociferously at a football game or a pep meeting.

Pep is a good thing (if that isn't contradicting what has already been said), and its importance should be emphasized. However, when that medium is used to designate whether or not a student is loyal; when it is used as the only practical excuse for explaining athletic losses; it is simply being given more than its due value.

ALUMNI NOTES

(Continued from page one)

law course at Harvard in '31 and immediately afterwards, joined his father's firm. He was also prominent as a student, both in athletics and in dramatic work.

In Knoxville, some of the most prominent lawyers are Maryville Alumni. Judge S. O. Houston, '98, has served two terms as county judge of Knox County, and has a large practice. He is Chairman of the Board of Directors of the college and devotes much time to this work. His son Carl T. Houston, '25, has also entered the practice of law since his graduation from the law department of the University of Tennessee.

The Hon. C. T. Cates, Jr. '81, a former State Attorney-General, is well-known in state and nation as an orator and prominent lawyer.

C. E. Dawson '15, is assistant prosecuting attorney for Knox County and a rising member of his profession.

In Nashville Hon. Roy H. Beeler '06, assistant state attorney-general, is a leading figure in law circles. Another member of the Nashville Bar is J. G. Sims '12. Mr. Sims was an officer in the World War and held many high offices in the American Legion. He served as private secretary to Senator L. D. Tyson and Senator Brock. At present, he is in charge of the War Veterans' Bureau for Tennessee.

In Chicago a number of Maryvillians have achieved distinction in the legal profession. R. C. Samsel '07 is dean of the Law School of La Salle Institute and author of a number of law texts. Glen Lloyd, '18, a brother of President Lloyd, graduated from the Law School of Chicago University and is a very busy lawyer. He is entrusted by his firm with the settling of intricate legal tangles in widely scattered parts of the country. This involves much travel, a great part of which he does by airplane.

LITTLE CHURCH

"Why beholdest thou the mote that is in they brother's eye, but considerest not the beam that is in thine own eye? First cast out the beam that is in thine own eye; and then thou shalt see clearly to cast out the mote out of thy brother's eye."—St. Matthew 7:3, 5.

Some of us perhaps are inclined impulsively to pass judgment upon our fellows. We are strict in the requirements which we expect them to meet, and we blindly knock down many pertinent factors in dealing with failures to meet them.

Others of us perhaps have been unfortunate enough to be the objects of repeated secret judgments and open rebukes. We are often perplexed, however, because the increasingly noticeable acts of our critics belong to the same category as those which are so dogmatically condemned.

When that spiritual and intellectual giant, John Calvin, thundered forth a demand for a logical theology and a strictly moral life, he backed his demand by his thoroughly logical Institutes and by his own personal, rigid morality. St. Paul, the great apostle, supported his exhortation "Fight the good fight of faith" by his own life, in that he himself "fought a good fight". Christ himself, the most authoritative of teachers, condemned hypocrisy by abstaining from hypocrisy, taught mercy by being merciful; and he is the most powerful exponent of prayer because he is himself the Great Intercessor.

These things being so, does it not appear to us that if we are seriously to condemn or commend anything with words to others, we ought by our own lives to exemplify such condemnation or commendation? Of course, it goes without saying that our preachments are likely t be given airtight support so far as living is concerned; but we certainly ought to make an effort to exercise a bit of delicate carefulness where that which we say and that which we do seem to conflict.

For example, one should not broad cast harsh judgments upon points of ethical conduct wherein one is himself guilty of misconduct. During his earthly ministry, Christ repeatedly denounced the Pharisees for this glaring inconsistency particularly. The Christian life is not one of "Don't do as I do, but do as I say"; rather it is a life of teaching by example. If we are going to take upon ourselves the rebuking and correcting of others, we had better see to it that in at least those matters which form the subject matter of our rebukes and corrections our own lives exhibit the behavior for which we speak.

Perhaps we all need to make deeper application of the words of St. John the apostle, when he wrote: "He that saith, I know him (Jesus Christ the righteous), and keepeth not his commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. But whoso keepeth his word, in him verily is the love of God perfected: hereby know we that we are in him. He that saith he abideth in him ought himself also so to walk, even as he walked."

Friday Fritz Neff

FACTS ABOUT MARYVILLE

(Continued from page one)

twenty years ago there were about 250,000; by 1920 the number had mounted to 462,000 and eight years later (1928) had more than doubled to reach a million. These constitute half of all the college students of the world.

Looking at it another way, we find that fifty years ago less than one per cent of our young people of college age (17 to 23) were in college; thirty years ago two per cent; today twelve per cent.

In what kind of colleges and universities do we find these million young people? One-fourth are in tax-supported institutions; three-fourths are in church and private institutions, of which Maryville is one. Incidentally one wonders how the States would carry the burden were it not for these private institutions. Contrariwise, the tax-supported institutions do a necessary work, much of which could not be schools. The early pioneer work in higher education in America was practically all done by colleges founded by Christian folk of the churches.

The size of some individual universities has multiplied. There are two (Columbia with nearly 40,000, and New York University with over 30,000) with enrollment above 25,000 each; seven above 15,000; thirteen above 10,000; thirty-five above 5,000; and more than one hundred and fifty with over 1,000 students. Many of the State Universities are among the large institutions, especially those in the middle west; Illinois, Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio State, Wisconsin, and Pennsylvania all enroll from 10,000 to 15,000, while California in its two sections has 25,000. Among the large private colleges are Chicago, 15,000; Boston, 14,000; Harvard, 8,000; Northwestern, 7,000; Yale, 5,000.

Harvard is the oldest of American colleges.

However, the majority of students are still in small or moderate sized colleges, at least one-half being in schools enrolling less than 1,000. And one-half of our American colleges still have less than 500 students each. Maryville thus falls among the colleges of moderate size, and deliberately plans not to become larger, now being large enough to provide many of the advantages of the large school but small enough to keep a personal touch with its students.

Since we are into statistics so deeply, let us take one more view, this time of the colleges in Tennessee.

Tennessee has seventeen regular four-year colleges and universities for white youth and four for negroes. There are also four teachers colleges, and eleven junior colleges giving a two year's course.

Of the seventeen colleges and universities which I call "regular", eight are officially accredited and nine are not. I shall explain below what it means to be accreditd. It should be said that the teachers colleges are designed especially for training teachers and are therefore really professional schools. I do not include them in the list below although all are properly accredited.

The eight accredited Tennessee "regular" colleges mentioned, with their approximate total enrollments (including summer schools where such exist) are: University of Tennessee, 3,000; Vanderbilt, 1,500; Maryville, 800; University of Chattanoga, 450; Southwestern (Memphis), 400; Carson-Newman, 400; Sewanee, 300; Tusculum, 275.

Maryville College is one of fifty colleges in America which are in some way related to the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A. (Northern). Among these it is one of the odest and is third in enrollment, only Lafayette (Pennsylvania) with 1,000, and Wooster (Ohio) with 900, being larger.

Since 1922, Maryville College has been a member of the "Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools to the Southern States", which makes it an "accredited" or "Class A" college. The United States is divided into several sections; in each section there is a standardizing and accrediting body which sets up the standards which a college must meet to be accredited. The Association for the South is the one named above. This is the only body with power in this matter. To be accredited a college must have a certain minimum amount of endowment, have a faculty of specified high training, pay at least a designated scale of faculty salaries, limit the size of recitation classes, possess adequate equipment and library, have approved athletic methods and relationships, maintain a high quality of work, and meet various standards of other kinds. Students who attend non-accredited colleges may obtain normal benefit, but their credits are not accepted without condition by accredited colleges.

Maryville College students are accepted by all colleges and universities. In many places they have made such excellent records in the past that they are even sought after. A common expression by university officers is: "Maryville College students are not only usually well trained scholastically, but have something in their character which makes them most desirable".

Maryville is also a member of the Association of American Colleges, the Tennessee College Association, the Presbyterian College Union, and the Smoky Mountain Athletic Association. It is on the approved list of the American Medical Association and the National Council on Education.

ORGAN RECITAL IN VOORHEES CHAPEL

By Frank R. Neff, Jr., '33

PROGRAM FOR SUNDAY, OCTOBER 16, 1932, 4:30 P. M.

Hymn tune: Meiringen ---------- Neefe

Prelude and Fugue, D Major ---------- Handel
Serenade (Eine Kleine Nachtmusik) ---------- Mozart
I. Allegro
II. Andante
III. Allegretto
IV. Allegro

Dorothy ---------- Smith
The Good Shepherd ---------- Van de Water
Tenor, Wesley Y. Culver, '33
The Bells of Ste. Anne d'Beaupre ---------- Russell

OBSERVATIONS

(Continued From Page One)

quote one woman: "Quiet as we freshmen may seem we are busy little bodies and we've noticed many things. Among them we've seen Andy Newcomer's wavy hair, Tope's limousine, Al Duff's beaming smile, and Arthur Lazell's handsome countenance." She goes on to tell how she's "making" the alphabet and how, to date, she's but to the f's. It seems that much anticipation and looked-forward-to enjoyment is in order as the little girl approaches the L division, because . . because . . . because . . it will be then that she may meet the one and only Lazell. Just think. . . and she's probably not aware of the fact either that Lazell's from New York. We choose not to divulge the name of the girl. . . she seems to be of the better sort. Lazell, after reading this, will probably run in the substitute name of Finklestein or Goldberg. . . . if we have him doped out right.

—o—

It looks very much as though Maryville is not holding to its principles of a southern college. From what we gain by the sounds (varied in tone, but always loud) on the campus, we should judge that Republican in this case is synonomous with Presbyterian. All one must do is mention the name of Herbert Hoover, Charles Curtis, or even Dr. McMurray, to know that the Grand Old Party still reigns. . here.

A suggestion from George Vick. . . . . that they bring the flood lights from the football field and put them along the walk from Chapel to the Post Office. Isn't that just like George? We saw him and his girl in an argument the other day. . . maybe it was over the lights,—she not being in favor of George's proposal. One never knows. . . well one does, but he won't tell.

—o—

We read in one of the freshman papers, submitted to us for tryouts, that Tennessee lost to dear old Siwash in a desperate battle by something like a 7-0 score. Now you tell one. . . . no let us tell another one. It has to do with the terminology used in describing the chaperoning at the senior party. It is said that the party was ably chaperoned by certain faculty members. Does that mean that they were able to keep the elder ones coralled until they got back on the campus. . . or what does it mean? From our own conception of "good" and "bad" chaperones, we have found it appropriate in certain cases to designate some of the chaperones with a certain epithet that has double meaning. It is "G. O. P.". . . Grand Old Professor. If they keep getting in younger stock in the way of faculty we'll have B.G.O.P. . . . Baby Grand Old Professor. . . . and then. . and then. . . .

The seniors, we thought, sounded very much like the traditional bunch of sheep coming back to the fold from their party. They would, and did, come back yelling several mighty lusty yells for the dear old Senior class. And then we all laughed. Let us insert here that a few of our highest classmen didn't participate. . . . they were behind, moonshining.

—o—

We're going to leave you and we hope that next week while we're laboring at our tasks hither, thither, and yonder, you'll have packed up and gone to Knoxville to help the boys Houve some Palp. And remember that Poup without Poorpose is Poofle.

MINISTERIAL CLUB

Dr. J. H. McMurray lectured to the Ministerial Association last Wednesday night on the importance of Parliamentary law. He stressed, in his talk, the need in the world of well trained ministers; also he emphasized the importance of having a command of parliamentary law procedure. The candidates for the ministry were urged to give time to consecration and extensive reading.

During the political campaign, the meetings will be held at seven o'clock and last only one-half hour, allowing time for students to attend both gatherings.

The check that used to come back marked "No funds" now comes back marked "No bank".

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN TOPE, Representative

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

There is Beauty in the name Elizabeth Arden

And there is beauty awaiting you in Elizabeth Arden's Venetian Toilet Preparations which she has created for cleansing, toning and nourishing every type of skin.

Venetian Cleansing Cream. Its pure and subtle oils melt into the pores, gently removing all impurities and leaving the skin soft and receptive. $1, $2, $3, $6.

Venetian Ardena Skin Tonic. Stimulates circulation, strengthens and whitens the skin, gives it zest and fineness. 85c, $1, $3.75, $9.

Venetian Orange Skin Food. Builds firm contours, nourishes the underlying tissues, renews tired cells and banishes lines and wrinkles. $1, $1.75, $2.75, $4.25.

Ardena Velva Cream. A delicate cream for sensitive skins. Recommended for a full face, as it smooths and softens the skin without fattening. $1, $2, $3, $6.

Elizabeth Arden's Venetian Toilet Preparations are on sale at

Proffitt's
THE STUDENTS' STORE

SPORTS

Well Coached Aggregation From King College Hands Maryville Severe Trouncing

Absence of Russell and Stone's Injury Handicap Local Fightin' Men

The Highlanders of Maryville went down to their second consecutive defeat last night at the hands of a light, but fast and powerful team from King College. Scoring touchdowns in the second, third and fourth quarters, King upset the home boys by the score of 20-0. The visitors displayed a variety of deceiving spinners, reverses, and fake plays that seemed to leave the Scots in a daze.

The first quarter opened on a fairly equal footing with both teams fighting hard, but with neither able to gain an advantage. Easily the highlight of the initial period, and of the entire game, was the accurate and lusty kicking of Steve Boretsky, Maryville's star half. Very few of Steve's kicks fell under forty-five yards, a good average for any team's punter.

The second quarter opened with Maryville in scoring position and the first play seemed to indicate that score they would, as the old passing partnership of West and Atkins reopened for business with a pass which netted a first down. A couple of end runs and an off-tackle play advanced the ball to the King fifteen-yard stripe, from where West attempted another pass. This, however settled in the arms of a fleet King back who immediately hied himself into neutral territory, on the fifty-yard-line. 'Twas then the trouble started. Finding themselves thwarted in the attempt to progress towards the Scot goal, King kicked out of bounds on the Maryville twenty. A pair of Maryville plays proved ineffective, and a punt found its way to Harris on the Maryville thirty, from whence he betook himself to the twenty. An off-tackle play and an end run gained first down and the first touchdown was scored off tackle. Kick from placement was successful and the score stood 7-0. Maryville then started a drive of her own which was stopped on the King twenty yard line, from where King retaliated by marching down the field for three successive first downs in a drive which was stopped only by the tremination of the half, on Maryville's 8 or 10 yard stripe.

In spite of the fact that Maryville opened the second half with a bad pass from center which lost twenty yards and placed the locals on their own back doorsteps, the play was even enough until a brilliant end run advanced the ball from the fifty yard ribbon to the Maryville twenty. Another end run and a penalty placed the ball on Maryville's one yard line and it was but the work of a minute to rush the ball over the second touchdown. Try for extra point failed.

The last counter came in the final period as a result of a concentrated attack which was not to be gainsaid. Extra point was made and the score stood 20-0 for the rest of the game, in spite of a flurry of Maryville passes thrown to everybody but me 'n you.

Although we would offer no alibis, it is only fair to mention that the Scot line was handicapped by the absence of Russell, pivot man, and that Stone, stellar end, was considerably handicapped by the shoulder injury he received in the Tusculum game. However, Tolliver played exceptionally well in Russell's post and he was ably abetted by plucky guard play by Collins. Another freshman who showed himself of worthy mettle was Millsaps, at tackle. That boy was on the punt-receivers like a bill-collector. For King, Harris, the stocky quarter, was outstanding. His spin plays were a decided factor in the fall of the Scotties.

Court Tourney Nears Close; Fishbach and Phay Battle Today

Great Battle Expected As Two Aces Meet In Finals Today

The annual clay court tennis championship neared the final touch as the Echo went to press with nothing but the final game unplayed. Two seeded Maryville men are left to fight it out after a week of play which showed promising new netmen on Maryville's list. Phay and Fischback were to play this afternoon, starting their match at 2:15. A real battle was in order, with Fischbach, last year's victor, given a small edge.

Since the last publication the tournament has advanced from beyond the quarter finals. Fischbach reached the quarter finals by vanquishing Quigley in a 6-0, 6-0 match. Little effort was required, as evidenced by the overwhelming score. Next in line for the Maryville ace was Karnell, a man who comes from Hanover University, having been number one man on their squad last year. Karnell showed some real tennis and backed it up with plenty of fight, but went down to defeat at the hands of Fischback by a 6-4, 7-5 score. This placed Fischback in the semi-finals where he met Talmage in a hot duel yesterday. Talmage hasn't lost any of his class that he demonstrated here two years ago. The two men fought it out nip and tuck in both of the two sets, Fischback winning by a score of 6-3, 10-8. This placed Fischback in the finals where he meets Phay.

In the lower bracket there was a predominance of new men in the running. Haub ran true to form in his quarter-final match to place Gillingham out of the running. The score was 6-3, 6-3. Snedeker, who is erstwhile president of the freshman class, showed his versatility to a good end in battling Phay to a standstill before losing the match by a 7-5, 7-5 score. Plenty of class was shown by both contestants.

The most looked-forward-to match was the Haub-Phay encounter which was run off yesterday afternoon.

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

In the football game at Greeneville last Saturday the Tusculum Pioneers took the Scots for a gridiron ride to the tune of 7-0. Highlander's refusal to take the game seriously and Pioneer pointing for the game are given as the principal reasons for the defeat. A bad pass from center, a few "inspired" plays, an untimely penalty and a line buck are the chain of circumstances which netted a touchdown for the Tusulum boys. Although we were unable to attend the game, we understand that the boys simply enthused their way to victory.

—S—

While unable to attend even the simple duties attached to the occupation of filling this column last week, we suffered several insults at the hands of the gentleman who did fill it. Our native state was belittled merely because of its dearth of first-rate football teams. We may be misinformed, but we understand that the University of Illinois hasn't set the gridiron woods on fire to speak of lately. In fact, on behalf of the Gergia Bulldogs, we challenge the Illini to a game of football, to be played behind Thaw any afternoon during the coming week.

—S—

We didn't know that we possessed so many muscles! After the touch football game in which we participated last week, every one of the little dears insisted on obstinately aching, in spite of all we could do in our own behalf. It seemed that they were contesting each others right to prominence. Whatever the motives, we are happy to announce they have again subsided to a resigned submissiveness.

—S—

The football spotlight this week is turned on the Tulane-Vandy tilt in New Orleans this afternoon. The game was being played as the Echo went to press, and we must confess that we were hoping Vandy would win, while our cold, mathematical mind told us that any team which could defeat the University of Georgia three years in a row was almost immune to defeat. But we don't know. . . . we only heard.

—S—

We don't feel right about not being able to ride the moonshiners for their pronounced silence. The cheering last night, except for a very natural lull in the third quarter, was all that could possibly be expected. Maybe we needed the printed sheets all along. But one of the cheer leaders was adamant in his contention that collegians couldn't read! !

—S—

The gentleman who plays left guard for Mister Thrower has our profound respect. The way Collins tears the ground while the opposing quarter barks signals reminds one of a thoroughbred straining at the starting post. And does he tear into that line! We extend our deepest sympathies to the unfortunates who are obliged to face him.

—S—

We had a very comforting experience at the game last evening. It fell our lot to seat ourselves in the neighborhood of a freshman who seemed to be trying out for freshman apprentice on this periodical. He noticed our notebook (exactly like his own) and, in an apparent spirit of camaraderie, asked if we were also trying for one of the positions. We assented and went about our business, happy in the thought that some, perhaps even many, were in complete ignorance of the identity of the perpetrator of this column.

POLITICING

You can't fool all the people all of the time, but the average politician is contented with a sizeable majority.

Politics makes strange bedfellows, but they soon get accustomed to the same bunk.

A politician is a man who divides his time between running for office and running for cover.

A news item says that a boy of five has the brain of a politician. The name of the politician is not given.

The political bee buzzes loudest around the candidates for office, but it is generally the public that gets stung.

As a rule the keynote in a campaign is the first one in the scale: "Dough".

Nowadays a candidate passes his hat around before throwing it into the ring.

Political platforms, like Pullman platforms, are to get in on, rather than to stand on.

No politician ever builds his fences so high that they can't be comfortably straddled.

If you think politics easy, try standing on a fence while keeping one ear on the ground.

No one was careless enough to lay much of mercenary value on his choice for winner. Phay took the first set 6-3 and came back in the second to win out in a long set by an 8-6 score. Haub showed the usual good game, being only slightly outclassed by the Maryville captain. Phay's victory left him with only the final game between him and the coveted title of tennis champ.

One noticeable feature of the all matches last week was the "one-two" score of all the matches. Every set except the first one was hard fought, but in each case the winner managed to put on the final touch wtihout playing three sets. The final match today will be decided by three sets out of five.

Second Stringers Cop Interesting Go From High School

Skeeter Shields Of High School Shows Fleeting Heels To College Squad

The Maryville second stringers, headed by Captain Slawson and generaled by quarterback Hoglund, swept through the stiff defense of the Maryville high school fightin' men last week and copped a 7-6 victory.

Maryville's score was made in the second quarter when Lampe intercepted a pass and toted the ball to the high school's one yard line before being brought to earth by the enemy. Crainok bucked the ball over for the six pointer. Hoglan fooled the hosts with a line buck for the extra point.

The enemy touchdown was also made in the second quarter. On a successful end play, Skeeter Shields got loose and scampered 50 yards for a touchdown. The try for point, necessary to tie the score, was muffed. The remainder of the game was a veritable seesaw affair with the scrub line showing well against the heavier high school forward wall.

The scrublings showed a special adeptness in covering fumbles. Many good ground gains were made by this method.

On November 5, while the Highlanders are tackling the boys from Milligan, the second stringers will journey to T. M. I. to try their luck and skill on foreign soil.

Three I Club

The 3-I Club, whose members come from Illinois, Indiana, and Iowa, elected its officers Tuesday with the following results:

President—Phyllis Dexter
Vice President—Jean Campbell
Secy.-Treas.—Bea Thorson
Editor—James Chittick

King Basketball Wakes Up After Seven Month Rest

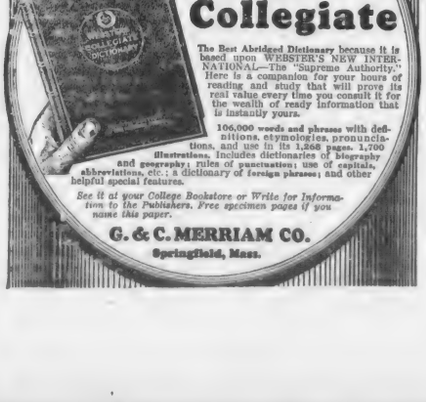
Prospective Players Will Don Togs Soon For Indoor Pastime

Latest news is to the effect that basketball is beginning to loom up in the distance as the king of sport on the Hill. While football is holding the limelight for the next few weeks, the sphere boys will be out plugging away getting in shape for a big season on the Hill. Sleepy White, last year's standby, will be lost from the Maryville hard court. Jack Nee, also, is among the missing members.

Captain Lewis announces that regular practice will begin soon. Much dependence will probably be placed in the new freshman class which boasts some mighty men from here and there over the United States, many of whom show real class.

The true leader tries to arouse the nation, the politician to lull it to sleep.

A strange tree found in Auckland, New Zealand, has trapped, besides hundreds of small birds, a morepock, a species of owl. The manner in which the birds die is a cruel one. The seeds of the tree, about an inch long, grow in clusters and are covered with a heavy gum. The bird flies into the tree, its feathers come into contact with the seed pods, and it is held fast, finally being overcome by exhaustion in the efforts to escape.



—MC—

Gene Tunney, former heavyweight boxing champion of the world, is the most sought for public speaker in the country. Mr. Tunney is a good democrat and is campaigning actively for Roosevelt. Already, he has been sought for by groups in every state.

DR. F. O. GOOCH
Osteopathic Physician and Surgeon
Rooms 207-208 Bank of Maryville Bldg.
Telephone—Office 820

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

Recommended by the English Department of MARYVILLE COLLEGE

Brisk days ahead! You'll be on the go—Get ready
GENUINE SUEDE LEATHER JACKETS (WITH ZIPPER FRONT)
$6.50
Cotton Suede Sleeveless Jacket with Contrasting Seaman's Shirt—the set for $1.95
ATHLETIC HOUSE
KNOXVILLE'S BIG SPORTING GOODS STORE
522 GAY STREET :-: :-: KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE

New Office Installed In Memorial Library

A new office, designed to take the place of the temporary arrangement in the magazine room, has been nearly finished in the Lamar Library. The office will be used by the Librarians to facilitate the management of business affairs of the library and to simplify the matters of correspondence and supplies..

The new 10x10 panelled room will be completed within a few days and will include as equipment a typewriter desk, several book shelves, a long utility table, and the book list file.

Interesting Program Planned By Y.W.C.A.

"What I should appreciate and why", is the topic to be discussed at the Y. W. meeting on Sunday. "Why we should appreciate Art", will be told by Pearl Hunter. The value of appreciating music will be told by Willimae Renegar. The worthwhileness of literature will be spoken of by Mildred Brooks.

The attendance at the Y. W. Meetings has been approximated at about a hundred. Any girl who has not yet attended the meetings of the Y. W. is cordially urged to come to the Y. W. Rooms on Sundays at 1 o'clock.

The successful politician is one who keeps on his toes all the time but who never gets on the other fellows.

Visit...
STERCHI BROS.
— For —
Picture Framing
End Tables
Lamps

BEAT U. T.

MISS HENRY SELECTS GLEE CLUB MEMBERS

Miss Frances Henry held the final tryouts for the Maryville College Glee Singers on Friday of this week. The program for the coming year is indefinite, but it is understood that big plans are in the making.

Those men who will comprise the Glee Singers for 1932-33 are:

First Tenors— Harry Mathias, Andy Alexander, Charles Orner, Benny Groves, Wm. Greenawalt, Sam Waid, George Buffaloe.

Second Tenors—Jesse Willis, Bob Overly, Bill Hanah, Wesley Culver, Gordon Grooms, Lloyd Wells.

First Basses—Donnell MacArthur, Peter Mamilton, Stewart Snedeker, Jerry Carter, Wm. Maccalmont, James Stevenson.

Second Basses— Gordon Courtenay, Don Briggs, Bill Marston, Carl Fisher, Roland Beck, Bob McReynolds.

FRESHMAN CLASS ELECTS

The freshman class met after Chapel Wednesday morning and elected the following officers:

President—Stuart Snedeker
Vice President—Helen Rusk
Secretary—Lillian Steed
Treasurer—Carl Fisher
Athletic Director—Frank Atchison
Student Council Representatives—William Talmadge, Delmar Collins, Flo Henry, Barbara Kizer.

After the white man stole the Indian's land, the women came along and grabbed off his war paint.

Use...
STERCHI'S
BONDED TIRES
29x4.40 . $5.16
30x3½ . . $4.61
With 12 Months Guarantee Bond

CITY DRUG COMPANY
NUNNALLY'S CANDY
Our SODA FOUNTAIN
FOR
REFRESHMENTS AND QUICK SERVICE

Chandler-Singleton Co.
WISHES
THE SCOTS THE BEST OF LUCK
AS THEY FIGHT U. T. OFF THE FIELD

Wright's 5c and 10c Store
"WHERE A LITTLE MONEY GOES A LONG WAY"

THE WEBB STUDIO
BRING YOUR FILMS TO US
FOR PERMANENT PRINTS

Norton Hardware Co.
"ALWAYS AT YOUR SERVICE"
AND
ALWAYS BEHIND MARYVILLE SPORTS

CLARK FLOWERS
FLOWERS FOR EVERY OCCASION
FLOWERS FOR EVERY DEAREST FRIEND

CITY SHOE REBUILDERS
STAND ON YOUR FEET
AND CHEER THAT TEAM TO VICTORY! !
BUT
PROTECT THOSE FEET IN WELL-SOLED SHOES

THE VOGUE
MODERN AND STYLISH FROCKS
FOR EVERY OCCASION
FROM FOOT BALL GAMES TO FORMAL EVENTS

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES AND OTHER NECESSITIES
FOR THOSE PARTIES AND HIKES

TIP TOP BARBER SHOP
IF YOU SHOULD LOSE YOUR HAT
WOULD YOU BE EMBARRASSED?
SEE US BEFORE THE GAME

COLLEGE CLEANERS
"APPEARANCE SPELLS SUCCESS"
Representatives—Ada Williams, Pearson Willocks, Carnegie

STANLEY BIRD MOTOR CO.
STUDEBAKER AGENTS
WE
ARE BEHIND THE TEAM 100 PERCENT

CITY SERVICE STATION
WOCO-PEP GASOLINE
THE
GAS WITH THAT OLD ENTHUSIASM AND PEP
A PUROL PRODUCT

Nealy Morton & Sons
TEXACO GASOLINE
THAT FIRE CHIEF GAS WILL SHOW AS MUCH PEP AS THE HIGHLANDERS

The Highland Echo

VOLUME ~~18~~ 17 — THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, OCTOBER 22, 1932 — NUMBER SIX

Diversified Program Selected By Senior Honor Students Is Approved By Faculty Committee

Departmental Supervisors Act As Advisors In Arranging Student's Honor Work

The Faculty Committee on Honors Work has approved the program of special duty proposed by each of the eight seniors accepted as candidates for Honors Work. These programs are submitted by the students upon the advice of their departmental supervisors.

Benjamin Groves, working in the field of Sociology, will make an intensive study of Gillin and Blackmar's "Outline of Sociology" and Case's "Outlines of Introductory Sociology". He will also make a careful study of Park and Burgin's "Introduction to the Science of Sociology", making a detailed outline of this work. In the same way he will study Lundberg's "Research in the Social Sciences". Following this intensive survey of books he will develop a problem or project. Dr. McMurray is his supervisor.

Harvey Lowry working in the field of Biology under the supervision of Miss Green has his problem a study of Power of Regeneration of Lost Parts with the fresh-water feat worm Planaria as the object of study.

Ellen Macrae will carry during the first semester advanced work in Experimental Psychology under Dr. Field's direction. She will carry out a program which calls for the reading and abstracting of fifteen of the more important experiments in psychology. These deal principally with sensory phenomena and studies of the learning process.

Frank Neff is at work on a reading and research problem in American History under the direction of Prfoessor Queener. His subject is The Origin and Growth of the Republican Party in East Tennessee. His work will no doubt take him frequently to the Knoxville libraries and their files of newspapers.

Robert Overly is working in Spanish with Professor Smith as his taskmaster. Overly has a full major in Spanish but his advanced courses have been modern Spanish literature. At his own wish, therefore, he is undertaking a full year's course of readings in Classical Spanish. His reading list includes works by Cervantes, Lope de Vega, Ruiz de Alarcon, and Calderon. He will prepare brief critical articles on each book, writing them in Spanish.

Robert Rummell, with Professor Howell as his counsellor, is devoting himself to some problems of chemical synthesis. For the first semester he is undertaking synthesis of camphor from oil of turpentine, synthesis of rubber, of salvarson, and of mercurchrome. Much reading and assembling of bibliography from the chemical journals is involved.

Ada Williams is working with Dr. Knapp on an extensive study of series as developed in Algebra and Calculus. This will involve a study of theory of functions, tests for the converging and noncoverging of sine, and an effort at some practical applications, particularly to the teaching of mathematics in the high school.

Nathalia Wright, with Dr. Hunter as her advisor, is undertaking a study which combines somewhat the interests of general esthetics and English literature. As phrased at present, her topic is; An Attempt at an Analysis of the Quality of Beauty in English Poetry and Prose, with Special Attention to the Relations of Form and Content. Just now she is reading all the books in the library on esthetics and the psychology of appreciation.

An English scientist has discovered a skull nearly three-quarters of an inch thick in America. There was no need of him leaving his country if that was all he was after.

If fiction is waning, it's because it can't hold a scandal to biography.

Hoover Backers In Predominance Among Leading Students

Smith of Mississippi And Beale Of Georgia Not In List

An ambitious republican scout has found out the political affiliations of various of the leading officers on the hill during the last few weeks. He asked that special mention be made of the fact that minor officers are not included. That was omitted, apparently, to avoid the further embarrassment of the democrats and socialists.

It may be noticed that some of the major officers on the hill are not included in this list, among these being Smith of Mississippi, and Beale of Georgia.

The officers and their duties are: President of Student Body, Duff; Y. M. C. A., Duff; Y. W. C. A., Hamrick; Alpha Sigma, Briggs; Athenian, Duff; Ministerial Association, Sorce; Student Volunteers, Dot Casseres; Athletic Council, Steve Boretsky; Junior Class, Ross Rankin; Freshman Class, Stuart Snedeker; Editor of Highland Echo, Dick Orr.

"Mary Rose" College Player's Selection, Will Appear Soon

Leading Role Taken By Campbell; Miss Holland Is Director

With Jean Campbell playing the celebrated title role of Mary Rose, and Robert Borcer cast in the opposite lead of Simon Blake, the Maryville College Players under the direction of Miss Wilhemina Holland, are practicing on the first play of the approaching season.

"Mary Rose" is a drama from the whimsical pen of Sir James Barrie, and in its fantastic tones suggests his "Peter Pan" and "The Little Minister". Among contemporary plays it is much like the recent stage success "Berkeley Square" in its theme and setting.

The action of "Mary Rose" takes place in a haunted house, and since there is usually a housekeeper for such derelicts, Ruth Brocious is cast in the role of Mrs. Ottery, who occupies that relation to the house.

As the play opens, the son of the long dead Mary Rose is a visitor to this house, which, as his mother's old home, holds much significance to him. As the action progresses, time retrogresses twenty-five years, to an island in the Scotch Hebrides, and before the eyes of the son, whose role is taken by Wesley Culver, is enacted the strange romance of his mother.

The father of Mary Rose, Mr. Moreland, is played by Harry Mathias, and her mother by Mary Katherine Mize. Other characters in the play include Al Duff who plays Mr. Amy, a minister; and Michael Testa, in the role of the Scotch Cameron.

Y. W. C. A. PROGRAM

A special appreciation program will be given at Y. W. C. A. on Sunday, October 23. Ellen McCrae will have charge of the devotions and Marion Pflanze will read.. A quartet, composed of William Hannah, Arthur Courtenay, Gordon Grooms and Harry Wood, will sing two selections. A string trio, Mildred Purviance, violin; Mildred Harris, 'cello; Grace Proffitt, piano, will play "At Dawning". A song service, in which all will participate, will occupy the remainder of the hour.

A pedestrain is a car owner with a wife and two daughters.

First Anniversary

Interesting Program Planned For Annual Festival Of Music

Ensemble of Six Pianos Will Prove To Be Delightful Feature

The date for the Annual Fall Festival of Music has been set for November 4, and rehearsals for the concert are going forward very satisfactorily. Miss Laura B. Hale, head of the Maryville College Music Department, predicts that the concert this year will be one of the most interesting of all the Fall Festivals. The music lovers on the Hill are very much interested in seeing the numbers that are to be presented, and in actually hearing the program, which is the first of the season.

One of the most interesting features of the program will be the inclusion of several numbers by an ensemble of six pianos. This group appeared last year for the first time, and was very favorably received.

Other numbers on the program will be announced in the Echo before the date of the Festival.

ARTIST OF LEOPOLD AUER SCHOOL WILL APPEAR OCT. 24

College Students Will Have Opportunity To Hear Great Violinist

Sylvia Lent, who appears here October 24 under the auspices of the Maryville College Lyceum Committee, belongs to the Leopold Auer school of violin playing. Her early training was directed by her father, well-known 'cellist, who made his home in Washington, D. C. Later, when Auer came to this country, she played for him and was accepted as the first pupil of the Russian master in this country.

Her schooling has been one of rigorous discipline since she began to study at the age of six. From the beginning her environment was musical, for trios and quartets were favorite pastimes in the Lent home.

When Miss Lent was ready for her professional debut, Auer advised a short period of concert work in Germany before she played in America. Accompanied by her mother, the young artist sailed for Eu-

(Continued On Page Four)

Women's Glee Club Opens Activities With Initiations

New Girls Prove To Be Chief Means of Amusement At First Meeting

Monday night, October 17, the Women's Glee Club began its activities of the year with an initiation party for the ten new members who were recently selected by try-outs. At 6:45 the twenty girls who compose this year's glee club gathered, dressed in overalls, in the new Y. W. rooms for an evening of stunts and pranks. The new girls furnished most of the entertainment by undergoing many trying ordeals in order that they might become full-fledged members.

The evening was brought to a happy conclusion when the hostesses and guests went up to the Practice House where Miss Henry sang several numbers and refreshments were served.

Under Miss Henry's direction, aided by Miss Howard, accompanist, the glee club presents pleaisng programe each year.

Rachel Crother's Play "Little Journey" Is First Mid-Winter

Bainonian Leads Are Taken By Lorena Dunlap and Earl Crawford

The first midwinter of this dramatic season has been cast and will be ready for presentation on the Voorhees stage on December 5th.

The choice of the Bainonian Literary Society, whose play is booked first this winter, has found itself among the foremost contemporary dramatists, Rachel Crothers. Her play "The Little Journey", with its setting in a pullman coach, and its characters pullman travelers, will be interpreted this year by a Maryville cast.

Julie Rutherford, the leading lady, is the role of Lorena Mae Dunlap, and the man whom she very naturally meets on the train is Jim West, who is played by Earl Crawford. Mrs. Bay, a deaf but dear old lady, is interpreted by Jessie Mae Ramsey, and her granddaughter. Lily, who though a victim of love soon after first sight, is inclined to doubt its nicety, is

(Continued on page four)

First Anniversary Of President Lloyd's Inauguration Recalls Impressive, Educational Program

Two Day Program Included Many Prominent Men Of National Rank

Today and tomorrow mark the first anniversary of the formal inauguration of Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd as sixth president of Maryville College. Last year the two days October 22 and 23 were devoted to a program of extensive address, culminating in the final service of the induction of the president.

The inauguration of Dr. Lloyd was delayed from his arrival in November 1930 until last fall for the express purpose of planning an impressive and educational exercise. In its consummate form, this program lasted two days, and drew representatives from ninety-six colleges and universities, sixteen of whom were college presidents.

A number of the most prominent Americans in the varied fields of education, law, journalism, science, and religion were present as speakers. Among them were Dr. W. J. Hutchins, president of Berea College, and father of the president of the University of Chicago; Dr. C. A. Ellwood, professor of sociology at Duke University; Dr. J. H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times; and Dr. H. T. Kerr, president of the board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church.

The double theme for the occasion was "The Story of World Progress During the Lifetime of Maryville", the subject for Thursday, October 22; and "The College of Liberal Arts in Present Day Thought and Life", the subject for Friday, October 23.

On Thursday the speaker at the chapel service was Rev. George W. Brown, general secretary of the American Bible Society, who spoke on the subject "Is the Bible Adequate for 1931?"

At the later morning session, also held in the chapel, the speakers were Dr. G. E. Snavely, president of Birmingham-Southern, who spoke on "Education in the Making of the South"; and Dr. W. J. Hutchins, president of Berea College, whose subject was "Permanent Factors in Christian Higher Education."

In the afternoon session, at the chapel, the two speakers were Dr. C. E. Ellwood, professor of sociology at Duke, whose subject was "Progress in the Sciences"; and Dr. J. H. Finley, associate editor of the New York Times, who spoke on "Progress in Human Relationships."

At the alumni dinner that evening, over which Dr. Orr presided, those who addressed the alumni and senior class were Dr. Vincent T. Shipley; Dr. E. R. Hunter; Miss Mildred MacKenzie, president of the Student Council; and Dr. S. T. Wilson, president emeritus of the college.

At the morning chapel service on Friday Dr. Charles R. Turck, president of Centre College, spoke on the subject "What Will You Take From College?"

At the 10 o'clock session the three men to speak were Dr. William Chalmers Covert, general secretary of the Presbyterian Board of Christian Education, whose topic was "The College and Contemporary Thought"; Dr. Robert L. Kelly, executive secretary of the Association of American Colleges, who spoke on "The College and Vocations"; and Dr. Cleveland Boyd McAfee, co-chairman of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions, who talked of "The College and the Christian Enterprise."

The final service at 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, was the induction of Dr. Lloyd as president by Dr. William R. Dawson, chairman of the board of directrs of the college. "A Charge to the President" was given by Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, president of the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church. Dr. Lloyd's inaugural address followed, on the subject "The College and Character".

Thanksgiving Week-End Controversy Is Subject Of Debaters

Subject of School Vacations Will Be Well Gone Over Tuesday Night

The topic of discussion for the Public Speaking Class for the usual Tuesday night meeting is of particular interest since it deals with a problem of concern to the student body. The general topic is School Vacations, with James Smith, Mildred Purviance, Florence Hyde and Theron Alexander debating the question, Resolved: That we should have a week-end vacation at Thanksgiving.

Six minute speeches will be delivered by Benjamin Groves on "Weekly Chapel Speech on Current Topics", and Newman Smith on "Spring Holidays".

Shorted speeches are as follows:

A New Student's Impression of Maryville College—Phil Cory

Students and Current Events—Hank Otto

Women Teachers Leading Chapel—Nathalia Wright

Hitch-Hiking and Holidays—Herbert Fuller

Political Rallies Show Improvement Over First Week

Campaign Takes On Serious Tone As Election Time Nears

The three political parties had their meetings separately last week and the experiment was found to be very successful.

At the democratic meeting Tuesday night, Frank Neff instructed the crowd as to where the Roosevelt followers stand on prohibitin. Carson spoke second on the "Economic reasons for the repeal of the 18th Amendment". Douglas Carhart presided at the meeting. Thursday night the democrats met again in the philosophy class room with Reuben Alford presiding. Tripp and Carhart spoke, telling of "Franklin Roosevelt, the man", and Roosevelt's pledges for Econmic Recvery.

The socialists met Tuesday night in Miss Johnson's class room. Herbert Fuller preided and the speakers, Hank Otto, and Bob Stevenson, spoke, centering their efforts around "The Man and the Party". On Thursday night, Fuller and Newcomer talked about getting recruits for the socialist party. Lazell presided.

Earl Crawford, the republican stalwart, presided at the Tuesday night meeting of the Republican party in Bartlett Hall. The crowd of a hundred or more showed interest in Crawford's presentation of the achievements of Herbert Hoover and the Republican Party. The points of attack on the democratic party were at the democratic "leadership" in the house, and Roosevelt's vague program of relief. At the Thursday night meeting, Harry Mathias was chairman and Mildred Purviance was the principal speaker. In the necessary absence of Robert Beyer, Crawford spoke on the Purpose of the Campaign on the Hill.

GEORGIA CLUB

The Georgia Club, with a membership twice that of last year, met in Bainonian Hall Thursday, October 20, for their bi-monthly program. Carrie Lou and Edna Charles Tweed, accompanied by Opal Johnson, gave a tap dance. While Irene Branning played the piano, Leslie Osborne whistled popular tunes. After a reading by Willie Lee Houston, Ruth Flint sang and played the ukedele.

THE HIGHL AND ECHO

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

GERALDINE SMITH - - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryvil le, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, Oc tober 22, 1932

PSYCHOLOGICAL PROSPERITY—

In reading a history of the last few years, we run across the part which deals with the after effects of the 1929 depression. To go over that is to realize, to some extent, the power, or rather the lack of power, of the President of the United States.

The account said, "The President acted promptly. He promised a reduction in taxes. He calle a series of conferences of business leaders; he recommended the building of public works to take up the impending slack in employment. . . . he and his associates set themselves resolutely to build up the shaken morale of business by proclaiming that everything was all right and presently would be better; that conditions—as the everlastingly reiterated phrase of the day is—were fundamentally sound." Nothing in that entire process has very much tangibility to it. The president promised, he called a series, he recommended, and then the only thing he did set about to do was to make the people think, against all odds, that everything was fundamentally sound.

Since the first assurance that things would be fundamentally sound had come forth, we have received promise after promise with little material benefit. Leaders said, in 1930, that there was nothing in the situation to be disturbed about. . . there were grounds for assuming that "this" (1930) is a normal year. In March of 1930 Secretary of Commerce Lamont predicted that business would be normal in two months. A few days after that Hoover set about to prepare a date for the economic recovery of America. Unemployment would end in sixty days.

The significance of the president's actions lies not altogether in the fact that his promises have failed, but simply in the fact that he is, after all, a "promising person". He has tried to psychologize America from the consciousness of a depression. It isn't only a matter of trying to fool people. Men who have families dependent on them, and who haven't worked at a job for a year, or for two years, know what their situation is, exactly, and, because of their own urgent necessity, and their stultified nature concerning the outside world, they don't care about the world outlook. . their care is closer home. This is significant because it will be many of these people who go to the polls in November.

It is impossible for anyone to estimate what any other man could have done in Hoover's administration. That matters little now. The thing that reaches more importance, from both a political and psychological viewpoint, is whether or not the folk of America will reinstate their faith in Mr. Hoover. Will the people have lost faith in his constant stream of promises?

It would seem to a casual observer that Mr. Hoover never did admit the fact of the depression. After all, there is a great deal of fundamental, underlying basis for the economic disease that has been so realistically instilled in the minds of the people. Before the depression, during the immediate time, and the time after, we have the following situations in order: the overproduction of capital and goods, artificial commodity prices, a collapse of silver, international financial derangement, unrest in foreign countries, the self generating effect of the depression, and the psychological reaction form the exhuberance of 1929. A careful analysis of these terms impresses one more vividly that confidence will be gained again, in the real sense, when the memory of the depression is dimmed by time.

Casting no funeral wreaths in the direction of Mr. Hoover, and stating no alibi in behalf of the republican party, we think that Coolidge should thank his stars that he did not "choose to run in 1928".. Mr. Smith, likewise, should feel obligated to Hoover for taking that inevitable burden away. He must have felt like the man who missed the train just before it went off the end of the open drawbridge.

FRESHMEN—

This year has revealed, beyond any doubt, one of the best, most ambitious, freshman classes in the history of the college as far as aspiration for college journalism work is concerned.

A difficult assignment was given the middle of last week, one which students of any classification would rebel against, but practically all of the yearlings came through with the work, and it shows the kind of effort that makes any editor feel happy and fortunate.

Nearly thirty students are on the staff now and apparently they all have high hopes of remaining there. One of the most difficult jobs will be in the hands of the Committee on Student Publication when they cut the freshmen to the required number of apprentices. When the cream of the present freshmen crop has been selected, it will contain some of the best journalism material ever to write for the Echo.

"Y" Organizations Initiate Leper Pig Project In Plans

Leaders Hope To Collect Over Three Hundred Dollars This Year

The Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. organizations and Mrs. McMurray's Sunday School class are beginning what they call a leper pig project on College Hill. Tess Frey, the instigator, has seen that several pig banks were distributed in each dormitory.

The idea of pig banks is to follow the plan of a boy who undertook to help lepers by raising one pig, selling it, and sending the money to the American Mission for Lepers. The office staff of the Sunday School Times, upon hearing of this, decided to undertake the project as their own. The money that they receive for this purpose is placed in these metal pig-shaped banks.

It is the plan of the two Y. organizations to ask of each student one cent the first month, two cents the second month, and three cents the third month as contributions. By the end of the college year, with each student contributing the assigned amount, the students will have contributed forty-five cents each, amounting totally to over three hundred dollars.

FRESHMAN

FEATURE

It's amusing to sit in the gallery, second row center, and watch an attentive and receptive audience in chapel become fidgety and squirmish, and ere long show a sudden desire to review, or preview, an assignment for an "a" class.

The first hymn is sung with devotion from the bottom of hearts full of fragmentary thanks and requests. But when all are seated, the fun begins. Row F, sophomore girls, prop chins with left hands. Row D, sophomore boys, prop chins with left hands. Within two minutes they change to right hands. Blond neophyte in section D pulls at his ear and makes one wish he wouldn't. His ears lop over too much already. One wonders, too, what such ears would look like if viewed from a normal level. The foreshortened effects of closely cropped necks, stodgy shoulders, near-bald pates, and low-swung braids incite the same curiosity.

Blank stares and chin massaging cease and all eyes are on the speaker when he tells a story or gives a warning that makes one's toes wiggle. It's the same wiggling of toes one has at night just before sleep comes, when tucked-away thoughts of Winnie-the-Pooh and the Wolf of Gubbio plump down around burning ears. Not that ears always burn at warnings in chapel, but they have been seen to redden, and there's always an unmistakable motion of knuckles to noses.

If college graduates are able to do competently six things at once, which has been said they can, why can't sophomores and juniors, and even freshmen, listen to a speaker and glance at a notebook at the same time? These studious ones have settled the question for themselves by taking books with them. Seniors apparently do not study in chapel.

From every message there are several hundred reactions; for several hundred reactions there are a hundred movements. Perhaps when the observer has gained the privilege of sitting on a level with the larger part of the audience, these movements will appear saner, less distorted, more natural, and less diverting.

Book Browsing

O'Neil, George, SPECIAL HUNGER, New York, Horace Liveright, 1931, 32 pp.

"No one would dare to read Macbeth alone in a house at two o'clock in the morning", confided the fourteen-year-old John Keats to a classmate, as he felt a tingling up his back.

"It seems to me there is a feebleness in its structure", the young critic asserted at the same age, and this time he was speaking of the Aeneid.

It is this John Keats of unsullied imagination and earnest purpose that Mr. O'Neil presents in his new novel of the poet's life. The biography is inclusive, beginning at the time of Keats' birth in the room above his father's livery stable in London and ending with his death twenty-five years later in the foreign room in Rome.

Across the pages of this short drama move other characters who assume as much distinction of personality as the poet. There is the artist Haydon, with the storm in his great voice. There is the Keat's guardian, Mr. Abbey, scorning the romantic John with all the practicality of his ego. There is Tom Keats, walking like a gentle ghost through the pages until he dies of consumption.

And there is John Keats. O'Neil does not suffuse the region round his poet's head with a halo; he is too much of a modernist to do that. With just, bold, straight strokes he pictures the young romantic. Sometimes his short sentences seem inadequate, but they often have something of a poet in them, as we read, when Keats buys a bunch of violets: "He gave her a coin, and took a small dense sphere of purple dampness."

Throughout the first of the book the author displays a poet's sympathy with young Keats. He follows him through his dedication to the principle of Beauty, and through his efforts to embody that Beauty with the remarkable understanding of a romantic idealist.

But toward the end of the novel the author seizes upon the poet's letters to Fanny Brawne with all the avidity of a modern psychoanalyst. He accords them too much emphasis for the proportion of the book, and he never considers for a mment the possibility of their being written under the influence of laudanum he is careful to mention as heading a list of purchases given by Keats to his friend Severn.

In the last of the book we receive little real understanding of the Keats who could speak thus to his friend of his very near death: "I shall have peace. I have never known a day of peace. I am twenty five, Severn. I have fretted myself to death. I leave nothing to make my name remembered. You must put this on my grave. I have thought of the words. Say, 'Here lies one whose name was writ in water'. Remember that. I have had no common chance for living"

We should prefer the biographer of the author of "Endy min" be all of a pre-destined romantist and nothing of an occasional realist.

FINDINGS

At last Maryville College has broken through for a place in that handbook of college life, College Humor. It is a place that is shared by Cumberland University, near Nashville, but it is a place—and What a Place.

No, the article doens't come right out and say Maryville College, Voorhees Chapel, or President Lloyd, but it does say Blakely College and President Quimby; and not only that, but it tells of the faint blue Cumberland Mountains which can be seen from the dormitory windows; three church spires which rise into view; and it contains an exaggerated ridiculing of the grid-iron, in which the grandstands are reduced to three tiers instead of the eight or ten of which Maryville College boasts. A "Mr. Mac" comes in for a few lines, also.

Someone writing under the pen name of "Tom Goodrich" has chosen to ridicule the morals and aims of small colleges in which a "ban" is placed upon social activity.

Anyone familiar with the campus and the faculty can easily recognize the frequent references to Maryville College. Also, Goodrich doesn't attempt to disguise the name of Depot Street, nor the fact that Byrne's Drug Sore is a regular hangout for the fellows..

This article can be found in the September issue of College Humor on page twenty. The most noticeable references are the ones concerning the Cumberland Mountains and the three church spires looming up against them. "Mr.. Mac" plays an important part as a Biology prof instead of his usual position as Proctor of Carnegie; and the street light at the foot of the Hill is frequently mentioned.

Since this is a Campus Prize Novel, it must be a good article; and anything which has Maryville College written all over the face of it certainly deserves to be read, at least to determine whether or not one agrees with Tom Goodrich concerning the dull life and general death-like appearances of the college.

An unofficial count of the presidential poll at the University of Kentucky showed Roosevelt ahead of Hoover with a 162-103 majority. Thomas, the socialist candidate, brought up third place with 67 votes. Other candidates receiving a scattered vote include, Newton Baker, Smuela Insull, Will Rogers, and Foster. A later issue of the Kentucky Kernel will give results of polls taken in other colleges and universities throughout the country.

A diamond is a woman's idea of a stepping stone to success.

Then there's the absent minded farm hand who ate with his fork.

At a glass works plant in Corning, New York, a new machine makes 442 electric light bulbs a minute.

FATE

Fate is the disappointment in things hoped for; the discovery of things meant to be unseen.

By fate, there came to Maryville, all unknowning, a freshman who cherished a hearty distaste for beans.

By fate, a sandwich, furtively wending its way from the dining room in the bosom of a freshman's sweater, was eyed suspiciously by Miss Darby and brought to light.

By fate, the mountain hike, anticipated long and eagerly by energetic (?) freshmen, is, at their arrival, promptly abandoned.

Fate it is that contrives, on the night of a first date with the one-and-only, that our fond and rather foolish farewells must be supplemented with those of Mrs. Proffitt.

By fate, a freshman, having mastered all his latin except one passage, is called to recite on that one passage.

By fate, a college maid, after she has spent seven days making a smock, finds that two more seams must be ripped before she receives her week's salary of thirty cents..

By fate, a candle, burning for the first time and giving light to a conscientious, studious Baldwinian, is discovered and ruthlessly extinguished by the matron.

And it was fate, but a much more kind and propitious fate, that directed the paths of three hundred freshmen to Maryville College, whose beauty we already admire, whose associations we love, and whose hardships we are learning to endure.

College Maid Shop Continues To Do Thriving Business

Business Increases In Shop; Girls Find Sufficient Work For Self-Help

At the present time the College Maid Shop has orders for 1300 garments, enough to keep all the College Maids busy for at least one month. The orders include uniforms for mill workers, choir vestments for churches and colleges, gymnasium suits for schools and colleges, and some smaller retail orders. This is probably the largest amount of work on hand at one time in the history of the Maid Shop.

Ten of the large mercantile factories, have ordered uniforms of various styles and material, some of the orders being for as many as 195 garments. Grove Silk Mills of Dunmore, Pennsylvania is a regular purchaser of uniforms. The Jarman Shoe Co., manufacturers of the "Friendly Five" Shoes, at Nashville, Tennessee, Church and Dwight Co., in New York, Apex Hosiery Mills of Philadelphia, a company having received from Maid Shop almost ten thousand uniforms since the establishment of the Shop, Standard Hosiery Mills of Knoxville, and Miller Smith of Chattanooga, are the chief purchasers of uniforms during the last week.

Vestments are being made for several choirs including the robes for the Westminster Choir School. Sixty vestments for the Choir School have been made and during the next month the velvet and satin robes will be finished. Walter Buchanan, a former student at Maryville, has ordered choir vestments for his choir in the First Baptist Church in Jackson, Michigan.

Houghton College has decided to robe the A Cappella choir in vestments made by the College Maids, and the Knoxville College in Knoxville, well-known for musical talent, recenty ordered vestments.

Besides the larger robes, many small retail orders have been received from numerous states in the eastern and middle sections of the country.

The increasing business of the Shop proves that is it not merely a school project, but a well-founded business organization, nationally known for the quality of workmanship of its products, and its policy of satisfactory commercial dealings.

One of the high lights in the speech of former President Coolidge at Madison Square Garden this week was the assertion that the worst of the country's troubles probably were over and economic recovery beginning. Mr. Coolidge says the nation needs Hoover.

Maryville Alumni Prove Successful In Medical Field

Distinguished Group of Medical Men Practice In Many States

Although Maryville does not boast a medical department, her pre-medical course has been very successful in sending out well equipped students to standard schools of medicine. A glance over the list of college alumni, who are engaged in medical practice, reveals some very distinguished names.

In Los Angeles, Dr. Burrell O. Raulston, '09 is head of the medical department of the University of Southern California. Dr. Raulston was engaged in practice in San Francisco until he was called to fill his present responsible position. Part of last year he spent abroad in further post-graduate study.

San Francisco claims another distinguished medical son of Maryville, Dr. A. W. Morton, '01. Dr. Morton has won fame, not only in the West, but throughout the land for his successful surgery under general local anaesthesia. His large Pine Street Hospital is always filled with patients..

One other Californian is Dr. Ethel Fanson of Pasadena. Dr. Fanson, '13, is a nerve specialist and owns and operates a large sanatorium for those afflicted with nervous diseases. She is the first woman graduate of Maryville to enter the medical field.

One of the most successful and popular members of the staff of the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia, is Dr. Vincent T. Shipley '12. Dr. Shipley is a surgeon of unusual skill and regarded as a leader in his field.

Perhaps the best known of Maryville's medical missionaries is Dr. Ernest W. Ewers, temporarily located in Somerset, Kentucky. Dr. Ewers has spent the last fifteen years in Hunan Province, China, and during the recent internal warfare there has been in the midst of danger and was among the last to leave his field. He has done much research work, also, and is the author of a number of pamphlets on the diagnosis and cure of oriental diseases.

Maryville College students feel that one of our own local physicians Dr. E. L. Ellis, 1900, deserves to hold first rank among these other noted members of his profession. An untiring worker, a skilled diagnostician and a real friend to those in need, Dr. Ellis commands the esteem of every student on the Hill.

WORLD TODAY

According to a report from Australia, Japan is considering negotiations for the purchase of the Portugese section of the Island of Timor in the Malay Archipelago, 400 miles north of Australia. Australia is stirred by the plan, for Japan has made several attempts to gain a foothold in lands just north of Australia.

—MC—

The world's largest hydro-electric plant was formally opened on Monday, October 10, not in America, as loyal Americans might suppose, but in Russia. The construction of this huge power dam is considered the most brilliant achievement of Soviet industry and an outstanding proof of the ability of the Socialist system to achieve its aims.

—MC—

To read about "Moslem hatred of Christians" calls to mind Medieval History. Perhaps the Philippine Islands are undergoing their Medieval History period now, for the Moros in Jolo Island slew 12 of the Constabulary Patrol. The Moros are Mohammedans—the Filipinos are Christians and the suffering caused by a recent typhoon evidently aggravated the tense condition of religious differences.

—MC—

An Italian physician in a tropical medical mission in Trinidad announced a discovery that opens up the possibility of early diagnosis and successful treatment of cancer by a new method of vaccination. The discovery opposes other theories of the origin of cancer. The announcement follows ten years of experiments at the Institute Maraglino at Genoa.

Two million years from now the scientists can start a row by claiming that the creatures of that peroid decended from man.

SPORTS

Women's Athletic Program Gathers Momentum as Soccer Tourney Draws Near

New Equipment A Decided Benefit To Female Sport Fans

Although King Football has been defending his throne well against all usurpers this fall, Mrs. Queener has already laid foundations for a complete women's sport program and, in fact, has already set the machinery in motion. While the gridders are at practice each afternoon, commanding the attention of the sport scribes, the girl athletes are in the Alumni gym, pegging away at soccer, tennis, and the rest of those games that Maryville athletes will peg away at.

The first improvement in the female sport program which attracts attention is the new outfits which the gals wear while engaged in the actual required gymnastics, as well as in the sports for the point system. Instead of the huge black pantaloons of yore, we see nifty little range panties which look as though they might give much more freedom for exercise. The long black hose have also been abandoned in favor of short orange athletic sox. To top off the ensemble, the girls wear white middie shirts with orange embossment.

Hand in hand with the new outfits come the new dressing rooms, equipped with showers, etc., which relieve gym addicts from the necessity of dressing for gym hours ahead of time, and enable them to get into their street clothes for classes. The rooms are for the exclusive use of the female athletes, visiting basketball teams still being required to face pneumonia in their dashes to and from the Y dressing rooms.

An extensive soccer program is under way, Coach Mary Gamble states, with the tournament but two weeks away. Nearly one hundred aspirants are competing for places on the various teams, and several good games are forthcoming when the games start on November 7th.

The fall tennis tournament for women was not yet completed as this article was written, Friday morning. Mary Gillingham had fought her way through the field of twenty-two to the finals. One semi-final match remained to be played, between Mary Cooper and Eleanor Johnson. These two should furnish a good grudge match, since they met in last year's tournament at the same stage, at which time we believe Cooper was eliminated.

Women's sports have a very definite place in the sport program at Maryville and they are slowly, but surely, fighting their way to the attainment of that place.

"Newest" Pep Song Is Revived After Many Months Rest

Pep Song Number Three Is Written By Clever Composer

The new pep song, now compelled to be called the "newest" pep song, has been revived and will be put before the student body to add to the list of pep makers. The song was sung at a few pep meetings during the waning days of last year, but no mention has been made of it recently.

The new song is not copied after any established tune, but was composed by Joe Truxton, a freshman last year. Mr. Truxton specializes in music and has devoted some effort to composition.

The New Pep Song

Fight-fight-fight and win the victory,
Fight for our college true;
Fight, men, fight and never weary,
Fight till the game is through!
Orange-Garnet proudly waving
Forever o'er our hill!
Fight and win another victory
For dear old Maryville!

He who laughs last—has no spontaneity.

T. M. I. CONQUERS BULLDOGS 6-0 IN SWEETWATER GO

Prepsters Muster Strength For Lone Touchdown In Second Period

The reserve Highlanders journeyed to Sweetwater Thursday afternoon, where they engaged the grid team of Tennessee Military Institute in a close battle which the prep boys won 6-0. The game was a fiercely contested affair, and neither team was able to gain an advantage except the one time in the second quarter when the preps pushed off tackle for their lone counter.

The remainder of the game was a nip and tuck affair, played mostly in T.M.I. territory. The Maryville lads were unable to concentrate their drive enough to score, however, and the battle was Lost.

Creed at half, and Captian Slawson, at end, were the satellites for the Bulldogs, both playing a smashing brand of ball.

WOMEN'S POINT SYSTEM GETS GOOD START

Athletic Skill, Scholarship And General Health Bases For Judgement

The point system of athletic awards, by which Maryville monograms and sweaters are given to those young women who excel in physical education, has been resumed for the year 1932-33. For 300 points the Maryville monogram MC will be given; for an "M" 400 points must be earned; and for 500 points, the girls will receive a Maryville "M" with sweater.

Points will be awarded on the basis of teams, tests, scholarship, and health. For making class teams of basketball, soccer, volley ball, indoor baseball, and tennis, a definite number of points will be given. Tests in swimming, stunts, archery, aerial darts, track and field, and hiking must be passed for credit.

Twenty per cent of the semester's points won will be added if the entrant's scholastic average is "A", and ten per cent if it is "B". It is required that each entrant take at least twelve semester hours of work. Health rules must be observed and reported for credit.

Those desiring to try for class teams must signify their intention of doing so at the beginning of the term in which the preferred sport is offered..

Basketball Practice Starts Monday

Hardwood Boys Eager For Play

Each succeeding football game, coupled with the sharp, clear snap of late October mornings, brings the realization that basketball season is approaching. Indeed, all basketeer aspirants who are not grid addicts begin their grind for the next season Monday afternoon.

Although only two lettermen are available for the coming season, Captain Lewis says that improvement of last year's reserves and the presence of many high school performers make the outlook for a first-rate club very bright.

And a bright team is sure to be needed, as advance reports indicate a schedule full of high-class opponents.

WRIGTH'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

If Coach Honaker thinks that he's had tough encounters with Ole Man Graduation taking his material, he should consult the article which tells of Sing-Sing Prison losing its star back by graduation. Just as the jail team got to clicking, the warden came along with the distressing news that the best half on the squad was due to be paroled the middle of this month, which was also the middle of the season. Needless to say, consternation was forthcoming. We suggest that the gridder be allowed to take a post-graduate course.

—S—

Word comes from the Vol camp that various and sundry members of the Tennessee squad will be sent to view Duke and Vandy in action in their respective games. We warn Mr. Neyland that he'd better save himself a punter, 'cause Little Stevie's likely to give the boys something to shoot at when it comes to punting this afternoon.

—S—

When the Echo went to press, the Georgia Bulldogs had not yet won a game. We suppose that is still the case, as we have very little hope of the home boys laying it on Vandy. And they don't play Yale this year, nor New York University, so we're beginning to wonder.

—S—

But while we won't hope for Georgia to lick Vandy, nor for Maryville to humble Tennessee, we are going to U. T. with one prayer on our lips. That is: we want to see Cecil Stone block one of those Vol kicks, no matter what the score. And, who knows? Maybe he will.

—S—

We gotta hand it to whoever is responsible for the girls' new uniforms which the women's sports writer referred to in another article. We were just about to get tired of the poor girls having to attend class in their sneaks and dark (very dark) hose, and with their black panties either under the arm or peeping shyly from the protecting skirt.

—S—

Knoxville sport scribblers and fans are already claiming everything from a city to a national championship for the Vols. Okay! We concede them a good ball club. But we still insist that if the Neylanders want to get anywhere nationally speaking, they've got to get somebody on their slate who doesn't live next door. An intersectional game or so, plainly speaking. And we still insist that Knoxville is the best sport town in the South. That bunch of fans over there would back any kind of athletic aggregation. Witness the Smokies! !

—S—

The snake-dance to the village Friday evening was inspiring, to say the least. Some of the corner drug store sages advance the theory that the excess noise was the result of heer female exhuberance at the novelty of being out from under matronic wings for a change. Of course, we disagreed, claiming that 'twas merely the Ole Pep breaking out once again on the eve of the annual U. T. massacre.

—S—

And the local cinema manager received a scare? When he perceived the thundeirng herd bearing down on his emporium, of course he immediately conjured up a rush. We witnessed his consternation and we are here to state that it was a liberal education in study of emotion.

—S—

Julian Foster, who broke up the Vandy ball games here last spring with his lusty bludgeon, has been declared ineligible because of his semi-pro baseball last summer with the Tallahassee (Fla.) team.

COLLEGIATE SWAPS

The band of the University of Kentucky will broadcast a 30 minute program over station WROL, Knoxville, Tennessee, Thanksgiving night following the Kentucky-Tennesee football game. This annual game between these two championship contenders in the Southern Conference is always an event of great interest to the friends of both schools. It usually results in a tie, but students and fans are hoping for a different outcome this year.

A new paper on our desk this week is the "Highland Outlook", published by the Asheville Normal and Teachers College at Asheville, North Carolina. We learn with interest that all but three of the 379 students enrolled there this year plan to marry some day. (It's a girl's school.) Those Maryville men who wish to correspond may call at the Echo office for addresses.

From what we can gather from our neighboring State University, South Carolina, King Roosevelt and his subjects reign. It seems that his subjects, or enough subjects to satisfy him, at least, could be gathered from the student body of Carolina. The boys from the University are taking a lead in the Young Democrat club in that state. We think, and it demands little thought—only a little intuition, that the Carolina boys can sit back in their rocking chairs and let Herr Roosevelt take their state. We rather imagine that a poll taken in the University would much resemble one taken in 1792, when there wasn't any opposition.

From the Tech Oracle, from Tennesee Polytechnic Institute, we learn that the Cookeville grid boys are minus a game on the 29th of October, the same time as Maryville's blank date. We rather think it might be wise to hook up with the boys from T.P.I. for a little skirmish. We see from one of the editorials that they have plenty of pep. . .so we'd begin the game at a distinct disadvantage, according to some of our critics.

While conferences designed to curb the civil war continue at Nanking, the extent of the conflict is growing. War flames flared in 4 areas of China: Shantung, N. E. China; Hupeh, central China; Szechwan, W. China; and Fuken, S. E. China.

Ye Scribe's Olde Home Towne had a team in the same league and we rise in defense of the Vandy boy, who lives in Georgia. Southern Conference rules allow collegians to play with teams playing only three games per week. We know for a fact that, while Foster was with Tallahassee, only three games per week were scheduled. Of course, an exhibition game or two was given each week, but this was not part of the league program. We think Foster has been done an injustice, and hope that Southern Conference officials, on learning the truth, will reconsider.

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN TOPE, Representative

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

DR. F. O. GOOCH
OSTEOPATHIC PHYSICIAN
Rooms 207-208 Bank of Maryville Bldg.
Phone—Office 820; Home 822

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

SCOTTIES INVADE VOLUNTEER STRONGHOLD FOR HARDEST GAME OF MARYVILLE GRID CARD

Strong Contenders For S. C. Honors Promise Terrific Struggle To Scot Gridmen

In Carnegie limousines, by thumb touring methods, and in Greyhound and White Star busses, the student body treks to Knoxville this afternoon to cheer the Scotties in their annual encounter with their most-hated and least-defeated rivals, the Volunteers of the University of Tennessee. Midnight side-walk painting urges the boys to fight U. T. and hold U. T., but everyone concedes the victory to the Neylandites, who are contenders for Southern and national honors. The only question seems to be in the number of touchdwns..

In spite of the tremendous odds, however, the men of Honaker are going over to the sister city with the intention of giving every ounce they possess in an honest endeavor to fight the highly touted Vols off their feet. And this is a laudable ambition, surely. It must be, for every team in the Southern Conference is itching to do the same thing.

Nothing definite has been given out, but those who are supposed to be in the know state that the Vol mentor is planning to send practically his entire first team to scout Duke and Vandy. Even at that the Highlanders are sure to have a tremendous scrap with the second and third stringers.

Scot trainers state that the gridders are in about as good shape as could be expected. Cecil Stone will see plenty of service, albeit his shoulder injury is not completely well. So with "Finklestein" Russell, scrapping center.

In the final scrimmage before the encounter, Thursday afternoon, the Scots showed up well, indicating that Neyland might do well to ponder long before he sends too many men away on a vacation. 'Twould not be pleasant at all to the first stringers to hear that the Scots had out-fit their mates while they were off at another game. But Neyland has demonstrated that he knows his business, so he probably wouldn't pay any attention to anything this scribe might have to say.

HOTLY CONTESTED BATTLE ENDS TENNIS TOURNAMENT

Fischback Conquers Phay Three Out of Five For Championship

George Fischback, Maryville College tennis star, was pushed to a hard fought five set battle Saturday afternoon to win by the score of three sets to two from John Phay, runner up. The set scores were: 6-4, 6-8, 7-5, 5-7, 6-1.

A brilliant array of strokes was displayed by each player, and each man kept his opponent dashing back and forth across the court to handle the fast skimming placement shots which fell in all directions. A good bit of "drive-swapping" was done along the base lines, and neither player could work his way to the net for a kill.

Phay played desperately to win the fourth set, 7-5, with the handicap of a broken racquet. Unable to get the feel of a borrowed racquet, he fell before the steady strokes of Fischback in the fifth set.

Phay won his way to the finals by winning two tough matches, Snedecker falling 7-5, 7-5, in the quarter finals, and Haub losing 6-3, 8-6 in the semi-final tilt. Fischback tangled with Karnell and Talmage on his way to the final match.

PRE-MEDICAL CLUB

At the regular meeting of the Pre-Medical Club Thursday evening, Dr. Calloway read paper on the subject of Cancer.

In his paper Dr. Calloway discussed teh various kinds of Cancer, their places of attack, and the possibility of cure.

He marked that as the death rate from other diseases decreases the death rate from Cancer is increaisng; that if Cancer is found early enough it is practically always curable but when found beyond the first stages it is practically always incurable.

TRIANGLE CLUB

The Triangle Club held a campfire party in the college woods Saturday afternoon, October 15, from 3:00 to 5:00 p. m. This was the first social gathering of the year for the easterners.

The group met in front of Baldwin Hall from where Bob Stevenson led the way to a campfire in the woods where the following program was given, and well received: Eleanor Denslow, recitation; Clopton and Thornhill, harmonica duet; Robert Roberts, guitar melodies; "sermon" by Maggie Magee. Harry Mathias and Robert Roberts led the group in the singing of favorite songs to close the program.

MOORE MANAGER

The Athletic Board of Control met last Tuesday and elected Clifton Moore, manager of the basketball team for the year 1932-33. The election of Moore was unanimous. Moore has begun work on the plans for the year about which a report will be issued next week.

The problem of preventing the spread of false news liable to endanger peace was the main question before the League of Nations Assembly last week. The association's theme was that the solution lay in freeing the press more from outside non-journalistic control, governmental or otherwise, and in providing freer access to news events.

—MC—

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

M. M. Elder Cash Carry Store
When You Are Planning Hikes or Parties Visit Our Two Stores
For Your Supplies

OBSERVATIONS

Not Connoisseurs, but-
"Watchie" Saves Lights
Editor Issues Appeal
Maybe Stevenson Errs

We won't start out by saying first, "and then there was the freshman who——" as has become customary and even trite. Now don't be discouraged, gentle reader, we have lots and lots and lots to say, and it's not only freshman, but verily it's freshmen. . . . and fresh women that we'll talk about.

—0—

We observe, and for too long a time have been observing, the freshman who must insist on wearing his white trousers, even though the calendar has long since passed the time when roses and house flies flourish. On Sunday he wears his white trousers. . . . on other days he wears his white trousers. Now, we don't pretend to be connoisseurs of color effect, style, or anything of the sort, but we have a feeling that it is our duty to tell the yearling to pack up his trousers in his old kit bag. . . and observe a little on his own hook.

—0—

Then there was another of these "students" who came to the library once upon a time and, making her library card asked what should supply on the line for "dormitory address", since she lived in the country beyond Maryville. She was instructed to, therefore, place her home address on the dotted line. She wrote "home" and casually, nonchalantly, walked away, assuming, we reckon, that if we'd care to summon her we'd call at her "home".

—0—

We saw the watch of the night the other night driving around our old campus without any lights as per usual. We'd like to suggest, being a little the sort of person who might be wont to err sometime, that the scout keep up the good work in the same way. We can't conceive of a better identification mark than driving a car on a dark campus without lights. Of course, he may be saving lights. . .but we can't help crediting him with some sort of ulterior motive.

—0—

Last week it was the fellow who took Beale for a freshman apprentice. This week it's the fellow who wears a derby on Maryville's campus. And the strange thing about the whole business is that it's one and the same person. There's just no way of getting around the fact that Maryville's getting a taste of styles. . . . . soon we'll be glad to appreciate what we have. In case the derby should go into hibernation for the remainder of the year, we might say now that he who stands below is Sweeney. Sweeney's the name. Seems like we've heard that name before in just a little different connection. We'll look up Sweeney and if he's from Georgia, West Tennessee, or Pennsylvania he'll be excused.

—0—

Tennessee is a state where the people exemplify the maxim that the farther east one goes, the more intelligent society he encounters. West Tennessee is extremely democratic, while here they still want to "keep him on the job."

—0—

McArthur, the would-be man from Mississippi, regrets that no more mention was made of his work in the scrub football game last week, or whenever it was. Mc says he recovered more fumbles than anyone on the team, and really, we were reprimanded right highly for not saying more of his good work. We saved it however for this week to remind McArthur that any football player can fall down.

—0—

We'd like to say to the thundering herd that comes around each week crying about receiving no paper that it is not the duty of the editor of a paper to make up the paper, and then peddle it. You can tell the business manager anything you want to, but bear in mind that by the time an editor gets told by the publisher five or six times a week that he's slower than tar in January, he feels sufficiently conscious of his job.

—0—

Dr. Stevenson, in talking about that gasless automobile last Wednesday insisted on saying that the car remained "still unmovable". The car must have been stationary.

—0—

Boy, that Clopton must have been

DEMOCRACY

COOLIDGE AT MADISON SQUARE AND THE PROTEST VOTES

Mr. Coolidge lifted the hide off the Democratic Donkey in Madison Square Garden last Tuesday night in a forty-five minute paper read slowly and uninterestingly. Mr. Coolidge had a great crowd. Of course, all the seats were not taken, but then it is a large hall, and New York a small city. One could hardly expect a complete turn-out. The seating capacity is something like 25,000 and there are only six or seven million people in New York Franklin D. Roosevelt drew a 50,000 crowd in a city many times smaller than New York.

—

Mr. Coolidge followed Mr. Hoover in trying to scare the people into voting for Hoover. He said it is "Dangerous to change"—the Republicans are the only good rulers! The Republicans have long been guilty of patting themselves on the back. Things will really be bad if Roosevelt is not elected.

—

Mr. Coolidge and Mr. Hoover both read their tirades. Mr. Hoover reads because he is President and might make a rash statement which could be used against him. Mr. Coolidge reads—well, for the same reason Hoover does. Neither man can make a speech.

—

The Protest voter will have his day this year, but, is he wise? The situation is something like this: There are two major parties. One of the two major party candidates will be elected. The protest voter does not like either of the major candidates whole-heartedly, so he refuses to make a choice.

—

If the two major parties' candidates and platform were exactly the same, the protest voter would be still unwise, because one party has gone to seed in office-holding and a change even of names and faces is to be desired. This most protest voters grant, but a protest vote is a vote against a change.

—

Most protest voters are decidedly against Hoover, and not quite satisfied with Roosevelt, but one of the two will be elected. The only change possible is from Hoover to Roosevelt. Therefore, a vote for a third party candidate finally amounts to a vote against Roosevelt and in favor of Hoover, the very thing which the protest voters do not want.

—

A few days ago Herbert Hoover stated in a campaign speech at Des Moines that the United States was at one time during this depression within a week of being forced off the gold standard. He did not seem to realize that the president of the United States has power to put an embargo upon the exportation of Gold in such a case.

Negotiable property of foreign governments held in this country total $1,000,000,000. The United States has at this time $4,000,000,000 in Gold reserve. Now, we ask you, how can a government be forced off the Gold Standard with a reserve like that?

SOCIALISM

Did you know:

That Milwaukee, Wis., is the most efficiently governed city in the United States?

That Milwaukee has the lowest city tax rate in the United States?

That Milwaukee has the best administered public utilities in the nation?

That the government of Milwaukee is Socialistic?

That Mayor D. W. Hoan is a Socialist?

But it is not the city of Milwaukee nor Mayor Hoan whom we are proposing as a candidate for the presidency. We merely cite Milwaukee as proof that Socialism is practical.

Norman Thomas is a political leader who stands on a platform declaring for the elimination of war, of poverty, and of social injustice. He makes no glittering promises for any kind of a millenium—economic, political, or social—but he would build a democracy of the "workers with hand and brain". A democracy, by the way, is the kind of government the United States is alleged to believe in.

Mr. Thomas is progressive enough not to believe in war, and courageous enough to write a plank to that effect into this platform. He deplores any resort to force, but strives by every legal means to gain civil and religious liberty. These are also rights claimed for every citizen by the Constitution.

With regard to every important issue in the campaign Mr. Thomas has at once been more vocal and more consistent than either of the other two major candidates.

As a personality, he belongs to the Wilson type of leader, depending more on logic than on emotion to gain his followers. This fact explains the large number of students and clear thinkers who are supporting him in all parts of the country. He can, as occasion demands, be "an enraptured Socialist" or a hard-headed realist. He is a pregmatist, and can be extremely practical when necessary, but his spiritual kinship is with St. Francis of Assisi and Tolstoy, the immaculate idealists of the race.

Mr. Thomas is an ordained Presbyterian minister, the son and the grandson of Presbyterian ministers. His inherited orthodoxy has restrained him from rash projects and hysterical fanaticism.

The Socialist candidate for the presidency is, among other things, a writer of no mean ability. He organized the magazine, "The World Tomorrow", and was for some years editor of it. He is the author f three thought-provoking books: "The Conscientious Objector", "The Challenge of War", and "Is Conscience A Crime?"

REPUBLICANISM

WHICH DO THE PEOPLE WANT?

Which do the people want for President of the United States, a man who speaks in vague generalities on the most important topics, or who does not speak at all, or a man who makes his position on all matters entirely clear?

Where does Gov. Roosevelt stand on the great reconstruction measures President Hoover has initiated and the working out of which is bringing about a business recovery which is universally recognized? He has never said. The country does not know whether he is for them or against them, whether if elected he would continue to carry them forward, or whether he would scrap them and start on sonse new and different program. Hasn't the country a right to know?

Where does Gov. Roosevelt stand with regard to such pork-barrel legislation as his colleague on the Democratic ticket forced through the House of Representatives? Would he sign such a bill if he were elected and it were passed in the next Congress or would he veto it? He has never said. Hasn't the country a right to know?

Where does Gov. Roosevelt stand with regard to the Bonus bill, another measure which his colleague on the ticket put through the House of Representatives? Would he sign it or veto it? He has never said. Hasn't the country a right to know?

Where does Gov. Roosevelt stand on the $5,000,000,000 "employment" bill which William Randolph Hearst, who engineered the trade which gave him the nomination, has advocated so strenuously in all his papers? Would he sign the bill or would he veto it? He has never said. Hasn't the country a right to know?

Upon all these questions the position of President Hoover has been stated in clear-cut language again and again. The position of Governor Roosevelt hs not been stated at all.

About the only thing Roosevelt has come right out and said is that he blames Hoover for the depression. Blaming Hoover for the depression was such old stuff six months ago that wiser Democrats than Rooevelt had already decided to lay off that nonsense as they found it was reacting in Hoover's favor.

—

One of the nation's political writers has summed up Roosevelt's speeches like this: Governor Roosevelt says there is something wrong with our country, and that something should be done about it!

—

No less an authority than Frank R. Kent, a Democrat writing for a Democratic newspaper, declares that Roosevelt "has had two careful Columbia University professors helping him with his speeches, and has not said very much that was important." He has shed no new light upon conditions, says Mr. Kent, "and some of the remedies he has proposed have seemed purposely cloudy and vague." He has "avoided the deeply controversial subject of bonus and has avoided antagonizing any organized minority, and expressed solicitude for every class."

In other words, by the confession of his friends, Gov. Roosevelt is deliberately making a perfectly colorless campaign, proposing nothing concrete enough to make an issue, offering no definite program, antagonizing nobody—basing his hopes of election upon capitalizing the distress of the country and gaining the support of organized groups that want to raid the Treasury.

A NOBLE CAMPAIGN INDEED! And yet the man who makes it is endeavoring in every way he can to capitalize the name he bears and to convey the impression that his election will "put another Roosevelt in the White House." It would indeed be "another" Roosevelt. Can anybody imagine THE Roosevelt making a pussy-footing campaign, trying to sneak into office by concealing his convictions, trying to get everybody's vote by offending nobody, seeking to win an election by capitalizing his country's distress?

—

Palestine is getting modern too. Immigration requirements are being tightened so that tourists will not be allowed to remain permanently. Several travel agencies have placed Palestine on the black list on the ground that it has attracted many Jewish tourists on the promise that they would be permitted to remain.

LITTLE JOURNEY

(Continued From Page One)

his mother's pride while he was in high school. The erstwhile yell leader was one of good old alma mater's best tackles, we're told. From the "loose leaf", or the "Orange and Black", or the "Huntsvillian", maybe, we read that Malvern (how cute) is a good tackle. When it comes to blocking, he is at home." He still does a certain amount of blocking in the class room—if you get what we mean.

—0—

Old Dame Rumor stepped in the other day and gave us some dirt on Herr Crothers of the History department. You know, Doctor Rodgers is moving this week, and from what we hear, it's because of unrest in the underworld. He can't stand to hear Professor Crothers read his wife to sleep every night. Our comment is simply this. . . any way to get her to sleep, professor. Now remember, that was Dame Rumor, not Doctor Rodgers, that told us that, even though the two two of them do have the same initials.

—0—

A little old letter came making its way under our door the other day, and we still seek to find the significance of it. It wasn't on business at all. . . for it had to do with the conduct of one of the library assistants, and although the observer had no idea as to the identity of that person, he did feel himself getting crimson around the neck. The criticism was well taken and the letter enjoyed immensely until the bottom of the page was reached, at which place we found that the letter failed to carry the writer's name. In view of the last fact, we might suggest that the freshman girl write her notes on yellow paper hereafter.

—0—

We have just a little space down here in which we'd like to mention Quigley, the freshman. Quigley is a special student, and apparently for that reason, he thinks he's up in the world. It's just a matter of the youngster misinterpreting the colloquial meaning of the word "special". He seems to go around thinking all the time, walking slowly, holding up his chin, and all that sort of thing. . . . but he's not foolin' us.

played by Margaret Mozingo.

The first families of the country are represented by the wealthy Mrs. Welch, alias Ellen Hitch, who orders everyone to and from her, including Mr. Smith, played by Arthur Courtenay, who in the end becomes reconciled to her for reasons which seem obvious.

Roberta Robison, in the role of Annie, carries the serious tone of the play, being beset with a problem of import and significance.

The conductor and porter roles more or less necessary in scenes on trains, are played by Andrew Newcomer and Reeder Carson. Helen Thompson, Ruth Boyd, Herman Magee, Yankee Lewis, William Hannah, and Boyce Mahan complete the supporting cast of the play.

MINISTERIAL CLUB

At the regular meeting of the Ministerial Association last Wednesday evening, Professor, Davis was the speaker, and Al Duff led devotions.

Professor Davis spoke on the Value of Greek to the Minister. He explained that a student, knowing the greek of the new testament is enabled to get closer to, and to understand Christ, to understand his teachings. It makes possible a closer knowledge and acquaintance with the men, and the times of the new testament; also it gives a more vivid background for the understanding of the New Testament. In closing his talk, Professor Davis explained several of the seminary requirements in this connection.

—

Norman H. Davis, U. S. Representative undertook today to convince Prime Minister McDonald and Sir John Simon, Foreign Secretary, that the Hoover proposal for an all round one-third reduction in armament should be adopted. His principal mission in London is supposed to be to demonstrate that the adoption of the proposal would break the Franco-German deadlock at Geneva and would also assure the success of the general disarmament conference, which is now on the verge of collapse.

SYLVIA LENT

(Continued From Page One)

rope in 1922, while still in her teens. On her first appearance, which was in recital in Berlin, the Lokal Anzeiger said of her: "We rank her with those dedicated to the highest in art."

Recitals in Dresden, Leipzig, and Munich followed. Returning to New York, Miss Lent made her American debut at the Town Hall on March 5, 1923.

Since that time she has appeared as soloist with practically all the leading symphony orchestras. She has toured East and West in recital and concert, and has played at most of the important spring festivals.

"Of all the compositions of my repertory I think I love the Brahms Concerto best," says Miss Lent. "I played it with the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra. It was an exciting occasion—at the Sesquicentennial in the great auditorium there, with Frederick Stock conducting."

Miss Lent has been reared in the wholesome atmosphere of an American home, and she is not the tempermental specie of genius. Despite the fact that she has won an enviable place in music, and is hailed by critics as one of the few outstanding women violinists of our time, she is as unspoiled as the character she has been called by almost every imaginative critic from Dresden to New York. "The young fairy of the bow", wrote the Saechsische Zeitung critic; "A delicate pastel", says the Leipzig Zeitung, of her naive manner and simple charm.

Miss Lent is now in her ninth season before the public. In this short time she has already justified the remark of the Washington Post which is the culmination of all the American and European press comments: "This artist has a great claim to the title of being the best woman violinist in America."

When You Buy
Try
The "Y" Stores
For Candy
Ice Cream
And Personal
Necessities

MANAGERS
Ruth Farlee Jesse Willis

PROGRAM
Palace Theatre
WEEK OF OCT. 24TH

MONDAY-TUESDAY
Barbara Stanwyck
In
"SHOP WORN"
Also Comedy and News

WEDNESDAY
"I Like Your Nerve"
Also Comedy and News

THURSDAY-FRIDAY
John Gilbert
In
"DOWN STAIRS"
Also Comedy and News

NO MORE RUNS!

when you wear
KAYSER
"SANSRUN"
HOSIERY
$1.35

This wonderful new hose by Kayser positively guarantees an end to expensive hosiery runs. "Sansrun" cannot run—its very construction makes it impossible for a run to start. Mistily sheer, yet, since it cannot run, it's as durable as service weight.

Say good-bye to hosiery runs forever! Try "Sansrun" now.

A GUARANTEE WITH EVERY PAIR

Proffitt's

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

F. A. RUSSELL
Cleaning and Pressing
Watch for our Specials Representatives in each Hall

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, OCTOBER 29, 1932 | NUMBER SEVEN

"Is Progress Real" Is Interesting Subject Of Noted Philosopher

Maryville Teachers And Students Journey From Home To Hear Will Durant

To an audience of three thousand people gathered in the University of Tennessee's new Memorial Auditorium Thursday night, Dr. Will Durant, foremost American philosopher propounded the question "Is Progress Real?"

Through the unrelieved gloom and pessimism of the ancient and the middle ages Dr. Durant led his listeners to the beginnings of the theory of progress in the seventeenth century. In answer to our mechanical inventions and material gain the brilliant ancient minds from Aristotle to Lucretius would have responded "That is change but not progress".

But with Turgot and Condorcet the fact of the progress of the human spirit began to assume possibility. The nineteenth century, with its flood of invention and intellect, took as its axiom of progress the notions of these pioneers.

The twentieth century, with its overpowering pessimism, is the result of our disillusionment from that dream of two centuries ago. Our political and industrial debauches are the direct result of the World War, which was brought on by our gigantic mechanism. The untempered gloom that reigns in O'Neil, Drisier, Lewis, and Menken is typical of the contemporary pessimism, caused by a decay in faith and a doubt in history.

From this forboding scene of the past and the present, Dr. Durant emerged to build up a mighty picture of the actual civilization of mankind, answering the problem of the modern extremes by suggesting that the author of The American Mercury marry Pollyanna that one truth might derive from two half-truths.

In his constructive picture of man's progress, the "history of man which historians never wrote", Durant listed ten steps: the use of speech, the discovery of fire and light, the conquest of the animal kingdom, the coming of a social organization, the rise of morality, the acquisition of tools, the beginning of science, the art of writing, and the growth of education.

Education, according to Dr. Durant's defition, is "the transmitting as completely as possible to as many as possible the intellectual, moral, and artistic heritage of mankind." And progress, said the author, is "the increasing ability of men and women to do great things."

"The youth of this generation will see great things," he concluded. "It is our task to make straight their way."

You can lead men to congress, but you can't make them think.

COLLEGE PLAYERS GIFT

As gifts from the College Players the Expression Department has received a huge, improved spotlight and new hangings for the stage. The spotlight is to be used for the first time in the presentation of "Mary Rose" the first production of the College Players for this year.

These gifts are in keeping with the usual custom of the College Players of presenting to the Expression Department something that will improve, in some way, the production of plays.

Mrs. Stevenson Suffers Severe Injury Thursday

On her way to a quilitng display held at the home of David Proffitt, on Thursday afternoon, Mrs. Stevenson was caught and dragged for several feet by an automobile. She suffered a broken leg and other injuries. A doctor's examination and X-ray revealed that the bone between the knee and ankle was broken but it was thought not necessary to place it in a cast.

Not long ago Mrs. Stevenson suffered severe injuries of the hip, and it has been only recently that she has been able to walk again.

List Of Last Year's Winners Of Prizes And Awards Is Compiled

Prizes Were Dealt Out At Last Chapel Meeting Of School Year

On the last Saturday of the school year the chapel service is devoted to giving out a number of prizes and awards that have been won during the school year.

A list of the awards, with last year's winners, and the requirements for winning are listed below.

THE T. T. ALEXANDER PRIZE—A prize of one hundred dollars in gold is contributed annually by a generous friend of the College, who desires to remain anonymous, and to have the prize named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries. This is awarded to the winner of an oratorical contest conducted under the supervision of the department of Bible and Religious Education.

Winner: Wesley Culver—$100 in gold.

THE RUSH STRONG MEDAL—Under the provisions of the will of Mr. Benjamin Rush Strong, of Knoxville, a gold medal, valued at "not less than fifteen, nor more than twetny-five dollars", and known as the Rush Strong Medal, is annually granted to the member of the Freshman class "who shall compose the best essay upon the subject, The Value of Truth. Winner: John Robert Hollway.

(Continued On Page Four)

Valuable Books Are Placed In Student Volunteer Library

Corner of College Library Devoted to Missionary Leaders

The Student Volunteer Library now occupies the northeastern corner of the college library. Two tables at right angles to each other complete a square, the other two sides of which are formed by the wall and the three-sectioned book and show-case.

Books of wide diversity are to be found on the tables and shelves of this library. There are mission-study books on various countries, books about missions in general, and books about movements of world significance.

One book of interest to all students is "The Clash of World Forces" by Basil Mathews. The chapters of this book are a series of lectures delivered first at Drew University and later at the Boston Institute of Technology. Other alert, world-minded students will eagerly follow Mr. Mathew's guidance as he seeks to interpret some of the essential elements of the clash of such world forces as Nationalism, Bolshevism, and Christianity.

"The Bantu Are Coming", is a study of the development of the civilization of South Africa. It is written by Ray Phillips, who is probably better qualified than any other living man to write on the relations of the races in South Africa.

The history of the Student Volunteer Movement is cursorily sketched in a pamphlet by Gordon Poteat. Other pamphlets in the library are "A Philosophy of Life That Works", by Walter Judd, M. D.; "What Can I Believe About Christian Missions?", by Kenneth Scott Latourette; and "Schweitzer of the African Forest", by Hubert W. Peet.

Any student who wishes to do so is invited to read in the Student Volunteer Library at any time, but it is requested that none of the books be taken away.

First "As You Like It" Program Will Be Held Next Saturday Night

Recreational Commitee Plans Diversified Program To Serve During Year

On Saturday, November 5th, the Student Council will sponsor the first of the "As You Like It" programs.

Andrew Newcomer, who is in charge of the programs, has announced that, although the first one will be similar to those of last year, subsequent programs will be very much different. More detailed announcements concerning the programs will be made later.

Mr. Newcomer has been in touch with several agencies trying to secure new ideas in order to make the "As You Like It" evenings more of a success, and he feels confident that, with the cooperation of the student body, future programs will meet all expectations.

JUNIOR CLASS

The junior class held a meeting last Wenesday morning after chapel and decided to include a theatre party in their previous arrangements for a Hallowe'en frolic. It was further decided that any member of the class who has not paid at least half of his dues will not be allowed to attend.

Manager Kipp of the Chilhowean gave a short talk, urging the members of the class to realize more fully the responsibility incurred in the publication of an annual. President Rankin announced that the note, carried over from last year, has been paid in full.

Ellen Hitch read "A Special on Roses" at the Kiwanis Club for their regular meeting last Wednesday. Kay Carpenter sang for the club.

Maryville Professors And Students Attend Educational Meetings

Dr. Hunter Represents College In Absence of President

A large number of Maryville teachers attended the convention of the East Tennessee Educational Association held at Knoxville on Thursday, Friday and Saturday. Almost all the faculty and a few students went to the evening sessions. Dr. E. R. Hunter represented Maryville College in the absence of Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd.

The important questions before the convention were: Education's Share in the Cost of Government; The Salary Schedule and Professionalization of Teachers; and Sources of Revenue to meet the Needs of Education. A period for open discussion was given after each lecture.

Thirty-seven speakers from various colleges and univesities throughout the country were present. Will Durant, author and lecturer on philosophy spoke Thursday night on the subject, "Is Progress Real?" A lecture on the narcotic evil was given Friday night by Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, an authority on Sociology. He has served as Secretary General of the World Conference on Narcotic Education which met in New York City.

On Friday morning Dr. E. W. Butterfield, State Commissioner of Education from Hartford, Connecticut, and Commissioner P. L. Harned, of the State Department of Education in Tennessee, spoke to the convention.

An opportunity was given the teachers to observe classes in the first, second, and third grades in Knoxville. This was a new feature introduced into the usual program of the association.

The music for the convention was furnished by the Knoxville High School orchestra and the elementary school chorus.

Date Of Annual Fall Festival Of Music Will Be November 4

Miss Garnet Manges Will Play Rubenstein's Concerto In D Minor

The Fall Festival of Music will be presented in Voorhees Chapel on Monday, November 7, instead of on November 4, as was announced in the Echo for last week.

The program in detail is not yet ready for printing, but Miss Hale promises a very much varied and delightful concert. Among the numbers will be the powerful concerto in D Minor, by Rubenstein. This composition represents the acme of achievement for that versatile composer, being perhaps the heaviest thing which ever came from his pen. The solo part will be played by Miss Garnet Manges, graduate student in piano, and the orchestral part will be played on the second piano by Miss Susan Howard. Miss Manges will be remembered from previous concerts as a clear interpreter and a powerful performer. Her rendition of this number will be awaited with much enthusiasm. She will also play a group of lighter compositions by way of lending variety to the program. Among these will be the delightful "Cat and Mouse", which, with its ultra-modern tone will be in direct contrast to the concerto.

The program in full will be printed in the next issue of the Echo.

ALABAMA CLUB

The Alabama Club held its first meeting Thursday evening, October 27, for the purpose of electing officers for the coming year. Those elected were:

President—George Hoglan
Vice President—Malvern Clopton
Secretary and Treasurer—Nell Patillo
Editor—Dot Patillo

CHANGE IN LYCEUM

The Don Cossacks will not appear on the Maryville College lyceum program as scheduled because the group cannot arrange an itinerary for the south. This statement comes from the Lyceum committee.

In their place, says the report, Jose Iturbi, world recognized Spanish pianist, will appear here sometime during the middle of March.

Kathryn Meisle, well-known contralto, will also appear here as part of the replacement program, sometime in April.

Ministerial Club Will Conduct Prayer Meeting

It was announced at the weekly meeting of the Ministerial Association that the prayer meeting at the New Providence Presbyterian church this Wednesday night, will be conducted by members of the club. The meeting will be at the regular prayer service time, and it will take the place of the scheduled meeting on the Hill.

At the last meeting of the Association, George Howell, was elected as vice president program secretary to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Frank R. Neff, Jr.

Sophomores, Juniors, And Freshmen Have Hallowe'en Parties

Seniors Show Superiority By Choosing Best Frolic For Evening Entertainment

Hallowe'en will be celebrated by the students of Maryville on Monday night with three class parties and the usual Senior priviliege of attending any one of the three. The Freshmen will remain on the Hill and the Sophomore and Junior classes will be permitted to invade the underworld of the city.

The Juniors expect to be entertained at the local theatre early in the evening and later to be directed to the basement of the Southern Methodist Church where a peppy, clever, and varied program has been planned for them. Dr. and Mrs. Shine and Prof. and Mrs. Queener will accompany the Junior adventurers.

The Sophomores have been permitted to brave the dangers of the metropolis and will be entertained and refreshed in the basement of the Baptist Church while the Juniors enjoy the antics of Jackie Cooper. They will later find their various ways to the same Jackie Cooper with Miss Hunter and Miss Hudson.

'Mid shock and shell (corn shocks and pumpkin shells) the Freshmen will enjoy their first college Hallowe'en in the gym. Their program will consist of readings, dances, acquaintance games, and musical contributions. Miss Carroll and Prof. and Mrs. Smith will see that the Freshmen return home promptly.

Try-outs Completed For Alpha Sigma's Midwinter, "The Bat"

Mystery Thriller Should Make High Bid For Cup

Try-outs for the dramatic version of Mary Roberts Rhinehart and Avery Hopwood's novel "The Bat", were completed this week and practice has begun on the production. "The Bat", which will be given in Voorhees Chapel on December 14, is Alpha Sigma's midwinter offering.

Of all the mystery plays which have been produced on the American Stage, "The Bat" has proved to be the parent of them all. Incident is piled on incident with skill and plausibility and it is impossible to know who the real criminal is until the final curtain.

The play is to be interpreted by a cast composed of some of Maryville's oldest stage veterans with the support of several novices at the art of acting.

Cornelia van Gorder, like all women with similar suffixes, is a tall, aristocratic, poised, and withal unmarried gentlewoman, with hair parted in the middle and drawn over both ears. Cornelia will live, move, and have her being in the person of Frances Massey, who makes her stage debut in that role.

Lizzie, Cornelia's maid, is not like all maids, for she manages to be original, entertaining, and helpful in spite of her role. This humorous chracter is to be interpreted by Mary Katherine Mize, a Maryville stage veteran.

The romance of the drama is carried by a blond and a brunette, Louise Reichelderfer, as Dale Ogden; and Calvin Schmidt, as Jim Bailey, alias Brooks. Both blond and brunette make their first appearances before a Maryville audience.

Japanese servants, with their suspicious gait and shifting gaze are almost indispensable in mystery stories, and in this play the Jap's name is Billy, played by Robert Beyer, a new man on the stage.

The character of Anderson, a detective, is taken by Don Briggs of the black hair and sinister eye. This is just one more appearance of Alpha Sigma's prize actor. The part of Richard Fleming is played by a man whom the try-outs revealed, Thomas Jemison. Beresford is taken by Stuart Fisher, still another novice. John Tope, will be in his initial appearance in the role of the mysterious "unknown".

"The Bat" is being coached by Mrs. West; the stage is in charge of Ernest Lowe; and the busness is handled by Daniel Hicks.

JOINT MEETING

Tomorrow afternoon the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. will hold a joint meeting in the chapel. Mrs. Biddle, who broadcasts daily in a religious program over WNOX in Knoxville, will be the guest speaker. Her subject will be "The In-dwelling Christ".

OBSERVATIONS

Durn it . . . we didn't mind particularly about getting let down on this mountain hike—we couldn't afford it if there was one—but we would like to see what this country around us looks like at a close up. Can't someone suggest something . . . . or are we going to let all this good scenery go to the woofs-woofs?

—o—

Little old J. Arthur Lazell broke up one of our regular occurring parties one of those nights by reprimanding us highly for the use of his name in our classic paper. Humpf! We were told right smart that if we use the name of J. Arthur Lazell, we'll use it as J. Arthur Lazell, and as that only. Whoops for N. Y. U. Regarding the propriety of saying "Lazell" without the accompaniment, we might say that it's been the custom of dear old Maryville to accept such names in the past. Of course, it's a matter of our continuing in our ways or having a complete reformation, and we can't do that for it might incur the loss of our job. . . . what then?

—o—

As one sits in one's home with the lamp in the window, while the student body goes down the street in one of these snake dances, one wonders about "whether or not", instead of "how much", our civilization is developing. But kids will be kids, we venture to say, and if it weren't for a few stiff joints in our frame we might be right thar with bells on. .

—o—

We wonder how many people will vote for Roosevelt in this coming election and think he's none other than an offspring of the "Teddy" himself. We'd venture to say that even college professors would do such a rash thing . . . basing that on what others do and have done. We haven't told the frosh about Dr. Hunter's car theft. . . . but stories get better as they ripen with age. We've started charging for that one, last year being its last free publication

—o—

A person is very much reminded of the good old "Huckleberry Finn" days when he sees the little red headed sociologist, Benjamin Peter

(Continued on page four)

MAIL FROM HOME

Fighting together against death in the trenches made men brothers. So does waiting in the rain for the last trolley car or bus at half past two in the morning. Here at Maryville nothing draws men together better than the common quest for Mail from Home. Blood rises high when that mail clerk fails to arrive on time with the missives. What keeps him any way? Not sorting my mail or the roommate's, it's sure, for we never get more than two or three pieces a day.

Whether he's been away from Home for four weeks or four years, a fellow looks for mail. Some students want to hear from the family, others long for some dirt from the pal, but most of them ache for a letter from the girl back home.

What is it that makes an otherwise strong minded, healthy fellow almost break down and weep when everybody but him gets mail? What causes that straining at the heart strings when some unconscionable souls read his letters at the table for half the dinner hour? And oh, the extra wrench when the reader lets out a loud gaffaw or maybe just tenderly smiles. There ain't no justice.

It has a strange, almost unearthly power upon one, this mail from home. Just like an encouraging glance from a pretty girl, it changes him into another creature. It makes the socialable abrupt, the courteous becomes churlish, and the gentleman is changed to a boor. He'll ignore his campus friends, overlook a gorgeous sunset, and even forego a meal for the privilege of curling into his shell and reading his mail.

Then there's packages, and packages. The slip comes under the door. First thoughts are of somethingg to eat. But then, maybe, it's just last week's wash come back, or perhaps that heavy underwear that was forgotten. Thus with mingled feelings we hike across to the post office and collect the package—it's just a catalogue from Sears and Roebuck. What disappointments do meet us in the Vale of Tears.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

GERALDINE SMITH - - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
KAY CARPENTER - - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, October 29, 1932

IS NIETZSCHE RIGHT?

Friedrich Nietzsche in his book, "The Antichrist", claims that one of the biggest drawbacks, of the believers, and leaders, in Christianity is the antagonism of Christians. He claims, using as his example, the "superman" philosophy, that Christianity is a weakener, a stultifier, and exists only for those who are not brave enough to advance alone.

A Christian naturally opposes this argument and tries to form something to combat it with. It may be opposed, in fact it must be, for a person to stand for the ways of Christ, but Nietzsche's arguments are worth weighing from a Christian viewpoint.

Our principal contacts with the representatives are with the ministers of the day, and our more direct contact exists with the ministers-to-be, who are now in training on the hill. It seems that the ministers on the hill are considered as being somewhat apart from the other students. This is due to two things, the first of which is the result of people's tendencies to run down a person who attempts to teach the right. The second is the fact that preacher's, individually, often consider themselves more nearly right in the sight of the Lord than their fellows. So long as ministers fail to consider other people's viewpoints, they are showing their antagonism, and in that way exemplify a principle, that is, as Nietzsche says, "anti-christ'.

In regard to the second of Nietzsches suggestions, it seems wise for the church to demand the most in individual faith and personality that there is to be had. We are taught that the greatest thing in the universe is personality, and this is based on the personality of Christ. The profession that one should deliberate over most before entering is that of the Christian ministry. It should claim the strong in spirit. It should claim leaders, so that as it goes on it can not be called, by even the most rabid philosopher, a religion led by the weak.

IS SMITH A REPUBLICAN?

One person recently said that during the lull time of the democratic campaign, when Alfred E. Smith began his campaign tactics, that every time the former New York Governor spoke, the democrats gained several hundred thousand votes. The fact that Smith, who, seemingly had been willing to run again for the presidency, should lend his aid to the democratic candidate after the national convention means added power to the democrats.

However, things have developed since that time, and these things haven't been particularly beneficial to the democratic party. Al Smith, remaining up to form, gave a speech recently that won Senator Borah decisively to the side of the republicans. Mr. Smith lived up to his reputation of being a man who says very much more than his thought can justify.

There is such a thing as having a man for aid, who, in the last analysis, proves to be more a hindrance than a help. Senator Borah says that Mr. Smith's most recent talk will win at least one million votes to the republican party. This is so, simply because Mr. Smith underestimated his American public. In his speech he insisted that a person who did not believe in beer for America, is not fit for the democratic party.

There is such a thing as political strategy, and if this will ever be emphasized, it is during the time before our present election. The two major parties are fighting it out now on purely strategical issues and plans. With almost identical platforms, and with interspersed arguments that can't be interpreted definitely, it indicates that the one being the most clever in "fooling the people" will win. With this in mind, it seems well to recall the fact that Al Smith failed miserably to fool anybody in 1928.

Teaching Professions Claims Large Number Of College Graduates

Yale University Claims Brilliant Graduate of Maryville

A large majority of the graduates of Maryville College have gone in to the teaching profession. Besides the alumni of our own faculty there are many other alumni teaching in colleges.

A Maryville man who has achieved a position of high responsibility in the educational field is Dr. Luther Bewley, L. L. D., Director of Education for the Philippine Islands. Dr. Bewley is a brother of Miss Irene Bewley, the well-known reader.

The only Maryville alumnus who is a professor in one of our large graduate schools is Dr. Mark A. May '11, of the Yale Graduate School at New Haven. One of his recent books, based on his research studies, "Character Training in Education", has attracted much attention among psychologists.

Dr. H. J. Bassett, '04, a brother of Miss Almira Bassett, is head of the Latin Department of Southwestern at Memphis, Tennessee. He has made a number of trips abroad in research work.

Dr. Chas. W. Henry, '01, is the president of King College, Bristol, Dr. Henry was for a number of years president of the Maryville Polytechnic School, and afterwards was associate president of Sullins College until he was called to King.

Dr. Geo. R. Shelton '11 is professor of Chemistry in Ohio State University.

Prof. Joseph S. Caldwell '02, is an authority on plant life. He has

(Continued on page four)

Book Browsing

Hocking, Joseph, Lest We Forget, Chicago, Advance Publishing Company, 1901, 415pp.

"A romance of a fateful period." These half-dozen words afford an eloquent description of the greatest novel ever written by Joseph Hocking. Anyone who has read "Lest We Forget" can claim with good reason that he has been addressed by Old England.

The reader is impressed at the very outset by the apparent frankness of the author when he seems to convey the impression that the writing of this work was only to satisfy the desires of an old friend. Hocking takes his followers into his confidence to tell them that the result of his undertaking is a just measuring stick of his ability and it is only when we remember the three centuries intervening between the time represented by the narrative, and the time of its writing, that we realize that we are reading fiction.

This tale makes a mighty appeal to the reader who seeks entertainment and at the same time is not adverse to the absorption of historical data. A relatively wide sweep of the earth's is considered at a time when history was not made in the brief span of a few days. Political intrigue, diplomatic deception, and religious intolerance all play their part in bringing a vivid panorama of the lives led by the great and powerful statesmen of Europe.

The hero in "Lest We Forget", Richard Hamstead, was a typical young man of the sixteenth century but comparable in many ways to the ambitious youth of today as he goes out into the world to make his mark with the earnest hope of his relatives and friends as an incentive. In Hocking's hero we find the finest qualities of manhood displayed in such a manner that they make an indelible impression upon our memories.

In Stephen Gardiner we have a mighty portrayal of deception and intrigue working under the guise of religious zeal. True devotion to the Catholic religion is shown by the actions of Bishop Bonner who is, however, influenced by Gardiner to the extent that he becomes a fanatic. The author very cleverly chooses a Spaniard to be the suave, cruel villian in the plot.

Many minor characters are called upon by Hocking to play their little part in unfurling this powerful story of heresy and love. There is the witch who is consulted by the inquisitors in their search for heretics; the monk who was ever ready to help the suspects escape; the English guards who were capable of holding two gallons of beer; and finally, the heroine of the story who plays but a minor part.

Upon completion of this book, the reader, if he should have the opportunity of viewing the queen in a parade through the streets of London, would feel perfectly free in joining the English in shouts of "God save the queen."

WORLD TODAY

On Thursday, October 27, London was the scene of a violent demonstration of "Hunger Marchers", in which about 60,000 persons participated. The demonstration was a protest against a Government revision of the Dole. In a clash with police, several of the rioters were injured and their leaders taken. Red flags were displayed during the scene.

—MC—

An agreement has recently been made between England and Canada, in which Canada abolishes or lowers her protective tariffs on English Goods. The agreement will enable Great Britain to increase her trade with Canada at the expense of other countries.

—MC—

At the conclusion of Brazil's "bloodiest civil war in history", the nation begins to check up on its inflation of currency since hostilities began. Many Brazilian bankers do not believe that the inflation will affect commerce in any considerable degree.

—MC—

The mind of Joseph Stalin, Dictator of Russia, is said to be at ease since a number of conspirators against his reign have been expelled from the Communist party. The expelled conspirators instigated the most serious opposition that the Dictator has had for the past three years.

—MC—

Chancellar Franz von Papin declares that Germany cannot pay her private foreign debts so long as high tariff walls keep her from maintaining a surplus of exports over imports.

—MC—

Many Germans do not wish Hitler to be elected because they fear that he will prohibit sun-bathing and will forbid the building of flat-roofed structures whose roofs are extensively used for such bathing.

—MC—

"Norman Thomas has received 106,352 votes in the Literary Digest poll, or 5.3 percent of the total thus far counted. Calculations based on this figure indicate that he should receive in November nearly 2,500,000 votes, or two and one-half times as many as Debs rolled up in 1912".

—MC—

According to press reports, the American delegation at Geneva is opposing the French move for the abolition, or even the control of, private manufacture of arms, on the ground that such action would be unconstitutional.

—MC—

Japan regards President Hoover's proposal of a 30 percent naval reduction as "crude and unfair" and has formulated a plan of her own. The details of the Japanese plan are being kept very secret and even the main points are not fully known. The plan will be presented at Geneva next February.

Marriage is the only life sentence that is suspended by bad behavior.

Aspiring Journalists Receive Appointments To Serve On Staff

Seven Freshmen, Two Sophomores And One Junior Are Added To Echo Staff

The Committee on Student Publications met in Professor Davis' class room last Tuesday afternoon and selected seven freshmen apprentices, two spohomore cubs, and one junior associate editor, to the staff of the Highland Echo.

Of the sixteen freshmen apprentices who handed in trial work, Helen Rusk, Elizabeth Kunkel, Roberta Howie, Katherine Orr, G. F. Greiner, Alex Christie, and Bryan Payne were selected. The remaining five members of the staff will be chosen at a later date, their choice being determined on a careful estimate of their ability.

The two sophomore cubs to be chosen were Frank Thornhill, who has been a freshman apprentice, and Charles Gillander. These two men take the place of Robert Rule, and Alys Scroggy, last year's cubs who did not return.

Kay Carpenter was elected to the Junior Associate editorship to fill the vacancy made by the advancement of Richard Orr to the editorship.

The committee who selects these members is composed of four members from the student council, four faculty members, and the five staff editors of the paper.

Student Volunteer Delegates Represent School At Nashville

Four Student Volunteer delegates, who represent the oldest and strongest group in the Tennessee Student Volunteer Union, left Maryville Friday morning for Nashville, Tennessee, where they will attend the Autumn Council Retreat of the Tennessee Student Volunteer Union, held in Scarritt College. The delegates from Maryville are Dorothy Casseres, president; Elizabeth Gillis, corresponding secretary; Michael P. Testa, ex-secretary-treasurer; and Frank R. Neff, Jr.

The program of the Retreat will consist of campus Volunteer group conditions from all over the state; planning of the general work of next year; and selection of a location for the State Conference of the Tennessee Union which will be held early in 1933. A new state president will be elected to fill the unexpired term of the president who is resigning. A new "out-of-college" secretary for the state union will be selected to fill the vacancy left by the old secretary, who did not return to college.

The Maryville delegates will remain in Nashville today and tomorrow, returning to Maryville on Monday afternoon.

SUMMER

The sun sank behind Carnegie. The sparrows twittered in the vines at Anderson and Science. The hot August wind blew the high grass and ruffled the water in the lily pool.

From some place near the football field a turtle dove called and its mate answered. The whole campus was dark except the round yellow splotches where street lights shone.

The blank, black windows of Pearsons seemed to leer at the dark windows of Baldwin, and they in turn stared mournfully at the windows of Anderson and Memorial.

The town clock struck, breaking the peacefulness of the night. It was time for study period. . . . . but there were no students to study. It was summertime.

SPANISH CLUB

Tuesday night the Spanish Club elected its officers for 1932-33. The officers are:

President—Katherine Smith
Vice—President—Ralph Walker
Secretary—Treasurer—Mimi Beer
Program Secretaries—Dorothy Casseres, Michael Testa
Editor—Beatrice Thorson

The question is not where civilzation began, but when will it begin.

WRIGTH'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN TOPE, Representative

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	*†9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.
Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*†Direct connection to Townsend

LITTLE CHURCH

THE PERSONALITY OF CHRIST

Christianity is the only religion in the world which rests on the person of its founder. A man can be a faithful Mohammedan without in the least concerning himself with the person of Mohammed. In like manner a man may be a faithful Buddhist without knowing anything whatsoever about Buddha. Christianity, however is inextrieably bound up with Christ, and our view of the person of Christ involves and determines our view of Christianity. It is nothing less and can be nothing more than relationship to Christ.

For about 19 centuries attention has been concentrated on the person of Christ both by His friends and by His foes. The very extent of Christianity today is one of the strongest arguments in its favor. Carlyle said, "Had the doctrine of the divinity of Christ been lost, Christianity would have vanished like a dream". Lechy truly remarks that Christianity is not a system of morals, but the worship of a person.

Personality is the highest thing in life. To see the prominent things of Christ's personality should, therefore, help us to right thoughts about Him. One of His closest disciples summed up his own expression of Jesus Christ in the following words, "We beheld His glory—full of grace and truth." In the first we see His graciousness of soul, manner, attitude, speech, and action. This grace mellowed the sternness and severity of truth by itself into a perfect balance where there is no weakness or exaggeration of any kind. However, this perfect blending of grace and truth is not absolutely conclusive proof of anything more than exceptional manhood.

The real culmination of it all lies in the truly unique element of Christ in that He is seen to be entirely without sin. We have the witness of His foes, still more of His friends, and above all, there is the testimony of Christ's own life to attest this to be true. This is deeply significant when we clearly realize that Christianity is unique in its claim to deliver from sin, and this claim is based on the sinlessness of Christ.

As we see these things we must conclude that Jesus Christ cannot be ignored. He demands the attention of all true men. He is ready today to help and grant wisdom and light to all who seek Him. The more we think on this the more we cannot but see the wondrous privilege it is. Instead of letting it slip away from us, let us learn to know Christ more and more personally each day as we look to and obey Him in all our activities of life. Not until then can we know the deep and lasting joys of real living.

—Charles W. Muir.

An increasing number of wrecks on the matrimonial sea is no doubt the fault of the tied.

"Meet the new foundations!"

Now that they've taken the "give" out of garters and put it in girdles . . . stockings simply have to fit perfectly, or there's a peck of stocking-trouble waiting! That's one reason we're selling so many belle-sharmeer stockings, designed for the individual . . . for belle-sharmeer reach exactly where they should to properly meet the modern garters! In the very newest, smartest shades . . . in chiffons, service chiffons and service weights. 75c, $1 and $1.35 the pair.

brev . . . the stocking for shorties
modite . . . the stocking for "middlings" duchess . . . the stocking for tall types classic . . . the stocking for the more generously proportioned. $1 and $1.35 the pair

belle-sharmeer STOCKINGS designed for the individual

CHANDLER-SINGLETON CO.
DEPARTMENT STORE

SPORTS

Volunteers Trample Scotties 60-0 As Neyland Reserves Show Power And Speed

Boretsky, Stone, West, Show Real Fight Against Odds Unconquerable

Scoring touchdowns at will and demonstrating themselves to be complete masters of the situation at all times, the powerful Volunteers of the University of Tennessee rolled over Maryville last Saturday afternoon to aggregate 60 points while the Scots strove in vain to tally. Maryville rooters, less numerous this year than usual, who trekked to Knoxville to see the team generally conceded Southern champions, were disappointed somewhat, as the regulars were on the field a very short while, most of the game being played by the reserves.

The game opened in a whirl of Vol scores. Before the referee had made entirely sure he still had the penny the captains tossed, Robinson had taken the ball and slipped off his left end for 32 yards and a touchdown. Extra point was added. Before the game was five minutes old, two more counters were made, both coming on the heels of blocked punts in Highlander territory, and the score stood 19-0.

Maryville almost got going in the second period, but a 26-yard pass, Bayless to Vaughn, placed the ball on the Scot 24, from whence 'twas quickly toted over the line. The last score of the first half came as a result of a jaunt by Keever which took the ball half the distance of the field for a marker. The half ended at this point, 33-0.

The second half was merely a continuation of the parade. Although Maryville rallied several times and showed their teeth in preparation for a march down the field, the Vol reserves were always able to stem the tide and head for a touchdown or so on their own hook. In the fourth quarter, Neyland sent in his regular backs, with the exception of Feathers. But the first-stringers just couldn't do any harm. They wound up their touchdown drive with an incomplete pass over the goal line and retired to the seclusion of the showers, there to meditate and mourn their gridiron sins. The game ended a few seconds later with Maryville in possession of the ball in the middle of the field.

West and Boretsky showed up best on Maryville's team while Stone turned in his consistently good game at end. West put up one of his best scraps of the year agains the U. T. behemoths. More than once he tore through the line and around ends for substantial gains. The same thing goes for Stevie, and the two of them made a couple of nice laterals for gains. The old West-to-Atkins combination functioned for yardage a couple or so times also.

For Tennessee, Robinson shone, although the rest of the reserves crowded in right on his heels.

Lineups:

Tennessee (60)		Maryville
Pounders	L. E.	Atkins
Bailey	L. T.	Millsaps
Ellis	L. G.	Collins
Bibee	C.	Russell
Frank	R. G.	Atchison
Aitken	R. T.	Wilson
Shull	R. E.	Stone
Robinson	Q. B.	West
Feathers	L. H.	Boretsky
Petruzze	R. H.	Clarke
Middleton	F. B.	M. Gillespie

Score by periods:

Tennessee—19 14 21 6—60
Maryville— 0 0 0 0— 0

Substitutions: Tennessee—Vaughn, Hatley, Smith, Bayless, Stewart, Stafford, Claxton, McPherson, Goodrich, Krouse, Franklin, Mark, Keever, B. Smith, Austelle, Ottinger, Bounds, Leeman, Fooshee, Brackett, Wynn, Maples and Venable. Maryville—Payne Grantham, H. Gillespie, McArthur, Blazer, Gwynn, Kalman, Kizer, Tolliver, Holloway, Gamble, Long, Thomas, Stone, Pieper, Creed, Slawson, Keeton.

Scoring for touchdowns for Tennessee—Robinson, Shull 2, Vaughn 2, Keever 2, Middleton 2; extra points, Middleton 3 (by placement, Mark (by placement), Krouse 2 (by placement).

Officials: Wilson (Miami), referee; Richardson (Ohio Wesleyan), umpire; Press (Georgia Tech), head linesman; Harbison (Ohio), field judge.

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

Those few who were so hard up for time-killing devices as to read this column last week will note that the writer actually picked a winner in the Vandy-Georgia game, although our victory came through the downfall (the third consecutive) of the Bulldogs. In spite of the fact that never in the history of our gridiron experience have we picked a winner on two successive Saturdays, we rise to predict that the boys from down home will gain their first win of the season today against Florida, even taking into consideration Florida's intense love for upsetting the Georgia team.

—S—

We also predict that Georgia Tech will triumph over Vandy this afternoon. Of course we realize that all this mental calculation cannot possibly be right, and for that reason, we strongly wish that our dictates commanded us to select Vandy. Nevertheless, we choose Tech!

—S—

If the above two prognostications are fulfilled, our cup will indeed be overflowing. But we are about to attempt further prognosis which, if verified, will complete the inundation. As the dope expert which our last week's success proved us to be, we state that Cairo (Ga.) High School will defeat her traditional rivals, Camilla, by several touchdowns. Of course, we shan't be able to ascertain the victor for some weeks, due to the extreme distance and infrequency of mail trains. But when we do find out, we intend; to celebrate (providing our prophecy does not prove false).

—S—

Southern Conference officials are on a rampage to see who can disqualify the most players because of professional summer baseball. Two excellent gridders have already been disbarred, Nollie Felts of Tulane and Julian Foster of Vanderbilt. That's all very well. But if they wish really to get at the root of professionalism, they have no need of hunting up the fellows who play summer baseball. The very officials who are raising all the racket are fostering professionalism on the campus on a much larger scale than is practiced during the vacation. Practically every player under consideration, in one way or another, is tendering his athletic services to his university in exchange for the long (very long these days) green. It's just another case of "no matter how thin you slice it".

—S—

Marquette University is taking no chances of having their signals interpreted by opposing teams. Three different signal-barkers call the numerals in the varying tongues of Italian, Greek, and German. Talk about your inter-linking of athletics and academics! !

—S—

Perhaps the less we mention the affray at Knoxville last week, the longer we will live and prosper. But we cannot refrain from patting West and Boretsky on the back. Those boys went at the Tennessee line various and sundry times as if they meant to rip right through it. And that, gentle readers, is exactly what they did. Boretsky was breezing around the ends like anybody's business and West was standing back there passing as calmly as any calm thing we can possibly think of.

—S—

Milligan was defeated by Tennessee-Wesleyan last week, by the margin of a pair of touchdowns. On paper, then, the Scots figure six touchdowns better than the boys from Johnson City. But we don't make any statements regarding the score of the Maryville-Milligan game. The lads up there overturned the dope pail last year in a heart-rending 0-0 tie and are likely to give trouble in the set-to next Saturday.

College is just like a washing machine . . . you get out of it just what you put in, but you'd never recognize it.

Long Line Of Heroes Have Served College In Football Captaincy

Era Begins With Career of Bob Thrower And Ends With Captain Gillespie

Gameless week-ends, anniversaries, empty copy desks, and football captains all go to remind us that Captain Gillespie is serving in an anniversary capacity as the tenth captain of a Maryville grid squad since Coach Bob Thrower headed that all powerful team of 1923. A diligent member of the Echo staff compiled the list and gave it to the writer, who was so surprised at knowing most of the men he decided to pass the information along. Two of the leaders are unknown to us, however.

Nothing needs be said concerning Coach Bob. Even the most ill-informed freshman has heard by now how the great Texan used to do everything to opposing teams but spank 'em. But although everyone knows all about it, the wise-acres on the corner will yet rant for hours about the way Bob and his cohorts over-powered their foes.

In 1924, as well as in 1926, we know the captains only by name. In the former year, Captain Hamilton resigned, while in '26, one Mr. Cartright presided over the meetings. In '25, Joe Gamble, promising (so says his wife) young Maryville attorney and state legislator, led the Scots in their struggles for victory. And they dew tell that Joe was some mean back!

In 1927, the captain of the Highlanders was none other than John Stone, one of the best all-round athletes ever to attend the College and a leading contender for American League batting honors the past summer. While at Maryville, Stone was a mainstay on the football and baseball teams, playing a fighting center on the grid squad and swinging a powerful club on the diamond.

1928 saw J. D. Davis as quarterback and captain. Turning in A-1 performances in athletics while at Maryville, Davis made an enviable record as athletic director at Everett High School, being promoted last year to the high school at Hickory, North Carolina.

The next year, 1929, ushered in the captaincy of Lowell McDonald, another power in the Scot line. While under his protecting wing, the Scots had a leader whom to follow was a pleasure as well as a darned hard assignment.

Carl Storey, of Proffitt's-newly-wed-pep meeting fame, was the team's choice for their leader in '30. And a wise choice it was. With Storey at one guard and McDonald at the other, opposing quarterbacks seldom tried the middle of Maryville's line when they desired a gain. It wasn't exactly what might be called a strategic move.

The praises of last year's captain have been ringing since his debut at Maryville. And, although popular songs and close observation tell us that absence makes hearts grow fonder of others, we have a feeling that songs will continue to be sung for Les Calloway as long as there is one to know him. Nothing needs to be said of either his grid achievements or the place he holds in the affections of his collegiate friends here.

Finally, we have Captain Gillespie.

Eleanor Johnson Cops Girls Annual Fall Tennis Tournament

Miss Gillingham Shows Brilliant Fight In Finals

The girls' tennis tournament finally closed Thursday morning, with Eleanor Johnson reigning as the new queen of the courts. Her match with Mary Gillingham for the championship was started Tuesday, but had to be postponed at the stage when Johnson had won the first set 6-2, the second set, being tied at six up. Thursday, on resumption of play, it seemed that Gillingham was determined to carry off the second set, but Johnson's cool waiting game was too much, and the champ won in straight sets 6-2, 9-7.

According to the fall tournament, this leaves Johnson ranking No. 1 among the females, Gillingham No. 2, Cooper No. 3, with several of the court staresses tied for the remaining rankings.

Y. M. C. A. Adventurers Go To Gold Creek Falls For Annual Fall Hike

Men Will Return For Joint Meeting Sunday

A large number of college men met in front of Bartlett Hall at 1:30 p. m. this afternoon where they piled in trucks and began to wend their way to their "erstwhile home", Gold Creek Falls. The annual Y.M.C.A. mountain hike was probably better attended than it has been for a number of years, the men being enticed by the beauty of the Chilhowees, and being encouraged by the fact that Sunday School and Church cuts won't count against them.

The most important provision for the hike was in the form of plenty of blankets. Saturday night will be spent in the open air by most of the pioneers, those more tenderfooted youngsters resorting to the protion of a large barn. Much good rest is in anticipation after the fox and possum hunt which has been planned.

"Lucky is the girl", says a writer, "who marries a man with money to burn." She makes a good match.

We can think of plenty of adjectives to fit him: wiry, potent, efficient, dependable, determined, and on for paragraphs. But whats the use? You all go to the games too. Suffice it to say that, in his calm, but determined, backing of his mates, he is doing his bit in keeping harmony and pep in the gridders.

Whattamen! ! Put on one more tackle, like Overly or Carper, and we're about ready to nominate them for All-Time All-Maryville team. And why not? ? ? They're the cream of our grid crop.

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

Maryville Begins Making Preparations For Basketball Season With New Men In Ranks

Requirements Of Sigma Delta Psi Prove Hard For College Students

There is given below a list of the requirements for admission into the Sigma Delta Psi fraternity. No student on the hill has been able to make this fraternity, but Clifton Moore, senior this year, has but one mark to make before he can declare his eligibility. Moore is working on the swimming requirement. The requrements are:

1. 100 yard dash, 11 3-5 sec.
2. 120 yard low hurdles, 16 sec.
3. Mile run, 6 minutes.
4. Shot put, 30 feet for one weighing 160 pounds
5. Baseball throw, 250 feet or Javelin throw, 130 feet
6. Fence vault, Chin high
7. Hand stand, 10 sec.
8. Front flip, lighting on feet
9. Rope climb, 20 feet in 12 sec.
10. High jump, 5 feet
11. Broad jump, 17 feet
12. Football punt, 40 yards
13. 100 yard swim, 1 min. 45 sec.
14. Good posture, to be passed by committee.
15. Eligible for varsity competition

Substitutions: Not more than three varsity letters, or two varsity letters and an intramural championship. No substitution can be made for the swim.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club met Wednesday night in the Home Economics Club room and the following program was presented:

A Reading—"Husbands"—
Zula Trotter
A Play—"The Fatal Act"—Initiation Act by Baldwin Girls
Reading—"Friendship Village"—
Veta Mae Stephens
Initiation Stunt—by Pearsons' Girls
Play—"The Bride and Groom"—
Marjorie Jones, Helen Stuart

A conductor fears no one. . . he tells them all where to get off.

College Has Prospects For Fast Team, If Beginners Remain In Form

While old man enthusiasm seems to have most of his interest centered around the gridiron in these closing days of the autumnal season, Yankee Lewis and his gang of green basketeers have been attempting to learn some of the fine points of the hardwood game in preparation for one of Maryville's hardest, and most interesting basket seasons. Maryville's hard court team, which finished second to Milligan College in the Smoky Mountain Conference last season, after a thrilling 43-41 losing battle to the Buffalos, hopes to seek some sort of revenge, with their best possible material being a revamped and inspired cage five.

At the first official practice last Monday afternoon, from which all football men were excluded, thirty men appeared in their basket togs. The practice consisted largely of work on pivoting, defense practice, and passing practie. Twenty of the thirty apsirants for positions are freshmen who are showing plenty of class. Haub, elongated center from New Jersey, has been showing class at the pivotal position. Four all county men will soon be seen in the running. Maryville should have the makings of a future great team, inasmuch as only one of this year's aggregation is a senior. Captain Lewis, playing his fourth year, goes out with the class of '33.

Manager Moore states that the year's schedule is going to include some worthwhile games, the schedule being well nigh devoid of battles with independent teams. Three trips have been written for, the most promising one of which will take the boys to Cumberland University, Middle Tennessee Teachers at Murfreesboro, T. P. I., and possibly Vanderbilt University. This trip is pending. Anoher trip may be taken north into Kentucky, the boys playing Tusculum, Milligan, Union College, and anyone else who might have the nerve to cross their path.

BYRNE DRUG CO.
ONE CENT SALE
Thursday, Friday and Saturday
SPEND A PENNY
AND SAVE MONEY

U. S. RUBBER CO.
TRENCH COATS

Full made; ventless back; double breasted model; genuine leather buttons.
Sizes 36 to 44
$2.95
A raincoat that will serve as a topcoat.
Does the pool opening call for a new
BATHING SUIT?
You will find them here reasonably priced. For men or women.
WALKER'S

CITY SHOE REBUILDERS
EXCELLENT SHOE REPAIRING
Agents: Elizabeth Smith, Memorial; Kinser Bros., 303 Carnegie

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

KODAK FINISHING
... FOR ...
Best Results and Permanent Prints
BRING YOUR FILMS TO
THE WEBB STUDIO
220 COLLEGE STREET

REPUBLICANISM

HOW ABOUT ROOSEVELT'S FORGOTTEN MAN

Throughout the campaign Governor Roosevelt has been expounding about, and making a mock-heroic fight for, something that does not exist. In other words, his lamentations over the failure of the Republican party to provide for the "forgotten man" and his innumerable promises to aid this "forgotten man" who does not exist, are NOT based upon facts. In a recent speech the Democratic nominee lauded Al Smith as a great fighter for the "forgotten man". Al Smith in an editorial said that there is no such thing as the forgotten man. Roosevelt must have been talking about two other men.

The Democrats charge that the R.F.C.—which was inaugurated by President Hoover himself and for which no one else can claim any credit—not even the Democratic leaders themselves—helps only the wealthy people, and does nothing for that fantastic figure, the "forgotten man", created by Roosevelt. One of the banks in Maryville has been aided by the R.F.C., a bank in Knoxville received large loans from the same source, banks in adjoining counties are receiving aid, and in a few days Blount County will receive $25,000 from the R. F. C. And only a few days ago one of the leading Democrats at Maryville College said the R. F. C. had done nothing for this section of the country! Is it any wonder that Al Smith called Roosevelt a demagogue, "an insincere politician or popular orator or leader who stirs up popular prejudice to gain office or influence?"

Clinton W. Gilbert, the non-partisan political analyst, has been in New York and this is his estimate of the situation there:

"A visit to New York City reveals a degree of opposition to Governor Roosevelt there and in the suburban region around New York of which the only parallel is to be found in the opposition to Bryan in 1896. Every person I met told me the same thing, that he had intneded to vote the Democratic ticket this year but that now he couldn't. It was as if NO SENSIBLE PERSON COULD THINK OF INTRUSTING THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE WITH AUTHORITY TO ADMINISTER THE NATION'S AFFAIRS".

A few days ago J. Arthur Lazell, the Socialist chairman, received "orders" from home to vote for Hoover. We're glad to learn that Mr. Lazell's parents are people of great intelligence. And have you seen Mr. Newcomer, another leading Socialist, driving around in his car with a Hoover sign on his windshield?

The Democrats claim the Republicans are not economical. Hoover cut his own salary $15,000, and had Curtis and the cabinet members cut their salaries.

During the first week that Garner served as Speaker of the House he smashed three new gavels pounding for order. Is this the kind of economy the Democrats will give us?

DID YOU KNOW—

That in 1922 an advertisement appeared in a San Francisco paper offering shares in "United European Investors, Ltd., Franklin D. Roosevelt, President." This appeal to the American public to buy shares was published just five months before the German financial collapse when hundreds of thousands of trusting Americans lost their shares. And still Roosevelt claims to be fighting big business.

Any one who can have confidence in Roosevelt's leadership would become overheated wearing Gandi's sack-cloth on a rumble-seat ride across the Artic.

The election of Roosevelt would bring to political power the most sinister figure in American public life—William Randolph Hearst. And here's what appeared in Hearst's Examiner before the nomination of Roosevelt: "They—the Democratic leaders—believe the nomination of Roosevelt would make certain the re-election of Hoover. OF THE TWO MEN THEY ACCORD HOOVER MORE CREDIT FOR FIRMNESS OF CHARACTER, SINCERITY OF CONVICTION, HONESTY OF POLITICAL PRINCIPLES, AND SUPERIOR ADMINISTRATIVE EFFICIENCY".

Eleven students of a certain University have been suspended for driving automobiles around the campus. In the good old days they used to ride through college on a pony.

SOCIALISM

PROTEST VOTE PARTY PLATFORMS

Many people will vote this year for Norman Thomas not because they are members of the Socialist Party, but because they are justifiably dissatisfied with the platforms and policies of the two branches of the major political party. They are therefore using their votes where they will be most effective in demonstrating to the bosses who have so long been in command that America is waking up to the need of substituting good government for poor, for abandoning antiquated methods and policies.

The protest voter knows that it is equally futile to expect such a change under tweedle-dum Hoover or tweedle-dee Roosevelt. He is voting for the party which has always championed progressive measures until they became popular enough for the Democrats or the Republicans to dare espouse them. He is voting for the party which is pioneering in political thought. "Time makes ancient good uncouth." It also makes ancient uncouth good.

Supposing—not admitting— for the sake of argument that "a vote for the third party amounts to a vote against Roosevelt and in favor of Hoover", it is entirely possible that the voter does not wish to fly from the evils he knows to those he knows not of.

Marcus Duffield, a political observer, writing in the current Forum, says that it will be a pleasure to record a preference for courage over craveness, brains over ballyhoo, and honesty over hokum. He adds that he still calls himself a conservative. If conservatism means preserving to the race the best of thought, intitutions, and natural resources, Mr. Duffield is a conservative.

Many thinking people express the opinion that the platforms of both the Republican and the Democratic parties are conspicuously rickety. They are audibly silent on major problems, or expressively ambiguous. They are "making no mistakes" by not saying anything they'll have to take back. A comparison of the planks on the tariff gives adequate proof of their contentions. Only the Socialists have gone to the root of the matter and proposed the ultimate solution, international economic organizations to deal with tariffs, raw materials, and an international standard of living.

The Democrats are franker than the Republicans on the Prohibition issue, but even they do not provide for legislation by Congress for social control and protection.

On other social questions, however, the party of Mr. Roosevelt is neither so definite nor adequate. Nothing is said, of course, about civil liberties. That would further divide the once-solid South. There is no pronouncement on child labor, workmen's compensation, minimum wage, health and maternity insurance, of free public employment agencies. The Republican platform merely endorses the principle of high wages, approves collective bargaining, commends the work of the Federal Employment Service, and along with the others favors a shorter working day. Only the Socialists declare for an immediate appropriation to supplement state funds for the relief of unemploymetn by furnishing employment.

The Republican party advocates prompt and drastic curtailment of expenditures, but also favors maintenance of the parity of the U. S. Navy with any other. Socialists, on the other hand, favor steady increased inheritance and income taxes to take care of government expenses, advocate measures leading eventually to total disrmament, and declare for a definitely pacific foreign policy.

One thing is certain: Thomas will poll an unprecedented popular vote for the Socialist Party, but will not be elected. The administration of the government during the next four years by either branch of the major party will be the most convincing argument for a Socialistic government conceivable.

TRIANGLE CLUB

A program of music was presented to the Triangle Club Thursday nigth. Clark Latham played the violin, Steve Boretsky the banjo, and Ruth Flint the trumpet.

DEMOCRACY

In last week's column the Republicans asked, "What do the people want?" In this week's colmun, we shall tell them what the people want, and why!

When Franklin D. Roosevelt began his campaign back in July, he said he was opposed to "mud slinging". All sensible thinking people are. Thus far the democrats have done no mud slinging. Mr. Hoover came out against mud slinging too, but when he saw Roosevelt taking his job away, he had to change his tactics.

In last week's Republican column, the name Hoover was not mentioned once! It was all about Roosevelt. Are the Republicans ashamed of Hoover? Why don't they tell us something about him?

According to the most recent tabulation of the Literary Digest Polls, Roosevelt has 1,647,237 votes to Hoover's 1,095,274. Roosevelt has an electoral vote of 474 while Hoover has 57. Hoover will be the worst defeated candidate of a major party in the History of America. The same unrest that drove Texas, North Carolina, Florida, Virginia, and Tennessee into the Republican camp in 1928 will drive Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Pensylvania, and California into the Democratic camp this year.

The Democratic platform and the Democratic candidate have put the Democratic party in the bright light of intelligent understanding on the part of intelligent, thinking people in all parts of the United States, and it leaves the Republican party where it has always been: the party of deceit, hypocrisy and double crossing, mud-slinging politicians.

If we were to continue the present administration in Washington, it would not solve our present problems. It has had a chance the last 3 1-2 years and has failed pitifully. The American people are tired of keeping a straddling party that tries to please all classes in power. The Republican party does not know where it stands on any of the vital political questions of today.

The success of the Democratic party is imperative if we are to have a solution of our economic problems. The Republicans must take the responsibility for the last 12 years of bad government. They must take the responsibility for these inexcusable mistakes, their delays, and their failure and inability to read the signs of intensified bad times.

The Republicans refused to face the facts that were obvious to everyone. They even denied statistics. When the Democrats saw that something had to be done, and proposed halfway measures, they even refused to co-operate. Do we want to keep an indolent, stubborn, procrastinating party like this in power? Do we want to keep in the presidency a man who is merely the office boy for the organized big interests?

Now, therefore, for the immediate safety let us challenge you to elect Frank D. Roosevelt, the greatest living statesman and the greatest living democrat, president of these great United States. He will make the greatest president of modern times.

Our Honorable observer has observed that the farther East one travels the more intellegent the people therefore East Tennesseeans "want to keep him on the job". Is this why the Republicans went to England for sir Herbert or is this the reason why the American people are likly to send Herbert back to California?.

ALUMNI

(Continued from page two)

taught biology in a number of colleges but has been in government research work more recently.

Dr. Frank W. Gill '05, is a professor in St. John's University in Shanghai, China.

Miss Mildred Campbell, Ph. D., '20, is professor of English in Vassar College, and Miss Mary Broady '24, has the same position in Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa.

A number of college coaches, who have been trained in Maryville are: "Eddie" McLane '22, of Howard College, Jean McMurray '25, of East Tennessee State Teachers College, John Taggart '30, of Witherspoon College, and Ralph Waddell '30 of Pikesville College.

OBSERVATIONS

(Continued from page one)

Groves, in a tux. It reminds one vividly of the description of Huck when he puts on that suit and a pair of shoes. You know Ben is the baby of his family. . . . and it's a big family too.

—O—

The way this school is going red headed gets the nerves of the most composed. We can't help but notice the red-heads usurping the rights, the place, the reputation, and everything of the once popular blondes. This predominance of red heads must be due to a recent interpretation of two English words. Gentlemen still prefer blondes, but, you know, men prefer redheads.

—O—

A fellow once said that all those who would believe in free trade are the dead, the dumb, and the college professors. . . . why did he make three classifications, we wonder. . . casting nothing at nobody.

—O—

That person, as it happens, was old Bob West, of general all arounu fame on College Hill. Bob was a wow with the women, and an idol for some men, but now he's neither. He's went and got himself married. Bob's still at the old line slinging game, however, shooting it at present for some Nashville paper.

—O—

In just exactly two months from this particular night, we will be playing with those toys, and all that sort of thing, that old Sandy Claws dropped us the night before. Then Maryville will be literally, not figuratively, a dead place. About a week before that we expect to get outside of Knoxville, stick our thumb in the air, and soon be on the way to the promised land. They can say all they wish about these semester exams, about these long subsequential rains at Maryville, and all that, but we still contend that the happier time, or thing, of the school year is the time when we go back to park the dogs under Paw's table, and play shinny in our own backyard.

—O—

One not so well acquainted with the intricacies of this business does not know what the editor of a paper has to contend with. Nor does he know of the various pleasures that are likewise experienced. Just now we are thinking of the linotypist who always has a word for us when we come down late or not at all on Saturday. Nevertheless, she's a great woman. . .yah. . and we say that. . . . just to see if she'll print it.

PRIZES

(Continued from page one)

THE ALEXANDER ENGLISH PRIZE to the member of the Senior class who makes the best four-year record in English. Winner: Julia Terry, $25.00 in gold.

THE ELIZABETH HILLMAN CHEMISTRY PRIZE FUND provides "a prize or prizes to be awarded to women students for excellence attained in the department of Chemistry."

Winners: Prize Essay in advanced courses, Subject: "The Chemistry of Soil", Mildred Schoeller—$25.00 in gold. Prize essays in Freshman chemistry courses; First prize essay, Subject: "The Principles, the Fascination, and the Imporatnce of Colloid Chemistry", Elvira Ressler—$25.00 in gold; Second prize essay, Subject: "Catalysis, the Beginning of a New Era", Alys Scroggy—$10.00 in gold.

IN DEBATE WORK the following awards were won:

Degree of Proficiency in Debate and Proficiency in Oratory: Mildred MacKenzie

Degree of Honor in Debate and Degree of Fraternity in Oratory: Elizabeth Duncan, Benjamin Groves

Degree of Proficiency in Debate and Degree of Fraternity in Oratory: Robert Stevenson, Arthur Lazell

Degree of Fraternity in Debate: Ercelle Hunter, Carrie Lou Tweed, Andrew Newcomer, Edith McDuffie, Lucille Swafford, Fred Kirchner.

THETA ALPHA PHI CUP to the Alpha Sigma Literary Society. This cup must be won three times in succession before it becomes a permanent possession of the society.

SIGMA DELTA PSI KEYS (National Athletic Honor Fraternity) were qualified for by: Lea Calloway and Charles Richardson.

Y. M. C. A. AWARDS

Interclass Cup, given to the class winning the most intramural contests during the year, was tied for by the Junior and Freshman classes.

Cross Country Run—Silver cup to Clifton Moore.

Cross Country Run—Medal—runner up—James Hitch.

Besides these awards, the following athletic awards were given: sixteen letters were given to football men, seven for basketball, ten for baseball, fifteen for track, five for tennis, nine for wrestling, and four for the cheer leaders.

In the women's competitive point system, Mary Gamble won her letter and sweater with the winning mark of 568 points. Other girls winning over five hundred points were Lorraine Yennie, 548; Edith Kitts, 523; and Ruth McCampbell, with 506 pionts.

There were twelve girls who won more than four hundred points, getting the letter symbol for their efforts. Twenty girls made their way into the third classification, winning a Maryville monogram by securing more than three hundred points.

NOSTALGIA

by Katherine Orr

Someone, perhaps he was a sufferer, said that half the deaths resulting from the World War were caused by homesickness. Whatever else statistics and authorities have to say on the subject, there are a great many lonesome, homesick, souls who will agree heartily.

Scientists have not yet isolated the particular germ which produces this disagreeable ailment, nor have they found a satisfactory remedy for it. A dose of time, the great cure-all, has a beneficial influence and seems to be almost the only treatment known.

The symptoms are easily recognized. Melancholia, despondency, and paroxysms of weeping are usually evident. The case may be aggravated by some apparently trivial incident, a letter from home, the scent of a flower which grows in the garden at home, the sight of a familiar make of car, a strain of mournful music, any or all of these are likely to cause distress.

The patient should not be left alone. Applications of noise and diversion should be made regularly during the day and far into the night. If this treatment is followed rigidly the case will not be fatal, though the patient may be left in a state of exhaustion.

Trouble with present day marriage crops is that they are too divorcified.

We can walk, or even run, a mile for a Camel, because Luckies never affect our wind.

Cooks are often decorated in France. We feel like crowning some of ours.

ANDERSON HALL

By Theron Alexander

The patriotism of one of the oldest standbys of Maryville College is seldom mentioned. Anderson Hall has participated in the history of Maryville since it began. Few pause to tihnk, as they hurry in and out her doors, of the myriads of students that have passed those portals.

She stands, a bulwark of learning, gazing imperturbably at those who seek the ever illusive attainment of knowledge. Year in and year out she rings in new lives on College Hill; with the same impassiveness, the old ones she passes on. If only the power of speech could be instilled! What tales of college life would she peal forth with her tongue of iron! From under her wings the ever percipient arrows of Cupid have flown. Even those brick walls must have felt, at times, a tinge of romantic moonlight sifted through the screen of cedars.

Then too, she is a lover of athletes. Or why else does she don the garnet coat while college athletes are on the gridiron? In summer her attire is green, but when cheering voices echo from her walls, she too would spur our gladiators on by the wearing of a garnet coat.

Marriage is an institution. Marriage is love. Love is blind. Therefore marriage is an institution for the blind.

Speaking of marriage, the guy who coined the word "alter" must have been an Englishman who dropped his h's.

When You Buy
Try
The "Y" Stores
For Candy
Ice Cream
And Personal
Necessities
MANAGERS
Ruth Farlee Jesse Willis

UPTOWN SHOES
are the
Shoes for You
This is one of the new Uptowns....a beautiful shoe of fine black Calfskin over the new English last. It is a remarkably fine-fitting shoe and a style of which any man can feel proud. Come in for a try-on.
$5

Proffitt's
DEPARTMENT STORE
THE STUDENTS' STORE

SPORTS

Volunteers Trample Scotties 60?0 As Neyland Reserves Show Power And Speed

Boretsky, Stone, West, Show Real Fight Against Odds Unconquerable

Scoring touchdowns at will and demonstrating themselves to be complete masters of the situation at all times, the powerful Volunteers of the University of Tennessee rolled over Maryville last Saturday afternoon to aggregate 60 points while the Scots strove in vain to tally. Maryville rooters, less numerous this year than usual, who trekked to Knoxville to see the team generally conceded Southern champions, were disappointed somewhat, as the regulars were on the field a very short while, most of the game being played by the reserves.

The game opened in a whirl of Vol scores. Before the referee had made entirely sure he still had the penny the captains tossed, Robinson had taken the ball and slipped off his left end for 32 yards and a touchdown. Extra point was added. Before the game was five minutes old, two more counters were made, both coming on the heels of blocked punts in Highlander territory, and the score stood 19-0.

Maryville almost got going in the second period, but a 26-yard pass, Bayless to Vaughn, placed the ball on the Scot 24, from whence 'twas quickly toted over the line. The last score of the first half came as a result of a jaunt by Keever which took the ball half the distance of the field for a marker. The half ended at this point, 33-0.

The second half was merely a continuation of the parade. Although Maryville rallied several times and showed their teeth in preparation for a march down the field, the Vol reserves were always able to stem the tide and head for a touchdown or so on their own hook. In the fourth quarter, Neyland sent in his regular backs, with the exception of Feathers. But the first-stringers just couldn't do any harm. They wound up their touchdown drive with an incomplete pass over the goal line and retired to the seclusion of the showers, there to meditate and mourn their gridiron sins. The game ended a few seconds later with Maryville in possession of the ball in the middle of the field.

West and Boretsky showed up best on Maryville's team while Stone turned in his consistently good game at end. West put up one of his best scraps of the year agains the U. T. behemoths. More than once he tore through the line and around ends for substantial gains. The same thing goes for Stevie, and the two of them made a couple of nice laterals for gains. The old West-to-Atkins combination functioned for yardage a couple or so times also.

For Tennessee, Robinson shone, although the rest of the reserves crowded in right on his heels.

Lineups:

Tennessee (60)		Maryville
Pounders	L. E.	Atkins
Bailey	L. T.	Millsaps
Ellis	L. G.	Collins
Bibee	C.	Russell
Frank	R. G.	Atchison
Aitken	R. T.	Wilson
Shull	R. E.	Stone
Robinson	Q. B.	West
Feathers	L. H.	Boretsky
Petruzze	R. H.	Clarke
Middleton	F. B.	M. Gillespie

Score by periods:

Tennessee—19 14 21 6—60

Maryville—0 0 0 0— 0

Substitutions: Tennessee—Vaughn, Hatley, Smith, Bayless, Stewart, Stafford, Claxton, McPherson, Goodrich, Krouse, Franklin, Mark, Keever, B. Smith, Austelle, Ottinger, Bounds, Leeman, Fooshee, Brackett, Wynn, Maples and Venable. Maryville—Payne Grantham, H. Gillespie, McArthur, Blazer, Gwynn, Kalman, Kizer, Tolliver, Holloway, Gamble, Long, Thomas, Stone, Pieper, Creed, Slawson, Keeton.

Scoring for touchdowns for Tennessee—Robinson, Shull 2, Vaughn 2, Keever 2, Middleton 2; extra points, Middleton 3 (by placement, Mark (by placement), Krouse 2 (by placement).

Officials: Wilson (Miami), referee; Richardson (Ohio Wesleyan), umpire; Press (Georgia Tech), head linesman; Harbison (Ohio), field judge.

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

Those few who were so hard up for time-killing devices as to read this column last week will note that the writer actually picked a winner in the Vandy-Georgia game, although our victory came through the downfall (the third consecutive) of the Bulldogs. In spite of the fact that never in the history of our gridiron experience have we picked a winner on two successive Saturdays, we rise to predict that the boys from down home will gain their first win of the season today against Florida, even taking into consideration Florida's intense love for upsetting the Georgia team.

—S—

We also predict that Georgia Tech will triumph over Vandy this afternoon. Of course we realize that all this mental calculation cannot possibly be right, and for that reason, we strongly wish that our dictates commanded us to select Vandy. Nevertheless, we choose Tech!

—S—

If the above two prognostications are fulfilled, our cup will indeed be overflowing. But we are about to attempt further prognosis which, if verified, will complete the inundation. As the dope expert which our last week's success proved us to be, we state that Cairo (Ga.) High School will defeat her traditional rivals, Camilla, by several touchdowns. Of course, we shan't be able to ascertain the victor for some weeks, due to the extreme distance and infrequency of mail trains. But when we do find out, we intend; to celebrate (providing our prophecy does not prove false).

—S—

Southern Conference officials are on a rampage to see who can disqualify the most players because of professional summer baseball. Two excellent gridders have already been disbarred, Nollie Felts of Tulane and Julian Foster of Vanderbilt. That's all very well. But if they wish really to get at the root of professionalism, they have no need of hunting up the fellows who play summer baseball. The very officials who are raising all the racket are fostering professionalism on the campus on a much larger scale than is practiced during the vacation. Practically every player under consideration, in one way or another, is tendering his athletic services to his university in exchange for the long (very long these days) green. It's just another case of "no matter how thin you slice it".

—S—

Marquette University is taking no chances of having their signals interpreted by opposing teams. Three different signal-barkers call the numerals in the varying tongues of Italian, Greek, and German. Talk about your inter-linking of athletics and academics! !

—S—

Perhaps the less we mention the affray at Knoxville last week, the longer we will live and prosper. But we cannot refrain from patting West and Boretsky on the back. Those boys went at the Tennessee line various and sundry times as if they meant to rip right through it. And that, gentle readers, is exactly what they did. Boretsky was breezing around the ends like anybody's business and West was standing back there passing as calmly as any calm thing we can possibly think of.

—S—

Milligan was defeated by Tennessee-Wesleyan last week, by the margin of a pair of touchdowns. On paper, then, the Scots figure six touchdowns better than the boys from Johnson City. But we don't make any statements regarding the score of the Maryville-Milligan game. The lads up there overturned the dope pail last year in a heart-rending 0-0 tie and are likely to give trouble in the set-to next Saturday.

College is just like a washing machine . . . you get out of it just what you put in, but you'd never recognize it.

Long Line Of Heroes Have Served College In Football Captaincy

Era Begins With Career of Bob Thrower And Ends With Captain Gillespie

Gameless week-ends, anniversaries, empty copy desks, and football captains all go to remind us that Captain Gillespie is serving in an anniversary capacity as the tenth captain of a Maryville grid squad since Coach Bob Thrower headed that all powerful team of 1923. A diligent member of the Echo staff compiled the list and gave it to the writer, who was so surprised at knowing most of the men he decided to pass the information along. Two of the leaders are unknown to us, however.

Nothing needs be said concerning Coach Bob. Even the most ill-informed freshman has heard by now how the great Texan used to do everything to opposing teams but spank 'em. But although everyone knows all about it, the wise-acres on the corner will yet rant for hours about the way Bob and his cohorts over-powered their foes.

In 1924, as well as in 1926, we know the captains only by name. In the former year, Captain Hamilton resigned, while in '26, one Mr. Cartright presided over the meetings. In '25, Joe Gamble, promising (so says his wife) young Maryville attorney and state legislator, led the Scots in their struggles for victory. And they dew tell that Joe was some mean back!

In 1927, the captain of the Highlanders was none other than John Stone, one of the best all-round athletes ever to attend the College and a leading contender for American League batting honors the past summer. While at Maryville, Stone was a mainstay on the football and baseball teams, playing a fighting center on the grid squad and swinging a powerful club on the diamond.

1928 saw J. D. Davis as quarterback and captain. Turning in A-1 performances in athletics while at Maryville, Davis made an enviable record as athletic director at Everett High School, being promoted last year to the high school at Hickory, North Carolina.

The next year, 1929, ushered in the captaincy of Lowell McDonald, another power in the Scot line. While under his protecting wing, the Scots had a leader whom to follow was a pleasure as well as a darned hard assignment.

Carl Storey, of Proffitt's-newly-wed-pep meeting fame, was the team's choice for their leader in '30. And a wise choice it was. With Storey at one guard and McDonald at the other, opposing quarterbacks seldom tried the middle of Maryville's line when they desired a gain. It wasn't exactly what might be called a strategic move.

The praises of last year's captain have been ringing since his debut at Maryville. And, although popular songs and close observation tell us that absence makes hearts grow fonder of others, we have a feeling that songs will continue to be sung for Lea Calloway as long as there is one to know him. Nothing needs to be said of either his grid achievements or the place he holds in the affections of his collegiate friends here.

Finally, we have Captain Gillespie.

Eleanor Johnson Cops Girls Annual Fall Tennis Tournament

Miss Gillingham Shows Brilliant Fight In Finals

The girls' tennis tournament finally closed Thursday morning, with Eleanor Johnson reigning as the new queen of the courts. Her match with Mary Gillingham for the championship was started Tuesday, but had to be postponed at the stage when Johnson had won the first set 6-2, the second set, being tied at six up. Thursday, on resumption of play, it seemed that Gillingham was determined to carry off the second set, but Johnson's cool waiting game was too much, and the champ won in straight sets 6-2, 9-7.

According to the fall tournament, this leaves Johnson ranking No. 1 among the females, Gillingham No. 2, Cooper No. 3, with several of the court staresses tied for the remaining rankings.

Y. M. C. A. Adventurers Go To Gold Creek Falls For Annual Fall Hike

Men Will Return For Joint Meeting Sunday

A large number of college men met in front of Bartlett Hall at 1:30 p. m. this afternoon where they piled in trucks and began to wend their way to their "erstwhile home", Gold Creek Falls. The annual Y.M.C.A. mountain hike was probably better attended than it has been for a number of years, the men being enticed by the beauty of the Chilhowees, and being encouraged by the fact that Sunday School and Church cuts won't count against them.

The most important provision for the hike was in the form of plenty of blankets. Saturday night will be spent in the open air by most of the pioneers, those more tenderfooted youngsters resorting to the protion of a large barn. Much good rest is in anticipation after the fox and possum hunt which has been planned.

"Lucky is the girl", says a writer, "who marries a man with money to burn." She makes a good match.

We can think of plenty of adjectives to fit him: wiry, potent, efficient, dependable, determined, and on for paragraphs. But whats the use? You all go to the games too. Suffice it to say that, in his calm, but determined, backing of his mates, he is doing his bit in keeping harmony and pep in the gridders.

Whattamen! ! Put on one more tackle, like Overly or Carper, and we're about ready to nominate them for All-Time All-Maryville team. And why not? ? ? They're the cream of our grid crop.

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

Maryville Begins Making Preparations For Basketball Season With New Men In Ranks

Requirements Of Sigma Delta Psi Prove Hard For College Students

There is given below a list of the requirements for admission into the Sigma Delta Psi fraternity. No student on the hill has been able to make this fraternity, but Clifton Moore, senior this year, has but one mark to make before he can declare his eligibility. Moore is working on the swimming requirement. The requrements are:

1. 100 yard dash, 11 3-5 sec.
2. 120 yard low hurdles, 16 sec.
3. Mile run, 6 minutes.
4. Shot put, 30 feet for one weighing 160 pounds
5. Baseball throw, 250 feet or Javelin throw, 130 feet
6. Fence vault, Chin high
7. Hand stand, 10 sec.
8. Front flip, lighting on feet
9. Rope climb, 20 feet in 12 sec.
10. High jump, 5 feet
11. Broad jump, 17 feet
12. Football punt, 40 yards
13. 100 yard swim, 1 min. 45 sec.
14. Good posture, to be passed by committee.
15. Eligible for varsity competition

Substitutions: Not more than three varsity letters, or two varsity letters and an intramural championship. No substitution can be made for the swim.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club met Wednesday night in the Home Economics Club room and the following program was presented:

A Reading—"Husbands"—
Zula Trotter

A Play—"The Fatal Act"—Initiation Act by Baldwin Girls

Reading—"Friendship Village"—
Veta Mae Stephens

Initiation Stunt—by Pearsons' Girls

Play—"The Bride and Groom"—
Marjorie Jones, Helen Stuart

A conductor fears no one. . . he tells them all where to get off.

College Has Prospects For Fast Team, If Beginners Remain In Form

While old man enthusiasm seems to have most of his interest centered around the gridiron in these closing days of the autumnal season, Yankee Lewis and his gang of green basketeers have been attempting to learn some of the fine points of the hardwood game in preparation for one of Maryville's hardest, and most interesting basket seasons. Maryville's hard court team, which finished second to Milligan College in the Smoky Mountain Conference last season, after a thrilling 43-41 losing battle to the Buffalos, hopes to seek some sort of revenge, with their best possible material being a revamped and inspired cage five.

At the first official practice last Monday afternoon, from which all football men were excluded, thirty men appeared in their basket togs. The practice consisted largely of work on pivoting, defense practice, and passing practic. Twenty of the thirty apsirants for positions are freshmen who are showing plenty of class. Haub, elongated center from New Jersey, has been showing class at the pivotal position. Four all county men will soon be seen in the running. Maryville should have the makings of a future great team, inasmuch as only one of this year's aggregation is a senior. Captain Lewis, playing his fourth year, goes out with the class of '33.

Manager Moore states that the year's schedule is going to include some worthwhile games, the schedule being well nigh devoid of battles with independent teams. Three trips have been written for, the most promising one of which will take the boys to Cumberland University, Middle Tennessee Teachers at Murfreesboro, T. P. I., and possibly Vanderbilt University. This trip is pending. Another trip may be taken north into Kentucky, the boys playing Tusculum, Milligan, Union College, and anyone else who might have the nerve to cross their path.

BYRNE DRUG CO.
ONE CENT SALE
Thursday, Friday and Saturday
SPEND A PENNY
AND SAVE MONEY

CITY SHOE REBUILDERS
EXCELLENT SHOE REPAIRING
Agents: Elizabeth Smith, Memorial; Kinser Bros., 303 Carnegie

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

KODAK FINISHING
... FOR ...
Best Results and Permanent Prints
BRING YOUR FILMS TO
THE WEBB STUDIO
220 COLLEGE STREET

U. S. RUBBER CO.
TRENCH COATS

Full made; ventless back; double breasted model; genuine leather buttons.
Sizes 36 to 44
$2.95
A raincoat that will serve as a topcoat.
Does the pool opening call for a new
BATHING SUIT?
You will find them here reasonably priced. For men or women.
WALKER'S

REPUBLICANISM

HOW ABOUT ROOSEVELT'S FORGOTTEN MAN

Throughout the campaign Governor Roosevelt has been expounding about, and making a mock-heroic fight for, something that does not exist. In other words, his lamentations over the failure of the Republican party to provide for the "forgotten man" and his innumerable promises to aid this "forgotten man" who does not exist, are NOT based upon facts. In a recent speech the Democratic nominee lauded Al Smith as a great fighter for the "forgotten man". Al Smith in an editorial said that there is no such thing as the forgotten man. Roosevelt must have been talking about two other men.

The Democrats charge that the R.F.C.—which was inaugurated by President Hoover himself and for which no one else can claim any credit—not even the Democratic leaders themselves—helps only the wealthy people, and does nothing for that fantastic figure, the "forgotten man", created by Roosevelt. One of the banks in Maryville has been aided by the R.F.C., a bank in Knoxville received large loans from the same source, banks in adjoining counties are receiving aid, and in a few days Blount County will receive $25,000 from the R. F. C. And only a few days ago one of the leading Democrats at Maryville College said the R. F. C. had done nothing for this section of the country! Is it any wonder that Al Smith called Roosevelt a demagogue, "an insincere politician or popular orator or leader who stirs up popular prejudice to gain office or influence?"

Clinton W. Gilbert, the non-partisan political analyst, has been in New York and this is his estimate of the situation there:

"A visit to New York City reveals a degree of opposition to Governor Roosevelt there and in the suburban region around New York of which the only parallel is to be found in the opposition to Bryan in 1896. Every person I met told me the same thing, that he had intneded to vote the Democratic ticket this year but that now he couldn't. It was as if NO SENSIBLE PERSON COULD THINK OF INTRUSTING THE DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE WITH AUTHORITY TO ADMINISTER THE NATION'S AFFAIRS".

A few days ago J. Arthur Lazell, the Socialist chairman, received "orders" from home to vote for Hoover. We're glad to learn that Mr. Lazell's parents are people of great intelligence. And have you seen Mr. Newcomer, another leading Socialist, driving around in his car with a Hoover sign on his windshield?

The Democrats claim the Republicans are not economical. Hoover cut his own salary $15,000, and had Curtis and the cabinet members cut their salaries.

During the first week that Garner served as Speaker of the House he smashed three new gavels pounding for order. Is this the kind of economy the Democrats will give us?

DID YOU KNOW—

That in 1922 an advertisement appeared in a San Francisco paper offering shares in "United European Investors, Ltd., Franklin D. Roosevelt, President." This appeal to the American public to buy shares was published just five months before the German financial collapse when hundreds of thousands of trusting Americans lost their shares. And still Roosevelt claims to be fighting big business.

Any one who can have confidence in Roosevelt's leadership would become overheated wearing Gandi's sack-cloth on a rumble-seat ride across the Artic.

The election of Roosevelt would bring to political power the most sinister figure in American public life—William Randolph Hearst. And here's what appeared in Hearst's Examiner before the nomination of Roosevelt: "They—the Democratic leaders—believe the nomination of Roosevelt would make certain the re-election of Hoover. OF THE TWO MEN THEY ACCORD HOOVER MORE CREDIT FOR FIRMNESS OF CHARACTER, SINCERITY OF CONVICTION, HONESTY OF POLITICAL PRINCIPLES, AND SUPERIOR ADMINISTRATIVE EFFICIENCY".

Eleven students of a certain University have been suspended for driving automobiles around the campus. In the good old days they used to ride through college on a pony.

SOCIALISM

PROTEST VOTE PARTY PLATFORMS

Many people will vote this year for Norman Thomas not because they are members of the Socialist Party, but because they are justifiably dissatisfied with the platforms and policies of the two branches of the major political party. They are therefore using their votes where they will be most effective in demonstrating to the bosses who have so long been in command that America is waking up to the need of substituting good government for poor, for abandoning antiquated methods and policies.

The protest voter knows that it is equally futile to expect such a change under tweedle-dum Hoover or tweedle-dee Roosevelt. He is voting for the party which has always championed progressive measures until they became popular enough for the Democrats or the Republicans to dare espouse them. He is voting for the party which is pioneering in political thought. "Time makes ancient good uncouth." It also makes ancient uncouth good.

Supposing—not admitting— for the sake of argument that "a vote for the third party amounts to a vote against Roosevelt and in favor of Hoover", it is entirely possible that the voter does not wish to fly from the evils he knows to those he knows not of.

Marcus Duffield, a political observer, writing in the current Forum, says that it will be a pleasure to record a preference for courage over craveness, brains over ballyhoo, and honesty over hokum. He adds that he still calls himself a conservative. If conservatism means preserving to the race the best of thought, intitutions, and natural resources, Mr. Duffield is a conservative.

Many thinking people express the opinion that the plaftorms of both the Republican and the Democratic parties are conspicuously rickety. They are audibly silent on major problems, or expressively ambiguous. They are "making no mistakes" by not saying anything they'll have to take back. A comparison of the planks on the tariff gives adequate proof of their contentions. Only the Socialists have gone to the root of the matter and proposed the ultimate solution, international economic organizations to deal with tariffs, raw materials, and an international standard of living.

The Democrats are franker than the Republicans on the Prohibition issue, but even they do not provide for legislation by Congress for social control and protection.

On other social questions, however, the party of Mr. Roosevelt is neither so definite nor adequate. Nothing is said, of course, about civil liberties. That would further divide the once-solid South. There is no pronouncement on child labor, workmen's compensation, minimum wage, health and maternity insurance, of free public employment agencies. The Republican platform merely endorses the principle of high wages, approves collective bargaining, commends the work of the Federal Employment Service, and along with the others favors a shorter working day. Only the Socialists declare for an immediate appropriation to supplement state funds for the relief of unemploymetn by furnishing employment.

The Republican party advocates prompt and drastic curtailment of expenditures, but also favors maintenance of the parity of the U. S. Navy with any other. Socialists, on the other hand, favor steady increased inheritance and income taxes to take care of government expenses, advocate measures leading eventually to total disrmament, and declare for a definitely pacific foreign policy.

One thing is certain: Thomas will poll an unprecedented popular vote for the Socialist Party, but will not be elected. The administration of the government during the next four years by either branch of the major party will be the most convincing argument for a Socialistic government conceivable.

TRIANGLE CLUB

A program of music was presented to the Triangle Club Thursday nigth. Clark Latham played the violin, Steve Boretsky the banjo, and Ruth Flint the trumpet.

DEMOCRACY

In last week's column the Republicans asked, "What do the people want?" In this week's colmun, we shall tell them what the people want, and why!

When Franklin D. Roosevelt began his campaign back in July, he said he was opposed to "mud slinging". All sensible thinking people are. Thus far the democrats have done no mud slinging. Mr. Hoover came out against mud slinging too, but when he saw Roosevelt taking his job away, he had to change his tactics.

In last week's Republican column, the name Hoover was not mentioned once! It was all about Roosevelt. Are the Republicans ashamed of Hoover? Why don't they tell us something about him?

According to the most recent tabulation of the Literary Digest Polls, Roosevelt has 1,647,237 votes to Hoover's 1,095,274. Roosevelt has an electoral vote of 474 while Hoover has 57. Hoover will be the worst defeated candidate of a major party in the History of America. The same unrest that drove Texas, North Carolina, Florida, Virginia, and Tennessee into the Republican camp in 1928 will drive Ohio, Illinois, Iowa, Indiana, Pensylvania, and California into the Democratic camp this year.

The Democratic platform and the Democratic candidate have put the Democratic party in the bright light of intelligent understanding on the part of intelligent, thinking people in all parts of the United States, and it leaves the Republican party where it has always been: the party of deceit, hypocrisy and double crossing, mud-slinging politicians.

If we were to continue the present administration in Washington, it would not solve our present problems. It has had a chance the last 3 1-2 years and has failed pitifully. The American people are tired of keeping a straddling party that tries to please all classes in power. The Republican party does not know where it stands on any of the vital political questions of today.

The success of the Democratic party is imperative if we are to have a solution of our economic problems. The Republicans must take the responsibility for the last 12 years of bad government. They must take the responsibility for these inexcusable mistakes, their delays, and their failure and inability to read the signs of intensified bad times.

The Republicans refused to face the facts that were obvious to everyone. They even denied statistics. When the Democrats saw that something had to be done, and proposed halfway measures, they even refused to co-operate. Do we want to keep an indolent, stubborn, procrastinating party like this in power? Do we want to keep in the presidency a man who is merely the office boy for the organized big interests?

Now, therefore, for the immediate safety let us challenge you to elect Frank D. Roosevelt, the greatest living statesman and the greatest living democrat, president of these great United States. He will make the greatest president of modern times.

Our Honorable observer has observed that the farther East one travels the more intellegent the people therefore East Tennesseeans "want to keep him on the job". Is this why the Republicans went to England for sir Herbert or is this the reason why the American people are likly to send Herbert back to California?.

ALUMNI

(Continued from page two)

taught biology in a number of colleges but has been in government research work more recently.

Dr. Frank W. Gill '05, is a professor in St. John's University in Shanghai, China.

Miss Mildred Campbell, Ph. D., '20, is professor of English in Vassar College, and Miss Mary Broady '24, has the same position in Wilson College, Chambersburg, Pa.

A number of college coaches, who have been trained in Maryville are: "Eddie" McLane '22, of Howard College, Jean McMurray '25, of East Tennessee State Teachers College, John Taggart '30, of Witherspoon College, and Ralph Waddell '30 of Pikesville College.

OBSERVATIONS

(Continued from page one)

Groves, in a tux. It reminds one vividly of the description of Huck when he puts on that suit and a pair of shoes. You know Ben is the baby of his family. . . . and it's a big family too.

—o—

The way this school is going red headed gets the nerves of the most composed. We can't help but notice the red-heads usurping the rights, the place, the reputation, and everything of the once popular blondes. This predominance of red heads must be due to a recent interpretation of two English words. Gentlemen still prefer blondes, but, you know, men prefer redheads.

—o—

A fellow once said that all those who would believe in free trade are the dead, the dumb, and the college professors. . . . why did he make three classifications, we wonder. . . casting nothing at nobody.

—o—

That person, as it happens, was old Bob West, of general all around fame on College Hill. Bob was a wow with the women, and an idol for some men, but now he's neither. He's went and got himself married. Bob's still at the old line slinging game, however, shooting it at present for some Nashville paper.

—o—

In just exactly two months from this particular night, we will be playing with those toys, and all that sort of thing, that old Sandy Claws dropped us the night before. Then Maryville will be literally, not figuratively, a dead place. About a week before that we expect to get outside of Knoxville, stick our thumb in the air, and soon be on the way to the promised land. They can say all they wish about these semester exams, about these long subsequential rains at Maryville, and all that, but we still contend that the happier time, or thing, of the school year is the time when we go back to park the dogs under Paw's table, and play shinny in our own backyard.

—o—

One not so well acquainted with the intricacies of this business does not know what the editor of a paper has to contend with. Nor does he know of the various pleasures that are likewise experienced. Just now we are thinking of the linotypist who always has a word for us when we come down late or not at all on Saturday. Nevertheless, she's a great woman. . .yah. . and we say that. . . . just to see if she'll print it.

PRIZES

(Continued from page one)

THE ALEXANDER ENGLISH PRIZE to the member of the Senior class who makes the best four-year record in English. Winner: Julia Terry, $25.00 in gold.

THE ELIZABETH HILLMAN CHEMISTRY PRIZE FUND provides "a prize or prizes to be awarded to women students for excellence attained in the department of Chemistry."

Winners: Prize Essay in advanced courses, Subject: "The Chemistry of Soil", Mildred Schoeller—$25.00 in gold. Prize essays in Freshman chemistry courses; First prize essay, Subject: "The Principles, the Fascination, and the Imporatnce of Colloid Chemistry", Elvira Ressler—$25.00 in gold; Second prize essay, Subject: "Catalysis, the Beginning of a New Era", Alys Scroggy—$10.00 in gold.

IN DEBATE WORK the following awards were won:

Degree of Proficiency in Debate and Proficiency in Oratory: Mildred MacKenzie

Degree of Honor in Debate and Degree of Fraternity in Oratory: Elizabeth Duncan, Benjamin Groves

Degree of Proficiency in Debate and Degree of Fraternity in Oratory: Robert Stevenson, Arthur Lazell

Degree of Fraternity in Debate: Erecelle Hunter, Carrie Lou Tweed, Andrew Newcomer, Edith McDuffie, Lucille Swafford, Fred Kirchner.

THETA ALPHA PHI CUP to the Alpha Sigma Literary Society. This cup must be won three times in succession before it becomes a permanent possession of the society.

SIGMA DELTA PSI KEYS (National Athletic Honor Fraternity) were qualified for by: Lea Calloway and Charles Richardson.

Y. M. C. A. AWARDS

Interclass Cup, given to the class winning the most intramural contests during the year, was tied for by the Junior and Freshman classes.

Cross Country Run—Silver cup to Clifton Moore.

Cross Country Run—Medal—runner up—James Hitch.

Besides these awards, the following athletic awards were given: sixteen letters were given to football men, seven for basketball, ten for baseball, fifteen for track, five for tennis, nine for wrestling, and four for the cheer leaders.

In the women's competitive point system, Mary Gamble won her letter and sweater with the winning mark of 568 points. Other girls winning over five hundred points were Lorraine Yennie, 548; Edith Kitts, 523; and Ruth McCampbell, with 506 pionts.

There were twelve girls who won more than four hundred points, getting the letter symbol for their efforts. Twenty girls made their way into the third classification, winning a Maryville monogram by securing more than three hundred points.

NOSTALGIA

by Katherine Orr

Someone, perhaps he was a sufferer, said that half the deaths resulting from the World War were caused by homesickness. Whatever else statistics and authorities have to say on the subject, there are a great many lonesome, homesick, souls who will agree heartily.

Scientists have not yet isolated the particular germ which produces this disagreeable ailment, nor have they found a satisfactory remedy for it. A dose of time, the great cure-all, has a beneficial influence and seems to be almost the only treatment known.

The symptoms are easily recognized. Melancholia, despondency, and paroxysms of weeping are usually evident. The case may be aggravated by some apparently trivial incident, a letter from home, the scent of a flower which grows in the garden at home, the sight of a familiar make of car, a strain of mournful music, any or all of these are likely to cause distress.

The patient should not be left alone. Applications of noise and diversion should be made regularly during the day and far into the night. If this treatment is followed rigidly the case will not be fatal, though the patient may be left in a state of exhaustion.

Trouble with present day marriage crops is that they are too divorcified.

We can walk, or even run, a mile for a Camel, because Luckies never affect our wind.

Cooks are often decorated in France. We feel like crowning some of ours.

ANDERSON HALL

By Theron Alexander

The patriotism of one of the oldest standbys of Maryville College is seldom mentioned. Anderson Hall has participated in the history of Maryville since it began. Few pause to tihnk, as they hurry in and out her doors, of the myriads of students that have passed those portals.

She stands, a bulwark of learning, gazing imperturbably at those who seek the ever illusive attainment of knowledge. Year in and year out she rings in new lives on College Hill; with the same impassiveness, the old ones she passes on. If only the power of speech could be instilled! What tales of college life would she peal forth with her tongue of iron! From under her wings the ever percipient arrows of Cupid have flown. Even those brick walls must have felt, at times, a tinge of romantic moonlight sifted through the screen of cedars.

Then too, she is a lover of athletes. Or why else does she don the garnet coat while college athletes are on the gridiron? In summer her attire is green, but when cheering voices echo from her walls, she too would spur our gladiators on by the wearing of a garnet coat.

Marriage is an institution. Marriage is love. Love is blind, Therefore marriage is an institution for the blind.

Speaking of marriage, the guy who coined the word "alter" must have been an Englishman who dropped his h's.

When You Buy
Try
The "Y" Stores
For Candy
Ice Cream
And Personal
Necessities
MANAGERS
Ruth Farlee Jesse Willis

UPTOWN SHOES
are the
Shoes for You
This is one of the new Uptowns....a beautiful shoe of fine black Calfskin over the new English last. It is a remarkably fine-fitting shoe and a style of which any man can feel proud. Come in for a try-on.
$5

Proffitt's
DEPARTMENT STORE
THE STUDENTS' STORE

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, NOVEMBER 5, 1932 NUMBER EIGHT

Election Returns and Vaudeville Program Will Feature Entertainment In Voorhees Chapel, Tuesday Night

Program Will Last Entire Evening Announcing Immediate Returns

Election returns and an election night vaudeville program will be given in Voorhees chapel Tuesday night, starting at 7:30 p. m. It is under the auspices of the Student Council.

The results of the presidential election and the gubernatorial voting in Tennessee will be announced during the night immediately that returns are secured on the radio and from Knoxville newspapers. Arrangements are being made to indicate, by means of colored strips placed against the names of each state, which candidate is leading in each of the forty-eight states. A huge curtain, marked for this purpose, will be hung over the chapel platform.

According to present plans the entertainment will take about two hours. Efforts will be made to secure an indicative report on national and Tennessee balloting trends by 10:15 p. m. In the event that important developments are still pending at that time, the program will be continued for a short while.

The program includes individual stunts by each dormitory. Carnegie hall to be represented by two, one each for the lower and upper floors. Alpha Sigma orchestra will play, and two choruses will dance.

Other parts of the program include popular songs, a sketch, violin duet, piano solos, singing, tap-dancing, and two readings.

There will be changes made in the following list of events. All announcements will be made between numbers.

The program:
Alpha Sigma orchestra
Sketch and Quartet
Carnegie stunt
Reading
Chorus
Piano solo
Tap-dancing
Pearsons' stunt
Popular songs
Violin duets
Memorial stunts
French harps
Reading
Carnegie Stunt
Chorus
Baldwin stunt

Traveling Salesman Included In Cast Of "The Little Journey"

Bill Hannah Will Be Just Another Passenger On Train Ride

As a traveling salesman, pants salesman at that, with gold tooth and perpetual toothpick, William Hannah will grace the stage in Bainonian's midwinter "The Little Journey". He will represent one type of the many who people this broad continent, and who frequent the popular modes of transportation.

It is one of such characters that Rachel Crothers has woven her plot in this three-act comedy.

"Not startlingly dramatic", says Mrs. West, who is directing the play. "It is not intense or stirring. But it carries with it instead the drama born of common encounters among the little journies from one day to the next."

Up and down the pullman aisle pass different types of personalities. There are no kings and queens, no dictators or Nobel prize-winners.

But there is a newly rich and newly pompous old lady. And there is a pants salesman, chewing his toothpick as plutocrats do only in privacy, and flaunting a naivete born only of many pants sales. And there is a young woman with her eyes already clouded by tragedy. And there is one man who sits quietly among his kaladescopic pas-

(Continued on page four)

Dr. Lloyd And Miss Henry Entertained By Miss Lagerstedt

College Representatives Visit Historical Spots In East

Dr. Lloyd and Miss Henry, while in Boston, Mass., were entertained on Sunday, October 30, at the home of Mr. Lagerstedt's sister, who was here last year, on the Maryville Lyceum Program. Doctor Lloyd preached at the Porter Congregational Church in Brocton on the subject, "A Christian Education".

After the service the members of Mr. Lagerstedt's family entertained Dr. Lloyd and Miss Henry with a dinner party at a nearby inn. During the afternoon, they visited Duxbury, and saw the graves of Miles Standish, Priscilla, and John Alden, and then went to Plymouth to see Plymouth rock, and other places of historical interest. Later in the afternoon they journeyed to Sandwich, Massachusetts, to visit the home of Mrs. Churchill.

Retreat At Scarritt College Attended By Maryvillians

Elizabeth Gillis Is Elected President of State Union

The Autumn Council Retreat of the Tennessee Student Volunteer Union was held in Scarritt College, Nashville, on October 29-30. The Maryville College Student Volunteer Group was represented at this gathering by five persons: Dorothy G. Casseres, presient; Elizabeth Gillis, secretary; Michael P. Testa, ex-scretary-treasurer; Fank R. Neff, Jr., editor-in-chief of The S. V. W. N. Bulletin; and R. Stuart Gillis.

Maryville went to the Retreat to accomplish two special purposes, and succeeded in both. The first was to gain the presidency of the state Union. This year's president having found it necessary to resign, it was necessary that his unexpired term be filled by a new officer, and the choice fell upon Elizabeth Gillis, last year's president of the Student Volunteer Group on the Hill.

The second accomplishment was the securing of the 1933 Conference of the state Union, which, it was unanimously decided, will be held at Maryville on February 24-26.

The more ordinary items of business were the ever-present problem of finance, the conditions of the various campus groups represented, the matter of deputations, the place and needs of the South Atlantic Region (composed of the North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama, and Tennessee Unions), and the preliminary considerations of the coming Maryville Conference.

The Retreat was fortunate in having the unexpected pleasure of entertaining Miss Elizabeth Manget (Duke '32), the Traveling Secretary of the South Atlantic Region.

Business was mixed with pleasure, and the various delegates found opportunity to attend the Vanderbilt-Georgia Tech football game, to visit the only existing full-size reproduction of the Parthenon, to enjoy the use of the beautiful pipe organ in the Scarritt chapel, to attend a service of worship in historic First Presbyterian Church of Nashville, and to be the continuous beneficiaries of the generous hospitality of Scarritt College, Vanderbilt University, and a private home in South End.

GEORGIA CLUB

Georgia Club members met in Theta Hall on Thursday night, NNovember 3, for their bi-monthly meeting. The following program was presented:—Readings, Philip Cory; Piano solos, Burtom Toms; Reading, Veta May Stephens.

Student Volunteer Traveling Secretary Speaks To Students

Miss Elizabeth Manget Urges Missionary Students To Know Country

"Some of us must go to China and teach the people better methods of agriculture; some of us must go and teach them economics, taxation, systems of representation; some of us must go and teach people who know nothing about health and sanitation how to fight disease; all who go must present Christ as the Savior of China," said Elizabeth Manget in a speech to the student body Thursday morning.

Miss Manget is the traveling secretary of the Student Volunteer Movement in the South Atlantic Region. She visited Maryville campus Wednesday and Thursday, speaking to various organizations, conferring with students on the problems of full time Christian service, and helping the officers of the local Student Volunteer Group plan for the future.

Although her office is at Duke University, in Durham, North Carolina, Miss Manget has been traveling over the Southern states since September 15. She has visited 20 campuses and has attended four retreats.

Herself the daughter of medical missionaries to China, Miss Manget plans ultimately to return and work there. She says that Christ offers the solution to the problems of not only China, but also all other nations—nations who have been imagining that change and progress are synonymous, but who have in recent years discovered that if they progress, they must change discriminatingly.

Miss Manget advises all students to be internationally minded. She urges every Student Volunteer to read everything availablbe about the country in which he plans to work. She adds that he must be well acquainted with the total world situation.

Since the spring conference of the Tennessee Union of the Student Volunteer Movement will be held at Maryville College, Miss Manget will be on the campus again in February.

AN APPRECIATION

The flowers which have appeared on the dining room tables from time to time have been sent by the Coulter green house. They have contributed much to the cheerfulness and beauty of the dining room. The thoughtfulness and generosity shown by Coulter's is appreciated.

Music Department Presents Annual Concert Monday

Large Group of Selections To Please Varied Tastes of Audience

The annual Fall Concert of the Music Department will be presented in Voorhees Chapel Monday evening, November 7. The program will consist of a well balanced variety of numbers, representing the best talent of the different units of the Department.

Program building is an art and certainly a glance at the numbers and their contrasting arrangement shows that the program for this concert has been assembled with a view to pleasing the taste of the audience while still upholding the high standard of music offered by the Department.

Much enthusiasm is shown regarding this opening event of the fine arts department, the concert being one which is attended not only by the students but also by many from Maryville, Alcoa, Knoxville, and other communities.

There is no admission fee, the program being a free contribution from the music department. The concert will begin at 8 o'clock. The complete program may be found on the second page.

S. V. W. N. Bulletin Expresses Wide View In Political Platform

Editorials Admit Good Qualities of Each Political Party

The Student Volunteer World News Bulletin favors Hoover. This fact was revealed in an editorial published two weeks ago and was confirmed in a declaration in the current number.

The editorial expressing the political persuasions of the editors ought to please all parties, for it approves portions of all the important platforms, although it supports none in toto. The editors state that they are fundamentally Democratic, but stand pat on Prohibition and the Eighteenth Amendment. They are opposed to a protective tariff policy and to war, but are rather conservative with regard to disarmament. They favor entrance of the United States into the League of Nations, oppose Socialism, and desire the election of Herbert Hoover.

The S. V. W. N. Bulletin is not a political news organ, and neither editors nor reporters are selected on the basis of their political affiliations. The editorials do not express the convictions of anyone except the editors, dissenting opinions of staff members being published in the forum column of the bulletin.

This weekly news bulletin is a semi-independent publication, reporting events of international importance, whether they be political, scientific, economic, socialogial, or religious.

The staff has just been enlarged by the addition of ten new members most of whom are underclassmen. They are: Henrietta Tol, Janet Edmondson, Willis Garrett, Glover, Leach, Robert Downs, Dorothy Lewis, Robert Stevenson, Charles H. Allen, Jr., Eugene Little, Alex Christie, and Lillian Steed.

Barbara Whitmore has recently been promoted to the position of reporter of religious news over the world. The field of Christian Missions is at present without a reporter.

The staff of the bulletin will present the program in the Voluntee. meeting Sunday evening.

MRS. ALEXANDER ILL

Mrs. Alexander has been unable to meet her classes for almost two weeks due to an attack of flu. She is now recovering and expects to return to her duties the first of next week.

Cast For Athenian Midwinter "Dracula" Has Been Selected

Many New Faces Will Be Seen In Cast of Mystery Thriller

With a cast selected by try-outs among amateurs and veterans of the Maryville stage, the Athenian midwinter "Dracula" the vampire play and the second mystery play of Maryville dramatic season, is ready for its initial practice.

The role of the famous Count Dracula of the black cape and piercing eye is taken by Rennie Tubbs. The part of Lucy Seward charming victim of the vampire, is played by Ruth Brocious. Renfield, the madman, is interpreted by Wesley Culver who makes a light diet of such tihngs as flies and bugs.

The supporting cast consists of Harvard Miller, who plays the role of John Harker; Harry Whistler, who takes the part of Dr. von Helsing; Al Duff, cast as another doctor, Dr. Seward; Peter Hamilton, as the attendant of the vampire; and Carrie Lou Tweed, who plays the ever-present part of the maid.

The play is being directed by Mrs. West, stage-managed by Arthur Lazell, and the business manager is Fred Kirchner.

Overwhelming Majority Given To Herbert Hoover In Presidential Vote Cast By Student Body

Norman Thomas On Socialist Ticket Collects Record Vote Count

President Herbert Hoover was "swept" back into office by the students of Maryville college with 59 per cent of the entire vote cast yesterday afternoon.

The straw vote election was conducted by the newly organized debate class under the supervision of Verton M. Queener, debate coach.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt ran second with a numerical vote that was barely more than half of the total votes polled by President Hoover.

The major portion of votes cast were from the senior and junior classes, more than two-thirds of the latter turning out at the polls. The freshmen and sophomore classes were not well represented, not more than one-third of the former casting votes. About half of each of the other classes voted.

Taken as a whole, 54 per cent of the student body's opinion was represented, thus making President Hoover the choice of a considerable portion of the student body.

Norman Thomas, leading candidate in the minority field received 7.7 per cent of the total vote cast. This is, comparatively speaking, a greater vote than any minority party has ever received in national elections..

David E. Upshaw, Prohibition candidate, received three votes out of the 429 votes cast. It is probable that these votes do not represent legitimate opinion.

It was expected that Governor Roosevelt would register a greater vote than he received. This may have been due to the fact that national indications point to Roosevelt's superiority in straw vote returns in states that are normally Republican. The fact is, however, that most of the students at Maryville are from conservative families. Although the present trend is to disregard the "politics of the father", Maryville does not have many who do so.

The vote is as follows:
President Herbert Hoover—255—59% vote cast
Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt—139—32% vote cast
Norman Thomas—32—7.7% vote cast
David E. Upshaw—3—.7% vote cast

Y.M.C.A. Conference To Be In Maryville November 19 and 20

Maryville Is Honored In Being Choice of East Tennessee Association

The Y. M. C. A. makes the announcement that the East Tennessee Student Conference will be held on the campus on November 19 and 20. This is quite an honor, in view of the fact that the conferences have not been held on a college campus for a number of years, and also that Maryville has been chosen from a group of eleven colleges and universities as the place of meeting.

The conference motto is: "To Me to Live Is Christ". The registration of delegates will take place from five to six o'clock p. m. on November 19, and the Conference will adjourn shortly after three p. m. on November 20. Speakers thus far obtained are, Mr. Howard Hubbell, State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A., and Dean Foster of Tusculum College.

Faculty Club Hears Instructive Lecture Of Dr. William Stevenson

Leader Speaks on "Humor As A Staunch and Necessary Supporter of Moral Order"

Dr. William P. Stevenson was the speaker at the monthly meeting of the faculty club Tuesday evening. His subject was "Humor As A Staunch and Necessary Supporter of The Moral Order".

Dr. Stevenson said, "the most characteristic symptom of the malady affecting the life, the thought, the literature, and the religion of our day is the lack of joy and gladness. The world is full of locked up lives, inhabited by shyness, by fear, by the flatness of life, by a thousand bolts and bars; spirits in prison and not able to get out. To such an age, and to such a world, disillusioned, self-centered, ridiculously sad, spiritually bankrupt, having little hope or enthusiasm, humor comes as a comforting, cheering gift of the gods.

"Briefly, there are three ways in which a sense of humor steadies and supports a sane, social, and moral order. First, it reveals and ridicules false and exaggerated magnitude. Every man seems to himself to be at the heart of things. To undo this habit, to reveal the ludicrous perspective involved in this flattering notion is the great service rendered to our inflation by humor. Atheism too, falls apart before humor, for to assume that the universal order has, or could come from universal confusion; to imagine that an intelligible world has arisen from a non-intellectual, unconscious source, is the superlative speculative joke.

"Second, humor has an important part to play in the purification of political life. The terrible humor of Robert Burns in "Holy Willie's Prayer" is the best and most powerful sermon ever preached against hypocrisy. The teacher of an idea must be a worthy representative of his idea or the world will laugh him down." The 23rd chapter of Matthew was cited as a terrible instance of Christian humor dealing with monstrous incongruity.

"A third quality which further fits humor to be a staunch supporter of the moral order is irony. humor in a serious vein. In the Bible this serious form of humor plays a large part. The historical epic of Israel's national exodus is a striking instnce of irony and Christ

(Continued On Page Four)

Inter-racial Group Will Meet In Y.W.C.A. Reading Room Sunday

Morristown, Knoxville College, Univesity of Tennessee, and Maryville Attend

The East Tennessee Student Inter-racial Commission will meet in the Y. W. C. A. reading rooms Sunday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock. Representatives from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville College, and Morristown College will be present.

As a theme for the program, the commission has chosen "The Basis of International Conflicts". This will be developed in four phases: racial, religious, economic, and political.

The discussions will be directed by students from the four colleges. Maryville's subject, "The Political Relations Between Races, is to be presented by Phil Soree.

In addition to the conference there will be three musical numbers. Instrumental music will be furnished by Burton Toms and Mildred Purviance.

Jesse Carter will give a short sketch o fthe life and works of the composer, Harry T. Burleigh. Two of his songs, "Jean", and "Little Mother of Mine", will be sung by Calvin Smith.

A very interesting and instructive program is anticipated and it is hoped that a large number of Maryville students will attend.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

GERALDINE SMITH - - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
KAY CARPENTER - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, November 5, 1932

ON CHEATING

It behooves an editor of a college paper to break away occasionally from conventionality and express views which probabbly fail to meet with student opinion in general. We have been told that these views are instigated, and encouraged, by teaching that is narrow, and not modern enough . . . . that they show training which we have retained to our disadvantage, instead of allowing ourselves to become adjusted to college conditins.

Our particular view regards students who cheat on examinatoins, and more exactly we refer to those students who are always at one's class room door to learn "what the questions are" on the examination. Some weak willed, unconcerned, and withal unwise, people break down and furnish this information gladly, and from there, it is a simple process for these parasytic people to prepare. They have but to form a mental picture of their examination paper, and write out the form when the time comes.

Whether this method of getting an eduation is wrong or right, we don't know. At least we can't speak with authority. We can say, however, that some of our most idealistic conceptions of supposedly refined people have fallen definitely. Against our own will, we're forced to acknowledge that people who will graduate with honors allow themselves to be classed as parasites. . . people who exploit their fellow students for a good grade.

Examinations begin to lose their flavor, grades cease to have much value, and the worth of a student simply can't be ascertained. In the last analysis, one can see only one classification left for a group of students making up a student body. The body is composed of those who cheat, and those who who don't . . . . the dependable, and the undependable.

No anxiety is involved in writing such a criticsm. This is true only because the type of student which has furnished us with this subject belongs to the larger type which operates not in the open, but behind closed doors.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND COLLEGE?

The dean of Lehigh University,, in an article on "Who Should go to College", gives six tests for parents to apply to potential students before sending them to school. The requirements are, (1) an Intelligence Quotient of 120 on the Binet-Stanford Test; (2) a ranking in the upper two-fifths of the class; (3) low age grade (the student graduating at 16 is conceded a much better chance than the graduate of 19 years"; (4) rapidity at reading; (5) the possession of a full vocabulary; (6) a predilection for the use of dictionaries and encyclopedias. These are indeed stiff tests to apply to any high school student.

The writer indicates that a person should graduate from high school at a youthful age. He goes on further to emphasize that the college student should have a high degree of self mastery at college age. . . . all of which seems to allow somewhat of an inconsistency. It would seem that about the surest way of insuring a student's safety is to have a few years added to his age before allowing him to attend college.

Why is it necessary to go immediately from high school to college? It means, in such a case, that the student has sixteen successive years with no time out for a change of pace. It is one grind continually. To stay out of school for some students is to have a more vivid onception of what their purpose is when they do begin advanced work. This time out of school is often the most inspired time of a person's life; the time of transition, the time of thought, and ambition.

The plan to rush children through the early grades, then to take high school with as little work as possible, and to continue through college with a rush is becoming archaic in its application. Parents realize that the student can learn better, and apply more realistically, if he has background, and he has experience to help him. Soon a social stigma will exist for the teacher who insists on "skipping" a certan number of good students, just because they are good.

To get back to the original six points is to admit that they comprise about the most thorough test that one might conceive of. If a potential student could pass this test with any kind of record he could be assured of a successful college education. With a rapidly increasing number of college students, it is quite possible that some such plan of rating may be put to use in the very near future.

Dean E. R. Hunter Goes To Monteagle

Dr. E. R. Hunter left early Wednesday afternoon for Monteagle, Tennessee, where he attended a meeting of the Committee of Tennessee Colige Associations. He returned Friday evening in order to meet Saturday's classes.

The purpose of the trip is not known. but it is believed that he attended in an advisory capacity in behalf of the college.

He was accompanied on the trip by Mrs. Hunter.

If all the billboards in the United States were placed end to end, they would reach just as far as they do now.

LITTLE CHURCH

We often wonder at the seeming lack of spiritual power in the church today. She seems to be a large organization and that is all; the spirit of Christ is noticeably lacking. There are several reasons for this, bubt one reason seems to underlie all the others. No chain is stronger than its weakest link, and there are too many weak links in the church. The church lacks spiritual power because individual Christians lack spiritual power.

Too many people think that spirituality comes down upon one as fire from heaven and that all we have to do is to sit around and wait for it. Fortunately, this is not the case. The old adage "practice makes perfect" applies just as much to our religious life as it does to our intellectual life or any other phase.

It is my firm conviction that one must "practice the presence of God" if he would really become acquainted with Him. It takes effort and time to develop oneself along spiritual lines.

When we spend sixteen hours a day in working, playing, eating, and five mintes, or less, a day in serious thought about the eternal things of life, is it any wonder that we are spiritually dead? It is easy for us to become so busy with studies, athletics, forensics, dramatics, and moonshining that we neglect the spiritual side. This concerns every student who is seriously trying to develop a well-rounded and perfectly balanced life.

Every one of us should spend some time each day not only in prayer and in the study of the Bible, but also in reading religious books and magazines, sermons, devotional books and the like. Also, the habit of reflection and serious thinking on these things cannot be overemphasized.

Every person who accepts the name of Christian has as his duty the development of his spiritual life, the strengthening of the bond between himself and his God.

—Robert Stevenson.

Book Browsing

La Farge, Oliver, Sparks Fly Upward, Cambridge, Riverside Press, 1931, 32 pages.

Man is born to trouble! This is the highly interesting theme dealt with by Oliver La Farge, in "Sparks Fly Upward". Again La Farge chooses as his setting the North American scene. Although he has by no means achieved the success he had in "Laughing Boy" the flavor given the book by his intrinsic plan for life makes it worth reading.

La Farge invaded a new field of serious fiction some years ago when he presented in "Laughing Boy" a plot, scene, and characterization, thoroughly American, thereby making a real contribution to American literature. The tone of "Sparks Fly Upward" is not so distinctly American, but it shows the depth of La Large's understanding and interpretation of the Indian. This ability comes as a result of experience. Someone has said that La Farge is the one man who can talk to Indians and get anything out of them. This, perhaps, accounts for his phenomenal success in depicting the riddle of Indian life. This time he deals not so much with Indian life, as with an Indian individual, and introduces, for variation, a Spanish element. The harmony of setting, character, and tone make up for the lack of compression.

Esteban, born of an Indian mother and Spanish father, brought up by a Spanish aristocrat, whose life his mother had saved, remains always essentially Indian. He finds his existence peculiarly difficult because of his mixed parentage. Looked down upon by the Spaniard, mistrusted by the Indian, he starts out in an army career determined to make himself worthy of the notice of Favia, Spanish lady. She knows nothing of his Indian blood, and unfortunately is the wife of Esteban's benefactor, Cerromoyor. The young Indian's army career is punctuated with secret and romantic meetings with Favia, whose interest in him increases with his success. He achieves brilliant success, gaining the confidence, admiration, and trust of both Indians and Spanards. In the meantime an Indian maid, Marta, attaches herself to him because of a favor done her. His eyes ever on Favia, Esteban regards her as a sort of necessary evil. Oddly enough, when his prize is finally within his reach, it has lost its desirability. The reactions of this whimsical, inconsistent, halfbreed to his loves, needs, and problem bring the book to an interesting close from a psychological point of view.

La Farge is an artist in living. His good points lie in his use of the most simple and obvious of effects, his startling word pictures, his descriptions of life and the by-products of living. He creates a perfect atmosphere, realistic life situations in which to put his none too strong characters. Descriptive power is, perhaps, the greatest asset of this man who is in part a poet.

In "Sparks Fly Upward", however, he fails to excite in his reader the sympathy and love of the Indian that a reader of "Laughing Boy" could not escape having. The book is interesting enough in itself, but one should not read it with the expectation of finding another "Laughing Boy".

Once a month every man complains of his family's extravagances

WORLD TODAY

Thousands of unemployed and "hungry marchers" tried to rush the gates of Buckingham Palace, London home of King George V, at a recent demonstration of rioters gathered from all over England. Police were able to thrust them back into Trafalgar Square before any damage was done.

—MC—

Two of the bloodiest battles in the recent Manchurian campaign were fought Sunday and Monday long the Tsitsihar-Koshan railway. These battles indicated that the revolt against the Japanese and against the new state of Manchukuo, involving thousands of fresh soldiers, had spread to the east.

—MC—

Negotiations to settle the relations between King Carol and his divocced wife, Princess Helene, were completed when the former queen gave a formal audience to the premier and to the foreign minister in Bucharest recently. It has been reported that the government agreed to permit Helene to visit Roumania whenever she desires, provided she notice of her plans.

—MC—

According to Sir Arthur Salter, noted British economist, America's prosperity depends on her being able to see that a revision of war debts and tariffs, and reinvestments abroad, must come to revive world trade.

—MC—

At the recent German-American Conference in New York City, Grover A. Whalen, President of the Advertising Club of New York, hailed the German languagge as an aid to American citizenship and a vehicle for cultural contributions to national life. The foreign language press was praised for its influence on America's foreign-born citizens.

—MC—

Samuel H. Hofstadter who was nominated by both Democrats and Republicans for the New York Supreme Court, has denied that he solicited endorsement by Tammany or that any "deal, bargain, or agreement" figured in the nomination in any way.

—MC—

Police fired rifles and machine guns on part of a crowd of 30,000 persons demonstrating in Santiago, Chile, Monday. The crowds were holding a demonstration for Colonel Marmaduque Gerove, who was defeated in last Sunday's presidential election by former President Arthur Alessandri. Mass meeting and parades were held to welcome back from exile at Easter Island Colonel Grove and Eugenir Matte Hurtado, who were heads of a Socialist revolution that controlled Chile for a week early in the summer.

—MC—

The Financial Secretary of the British Treasury ruled Tuesday that Canadian grain stored or shipped into and reconsigned from the United States will not receive preferential tariff treatment.

—MC—

Plans for strengthening Japan's naval and air forces are an important feature of the supplementary building program which the navy is now discussing with the treasury in preparation of the budget. The figures are not yet final, but it is not denied that increased appropriations are demanded. Both the naval and air forces, which had their estimates curtailed by the former cabinet, are determined to take advantage of the favorable opportunity.

FALL CONCERT

Given By Department of Music of Maryville College

Voorhees Chapel November 7, 1932

PROGRAM

Intermezzo in Octaves ---------- Leschetizky
The Lark ---------- Glinka-Balakirew
Ruth Henry

Carnival Chorus from "La Tarantelle" ---------- Jakabowski
Love Walks and Weeps ---------- Calcott
Vesper Choir

Andante Sosterento ---------- Bargiel
Bolero ---------- Moszkowski
Miss Butcher, Mildred Harris, Eleanor Topalian

The Elf ---------- Philipp
Rush Hour in Hongkong ---------- Chasins
The Cat and The Mouse ---------- Copeland
Garnet Manges

Tez Yeux ---------- Rabey
The Bird and the Babe ---------- Lieurance
She Stands There Smiling ---------- Lieurance
Norma Spilatore

Romance) for seven ---------- Gibelius Polonaise) pianos ---------- Chopin
Carrie Pearson, Willimae Renegar, Grace Proffitt, Hazel Hale, Margaret Cooley, Mary Gillingham, Elizabeth Baer

Concerto in D ---------- Seitz
Serenade ---------- Troostwyk
Eleanor Topalian

Concerto in D minor (first movement) ---------- Rubinstein
Garnet Manges (orchestral accompaniment on second piano, Miss Susan Howard)

OBSERVATIONS

Yellow Dresses
Nature In The Raw
The Grand Finale
Mean Old Mabel

We were looking around for some cheap paper to write our O's on, something that wouldn't do for any thing else, and we were pretty much at sea until just now. We ran across some Alpha Sigma stationery that fills in to a T.

—O—

Allow us to thrust ourselves upon your good old minds for one little instant to say that there is one thing on this campus, in the way of a change, that we—do—like. And that is the arrangement whereby the students can sit around, and sit around, and sit around, on Sunday morning after church and while away the time until the fill period. Somehow, we feel that the final decision to allow this privilege was backed by plenty of logic on someone's part. Besides its ascetic value, it has another one that isn't at all bad. For us, who only observe, it furnishes a time to scrutinize, then to criticze, the dress of our fellows, and fellowses. . . . . who sit around . . . and sit around . . . . and sit around. . . . . because, as we said, it's before dinner, not after supper.

—O—

Our latest, and most potent finding is to the effect that we don't like those yellow dresses that look just a whole lot like they've associated plenty with too much dirt. Why any person would wear yellow, he she, or even he, has a myriad of other colors to choose from, is a bit beyond our comprehension.

—O—

We were told one day that it isn't the place of men to criticize women's wear, because we don't know enough about it. Well, we don't know much, but we're trying to learn. . . because we feel that someone should know.

—O—

Nature in the raw is seldom mild —and no one knows that better than Doctor Hunter and the examiner who entered one of the representative rooms of Carnegie, and were not rudely, but nudely entertained by Burt Graham. Burt wasn't expecting callers, and he was doing what could be considered his "utmost" in the way of saving his fragments. About the time the authoritives had recovered, a lusty knock came on the door, and in trekked T. Madison Byar, the erstwhile physical impossibility of the campus Nine had taken a shower, then put on an apron, and had come in to "show" for Burt. He did. The men didn't stay long after that. They went from there to the girls' dormitories.

—O—

There's just this about it; something's got to be done about that choir in the Presbyterian church. We've taken up church in our curriculum almost steadily here for the last two Sundays, and if things don't change, we might become more or less regular in our attendance. And when we brag on the choir, we don't mean they can sing, nor that they can't, because we don't know. . . . . our interest is purely a matter of sight. In case any of the men of the choir might not quite understand, we wish to make ourselves clear, by asserting that it's the front row of the choir that we're speaking of. And if it weren't that Professor Crothers was a dignified professor on the hill, we'd be. . .er . . . a . . . more specific.

—O—

We're sorry that you didn't get that observation on Binny Groves as we intended you to last week. You see Mabel Wright proof read our Observations, and she just can't have herself spoken about in a personal way. If anything like that happens again, there might be trouble, "Up in Mabel's room."

What this country needs is fewer people telling us what this country needs.

WRIGTH'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN TOPE, Representative

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	*†9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.
Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*†‡Direct connection to Townsend

JUNIORS!!!

The Chilhowean is your publication; therefore your responsibility. It receives a discount on all photographic copy in by November 15. You intend to have your pictures made eventually. Why not do it at once and save your class both time and money? ?

SPORTS

Highlander Scrubs Trounce Englewood High School Squad

Power And Speed Charcterize Play Of Scrublings In One Sided Go

Displaying an abundance of speed and power, the Highlander Scrubs emerged a topheavy winner over the feeble Englewood High School varsity here last Thursday.

In all appearances, the work-out boys must have been waiting for just such an opportunity and the one-sided score of 46-0 gives ample proof of their ability and promise as future varsity material. Felknor, with three touchdowns to his credit, was one of the shining lights in the coach's eyes, while Krainock's running and Grantham's line play and accurate drop-kicking gave promise of large possibilities.

After kicking off and holding Englewood for downs in the first quarter, the Scrubs settled down to their work and after a march of fifty yards, Krainock went over for first blood. Gray plunged through for the extra point.

In the second quarter, after a thirty yard run by Krainock, Felknor made the second touchdown on a short line buck and the try for the extra point went wide. The Maryville defense, working well throughout the game, gave Englewood little opportunity for a running attack. Loesberg added six more points and Grantham drop-kicked the extra. Coker scored the fourth touchdown in the third quarter and Grantham's educated toe tallied again.

After a fifty yard march in the fourth quarter, Felknor went over and the ty for point failed. Shortly after, an intercepted pass gave the home team the ball and a pass from Keaton to Felknor netted another score. Grantham then made his third successful drop-kick of the afternoon. Englewood then resorted to an aerial attack which failed as Slawson intercepted a pass nd galloped fifty yards for the final score of the game.

In spite of the one-sided score, the game was easy to watch. In view of the numerous injuries to Englewood players, we appear to have a hard hitting aggregation for futrue use.

The line-up:

Englewood		Maryville
Fellers	l.e.	Thoma
B. Basket	l.t.	Macoia
McNiel	l.g.	Grantham
Bowers	c.	Pieper
A. Basket	r. g.	McArthur
Raper	r.t.	Smith
Brown	r.e.	Slawson
Deatherage	q.	Gray
Dougherty	r.h.	Coker
Hightower	l.h.	Loesberg
	f.	Krainock

Ralph Walker Will Attend Tennessee Vanderbilt Battle

Complimentary Letter To News Sentinel Turns Trick For Lucky Senior

Ralph S. Walker of 201 Carnegie Hall will see the Tennessee-Vanderbilt game on Saturday, November 12, free. As a guest of the Knoxville News-Sentinel, Walker will not only receive admittance into the stadium at Nashville, but transportation both ways between Knoxville and Nashville in a special bus with twenty-four other fortunate people.

All Walker had to do to merit this day of pleasure was to write one of the twenty-five best letters telling why he preferred to read the News Sentinel and shop by its ads.

It might be mentioned, too, that while Pearsons will miss Ralph, he will not miss Pearsons, for as well as the aforementioned reward, Walker will be fed three times at the expense of the newspaper.

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club met on Thursday night, November 3rd. The members took part in a number of games and were entertained by a special number, a solo sung by Maud Boss.

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

In spite of our infamous uncompromising nature, we are forced to begin hostilities this week with an apology. Now we don't mind making apologies at all, understand, but a public apology requires such delicacy and tact that we shun them as much as possible. Nevertheless, we head into this one with daring, yea even recklessness. And why not? We see no reason in the world why we should not apologize to all Maryville co-eds for our past terminology of them as "females". We can neither see any reason for our aforesaid indelicacy, except the barrier of our clossal ignorance. We did not know, until so informed by Mrs. Queener, that the word carries with it any suggestion of animality. We supposed, in our ignorance, that we were paying the girls the compliment of maturity, but awoke to the stern reality that we were labelling them with unflattering terms. We are sorry. We apologize.

—S—

We made three prophecies last week, of which two were correct! We can't believe it yet, although good authorities tell us that 'tis indeed true. If Vanderbilt had not showed enough strength to take Tech for a grid ride, we should have been unanimous. But you will recall (maybe) that, even though we chose Tech to defeat Vandy, we did it with long and loud misgivings. The bitter gall of Tech's downfall is sweetened by the victories of the Georgia Bulldogs and the Cairo, (Ga.) Tigers. Long live the grid-iron animal kingdom! Especially the Bulldogs and Yellow Jackets.

—S—

While at the football game between the Reserves and the Englewoodians Thursday afternoon we experienced several of Doc Fields' sensations, namely, to wit and viz.:

1. Along with everyone else, we were impressed with Crainocks power.

2. Colaboring with last year's Echo editor, we prognosticated around ere the game commenced, and predicted the score, missing it by one point. We still question one of the Bulldog's points after touchdown which, if missed, would have made our prediction right.

3. More yelling per person was done than at the regular games. We attribute this to the surprising scarcity of moonshiners.

4. Coach Robert Caperus Thrower directed the Bulldog's destiny, a in natty light gray suit instead of his usual sweater (and other garments, of course).

—S—

We were lost without a football game last week-end. We had gotten used to a struggle on each week-terminal and our craving for the combat was such that it had to be assuaged. So we visited a certain wedded couple of our acquaintance.

—S—

Those few kind souls who always look for something nice to say about people will please remember that for two whole weeks we have not made a dirty dig at the freshmen, AND that our mention of home grid activities this week amounted to one lone paragraph. Of course some wag will now feel obliged to inquire why we speak so thoughtlessly of the dead. Well, we admit it.

Hiking Club Leaves For Cowan Springs

The B. G. Hiking Club, a society composed of a limited number of girls of the college, left this morning on an eleven mile hike to Cowan Springs where the group will be entertained during the week-end at Miss Gamble's cottage. The hikers will return Monday morning.

Miss Carrol and Miss Kennedy are chaperoning the party. Members of the club who went are: Inez Hamrick, Mildred Purviance, Ruth Farlee, Katherine Wayland, Eleanor Johnson, and Ellen Macrae. Invited guests are: Violet Webb, Lucille Swafford, and Eleanor Henry Topalian.

Advertising Specialist: Darling, if our marriage is not entirely satisfactory your name will be cheerfully refunded.

College Basketeers May Play Illinois Champs Dec. 19

Other Games Will Be Arranged For "Warm Up" Previous To Severe Test

Captain James "Yankee" Lewis has hopes for a basketball season as good as that of last year, in spite of the fact that so many of last season's veterans are missing. That means much is expected of the new men who have come out. Two crimmages have been held to date, beyond drilling in the fundamentals. There are a number of likely looking prospects among the score of men who took part in the scrimmage held Thursday afternoon. And when football season ends, there will be at least ten more men who, having worked into physical condition on the gridiron, will be out to swell the basketball squad.

Coach Honaker has no definite schedule for the season worked out yet, but the usual home-and-abroad arrangement may be expected with teams in the Smoky Mountain Conference. A game with Illinois State Normal, a veteran team which was the best in Illinois last year, has been practically aranged by Manager Clifton Moore for December 19. As it is hardly likely that Maryville will play so powerful a team as the Illinois champions to begin a season, there will almost certainly be several games arranged before that date against local aggregations.

A definite basketball schedule will be ready for publication within a week or two.

Three Girls Soccer Teams Get In Shape For Class Contests

Final Battle Will Be Played In Alumni Gymnasium November 12

By the first of next week the three girls' soccer teams will have been chosen and will be ready for the play-offs. The sophomores and the junior-senior teams will be selected according to their skill in playing, and a scrimmage between the two freshman teams will decide which one will represent the new girls.

The three teams will play off the six elimination games which precede the final battle. This makes two scrimmages for each group. The decisive conflict is going to be held, Satruday night, November 12th.

The ability shown by the co-eds and the development of the teams is very encouraging. The freshman girls, many of whom knew nothing about soccer at the beginning of the year, are steadily increasing their proficiency at the game. Ruth Doty as center, Barbar Kizer as forward, and Kathryn Simmons as goal keeper are oustanding freshman players. The sophomores have some very good material. Two forwards, Mary Cooper and Mary Gillingham, and two wings, Nina Gamble and Aline Koons, are among the best. Of the players on the junior and senior team, Kathryn Wayland, Ruth Farlee, and Margaret Cooley are outstanding.

Cross Country Run Will Be Staged At Lenoir Rhyne Game

First Six Men Will Compete Against University of Tennessee

On Saturday, November 12, eight or nine men will participate in the annual five mile cross-country race, which will begin at the end of the first half of the football game between Maryville and Lenoir-Rhyne College. Starting from Wilson Field the runners will swing to the loop through the college wood, follow it out through Pea Ridge, back past the fork of the road at the south end of Court Street, and finish at Wilson Field.

The runners, who have spent almost six weeks in training for the event, are Moore, Snedecker, Bettis, Gillis, Obert,, Kidd, and Paul. The race promises to be a fast go with several of the men having made excellent showings in practice.

Thursday, Moore lowered the official record of twenty-seven minutes —twenty-six and eight tenths seconds, made by him, to an unofficial mark of twenty seven minutes, twenty seconds. Paul ran the course in thirty minutes; and Snedecker and Bettis have been making good time. Moore set the record in the last race; if he wins next Saturday he will be the only man to win twice in the history of Maryville College. No one is saying who will win, but the one who does is going to have a tough pull.

The man finishing first will receive a silver cup; second, a gold medal; and third, a silver medal. The first six who finish will comprise the team which will go to U. T. on Saturday, Novemger 19, to compete with the cross-country aggregation there.

Another Advanced Gym Course Offered By Coach Queener

Girls Will Improve On Advanced Gym Course Given Last Year

A new advanced gym course is being offered this year by Mrs. Queener for those girls,, who, last year, took advanced gym. In last year's course, fundamentals of dancing and simple steps were taught. In this year's course body muscle control, rhythm, and interpretive dance patterns will be emphasized.

Mrs. Queener, while at the University of Indiana this past summer, studied under Miss H'Doubler whose book, "The Dance and Its Place in Education" is one of several texts studied in this class.

The select group of nine who are now studying under Mrs. Queener's direction are working hard on this new type of "expression gymnastics" and hope to fulfill Mrs. Queener's expectations for them.

A professor once spent some time figuring out why professors are absent minded. He forgot the answer.

Be prepared if disaster strikes. Join your Red Cross Chapter now.

COLLEGIATE SWAPS

College spirit consists of being actively interested in every phase of college life and giving one's loyal support to the whole program of the school, according to the editor of the Judson college "Triangle", in about the nth editorial we've read on that subject.

Up Lexington, Kentucky, way they have plenty of trouble with students rushing shows after pep meetings. Some wisecracker yelled "fire" at one of the movies, after he'd been allowed in, and nearly accounted for a mad rush. The most trouble seems to be caused by people other than students entering the shows, and causing trouble for which the students must take the blame.

They're having a beauty contest at the University of Kentucky which will take place at the annual Kentuckian dance in December. The selections will be made through a noble tableau system, and the ECHO EIGHTEEN queens are all assured a fair chance, for the judges will be from out of town.

In Cookeville, Tennessee they're all aroused over the super accomplishment of the team against the boys from Sewanee. The T. P. I. team rose to great heights in holding Sewanee to a 0-0 tie.

We have quite a time finding news in the "Lenoir Rhynean", publication of Lenoir Rhyne College. They have only a four page, five column paper, and it is then filled, sometimes half-full of advertisements. We might be able to stand a few Hickory business men in Maryville for a spell.

We find on our desk the college paper from Huron College, Huron, South Dakota. Just now, while they are not giving all their attention to the political rallies, which seem to resemble these at Maryville, they are preparing for a big homecoming celebration, and the tenth annual pow-wow at the college.

In the University of South Carolina there are 24 states represented by the students. Four foreign countries have sent students to the university. We happen to have a wider representation at Maryville, however, with 31 states, and seven foreign countries on the black and white list. That's going by last year's catalogue, but there seems to be little variation from year to year.

From the looks of some of them it is hard to believe that no automobile is more than 30 years old.

—MC—

If present immigration laws had been in force earlier few of our ancestors would have gotten in.

College Grid Squad Will Attempt To Stop Milligan Buffaloes

Rejuvenated Team Will Vanquish Milligan If Jinx Can Be Shaken

The side of the Tennessee hill which has been levelled off to provide a grid field for Milligan College was waiting apprehensively this afternoon to be torn to shreds by the cleated foot of the Scot and the cloven hoof of the Buffalo as they clashed in their annual feud today at the Johnson City school. And well might apprehension reign; for the Scots were held to a 0-0 tie last year by the Buffaloes and are out for revenge. On the other hand, although Milligan has no such grudge against Maryville, they will bt fighting to redeem themselves for the defeats handed them by several members of the Smoky Mountain Conference, notably the one by Carson-Newman who ran up nine touch downs on the Jaycee boys.

These two factors promise a real scrap, although both teams seem to be almost at the bottm of the Conference heap. Reports from the enemy camp indicate that the Buffaloes are straining at their leashes, anxious to wreak revenge on the Scots for the ignobia lacing they received at the hands of Tennessee-Wesleyan last week, as Maryville rested after the struggle with the Vols.

And the practice sessions of the Highlanders for the past two weeks have shown a rejuvenated team, one that has been constantly progressing, never marking time, since the first September practice. Especially have Honaker's backs improved in the art of running interference. The corner drug store sages have been wont to criticize this department of play for the entire year. But a marked improvement has been enacted, and we wager that those who see the game today will bring back no complaints about the blocking of the backs.

The trainers report that all the men are in excellent condition; practice shows them to be in better coordination; and all this goes to make Milligan's fate look even blacker. We predict a several touch down victory for the home team.

The new dormitory for girls at Drake University, Des Moines, Ia., is equipped with a telephone in every room.

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

REAGAN'S CAFE
We are now selling
HAMBURGER SANDWICHES
... At ...
5c
Each
Come In and Try Them

CITY SHOE REBUILDERS
EXCELLENT SHOE REPAIRING
Agents: Elizabeth Smith, Memorial; Kinser Bros., 303 Carnegie

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

KODAK FINISHING
... FOR ...
Best Results and Permanent Prints
BRING YOUR FILMS TO
THE WEBB STUDIO
220 COLLEGE STREET

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Try Our Store First for the Finest GROCERIES at the Best Price
H. P. BYERLEY
PHONE 398 Joe Max Byerley will Deliver

THREE POLITICAL MEN TELL WHY

I'm a Democrat

By Verton M. Queener

WHY I AM A DEMOCRAT

Aside from inheritance, the reason usually assigned for belonging to a party, one should have a conviction based on what he thinks are facts. In a brief space I shall attempt to give the facts back of the conviction on which I stand.

Beginning with 1792-93, we have had two major parties. The names have been changed but the principles (if any) have come down to the present.

There are two reasons why I am a Democrat, because of the philosophy or principle on which the two parties are supposedly based, and because of the history made in working out these principles.

"Strict" or "loose" construction of the Constitution summarizes the first political or party awakening. Jefferson favoring "strict construction", and Hamilton favoring "loose construction," in some formulated two political philosophies, Jefferson's being that governmental functions are primarily negative, that government "should keep people from hurting each other" and nothing more. This means that the weak would be protected against the unscrupulous strong in a physical, economic, social, and religious way.

The Democratic party has not always held to this principle, but it has come nearer doing so than any other party.

Opposed to this, the Republican philosophy is that the government should do all that is not prohibited to it by the Constitution. That is, aid or hinder in the business activites of indviduals and corporations; build banks, assume debts, protect industry, etc. Government is to aid business.

Thus the Democartic philosophy would make the government an impartial presiding officer to see that no harm would be done. The Republican philosophy would make the government an agency for promoting business. I believe in the former.

Both parties have varied widely from their fundamental doctrine. From 1844 to 1860 the Democratic party the government an agency for promoting big business which, at that time, happened to be slavery. Similarly in 1860 the Republican party under Lincoln set out to protect the weak against the strong, and did, but by the time it had finished its task, it in turn, had been taken over by a new strong group whose interest it has been forced to serve ever since.

The party organizations got control of the election in 1796 and the Republicans (Federalists) won. Since that time they have controlled the executive for about sixty-two years. The Democrats (Jeffersonian Republicans) won first in 1800. Since then they have controlled the executive branch of our government for about seventy-five years.

The two parties have made a lot of history. The country has progressed in spite of both parties and to write about its progress under one party or the other is idle and leads nowhere.

By their obvious mistakes we may know them sufficiently. The Democrats chartered the second United States bank. The Democrats in a fever of expansion led us into the Mexican War. The Southern wing of the Democrats by trying to maintain an institution helped to bring on the Civil War.

The Republicans created a political scandal by making money out of the debts of the Revolution and chartering the first United States bank. The Republicans with the aid of the "New Democrats" took us into the War of 1812. The Republicans, by becoming a purely sectional party and trying to destroy an institution, helped to bring on the Civil War. The Republicans got full (peace-time) control of the government for the first time with Grant's election, then followed a scandal characterized as the "Nadir of Disgrace". The Republicans in an expansion fever led us into the War of 1898. The Republicans again reached full control in the 1920's and a scandal even of greater magnitude than that of Grant's time swept our country.

Is this saying that one party has a clean slate on scandal and the other has not? Yes, and the cause goes back to the philosophy of government for if one believes that the government is an agency to promote business, it is easy to believe that government, its property, and income is to promote business and business men. Such reasoning is indulged in by only a few members of the party but they have disgraced the country on at least two occasions.

Just two other thoughts, tariff and money. Protective tariff grows naturally out of Republican philosophy. The government is to aid business therefore it should protect a certain business and enable the owner to carry on that business on a profit-making basis. This whole theory is wrong if trade is a good thing and if international trade is primarily an exchange of goods.

"Hard Money" is a favorite standby of the Republican orators. The cheapest money issued since continental paper, was issued by a Republican administration. The hardest fight to maintain a gold standard was made by a Democrat—Cleveland in his second term. This struggle was brought about by the Republican raid on the treasury during Harrison's administration.

Now because I believe in the philosophy of the Democratic party and because that party, though it has harmed the country, has not both harmed and disgraced the country, I am a Democrat.

I'm a Socialist

By J. Arthur Lazell

No intelligent man wishes to overthrow our existing government, no intelligent man will sanction the institution of any radical forms of government in this country, but no intelligent man should permit psuedo politicians, racketeers, and capitalists with logic-tight compartments to continue ruining this country.

The problem facing the American voting population this fall is exactly this: at heart few voters are willing to condone the fruitless attempts to regulate our national government nor the stupendous graft that has permeated every pore of our state. In his decision to remain with his party the voter has fostered the growth of inefficiency and corruption because by doing so he is giving assurance to his party's leaders that they can continue their illegal practices and not lose the voter's support.

It is all very well to advertise President Herbert Hoover as the man to ride in the middle of the stream, and it is equally as good to advertise Franklin D. Roosevelt as the man who will get things done, because neither slogan means anything practicable. This presidential election is no exception, it is merely following the precedent set by other so-called Republicans and Democrats.

The Republican will argue that Hoover has striven mightily, yes, and like the mountain his labors have produced a mole hill, giving freedom in this particular to a colony of ants that has been a plague: Democratic campaigning.

The Democrat, with no man in the White House to whom to point as an unenviable example, gives his acquiesence to the candidacy of a man who wasn't the original choice of the party and who has accomplished nothing worth while as governor of New York state.

The adherents of both parties seem to agree on the fact that we need a real politician in the presidency and have accordingly gone on with their respective campaigning. But President Hoover's political sense deserted him throughtout 1929 and 1930 when he sanctioned the issuance of "prosperity publicity"; and Governor Roosevelt collapsed during the Hofstadter investigation into the affairs of New York city—a conglomeration of Republicans and Democrats working together to worship the same gods of deceit, squandering, and negligence.

This arrangement leads to one thing, and in this case it happens to be the Socialist party because the Socialists can offer the greatest amount of protcetion from a system of democracy that is based upon lists of hand picked candidates for the consideration of American voters on election day.

I am a Socialist, not because I believe implicity in the doctrines of Carl Marx, or because I believe that every plank in the Socialist platform is superior to similar ones in the oppositions' platforms, but because I am thoroughly disgusted with the way in which Americans are being made the laughing stock of the world and the toy of wise-cracking political leaders who are plundering the resources and institutions of the people of this country

Ask any Democrat or Republican who has the least sense of justice and you will find that he has not reasonable ground upon which to deny malfeasance, non-feasance, and misfeasance on the part of the leading office-seeking groups of the U. S.

Why must we subject ourselves to further imposition of back-breaking obligations in order to meet the demands of incompetency. It was time long ago, and it is time right now that every voter in this country threw aside the unreasoning principles that make him a Democrat or a Republican because his father was one, to make Democrats and Republicans re-build their organizations.

The intelligent Socialist of this country doesn't herald the coming election as an opportunity for electing Norman Thomas—a man who is nevertheless the equal on any ground of the two major candidates for the presidency—because they are thorough-thinking enough to realize their lack of strength. But I have seen men of this type pleading with moistened eyes with unconcerned Americans to put out of office men who were obviously satiating their own personal desires before attending to the needs of their electorate.

President Hoover and Governor Roosevelt have bickered so long and so thoroughly during a period when we needed, more than any other time during the last ten years, political reformation and good governmental management that it is clearly apparent that they will do the same thing no matter which one of them secures the presidency. Hoover wants to stay in and Roosevelt wants to get in. The only single place two such bodies should occupy at the same time is ruled by Satan.

For these reasons I am a Socialist: for honesty's sake, for the sake of maintaining our government, I vote for Norman Thomas in the hope that Democrats and Republicans will give to America that which it sorely needs.

I'm a Republican

By Fred A. Griffitts

WHY I SHALL VOTE THE REPUBLICAN TICKET

The author of this article is aware, in advance, that anyone who agrees to write on this subject is likely to be criticized severely and thought of as being poorly advised by at least forty per cent of the people of the Average American Community. That figure represents about the Normal percentage of democrats in the U. S. compared to the republicans. If, therefore, any one should beg to differ with the author the best thing for that person to do is to go to the polls and vote with the idea of killing my vote and let the matter drop at that point, as I have no intentions of entertaining a controversy about it.

The democrats of the southern states, of which group I am a native, seem to be the best example that one could find of the saying, "Hope springs eternal". They have been undying in their hope throughout these years of elections with very few successes. If for no other reason it would appear wiser to vote so one might feel he were having a part in the national government than just to vote merely for the purpose of supporting a dead issue. The writer fully understands that such an argument is open for many criticisms, but don't forget that the South has not been as progressive as it might have been—and one cannot entirely ignore the fact that at least one reason is political.

I vote the republican ticket not because I was born a republican. Only one of my parents is a republican, the other usually votes the democratic ticket. Perhaps that is less reason why I should be a republican than some democrats have for being democrats; since many I know are parent worshippers as well as worshippers of Thomas Jefferson and Woodrow Wilson. The Republican Party has presented in high office great men—but I have never felt the urge to worship at the shrine of these great men merely because they were republicans. It appears that such is not the case with many of my democratic friends.

Feeling now that two major obstacles to a fair minded outlook on the campaign are mostly out of the way let us look at a few of the issues together and draw conclusions.

In the first place the platforms are not very different, except the Al Smith repeal plank in the Roosevelt Platform which Roosevelt has tried to ignore as far as possible during the campaign. Besides, something to drink and lots of it is not deep minded statesmanship or an admirable political creed. The democrats are coming, apparently, to believe in the protective tariff which has been parafount in the republican vary since its inception. At least we haven't heard much about free trade during the campaign by even the most dyed-in-the-wool democrat.

The "Forgotten Man" of the democratic speeches is mostly a dead phrase except in the case of two democrats, viz, John N. Garner and Alfred E. Smith. The meaning of that sentence is clear only to those who have followed the campaign closely.

Again, during most of the past 70 years the voters of the democratic ticket have been voters of "negation" only. If negation is reason enough for a man being president surely more such candidates would have been successful.

There is, evidently, not much to choose between in the two candidates. Both are good, capable men with admirable records of public service. Certainly Rosevelt does not have enough stronger personality to cause one to vote for him for that reason alone. His votes will come mostly from the Negation class of voters, because it appears that there is nothing else which especially recommends him to the American electorate. The depression—, upon which many base the campaign is not a just reason for one changing his vote, because depressions have been VERY MUCH associated with some democratic administrations in the past. Hence, as the writer sees it, the only recourse is to vote for the party which has been in power most of the time while America has grown great.

OBSERVATIONS

The University of Kansas keeps a black list of all professors who keep students after class. We'd like to start three black lists in Maryville, lists which would be composed of all professors who give tests the next day after Hallowe'en night.

—o—

Theron Aexander has made this column entirely too much lately, and Don Briggs hasn't made it yet. . . . but Don doesn't do anything sensational. . .that's what Nez sez. Theron is the fellow who was seen in Baldwin the other night, pacing the floor, talking to the floor, looking at his watch, threatening to leave if "she doesn't come', (everyone else had been gone thirty minutes) until at last he became aware that he had erred, himself. He was in the wrong dormitory. We don't know how little Annie Glenn tuk it, but we're under the vivid impression that if we were in her place, we might detect a nigger in the woodpile, instead of passing the mistake off as a case of absent mindedness.

—o—

We're just having a great time keping the cat in the bag about this play that's coming along one of these days. S' great stuff, "The Bat", and we mustn't tell about it anymore, or we might let something out about the plot. Then too, we must keep all copies of it under cover, or someone might read the play, get the plot, and then tell someone else, and OH, what a time we'd have! We might suggest that "The Bat' be the last play of the season to supply as the "Grand Finale" of all plays . . . for from what we can gather, it's the only one of the four midwinters that has a plot.

—o—

As a cure for homesickness, one of our freshman girls has concocted a family to keep the blues away. The girl is that little flashy freshman (flash in the pan), Louisa Hillyer, and the family is, well, we'll list them. Bob Stevenson is Daddy, "deddy"; Sara Lee Coldiron is "anty"; Phil Sorce is Uncle Phil, and Yankee Lewis is Uncle Yankee (whatever that is); Jerry Smith is Grenmaw; Phil Cory is cousin (one can't help all one's relation) and that's all. This family is her dining room family. Let's see; that would make Jerry Smith Sorce's mother, and Phil is 28. Well, we'd better not try to justify all these relatives as they're composed at present.

Your Red Cross is a protective shield against distress and need in your community. Support it with your membership.

GUEST SPEAKER

Mrs. C. L. Elliott, wife of the pastor of Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, will be the guest speaker at the meeting of the Y. W. C. A. Sunday. Both Dr. and Mrs. Elliott are known to many students of Maryville, having been present at the Tallassee retreat, and being actively interested in every phase of college Y W. C. A. work.

From the early deliberations of the committees that are preparing the way for the world ministry and economic conferences, two prospects already seem definitely to stand out. The first is that, because there are so many points on which an exchange of views is necessary, the committees are not likely to complete their work before Christmas. The second point which is now clear is that the conference itself will probably not convene until late March or early May.

INTERESTING NOTES

In the more than 80 years of its existence the United States Patent Office has granted 1,850,000 patents.

The evergreen forest of Siberia is the largest single mass of conifers in the world.

Since 1500 A. D. Iceland has exceeded all other regions in the output of lava from its volcanoes.

The number of languages spoken in the world is 2,796, according to the French Academy.

Enough telephone poles are used in the Bell System to build a solid fence thirty feet high across the continent between New York and San Francisco.

A man will forgive and forget almost any negligence around the house except letting the salt shaker get empty.

Never again does a man feel as important and successful as on the day he graduates from college.

After you've lost money there's nothing so irritating as to hear of somebody who's made a lot.

Even if you don't get anywhere it's a satisfaction to know you did your best.

LITTLE JOURNEY

(Continued from page one)

sengery and touches their lives with gentleness.

In the three days of the pullman journey is unfolded simple drama which arises from the presence of simple characters passing up and down among the red velvet seats and inevitably creating drama by inevitably brushing their elbows against their fellow passengers.

FACULTY CLUB HEARS DR. STEVENSON

(Continued From Page One)

Himself used irony in many of His parables and teachings.

"Thus humor in its various forms is seen to make its contribution toward supporting and strengthening faith in the moral order of the world, and the moral character of God."

People who live in glass houses shouldn't.

WITH IRENE DUNNE, JOHN BOLES, George Meeker, Zasu Pitts, June Clyde, William Bakewell, Arletta Duncan, Doris Lloyd, James Donlan, Walter Catlett. Produced by Carl Laemmle, Jr. A JOHN M. STAHL Production. Presented by Carl Laemmle.

Palace Theatre
Tues., Nov. 8
OPEN THE ENTIRE NIGHT
ELECTION RETURNS

Hart Schaeffer & Marx
COLLEGE CLOTHES

Never before has the college man been offered such beautiful materials, tailored to meet his exact wishes at prices so low.

$17.50 and up

MEN'S DEPARTMENT—MAIN FLOOR

Proffitt's The Students' Store Proffitt's

Miss Jessie Heron,
Pearsons, Miss Butcher's box.

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 — THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, NOVEMBER 12, 1932 — NUMBER NINE

Seventy-five New Books Purchased By Lamar Library

Shipment Includes Wide Collection Of Novels And Biographies

A shipment of nearly one hundred and seventy-five new books was received by the library last week and the books are practically ready to be placed in circulation. A few of the more popular references have already been put on reserve and the new fiction and other books are now being marked for use.

This shipment contains many volumes of unusual interest. Several very new novels, as well as some of the more popular of the older ones, were included in the order. The better known ones are:

Peterkin, Bright Skin
Mac Leod, The Years of Peace
Faulkner, These 13 (Short Stories)
Burke, Call Home the Heart
Bradford, Ol' Man Adam an' His Chillun'
Nordhoff and Hall, Mutiny on the Bounty
White, The Long Rifle
Anderson, With The Eagles
Anderson, A Slave of Catiline

Among the new biographies will be found Elswyth Thane's popular biography of Elizabeth; a story of Joan of Arc, called Joan the Maid, by Ould; and an Autobiography of a Super Tramp, by Davies.

Some of the latest poetry is also contained in the collection. In this list are Robinson Jeffers, Roan Stallion, Tamar, and other poems; Leonard, A Son of Earth; and the Complete Poems of John Skelton.

Many of the books will be used for reference only, and will be placed on the reserve shelves. Among these are references for each of the departments, including books for use in the new courses which are being offered on the hill this year.

In a group which might be called miscellaneous, but which contains many of the most interesting of the new books, will be found such works as Will Durant's On The Meaning of Life, Selected Speeches of Booker T. Washington, and many others.

The library spends many dollars each year in an attempt to keep up to date on the modern books and this shipment adds greatly to its collection. Another shipment is expected sometime in December.

Maryville Girls Will Broadcast Religious Program

President Hamrick Will Deliver Speech On "The Friendship Of God"

The initial radio broadcast of the Maryville College Y. W. C. A. is scheduled for this afternoon from four-thirty to five o'clock over WNOX, Knoxville.

The girls are occupying the usual time of Mrs. C. V. Biddle's hour, and doing so through the courtesy of Mrs. Biddle, who was guest speaker at the joint meeting two weeks ago.

Elizabeth Duncan is in charge of the program, and will announce each number. The theme of the half-hour's devotion is "The Friendship of God". Inez Hamrick, as president of the college Y.W.C.A., will make the first address on the subject of "The Work of the Y. W. C. A. on Maryville College Campus". Silent prayer will follow, during which time a prelude will be played. The scripture on friendship, is to be read by Phyllis Dexter. Ruth Brocious will make the second talk on "The Blessing of God Through Our Friends". Norma Spilatore will provide a musical interlude between this and the next number, which will be a reading by Veta Mae Stephens, "The Neighbor". The next musical number will be a duet by Ellen Macrae and Mary Elizabeth Cromer, "The End of a Perfect Day." The program will be concluded by a violin postlude.

The musicians for the program are Willimae Renegar, Grace Proffitt ,and Louise Cline.

Y. W. C. A. OPEN HOUSE

The college Y. W. C. A. held open house yesterday afternoon from four o'clock to six in the new suite of rooms in Thaw Hall.

This reception was the first general entertainment of the Association since the opening of the rooms. It was delightfully informal in tone. Miss Katherine Orr played several selections on the piano, and Miss Mary Sloane Welsh sang.

About two hundred students called.

Debate Class Will Argue University Of Chicago Plan

New Plan Has Proved Worthy Of Consideration In Many Colleges

The question for the debate class for Tuesday evening meeting will be: Resolved: That the University of Chicago Plan should be adopted by American Colleges and Universities. Ercelle Hunter and Robert Stevenson will debate the affirmative side of the question and Maria Wynn and Frank Neff will debate the negative side. Instead of using a group of judges as has been done in the past meetings, Prof. Queener will act as critic judge.

The aim of the University plan is to give a sound general education and specific orientation in divisional fields to those planning to enter them. The courses are divided into four groups: divisional lecture courses, lecture courses for advanced and specific work in certain fields, English courses only for those needing such training, and courses in foreign languages, mathematics, statistics, etc., only as necessary. The completion of college requirements is measured by comprehensive examinations. Lecture attendance is not compulsory, and comprehensive examinations are used to measure achievement and progress in all fields.

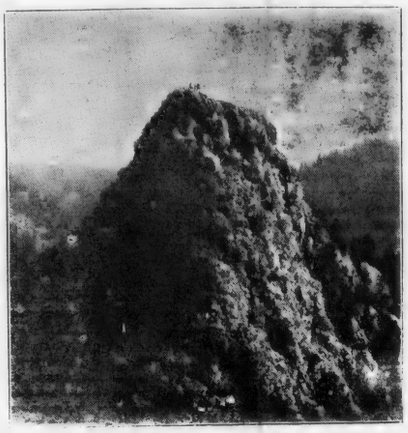
Speeches are planned for the remainder of the meeting as follows: The Rollins College Plan—Jesse Carter
Honors Work—Nathalia Wright
50 Years From Now—Hank Otto

"Mary Rose" Will Be Presented By College Players Monday Night

Wesley Culver Will Have Characteristic Role Opposite Ruth Brocious

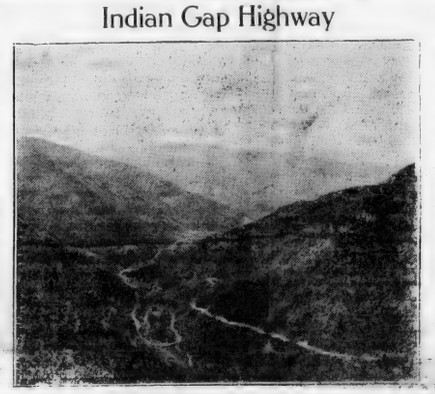
"No, no. This wasn't the drawing room, my cabbage." With these complimentary words of contradiction spoken by Wesley Culver, seasoned soldier from "Australy", to Ruth Brocious, superstitious landlady of a haunted house, "Mary Rose", production of the Maryville College Players, and the first play of this dramatic season, will begin next Monday evening.

On the haunted room of a long deserted house the first curtain rises—on a room which "is such a silent room that whoever speaks first here is a bold one, unless indeed he merely mutters to himself."



On the same room thirty years younger the second curtain rises, and this time the room is one of those rooms "that are always smiling, so that you may see them at it if you peep through the keyhole."

Into such stage directions as these Barrie has breathed the whole whimsical atmosphere of his drama. Each character, from Mary Rose herself, who steps into the room "a rare and lovely flower" to Simon, who considers marriage a thing in which to "insure my life and read the political articles", Barrie has touched with a fancy which only the author of "Peter Pan" could command. Each incident, from Simon's bashful proposal to the parents of Mary Rose, to the parents' conversation before the fire, he has drawn with sympathy and a quaint beauty.



The drama is a three-act fairy story, told as only Barrie can tell them. Its moments of climax are

(Continued on page four)

Chimney Tops

Indian Gap Highway

Boston, Massachusetts
November 7, 1932

To The Students and Faculty—

It has now been more than three weeks since Miss Henry and I left Maryville, and it will be another two weeks before we return.

I am impelled to write this word of greeting to all of you at the College.

Each day during these five weeks we are telling groups of leading people throughout Massachusetts and Connecticut, in D. A. R. meetings, in churches, in Women's Clubs, about Maryville College—its honorable history, its purposes, its hopes, its plans, its needs, its faculty, and above all else, its students and their worth.

I am having opportunity to see and learn of many other colleges; that helps in making plans for improvements in our own progrm; and more and more my conviction grows that Maryville fills an unusual and significant place. I find universal surprise and approval as people learn of the combination of high scholarship standards, low student expenses, and positive religious emphasis, which Maryville maintains. Some can hardly believe there is an accredited college with fees so low and opportunities for financial assistance so large.

I rejoice to hear of th esubstantial work you are doing and of the general good health which prevails among you. As daily we talk and think about you, our prayers and good wishes are in your behalf.

Cordially yours,
RALPH WALDO LLOYD.

Showers Of Meteors Will Be Observed By Astronomers

A shower of meteors, known as Leonid's because they approach the Earth's atmosphere from the constellation Leo, is to be watched for by astronomers between the thirteenth and eighteenth of this month. Thirty-three years and a day have separated past appearances of this heavenly phenomenon. In 1833, November 13 was the important date; in 1866, November 14; in 1899, November 15. Therefore it is likely that the shower of meteors will be at its height between the mornings of November 16 and 17 this year.

There have been a number of shooting stars observed and reported by Maryville students recently. It is possible that these are forerunners of the Leonid Shower. However, it is estimated by astronomers that about one hundred million meteors come in contact with

(Continued On Page Four)

Theta Epsilon Will Present "The Enchanted April," February 20

"The Enchanted April", the play dramatized by Kane Campbell from Mary Annette Russell's successful novel of 1923, will be the midwinter production of the Theta Epsilon Literary Society on February 20.

The play is a comedy in three acts and a prologue, with a cast of five female and four male characters. The stage, except for the short prologue, retains the same setting throughout the three acts.

The plot centers around the plan of two typical English wives who rent a villa on the Riviera and there spend a delightful and enchanted month hidden away from the mundane vocation of housewifery with all its incumbent duties. In order to decrease the overhead expense, the original couple are obliged to increase their party, and two more members of their sex are asked

(Continued On Page Four)

Y. W. C. A. PROGRAM

"Some Living Issues" will be the topic for discussion at the Y. W. C. A. program tomorrow afternoon at 1 o'clock in the Y. W. rooms.

Three "living issues" confronting college women will be presented: "The Legitimacy of Prayer", by Dorothy Casseres; "The Equality of Women in the Church", by Elizabeth Gillis; and "The Christian View of Marriage and Divorce", by Mary Branche. Devotions will be led by Geraldine Smith.

Attractive House In College Woods Nears Completion

"Morningside" Will Be One Of Most Beautiful Residences In This Territory

The new house in the woods, built by Mrs. Stevenson's sister, Mrs. J. A. Walker of Pittsburgh, is rapidly nearing completion, making it very probable that the house furnishings will be moved in next week. With the plastering completed and the painting well under way the house is almost ready for occupancy.

Mrs. Walker has been her own architect in drawing up the plan of the house, aided by her experience in planning her summer home in Canada. The arrangement of the rooms has been carefully worked out so that there is no waste space in the entire house. Of the unusual features of Mrs. Walker's home, which is to be called "Morningside" after the childhood home of both Mrs. Walker and Mrs. Stevenson, there are the flagstone court south of the house, the six fireplaces, the hob grates, and the sloping corners of the rooms. When the house is completed Mrs. Walker will lay out a formal garden, the entrance to which will be formed by the two pillars in the front.

Although she has never been in the South before, her home and that of her family having been in Pittsburgh, for six generations, Mrs. Walker states that she likes this country already and is especially pleased with the location of her future home in the South.

Variety Of Musical Types Adds Color To Fall Concert

Critic Gives Careful Interpretation Of Every Selection On Musical Program

The best talent of the piano, violin, and voice departments of the college combined to make this year's Fall Festival of Music one of the most successful of the past several seasons.

The numbers on the well selected program provided a variety of musical types, chosen as they were from the masterpieces of sixteen well-known composers.

Of Miss Ruth Henry's two numbers, the second revealed the most interesting tone qualities, and was rendered with greater interpretative skill..

The Vesper Choir surpassed itself on the light and airy "Carnival Chorus", but suffered a noticeable relapse on the "love weeping" number.

The trio, composed of Mrs. Topalian, violinist, Miss Mildred Harris, cellist, and Miss Butcher, pianist, offered two numbers in interesting contrast, "Bolero", with Moskowski's usual sparkle; and the more quietly moving "Andante Sosterento". The "Andante" more especially displayed the trio's talents.

Miss Norma Spilatore excelled in her second number, which particularly suited the quality of her voice. Mrs. Topalian's obligato in the first numger greatly increased its effectiveness..

Seven girls at seven pianos are a novelty, and those seven brought out their melody well. But we rather hope that next year's concert will bring a variation from the practically memorized Chopin's Polonaise.

(Continued on page four)

Work Developing Rapidly On Great Southland Park

Tennessee and North Carolina Contribute 427,000 Acres To Mammoth Project

One of the greatest projects to affect the Southland in over a half century is the recent undertaking affected by the states of Tennessee and North Carolina, the Great Smoky Mountain National Park. Since congress authorized the establishment of the Park a few years ago, providing for the citizens of these two states to present 427,000 acres of acceptable land in one solid tract, plans and work have developed rapidly until the present time, which marks the beginning of the really mammoth road building and trail cutting program in the Smokies.

Up to this time, Tennessee and North Carolina have presented 297,000 acres of the required area to the Department of the Interior of the United States, and that department, under a $30,000 appropriation is administering, protecting, and patrolling the park, devoting its efforts chiefly to the development of fire fighting trails. It will mean that Knoxville, the largest metropolis in the vicinity of the park, will attract tourists from all over the land. It will not only affect Knoxville, and other large cities, but will be a forceful influence in favor of Maryville, which is fortunately situated almost immediately at the gateway of the Park.

When this program is completed, and it will be well under way by January 1, of next year, it will mean an unprecedented boom for the country in the vicinity of the South Appalachia group of mountians.

From the Indian Gap Highway, which has been constructed as far as the Tennessee-North Carolina line for several years, a survey has been started to run along the mile-high crest of the Smokies for 44 miles to Deal's Gap on the Asheville-Atlanta Highway. $400,000 is available and sufficient to grade and pave this skyline highyay for nine miles which will carry it to Clingman's Dome, 6642 feet high, the highest mountain in the Smokies. In addition to this, grading is being rushed on a 120-foot wide boulevard from the end across the Tennessee River, in

(Continued on page four)

Nine Young Women Will Enter Competition for T. T. Alexander Prize

Contest Is Conducted By Dept. Of Bible and Religious Education

Nine girls met in Dr. Rodgers' classroom Wednesday afternoon to dedicate themselves to the cause of writing an oration and incidentally of receiving one hundred dollars in gold.

The T. T. Alexander oratorical contest, open in alternating years to the men and women of the college, is conducted under the supervision of the department of Bible and Religious Education. The choice of subjects is confined to these titles or to some variation of them: 'The Deity of Jesus Christ"; "Christ's Atonement for Sin"; "Salvation Through Faith"; and "The Resurrection". The length of these orations is from fifteen hundred to eighteen hundred words, and their content is expected to be basically original, though aid from Bible dictionaries, word explanations, commentaries, and the Bible itself is permitted and encouraged.

There are two contests conducted before the final award is made: a preliminary contest, before instructors of the department, in which two orators are chosen; and a final contest before the student body in chapel in which the better of the two is chosen. These contests usually take place about the last of February.

There are two sides to every question that we're not especially interested in.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

GERALDINE SMITH - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
KAY CARPENTER - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, November 12, 1932

WHERE CREDIT'S DUE

One of the real assets to this college, and one that is too seldom taken into consideration, is the debate organization on the hill. Maryville is fortunate in being one of the three schools in the State of Tennessee to be a national member of the chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, and it is common knowledge that the institution, success, and continuation of debate is a result of the interest and diligence of Dr. Hunter and Professor Queener. Our chapter is one of the most active organizations in this section of the south, and it has furnished, through the high type of speaker developed, material for some of the most flattering conceptions of the student body of Maryville.

Debate, as an extra-curricular item, is valuable in a number of respects. For the speaker, the debate plan furnishes an invaluable opportunity for improvement, aside from the supplementary knowledge that accompanies study along any particular line. To work up a debate, for college competition is to get an exact understanding of one's subject in order that it may be refuted from any side. It teaches the speaker alertness, and instructs him to be thorough in his thinking. To be a good debater is to throw aside all tendencies of narrowmindedness, or "one-sided" thinking.

Debate is not only of value to the speaker, but it may be of particular benefit to the listener, who takes advantage of college debates on current and potent questions of the day. Two years ago the Pi Kappa Delta question was on Free Trade; last year they debated a plan of Centralized Control of Industry; and this year, the question will relate to War Debts. The matter of War Debts will be of interest to all students who have any world interest, as well as those who are more nationally minded.

The old members of Pi Kappa Delta, and those who aspire to make that organization will begin work soon on this question, and with almost a complete veteran squad in the ranks, our debate team should make a serious bid toward even bettering the enviable accomplishments of the 1932 organization.

OUR BROTHER SOCIETY

By way of acknowledgement, and to a certain degree, by way of apology, the editor wishes to take cognizance of the Open Forum article that appears in this week's issue, and to attempt to explain those parts that are only vaguely informative.. It is not a policy of this paper to refer with any showing of partiality to Open Forum articles.

The editor wishes to state definitely that the first item of attack has been misdirected. Special care has been taken to avoid any revelation concerning the plot of "The Bat" to comply with the wish of the Chairman of the Midwinter Committee for Alpha Sigma, and the wish of the director of the play. To take special care, however, does not mean that the members of this staff will not be allowed to write up this article.

We agree with the writers of this letter, that the place for the editor's opinion is in the editorial column of the paper. We go further to suggest that the place for the Observer's opinion is in the "Observation" column.

Of these two observations referred to, we admit the fallibility in one of them Our ire that had worked a high pitch over the action of one person got rather misdirected and left its burden, as it were, on the entire society. On second reading of this particular item, it is easy to see that its meaning could be misconstrued to involve the literary society. Here, if we should, we do . . . apologize.

In regard to anything else we say in this column, we ask those to whom some of our remarks are intended, more or less directly, to bear with us a little. If you don't like the column, suggest to us an improvement. If we must vindicate ourselves providing there's a chance, we hereby submit our confession that out of the 1987 statements we've made in the Observation column, 1572 have been lies. Downright lies!

These are the facts, for the readers and for the writers. Our purpose has been to make an answer to a request. It is an editorial wish to thank, for their efforts, those men who wrote us. The best way for us to develop is through well intended criticism, and that is the category in which we place this effort of the men from our fellow society.

Student Explains Outcome of 1932 Presidential Vote

The Literary Digest for November 5, 1932, published its final edition of the presidential poll, which gave 474 electoral votes to Roosevelt and 57 to Hoover. The actual vote was 472-59; hence, the accuracy of that magazine's presidential polls is again proved. This election was the greatest landslide in American history. What caused it?

Were one to heed the Democratic campaigners of recent weeks, one would learn that the depression of 1929-1932 drove the Republicans out of Washington, and that this depression was brought on by President Hoover and his Republican administration. The first half of this statement is indeed true, but the second half has neither rhyme nor reason. Republicans have never ceased to blame President Cleveland for the panic of 1893, because in their woeful ignorance of American history

(Continued On Page Four)

The Echo Forum

November 9, 1932

To The Open Forum—Highland Echo.

It is the opinion of the Alpha Sigma Literary Society that when a confidential request is made to the editor of a paper, the faith and confidence of the subscribers is not strengthened by the editor's flaying of this confidence to the four winds. We also feel that the place for the expression of the personal feelings and opinion of the editor should be confined to the editorial column. By way of example we refer to two articles concerning Alpha Sigma in last week's issue of the Echo.

Sincerely yours,
Donald W. Briggs,
President.
Robert Overly,
President-Elect.
Harry V. Mathias,
Chairman, Midwinter Com.

Editor The Highland Echo:

Some of us have regretted the political haranguing of last Wednesday morning. It is not because the speaker had such views and expressed them—he has that right—but because it was ill-timed and that its pro-Republicanism overlooked many legitimate differences of opinion, so far as Democrats are concerned.

The sarcastic cut about the "He-Kept-Us-Out-of-the-War" slogan of 1916 was made with absolute blindness to the tense of the verb "kept" in that slogan and to the change of circumstances in early February of 1917. The condemnation of Wilson as a peace man completely ignored the latter's conception of the League of Nations and the politically selfish opposition of the Republicans, including the speaker, to that conception in the election of 1920. The implication that unchristian Democracy had just succeeded in snatching away from Christian Republicanism the reins of government failed to admit the possible veracity of the indictment of Republicans by Christian Democrats on Christian grounds concerning, among other matters, the greedy, self-centered policy of tariff protection promoted by the political defender of the large corporations i.e., the Republican party, who have had so much to do with bringing on the present depression, according to the same speaker in his last Sunday vesper sermon.

The only general comment to be offered on last Wednesday's exhibition is that it might have done good to some Republicans had they learned to undergo the experiences of us Democrats, who have had to learn how to take crusihng defeat.

—Friday Fritz Neff.

WORLD TODAY

The Insular legislature, which recently convened at Manila, adopted a resolution asking for complete independence of the Phillippine Islands from the United States. The resolution was presented by a Phillippine senator.

—MC—

Hitler's vote suffered considerably in the German election of November 6. As a result of the election, the country is left so divided that Von Papin's government will likely continue. The Communist vote showed a considerable gain. The total vote was smaller than at the previous election.

—MC—

Premier Mussilloni has recently issued a decree of amnesty whereby all five-year prison terms imposed by the Government upon political offenders are cancelled and longer terms greatly reduced. The decree was issued on the ground that the strength of the Facist regime is such that it "no longer has need to fear opposition."

—MC—

Samuel Insull has been removed from the police station at Athens, Greece, to a private hospital on account of a threatened breakdown in health. Here, while extradition procedures are being carried out to return him to the United States, he is told by a physician to keep quiet and smoke fewer cigars. On his return to this country, Insull will face charges of embezzlement and larceny in connection with the bankruptcy of his utilities enterprises.

—MC—

The usual activities around the White House were subordinated last week to the interest of the campaign, as it neared its climax. The callers at the White House during the week were mostly friends of the administration who came to give advice and encouragement to the President.

—MC—

One morning last week about 2,000 young Socialists, mostly college students, thronged the Pennsylvania Station in New York City to welcome Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for the presidency. They received their hero amid the echoes of the International and the waving of placards and banners.

—MC—

It seems that Maryville is not alone among colleges in supporting Mr. Hoover for re-election. Many college polls have recently been conducted, according to THE NATION, and the results have, in the main, been favorable to the president.

—MC—

Not long ago a meeting was held at Peiping, which may be of more than passing significance. It was attended by the Japanese minister to China, the privy councilor of Manchukuo, a former president of China, and several Chinese warlords. Plans for creating a new buffer state in North China are thought to have been discussed.

A Bostonian is an American, broadly speaking.

WRIGTH'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

Book Browsing

Thane, Elswyth, The Tudor Wench, New York (Brewer, Warren and Putnam) 1932, 382 pages

In keeping with a recent trend in the writing of biographies of famous people, Elswyth Thane, wife of Dr. William Beebe, has chosen to deal with the most obscure period of her subject's life. In The Tudor Wench she reviews the history of Elizabeth from the time of her neglected childhood at Hereford Castle until her ascension to the throne of England. Says Miss Thane: "Everybody has at least a vague idea of how Elizabeth died, but few people realize how intensely, how eagerly, and how long she lived. She was seventy when she died. She had reigned forty-five years. But when she came to the throne at twenty-five, there was already a crowded lifetime of experience behind her."

With this by way of preface (which, incientally, is found at the end of the book) Miss Thane proceeds to discuss in a most interesting manner Elizabeth as a Child, a Maid, a Princess, and a Woman

Even as a child Elizabeth evidenced the unusual powers of self-control, ability, and diplomacy which were to make for her success in later life. First, neglected and shamed by the whim and selfishness of Henry VIII, she valiantly fought her way to court where she discovered the secret of her mother's death. This was learnd at the expense of new banisment, but with the grudging approval of Henry, "You're a Tudor, wench though you are."

After this second banishment Elizabeth was sent to Enfield where she remained until her father's death. Then, through the machinations of Thomas Seymour, she was sent to Chelsea. It was here that she had her one real love affair. She was fourteen and her lover was sixteen. Yet their love was real, and, to the watchful eye, is evident in the remainder of her life, often running through her thoughts like the refrain of a ballad. It was this lover, a page named Fernando, later killed because of Seymour's jealousy, who aptly styled her "the greatest Tudor of them all."

During the third, or "Princess" period, the fight against the Council began in earnest, and Elizabeth gave further evidence of her cleverness and ability by outwitting the crafty opponents at court. She ended the period rather dismally, however, as a prisoner in the Tower by order of her half-sister, Mary.

The fourth period, Woman, describes Elizabeth's life as a political prisoner, and how she finally regained Mary's confidence after safely resisting all attempts on the part of the courtiers to break down her composure. She came into her own at last, and by doing so she had gone a long way toward proving that she really was "the greatest Tudor of them all."

This book makes excellent material either for a Sunday afternoon's entertainment or for a more leisurely study of Elizabeth's early life.

LITTLE CHURCH

"Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly; in all wisdom teaching and admonishing one another with psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to God." Col. 3:16.

They called him "Singing Joe" because no matter when or where one saw him, he was singing. And he had little reason to sing, for he was poor and badly deformed. One day someone asked him why it was that he seemed to be able to sing regardless of his handicaps. He replied, "Singing sort of acts like a handle to lift the load."

Carlyle once wrote: "Give us the man who sings at his work. Be his occupation what it may, he is equal to any of those fellows who follow the same pursuit in silent sullenness. He will do the same amount of work and more in the same time and may even do it better."

While marching to music, one is scarcely sensible of fatigue. The very stars are said to make harmony as they revolve in their spheres. Wonderous is the strength of cheerfulness, past calculation is its power of endurance.

In these days when men seem to have lost hope, and across the doorposts of many homes is written the word, "discouragement", men ought to learn the art of singing. Yes, "singing in the rain." For if you can sing when the sky is grey and the clouds shed tears, you cannot be defeated, although you are down at the present moment.

Even business men are learning the value of singing. In some of the large businesses, the employees are allowed to sing for a period of thirty minutes every day. Singing gives inspiration and "sort of acts as a handle to lift the load."

As we near Thanksgiving time, let us think of what someone has said recently to the effect that we must seek to cultivate a buoyant, joyous sense of the crowded kindnesses of God in our daily life. It seems then that we would have to sing.

Sing unto Jehovah with Thanksgiving! Praise ye the Lord for it is good to sing unto our God!.a

"I will sing praises unto thee, for thy loving kindness is great unto the heavens". Psalms 57:7.

Singing will put courage into our hearts and maybe we will be able to encourage another, who is worse off than we are, to sing.

Remember "the joy of our Lord is our strength" and that "singing sort of acts like a handle to lift the load."

JERRY REWRITES

Sitting by the radio listening with both ears to election returns and reading the latest Echo with both eyes, and attempting to divide a rather uncooperative brain between these intriguing occupations, my eyes have won out for the time being (I being a despondent Republican) and my eyes have caught the headlines of "Mail from Home". Though I am evidently somewhat more feminine than the author of that article, how well can I vouch for the truth therein. In spite of the fact that my Mail from Home was not from a Male from Home, I eagerly awaited the weekly message which arrived—or was supposed to arrive—on each Saturday noon, during my four years in absentia from the old homestead.

The package slips were also a source of anticipation and I perceive that the author and I have had similar experiences, what with laundry cases and Sears Roobuck catalogs causing frequent disillusionment to one who should have learned during the four years that a package slip might even mean an unstamped letter at the Book Room from an enterprising but extremely untactful advertiser.

However, the tables have turned and now it is the Mail from Maryville that I anticipate, not so regularly as the parental messages of yore, but with some irregularity, and yet sufficient promise of constancy, to make anticipation worthwhile.

It was also with great pleasure that I received and read the last two issues of the Echo in the Mail from Maryville. Everything in the paper receives my closest attention; in fact, I even ponder over the editorials and the ads. A fault of many readers of college papers is the lack of attention paid to editorial comment. (Or am I generalizing too much from personal experience?) The staff seems to be more definitely lined up than formerly with specific duties to perform instead of habitual, "Shall I write up the lyceum", or "Here, give me a 150-word feature article on anything." One can almost say, "Those were the good old days." (They were good, too.)

I'm glad to note that the red heads are holding their own. You call it usurpation. You've never had red hair, have you? With such anathemetic appellations as "Carrot top", "red", "brick top", and the like, hurled at one through life, the consumate success of redheads is indeed pleasant to contemplate, at least, if not to realize.

Alas! an artistic temperament is seldom recognized until it's too late to spank.

Nation's Leading Women Will Attend Observance Of National Y. W. C. A.

"Festival Of the Years" To Be Held In New York City November 12

Miss Inez Hamrick, president of the Maryville Y. W. C. A., received an invitation last week from the National Board of the Y. W. C. A. announcing the observance of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the present National Young Women's Christian Associations of the United States of America.

The celebration is a "Festival of the Years", and will be held on Saturday eovning, November 12, in Carnegie Hall, New York. It is called by the association "A celebration of our past and a dedication of our future."

Invitations are sent to all Y. W. C. A. presidents in America, and to all members of the National Board. Some of the most famous members of this board, who will probably be present at the anniversary, are Mrs. Robert E. Speer, Honorary president; Mrs. Cecil B. DeMille; Mrs. John Houston Finley, wife of the associate editor of the New York Times; Mrs. John D. Rockefeller, Jr.; Miss Mary E. Woolley, president of Mount Holyoke College; Mrs. Harry Emerson Fosdick; Mrs. Robert Lansing, wife of the secretary of state during the Wilson administration; and Mrs. John R. Mott.

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN TOPE, Representative

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.

Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	*†9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.
Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*††Direct connection to Townsend

JUNIORS!!!

The Chilhowean is your publication; therefore your responsibility. It receives a discount on all photographic copy in by November 25. You intend to have your pictures made eventually. Why not do it at once and save your class both time and money? ?

SPORTS

SCOTS DEFEAT BISONS; LOSE TO BEARS

Lenior-Rhyne Invaders Are Too Powerful For Highlanders In Armistice Day Scrap

Last Quarter Attack Supplies Two Touchdowns For Lenoir-Rhyne Bears

Shivering spectators watched a struggling Maryville eleven go down to defeat before the power and speed of the well-coached Lenoir-Rhyne team here yesterday. The final score was 25-14, two winning touchdowns being scored in the fourth period.

Booting the ball into the Maryville end zone on the kick-off gave the Bears the advantage and Boretsky as forced to punt out of danger. Coming back strongly, the visitors pushed the leather into scoring position and Buck Mauney knifed through for the opening score, Lemaster place-kicked the extra point. Following the second kickoff there was an exchange of kicks that gave credit to no one, so the Hickoryites reverted to the ground attack again. File-Driver Poovey smashed over guard and, keeping his feet, ran the remaining forty yards for the second touchdown. The kick for point went wide.

Another kicking duel ensued following the third kickoff and Maryville again found themselves on the short end. The Highlander defense stiffened on its own twenty-yard line and Boretsky was again able to punt out of danger. A bad fumble by the Bears gave the Scots an opening of distinct advantage and they promptly took to the air. A pass to Atkins by Boretsky netted forty-five yards and Lenoir-Rhyne made a goal line stand for two downs before Blazer was able to nudge the pigskin over. Boretsky's toe tallied the extra and the half ended 13-7 shortly after.

During the interval between halves Spec Moore ended the cross-country jog in a burst of speed past the home stands and following this, our most auspicous band executed a few intricate manoeuvers and helped keep the spectator's minds off the cold weather.

Maryville opened the second half with a flash of speed and strategy that gave them their second touchdown. Forcing the Bears to kick, the Highlander offensive started clicking. West made fifteen yards on a reverse but the visitors tightened again and the home team was forced to kick. Unable to make the required yardage, the Bears also punted and Boretsky, again in possession of the ball, did fifteen yards off tackle. On the next play West flivped th eoval to Stee again for a thirty yard advance but the push was stopped on the twenty-five yard line and Lenoir-Rhyne elected to kick. West snatched the punt out of the air at midfield and cutting sharp to the sidelines, he ate up the fifty yards as the interference toppled all potential tacklers. Boretsky again figured in the placement point.

The Mountain Bears, now trailing along by one point, put on steam and shortly after the opening of the fourth quarter, Newton, their left half, galloped sixty-five yards for another score, but the kick for point went wide. Another powerful offensive and a well placed kick put the Scots on their own three yard line and after a weak punt, found themselves only eight yards from their own goal. Here they held valiantly for three successive downs before the powerful Poovey was able to crack the line for the final score of the game. The remainder of the time was spent in kicking and passing to the advantage of no one in varticular. The final score, 26-14.

It might be mentioned in passing, that Pat Shores, the able mentor of the Lenoir-Rhyne Bears is a graduate of Maryville College and he certainly appears to know his football.

One of the oddities is that every centenarian has either used whisky most of his life or let it alone.

All Columbus did is to discover America. Look what others have done to it.

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

Yesterday was Armistice Day. The occasion for celebration, in case some have forgotten, was the cessation o. the Great War in 1918. It has been estimated that thousands of speeches (non-political, thank goodness) were made. Fireworks were shot in spite of the depression. Holidays were granted by countless schools (as we remember it, we had none). Numerous football games were played, or fought. But we wager that a very small percentage of the celebraters gave a thought to the cause for celebration. In fact, several million school children cannot tell offhand the significance of the occasion. These things ought not so to be.

—S—

We've been watching some of the fe--oh my gosh! co-eds soccer games. And we wake up to remark that, conceding ourselves a hat, our hats are off to the gals. They can think of more ways to buffet that ball around than a dog can find to scratch fleas. We are of the opinion that, should we ever so far forget ourselves as to indulge in a round of this game, we should inevitably find ourselves plastered with more bruises than a Harvard quarterback.

—S—

We don't think it best to say anything about Georgia this week. The linotypist (our lone reader) says that she's beginning to get a bbit tired of that kind of thing.

—S—

Watching the boys practice baxitball the other day, we gave birth to the idea that the team will miss those stars of last year who are with us no more. "Sleepy" White is with us no more; "Geese" Woodard, White's equally laconic roommate and teammate, has turned pro; "Speedy" Mann ain't; "Obie" Wilson has went; the pair of Jacks, Nee and Overly, are not available. This leaves only Lewis and Kiser as lettermen, but we have a feeling that the erstwhile reserves and the crop of frosh will kinda atone for the copious loss of material. We dunno. We'll see.

—S—

Confidentially, we're itching to try the remodelled tank (usually designated as the pool). And as soon as the doc removes our facial decorations we're going to have a plunge if we get caked with ice. But in spite of the fact that we have very intention of making good this threat, we have a fond hope that the new heating apparatus will have been installed by then.

The line-up:

Lenoir-Rhyne		Maryville
Little	l.e.	Atkins
Stasavich	l.t.	Gamble
Sanders	l.g.	Holloway
Hemphill	c.	Russell
Reynolds	r.g.	Atcheson
Geitner	r.t.	Wilson
L. Barkley (c)	r.e.	Kalman
B. Mauney	q.	West
Newton	l.h.	Kizer
Mills	r.h.	Boretsky
B. Poovey	f.	F. Gillespie (c)

Score by periods

Lenoir-Rhyne—7 6 0 12—26

Maryville —0 7 7 0—14

Substitutions: Lenoir-Rhyne— D. C. Mauney, D. Campbell, J. Campbell, Hall, Hughes, Overcash, G. Poovey, Payne, Whitener, J. S. Bumgardner. Maryville—H. Gillespie, Blazer, Payne, Thoma, Stone, Tolliver, Millsaps, Clark.

Touchdowns for Lenoir-Rhyne scored by: Poovey 2, Mauney 1, Newton 1. Placements—Lander 1. For Maryville: Touchdowns—Blazer 1, West 1. Placements—Boretsky 2.

Officials—Wilson (referee) U. T.; Lowe (umpire) U. T.; Poage (linesman) Maryville.

Spec Moore Wins Cross-Country For Second Consecutive Year

Elongated Legs Of Moore Carry Him To Victory. Paul Second

Apparently neither wintry blasts nor underclass opposition could deter Spec Moore, Maryville's mile-eating distance man, from jogging the five cold cross-country miles yesterday to a new college record of 26 minutes, 45 seconds. Moore was never pushed, and finished with his stronger spurt merely for the principle of the thing.

Graydon Paul led the remainder o. the field in to capture second place honors one minute and fifty-five seconds after Moore crossed the line. Lockerbee ran third, followed by Bettis and Obert.

A very unfortunate occurrence was the tardiness of Snedecker, freshman aspirant for cross-country honors. A misunderstanding as to the starting time caused him to miss the race, but he ran alone and was clocked with very good time. Since only five men competed yesterday, it is expected that he will be a member of the team which goes to oppose Tennessee next Saturday.

This is Moore's second time to cop first honors in the cross-country, setting a record and establishing himself as one of Maryville's great track men.

We are of the opinion, and we hasten to unstintedly pass it on to you, that yesterday's game was the coldest we ever witnessed. Now we aren't making any digs at Coach Honaker's hospitality, but are merely trying to say that the thermometers surely couldn't have indicated the correct temperature. The mercury must have been frozen.

—S—

In spite of the cold, ole Rock West got hot out there on that long run of his in the second half. It looked "purty dang good", as the boys in Rock's native state would put it. And were the remainder of the Maryville gentlemen blocking for him? It began to look like the Chinese wall was sweeping toward the Scot goal.

—S—

Every time we see Spec Moore run, it seems his legs and his stride are that much longer. And we can't help looking into the future and pondering over Spec. We are thoroughly convinced that Spec is going to make an ideal husband for some loving wife. It won't be a bit of trouble to him to take the dog for a turn around the park. But pity the dog! ! He'd better be a foxhound.

—S—

Then there was the case of the freshman who showed up late for the cross--country run. We yield to him. We're only the guy who forgot to remember to forget something that we'd been intending to forget to remember, but just hadn't gotten around to it.

Underclass Soccer Teams Fail To Cope With Junior-Seniors

Cooley and Wayland Look Good For Upperclassmen; Kizer, Gillingham Shine

The junior-senior soccer team showing a determined fight, and displaying a well organized attack, turned back the sophomore team last Tuesday afttrnoon by a score of 6-1. Pre-game predictions were to the effect that the sophomores would cop honors in the battle, but the upperclassmen bettered in all departments of the game.

The junior-senior team repeatedly ran the ball down the floor early in the game, but had difficulty in scoring. They made their first counter when Cooley pushed across a beautiful head-pass. This is a hard type of play and it was cleverly executed by the junior.

The second quarter found Wayland and Purviance each penetrating the sophomores goal, raising the score to a 3-0 count. The remaining three points for the junior-seniors were garnered by Cooley, another score coming as the result of a head pass. The only score made by the sophomores was tallied by Gillingham. Miss Gillingham played a good offensive game for the sophomores.

LINE-UPS:

Sophomores— Gillingham, Cooper, Joyner, Gamble, Koons, Thorson, Hast, Jhnson, Proffitt, Davenport, Conover.

Junior-senior— Cooley, Wayland, Hale, Farley, Wynn, Schoeller, Calhoun, Ross, Hassel, Blessing.

Substitutes: Sohpomores— Shanks and Johnson. Junior-senior— Purviance, Woodward.

The second victory in a row was annexed by the junior-senior crew yhen on Thursday they defeated the freshmen co-eds by a 7-2 score. The freshmen put up a stiff game, but they, like the sophomores were outclassed by their opponents of the intelligentsia.

During the first quarter, the upperclass girls kept hammering awap at the freshmen goal in vain until, toward the end of the first canto, Wayland and Cooley each pushed a score across. The freshmen soon came back to score one when Kizer administered a well-directed kick that sneaked by the goal keeper.

The second quarter found Wayland cutting through for two more points, while the freshmen were being held scoreless. In the third quarter, Upp, a wing, found an open spot in the defense and put the last freshman score of the game in the bag. Cooley and Wayland reduplicated their previous scoring success by each scoring one more point before the end of the game.

The work of the freshmen was encouraging. They played an aggressive, intelligent game, but were slightly outshone by their superiors. However, the score fails to indicate the battle that took place between the two adversaries.

Milligan Buffaloes Vanquished By Scotsmen In Exciting Game At Johnson City

West And Boretsky Star In Running Attack Behind Improved Blocking

After a week's rest from the disastrous encounter with the Vols, the Maryville Highlanders tore into the Milligan Buffalos with such ferocity as to tramp the Jaycee gridders, 34-0. The Johnson City school gave all it had in a desperate effort to stop the Scots, but that all was simply not enough to turn the trick. The Maryvillians got going and simply could not be stopped until the game was over, scoring in all four periods to avenge themselves the scoreless tie at the hands of the Bisons last season.

The first quarter opened something on the order of the Sharkey-Schmeling fight, with both teams cautiously feeling the other out. After a number of line plays in which neither side had the advantage, Maryville inaugurated a drive which netted the first score of the game, Boretsky carrying the ball over. Extra point was made at once. Hostilities were resumed, but neither team threatened and the initial period ended with Maryville leading 7-0. But the scoring for the half was by no means over. More line plays netted another score, Rock West carrying the hog-hide over the enchanted ribbon, then passing to Atkins for the extra point. Before the half ended, however, a blocked kick gave the Bisons the ball on the six-yard line. A line play advanced it to the one yard stripe, but on the next play, Stone broke through and knocked the opposition for a five yard loss. Fourth down found the ball on Maryville's one yard line again where it went over. The Scots kicked out and the half ended.

Clarke scored early in the third quarter and the score stood 21-0 the remainder of the period, as the boys entered a sort of grid lethargy. A reserve backfield took the stand, but was also impotent. With five

(Continued On Page Four)

MUSIC MAD MEN

Leipsig, Vienna, Berlin, and Scratchankle may be the music centers of the world, but they have nothing on our Carnegie. That is, they didn't have anything until someone moved a piano in about ten o'clock last Saturday night. Carnegie was in the height of its glory with its varieties and varieties of horns, drums, whistles, and vocal cords; but someone had to stick in a piano.

We're not saying anything against the piano, for its status is nothing compared to the audacity of some of the freshmen who daily, hourly, and minutely experiment up and down its keyboard.

For the hundredth time the withering strains, (or strings), of "On Wisconsin" have made the air blue with their repetition. One's almost tempted to suggest that the "pianeer"—also pioneer—would practice during the coming Christmas vacation in order that he might learn to furnish at least two different selections at one sitting. Of course, "On Wisconsin" is a stirring air with a crazy tune that makes you stare till your eyes fall out and you lose your hair; but yet, that makes it a "stirryer" air. And so, we'll hear the piano.

The rasping French harps should not be allowed to escape this fiery denunciation either. With the harpist there is usually a clog dancer. With the clog dancer there is usually a violent shaking of Carnegie and eventually a precipitation of good wholesome plaster. We wonder what Mr. Mac would say if he were suddenly awakened in the middle of the night to find a juicy big piece of plaster lying nonchalantly beside him.

And last of all, we'll mention the radio. What a pity that all the clarinets, symbols, and other pests couldn't be radios. Still, the most sorrowful groans that can be imagined float to the oil blackened ceilings when the lights go out right in the face of Guy Lombardo or Cab Calloway. Why couldn't all "them blastin' trumpets" be run by electricity? The rules forbid playing during study hours; the lights are on only during study hours; therefore the pestilence would be reduced to nothing, and we would dwell forever in peace in the house of Carnegie.

Automobiles are becoming thicker. . . . so are drivers.

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

ECONOMY CAFE
We are the FIRST to Cut Prices
Hamburger
Sandwich 5c
Egg Sandwich 5c
Come In and Try Them

CITY SHOE REBUILDERS
EXCELLENT SHOE REPAIRING
Agents: Elizabeth Smith, Memorial; Kinser Bros., 303 Carnegie

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

KODAK FINISHING
... FOR ...
Best Results and Permanent Prints
BRING YOUR FILMS TO
THE WEBB STUDIO
220 COLLEGE STREET

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Try Our Store First for the Finest GROCERIES at the Best Price
H. P. BYERLEY
PHONE 396 Joe Max Byerley will Deliver

OBSERVATIONS

Home Town News
College Austin
Dreams Come True
Justa Witherspoon

The following account was sent in to the editor of ye olde home towne daily paper for publication. We have it in the original, since it never reached the linotypist. It goes, "Harold Briney, a young farmer of Big Lake Drainage district had a narrow escape from a terrible death a few days ago.

Mr. Briney was operating a corn husking machine. It was being pulled by a tractor. He had stopped but kept the machine running in some manner a button on his trouser leg got caught and soon his leg was wrapped around the end of the revolving shaft. In just a second, he was stripped of his clothing, all but his shoes and socks and part of his underclothes. He summoned a nearby farm hand and sent him after more clothes. When he got caught he grabbed a lever and held on with all his strength. If he had lost his hold he would of been ground to bits. He later put a shield over this shaft."

—o—

We were just wondering in connection with that woman chapel speaker of a week past, what might have been the result if Mr. McCurry had been placed on the platform ith that many words to say. We might have had to return a.ter dinner to get his conclusion. . . don't you suppose?

—o—

If there's anything in the whole chapel program that gets one disconcerted (beside students sleeping and studying) it must be that loud, blatant bell that manages to interrupt the most important sentence of a person's speech, to say nothing of embarrassing the speaker. We'd like to be able to cut a wire or just just before the thing rings, and from the number of other criticisms we've heard about the bell, we wouldn't have any trouble getting someone to lend us the knife.

—o—

At last Bob Paxton has a name of distinction that's fit to print. Someone has tagged Bob "The College Austin."

—o—

Someone informed us the other day that he didn't think the southeast side of the city of Maryville was much to look at. Well, we have not lived on the north-west side of the campus for three years not to realize that very vividly. The fact is, we might have moved a long time ago if it hadn't been for those mountains beyond Maryville, and our ability to overlook the uglier things of life.

—o—

Yes, this is the year that dreams come true. . . .we went to sleep the other night and dreamed that we'd died and gone where it isn't particularly cool. We woke up in the morning and found that during the night someone had left a piano in Carnegie.

Just at this particular time, forty or fifty (it seems) men are sending up to the fourth floor the would-be inspiring notes of "Let Me Call You Sweetheart". We hope for the sake of good womanhood that they don't "Call her sweetheart" that way. We wait a few moments and, believe it or not, we hear resounding against the walls on the left, and the Cumberland mountains on the right, the well-used-up melody of "The Pagan Love" song. As we rationalize we think. . . rather appropriate, what?"

—o—

We were passing by Pearson's one day last week and we couldn't help hearing a rendition, that was a rendition, of the tune to "We're Loyal to You, Illinois", by one of the cornetists in the hall. We had to run away from the place to avoid losing what state loyalty we have left. It's a pity these novices at the musical art couldn't have practiced a few days before they came to Maryville.

—o—

Our position (meaning situation and not office, exactly) in the Lamar Library furnished us with the finding of what we consider the most unique name in the school. A girl came for a book one day last week and left a card with the name, "Justa Witherspoon." We thought for a time that some freshman was getting pretty huffy trying to kid us, but upon investigation we learned that she is deiganated thus, by name.

—o—

If this man Shine ever begins to devote all of time to telling lies, he'll be worse than Houdini, gone kleptomaniac. When this professor, with more than his own share of imagination, goes to applying contemporary conditions to men like Hamlet, we have to laugh for it involves such things as Hamlet identifying himself by showing Polonius his Masonic pin. And then to get acquainted with one of "the boys", "Hamlet invited him over to the Rotary Club for dinner one day. The best characterization is the one concerning Polonius, the man whom, we're told, had always to go by way of his elbow to get to his thumb. That's what we'd term a good 'ern.

—o—

When ye observer first wended his way to this college, in the fall of 1930, he found that he was the second one of his particular surname to grace this campus in eleven years. Since that time, two other persons, Jasmine and Katharine by name, have placed their finger in the pie, so to spik. We don't claim relationship to either of them—that is, blood relationship, but we understand that the head of the Bible department admits it—with reservations. We don't know what Katharine expects to be, a synod director, or a Religious Ed teacher, but if she keeps on eating with such excessive regularity or regularity of excess, she should "grow into" something gret. Probably a big bean stalk, if she keeps on eating at Pearsons. But, she hasn't been the last one to leave her table yet, in the dining hall. She always manages to precede the dishwasher by a few paces.

—o—

We just feel so aw. . . . . fully squelched when, on election night, or some night preceding a football game, Miss Darby makes it a practice to hide in one of the four corners of the dining hall and spy on those old meanuns that throw bread, and drink milk, and carry bread out of the hall, and do all those old naughty things that cullij students just will do. There's just one moral to this. If you're throwing bread, or if you're carrying out a few loaves, make it a point to locate the matron of the dining room, and be sure it's she, since she's mighty clevah. . . yes, mighty clevah——.

MINISTERIAL ASSN.

Dr. O. R. Tarwater, pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Maryville, spoke on "The Atonement" at the Ministerial Association meeting last Wednesday evening. Through the blood of Jesus Christ, Rev. Tarwater pointed out, comes reconcilliation, forgiveness, life, and cleansing power. Christ is the mediator through the shedding of blood.

Next week Dr. M. M. Rodgers will tell of the importance of knowing oriental customs.

Home Management House Will Be Open To H. E. Students Nov. 28

With the injuction of Miss Meiselwitz to "Feel as though it is your own home, and manage it as it ought to be managed", the first couple of Home Economics seniors, Frances Mingea and Marjorie Jones, will enter the Home Management House on November 28.

The new name, Home Management House, takes the place of the old term Practice House, but designates the same course, required of all Home Economics majors, which consists in spending three weeks in the practical managing of a house. The new name, says Miss Brown, head of the department, is now in preferable use, for it more accurately indicates the type of training which the students receive while there.

The Home Economics seniors occupy the Home Management House in groups of two, beginning the latter part of the first semester. Each group remains for twenty-one days, during half of which time the duties of cook, housekeeper, and host devolve upon one girl, while the other assumes the office of maid, meal-server, and door-bell answerer. The latter half of the time these duties are reversed, so that each girl may become acquainted with and accustomed to the entire number of demands made upon the manager of a house.

During the three weeks a formal dinner is served, and with every two groups a tea is given. Every afternoon from threethirty to fourthirty the home management girls hold open house for visitors, but any callers at other times during the day are not encouraged.

BULL RUSHES

We have all had some kind of rush in our lives. There have been fraternity rushes, sorority rushes, "burning dinner" rushes, and perhaps a "broomstick rush"; but whoever head of a Physics rush?

Professor Walker laid his understudies low Friday with the information that the mid-semester avalanche of questions would break loose soon. The class was as quiet as could be, with the exception of the noise of a heated argument, between the professor and an ambitious student, concerning whether the specific gravity of a certain liquid was .4967 or 74966. As the last word trickled down the student's chin, (so heated was the argument that the words were melted), a death-like hush strode into the room. After taking off his coat, the hush became "hushier"; but lo, a voice smothered the class with one blow. A united groan rejected the word "quiz" better than any mirror or dictionary could have done it. The professor stretched, the students wept, and the wind kept on blowing.

Now that enough time has elapsed for the fog to clear, there has been a wide spread and sudden reaction to this infringment upon the social rights of the students. In the first place, who would have expected it? The announcement came right on the heels of a lab test, a forty-nine or fifty problem assignment, and a lot of anxiety. Not only that but it came on the eve of a week full of excitement, entertainment, and general hilarity. Think of it! Monday night will bring the musical, to say nothing of a host of lighted oil lamps and twice that many tired and aching eyes. Tuesday morning will bring a cloud or two followed by a number of weak dizzy stomachs toward the noon hour. One ten P. M. will bring—well, the professor calls it a test, but we call it chaos.

Absolutely no stalling can be done. Professor says that Hoover will be elected whether we have a quiz or not; so, Tuesday the Physics class will be quizzed, and Hoover will be elected. Maybe he said that Roosevelt would be elected; I don't remember; but the point that loomed before us was that someone would be elected while we were up to our necks in a quiz. Perhaps I should say that we would take a quiz while someone was up to our necks in election, but that wouldn't sound right.

After all though, the professo. knows what he is doing. Then, too, there are a good many things that he doesn't know about. For instance, he does not know that a man can't stay awake in chapel after having slept all night on a Physics book. That is, he doesn't know, but he soon finds out.

"MARY ROSE"
(Continued From Page One)

very soft and leave a breathless hush. Its humor is smiling and leaves a gentleness. Its pathos is quiet and leaves a depth of poignancy.

Sometimes like sullen undercurrents of water, and sometimes like wistful minor chords, the background of setting blends into the action. It is a mildly sinister shadow that carries the forboding element of the plot, and that the dramatist has best caught in his description for the setting of the second act:

"An island in the Outer Hebrides. A hundred yards away, across the loch at the back, may be seen the greater island of which this might be but a stone cast into the sea by some giant hand: perhaps an evil stone which the big island had to spew forth but could not sink. It is fair to look upon today, all its menace hidden under mosses of various hues that are a bath to the eye; an island placid as a cow grazing or a sulky lady asleep. A blessed spot it might be thought, rather than sinister, were there not those two trees, a fir and a rowan, their arms outstretched forever southward, as if they hd been struck while in full flight and could no longer pray to their gods to carry them from this island."

METEORS
(Continued from page one)

the earth's atmosphere every day, several million of which would be bright enough to be seen by the naked eye were it not for the sun, moon, stars, or clouds which obscure them to us. That number will be greatly increased by the Leonids.

What becomes of furniture that is too old even for poor folks, and not yet old enough for rich folks?

NATIONAL PARK
(Continued from page one)

of the million dollar Henley Bridge, Knoxville, to Gatlinburg, on the edge fo the Great Smoky Mountain National Park, at the base of Mt. LeConte. From the bse of Le Conte, to the top, a six foot wide National Park trail is being cleared and grgded, for hikers and horse back riders. .

Le Conte is one of the grandest attractions in the great Park. It is the "grand stand of the Park", for, from the main ridge of the Smokies on the state line, a ridge, juts out three miles into Tennessee, then rises majestically, so that from its top, may get a complete view of the main ridge for its entire length, and a world-wide panoramic view, a cycloramic view of the top of the world, in all directions. Under present working plans it will be only a short time until one may ascend Le Conte on horseback. Le Conte is not the highest mountain the Park, but it is often called one of the greatest "mountain personalities" in the world. It ranks with Pike's Peak, Ranier, and other world-known mountains. Another unique attraction in the Park is the spectacular "chimneys" which are reached on the Indian Gap Highway, by turning off before reaching Gatlinburg.

While highway construction is largely in the making at present, it is possible to view practically all of the mountain scenery from any number of the many strategically laid trails through the mountains. Probably the most attractive trail now is the one that goes to Gatlinburg from Knoxville, then up the Indian Gap Highway to the Tennessee-North Carolina line, going thence to the interesting Qualla Reservation, with its 3,000 Cherokee Indians, to the Asheville-Atlanta Highway at Ela. Turning south through Bryson City, one goes through the ten mile long Nantahala Gorge to Topton Station, then turns back through Robbinsville, N. C., for ten miles along the wondrous Lake Santeetlah, Lake Tapoco, the state line, Lake Calderwood, along Little River, Tallassee Springs, Maryville, to Knoxville, a circle of 200 miles. This circle has a wonderful variety of spectacular scenery, and is probably the greatest trip through the Smokies.

"THE ENCHANTED APRIL"
(Continued From Page One)

to complete the group. The final crowd consists of three wives and one young unattached.

In Italy the blooming wisteria sends its fragrance wafting toward nostrils accustomed to the savory odors of beans and Maxwell House coffee; the sunshine there shines with a glow unprecedented even by the sunshine in the Rotary Club's public park; and the four Eves, heretofore lulled to sleep by the next door neighbor's radio, forget their former prosaic existence, and enjoy the thrill of being caressed in their sleep by the warm breezes of the Mediteranean.

But the Southern birds and breezes finally act as a stimulus to renewed ties of domesticity, and before the final curtain the three Adams are brought on the stage. With their arrival the plot wanders off into intricacies and intrigues which are not fully solved until the final words of the final scene.

Try-outs for this play will be held next week according to the same plan as the other three midwinters. Further information as to precedure will be issued later.

MILLIGAN GAME
(Continued from page three)

minutes left to play, the first-stringers were sent back in. A couple of plays placed the ball almost in scoring position and Johnny Kiser took 'er over. Extra point was obtained.

Two minutes left to play and the Scots were not yet satisfied. The frantic last-minute passing, usually resorted to by the losing team, was started by the Maryvillians on their own ten-yard line. A pass from West was attracted to Stone. Taking the ball on his own thirty, Stone oustripped all pursuers and dashed across the goal line standing up. Try for extra point failed and the game was over. Lea Callaway and his men of '31 were avenged.

The college hospital has at present only two patients. Arvilla Miller is confined for a short time with jaundice. Dorothy Coates is suffering with a combination of a severe case of tonsilitis and measles. The two patients have been ill for about one week, but their rapid progress toward health assures them of liberty soon they overlook the fact that Cleveland scarcely was inaugurated when the panic broke, which panic was really brought about by the mistakes of the preceding administration of President Benjamin Harrison.

STUDENT'S VIEW OF ELECTION
(Continued from page two)

The present depression was caused not by the Hoover administration, which scarcely had seated itself before the Wall Street catastrophe, but was the inevitable result of the Republican policies in operation in 1921-1929, during which period our American protectionism sapped the strength of Europe so that the latter collapsed economically in her efforts to pay the World War debts. The Republican argument, therefore, is true when it says that the depression attacked America from Europe, but it fails to admit that the depression in Europe was brought about by post-war American economic policy to begin with.

The assignment of blame to Hoover operated, however, and many thousands of people simply voted against the Republican on that score. Ignorance played a large part.

The oil operators of Oklahoma were bitter against the administration. The western farmers wanted a change. Large industrial states and cities wanted to shake off a three year's jinx. The foreign elements in our cities wanted beer, and they believed that the Democrats, and not the Republicans, would get it for them. Although the Republicans might insist in return that they were as Wet as the Democrats, they must admit that they were not so frank in saying so, and that their acceptance-speech and following ambiguities were ultimately responsible for the general opinion that by comparison the administration party was Dry.

One factor alone aided Hoover in the eleventh hour, in Pennsylvania, a state which was expected to go Democratic for the first time since 1856. Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Republican hotbeds which had gone Demoratic in 1930, were expected to land the state's 36 electoral votes in the Roosevelt column. Pittsburgh, still in the throes of depression, went overwhelmingly Democratic. In the Philadelphia vicinity, however, industry began to revive in late August. The Grundy factory at Bristol took back 700 employees. At the first of September a silk-hosiery establishment, having been shut down for two years, reopened with a force of 2000 on the payroll. During the last two months one plant after another has been reviving, and unemployment has seen ever increasing signs of returning bread and butter. Such industrial recovery, accomplished under the wings of Hoover's administration, could not but restore the people's confidence in Republicanism, and on November 8 Philadelphia went strongly Republican, carrying the entire state with her. Pennsylvania's 36 votes went to Hoover.

Notwithstanding, the country being still in the midst of depression, the people being disposed to blame Hoover with the depression, the notion being current that to get liquor it was necessary to elect the ticket labeled "Roosevelt and Repeal", the electoral college gave to Roosevelt a majority that even many Democrats were not willing to hope for.

The American people are divided into two great classes: those who think they are as good as anybody, and those who think they are better.

Hair today. . . gone tomorrow.

FALL CONCERT
(Continued From Page One)

The bizarre quality of Miss Manges' group of three solos held the attention of her audience almost perfectly. The fantastic "Elf", the oriental tone of "Rush Hour in Hongkong", the novelty of the Cat and the Mouse", not only combined unusual musical qualities, but displayed the excellent tone, sure touch, and absolute poise of Miss Manges. We would suggest however, that the "Elf" and the "Cat and the Mouse" be placed in the same category with above mentioned Chopin's Polonaise.

The high point in the program was the Rubinstein Concerto, played by Miss Manges, accompanied by Miss Howard. It was by far the most unusual number on the program, and rose in its brilliance almost to the point of the sensational.

A Record Breaker!

Sale of Hosiery

49c Pr.

Full Fashioned All Silk

First Quality!

Extra Sheer

And Semi-Service

We're out to see what sales record we can break. We're out to sell the largest amount of quality hosiery at the lowest price in our history. Every pair is of the excellence that comes up to our critical standards. Cradle foot. French heel, picot top, and they fit as beautifully as they wear.

Take our advice and get several pairs of these hose at this bargain price . . . We have them in the new fall colors . . . . Most any wanted shade.

Badgett Store Co.

"The Store of Better Values"

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 — THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, NOVEMBER 26, 1932 — NUMBER TEN

Standing Of Maryville College Is Improved By University Recognition

Maryville Students Will Have Ease In Entering Universities

Announcement by Dr. Lloyd on Wednesday morning that Maryville College has been placed on the approved list of the Association of American Universities, brings to us the definite knowledge that the standing of the College among other colleges and universities of the United States has been increased.

The Association of American Universities is a group of universites, twenty--nine in number, especially interested in standards for graduate study. Its Committee on Classification of Universities and Colleges has issued a list of institutions which have proved able to prepare students for graduate schools of the Association. It is this list upon which Maryville has been placed.

Besides being an added distinction in itself, the recognition of this Association is of practical value. Students from the approved institutions are accepted without examination for graduate work in European as well as American universities. Membership in the Association is also a requirement for a college to have a chapter of Phi Beta Kappa.

The application, for which Dr. Hunter compiled a report of seventy five pages, was made last August for the first time in the history of the school. On October 29, a special examiner for the Association, Mr. R. N. Dempster, registrar of Johns Hopkins University, made a visit of inspection. On his recommendation, the Association, at its meeting in New York on November 12, placed Maryville College on their list of approved colleges and universities. Such matters as the curriculum, training of the faculty, requirements for admission and graduation, and financial resources were considered before the decision was reached..

Of the approximately one thousand colleges and universities in the United States, only two hundred and forty-five other than Maryville are on the approved list. Nineteen of these are colleges of liberal arts in the Southern area. Five other Tennessee institutions are on the list: the University of Tennessee, Vanderbilt University, the University of the South, George Peabody College for Teachers, and the University of Chattanooga.

Members of the Association of American Universities for the year 1932 are: Catholic University of America, Clark University, Columbia University, Cornell University, Harvard University, Indiana University, Johns Hopkins University, McGill University, Northwestern University, Ohio State University, Princeton University, Stanford University, State University of Iowa, University of California, University of Chicago, University of Illinois, University of Kansas, University of Michigan, University of Minnesota,

(Continued on page four)

JOINT MEETING TONIGHT

The first joint meeting for the year of the brother and sister literary societies will be held tonight. Bainonians and Athenians assemble in Bartlett Hall auditorium, where an interesting program, including a Persian playlet, will be presented. The Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon societies, for whom a variety of entertaining features have been arranged, meet in the Y. W. C. A. auditorium in Thaw Hall.

Much Interest Shown Over East Tennessee Student Conference

Representatives From U. T., Tusculum, King College and L. M. U. Attend

Unusual interest was manifested over the East Tennessee Student Conference which was held at Maryville on the 19th and 20th of November. Representatives from the University of Tennessee, Tusculum College, King College, and Lincoln Memorial University attended. There were sixteen visiting delegates from these colleges.

The motto for the federation, "To Me to Live Is Christ", was the theme of the conference. This theme carried throughout the service and played a significant part in the discussions and speeches.

The speakers for the occasion were Dr. Giffin, President of Knoxville College; Mr. Howard Hubbell, State Secretary of the Y. M. C. A.; and Dean Foster of Tusculum College.

A very impressive feature of the conference was the communion service which was held at the closing meeting on Sunday afternoon. This service lent to the seriousness and earnestness that was shown in the entire conference. Dr. Stevenson, the college pastor, presided.

At a business meeting on Saturday the officers were elected to serve for the coming year. The new officers are: President, Winn Barr of Maryville; vice president, Mr. Morris of the Univesity of Tennessee; and secretary, H. S. Chapman of Lincoln Memorial University.

Y. W. C. A. PROGRAM

"How I Shall Serve God" is the subject for the Y. W. C. A. program Sunday afternoon. Three girls will present distinct phases of this practical topic in three short talks.

"I Must Know Him As a Friend" is the phase upon which Martina Robison will speak, with emphasis upon the subsequent motive of love instead of duty in serving God.

"I Must Develop All Possibilities of Mine" is the topic of Bessie Reeves, and she will picture the subjective side of service to God.

"I Must Consider Other Objects in the World Besides Myself" will be the subject of Thelma Iles, who will outline the necessity of recognizing friends, objects of nature, and other outside influences in serving God.

Mary Cornwall will lead the devotions.

College Players Open Dramatic Season With "Mary Rose"

Jean Campbell, In Leading Role Gives Good Character Portrayal

Playing to a much smaller house than they deserved, the College Players ushered in the dramatic sason with "Mary Rose" on Monday evening, November 14.

"Mary Rose" is not the type of play to be received cordially by a great many people, but those whose taste runs to fantasy were delighted with it, and even those who disliked the play were impressed by the acting. Miss Campbell, in the title role, gave a pleasing performance in which she sustained her character with almost uniform success. Mr. Culver achieved a convincing character after a rather weak beginning. Mr. Borer gives promise of continued usefulness to the expression department in the future. Honors for the old man interpretations are shared about equally by Mr. Mathias and Mr. Duff, with a little favor to the former. Miss Mize, except for her slowness of speech, carried her role successfully. Miss Brocious and Mr. Testa also gave finished performances.

The stage setting for the island scene was unusually good, but the effect was somewhat spoiled by the long wait before it. A professional wait between acts is ten to fifteen minutes. This wait lasted almost as long as the act itself. The shore line effect and the manipulation of the boat were outstandingly good.

Howard Kester Speaks Discouragingly About Disarmament Meet

War Will Exist As Long As It Is Profitable Speaker Asserts

"Fundamentally, there is rising from the recent disarmament conference no real possibility of disarmament," said Howard Kester last night in a talk to a small group of students in the philosophy classroom.

Mr. Kester is southern secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, an organization which "recruits men who stand for peace, social justice, and equality."

Moreover, said the speaker, there was no serious attempt to bring into the conference a realistic effort to scale down armaments. When the tragically inadequate resolutions were presented at the close of the conference, only one man said, "I vote against the resolutions and for peace."

Mr. Kester believes that war will exist as long as war is profitable.. He says that armament firms deliberately instigated the trouble of China and Japan in Manchuria in order to create a market for munitions. "America and the world", says he, "are in danger because a certain group of men are allowed to continue to produce war.

"There must grow up in every country," he continued, "a group of men and women who realize the stupidity and uselessness of the war habits. They must take an absolutist position, and be willing to go to prison or to give their lives, if necessary, because of their unswerving alliegance to the living personality of their brothers."

Mr. Kester traveled last summer in Europe, spending most of his time in Geneva and Vienna. He quoted Prof. Evans, head of the economics department of Emory University, as saying that Vienna is the most perfect city in the world.

In the years between 1923 and 1932, a Socialist municipal administration, the city has been transformed. In 1923 there were five persons to every room, notwithstanding the large number of huge palaces belonging to such families as the Rothschilds. Then most of the people had only black tea to drink and black bread to eat. There

(Continued On Page Four)

Inter-Allied War Debts Will Be Pi Kappa Delta Subject

Team Will Employ Carolina Plan In Debate Against Asheville Normal

The question chosen by Pi Kappa Delta for the season of 1932-33 is officially stated as follows: Resolved: That the United States should agree to the cancellation of the Inter-allied war debts. The question was chosen from a list of nine by a great majority of schools of Pi Kappa Delta, with the question of banking control as the second choice. The war debts question will be used by the varsity teams of Maryville College during their debate season.

The first debate on the schedule for the varsity team will be in Maryville the evening of December 9th with Asheville Normal School of Asheville, North Carolina, furnishing the opposition. The teams will use the Carolina plan. The Carolina plan is to debate the question on the basis of issues in the question. An issue is presented and settled before any new matter is introduced. Then an issue is presented by the opposite side and settled like the preceding one and continuing in this manner until all the issues have been discussed. For each issue a five minute speech is permitted by each side and three minute rebuttal speeches. After the last issue has been settled each side has a five minute rebuttal for the debate as a whole.

Home Economics Dept. Displays Reproductions Of Art Masterpieces

Lithographs, Collotypes, Color Prints ond Facsimile Reproductions Are To Be Seen

An exhibit of one hundred and fifty of the finest reproductions of the world's masterpieces of art has been engaged for immediate display to students and the general public, according to announcement from Miss Brown, head of the Home Economics Department. Miss Brown is responsible for engaging this exhibit from the Practical Drawing Company of Dallas, Texas, from whom an exhibit of thirty original etchings was secured last year.

Recent improvements in color photography and printing now make it possible to bring, in such exhibits as this one, the recognized art of the world to campuses as small as Maryville. Lithographs, collotypes, color prints, and facsimile reproductions of such masterpieces as the Mona Lisa, The Blue Boy, The Gleaners, and the Madonna of the Chair will be displayed. The different schools of art will be represented by products of such masters as Raphael, Michaelangelo, Rembrandt, Reubens, Reynolds, Gainsborough, Parrish, Cezanne, Hals, Murillo, Hofman, Millet, El Greco, Whistler, Titian, Van Dyck, and Goya.

"These reproductions", according to authority of the company who sends them, "are true to the originals in all aspects with the possible exception of size. Even the most delicate variations in color are maintained. In most instances the brush strokes in the original picture are clearly discernedible."

These pictures will be on display all next week in the Home Economics rooms on the third floor of Science Hall at the following hours: Monday, 1-5; Tuesday, 3-5; Wednesday 1-5; Thursday, 3--5; Friday 8:30-5; Saturday, 8:30-5.

A small admission charge will be made for all town people who attend. Students only are admitted free of charge. The money which is collected from the sale of these tickets will be used to buy pictures for the various groups who sell tickets. Pictures will be available also to private purchasers at reasonable prices. .

The used car is not what it's jacked up to be.

NEW STAFF MEMBERS

The Committee on Student Publications met in Professor Davis' class room on November 14, and selected the remaining five members of the freshman apprentice staff.

Charlotte Upp, and Alice Proctor were the girls selected to write for the Echo, while the three boys chosen to fill the standing vacancy were James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn, and O. T. Holder.

Maryville Music Enthusiasts Attend Concert In Knoxville

Fray and Braggiotti, Radio Entertainers, Are Presented

Several faculty members and a number of students in the music department attended the Fray-Braggiotti recital Wednesday evening in the ball room of the Andrew Johnson in Knoxville. These artists were presented by the Community Concert Association of that city.

The program consisted of music for two pianos in a variety of themes from composers ranging from the great Bach to Debussy. One of the most impressive numbers was the coronation scene from "Boris Godounoff" by Moussrgsky. The music of this scene depicts the Tzar, Boris, following his coronation, being hailed by the voices of his people and the bells of the Kremlin.

Familiar compositions played during the evening included Lisst's "Liebestraum" and "The Fire Dance" from De Falla's "El Amor Brujo."

Finishing in a lighter vein, the two played Signor Braggiotti's highly original variations on "Yankee Doodle" after the manner of Bach, Beethoven, Chopin, Debussy, and Gershwin. This is a number which never fails to delight an audience.

Fray and Braggiotti are heard in weekly broadcasts over the Columbia System's network, through which they have established themselves as the foremost two-piano team of America.

SENIOR ENGLISH EXAM

A wide span of ability was shown by the results of the annual Senior English examination given early in the fall. One hundred twenty seniors took the test which one must pass satisfactorily before receiving a degree from Maryville College.

The possible high score of the test was 350. 227.5 is considered a passing grade. The scores in this year's case ranged from 204, twenty three points below the passing mark, to 330, which is only twenty points below the total number of points.

The upper ten percent of the class received scores running from 319 to 330. The people receiving these highly desirable marks are: Leslie Webb 330, Ruth Brocious 329, Rennie Tubbs 329, Frank Neff 328, Nathalia Wright 328, Ruth Boyd 325, Ellen Macrae 325, Robert Stevenson 325, Dollie Putnam 324, Robert Overly 320, Harry Wood 320, and Roberta Robison 319.

Dr. Lloyd Is Impressed With Wholesome Outlook Of New England People

Folk Remain Staunch During Time of Industrial Unrest In East

The wholesome outlook on conditions of today was one of the things which impressed Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd president of Maryville College, while on a speaking tour of five weeks in eastern New England.

According to Dr. Lloyd it was heartening to see the staunchness with which people, face to face with some of the nation's worst centers of industrial sloughs, were able to keep their cultural moving ahead.

"New England", said the president, "is a striking combination of culture and industry. In and around Boston there are about twenty-five colleges, while in the vicinity, and not far removed in towns like Lynn and Lowell, some of the greatest and most compact industrial centers of the country are situated."

Dr. Lloyd considered the fact that while there are so many eminent colleges from New York to Boston there were a great many people who were not familiar with Maryville College or others in its class.

"But those same people were very apreciative of all that was told to them concerning Maryville, its students, what it stood for, and its problems.

"Before making the trip I wasn't quite sure of what I would find in New England, but of this I am certain, and that is that there is no highbrow superciliousness."

When asked concerning the financial aspect of the trip, Dr. Lloyd replied that it was, "from the purpose for which it was made, successful. A great many acquaintances were renewed. Many new ones were made. On the whole, I believe that though there are many things which I don't think it necessary to disclose, the trip was very advantageous to us."

Some of the physical aspects of New England which caught the eye of President Lloyd were the accent, the proximity of the states, and the white churches.

"It gave one a peculiar sensation," said Dr. Lloyd, "to travel a comparatively short distance and then find oneself in another state. The accent brought to him something which he had not heard before to any great extent.

The white churches reminded him of the white doorsteps in Baltimore. The great number of churches which are of the same general shape and color made them stand out quite prominently in his mind.

It is the intention of Dr. Lloyd to tell the student body of Maryville some of the things which he and Miss Clemmie Henry told the churches, women's clubs, and chapters of the Daughters of the American Revolution which were visited.

Dr. Hunter expects to be sufficiently recovered from his recent illness to return to his duties the first of the week. He has been confined to his home for about a week with flu and a very severe cold.

FRESHMAN MEDITATES

This business of being a freshman isn't half bad. On the whole it is rather interesting, and the sensations resulting from being designated by that original appellation "freshie" are not altogether unpleasant. Of course, it would never do to breathe this to a sophomore. One of his pet diversions might be spoiled. Besides, it's a much wiser policy to stay in the good graces graces of the upperclassmen, for, after all, they are a pretty decent sort of folk. .

Freshmen at Maryville have broad educational advantages not to be found in mere books. For instance, they learn that "moonshining" does not necessarily denote illicit distilling. They discover, also, that there are at least twelve varieties of beans, with an opportunity to taste every kind of Pearsons Dining Hall, except, perhaps, Mexican jumping beans. Valuable lessons like these are not to be sniffed at.

A successful freshman must appear unsophisticated, even a little dumb—but not too dumb. It's perfectly legimate to forget twice in succession to go to class; in fact, that may be expected, but it is not wise to forget a third time.

There are some things, certainly, which the untrained mind of a freshman is unable to grasp. Just why a young gentleman cannot escort a young lady to Sunday School when he can within the bounds of etiquette take her to church is hard to comprehend. But then who but Emily Post ever understood everything about etiquette anyway?

Taken as a whole this course in freshman behavior is a worthwhile one. Looking back from the first half-semester milestone, the anticipation of the ordeal was far worse than the realization. Hopes for the road ahead are bright!

THE SCENES OF TIME

We hear discussions pro and con concerning whether or not the present generation is an improvement over the old one. There are many ways in which we are not on a par with the older one, but there are also some in which we are ahead. In glancing over the first annual that was ever produced at Maryville, I find some very interesting things which is pertinent to the subject. Back in the good old days of '06 or farther back, the art of moonshining originated. The evolution of the subject is educational.

On certain nights when the moon was shining, the men of this institution could accompany members of the opposite sex to church in town. But when the sky was overcast and black clouds raced across, the beauties languished in their respective boudoirs. Did I say languished? Well, I was partly right, some of them did. Those that did not are the ones with which we are concerned.

The following is a small portion of one of Miss Molly's bi-weekly lectures administered to members of the previous generation: (Bear in mind this is in the midst of the talk). "And right here, girls, I must speak of something which pains me deeply. To think that any girl should so far forget her womanhood! Oh, what would your good name be worth if it should get out? Would mothers send their daughters to Maryville College if this digression should be known? Ah, girls, you would be surprised beyond expression of words if you knew what room it was and what girls they were; for, girls, girls, strings have gone down from windows and things have been pulled up!" This grave offense was committed, please notice, by the previ-

(Continued on page four)

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

GERALDINE SMITH - - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
KAY CARPENTER - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, November 26, 1932

THE DESTINY OF THE EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

The presidential election of 1932 was lost by the party that has been accustomed, since 1860, to win. And as was the case in 1884, 1892, 1912, and 1916, the Republican calamity howlers have come forth predicting what terrible things will happen in the United States, things which might have been avoided, say they, had the Democrats been defeated.

One of the chief delusions has been on the part of the Republican Drys. According to this particular set of poor losers, it will be no time at all ere all vestiges of national liquor prohibition, summarily existent as the eighteenth amendment to the federal constitution, will be wiped out and the saloon be back on the corner. But this is only half of the delusion. The other half is that were the 1933-1937 administration Republican instead of Democratic, the eighteenth amendment would most certainly be enforced and would stand a better chance of remaining in the constitution.

We contest this piece of political foolishness, not because we wish to defend the newly empowered Democrats, but because we think that in the interest of the Dry cause it is necessary that an understanding may be reached concerning the various phases of the matter as they at present exist. We do not share the view that the country will go Wet because Democrats were elected or that it would remain Dry if Republicans had been elected. What then will determine the destiny of the eighteenth amendment?

The first factor to determine the destiny of the eighteenth amendment will be whether or not the Republican Drys rid themselves of their unfair views. They must learn that their defeat politically as Republicans was inevitable, on economic grounds, and they must be fair in their attitude. The easiest thing for them to do is to rationalize concerning what would happen if what was was not and what wasn't was; but the sooner they learn to recognize the absolute similarity (except as to courage of proclamation) between the Republican and Democratic platforms, acceptance speeches, and campaign speeches put together, and the sooner they learn that the Democratic Drys are just as Dry and just as numerous as the Republican Drys and that the Republican Wets are just as Wet and just as numerous as the Democratic Wets, the better it will be for the great cause of liquor prohibition.

The second factor to determine the destiny of the eighteenth amendment will be whether or not the Dry forces in America realize the true situation as it now stands. At the outset, it is absolutely necessary mentally to divorce liquor prohibition from party politics; in fact, the Republican platform itself insisted that it was not a political matter. The main issue of the 1932 campaign was the economic. Neither the eastern industrialist nor the western agriculturalist were voting for beer when they voted Democratic. The "Solid South" certainly was not voting for liquor when it supported Roosevelt; on the other hand, the most ardent political support of liquor prohibition came originally from the Democratic south. The main issue having been the economic—in other words, the matter of liquor prohibition not having been paramount—it is very necessary to realize that the 1932 election does NOT foretell the doom of the eighteenth amendment. This realization will itself be a determining factor in shapng the destiny of the amendment.

But the necessary background of fairness of attitude and true realization will aid the Drys in maintaining national liquor prohibition only as the determination to get to work grips the heart of every believer in the present moral soundness of the eighteenth amendment.

The destiny of the eighteenth amendment rests absolutely with the Drys. If the Democratic Drys are going weakly to surrender to the absurd notion that the 1932 election was a Wet victory, then the cause of liquor prohibition will be lost. If the Republican Drys are going to act the proverbial "sorehead", excusing their own political and economic deficiencies and their inactivity by means of rationalization, then the cause of liquor prohibition will be lost.

The sooner the various constituents of the Dry forces get rid of their petty political narrowness in order to become corporately active, the better it will be for the cause of liquor prohibition. The sooner they realize that we are in a moral battle to save a civilization built on Christian standards, the better it will be for the cause of liquor prohibition. The sooner the whole mass of Dry forces "snap out" of their apathetic enmity to their own cause and get to work, the better it will be for that noble cause that is on our hearts.

The task of repealing the eighteenth amendment is not nearly so easy as many have foolishly imagined. The Drys number many more than many Wets like to believe. A stiff battle awaits those who are confidently expecting the return of beer. The outcome of this battle depends entirely upon the unity, steadfastness, and courage—the proof of our sincerity—of those of us who profess to be in favor of national liquor prohibition.

Two petticoats were recently stolen from a woman. . . every museum in the country is under suspicion.

Senior Open Party To Be In Bartlett Hall Monday Night

Plans are going forward rapidly, under the supervision of Ann Trewitt, vice-pesident of the senior class, for the senior open party to be held on Monday night, November 28 at 7:30, in Bartlett Hall.

In accordance with precedent, the party will be formal. Plans for the entertainment are being kept secret and the theme of the party will not be disclosed until Monday night.

Assisting Miss Trewitt are Helen Thompson and Jean Campbell, who are in charge of the program; Marion Pflanze, chairman of the decoration committee; Louise Cline, chairman of the invitation committee; and Mary Cornwall, assisted by Dolly Putman and Martha Gushert, in charge of the refreshments.

Alumni Returns To Old Stamping Grounds

Many students gave thanks during the week-end for being able to entertain guests, among whom were a number of alumni and former students. The list includes Irish Terry, Mary Sue Glover, Blundon Ferguson, Virginia Crider King, Mary Ella Sullivan, Wallace Barr, Millard Tolliver, Charles Richardson, Helen Blessing, Ed Sprouse, Janet Stanley, Jaculyn O'dell, Amelia Dickens, Margaret Cragan, and Mae Hunter.

Mrs. S. T. Dexter, of Highland Park, Illinois was the guest of her daughter, Phyllis Dexter. Elizabeth Duncan entertained her mother, Mrs. William Duncan, of Montreat, North Carolina.

Alumni News

Porter French Sails

Porter French, class of '31, sailed November 12 from New York for a contract of thee years as teacher in Jaffna College at Vaddukoddai, Ceylon.

Mr. French ws born in Saskatchewan, Canada, but lived in Kentucky while he was a student here. His parents are now located in Bowling Green, Missouri. He and his sister, Fronie, were both graduated from Maryville in recent years. Since graduation, Porter has spent one year in study at the Chicago Theological Seminary.

Ceylon, to which Mr. French is going as the first Maryville graduate to take up work there, is located just south of India, and Jaffna is situated at the extreme northern point of the island, across Pan Strait from the mainland.

Beeler Appointed

Roy Beeler, class '06, was appointed attorney general of Tennessee by the Supreme Court on Novmber 11. He succeeds the late L. D. Smith.

Beeler, a native of Powder Springs, Tennessee, attended school at Carson-Newman College, subsequently enrolling in Maryville. He received his law degree from the University of Chicago in 1910, and began his practice in Knoxville. In 1919 he was elected city attorney of Knoxville, and at the expiration of his term returned to his private practice.

At the time of appointment to attorney generalship, Beeler was serving as solicitor-general. His term runs through 1934.

Rev. Edward Kidder

An interesting letter was received by the alumni association this week from the Rev. Edward Kidder of Chefoo, China. Mr. Kidder is a member of the class of '16 and has spent twelve years in mission work in China. He says in part: "I have just returned home after a three-weeks trip, visiting our stations in southern Shantung.

"Upon my return, I found that fighting had been going on between between our local general and the provincial authorities only a few miles to the west of Chefoo. The countryside has been thrown into a panic and refugees are pouring into the port with harrowing tales of atrocities.

"My young nephew, Jack Tootell, is in Maryville this year, also, Phyllis Booth, the daughter of our co-workers here in Chefoo, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Booth.

"I trust that the college is enjoying a prosperous year."

Lois Wilson

A recent letter from Miss Lois Wilson in Sidon, Syria, tells of her pleasure in resuming her work after her furlough spent in Maryville, and speaks of the unusual opportunities which are now opening up for the teaching of Moslem girls.

Dr. C. N. Magill

Dr. C. N. Magill, of Lucena, Philippine Islands, reports a year of excellent progress in his mission field, which covers the province of Tayahas. Dr. Magill has recently completed a translation of the Bible into the Tagalog language. This work has required much time and care and is considered an achievement from the linguistic standpoint.

Letter From Chang

An interesting letter has recently been received from T. Z. Chang '20, now living in Hankow, China. "Honorable Secretary-Treasurer:

"I have given a Mexican $10.00 bill to a banker friend to pay my annual due and I trust that you will receive same about a month later. I am thinking it is the very time for me to send the season's greetings—"Merry Christmas."

I figure out that this chit will arrive you just a few days before Christmas. My best regards to Pres. and Mrs. Wilson and their family, Miss Anna Jones and many her classmates, their faces I remember very well but their names forgotten; my former landladies, Misses Russell of Indiana Avenue, Prof. Gillingham, who left college some time ago, Mrs. Alexander, Miss Green, Prof. Hunter, who is the very popuar professor on the Hill now, Dr. and Ms. Stevenson, "the wood-people", Farmer-preacher Polk and many others, including my class mates, who live in Maryville, whose names I will not write down in fear that I may overlook one of them.

"Please give my regards to all these thru' the Echo, if it is possible.

"T. Z. Chang."

LITTLE CHURCH

(By Frank Mease '34)

"I came that they might have life, and have it more abundantly."

We hear so much concerning the doctrine of original sin, salvation through faith, and all the rest of them that soon we are led to believe that therein lies the essential characteristic of the Christian religion, namely, that of doctrinal teaching.

Such teaching very often overrates its validity, and isolates the teaching and preaching of the real, vital, essentials of practical Christinity. Jesus was concerned more with the latter. His teachings had to do with practical living which after all is the more important thing to be taught.

Basic as these doctrines are for the knowledge of Christianity and its background—we do not discredit that—we will miss the mark and ultimate end of Christianity if we neglect the spreading of the gospel of right social living. We fall short of executing our duties as Christians if the simple, vital, and essential, everyday principles of righteous social living, are "drowned out" by the continual pounding away on so many creeds about which most theologians are themselves at variance.

The ditch digger who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow does not care to be pestered with a conglomeration of doctrines, which he and no one else will ever understand to the fullest extent. What he can understand, and what he wants, is to know how to live, and how to live with his fellow men.

So it is in our economic, social, and industrial life. We must allow our religion! to be socialized to such an extent that it will permeate our lives and the lives of those with whom we work. Christian principles must radiate from our actions, be imbedded in all walks of life. Not until we have taught and lived this religion of life; not until we have carried our Christianity with us to our place of business; not until we live and teach the life of love, sacrifice, and self control, may we count ourselves as fulfilling our Christian duty!

Practical religion is life; it is a working philosophy of life, and holds out to the individual the hope of a clean heart and an unselfish life. It calls him to the useful task of building a worthy Christian character.

Tryouts For Cast Of "The Enchanted April" Are Completed

The tryouts for the Theta Epsilon mid-winter production, "The Enchanted April", to be presented in Voorhees Chapel on February 20th, have been completed. Those who have been selected for the cast are:

Rose Arbuthnot - Clifford Withers
Arundel - - - - Ernest Lowe
Lottie Wilkins - - Nathalia Wright
Mellersch Wilkins - Harry Mathias
Lady Caroline Dester - - - - Ann Trewhitt
Thomas Briggs - - Glover Lietsch
Francesco - - - - Nina Gamble
Dominico - - - Newman Smith
Mrs. Fisher - - Lucille Swafford

The plot centers around Lady Caroline, leading female character, and Briggs, leading male.

Three wives grow overwhelmingly dissatisfied with the housewife's drudgery. Conspiring to do something rash about the matter, they break the stocks and flee to the southern breezes and beautiful nights of Italy.

After a lengthly sojourn at their luxurious place of willful exile, they are appeased by the "Italian Balm".

Before the final curtain dangles, the forsaken "boys at home" break into the scene. Indescribable hilarity and complication follows. But, as in a Physics problem, a plausible solution unwinds from a hidden windlass, and in the last minutes before the end, complete unification is brought to the revolutionists and to the "revolted at".

Meteors In Leonid's Showers Are Observed By Astronomy Class

Eleven Meteors In Five Minutes Observed In Wednesday Night Watch

From Monday, November 14 to Friday, November 18, the Astronomy class was divided into groups of five or six, in watches of one hour duration, and observed the heavens from midnight until dawn, noting the meteors seen in the predicted shower of Leonid.

The total number of meteors seen during the week was 332 but some watches were not recorded because of cloudy weather. The greatest number was seen on Wednesday night from midnight until 2:30 when eleven meteors were observed in five minutes, and one hundred and thirty were observed in the two hours and a half.

This is a regularly recurring shower, which takes place every thirty-three years. The greatest shower ever recorded took place November 13, 1833 when stars fell like rain from the Canadian Lakes to the equator. It was estimated that at Boston 34,640 fell per hour and the shower lasted for seven hours, making 240,000 meteors to be observed from that city. In 1866 the shower was less intense, and the showers of 1899 and 1932 prove that the Leonid is losing force.

Biology Department Will Hatch Its Own Chickens In Future

"With a cluck-cluck here and a cluck-cluck there" may soon be the theme song of the Biology Department, for Miss Green has bought a hen. Yes sir! a hen!—the kind that hatches eggs. We thought we had enough sprightly chickens, yellow, green, and otherwise on the campus, but evidently we are to have some more, and before next September too.

The writer, having been given the assignment of the "Biology Hen", went to the Botany room expecting to see a cackling, feathery fowl. What did she see? an electric hen; a tub, not even shaped like a hen; in other words, an incubator, and, of course, not cackling but humming. But she saw the eggs. Nothing unusual about that, but in five days she expects to find those eggs hatched and to see cheeping chickens.

TRIANGLE CLUB

The following program was presented to the Triangle Club on Thursday, November 17:

Song—Thomas Jamieson
Reading from "As You Like It"—Veta Mae Stephens
Group of Songs—Vi Webb and Tess Frey
Reading—"In The Usual Way"—Eleanor Denslow

The Poetry Corner

ECSTASY

Perfume
Of a rose you gave me,
Dreams
Of a garden where we stood,
Music
Of the sea's dull murmur,
Blue
Of eyes that loved, caressed,
Memories
Throbbing, thrilling near,
Ecstasy
Sharp, sweet, bitter—

—Kay Carpenter

PAGAN PEACE

I love a storm.
The strange, exultant, heathen rumbling of thunder.
In ears so tired of man-made sounds,
The swift, ragged blotches of lightning,
A benediction of fire on tight-closed lids,
Then rain, sudden, rushing, inexorable,
Stinging drops, but cold and painless tears
On cheeks already wet!

—Kay Carpenter

"THE BAT" DISPLAY

Two weeks from Monday night the Alpha Sigma Literary Society will present its midwinter, "The Bat", the play with a plot. Through out next week there will be a mysterious display in the window of Byrne's Drug Store which is reputed to be of interest to every prospective member of the audience if these two apparently unrelated sentences seem to you to bear any subtle relation stop on your first stroll to town next week and examine the contents of Byrne's window.

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

PALACE THEATRE
Thursday-Friday
December 1-2
SHE WAS NOT DEAD ...NOR ALIVE...
Just a
White Zombie
Performing His Every Desire
Starring
Bela (Dracula) Lugosi

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN IOPE, Representative

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.

Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	*†9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*††Direct connection to Townsend

SPORTS

Wilson Field Converted Into Sea Of Mud As Appalachian Teachers Bow To Scots

Highlanders Show Superior Play In All Departments To Win By Two Touchdowns

The ooze of Wilson field felt the cleats of a rejuvenated Maryville eleven trapmed to victory over the strong combination from Appalachian Teachers College last Saturday. Crowning a dull season with a 12-0 win, the team finds the Highlander football horizon considerably brightened for the future.

The game was one of the most interesting of the season, the ball being in scoring territory often enough to keep the spectators on their feet throughout the entire game. The Scots were threatening early in the first quarter after West had intercepted a pass and Boretsky had run the ball to the eighteen yard line. Here the Teachers stiffened and booted out of danger when the home team lost the ball on downs. Boretsky's return kick was short and the visitors put on a drive that was barely halted on the two yard line. Boretsky snagged another enemy pass but the Highlander offensive lagged and after kicking to midfield, found themselves again being threatened by an Appalachian push. A flat pass, intercepted by Collins on the twenty yard line, gave the Scots their chance to toe the leather and Lady Luck smiled again when a visiting back dropped the ball and Kiser promptly smothered it. A well placed quick-kick put the hog-hide on the enemy's three yard line, but a long return punt brought it back to mid-field. Scrapping like a pack of hounds, the home boys tried repeatedly to reach the Promised Land beyond that double stripe, but the Carolinians threw up their breastworks with the motto "They shall not pass" and the half ended with twenty-two men grovelling in the slime in neutral territory.

There was no let up of intensity at the start of the second half and the Scots especially were raring for blood. Kicking off deep into enemy territory, they held the visitors for downs and got under way for their first touchdown drive. Boretsky did twenty yards on a lateral but here the Highlanders were halted momentarily and the Teachers kicked out of scoring danger. Maryville held the margin with Boretsky's fine punting and it wasn't long before they had closed in on the goal posts again. Atkins neatly hoodwinked the visitors by starting to walk off the field and then turning back for a wide forward pass. Suspecting the strategy, at least half of the visiting eleven was pulled out of the play to cover the pass and this left Boretsky practically alone on the short side of the field. West, feinting to Atkins, shot a flat aerial to Steve who was barely nabbed on the five yard mark. Appalachian held like Trojans here for three downs, before West was able to knife through on a quarterback sneak. An attempted pass for the extra point was grounded.

As the Carolinians fumbled the kick-off at the start of the final period, the Scots were afforded an-

(Continued On Page Four)

COLLEGIATE SWAPS

The University of South Carolina faculty is having a payless month to celebrate their 1932 Christmas. Besides that, they capture a mere 43 percent renumeration for the month of November. On the whole, the cut for the year, averaged up, amounts to 27 percent of normal wages. This article, in the South Carolina Gamecock, was written before "Beer and Prosperity" got elected, so they have the possibility of a comeback yet. We'll bet that the faculty of South Carolina didn't vote unanimously for Mr. Hoover—just for the principle of the thing.

—:—

It won't be long until we start getting papers that include "my All-American team for 1932". It won't only be mine, but everyone's. We suppose that Charlie Beale will sit down some day and choose some mythica eleven, from Georgia, or from the United States, which in all probability would include pretty much the same men.

—:—

This scribe fees like swapping colleges instead of writing collegiate swaps. Since he's been on this hill he's lost one leather coat, ten pounds, a good complexion, two rain coats, one heavy blue sweater, and seven dollars. The last on that list still grinds a little, since it happened since last pay day. That's what comes of having honest neighbors.

—:—

"A girl" should have been included in the above list also, but that's getting to be a common occurrence amoung we eds. (that's assuming that of the "Co-ed" word, the boys comprise the ed, standing for educational, or educated previously.

—:—

We find on the desk one of the most attractive publications in the history of our looking at publications It's "The Echo" from Hume Fogg High School in Nashville, published monthly by the students. For reading matter it is suitable for the most particular person, and for arrangement and style it's not to be excelled. We can still learn plenty from these mere youngsters in the prparatory school—methinks.

—:—

The Echo office while not a public playground, or something of the sort, is nevertheless open to anyone who wishes to come in and read some of these papers from Old Siwash. We have them on the desk, and they are yours for the asking, but not for the taking.

—:—

WE WANT BEER is the headline for the extra sheet published by the students of Chattanooga University just before the election. They ran a two page supplement that has beer written in it 435 times. The page is headed, "All I ask from life is a loaf of bread, some onions, and a BOTTLE OF BEER"—Olga Petrova.

(Continued on page four)

Twenty-two Grid Players Receive Maryville Emblem

Squad Loses Only Three Men By Graduation

The Athletic Board announced last Tuesday the names of twenty-two players on the football squad who have been selected as eligible to wear the big orange block "M". A definite date for the presentation of awards is not known as yet; it is thought to be, however, sometime in the near future.

The three men who expect to be graduated next June are: H. Gillespie, West, and Burns. The remainder of the squad, consisting of thirty-two men, who have all had game experience, are eligible as candidates for next season's team. What football talent can be instilled into thirty-two experienced men in a year or two, is left for Coaches Honaker and Thrower to decide. Nevertheless, we do venture to say that the pendulum is bound to swing and that perhaps even next year, the sun will come up out of the Smokies to shine upon a winning Maryville football team.

The names of those who are to receive the coveted letter are: H. Gillespie, M. Gillespie, West, Boretsky, Stone, Wilson, Burns, Russell, Holloway, Atchison, Gwynn, Millsaps, Atkins, Blazer, Clark, Collins, Kizer, Kaman, Payne, Tolliver, Gamble, and Manager Meyers.

A paper from Mount Hermon, Massachusetts carries the result of a straw ballot where the count was not exactly like that of the national election. It does, however, have the distinction of being the most unusual poll that we've seen—even in colleges. The result was Hoover 349; Roosevit 40; and Thomas 62. Those are just passing, or past, glances at a few election returns. Just like Pensylvania, it showed that someone wanted to make the same horse go all the way across the stream.

—:—

A paper from Meridan, Mississippi, where McArthur and McArthur went to high-school carries the astounding news that, hung in the high school office is a picture of Theodore Roosevelt. It looks like the directors made a mistake and got a republicoan principal down in old Mississipp'. Or Mithithipp, as Bill Hannah and Red Wood might say.

Kiser And Lewis Form Nucleus Of Basketeer Team Of 1933

Honaker Drives Men Hard In Effort To Coordinate New Men and Old.

With the termination of the pigskin season, and the approaching time for the first basketball game on the hardwood courts, the practice of the sphere boys has settled down to a serious tone. Coach Honaker made his first observation of the new material Monday, last week, and has been directing practice since that time. Since the Coach's visitation to the courts, the boys have been tossing the sphere around every day, trying to get into shape for the first game, the date of which is still pending.

With only two letter men back in the running, the team that makes its first appearance before the Maryville audience will be practically an entirely revamped five. Kizer and Captain Lewis are the old men back. Stone, a last year's substitute is expected to make the going hard for any prospective guard. Cherry and Allen should each make a strong bid for a position.

The schedule for the winter months will stand a great deal of provising before it is completed. Several games with Smoky Mountain Conference teams have been listed. The remaining vacancies on the list will be filled, probably, at the meeting in Maryville, December 5, of the Smoky Mountain Conference officials. One game of unusual significance, and one that is still pending, is against Birmingham Southern. If negotiations for this meeting can be completed, it will furnish Maryville fans with an exhibition of some of the south's best basketeers.

Maryville Plays Host To Smoky Mountain Conference Meet

Seven Colleges Represented In Athletic Meeting On December 5

On next Monday, December 5, the Smoky Mountain Athletic Conference will hold its annual meeting with Maryville playing the role of host. Dr. J. H.. McMurray, chairman of the Maryville Faculty Committee on Athletics and president of the Conference, states that the meeting will be held with its usual absence of ceremony and will consume only one afternoon. Tentative plans are on foot, however, to have the visitors fed by the ever-present Home Ec Department.

Those present will consist of the various Committee chairmen of the seven colleges represented, as well as some of the heads of the institutions. Commissioner Lowe, a Knoxville attorney who serves the conference in capacity of umpire of eligibility, will also be present.

The business on hand will consist mainly of preparation of schedules for the coming season, discussion of the past season, and election of officers for the coming year.

WRESTLING PRACTICE

Coach Bob Thrower anounces that practice for the rapidly, approaching wrestling season will begin Monday afternoon at three o'clock at Bartlett Hall. All candidates for the team are asked to be present at that time.

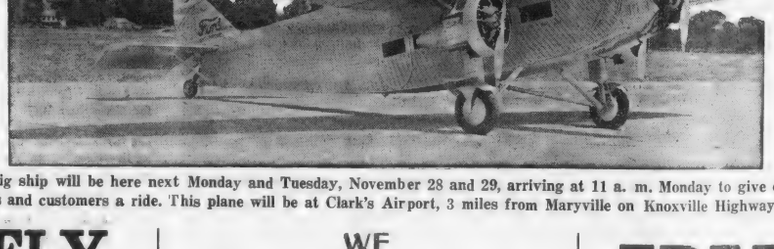
Maryville has bright prospects this year for another team of the calibre which was displayed by last year's aggregation, which won for itself the title of state champs. Of course, several men have been lost to the team, by virtue of their absence. These include Campbell, Cross and Overly. These men were all valuable members of the team, as they were almost sure point-winners. But reserves from last year, and the huskiness of several newcomers give an exceptionally bright aspect to the situation.

Sophomores Win Annual Soccer Tourney By Top-Heavy Score

Total Scores Give Sophs 29 Points; Seniors Closest With 18

The annual intramural soccer tournament came to a close last week when the Freshman team broke into the win column with a 6-4 victory over the junior-seniors. A total of the scores, which determines the winner, shows that the team on top at the end of activities was the husky sophomore bunch who collected, in the four games played, a total of 29 points, an average of over 7 points a game. Second in the point column was the junior-seniors who ended up things with a score of 18. The junior-seniors won two games and lost two games. Bringing up the rear was the big green wave of the freshman class which collected, by way of totality, fourteen points. The freshman never won until the final game when they tripped the upperclassmen in a close, hard-fought victory.

In the Saturday night affair, a week ago, the sophomore booters, greedy for triumph after their loss to their elders, played a fast, alert game to trounce the freshman under a 11-3 score. From the first, it seemed that victory was for the sophemores. In this game, Gillingham and Cooper, looked good for the sophemores, while Captain Doty of the freshman played well.



The most interesting, and most exciting game of this year's tournament was played off on Tuesday by the sophomores and junior-seniors. Out for revenge, the sophomores settled down to a heady game of soccer and left the court with no one undecided as to the better team. The outcome was 6-1 for the sophs.

(Continued On Page Four)

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

WE ARE GIVING PRIZES IN THE ENTERPRISE SHOP MARYVILLE CAMPAIGN.

This Giant Tri-Motored Plane Will Be Brought Here By Nealy Morton & Son, Goodyear Tire Dealers

This big ship will be here next Monday and Tuesday, November 28 and 29, arriving at 11 a. m. Monday to give our friends and customers a ride. This plane will be at Clark's Airport, 3 miles from Maryville on Knoxville Highway.

FLY

BEAUTIFUL BIRDSEYE VIEW OF MARYVILLE AND ALCOA

$2.50

$1.00 With Coupon

WE

afford you this opportunity to fly in this $56,000 tri-motored Ford plane, with Earl Thomas and Red Cary, licensed pilots. Here's your chance to ride in one of America's largest planes with all Pullman car luxuries—lavatory, electric lights, dressing room, running water and heat. Plane weight, 10,000 pounds loaded; wing spread, 76 feet; cruising speed, 125 miles per hour; top speed, 150 miles per hour. One dollar and one of our coupons—and, remember, all you have to do is ask one of our attendants for a coupon, and take this glorious ride for $1.00.

FREE

Call at Nealy Morton & Son, Good-Year Tire Dealers and we will give you absolutely FREE a COUPON good for $1.50 on the purchase of a $2.50 ride ticket.

NEALY MORTON & SON

Why Buy Second Choice Tires When...Goodyears...First Choice COST NO MORE?

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

OBSERVATIONS

Observer's Exodus
Terrier Returns
Dempsey Forgiven
These Freshmen!

Buoy, it surely gives one a feeling of pride when he places in the exchange column the old home town high school just to show them that another "local boy's made good", and to get in return one of the High School's publications, "The Pennant" addressed to Maryville Hi School, Maryville, Tennessee.

—0—

While ye observer wended his way up through the mountings on the way to God's country, where he witnessed, and took part in, one of these funerals where one is allowed to smell his own flowers, more things happened than some of the old maids on the hill could talk about. Dr. Lloyd again placed his foot on the Campus, Dr. Hunter fell ill (it hasn't been ascertained as to whether or not the observer's exodus was immediately responsible), Dr. McMurray took a little jaunt to Nashville, and Maryville won a football game. Quite a team we have, eh? For them we're proud for that. Of course, it rained all day Saturday, and Dr. Lloyd talked for forty minutes on Tuesday, but we who have beome seasoned realize that there's nothing unusual about either of those.

—0—

We neglected to say, among those strange occurrences, that the town clock had again been set in motion . . . . and it was right!

—0—

It looked like old times this week with the one and only Arsch Terry back on the old stamping grounds. Arsch spent her time in Maryville devising some way to create a 5 year plan for colleges so that post college students wouldn't have to go through the ordeals of "homesickness."

—0—

In connection with the term "War Debts", which can be construed to mean almost anything, we recall the story of the gentleman who went to war to escape his wife. . . The slacker.

—0—

The above should help to appease the feeling of many people toward the one and only Jack Dempsey. Jack wasn't married when he pulled off his silent refusal to enter the encounter. He just thought he knew the woman.

—0—

After these Thanksgiving breakfasts, dinners, suppers, lunches, repasts, etc. We've decided to confirm what someone else said. No matter how full the bull session might be, there's always room for one bore.

—0—

We thrust ourselves upon you this week feeling at the height of our own acquiescence, and our compliancy. . . not being a Franklin D. Roosevelt (the college student) in ability, either to write or apologize. There's one thing that this columnist compliments himself on from the very bottom of his very heart (which should be in the general vicinity of his shoe soul). He has never, no never, said a derogatory thing about that great institution. . the family of red heads, here, there, or anywhere. Will you, or won't you, remember that for our sakes, and job?

—0—

You, might know what you'd say to a man like Professor Queener who'd ask upon your return from the old home town, "How's everything up in the woods." In the first place, it might be best to tell the advocate of the W. O. P. just where the woods of this old United States are located, and second to tell him what kind of people have been raised down in these parts. However, just as we are about to come back ith these statements, the professor countered with, "How did the election suit them up there?" Well that was enough. We can't be wasting time talking to these people who insist on reverting to the election. It has turned out to be a worse social error, in the minds of us republicans, than talking about "my operation."

—0—

This writer, last year, made a questioning statement concerning the lowering tendency among the dating class on the hill. Fellows were beginning to date less, and less, and women were taking on a long-lost look that even we couldn't disregard. Finally it did warrant our comment, and our wish was for a change to take place. It did.

This year offers an exactly opposite situation. To be safe, a fellow doesn't ask for a date. If he wanted to be sure he asked last September. He might take a huge chance and ask some queen of hearts for a date or two three weeks in advance of an event, like Andy Newcomer did. And, again, he might get turned down for those two dates. . . . . like Andy Newcomer did. That old Yankee Lewis believes that if you're going with the best girl on Campus (that's what he says) you must believe in the old proverb, a date in time saves nine. . . refusals.

—0—

As long as this freshman class holds up to the standard it has begun with, we can begin to forget worrying about Maryville's graduating too many bachelors.

"Jesus As a Teacher" Is Subject Of Dr. Orr

At the Student Volunteer meeting on Sunday night, November 13, Dr. H. E. Orr, head of the Bible and Religious Education department, gave a very interesting and instructive talk on "Jesus, as a Teacher."

The ministry of Jesus, the teacher, was considered in four aspects by Dr. Orr. Jesus is considered the greatest teacher because he taught people to think; he went to the heart of men's problems, and didn't argue; he spoke always with authority; and the example as revealed by His teaching was embodied in His own life.

The chief emphasis derived from the talk was the speaker's insistence on missionary students living the example that they teach—of embodying in their own life, as nearly as possible, the precepts, and the principles of Jesus Christ.

THE SCENES OF TIME
(Continued from page one)

ous generation. I'm sure that such a thought would never enter the head of one of Maryville's moderns.

Reading a little farther I find this insertion: "If there is any place where a girl shows her rearing, it is at the table. No lady would permit, in her presence, loud laughter at the table, the throwing of bread, or such rudeness as has been suspected in our dining room; and no lady—she may be hungry, but simple physical ills must be disregarded and only the character cultivated—no lady would carry so much as a crumb from the dining room. So any girl seen taking from the room anything to eat, either in her hands or otherwise, will be demerited. Only a few days ago I saw a sight that, if your mothers could witness, would make them blush for shame. As he is leaving the table, one of the boys—I can not call him a young gentleman—actually pulled a girl's hair!"

We can all readily see that the faults they had are almost all remedied by our superior culture. Now in 1932, if a girl wishes to have a repast in the quiet of her room, does she take something out in her hands or otherwise? No, indeed! She makes the longing known to the object of her affections and he discreetly conveys the required sustenance out and then transfers it to the LADY. You see in this way her laydhood is in no way besmirched. As to the hair pulling that is never done, the very worst that is seen now is the flight and landing of a well aimed apple core.

THANKSGIVING FOOTBALL AT MARYVILLE

Charles Gillander

Anybody can play football with Jimmy Lang and his crowd cheering for them, but it takes courage of one's convictions to play unwept, unhonored, and almost unsung. But those are the conditions under which Lou Krainock's Broken-Noses defeated Tilly Goodwin's Black-Eye Brigade on Wilson Field Thanksgiving afternoon. The score of 7-0 was brought about early in the game by a quick punt by Krainock standing on his own 20, to the B-E 10. Goodwin tried to punt back, but his own man blocked, so that the B-N recovered for a touchdown. The most unusual event of the game was the applauding by the players of two moonshining couples who came to make up the audience.

Winn Barr, entertained a large crowd of students in the philosophy class room on November 23, with a stereoptical lecture on "Fulfilled Prophecy."

There was once an old colored woman who named her triplets Surely, Goodness, and Mercy, so they'd follow her all the days of her life.

New Atwater Kent Radio Is Installed In Baldwin Parlor

Through the kindness of Mr. Frank Shattuck of Knoxville, a radio has been placed in Baldwin Parlor. "Uncle Frank", as he is commonly known to his friends, secured the radio from the H. T. Hackney Company of Knoxville, came to Maryville on Wednesday, November 16, and with the help of Miss Hunter and Catherine Davis, his niece, installed the Atwater Kent Radio.

To celebrate the arrival of the longed-for radio, Baldwin Parlor on Thursday afternoon was the scene of a "Radio Tea" given to Baldwin girls by Miss Hunter and Mrs. Proffitt..

Annual Barnwarming Closes Thanksgiving Day Festivities

Thanksgiving Day on the campus came to an end with the annual barn-warming in the gym, adorned for the occasion with shocks of corn. The four so-called literary societies presented a program of stunts, ranging from breath-taking pre-Prohibition mellerdrama to Shakespearean drama, and from Daniel Boone and the night watchman to shadow pictures. The Queen of the Festival, Frances Mingea, was introduced by Jimmy Smith, master of ceremonies, and presided over the celebration on a stack of hay bales, surrounded by her three attendants Jean Campbell, Nez Hamrick, and Opal Johnson. Hunkos and the traditional doughnuts were doled out to famished moonshiners and spectators to make the evening complete.

SOCCER
(Continued from page three)

The forwards for the sophomores were aggressive in working the ball toward the goal, and their heady playing helped to turn the tables from the results of the previous week.

The next encounter, and the last one for the sophomores, was held on Thursday. This battle was another victory for the sophomores by a 11-3 score. This left the freshmen still roaming the cellar parts in their attempt to place in the running. The freshmen's weakness appeared to lie in their inability to work the ball down, once it was in their possession. The score at the half was 5-3. In the last half the sophomores worked very much like a well geared machine, using all breaks to some advantage.

In the final encounter, the freshmen upset the tables, predictions, and several junior-seniors, in their successful effort to shake off their losing jinx. The outcome of this fray was very much in doubt until the final whistle when the underclassmen were found to have emerged with a 6-4 victory. The score at the half was 4-3 for the frosh. Cooley looked best for the seniors, while Carringer and Kiser starred for the yearlings.

"M" CLUB HAS HIKE

The Girls "M" Club held its regular monthly meeting, Saturday, November 12, in the form of an all day hike. The girls' appetites, which were made keen by the brisk walk were appeased at Pearsons' spring where they cooked their mid-day meal. A short business meeting was held, at which Grace Hast was elected treasurer.

FRENCH CLUB

La Cercle Francais met on Wednesday, November 16. An interesting talk on the life of Racine, a French writer, was given by Mary Sloan Welsh. The Marseillaise and other French songs followed with initiation stunts by the new members concluding the program.

Dr. McMurray Attends Two Conferences In Nashville, Tennessee

Dr. McMurray did not miss the first two days' classes this week in vain, for in that time he was attending two conferences in Nashville. On Monday, representatives of the Tennessee College Association convened. From Sunday through Tuesday, Doctor McMurray was present at the Conference on Child Health and Protection.

The conference concerning child welfare was particularly of interest to Dr. McMurray. Tennessee at present is endeavoring to handle its child problems through the counties, therefore a representative from each county made a report at the conference. The movement to give more attention to the betterment of conditions for children is nation wide, and is growing steadily in scope. The beginning, both in organization and plan, was brought about by the "White House Conference" of 3,500 educators and social workers called by President Hoover in April, 1931. This convention at the capitol drew up what is termed "The Children's Charter", containing nineteen aims for the benefit of America's children, both present and future. The document is somewhat of an idealistic bill of rights, but no more than an extension of our theory of democracy to cover the youngsters of all races and situations in life.

50 YEARS FROM NOW

(Hank Otto)

Will the Democrats a vote compile
To make Professor Queener smile
50 years from now.
Will the student body shake with laughter
At a campaign speech the morning after
50 years from now.

Will the Y. Stores be selling beer
Or will Miss Mollie still be here
50 years from now.
Will we all be broke or badly bent
Will Freshmen come from the upper ten percent
50 years from now.

Will they have a boat race every week
Down on dear old Pistol Creek
50 years from now.
Will the college students all go crazy
In German class, well perhaps maybe
50 years from now.

Will students work 12 years for a P. H. D.
And then go to work in the A. & P.
50 years from now.
For answers all that we can say
We will know them some fine day
50 years from now.

MINISTERIAL ASSN.

At the November 16 meeting of the Ministerial Association, Dr. M. M. Rodgers lectured on "The Value of the Study of the Hebrew language and the Customs of the Bible Land to the Minister". The speaker pointed out that in addition to the advantages of Hebrew in exegetical work, one may have a commentary interpretation of the scriptures, and learn, in connection, many new word uses. Hebrew is a foundation for Greek and English and should be studied to understand the Bible and to understand the orientalism as evidenced in figures of speech, prophecy, tribal ethics, poetry, and proverbs. Although some seminaries do not require the study of Greek and Hebrew, Dr. Rodgers urged all preachers, who might be linguistically inclined, to take both of these valuable languages.

OHIO CLUB

The Ohio Club at its business meeting on Wednesday, November 16, agreed on Decembr 3rd as the date for its party. A committee is considering plans for an outdoors program.

COME ON JUNIORS

Let's get some spirit and get the Annual going
It will also help solve your Christmas Problem

THE WEBB STUDIO

Latest Diversion

Lately, several of Carnegie's one-time Boy Scouts have been helping themselves to an abundance of interesting information. It seems that some students of Memorial and Carnegie Halls have been educating (or should I say "amusing") themselves by the Morse Code Method.

Before we go any farther let us give a detailed description of the procedure so that the reader may have a faint conception of it. The Carnegian mounts to the window (What a mount). A flashlight is in his hand. The window opens and the wind blows. He flickers the light; for five minutes it flickereth and flackereth backereth and forth. Immediately fifteen other Carnegians, to the ignorance of the sender, begin to take down the message. There it is: dot - dash - dash - etc. We shall not go any farther into detail, for we might be telling on someone; but suffice it to say that the lights still flicker and flacker.

Now the sad part about the whole affair is that the Scouties have been fooled temporarily, simply because the would-be telegraphers have changed their code to the extent that it is now beyond reach of their deciphering ability. But, where there's a will there's a way, and we suppose that if the boys put to use the scenting, tracking, and decoding lessons which they studied in their scout manual, they will surely have the present code down to perfection; at least we are told that he greatly enjoyed the "performance" the other night and that he was looking forward to another one soon.

Now, to get down to the actual discussion of this recent phase of ultra modern college civilization, we would like to ask whether or not the necessary preparations have been made for an undisturbed season of signaling. Here's why we ask. Suppose that the rage reaches the many other front rooms in Carnegie. Immediately there would be a profusion of messages, each requiring a separate code. In that case, the occupants of Carnegie would be compelled to get together for the purpose of forming a league of signalers, as it were. Of necessity, definite wave lengths, or flashlight lengths in this case, would surely have to be determined. This would involve the corp of math teachers of which the Hill boasts, the unflinching matrons of the halls, the faculty, and eventually the entire student body in a controversy so limitless that the sturdy old Chilhowees would resound with the chatter.

But just a word before the rage becomes catching. We're really worried concerning whether or not a satisfactory set of signals has been arranged. We feel sorry for the last one to adopt this new method of nocturnal conversation because he will have to devote practically all of his time to the manufacture of a code which doesn't contain part of someone else's.

At the present time the ether between Carnegie and Memorial is comparatively undisturbed. But watch out! Miss Molly would give her right arm to catch the culprits, and Miss Molly's right arm is becoming more and more valuable these days. Maybe she has to spank a Pearsonite now and then.

HOGLAN HUMILIATED

On Tuesday evening, at Bartlett Hall's handball court, Kid Dody Hoglan of Birmingham, Alabama fought four rounds, three of them with a useless right hand, because Young Lokerby has come ot of the west—of Boston. Carnegie Hall had approximately three score representatives on hand to learn what they could concerning the good old manly art. At times the crowd roared, as fight crowds are wont to do. But nothing spectacular happened. However, there appeared to be so much enthusiasm about this battle, although it was not announced in chapel, that boxing might be worth consideration as a minor sport. The popularity and success of wrestling last year brought dear old Maryville an unofficial state championship in one of the smaller fields of athletic competition. We like these championships, even if they are unofficial. Why not consider the developing of a boxing team? Methinks we have considerable local talent, such as The Pride of Birmingham, The Boston Terror—oh, yes, there's a fellow named Johnny Kiser in this college too.

GEORGIA CLUB

At the meeting of the Georgia Club last Thursday a musical program was presented.

Maid Shop Receives Profitable Orders

The College Maid Shop has received during the past few weeks, several orders of interest. The St. Louis Symphonic Choir has ordered twenty-five choir vestments in scarlet and cream, with stoles for the women's and hoods for the men's vestments. These have been made during the week and sent for use on Monday.

The Nunn-Bush Shoe Co., is planning to outfit the employees of their mills with College Maid uniforms. They have received one small order and expect to outfit all employees upon approval of the style.

In addition, the Shop is supplying the Kahler Corporation with nurses' caps. The Kahler Corporation is the Kahler Nursing School located at Rochester, Minnesota.

The only person who feels overdressed in a bathing suit is a chorus girl.

Howard Kester
(Continued from page one)

were some of the gloomiest slums in all of Europe.

Now, says Mr. Kester, there are three persons to every room in Vienna. The Socialist city government has taken over all the major public utilities and is running them for the benefit of the people who use them. Slums have given way to apartment houses which have about them gardens and play grgounds and are equipped with all conveniences. Medicine, he says, has been socialized to the extent that the poorest man in Vienna can have the best medical attention possible in Europe.

"Poverty does something to a man's soul," the speaker concluded, "but do not forget that riches also do something to a man's soul."

Maryville-Applachian Game
(Continued from page three)

other shot at a score. Having stopped the Highlanders avalanche on their twenty yard stripe, the visitors prepared to kick, but Tolliver, a promising freshman linesman, tore through and smothered the punt and Gwynn, at end, fell on the leather over the line. The placemnt was low and the scoreboard now showed 12-0.

For the remainder of the game the boys slithered back and forth in the goo at about the vicinity of midfield. In the closing minutes however, Maryville felt the Appalachian battering ram pounding on their one yard line and West kicked out of the hole in the nick of time. The final whistle screeched several seconds later.

Captain Gillespie, did even better than usual, and that is saying much. He covered himself with mud and glory, if these two can be put hand in hand, and his team played inspired football under his able leadership. West, showed select headwork and field generalship at quarterback.

The score by periods:

Appalachian Teachers	0 0 0 0—	0
Maryville	0 0 6 6—	12

The line-up:

Appalachian		Maryville
Kanamaschr	l.e.	Atkins
Mahoney	l.t.	Gamble
McKinney	l.g.	Tolliver
Johnson	c.	Russell
Wortman	r.g.	Atchison
Smith	r.t.	Wilson.
Goins	r.e.	Stone
Harris	q.	West
Walker	l.h.	Kiser
O'Neil	r.h.	Boretsky
Triplett	f.b.	Gillespie

Substitutes: Appalachian— Cappiello, Lewis, Long; Maryville—Collins, Millsaps, Kalman, Clark, Blazer, Holloway, Burns, Gwynn, Loesberg, Payne, H. Gillespie, Creed.

Officials—Wilson, Miami, Campbell, U. T.; Poage, Maryville.

Standing of Maryville College Is Improved

(Continued From Page One)

University of Missouri, University of Nebraska, University of North Carolina, University of Pennsylvania, University of Texas, University of Toronto, University of Virginia, University of Wisconsin, Yale University, Washington University.

In addition to this latest recognition, Maryville College is a member of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States, of the Association of American Colleges, of the Tennessee College Association, and is on the approvd lists of the American Council on Education, and of the American Association of Medical Colleges.

Her most recent recognition is by the French Educational Commission, which allows transference to any French college or university.

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, DECEMBER 3, 1932 NUMBER ELEVEN

College Authorities Publish Facts Concerning Application For Student-Help Assistance

Noticeable Increase in Applicants Is Noted Over Last Few Years

Miss Clemmie Henry, Student-Help Secretary of the college, states that there has been, during the last few years, a noticeable increase in the number of applications from students for loans to apply on college bills. This rapid increase has made it necessary for the Committee on Student-Help to publish a number of facts, and suggestions in regard to these loans. The students' knowledge of these facts and suggestions will make it possible for the college to handle these loans in a more business-like way, and will allow the present group of students, and future students to derive the greatest good from the Student-Help Department.

The committee offers the following suggestions:

1.—A student desiring a loan should make application for it at least two weeks before it is needed. This application should be accompanied by a carefully prepared statement of his income and expenses, together with a statement of when and how he proposes to repay the loan.

2. No student should depend upon a loan until it has been promised to him by the Committee on Student Help.

3. A student should repay his loan as early as possible, even though it may not be due. This courtesy not only strengthens the student's credit rating, but also enables some other student to have the benefit of the loan.

The College is governed in making loans to students:

1. By the amount of money available for this purpose.

2. By the promptness with which loans are repaid.

3. By the credit rating which the individual student establishes.

The credit rating of a student is established in the following ways:

1. By his character and scholastic standing.

2. By his score on the Scholastic Aptitude Test.

3. By the attitude which he takes toward his obligations, and the careful thought which he gives to them.

4. By his need, his financial resources, and his potential earning power.

5. By the promptness with which he meets his obligations.

If a student finds it will be impossible to meet his obligation on the day it is due, he should go to the Secretary of Student-Help as tarly as possible before his note is due, present the facts, and ask for an extension of time.

Grades cannot be released, transcript of credits cannot be given and further financial credit cannot be extended so long as a student has a past-due note, or an out-

(Continued On Page Four)

Bainonian's "The Little Journey" Will Be Given Monday

Drama Depicting Social Life Is One of Rachel Crothers' Best Plays

"When, in some future day, some scholar begins his search on the social history of our times, he may well turn to the drama of Rachel Crothers to build at least one angle of his many-sided structure."

So reads the December Theatre Arts Monthly of the author of Bainonian's midwinter, "A Little Journey", to be presented in Voorhees Chapel next Monday evening at eight o'clock. This prolific dramatist, whose latest addition to her long list of popular successes is "When Ladies Meet", is called in the article quoted from the current number of the theatre magazine the "peacemaker for American comedy".

For more than a quarter century of history in the Broadway theater Miss Crothers has been writing successful plays and popular hits, and "her work covers the progress of that period, in a social sense at least, more thoroughly and more representatively than that of any other dramatist. The plays from the pen of Miss Crothers, set beside those of her changing contemporaries, make a vigorous record of the passing days and the ideas that passed with them."

When Miss Crothers began writing, shortly after 1900, Broadway was looking to Europe for its comedy of manners, for the progressive point of view on social conduct it chose to call "sophisticated". Miss Crothers has had no little influence in effecting the change which now causes American audiences to be as favorably inclined toward a social comedy or social drama by a native writer as toward an adaptation from the Hungarian or French.

Some of Miss Crother's most popular and widely known plays include "Old Lady 31", "Nice People", "Venus", "Let Us Be Gay", and "As Husbands Go."

"A Little Journey", from the pen of Miss Crothers in 1918, the same year as her "Once Upon a Time", is characteristic of the dramas of this playright of the new school. The play, with its setting on a pullman coach, and its cast of characters composed of such human beings as travel on pullman coaches, begins with the commonplace action of old Mrs. Bay, searching about among the seats for her shawl which she, being a typical old grandmother, has lost.

Presently the audience is introduced to an opposite character in the person of the rich Mrs. Welch, whose stock remark develops to be "Good Lord!" When Mr. Smith, an-

(Continued On Page Four)

Club Espanol Is Anxious To Have Larger Membership

Purpose of Club Is To Provide Incentive For Actual Use of Spanish

The club Espanol held a meeting Tuesday evening at 6:30 in Bainonian Hall. After an interesting program, a social pereiod followed, carried on entirely in the Spanish language.

The purpose of the club is to provide the incentive and opportunity for the actual use of Spanish. Familiarity with the vocabulary is promoted by different types of programs, comprising of readings, both of prose and poetry, Spanish folk songs, and every day conversations.

It is surprising how quickly volubility in the language may be acquired by attendance of the club meetings. The combination of Spanish and social entertainment may supply that added attraction for the subject which is necessary to quicken the interest in class work and to produce a higher grade.

There is no scholastic requirement for enrollment in the club. Every meeting is planned with the benefit of the members as its purpose, and not to display the ability of those taking part.

The club is still offering opportunity for enrollment and extends an invitation to any one who is interested in Spanish.

Professor Queener Elected Head Of East Tennessee Association

Popular Maryville Professor Has Been Active Member For Several Years

The honor of the presidency of the East Tennessee Historical Association for the coming year, was bestowed upon Prof. V. M. Queener Friday night at the regular meeting held at Knoxville.

Prof. Queener has been an active member of the organization for several years. He served on the executive committee two years ago and was elected vice-president last year.

Other officers elected include Dr. Folmsby of University of Tennessee as first vice-presiednt, Judge Samuel C. Williams of Johnson City as vice-president for upper East Tennessee, and Senator Sanford as vice president for lower East Tennessee.

The Association is composed of teachers and inviduals in the eastern part of the state who are interested in the history of Tennessee. The group meets once a month at Knoxville and papers are read by members on the development of Tennessee history or some phase of it. Some of these papers are published annually in The East Tennessee Historical Society Publications.

Confiscation Regime Occupies Interest Of The More Unfortunate

Losses In Carnegie Hall Mount To Unbelievable Proportions

One of the most serious problems to confront local authorities is the wave of continueed illegal confiscation of everything from fountain pens to valuable pictures that has made itself prominent on the campus during the last two years, and more particularly the last few weeks of this school year.

Last year, one of the most serious losses was recorded by Professor Davis, who lost, among other things, three valuable pictures from his class room. These pictures, mostly of classical subjects, were used in his classroom work. The pictures were found several months later in a storeroom in Anderson.

Professor Queener returned to his classroom last week to find his room

(Continued on page four)

Y Organizations To Secure Wheel Chair For Crippled Girl

Organizations Expect To Raise Required Amount From Student Body

For the past two days the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. have been very busy accomplishing a Thanksgiving project. This project, undertaken by the two Y. cabinets, has as its aim the securing of a wheel chair for a crippled girl who needs one greatly.

The girl is a member of the Sunday School of the Sunnybrook Church, in which many Maryville students are particularly interested. Some years ago her wheel chair loosed its brakes and ran down hill, ending in a smash-up. The girl was injured, and the chair practically demolished. Since that time she has been much handicaped by the lack of a comfortable conveyance. Several organizations in the city have considered reeplacing it, but so far no successful efforts have been made.

A slightly used wheel chair, which can be bought at a reduction has been found, and will be purchased Saturday. The Ys are hoping to raise the full amount by then. If they do not, the necessary money will be supplied from the treasuries of the two organizations.

Seniors Have First Open Party Monday In Bartlett Hall

Several Unpremeditated Features Add Color to Big Event Of Season

One of the most important social events of the year was the open party given by the Senior Class in Bartlett Hall Monday evening, November 28. The Seniors and their guests enjoyed the well planned program and the proms although these were somewhat confused.

The party started off with a bang —a bang of the orchestra and almost spectacular grand march around the gym of Bartlett. This grand march with its many tangles and multi-colored streamers gave the social affair brilliance and color.

The handsome, tuxely dressed doorman, the Alpha Sig orchestra, the masquerade minus the masks, the delightful program, and the proms 5 and 6, 1 and 2, 7 and 8, all were important factors in making this a big event of the season.

Even in Maryville the students have to go to bed sometime, so refreshments were served and the crowd hurried homeward in the shivering night air.

Missionary Leader To Be Guest Speaker At Y Joint Meeting

Mrs. Ethel Tylee Will Relate Experience With South American Indians

Mrs. Ethel Tylee, a pioneer missionary to Brazil under the South American Inland Mission, will speak at the joint meeting of the Y.M.C.A. and the Y.W.C.A. to be held at 1:00 Sunday afternoon in Bartlett Hall.

Mrs. Tylee will speak about her experiences and work among the South American Indians at the regular Student Volunteer meeting on Sunday evening.

Mrs. Tylee has just returned from the western states where she spoke in many cities about her work. She comes to Maryville from Memphis, Tennessee, her former home, where she has been visiting her mother, and expects to travel through the

(Continued On Page Four)

Meeting Of Smoky Mountain Athletic Conference To Be Held In Maryville Monday

Colleges May Seek Admission In Important Meeting of Conference

A full attendance of the seven colleges in the Smoky Mountain Athletic Conference is expected for the annual meeting here next Monday, December 5. By courtesy of the YWCA, the meetings will be held in the new Y. rooms, starting at ten o'clock and continuing until all the business is transacted. This is expected to last until some time in the afternoon.

Other than member colleges may have representatives at the meeting and it is anticipated that one or more may apply for admission to the Conference. Many other important items are on the docket but these may not be divulged in advance of the meeting.

According to the Conference constitution, the Annual Meeting "shall be held the first Monday following Thanksgiving." This year, owing to the meeting of the Association of Southern Colleges last week, the conference meeting has been postponed one week to enable the presidents of the various colleges to attend. On Mrs. Ralph Waldo Lloyd's invitation the wives of the other presidents are expected to come. The Home Economics Department will entertain the delegates.

The number of representatives which each college may send is not restricted, but voting powers are limited to one representative from each college. The discussions are informal.

The Smoky Mountain Athletic Conference is composed of the following: Carson-Newman College, East Tennessee Teachers College, King College, Lincoln Memorial University, Maryville College, Milligan College, and Tusculum College. "The purpose of the conference shall be to study various important phases of college athletics, to formulate rules governing athletics, to promote the adoption of recommended measures, in order that athletic activities in the colleges of the organization may be kept on an ethical plane in keeping with the high purposes of education." The conference also awards championships in football, basket-ball, and baseball. This is done on a percentage basis.

Dr. J. H. McMurray, chairman of the Maryville Faculty Committee on Athletics, is, at present, president of the conference.

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Decides On Charge For Use Of Rooms

Plans Discussed In Meeting For Forming A Freshman Cabinet

Action on several problems of immediate interest was taken by the Y.W.C.A. cabinet at an important meeting last Sunday afternoon.

The first problem introduced was the use of the new suite of rooms. The motion was passed by the cabinet that a charge of five dollars be made on any use of the rooms by any organization. The only exceptions to this new rule are the occupancy of the rooms by the Chilhowee Club, a literary society of Maryville, which has met in the Y. W.C.A. reading rooms for a number of years; and such conferences and committees as the Interracial Commission, and the Smoky Mountain Conference, which shall visit the campus and have need of conference rooms. This rule excludes state clubs, literary societies, and any other similar organizations from using the rooms. This action was judged wise for the sake of setting a precedent, and for the ultimate protection of the new quarters.

A similar rule was drawn up regarding the use of the new folding chairs belonging to the Y. W. C. A. These chairs may now be rented at the rate of five cents each or four dollars a hundred, the responsibility of transporting them resting with the party which rents them.

Plans were discussed for the creation of a freshman cabinet. This plan has been used with success in many college Y.W.C.A.s. It consists of forming a freshman cabinet which would meet occasionally with the elder cabinet for the purpose of gradually interesting the new students in the work which they will carry on in a few years. The cabinet last Sunday chose to have some six or eight girls, selected by them, from a list suggested by the Nu Gamma leaders, form this undercabinet, and be present at meetings once a month. Ellen Macrae, head of Nu Gamma, was requested to call the Nu Gamma leaders together immediately so they might select from their groups representative girls in the freshman class. This list will be submitted to the cabinet, which will select the number they choose.

This freshman cabinet, when created, will be expected to be the connecting link between the Y. W. C. A. as it exists now, and girls in the freshman class who wish to become actively engaged in Y. W. C. A. work on the campus. Part of the work of each department will devolve upon this new cabinet, and thus the plan of the administration,

(Continued on page four)

CEMETERY FENCE

Recently a fence has been built around the campus cemetery. This has been done to insure better protection of the graves. Heretofore, there has been a temporary wire fence which is now replaced by a permanent galvanized iron fence and gate which are much more ornamental than the old, and will be more efficient in keeping inquiring bovines at a respectable distance.

COUNTING BACKWARDS

They're all doing it. From the first floor of Memorial to the fourth floor of Pearsons young ladies are counting, and strange to say, they are counting backwards. One is reminded of the proverbial sure-cure for hiccoughs as the chanted "twenty five, twenty-four, twenty-three" is heard from day to day. And if one lingers near long enough, he will hear something like this: "Four, three, two, one, Christmas!" Then squeals of delight burst from those who have already waited three months but "just can't wait" three weeks more to see their Little White Rosebuds.

Practically every calender is marked. Roommate would probably have ours marked if it were not one of those annoying, glassed-in perpetual kind. Besides marking calendars, there is another method, rather juvenile, of keeping tab on the prolonged days. On entering a much visited room, one sees a string of paper dolls stretched from mirror to bed post. This sight in a college woman's room is unbelievable until its purpose is made clear. Each night a doll is snipped off the string. One doll gone—one day gone! Incidentally, the facial expressions of the cut-outs improve towards the Christmas end of the line.

Never before have we been made to feel Christmas-conscious quite so early in the season. Not until Salvation lasses on street corners beat their tambourines and holly wreath venders hawk their greenery do we ever start wondering where last year's tree decorations were put, or think to get The Present off to Australia, or practice up on our best Santa Claus smile. But when roommates and "big sisters", freshmen and seniors, pack their trunks three weeks before time to leave for home, the happy day seems not so far off.

LIBERTY BELL—SOON

There is something uncanny about the bell in Anderson Tower. Whoever heard of a commonplace school bell having moods, or thoughts, or personality, even. Yet, if one stops to ponder a few moments, the mellow voiced creature, who, unseen, directs the activities of Maryville students, possesses all three.

In the morning it is a merciless taskmaster, rousing hundreds of happy slumberers from pleasant dreams to the reality of a new day. It rings loud and long, with the vengeance of a sleepless spirit, who, being unable to find rest itself, can not bear to tolerate that of others.

At noon, however, its voice is joyful and carefree. It seems to catch a breath of the atmosphere which pervades the campus when morning class are done and hungry Maryvillians are hurrying to Pearsons.

Sometimes its tones convey to the listener a suggestion of amusement. It smiles belignantly as it announces the hour for "moonshining", for it has heard the whispered nothings of lovers year after year. Then, when it signals that the time is up, even the most ardent "moonshiner" can detect in the sound a note of gladness that such foolishness is over.

What will it say when it proclaims the beginning of Christmas holidays? Will it be lonely and sorrowful because it cannot speak again for a while to its friends, or will it rejoice with them that they are to spend two joyous weeks at home?

Dr. Lloyd is in New Orleans this week attending an annual meeting of the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern states. He is representing Maryville College, which is a member of this organization. He and Mrs. Lloyd left by motor last Monday noon and expect to return home late tonight.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

GERALDINE SMITH - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
KAY CARPENTER - - - - Associate Literary Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, December 3, 1932

EASY EDUCATION

Some ill-informed person, sometime, must have been instrumental in impressing the people at large with the falsehood that college students are well informed. At least that seems to be a common opinion, the result of which contributes largely toward the dismay and often chagrin of the would-be genius who inhabit colleges and universities. Few students are there who have not sometime met with near social disaster because of sheer lack of knowledge on common topics, or events. While we browse around in our books, the world seems to run along smoothly, so smoothly that it has no tendency whatever to disturb us. The fifth year of college usually furnishes, we're told, the actual information with the accompanying surprise, in regard to this condition.

For sixteen long arduous years we "labor" under false difficulties until at the end of that time we are placed simply face to face with knowledge and problems of the day, and we find that we have been automatically rendered incompetent. We are simply graduated students of college. . . . rather a peculiar form of folk. In the course of our education, we go to grade school to prepare for prep school; we go to prep school to prepare for college; and it is in college that we meet our ultimatum. At last, we have succeeded.

We have been told enough times that college students are often rendered unfit for everyday problems, but we pay little attention to only common people. We don't realize that in our own vapid existence in school, we learn merely to do well the work that is assigned. . . . and little else. We are, instead of leaders, followers. We can submit, but we can't direct. We have stifled our own initiative.

Colleges profess to be before graduation what they are after graduation—a training school; a foundation builder. Colleges can inspire thought, but they can't think. They can't read the newspapers to keep us in touch with world affairs. Neither can they read contemporary writers to instruct us about the thought of the times. They can render us competent to do this. . . . if we will but extend a few iotas of ambition toward the attainment of this end.

The importance of this lies in one fact: If we are learning to think, we must think without our generation, attempting occasionally to keep a little ahead, at least to branch out. The first step toward getting ahead is catching up; and the first step in gaining this foothold is knowing the ground that must be traveled over.

This is all just one more attempt to explain that a college education is not discovered between the covers of so many books. It is found between so many book covers, as a matter of fact, that even the best student is not satisfied with his attainments. A student is just like any other product of nature. He can't grow very long until he begins to branch out; and in like manner, he can't branch out very long until he begins to show evidence of growth.

WE HOLD THE SACK

The issue that appears most significant to newspaper readers today is the recently magnified matter of War Debts. One of the most perplexing and enigmatic situations imaginable has flamed up from the smouldering issue that we had generally thought of as settled long ago.

After granting huge concessions to our debtor allies, both in principal and interest, amounting to nearly one-half the original amount of money, these nations now ask that the debts be given complete cancellation. Not only the debtor nations advocate this move, but many Americans are much in favor of such action, after hearing all of the facts. They base their argument largely on the security of World Peace and the stability and possible increase of international trade.

We have peace at stake first. President Hoover and President elect Roosevelt are making every effort to avert the ill-will that is seen gathering on the horizon about us. The press of France is publishing incriminating statements concerning the United States. Leaders of other nations have become greatly concerned and many of them advocate complete cancellation as the wiser procedure, in view of the peace issue alone.

On the side of trade, we have producers in America advocating cancellation. Since the allied countries must pay for our products in gold (being unable, because of tariff walls to reciprocate with trade) it means that our trade with these countries is diminished dollar for dollar by demanding payment. A cancellation of the debt would mean an increase of our own income tax of 5%, but many people think that the increase in prices, caused by the fluctuation of trade, would more than make up the deficiency in the treasury due to the income tax increase.

The press of other countries carries the news that the United States was paid back by winning the war. Victory was our reward! Our time of prosperity during the first part of the war (says the press) was due compensation for the amount of money that we were obliged to loan.

From our viewpoint, we see America stepping into the world conflict at a strategical moment and carrying the winning punch that spelled defeat for the Central Powers. For compensation, the United States received neither land concessions nor reparations from the spoils. We ask for money that was loaned on a purely business basis. Admitting the significance of the War Debts, they are not important enough to demand the sacrifice of peace. In this problem, principle is involved; future good will with other countries is involved.

America will probably never receive the money that is owed her. There are two ways, at least, for this plan to work. It is a choice between acting and waiting; a choice of immediate cancellation, or ultimate repudiation.

Regarding any action as a matter of international policy—an exemplar for further relations, and respecting the standing of the United States in her future dealings with the other nations, it seems advisable to let the debtor, in this case, take the initiative.

LITTLE CHURCH

THE IMPORTANCE OF WORLD-MINDEDNESS TO CHRISTIAN MISSIONARY STUDENTS

We have just been told briefly of the present trends in some of the strategic fields of the world—India, China, Russia, Latin America, the United States; and well may we ask: "What have Christian missionary students to do with world affairs?"

Before answering this question, however, we need to define world-mindedness both negatively and positively. The current notion is too narrow that conceives of world mindedness as that particular attitude which demands an exclusively socialized religion advocating the scrapping of Capitalism, the crushing of racial and religious barriers, and the setting up of an international social order. More basically, world-mindedness is that general attitude of broad attention to the affairs of the world which enables us to have a working knowledge capable of more thorough guidance in all the departments of our lives.

But why should Christian missionary students be world-minded?

In the first place, Christian missionary students should be world-minded because they thus will be enabled to understand the people to whom they may be sent. We can understand the fearlessness and recklessness of the Oriental if we know something about the fatalism embodied in his Mohammedan religion. We can learn the way to the Japanese heart if we are familiar with the Japanese peculiar social niceties of neighborhood interest. We can meet the cultural narrowness of Latin America if we know something about her stagnant educational systems. Our approach to the East African is facilitated if his economic exploitation by our European brethren is our common knowledge. China is ours for the understanding of her slowly rising nationalistic sentiment. And in understanding one people, it is necessary for us to understand all peoples, else we can not be sure of the true import of our information.

Familiarity with world affairs also will naturally lead Christian missionary students to apply Christian standards to the deeds of men. The resultant formulation of ideas concerning that which is socially ethical will aid much in the approach to the world of the missionary with his gospel of "the grace of God that bringeth salvation to all men." Aside from this social adaptability, the individual student's life is likely to undergo certain changes for the better in fields where the continuance of unchristian practice was little dreamed of.

A still more important reason for world-mindedness is that it will increase Christian missionary students' vision of work to be done. This vision will be increased in extent. That is, a certain student may not have heard much of Siam, for example, until becoming world-minded; but his new knowledge may be the means of showing to him his own peculiar adaptability to that country. Again, this vision will be increased in clearness. A young man may have a vague desire to go to Venezuela. World-mindedness will serve to give him concrete reasons for going there, as a result of his learning the specific needs of the land and its people. Also, this vision will be increased in power. The news of a forest in the heart of Africa, every tree of which rises from the split skull of a member of an ignorant, superstitutious, hopelessly lost tribe, can not but kindle to a white heat the heart's consuming passion for the souls of men.

How much in earnest are we concerning our intended Christian vocations? The degree of our earnestness—of our sincerity and common honesty, if you please—can be measured very largely by the thoroughness of preparation which we purpose to secure. And no Christian can consider his preparation adequate for the fruitful preaching of God's spiritual gospel of the salvation of individuals, who has not developed an active world-mindedness of his own.

World-mindedness is the right, duty, and privilege of every Christian missionary student.

The Echo Forum

Editor The Highland Echo:

Numerous complaints have arisen from many students (including the writer), professors, and outside patrons of your paper concerning its delivery upon publication. We students are supposed to receive it on Saturday; often it was mere luck that some of us managed to get copies at that time, however. But the worst deficiency concerns the mailing of your paper to outsiders. Some of us have paid the stipulated $1.25 to have the paper sent to some one else. The paper has reached him, perhaps; but, oh my, what promptness! We pay the price to have our friends learn what happens when it happens, not three weeks later when the news has become stale. We deeply resent it when you take our subscription money to pay for the deficiencies in your advertising columns (whose emptiness makes us wonder how you stay alive at all) and thereby fail to send the paper to the subscribers on time. We do not know whether you or your subordinates are ultimately responsible for this unethical business, but we wish that you at least would use your influence to effect a reform.

—A Student, voicing the opinions both of himself and of those for whom he was asked to speak.

December 3, 1932

Alumni News

William C. Booth

The Presbyterian Mission in Chefoo, Shantung, China, boasts at least one representative in Western institutions of learning in the person of Phyllis Booth, student in the freshman class of this college.

Miss Booth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William C. Booth, are teachers in the Yih Wen Commercial College, where Mr. Booth's services keep him in charge of the Alumni Promotion office and in active work on the staff of the college paper.

Actual Christians among the students are few. In the student body of five hundred less than one-fifth are church members.

All religious classes in the curriculum are offered as electives, but during the term 1931-1932 one hundred and forty students signed for the Bible courses.

Additional Christian work is carried on by the Y.M.C.A. prayer meetings, conducted by the students, are held three times each week, with an average attendance of ten or fifteen.

The greatest measure of progress in the religious work has been the decrease in the number of open anti-Christian demonstrations. The school's report for 1932 carries the names of nineteen students who became church members in spite of the anti-Christian atmosphere.

YE STUDENTS JOURNALE

Up betimes severale mowments byfore the clangying of ye collygchymes. Didst close ye wyndowes wythe must gusto and followin thye rymoval of ye nlghtcappe, didst loer myselfe jauntily from ye upperberthe. Dyfficultie encountered in rousying friend wyfe from outa hys cozie rooste aynd then didst scurrie offe to ye olde batheroom for to dampen myne countenance. Whyle in thye moisture of ye basyn, didst heare ye breakefaste belle ryngin, faire loudlie. Didst cantere back to ye celle wyping thye physiognomie thye whyle aynd was greatlye chagryned to beholde mye sweete dove yet in hys cozie rooste. Didst slyppe hurrydlie into hosen, shosen, britces, and jerkin aynd join ye merrye throngе at Pearsones Tavern.

Business men must think in the days of today and tomorrow—not in the days of yesterday.

Book Browsing

Harper Brothers, 1931, Edna St. Vincent Millay, "Fatal Interview", 52 pages.

"Fatal Interview", a book of sonnets, most of which deal with a love theme, is very interesting material. There are fifty-two sonnets in the collection, chronicles of the most startling emotions. One might even call the book an anatomy of love.

On reading these poems one can easily account for the great popularity of the author. Although they have been criticized by some as being poetically inferior and pseudo-classic, they have an artistry and lustre that make them well worth reading.

Edna St. Vincent Millay has admitted searching in her mind days, even months, for the exact word she wants. Certainly her genius lies in her words. She achieves the most unusual combinations, sets an old one to a new use acquiring, often, the strangest of effects. In many instances the rare turn of a phrase makes the poem. There is in all the lyrics beauty of language and image, and a very fine rhythmical sense. Through many of them runs an undercurrent of haunting tragedy. In this may be the basic reason for their intensity.

Miss Millay, of course, presents love from the woman's point of view. At the same time the style is not objectionably feminine. She has dared, also, to picture the unconventional love of a day—picturing the woman as expectant of the departure of the loved one—what more could she expect. Humility seems to be the care of the thought. Whether or not it is a desirable attitude is dependent on the reader.

Some of the poems are characterized by a deep emotional quality; others seem to lack this very thing. Some are deeply meditative, others quite superflous in thought. On the whole, however, the feeling is deep enough that one wonders unconsciously how autobiographical these poems might be.

Miss Millay is a consummate artist with words, phrases, and moods, a good craftsman in form. She may sometimes fail to touch the heights, but there is always vitality in her poetry.

One wonders if the author had a point of her own in writing a collection with such a personal note. It is, of course, impossible to know. Perhaps the inscription is self explanatory.

"By our first strange and fatal interview,
By all desires which thereof did ensue."

WORLD TODAY

The question of war debts remains front page news. Congress is overwhelmingly opposed to debt cancellation or to reopening the question with debtor nations. It seems certain that the December 15th payments will be required but Mr. Hoover, in expressing his opinion, leaves a loop-hole for further discussion of the whole inter-allied debt tangle.

—MC—

As the date for the opening of Congress approaches, the treasury crisis is its most serious problem. The air is full of economy talk and many expedients for increased revenue are being urged.

—MC—

Th authorities of the District of Columbia are viewing with alarm the prospect of being compelled to deal with "the hunger marchers", who are reported to be converging on the Capitol. Radicals all over the country are being organized in an effort to arouse class animosities, but the sane and sober thought of the nation is strongly opposed to such action, and word has been sent out over the country that such groups cannot be permitted to remain in Washington.

—MC—

Readers of modern English literature are not surprised to hear that the 1932 Nobel prize has been awarded to John Galsworthy, British novelist and playwright. His "Forsyte Saga" alone would entitle him to this distinction.

—MC—

President-elect Franklin D. Roosevelt, on a recent visit to Washington, outlined a four-fold program which he expects to follow. He is in opposition to immediate change in the foreign debt structure. In addition the program includes early steps for enactment of beer legislation, balancing the Federal budget and action toward farm relief.

—MC—

The Federal Farm Board announced that, in three years farm income has fallen 56 per-cent. No further evidence is needed to indicate the serious questions confronting American agriculture.

—MC—

Hitler's bid for dictatorical power foundered when President von Hindenburg refused to consider him for the Chancellorship except on a Parliamentary basis. Just a few days ago Herr Hitler declined the President's offer to form a parliamentary cabinet, stating that such action would be impossible at the present time.

—MC—

New uniforms are being introduced in the British army. An open neck khaki shirt is worn without a necktie. The trousers are plus-fours, to be worn with short leggings. The crowning touch is a deerstalker hat.

—MC—

Owing to a flood, caused by heavy rains, the Panama Canal was closed to traffic. For the first time in the canal's history, the thirteenth gate was opened to release the flood waters.

—MC—

Russia's Five Year Plan has run against unexpected obstacles. It has been found that Soviet industry ravages agriculture and that two-thirds of the people are not expected to get sufficient food for the winter. There is no famine or actual starvation, yet the country presents a gloomy picture.

—MC—

General John J. Pershing, just returning from Europe, made his first statement since the war on the possibility of another conflict in Europe. He considers that there is no immediate likelihood of war.

The Poetry Corner

DORRANCE KISSED ME

Dorrance kissed me in the moonlight
'Neath the twinkling dome of blue,
Dorrance kissed me in the nighttime,
When the night was made for two.

Dorrance kissed me, dear, dear, fellow,
Told me that he loved me so.
He may love me, I may love him,
Billy loves me more I know.

—Henrietta Tol.

MY PRAYER

Oh God! my prayer
To thee this day,
Is let me live
That work I may.

And while the blood
Does through me flow,
Let me, to thee,
Mine honor show.

So while I live
Let faith run high;
When life is dead,
God let me die.

—G. F. Greiner

The cup of time
With years is filled
Drink deeply, let
No drop be spilled.

—G. F. Greiner

Valuable Lecture On War Debts Is Heard By Debaters

Miss Ruth Stevens of U. T. Was Guest Speaker at Maryville High School

An unusual opportunity for hearing an authorative discussion of the inter-allied debt qestion was afforded members of the debate class on Tuesday afternoon. Miss Ruth Stevens, of the History Department of the University of Tennessee, was guest speaker of the Chilhowee and Tuesday Clubs at the Maryville High School and was introduced by Prof. Queener of the College.

Since the inter-allied war debts is the Pi Kappa Delta question for debate this year, the address of Miss Stevens was of greatest interest to members of the varsity teams. Few students of economic questions are able to present their views in so clear and delightful a manner as did Miss Stevens, and her broad knowledge of international affairs gave much valuable information to the debaters.

The motor-car has increased the ratio of mortality, created appalling traffic problems, contributed to juvenile delinquency, showed half of America how to live beyond its income, and relieved us of the horse-fly.

SPORTS

Georgia Beale Picks Unconquerable All-American Eleven

Bob Stevenson, Bob Thrower and Prof. Griffitts Are Honored By a Contemporary

All and sundry, including certain collaborators, have come forward with demands for an All-American Team from the pen of Maryville's one and only sport column. Hitherto it has been the policy of this column to remain silent on all questions regarding individual achievement in the national football sphere. That policy will remain unbroken—almost. But we will present to Maryville sport enthusiasts an All-American Team which we consider worthy of note. It will probably be noticed that some of the members of said team are hardly undergraduates at the time. But neither are some members of other national selections. With this in mind, here's the team, with a second-string bunch for substitutes.

First Team	pos.	Second Team
Herbert Hoover	l.e.	Charlie Curtis
Willie D. Upshaw	l.t.	Wm. Randolph Hearst
Andy Mellon	l.g.	Gunboat Smith
Groucho Marx	c.	Robert Caperus Thrower
Jim Farley	r.g.	Fred Albert Griffitts
Douglas Fairbanks	r.t.	Kate Smith
Marlene Dietrich	r.e.	Graham McNamee
Bob Stevenson	q.b.	Eddie Cantor
Sam Insull	l.h.	Huey P. Long
Will Rogers	r.h.	Hank Horton
Alfalfa Bill Murray	f.b.	Primo Carnera

Officials: Miss Mary Ellen Caldwell, Sam Seabury, and Will Hays. (We wanted to put Al Smith in, so we nominate him for water-boy)

A fuller explanation is necessary for this rather unusual selection. It follows:

Left End: We choose Herbert Hoover because he has undoubtedly been down under more kicks this year than any four men in history. And who is a more natural alternate than Curtis?

Left Tackle: Willie D. Upshaw is a pillar of strength in the fight for—well, whatever he's fighting for. So we conclude that he'd be the same pillar in our All-American line. He was pushed for the position by Brother Hearst, who could force his way into opposing backfields by threats of journalistic black-listing.

Left Guard: As the watchdog of the treasury, Andy was unable to finish his term. So we wanted to give the old boy another chance, in a new line of endeavor. Gunboat Smith ran a close second for the position by the way in which he successfully guarded Jack Sharkey's title hopes last summer.

Center: Can you name two men more likely to be in the center of things than Groucho Marx and Bob Thrower? If you can do this, turn in your solution to the puzzle editor of THE ECHO and receive your prize of one leather-bound copy of the Congressional Record.

Right Guard: Jim Farley gets the nomination because of his excellent interference recently run for his teammate, Roosevelt. Prof. Griffitts was nominated because we thought he'd like to play alongside Coach Thrower.

Right Tackle: Doug Fairbanks has overpowered more men single-handed than the Phillistine army. He deserves his place. Kate Smith's nomination needs no explanation.

Right End: So many people like to make passes at Dietrich. 'Nuff said. We put McNamee on because we wanted him to see how it feels to drop passes, now that he's roasted so many ends for doing same.

Quarterback: Because he delights in making those passes we spoke of a moment ago, Bob Stevenson. For his clear, bell-like voice, Eddie Cantor.

Left Half: Sam Insull has run off with everything else; why not a pigskin? His substitute, Huey Long, runs wild at every turn. He'd make a corker.

Right Half: It's only natural to nominate Rogers here. He's run around in the national backfield so long, the list wouldn't be complete without him. Hank Horton is on the second team by reason of his evasiveness, his only virtue.

Fullback: Alfalfa Bill runs amuck on the national field of play so readily, that he fairly clamored for a position. We place Carnera at full because we think he's so cut.

That's all. Any remonstrations may be directed to the writer at his winter home in the South Sea Islands.

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

Our Lone Reader (we've referred to her so often, that she demands capitalization) remarked last week that we were without a sport column. We woke up obligingly and squiesced, explaining that the gentleman who took the copy to the printer neglected to take the copy for this column until the paper had gone to press. "Well", she yawned, "no matter". We're still trying to figure out what she meant.

—S—

Believe it or not, there was in that unpublished copy a mournful paragraph bewailing the fact that Western and Eastern teams could become national champs despite a defeat and a couple of ties. While Southern and mid-Western elevens had to go unscored on before they got in the papers. Sunday at dinner, whom should we hear but Maryville's sport authority, Professor Thrower, bemoaning the same paradox. We tell this only to show that sometimes two authorities agree—but not often.

—S—

Wrestling practice seems lacking something without "Cocky" Campbell around. That mighty midget had something that no one else can possibly supply. A press agent might call it color. We call it brass.

—S—

We took our threatened dip in the pool the other day, choosing, of course a day when no heat of any denomination was to be found. We managed to get ourselves thoroughly frozen; but we derived some bit of solace from the fact that "Brute" Paxton's labial region turned nine shades purpler than did ours—and that Bill Dunnign's knees were making seven revolutions per second more than those of the writer. Even at that, we were too cold.

—S—

The boys in Georgia had a perfect day of it last Saturday. When Tech and Georgia tied, it naturally seems to make everybody feel better. All the farmers go about their business more cheerfully, the townsfolk whistle louder, and the rest of the population,—the students, don't mind anyway. Whereas, when one of the rivals manages to win, half the populace is sore for a week, and the other half is so worried about collecting their bets, that they get no peace. So a tie seems the only logical solution. The legislature will probably demand ties each year, if it ever gets around to meeting again.

—S—

Athletically speaking, the year has been anything but roseate for Maryville so far. Hiwassee set off the fireworks with her little upset on Sepemtber 16, and the proverbial climax was capped when the sophomores won the touch football crown. But we see a glimmer of hope glimmering on the horizon of sport. Although Bob Thrower is very low over the prospect for a wrestling team, we have the utmost confidence in his ability to take the material on hand and transform it into a squad of the first water. Mark them thar words, stranger!

Miss Gillingham Is Victorious In Aerial Dart Final

The aerial dart tournament was played off Tuesday, November 29, when Gillingham defeated Wayland by a score of 15-9 in the final conflict of the day.

Johnson, Conover, Joyner, Wayland, Cooley, Gillingham, Doty, and Cooper, all who have been high scorers in the girls sports, participated in the quarter-finals. Johnson, Wayland, Gillingham, and Cooper came through to the semi-finals, after which Wayland and Gillingham duelled for the championship.

A great deal of interest and competition was manifested by members of all the classes as was shown not only by the large number desirious of participating but also by the spirit of the contestants.

Since sports are mildly concerned in the following announcement, we can feel easy about making it here and now. Long and wearily has the Student Council labored in a valiant endeavor to find a substitute for snap. We have the solution! ! Why not have a general moonshiners party on the bleachers every Friday or Saturday night? It makes no difference that football season is over. The moonshiners never saw the games anyway. This method would be the equivalent of a football game per week. Yes, Miss Molly, the lights will be turned on (as if that made any difference).

—S—

Thoughts O. O. McIntyre would have while strolling in and around Maryville . . . that football field needs grass and a bit of leveling . . left guard Collins is the most brutal looking gridder, in action, to be so mild while off duty. . . Honaker and Thrower make a paradoxical-looking pair of mentors . . Miss Heron missed nine football practices this past season. . . her closest rival, with seven absences, took ninety-five laps as penance, while Miss Heron went scot-free. . . . all grid contests should be played on warm, sunny days. . . . Dr. Lloyd chose an opportune football season for an extended eastern trip. . . . the games he had access to there were even lousier than the ones down here. . . . beer won't be good for track men.

—S—

Tennessee placed two players on the A. P. All-Southern, Feathers and Rayburn. In spite of the fact that Knoxville sport writers are prone to play Feathers up and leave Deke Brackett out of the picture, we feel that the latter would be much more at home among an All-Southern aggregation than would his cohort who happenedh to be chosen. We plagiarize: someone said that the only necesities for a halfback to make All-American are a 90-yard run and a press-agent (our authority added that said press agent was more effective if equipped with a bottle of gin, whatever that might be). And we feel practically the same way about the All-Southern selection.

—S—

We don't seem to hear anything more about our proposed golf course. When the announcement was first made regarding the links, we ordered ourselves a brand-new Sears and Roebuck catalog, hoping to save enough pennie to buy a club or two when the course opened for business in the spring. So far, we haven't been able to save any pennies, but it begins to look like its just as well we haven't. No further developments are in evidence, so we guess we'll just send Mr. Sears' book back to him.

—S—

Again we have failed to ride the freshmen. As a matter of fact, the freshmen are beginning to ride us.

We note with pleasure the advent of "Number Nine" Byar as a mat aspirant. Should he make the grade, and we believe he will, the co-eds have a real treat coming. 'Cause when Brother Byar gets down to his "almost not-at-alls", he is a speciman of masculine pulchritude to be admired. We can safely print this since, Byar already being aware of the above truths, we are confident it won't tend to make his hat too litle.

Scottie Gridmen Win Places On All-Star Honor Roll for '32

Captain Gillespie, West And Wilson Win Positions By Consistent Excellency

The Knoxville News-Sentinel, rival publication, got a scoop on the ECHO last Sunday and appeared with a news article giving the Smoky Mountain Conference Football Honor Roll. It carries the names of the twenty-one players in the conference who have, in the opinion of News-Sentinel sportsters performed most ably for the season. It is a high honor to be placed on this roster; and an honor which was won by three Maryville athletes, Captain Martin Gillespie, Tom West at quarter, and Don Wilson at tackle.

Captain Gillespie earned his position on the roll by virtue of his demonstration of good all-round football in each of the games played. His ferocious tackling was a factor which saved the Scots much yardage, and his line-plunging did much toward gaining many of Maryville's needed yards.

"Rock" West was placed on the roll at quarter because of his cool, efficient games at his post. His generalship was excellent, his running and blocking irreproachable, and his passing exceptionally useful.

Don Wilson's tackle play has been a bulwark in the Maryville line ever since he has played there. This year, he proved himslf doubly helpful, giving aid and confidence to the newer men, as well as turning in sterling work in the regular lines.

The writers who saw fit to place these men among the best of the conference wrought well, for critics agree that no finer performers at their respective position have been seen on Wilson Field, at least, this year.

FOOTBALL AS VIEWED BY COLUMBIA FACULTY

Columbia Unwversity's professors spoke their minds about intercollegiate football in answering a questionnaire from The Spectator, the student paper. Some of their comments, published anonymously by it last week, follow. ---- -- -- ------

"I have never seen a football game that I thought was worth 50 cents."

"Football acts as a narcotic, deadening the student to important issues.

"The intense competition, the stakes, the mammoth machine make it more brutal than it need be."

"I bitterly condemn the practice whereby the coach of a football team gets a larger salary than is paid to even the best of professors."

"As played at present, football appears to me a brilliantly intellectual procedure."

"Footbabll is a worth-while sport * * * for the tendency it has to combat the spirit of individualism, of being too self-cenetered in life."

"I think the country is benefitted by spectacles in which the element of good sportsmanship is present."

"Football should be more frankly professional and the money should go to the university."

COLLEGIATE SWAPS

The fellow that pushes the typewriter on the other end of this column would much desire to have something in the way of Collegiate Swaps after some recent, sudden, reductions in his bank roll. He's been on the giving end of these mercenary transactions about long enough—he thinks.

—:—

Although the Kangaroo Courts have closed this year for all practical puposes, we'd be quite willing to start another one (almost single-handed) to get the guy that GOT us, while we were out one night. There seems to be an excess number of people in other people's rooms lately, and we detect that it isn't all for a good, angelic purpose.

—:—

We say this, to say this. Other colleges are having quite a little of the same kind of trouble. Editorials follow editorials concerning this little habit of our fellow "men".

—:—

Guess some of these other college papers have their little spacial problem as do we. Likewise, they have their little difficulties in getting news important enough to place a headline on. We refer to two headline articles in the last paper of "The Subemeco" from Sue Bennett College of London, Kentucky. One article is ""The Purpose and Scope of The College Newespaper", and the other is an exhaustive article which "Explains Meaning of American Thanksgiving". Perusing the rest of the front page, we find two other articles which concern Thanksgiving . . . . its meaning, and its customs. Two other lengthy articles deal with the use of leisure time and the value of travel. The editor is even exhausted to the point of using two poms on the front page. Well. . . .

—:—

The students of Judson College of Marion, Alabama, gave a Peace program a few weeks ago in the Chapel. The program was a review of "The Unseen Assassins", by Sir Norman Angell. It as divided into three parts: The object of the book; the Supreme Assasein; and the Supreme Assassin at work.

—:—

Olson's "The Terrible Swedes" are coming down to take on T. P. I.'s basketball team this winter. Manager Moore and his assistants (if he doesn't have some it isn't because he doesn't need them) have been dickering around with the Scandinavians for a game, but nothing definite has been put on the dotted line.

—:—

We haven't had ary a paper from Chattanooga University since their edition headlined "WE WANT BEER". We suppose that either they got beer, or they got. . . well, they went home.

Wrestling Schedule In Embryonic State At Close Of Week

Chattanooga, Knoxville Y. M. C. A. And Vanderbilt May Be On Program

No definite schedule has yet been arranged for the 1932-33 edition of Maryville's wrestling team. But without dates being decided upon, it is quite likely that home and abroad meets will be engaged with the Y.M..C.A.s at Chattanooga and Knoxville, with High Point College, Appalachian Teachers, and Vanderbilt. The teachers will be a new rival in wrestling, if Farmer Watkins can build up a team there, as he expects to.

The Maryville wrestlers of last season swept over all opposing teams to fight its way to an undisputed state championship. The Chattanooga and Knoxville Y.'s fell victim to Coach Thrower's "say uncle" squad twice, as did High Point College. Vanderbilt was defeated by the Scot matmen only once, as the Vandy boys were only engaged one time.

Like a true coach, Bob Thrower is exceedingly pessimistic over his chances to repeat with a championship team this year. And well might he feel low, for missing are Campbell, Cross, Peacock, Teffeteller and Overly. The first two will be missed most, probably, as new men will have to be trained to take their places. To fill Willie Peacock's shoes, Louie Krainock is being groomed down to the 135 pound limit. He has had experience on the mat and should prove an able successor to Peacock. Steve Boretsky is back to hold down his old position as 145-pounder. Johnny Tope, in the next heavier classification, will also perform again. Teefy's big pedal coverings will be stepped into by either Byar, Hardy, or Dunning, all of whom have had experience on the mat. Theodore Burns, Maryville's strong man, will continue to win his points in the 175 pound class, while Big Don Wilson and Big Mose Gamble are candidates for the leviathan, or unlimited, position.

With four seasoned performers as nucleus, Coach Thrower's pessimism is likely to be proven ill-placed. For mat fans remember that prospects last year at this time were even bluer than now. The result was a championhip octette, and critics are looking for the Toreador to repeat with another.

Some men think they know it all, but do they?

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN TOPE, Representative

COME ON JUNIORS
Let's get some spirit and get the Annual going
It will also help solve your Christmas Problem
THE WEBB STUDIO

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.

Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	*†9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*†Direct connection to Townsend

OBSERVATIONS

Tope Is Winner
Kipp Second
Geraldine Shines
Who's Haywire

Someone, sometime, said "If you don't like brown-eyed beautiful girls stay out of the south." We'd say, if you don't like brown eyed beautiful girls, stay in the South. . . . and make your own selection. We houve variety . . . . we houve.

—O—

We understand that Al Duff has taken up mocking Don Briggs lately in this sudden fever of dialect copying that seems to have sprung into existence on the campus. Duff says, "Don is always going around saying Mr. Mowe, and howve, and Piutch, so I call Don Mr. Briuggs". We hope Don won't mind being copied.

—O—

After much deliberation we have decided upon the winner of first prize this week. The winner is Lindsey Tope, and it goes like this. Lindsey ambled over to the library on Monday night of last week and inquired nonchalantly— like Tope does—as to the reason for Bartlett's being all "lit up". We explained to the lofty senior that the senior party was in the process of being held. Whereupon Tope rushed for a telephone, (what for, we know not) learned that it was already 7:30; decided not to call; rushed out of the library, (to where we know not) and came back later. We suspect that there was method in his madness, for little old Maxie came easing into the library about that time. A strategical and methodical "get-together" followed and from what we've been able to learn, Maxie decided to offer the other cheek.

—O—

The winner of second prize—a laurel for bravery—is meted out to none other than Howard Kipp. Kipp makes a regular practice of drinking two cups of Pearson's coffee.

—O—

The third prize goes to a freshman, as most third prizes do when there are three possibilities involved. The freshman is Katharine Orr, and the reason is this: We asked for a feature article to be handed in Tuesday morning. She gave us the article on Tuesday morning.

—O—

Now that we've done that, we'll do this. (That's a variation of Dr. Loldy's "I say that to say this.") We'll mention first that whether or not there's something rotten in Denmark, there is something haywire in Cincinnati, or why did Bob Overly came back from that place minus that well trained moustache that he's been working on all fall?

—O—

To the conventional question "what would you do?" we propose this problem. Dr. Shine asked Geraldine Smith what the capital of Hell is (we have no standard rule about the capitalization of that word) and she refused to answer, acting very nobly the part of a person who would be named Geraldine. Various places were thought of by other members of the class, but none were suggested loud. We were pleased over the fact that the question wasn't sent our way. We might have thoughtlessly suggested Birmingham not being any more versed on the original subject than we are, and not being able to judge Birmingham except by the representatives that have come here from there.

—O—

There were just lots of men made happy by the gentle reminder of Wesley's second song, "Three for Jack" the other evening. While many men already know the words to that, they do like the repetition. Of course those who believe in "one for "jack" were so engrossed in the person who sat alongside that they didn't hear the song, which might draw from them a controversial opinion. For that reason alone, if not for all those other reasons, Wesley got a hand that we should all be proud of. A person singing at Pearson's should feel very much complimented, if he gets all the way through the song—heard.

—O—

We had a very good reproduction of "Paradise Lost" and "Paradise Regained" the other day, it must have been Saturday, in chapel. Dr. Lloyd's announcement was very cleverly arranged, we think. The announcement was, "Dr. Hunter will meet his classes stop stop stop Monday (telegraphically speaking). Our paradise was naturally lost after the "classes", and while we sat waiting for the inevitable summons, we fearly fainted away. But we gained in proportion to our loss, for when that cheery word, "Monday" rang out from the president's throat, we fairly leaped with exultation. Now don't go thinking that we want to prolong anyone's sick spell. We just think that these professors should be careful in their recovery, and by all means stay in long enough after a sick spell to avert all possible risk of a relapse.

—O—

When a thing gets as funny as it can possibly be, we don't choose to mess around and change it any. The following, a treatise, we guess, on football training, was stopped just before it reached the waste basket. It proves of such good observation material that we submit it to you, verbatim, with even the title. It goes: Training for Football —"A football player has several privileges taken from him when football season opens. He is not allowed to drink or smoke which is better for him even if he is not playing ball. A football player has to have at least eight hours sleep a day. He must also obey the law for eating candies and other sweets. Sweets make a player short-winded and he cannot hold out in a game. A football player has to be in good health before the season and continue in good health during the season if he wishes to make a good player." Must we add that this was written by a girl?

—O—

It might be that we deserve criticism for some of this slang of ours that has sprung into being. Really, we formerly had a dread aversion for slang, but that aversion has been modified. We have several courses under the Dean of the College. The slang that Dr. Hunter allows does give sort of a "homey" feeling to his classes and our pardon is readily granted to this correct English enthusiast. There are, however, two of the dean's words that we haven't become reconciled ith. They are our pals, "bow-wows" and "haywire". We have to confess that our eyebrows arched the first time we heard each of these terms flow forth from behind the desk in room 54.

—O—

This is the time when all men forget their troubles, and drown their sorrows in poetry. While there is no way of computing any actual statistics, it is believed that there is more poetry written around this college than any place in these good old United States. Imagine our astonishment when Gordon Grooms sends us love poetry to be printed in THE ECHO. A number, beyond reason, of freshman girls have submitted poetry to us. Even little Kay Carpenter blossoms forth with some good rhyme. . . . and it is good rhyme, if we know anything about poetry. Bryan Payne, who graces our staff of writers, and who does not look at all the part, says that he's a poet. We retained our equilibrium in learning of all these artists, but when we were struck with the knowledge that G. F. Greiner, that husky, he-man, curly headed, Sotchman had a whole scrap book full of poetry, we broke down in utter despair. We look for anything in the future. We recommend Greiner's poetry to you, whether you're cheerful or not. He has a poem for every mood.

We forgot to say that J. Arthur Lazell read seven of his poems in Writer's Workshop last Wednesday.

—O—

The Business Manager of the "Orange and Blue" of Carson-Newman College must be a man who gets what he goes after. . . or he has some generous relatives. The last school paper carried an advertisement for a Life Insurance Company. We thought they'd quit advertising. . . . for lack of results.

—O—

Our present exchanges are all published about the time of Thanksgiving. Two types of articles predominate, both of which we can't boast of having had in THE HIGHLAND ECHO. For every one paper we read, there is at least one editorial on Thanksgiving; two stories on the Thanksgiving day football game, and two poems or essays about the reason for having one of these Thanksgiving days. When we see this, we suffer much remorse over our own apparent lack of Thankfulness.

—O—

Dr. Stevenson's latest: Virile, vivid, vital— — vanished! !

—O—

We go now. We've run out of advertising stationery.

Any man is a public curse who is a greater consumer than he is a producer.

COLD CHICKEN

When a frightened, fluttering, flouncing chicken comes making its way out of his house, keeping time to a rhythmic cackle of the brothers left behind, one might suspect that there's a nigger in the woodpile, or perhaps, an intruder in the chicken house. This being a true story, we'll begin to elucidate.

Time—What time do people enter chicken houses?

Place—The Chicken House
Characters—Miss Darby—Her Help. Members of the Ministerial Association

The story goes that Miss Darby, being particularly fond of both black and white meat, ordered "one of the boys" to go quietly to the home of these poor helpless creatures and confiscate only one small chicken. Who would ever miss that?

Directions were followed; the prize was selected; the neck was rung; the chicken was cooked; the savory meat was left on the stove to cool. The immediate result was, that some time in the next trio of hours, some of the boys, who have not had excellent home training, found their way, probably by accident, more probably by accidental scent, to the resting place of this fowl, which were it not for the original fowl action, might have been raising his voice to our bedroom window, even yet.

Well, the story goes almost as fast as the chicken went, once these young future ministers grasped it in their mighty clutches, and ground it between, and among their sturdy molare.

The next scene, and we're told it was a scene, was in the kitchen. On the stage was Miss Darby, and in the air was smoke. The audience leisurely looked on.

The first person for the dining hall matron to tell of her troubles was the fireman, by name Randolph. Randolph was complacently eating a chicken leg when approached, and he continued, as though he were smoking a Murad. The conversation between the last two people mentioned consisted largely of talk abou these people who steal, literally steal, chickens. That is, after they're cooked.

In answer to inquiry concerning the secural of this chicken leg, Randolph couldn't reply. Miss Darby asked again. Randolph thought, Miss Darby waited. She cast guilt-perceiving eyes on the young scamp, or was it scalawag, who was just now gathering the few remaining morsels from the drum-stick. At the repetition of the question, Randolph looked into space. . . thinking, And then he answered, "I got this chicken in the kitchen."

No admission was charged.

Y. W. C. A. ROOMS
(Continued From Page One)

extended to more girls, will operate more broadly.

A tapestry which was bought several weeks ago by the Y. W. C. A., and has not yet been hung, comprised the subject for another discussion. It will be hung this week, over the fireplace in the second room. A number of pictures will be hung at the same time.

A reception is planned for next week in honor of the wowmen who helped finish and furnish the rooms in time for the opening of school. These ladies are Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. McMurray, Mrs. Black, and Mrs. Wright. This is the means the members of the Y.W.C.A. are taking to express their appreciation for these services.

Did you ever notice that harsh criticism hurts no one but the critic himself? This is a law which has no variation.

Be cheerful. There is no valley whose outer borders are not touched by the hills.

No man is ever at his best in a fog. .

The moment human lips imprison truth it becomes a lie.

Everything is its own excuse for being.

MRS. TYLEE
(Continued from page one)

northeastern states speaking to groups interested in her work.

Her life story is intensely interesting and has been published in book form under the title of "The Challenge of the Amazon." Her work has been in connection with the Nambikuare Indians of the Amazon Valley. During a sudden uprising of the tribe her husband, small daughter, the nurse, and many household servants were massacred before her eyes.

She has done valuable work in translating parts of the Bible into the dialects of the Indians of the Amazon Valley.

MINISTERIAL ASSN.

"The Minister in the Home and at Work" was the general subject of three interesting and valuable addresses given at the regular meeting of the Ministerial Association on Wednesday evening. The Country Pastor was described by Florence Hyde whose father has served North Carolina churches for years. Elinor Winn spoke of the work of her parents who are missionaries to Korea. The third speaker was Elizabeth Duncan who mentioned the many duties and delights of the Urban Pastor as she saw them for many years in her home.

STEALING
(Continued From Page One)

relieved of 50 three-cent stamps that had been left on the desk. Miss Green also met momentary disaster when she found that twenty dollars had gone astray, one day last week.

In the dormitories, particularly Carnegie, many losses of significance have been reported. At one time, two weeks ago, there were eight notices on the bulletin board concerning lost articles. One resident of Carnegie had twenty dollars taken from a drawer in his room; another lost a bill-fold with fourteen dollars; and other losses were reported, ranging from seven dollars downward. Aside from money, many valuable pieces of clothing have been missed. In every case, the culprits managed to do a clean job, and escape successfully, leaving no tangible clue which could be used to ascertain an identity.

LITTLE JOURNEY
(Continued from page one)

other passenger, appears on the scene, or rather on the railroad, complications arise. For, by reason of the somewhat unwieldly proportions of both, they are unable to pass each other in the narrow aisle. Both confess to the novelty of the situation, for it has happened to neither before.

To soften the atmosphere, a baby is figured with one solitary passenger. To season the atmosphere, a pants salesman with a gold tooth is added. And all the while the train moves on, carrying within its coach a miniature world with its joys and sadnesses, and men and women and comedy and drama.

"Few writers of American social comey", says the Theatre Arts Monthly are as skillful theatrically as Miss Crothers. While what she has had to say in her plays has frequently been illogical, she has been so successful at saying it dramatically that she is easily forgiven. Her themes have been pertinent to their time and her comments have been amusing. There is no doubt why there is a Rachel Crothers play of some importance in almost every one of the last twenty-five years of theatre history."

STUDENT LOANS
(Continued From Page One)

standing account in any department of the school.

Ae record of all loans, due dates, and dates of payment is kept in the office of the Secretary of Student-Help and becomes a part of the student's credit rating. This record may be used by the student in much the same way that Dunn's and Bradstreet's ratings are used in the commercial world. At any time during his college course, or after his graduation, a copy of his record will be given to the student, or to anyone who may wish to employ him.

The Law Club held its first meeting Wednesday, November 30. The officers for the year are: Jerry Carter, president; Bill Brewer, vice president; Robert Tripp, program secretary; and Mary Gladys Brown, editor. Mock trials are being planned for future programs.

BAINONIAN'S

... Present ...

"The Little Journey"

MONDAY, DECEMBER 5

All Seats Reserved At Regular Admission Price 35c

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 — THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, DECEMBER 10, 1932 — NUMBER TWELVE

OBSERVATIONS

? ? ? ? ? ?

Lathan's Substitute
Holder's Plight
Lloyd Leads Choir

With the exception of Mr. Mac's querulous intrusions, we do have such an enjoyable time watching a pet fly, which, by the way, is a trifle out of season, walk nonchalantly about our littered table top. Any fly that can brave the wilds across the top of a Bible text can exist in this pink elephant-laden climate. But some day we suppose that the poor fellow will get tired and crawl up somebody's folded sleeve to wrinkle away and die.

—O—

In case someone doesn't understand just why a fly appears in this column as a headliner, we would like to say that a fly is smart enough to know a bad subject when he sees it; he evidently must be, for he walked all over a book on. . . . . How a High School Student Should Conduct Himself.

—O—

Would anyone care to have a souvenir from Sweeney's Florida Ford, the Ford with a past? (So Sweeney says). On most all shight and briny afternoons the parts can be seen lying around for inpection, or maybe for a sun bath. The crate has been apart at least once every day for the past two weeks. Someone suggested that Haub lift his radiator cap and slide a new car under. For Sweeney, we suggest that he make his car wear a veil as a sort of conformance with the humane society for dumb animals.

—O—

From now on, Bob Thrower will designate a certain position to which a weight used in corrective gymnastics can be lifted as. . . . . "the ends of the arms". No matter where they are, just the ends of the arms. It's a good expression to use in a pinch, providing it doesn't pinch back after it is used. You know, the old saying goes: "Any old port in a storm."

—O—

Dr. Hunter didn't seem to know Tuesday morning just what the name of the Alpha Sigma mid-winter play was. . . . he sort of stammered around like a freshman, and then as a way out, he invited the student body to come next Monday night. . . . for thirty five cents.

—O—

Whoever had a hand in putting up the latest posters around the campus didn't seem to know either, so he put a question mark on the cards. But far be it from us to hold such a thing from the play fans. Don't tell anyone that we told, but the name of the play is "The Bat". Everyone is invited. . . . for thirty five cents.

—O—

We just heard over a radio one of the many boring talks on this here new machine age. Among the many new devices mentioned was a contraption to take the place of a

(Continued On Page Four)

Y. W. C. A. PROGRAM

"Great thoughts beautifully expressed in poetry" will be the theme of the Y. W. C. A. program for tomorrow afternoon. The meeting will open with a short song service, followed by the devotions, which will be led by Ruth Boyd. There will be two special musical numbers: a girls' sextet "Jesus, I My Cross Have Taken", sung by six members of the choir; and a violin solo, Daw's "Melody", played by Mildred Purviance. In keeping with the subject, "Poetry", ten girls will read their favorite poem. The purpose of this program is to encourage an appreciation of good poetry.

Russell Elected Captain Of '33 Grid Machine At Annual Banquet

Pearsons Furnishes Rare Culinary Masterpice To Grid Squad

At the annual banquet for the football squad, held this year in Pearsons, Ray Russell was chosen as captain of the 1933 Maryville grid machine. Russell's star has been continually rising since his freshman year, and this honor caps the climax of his years of service to the athletic program of the college. "Finklestein" was not a stellar performer in his initial year on Coach Thrower's line. He was handicapped by the presence of two very able upperclass centers, Farmer Watkins and Blundon Ferguson. Last year, more was seen of him in the Scot line, although still in the role of understudy, then only to Ferguson. But the past year, he has shown himself to be a tower on defense and a dependable unit on offense. With two years of college experience behind him, he regularly turned in stellar performances at his center post. With three years behind him, he should have his greatest season in '33, as captain and veteran pivot-man.

Besides the business of election of a leader, the squad had other business before it Wednesday. Toastmaster John Crawford presented an interesting group of speakers. First came Dr. Lloyd, who made remarks along the line of football when he was a Maryvillian, and a Scot gridman. He was followed by Coach Honaker, who, after bringing in his customary anecdote, spoke optimistically concerning the prospects of a team of whih Russell is to assume leadership. Coach Thrower then rose and made an address also on the general topic of football at Maryville. The toastmaster then called on Captain Gillespie to speak to his men, which he did. Captain-elect Russell was forced to make a short extemporaneous speech, after which "Turkey" Smith presented gold foot balls to the graduating members of the squad, Burns, West, Hardee, Gillespie and Manager Myers. These footballs were purchased with funds given half by Dr. Lloyd and half by the business men of Maryville.

The cheer-leaders then led the group in a few lusty yells and, after singing the Alma Mater, the football banquet was over for another year.

Dr. J. H. McMurray Is Re-elected President Of Smoky Conference

Cumberland University at Lebanon Admitted by Conference Officials

Two important features of the Smoky Mountain Conference held in Maryville, December 5, was the reelection of Dr. J. H. McMurray as President, and the admission of Cumberland University to the Conference. H. C. McAmis of Tusculum was re-elected vice-president, and Professor Alex Chavis of Carson-Newman, was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

There were no major changes made in the conference rulings. The wording of the section on the number of years a player may letter and retain his eligibility for further varsity competition was changed and now matches that of the Southern conference. In the event that an athlete misses one year of a sport he may complete his four years of varsity play, permitted by the Smoky Conference, during a fifth year of school.

The selection of men to officiate at conference games is left to Commissioner W. O. Lowe of the conference. He will announce his selections at a later date.

The attempts of the coaches of the member schools to work out basketball schedules for this year met with partial success. Some of the games are as yet only tentative due to conflicts in dates. The All Smoky Mountain Conference teams were selected by the coaches present at the meeting. The All-Conference selections, and the tentative basketball schedule appear on the sport page of this issue.

Debate Team Matches Its Mettle Against North Carolinians

Maryville Squad Has First Taste of Carolina Plan In Non-Decision Contest

For the first time on Maryville College campus the national Pi Kappa Delta question has been debated with a rival school on the recently introduced Carolina plan of debate.

In the pre-season debate last night, Asheville Normal from Asheville, N. C., was represented by Miss Padgett and Miss Rhodes, who supported the affirmative side of the question. Maryville was represented by Nathalia Wright and Arthur Lazell, speaking for the negative. The debate was non-decision.

The Carolina plan debate is based on the presentation of issues. The first issue is presented by the first affirmative speaker in a five minute speech, is answered by the first negative speaker in a five minute speech, and then follow three rebuttals, of three minutes each, by the affirmative, negative, and affirmative sides respectively. The first issue is then concluded, and is not introduced again. Then the first issue of the negative is presented in the same way, with another nineteen minutes of speaking, until that issue is settled. The debate continues in this way until each side has presented all the issues, two for the affirmative, and two for the negative. After the last issue has been settled, each side has a five minute rebuttal for the whole debate. The judges' decision is rendered after each issue. The entire debate occupies about an hour and a half.

Friday evening's debate was probably the only one on the Caroline plan the Maryville teams will have scheduled this season. The next debate, on the regular plan, is tentatively set for late in February.

CAROLINA CLUB

The Carolina Club met Wednesday night. On the program were vocal solo by John Reed, a dance by Violet Webb, and a piano solo by Bill Frish. After the program an impromptu debate was held. The question was, Resolved: That the broom is more important than the mop.

Book By Dr. Wilson Relates Heroism Of Dr. Isaac Anderson

Book Reveals Accurate Material And Fine Style of Writing

Isaac Anderson, Founder and First President of Maryville College is the title of the new book by President Emeritus Samuel Tyndale Wilson. It has just come from the press and is now ready for distribution.

This volume of 170 pages tells the story of the self-sacrificing heroism of Dr. Isaac Anderson. The Memoir of Isaac Anderson, D. D., published in 1860 by Dr. John Robinson, the second president of the College, has long been out of print, and only a few copies are still extant. Thirteen years ago, Mr. James Addison Anderson, a grand nephew of Dr. Anderson, requested Dr. Wilson to prepare a new biography of the founder of the College. Not until Dr. Wilson became President Emeritus in 1930 did he find time to give to the preparation of the biography; but now the task has been completed.

The volume contains ten chapters, a copious appendix, eleven illustrations, and a complete index.

The book is more than the biography of a great man and a founder; it is an important history of the formative years of the early nineteenth century; and to every friend of Maryville College it will make clearer the foundational purposes and the secret of the after development and genius of the College.

The covers of the book are in the college colors— garnet with orange lettering. The lettering on

(Continued On Page Four)

Work On Chilhowean Advances; Feature Problem Unsolved

Junior Section And Athletic Section Will Be Forwarded Next Week.

Reports from the editorial staff of the 1933 Chilhowean indicate that progress on that publication is going forward rapidly. Engraving copy for the senior section has already been sent to the engravers, in Atlanta. The junior section and the greater part of the athletic section will be forwarded for reproduction the first part of the coming week.

Proofs for the opening section and division pages have already been placed in the hands of the staff and have been received favorably. The customary secrecy concerning the theme, lay-outs, and mechanics of the book is being preserved, and no information of this nature can be pried from the editorial heads. When asked questions on these pertinent fields, they merely sit back and make the usual statement, so well-known to annual editors, that the next yearbook is to be the best in the history of the school.

Webb's studio, who is handling the photography, announecs that, in the week or so between now and the holiday period, the members of the sophomore and freshman classes who are bewildered as to selection of Christmas gifts might find a solution in the gift of a few new photos. And, chimes in the annual, said members will avoid the necessity of having pictures made during the general rush for knowledge which is certain to immediately precede the first semester exams.

Plans are under foot for the holding of a contest to decide which of the Maryville co-eds are to occupy the pages given over to such things in the feature section of the annual. A more definite announcement will be made through the columns of the ECHO as soon as the staff decides on a suitable method by which to foil the clique spirit which is generally present in such contests.

Too much of the uplift in this country is confined to noses.—Erie Times.

Y. W. C. A. TEA

On Friday afternoon from 4:00 to 5:00 the Y. W. C. A. girls entertained with a tea, honoring Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. McMurray, Mrs. Black, and Mrs. Stephen Wright.

During the past summer these ladies gave much time and effort in helping to make the Y. reading room attractive and homelike. They made the curtains, donated pictures, and helped in the purchase of lamps. The girls wished to show their great appreciation of these kindnesses and of the constant interest which their sponsors show in the work of the association.

Second Mid-Winter Of Season Will Be Given Monday Night

Mary Roberts Rinehart's Presentation, "The Bat", Is Alpha Sigma's Choice

"Police again are baffled by the Bat! This unique criminal, known to the underworld as 'The Bat', has long baffled the Police. The record of his crimes shows him to be endowed with almost diabolical ingenuity. So far there is no clue to his identity—but Anderson, City Detective, today said—'We must cease combing the criminal world for The Bat and look higher. He may be a merchant—a lawyer—a doctor, honored in his community by day—and at night a blood-thirsty assassin'."

In reply to this excerpt form a newspaper read by Miss Cornelia Van Gorder, owner of the mystery house in Alpha Sigma's mid-winter "The Bat" to be presented next Monday night, Miss Cornelia's maid, Lizzie, responds:

"I'm going to take the butcher knife to bed with me!"

That is the reaction of one character in the dramatized version of Mary Roberts Rinehart and Avery Hopwood's famous mystery novel to the source of the mystery itself, "The Batt". Miss Cornelia's reaction is different, but just as typical.

"I wish I were a man! I'd like to see any doctor, lawyer, or merchant of my acquaintance lead a double life without my suspecting it!"

To which Lizzie replies: "A man takes to a kimona—it rests him!"

"If I had the clues the Police have about that man, I could get him," Cornelia vouchsafes.

The curtain of the first act of this three-act play rises on the living room in Miss Cornelia's Long Island Home. The elements are somewhat stormy, and threatening thunder is heard. Other details which follow during the act, creating the accompanying atmosphere of mystery, include lightening flashes; lights which with seemingly no motivation flicker on and off; a billiard room whose windows must be locked before the household retires; a hidden room which successfully eludes discovery for some two acts; a window through which a stone is thrown, smashing a pane on its

(Continued On Page Four)

Ralph Walker Reads Critical Essay In Writer's Workshop

By Ralph Walker

Editor's Note—The following article was read in Writer's Workshop, on November 23. For its exactness of expression, its reality of impression, and for its truth, it is recommended as something to be carefully read by every earnest college student.

It was back in the naicyon days of petticoats and snuffboxes, so they say, that two Russian gentlemen found themselves stranded, one stormy December night, in my ancestral region of the Great Smokies. My paternal grandfather's house being nigh, they asked hospitality for the night, and got it, according to the unwritten law of the mountains. In their honor the logs were piled higher and higher on the fire in the big, front room, and any excess smoke was supposed to go out through the cracks in the walls.

The whole scene must have been new and strange to the Russians. But, being cultured, well-bred agents of the Czar, neither of them showed any undue curiosity when one of the little girls giggled as little girls do, and shivered, and said—

"O-ooh! Listen at the wind! It's a good night for boogers".

They merely looked at each other significantly, and one of them, in a voice whose eagerness was masked by precision and politeness, wondered "if Mr. Walker would please explain what is a booger?"

And the other, whose English was not so idiomatic as it might have been, echoed—

"Yes, will you tell what that wishes to say?"

My grandfather decided that the fire needed stirring. Then he scratched his head, and pulled at his moustache. But he didn't tell them what a booger was. He could only explain, as best he could, that "booger" was a mountaineer's form of "bogey", or "bugaboo," but that it wasn't the same. My grandfather, as he confessed afterwards, didn't know what a booger was.

But I know what a booger is. . . .

I saw Aunt Mary VanVenda rave and weep and tear at space with her blue-veined hands so long one afternoon that she went mad, and was taken that night to the cruel place where they take mad people—all because of a little yellow sheet of paper fringed with black, which said that her son had gone to his death in a sinking transport ship. I heard a minister of the Gospel ask his God to exterminate with fire and sword the whole of a nation of sixty million souls, and I thought of the people to be exterminated, with their hopes and loves and happiness lost in torrents of blood. On that, strangely enough (for I was very young then, and wondered. Later, when I came to analyze my wonder, I found that it as War I had marvelled at.

War . . . Destruction . . . Despair War is a booger. War is one of the most tangible, the most eternal of

(Continued On Page Four)

YE SHIRTSNIPPERS

(by Bryan Payne)

We from Carnegie hall, much to our chagrin, happened to notice that by some slip or something the three dormitories for the young women of Maryville College featured in the article of last week's issue, "Counting Backward", with a statement that ran something like this: "The girls of all the dorms are counting backward, some with paper dolls on a string, some with calendars, and others by various ingenious methods. "Now girls, that is mighty fine, mighty fine; it not only shows that you are still able to count, having spent nearly a semester at ye good ole institution for Christian gentleman, but also that you still retain that old stay-at-home pastime— making paper dollies. We were, I repeat, chagrinned, to say the least, to think that the good old folly-days would soon be coming our way, thus causing the girlies of the dormies to resort to paper and scissors in order to demonstrate their pleasure over the rapid departure of the remaining days. Now, to copy Dr. Lloyd, Dick Orr, and others, we said all that to say this. Carnegians, too, have begun to snap up a bit in anticipation of seeing the folks at home. Here's how we know.

First of all, ye writer of ye recorde, heard a report that lately the students are getting to be a tight bunch of mugs around the many squandering places of the village. That speaks for itself, you know. No paper dollies tied to that; no paper doll-ars, either. Carnegie is becoming a habitation of misers, a nest of expectant hitch-hikers, a harbor of many bargainers for a ride home, a waste basket for living road maps, and on and on and on.

Some students are commencing the semi-annual room cleanup by knocking on doors protecting studious prodigies to inquire about a

(Continued On Page Four)

NOW WE'D SUGGEST—

(By Smith)

The problem of detecting or stalking that ellusive, tantalizing different ojbect usually termed the suitable, acceptable and desirable Christmas gift, for the roommate puts any old hickory limb to shame when it comes to being tough.

This counsel should be heeded by all roommates, particularly those who have decided not to buy gifts for each other this year, for they merely start looking two weeks after the others.

Perhaps it will be well to confess that boys are not considered in this careful, painstaking research for the most methodical, efficient, and satisfactory means of reaching this momentous decision, because they wouldn't listen anyhow.

Why should one consider buying a present for the roommate is a logical question preceding treatment of ways and means. Perhaps it is considered because she is going to give one, and then too, it is necessary to live with her for a few more months after Christmas.

As for recommendations for the proper procedure in buying the present the first thing to do is to make a complete list of the things the roommate does not like. She has, beyond the intimation of a doubt, expressed her antipathetic views on flagrantly tinted stationary, atrocious purple and green scarfs, and, of course, she detests fancy pincushions and pillows, beribboned shoe trees and fluffy clothes brushes—not to mention those leather-bound gadgets with no particular use.

Now consider your roommate physically, mentally, socially, and individually; consider her talents, her attitude toward anything in general, and above all, consider her feelings.

Now make a list of all the things you have heard her say she wanted. The Bookroom will probably be able to supply you with enough ink and paper for this purpose. From

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

GERALDINE SMITH - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
KAY CARPENTER - - - - Associate Literary Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, December 10, 1932

NEW POLICY

A new policy has been instituted this year in the editorial staff of the Highland Echo with the hope that it might bring the best of anticipated results. The entire system is based on the belief that the staff this year is of the best possible talent, and on the principle of giving more responsibility to each individual.

Writing assignments are given to the eight staff members, composed of juniors and seniors. These staff members have under them two people, either two freshmen, or one sophomore and one freshman, to whom they give this work for writing.

The story is written for publication by the underclassmen. When it leaves his hand, it is supposed to be correct for publication. But when it leaves his hand, it does not come to the editor; instead, it goes to the staff editor, or the junior associate editor, who corrects this work and issues it as representative of his own work. If the work is not fit, the upperclassmen recasts, or rewrites, as it seems fit until the article is, as good as his own work.

This plan means two things: it means giving more responsibilty to freshmen than the policy has been through former years; and it means giving a different kind of responsibility to the upperclass men. He has an opportunity not only to write, but to instruct others about the principles, and various intricacies of the work. It is hoped that this plan will prove successful, and will give to the readers of the HIGHLAND ECHO a high type of reading material.

A BROADER VIEW

Although it is usually taken for granted, and little thought is made of it, Maryville does possess one advantage that is worth taking cognizance of. It is simply the matter of location, and the consequent cosmopolitan nature of the student body as a unit.

Maryville is situated in the general vicinity of the Mason-Dixon line, and for that reason draws its student body from both the south and the north, with almost even distribution, classifying the students from Tennesse as neither north nor south.

The use of the Mason-Dixon term shouldn't be construed to mean that the writer believes the Civil War istll exists. As a matter of fact, it does, but with a very small number of students. Rather it is to mean, that the students of this college are composed of young people from the east, from the south, from the west and from the north, all jumbled together in a happy existence, in the time of a person's life that should by all means of reasoning be the most pleasant. Unlike tastes and interests are all thrown in the general mixture, and as a result, we do find ourselves necessarily broadened, in spite of our efforts to retain our "individuality". The northern who calls his mother "you all" when he goes home, and the southern who returns to the old homestead with northern provincialities in his speech are made to realize this very distinctly.

Having like interests, attempting similar projects, converging social tastes, are all going to aid toward making each student have a broader outlook on his "brothers" and will increase his knowlege, and his understanding of people from all over the country.

RELIGIOUS ATMOSPHERE

In a school where religion is one of the primary interests, and emphasis, we should be and probably are, willing to accept anything that is said. That, however, may have added to it "within reason". A good many students in this college are probably not believers in the sense that the founders of the college would have them be. On the other hand, there are some distinct disciples of the original Maryvillians.

It would seem that a place which has five religious services on Sunday, a chapel each morning, a sermon on Wednesday, various other meetings in the course of a week should have such an atmosphere that anyone would be automatically "converted."

It is true, of course, that the atmosphere at Maryville (aided largely by the good influence of the February Meetings) is distinctly religious. As one views with somewhat of a perspective, it seems like going to Maryville . . . and then going out into the world. No one can expect the sort of companionship, and fellowship in business that he has in this college.

One is impressed very much with the repetition of statements of religious truths, in his attendance at meetings on the campus. We hear statements reiterated from day to day; from week to week, until, in spite of our own earnest endeavor, we feel that we've been over indulgent. We are told from week to week that, in spite of what someone tells us, There is a God. In spite of science; in spite of biology, or geology, or astronomy, There is a God.

The earnest Christian hears this statement often enough to keep on believing it, perhaps.

The doubter probably keeps doubting, and the agnostic gets tired of hearing it. What young people want is not so much to see the manifestations of God all over the world, but a touch of it in the human heart. People are led to believe, not only by the wonders of nature, the wonders of this, and the wonders of that—but by the wonders of the accomplishment of a holy spirit in a human heart. The underlying fact here is simply that if a God has hold of a human heart, the possessor has little difficulty in convincing his fellows. It isn't only Lo There, but Lo Here, also.

ON PAYING ATHLETES

A great deal of pandemonium was created two years ago when the Carnegie Report exposed the fact that a huge majority of the schools in the country were paying athletes. Since that time the matter of paying athletes has become generally accepted as a correct procedure, although it must be kept under cover. This matter seems to be a sore spot in all colleges and universities. As long as opinion follows its old-fashioned trend, the payment of athletes must be an underhand project.

Why shouldn't an athlete receive some recompense for working out three hours every afternoon for three months; running risk of severe injury; impairing his ability to study; all for the sake of winning a few football games.

Football should be as much a commercial project as professional baseball or professional golf, or any other game that is played by experts. It involves labor and time, using time that could be used to a mercenary advantage elsewhere.

Football, as a sport, has held the limelight for the last few years because of the enthusiasm, worked up by newspapers, by college pep-meetings, by the system of immortalizing all-American men. This policy has, however, hit a downgrade. Football doesn't possess the glamor that it had a few years ago. It isn't a matter of only playing for sixty minutes on Saturday before a wild group of cheering students and alumni. It is a matter of that, plus scrimmaging four or five other days in the week.

Evidence of falling enthusiasm is shown by the gate receipts at universities this year. Michigan, having one of the greatest teams in the country, played before 85,000 spectators, as compard to 250,000 in 1929 when they had a much poorer team. Harvard and Yale played before smaller crowds this year, and the blame for this is placed specifically on the fact that students are ceasing to be thrilled to death at the sight of twenty-two men chasing a pigskin.

As the novelty of the game wears off for the spectators, so will it wear off for the players. They won't be as anxious to "star" for the alma mater as they were when a football player was idolized from coast to coast.

A recent article reported the cessation of pep gatherings at Michigan University. This fact was introduced by the headline, "College Students Grow Up".

College students are to be congratulated.

"Poor Play Rather Well Done" Is Criticism Of First Mid-Winter

Jessie Mae Ramsey and Ellen Hitch Give Best Performances

Cast:

Julie Rutherford - Lorena Dunlap
Jim West - - Earle Crawford
Mrs. Welch - - - Ellen Hitch
Mrs. Bay - - Jessie Mae Ramsey
Lily - - - Margaret Mozingo
Leo Stern - - - William Hannah
Frank - - - Charles Muir
Charles - - Herman Magee
Smith - - - Gordon Courtenay
Annie - - - Roberta Robison
Ethel - - Helen Thompson
Kittie Van Dyck - - Ruth Boyd
Alfred Bemis - - Boyce Mahan
The Porter - - - Reeder Carson

Coached by Mrs. Nita Eckles West
Staged by Lois Wallace

"A very poor play rather well done" is a fairly general judgment of the first Mid-winter of the current season. This more or less sociological drama was presented by Bainonian Literary Society on Monday evening, December 5, as its bid for the Theta Alpha Phi cup. The comparatively small audience seemed to be well pleased with the production.

The fault of "The Little Journey" lies in the lack of motivation and the commonplaceness of the material. The characters all come from old and rather time-worn stock, from the traveling salesman to the newly rich lady and the slightly deaf grandmother.

This material was made to attain to at least average interest by the acting, which was on the whole, very good. First honors go to the character players, as is perhaps to be expected in a play of this kind. Of these the best work was done by Jessie Mae Ramsey and Ellen Hitch.

The management of the stage was one of the major contributors to whatever success the play attained. This was exceptionally good, and the "hill-top" scene was the best of its kind here in recent years. The clever managing of the wreck was also quite good.

Throughout the play there was a lack of motivation and use of unsound psychology which made the plot rather difficult to follow.

Book Browsing

Will Durant, On the Meaning of Life, Long & Smith, Inc., New York, 1932

If you should receive a letter asking you to state clearly just what meaning life has for you, what keeps you going, what help—if any—religion gives you, what you feel to be the sources of your inspiration and energy, what is the motive force of all your labor, where you find your happiness, where, in the last resort, your treasure lies, would you feel competent to give a concise and reasonable answer to the query?

This was the task which Will Durant placed before one hundred of his contemporaries, recognized as leaders in their respective fields, and the replies to his letter furnish a large part of the material for his book "On the Meaning of Life.."

Durant, an eminent philosopher and lecturer, has set out at the beginning of his book to create a feeling of doubt and fear in the mind of the reader in respect to the real aims and goals of life. He deals with religion as a hope, a natural condition of humanity and says, "It seems impossible any longer to believe in the permanent greatness of man or to give life a meaning that cannot be annuled by death. We move into an age of spiritual exhaustion and despondency like that which hungered for the birth of Christ."

Science, by unfurling its panorama of discoveries and findings, is credited with presenting a picture of universal struggle and death and "decade by decade the optimism of the nineteenth century yielded to the pessimism of today."

Essential history is enclosed in the records of "Births," "Marriages", and "Deaths" with all other details making up the non-essential or ornamental data.

The letters from the men and women who replied to Durant form a sea of opinion from which the reader can best judge the tributaries without regard for their chosen pursuits. The replies from such men and women as Erskine, C. A. Beard, Andre Maurois, Charles Mayo, Carl Laemmle, Adolph Ochs, Gandhi, Helen Wills Moody, and Mary E. Wooley give us an avenue for meeting these celebrities other than through their accomplishments in their professions.

This book of less than one hundred and fifty pages affords the reader an excellent means of obtaining knowledge concerning the leading thinkers without having to read innumerable volumes, for through his philosophy we may come most readily to know the man.

Alumni News

A large number of the class of 1932 are spending this year in advanced study, some are teaching, while others are at home. Among those from whom we have heard are the following:

Naomi Willingham is a student in the Westminster Choir School, which is now located at Princeton, New Jersey.

"Irish" Tery is teaching English in the Dayton, Ohio schools. Georgia Burk is teaching near Toledo, and Wilma Dick is teacher of Latin in the High School of Hillsboro, Ohio.

Some of the fellows have been lucky enough to find positions in different lines of business. Hubert Duncan is working in the post office of Flat Rock, Illinois. Francis Collins is connected with the Kress Store Company in Nashville and Vennor Lowry has a similar position in Memphis. Jack Coghlin is employed at the Aluminum Company in Alcoa.

Cecil Marley is attending the Presbyterian Theological Seminary in Chicago. Paul and Jane Edris are in Louisville, where Paul is a student in the Theological Seminary. Joe Hacker is also attending Seminary in Louisville. Clarence Bratchie is a student in Western Theological Seminary in Pitteburgh, and Ralph Teffeteller is in Union Seminary in New York.

Several 1932 graduates are in medical and dental colleges. Lea Callaway is in the Vanderbilt Medical School at Nashville. Cooley Combs is studying medicine at the Louisville Medical School and Wallace Barr is in Louisville Dental College.

Five members of last year's graduating class have found a lifelong occupation. Mrs. Eleanor Henry Topalian is living in Knoxville where Yervant is working in Kress' Store. Mrs. Jimmie King (Virginia Crider) is back to stay in Maryville. Wilson Gillingham, Josie Tipton, and Vennor Lowry were all married during the summer.

JOSEPH B. PATE

The following clipping was taken from a recent copy of the Knoxville Journal. Major Pate is a graduate of the college in the class of '04 and also a Blount County boy. His present appointment is at Fort McPherson, Atlanta, Georgia.

"Joseph B. Pate, Major, 371st Infantry, 93rd Division, American Expeditionary Force. For extraordinary heroism in action with the enemy in the Meuse-Argonne offensive, France, September 28, 1918. Major Pate, having been ordered to place his battalion in position to cover a gap in the line, preparatory to leading the assault that day, and having first sent out two patrols which failed to accomplish their mission on account of darkness and a heavy enemy machine gun fire, did make, with only one French interpreter as a companion, a personal reconnaissance under heavy machine gun fire, traversing the whole front of the gap, locating it acurately, and returning with the information necessary for the intelligent issue of orders for the assault. Residence at appointment, Chattanooga, Tennessee."

SMITH RESIGNS

Miss Geraldine Smith announced last week her resignation from her duties as junior associate editor on the HIGHLAND ECHO Editorial Staff. This move incurs a great loss to the Staff. Miss Smith was a dependable worker, and an excellent writer.

It is probable that some member of the junior class will be selected next week to fill the vacancy left by Miss Smith's resignation.

WORLD TODAY

Lieutenant General Kurt von Schleicher has been appointed Chancellor of Germany by President von Hindenburg. Appointed in favor of Colonel von Papen, he will have ample opportunity to match his political wits with the new Reichstag. The crisis that came to an end with von Schleicher's appointment will have a special place in the annals of the Parliamentary bickerings that have confused post-war German politics, for the experiment of a presding Cabinet.

—MC—

British engineers have just completed a diesel-electric engine capable of producing 1700 horsepower. Destined for the Buenos Aires Great Southern Railway, the enormous structure can pull 550 tons—including a trainload of 1000 passengers—at the speed of 65 miles an hour.

—MC—

An Ohio farming district is provided with "substitute currency" by a joint stock corporation. Dr. Irwin Fisher of Yale University recently visited the community and approved the system, describing it thus: "A farmer having 100 bushels of wheat has some carpenter work to be done. The carpenter otherwise unemployed accepts the work but does not need the 100 bushels of wheat. So the farmer sells his wheat to the exchange and pays the carpenter's wages with the scrip he received at the exchange. The carpenter, in turn, spends his scrip money at the exchange, buying potatoes and other things he needs. If either the farmer or the carpenter has any scrip left over he can keep it indefinitely and spend it any time he wants to."

The exchange is doing about $1000 worth of business a week, one-third of which is cash business.

—MC—

An official report from England states that the total number of unemployed persons in the country has increased 52,800 in the past month and shows a rise of 184,000 for the year.

—MC—

An acute situation has developed between the United States and Spain as a result of the move in the Cortes to confiscate the property of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company in Spain, and may even go to the point of the withdrawal of Irwin B. Laughlin, the U. S. Ambassador, if the move is carried through. On instructions of the State Department, Ambassador Laughlin formally protested the threatened move when the Republican government recently announced that it would support the confiscation bill which will include American interests amounting to $65,000,000.

In its year and a half of existence the young Spanish Republic has spirited many political storms, some of which have threatened its friendly relations with other countries. The telephone controversy is one of the most serious in the international field.

Fears has been expressed in Washington that if Madrid were allowed to repudiate the $65,000,000 American interest in Spain without protest, a vastly larger sum of $5,250,000,000 of United States money invested in 20 American countries which look to Spain for leadership might be endangered.

—MC—

Speaker Garner's attempt to force the Democratic plan for prohibition reform upon the house failed when his resolution for outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment failed by six votes to attain the necessary two-thirds majority to send it on to the Senate. It was, however, the largest vote ever polled in behalf of an anti-prohibition proposal in th house.

—MC—

Premier J. Ramsey MacDonald definitely informed Premier Edward Herriot, after a recent Franco-British debt conference, that Great Britain will pay her December 15th debt installment to the United States.

—MC—

Donald Buckley, new Governor General of the Irish Free State, expressed his desire to be known as "Seneschal" instead of Governor General and to make Gaelic the official language around the Viceregal quarters. London political circles stated a definition of "Seneschal" as a "militray commander invested with official power," and wondered whether Mr. Buckley had not overrated his importance.

The Poetry Corner

TRAIN AT NIGHT

A low monotone whistle penetrates
the cool of the night.
Out of the foggy air comes a dim blurred light.
It moves steadily forward, glowing,
then gleaming, then shining,
Penetrating the close air; bringing loud sounds of heavy wheels on steel rails.

It comes nearer, faster, pounding,
puffing, grinding, crushing,
screaming;
Crunching steel rails; belching red smoke—until

It passes—
And then,

It hastens on—slipping quickly into the night, gliding from view,— retreating—as a tired, fiery monster, returning home after a night of destruction.

—R. K. Orr

Maryville Students Attend Meeting At Morristown Normal

January Meeting of Interracial Commission Will Be In Knoxville

Four Maryville students attended the meeting of the East Tennessee Student Interracial Commission held last Saturday afternoon at Morristown Normal and Industrial College.

The topic of the afternoon's discussion was race prejudice and segregation. Marie Carlson, of Maryville College, spoke on the subject, "Is the Negro Offensive to You"; Pearl Henderson, of Knoxville College, discussed the consequences of segregation to the Negro. Dean Miner of Morristown College presented a syllabus on the background of race prejudice.

During the afternoon the life of Paul Laurence Dunbar was told and several of his best poems were recited.

The January meeting of the commission will be held at Knoxville College, at which time a program on Negro music will be presented.

Many a checkered career ends in a striped suit—Arkansas Gazette.

SPORTS

Official All-Conference Teams Honor Four Maryville Men

West Makes First Team; Wilson, Atkins and Boretsky On Second

At the meeting of coaches and other athletic officials held at Maryville, December 5, first and second all-Smoky Mountain Conference foot ball teams were selected. Carson-Newman placed the most men on the all-star teams with three men on the first team and three men on the second eam, while Maryville placed one on the first and three on the second. West, quarterback on Maryville's squad earned that responsible position on the little All-American, while Atkins at end, Wilson at tackle, and Boretsky at half back made the mythical squad.

Below is the selection made by the coaches.

First Team:—Childress, Carson-Newman, and Bingham, King, ends; Holan, King, and Rogers, Carson-Newman, tackles; Owens, King, and Redmond, Teachers, guards; Davis, Carson-Newman, center; West, Maryville, quarterback; Cambell, Milligan, and Kmetz, Tusculum half backs, and Bricker, King, fullback.

Second Team—Atkins, Maryville, and McAmis, Tusculum, ends; Atchley, Carson-Newman, and Wilson, Maryville, tackles; Leadwell, Teachers, and B. Thompson, Milligan, guards; Love, Tusculum, center; Harris, King, quarterback; Boretsky, Maryville, and Shabel, Carson-Newman, halfbacks, and Smith, Carson-Newman, fullback.

Wrestling Tryouts To Be Held Soon

The Maryville Bone-Crushers continue to improve in their technique, says Coach Thrower, but are not quite ready yet for the annual tryouts which do much to decide who shall represent the squad in the matches. These tryouts, however will be held somtime next week, if an open night can be gotten for such a purpose.

L.M.U. now looms as an opponent for the Scot matmen, according to reports from the main offices. They have been approached and, if they consent, are sure to offer their mat wares before a Maryville crowd sometime early in the new year.

ATHENIAN PROGRAM

At the Athenian meeting on December 3rd the following members were elected to hold office:

President—Robert Stevenson
Vice President—Robert Tripp
Recording Secretary—John Phay
Program Secretaries—Douglas Carhart, J. Arthur Lazell
Critics—Harry Wood, Harry Walrond
Editor—Andrew Newcomer
Sergeant-at-Arms—George Hoglan

On Saturday, December 10th the Bainonian and Theta Epsilon Societies will elect officers.

B. G. CLUB

The B. G. Club is holding a treasure hunt on Saturday afternoon.. It is rumored that the trail will ultimately lead to Knoxville where the party will visit Mrs. Yervant Topalian, who is a member of the club. The girls will be accompanied by their sponsors Miss Bonnie Hudson and Miss Helen Gamble. They have alo inviteld Miss Virginia Kennedy, Miss Susan Howard and Miss Zoe Carroll.

ALABAMA CLUB

The Alabam Club held its regular meeting Tuesday evening, December 6th. The members swapped news from home and worked out a contest on the history of Alabama.

A college professor: A man who is paid to study sleeping conditions among students.—Amherst Lord Jeff

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN TOPE, Representative

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

We're all atwitter! We only just the other day read in the paper as how one of our fellow-Georgians has been selected as captain of the army team for next year. No wonder Georgia can't seem to get to the Rose Bowl, what with the army taking all our star athletes. Only last year, one of the country boys down there was drafted as army captain. Next year the same thing over again. Looks as if the old state's gonna furnish as many army grid captains as Virginia has furnished presidents. And, we ax you, which position would you choose just now? At least the grid leader doesn't need to worry about re-election.

—S—

We're naturally sorry to hear of Mildred "Babe" Didrikson's debarment from amateur athletics. She is a great athlete and was a great help to the U. S. Olympic team this summer. But maybe her experience now includes the fact that just so much wool can be pulled—and no more. She was ousted for allowing her name used in conjunction with an auto ad. And we're glad of it. We're getting tired of purchasing articles merely because some celebrity is paid to recommend it, only to find that it's no better than any other brand of the same commodity. F'rinstance, we never noticed that Luckies taste any better merely because twenty-seven movie actresses pose for Luckie ads clad in their thingamabobs. (Or are they touch-me-nots?)

—S—

More thoughts while strolling (and more apologies, Mr. McIntyre): the columns of the sport page are filled with very little news in the days of athletic inactivity. . . nothing looks quite so dreary, as a baseball diamond in midwinter. . . . it seems to have no excuse whatsoever for being . . . all timid individuals should remain at a respectful distance from Coach Thrower's wrestling squad—they're about as tough as they come . . . . the new Y. administration is handling the intra-mural program admirably. . . we can't seem to stay away from the girl's basketball practices . . . . O for the good old black'uns . . . the number of junior and senior gals engaged in gymn classes leads one to believe that the gals ain't been doin' right by our alma mater before. . . looks like the track men won't get their beer after all.

—S—

We are now signing off, in favor of our man Friday, who, of course is Mr. Friday to you bums. Personally, we are of the opinion that, if you aren't disgusted away from this column ere now by our putrid perambulations, we'll have quite a few requests that we turn over the management of said column to said Mr. Greiner. Our Lone Reader adds that we'd have more requests only we don't have more readers. Ouch! !

—S—

For the most of us, the football banquet is a thing of the past, but to our erstwhile gridiron warriors we find it still lingering on their minds—or rather, on their abdomens. According to reports, the boys were just about able to crawl out of Pearsons after having gorged themselves to the last notch and filled up the chinks with mashed potatoes. We hope that by the time Christmas gets around, the team will have been sufficiently recovered to enjoy some real home cooking. There we go Christmasing again.

—S—

We may be all wet about this, but we actually are going to have a swimming team. In fact, a meat—pardon—a meet has been arranged to come off the Saturday night before the holidays (if anyone is here to take part) and the freshmen are making a strong bid for the honors. "Flash" Herries and "Breezy" Obert, both freshmen, have been churning the aqua pura into froth. Shields, a junior, has been doing some fancy splashing. His approach on his front gainer would make a wood mymph look like one of the Maryville mules. Then there is a guy they insist on calling "Speedy".

—S—

Thrower's "rasslers" have been sporting those flashy cast-off football jerseys around the campus lately and until an explanation was given we were rather doubtful about the integrity of the wearers. It seems however, that they were honorably issued, due to a shortage of sweat-shirts. Thrower must have a grudge againt the stadium moonshiners for every afternoon when it gets nice and dusky, he sends his squad out to trot around the field for a half hour or so and the poor moonshiners just have to sit there and talk.

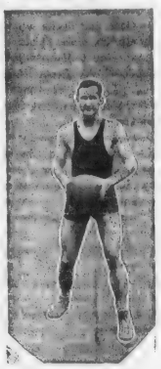
—S—

No folks, that's not a war tank in front of Carnegie. That's just something to take a ton or so of the local beef and dump it in the vicinity of Philadelphia at twelve dollars a head. It seems that once upon a time it was a twin six Packard that had all the gas that it needed, and then came the crash, and no more gas, so its master sold it to the Quigley boys (who have plenty of gas) and now it is living quite happily on our picturesque campus. We might mention in passing that Paxton would look good as a chauffeur for this particular bus (provided he used a periscope to look over the wheel.)

—S—

Well, dear old Alma Mater placed a representative few on the Smoky Mountain Conference team. This boy West was just too good to keep off the first team and Boretsky, Wilson and Atkins placed on the second. We have no reason to bust the buttons off our vests on this account, but closing the season as we did, and now this news to cap the climax—well, hang your heads no longer, dear students and whereever the talk turns to schools, just enunciate in your best booming basso, "I'm from Maryville" and your audience will be swept off its feet (perhaps).

The poorest hour is just before the pawn.—Life.



Sophs, Junior-Seniors Elect Co-Ed Captains And Managers

Wayland, Cooley And Cooper Host Are Combinations

The past week has seen the beginning of the annual practice for the co-ed basketball tourney, to be started soon after the Christmas holidays end. The customary three teams have been at work, although the freshman have not yet seen fit to organize by the election of officers, as have the sophomores and junior-seniors.

The sopohomores held an election and selected Mary Cooper as captain, while Grace Hast will serve as manager. The junior-seniors will be captained by Katherine Wayland, a junior, and Margaret Cooley, another junior, will manage affairs.

The teams have attracted quite a number of co-eds as applicants and it is expected that the games after the holidays will be accompanied by the keenest of rivalry.

CAPTAIN LEWIS

JOHNNY KISER

Battle For Positions Still Exists Among Basketball Ranks

With only about ten more days remaining before disbandment for the holidays and the holiday rest period, Coach Honaker is rapidly drilling his basketeers into a coordination calculated to stand the strain of the holiday separation. A practice game between two factions of the squad was to be held this afternoon instead of the usual rote work. This is hoped to stimulate even more the intense rivalry which has sprung up in the battle for positions.

But this is not the only game to be held before the Yule season begins. Even next week, according to latest reports from the coaching offices, it is hoped that a game with some local independent team will be offered to student enthusiasts. Of course, no college games will be held until after the return from the parental folds, but several warm-up games are expected before the opening of the collegiate season here, on January 17, with Tusculum.

Captain "Yankee" Lewis and Johnny Kiser are the only two lettermen who remain from last year. And they are the only ones who might be termed as having "cinched" a position. For a mob of reserves from the 1932 squad are fighting it out with another mob of freshman for the three remaining positions, and no guesses are being made by those who wish to play safe and not run the risk of being showed up as a poor picker.

At the meeting of the Smoky Mountain Athletic Conference, which is mentioned elsewhere in this issue, th following schedule was assigned to Maryville:

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	°‡9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§8:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
°‡Direct connection to Townsend

COLLEGIATE SWAPS

Well, well, well, theres two of them. One of the reporters on the staff of "Creek Pebbles", a publication of Cambell College, Blue Creek, North Carolina, carries the name of Jeff Beale. That's right, because that leaves us Mutt Beale. We never did think his name was Charles. Charles is such a nieeze name.

—:—

Quoting from an editorial from the same paper, we find, concerning the perils of holidays, "Naming over the more serious results of holidays, we might mention the scores of deaths caused by accidents, in autos, planes, ships, and elsewhere; many a loved one being separated; many a family broken up; and many homes bowed in sorrow—all as a result of the holidays." We take cognizance of these facts, verily yea, and we're going to stay very close home Christmas. . . in the general vicinity of Papa's dinner, breakfast, and supper, table.

—:—

"Cid the Cynic" is found each week in the Kentucky Kernel. Cid always has something that the college girl would call "cute" to say. It is usually of poetic nature, as this week, when he says:

My clock's a worried witness to
My late and erant way—
It folds its hands at midnight
And lifts them up to pray.

Maybe some of us need a clock—eh? We don't mind the praying business, but we hate that shouting that comes afterward. . . about six chimes later.

—:—

Carson-Newman is having its little fun about that crack football team of theirs. This week they carry a two column seven inch picture of the idolized Frosty Holt, who, we're about to believe, knows this pig skin business. We don't know, but we rather suppose that it's just as well for Maryville's percentage in the W and L column that she didn't play the Eagles this year. When more than half the members of a team find themselves placed on the first and second All Conference teams, we're about to begin to hope that they're 6-11 seniors on that football team, if not 11-11.

—:—

Louisa M. Alcott's "Little Women" was presented by the Lenoir-Rhyne Playmakers on December 2. This play is adapted from the author's novel of the same name which has proved so popular among readers of fiction.

1933 BASKETBALL SCHEDULE
(Thee are the games arranged in the Smoky Mountain Conference)

Jan. 14—Tusculum—Away
Jan. 17—Emory & Henry—At Home
Jan. 19—East Tennessee Teachers—At Home
Jan 21—Linclon Memorial—Away
Jan. 24—Carson-Newman—At Home
Feb. 2—Lenoir Rhyne—At Home
Feb. 4—Carson-Newman—Away
Feb. 6—Cumberland Uni.—At Home
Feb. 18—Tusculum—At Home
Feb. 21—Milligan—Away
Feb. 22—Emory & Henry—There
Feb. 23—King
Feb. 24—East Tennessee Teachers—There
Feb. 27—Milligan—At Home

These Historians

Diogenes crossed the Delaware and held his lantern up to George Washington.

"Let's have a look at your phrenology. Are you he who cannot tell a lie?"

"Lafayette, we are here," quoth George. "'Just wait'll I cut down this forbidden fruit tree."

At the first stroke of his little hatchet an apple fell on Sir Isaac Newton's head.

"Steady, William!" Sir Isaac said nervously, as Tell drew back his string. Twang—William Tell shot the apple off clean and did not so much as graze a hair. Then Sir Isaac took of the fruit and did eat and gave also of it to Adam. When Adam tasted it he was immediately overcome with a knowledge of evil.

"The law of gravitation is!" he cried.

"What do you mean by that?" Ponce de Leon wanted to know.

Everything that goes up is bound to come down."

"Fountains?" Ponce quavered.

"Well, no, not fountains."

"Then I must keep on looking." Ponce built a bridge across the ocean in 13 chapters. The next day a whale lifted its head from the water and opened its mouth.

"I'm about to be swallowed," observed Ponce, "but I like not the slippery look of that tongue."

Sir Walter Raleigh was standing by and with a gallant gesture he took off his handsome coat, spread it over the offending tongue, and Ponce de Leon walked down the whale's throat, prfectly dry. The whale closed his mouth and swam

(Continued on page four)

The Students of Clemson College had a movement for the help of unemployed families last week. The president of the Y. took a leading part, and through his efforts, and the help of others, clothing was given by students to over 20 families. Sevenal of the familis that were helped had had no income for over a year, and had no clothing that could be worn on the streets.

—:—

In the last "Gamecock" before the South Carolina boys played Auburn, there was a small headline below several larger ones that stated, "Colorful Affair Expected; Carolina Supporters Hope For An Upset". They hardly hoped for all that, but they got it, nevertheless. When those boys of Carolinie came back to tie Auburn at 20 all, the seers from the south just all went up in smoke. It simply was not an ethical procedure. But it was a great old spirit, we'd venture to say, that urged the boys to take 1-2 of Auburn's scalp.

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

KODAK FINISHING
... FOR ...
Best Results and Permanent Prints
Our Negatives Solve the Christmas Problem
THE WEBB STUDIO
Don't Fail to see "THE BAT"

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM
Don't Fail to see "THE BAT"

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.
Don't Fail to see "THE BAT"

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY
Don't Fail to see "THE BAT"

LITTLE CHURCH

"God hath made of one blood all nations of men for to dwell on the face of the earth."—Acts, 17:26.

That a first century Christian, quoted at length in inspired Scripture, could be, and was, wrong appears to be the opinion of the majority of the senior class of Maryille College.

Results of the ethical judgment test given to that body of students on November 21 reveal that more than one-half of them answered "No" to the question "Absolute equality of all races and nationalities is desirable." These people, it would seem, set themselves up to contradict the judgment of St. Paul, who is probably the greatest interpreter of Christianity since Christ Himself. Paul insists that between Christians there is no distinction between Jew and Greek, between a favored racial group and an unfavored racial group, but that all Christians are under obligation to treat each other as brothers. (Col. 3:11). And Jesus said in a similar connection,

"If ye salute your brethren only, what do ye more than others?"—Matt. 5:47.

The economist, sociological, and religious implications of these dicta are only beginning dimly to be realized.

Jesus set Paul the precedent, as I have already hinted. Jesus made no apology for talking to the Samaritan woman at the well. He made a member of that same despised race the hero of His great lesson on human relationships, the Parable of the Good Samaritan.

Countee Cullen, a Negro poet, believes that Cimon of Cyrene carried the cross because Jesus was dying for a dream of brotherhood.

"It was Himself my pity bought;
I did for Christ alone
What all of Rome could not have wrought
With bruise of lash and stone."

One of the weakest points in the structure of our so-called Christian American civilization is her treatment of oppressed minorities. Negroes are segregated, Asiatics are denied naturalization, Cubans are refused autonomy, and the Philippine Islands are denied independence. If any of these groups think they may hope for a change of policy, let them see what the magnanimous Monroe Doctrine has done for portions of Latin America.

Historically, it has been proved repeatedly that no civilization can long endure if it keeps any portion of its population in subjection. Caesar indeed had his Brutus, and Charles I his Cromwell; George III did not profit by their examples, but we who flatter ourselves that we bear the white man's burden will do well to consider the logical consequences of our present policies.

"America, America, God shed His grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea."

Organ Recital, In Voorhees Chapel

BY

FRANK R. NEFF, JR., '33

Sunday, December 11, 1932, 4:15 P. M.

Hymn Tune: The First Noel - - - - - - - - (Traditional)
Little Prelude and Fugue IV., F Major - - - - - - Bach
Coronation March (The Prophet) - - - - - - - Meyerbeer
Three Old Christmas Carols—
I.—Deck the Halls - - - - - - - - - (Old Welsh)
II.—In Excelsis Gloria - - - - - - - - (Unknown)
III.—Divinum Mysterium - - - - - - - - (Plainsong)
Sarsbande—"We, Three Kings of Orient, Are" - - - - Cutler
Angelus (Scenes Pittoresque) - - - - - - - Massenet
Four Numbers from The Messiah - - - - - - - Handel
I.—Overture
II.—Pastoral Symphony
III.—Glory to God Chorus
IV.—Hallelujah Chorus*

*The audience is requested to stand during the rendering of the Hallelujah Chorus.

Mrs. Alexander Speaks To Faculty Class On "Why I Like Browning"

Dr. Hunter Reads Selections To Supplement Interesting Lecture

Colors of the approaching Christmas season furnished the decorative motif at the December meeting of the Faculty Club last Tuesday evening. Pine and cedar were arranged down the center of the table, and in them were small Christmas socks filled with peanuts and candy. The place cards carried Christmas greetings, in addition to the names of the M. A.s and Ph.D.s.

The speaker for the evening was Mrs. J. B. S. Alexander, whose subject was "Why I Like Browning". Mrs. Alexander's first characterization of the Victorian poet was "our greatest Christian poet." The religious note in his poetry, said Mrs. Alexander, indicates a belief in a personal Christ, and in a certain immortality. In the doubt and gloom of the mid-nineteenth century Browning's faith was triumphant. In his "The Ring and the Book" he traces the evolution of religious ideas, emphasizing that evil only reveals good, and thus may be one of the chief factors in the development of man.

Mrs. Alexander's address was supplimented by selections from Browning read by Dr. Hunter.

DR. ISAAC ANDERSON

(Continued from page one)

the cover is "Isaac Anderson Memorial—by Samuel Tyndale Wilson."

Throughout his life Dr. Wilson has been interested in history and biography. Much of his writing has been in that field. Like others of his books this last one reflects his unusual ability at gathering accurate material and his fine style of writing. In his treatment of the life of Dr. Anderson, who not only founded the College but was its president of 38 years, Dr. Wilson reveals his own understanding of those times, of the character of Dr. Anderson, and of the fundamental purposes back of the College, and with all he reveals his own vision and generous spirit.

Any who may wish copies of the book for themselves or as Christmas gifts to friends who might be interested may secure them at $1.00 a copy in the Registrar's Office. The books will be mailed postpaid if desired.

THE BAT

(Continued From Page One)

way, and carrying with it a note addressed to Cornelia reading "Take warning. Leave this house at once! It is threatened with disaster, which will involve you if you remain."

Through the atmosphere created by these details the play proceeds through three acts of exciting rumors, clues, and real mystery. "The Bat" has been acclaimed on the stage and on the screen as one of the most successful mystery dramas ever presented to the American public. Next Monday evening it will be interpreted on Voorhees Chapel stage by a cast composed of members of Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon Literary Society members.

NOW WE'D SUGGEST

(Continued from page one)

this list you make, choose all objects financially valued at ten dollars or less and you are prepared to decide what to buy your roommate for Christmas.

There are several ways to decide this. One way that usually works is to go to town with her some day when she plans to buy a gift for someone else. Her choice for her frind is usually a good indication of what her choice for herself would be. Then there is always the method of hinting. Find out whether she liks beruffled lady powder boxes or Shakespeare's Complete Works, by insisting that you like them both.

Perhaps the best way to settle the quesion of a gift for the roommate is to buy something for the room. In that case the displeasure, if the gift is not satisfactory, is reduced by half, you have, at least, bought something that you like.

THESE HISTORIANS

(Continued from page three)

to Troy. The Trojans saw the whale and thinking it was a gift from the gods, they brought it into the city with much rejoicing. That night while they slept Ponce, having been in its belly three days, stole forth and decided to overthrow Troy.

"What shall I report you as having said on his historic occasion?" asked a reporter.

"Make it veni, vidi, vici." Just then Troy tripped and fell.

Martin Luther died a horrible death. He was excommunicated by a bull.

OBSERVATIONS

(Continued From Page One)

sweetheart. Some of its uses were to neck, to pet, to kiss, and to perform the many other trite duties arising during an evening's entertainment.

—o—

We're hoping to see one on the campus before long . . . Clark Lathan must have had something like that in mind to enjoy during the cold winter months; at least we can't understand just how he can stand the cold campus benches or the scrutiny of Miss Molly; we guess one is as comfortable as another.

—o—

It has been generally known for some time across the campus that Mrs. West is serving in the capacity of a competent intructor in expression, play directing, and whatnot, but the fact that she made her debut on the Bainonian program sheet Monday night as a coach startled us all. Here follows a brief excerpt from the sheet:

Ethel - - - Helen Thompson
Kittie Van Dyck - - Ruth Boyd
The Porter - - Reeder Carson
Conductor - - Andrew Newcomer
Coach - - - - - - Mrs. West

As almost everyone knows, the plot was centered around a railroad journey. Well. . . .

—o—

When your good ole observer trudged over the hills to the wildernesses of Maryville College, he had an idea that the philosophy of a freshman could be contained in such a short form as he has since learned that it can be. The following quotation owes its originality to one of the local washwomen.

"You can always tell a freshman by the way he wants his washing done. When he first gets here, he wants all the strach possible put in his shirts. I reckon he thinks it is smart to wear starched shirts all the time. But I notice when he graduates, he always wears soft shirts."

The usual saying is that what a freshman knows can be poured into a nutshell, but here we are inclined to believe that it all lies in a couple of starched shirts. Now that we've turned on the spotlight, see if you can pick out a freshman by this new coat of arms—or starch.

—o—

Little curly headed G. F. Greiner had a date the other afternoon. Yes sir, and when he came to rest in Carnegie, he sat down and wrote a poem. We won't hesitate to mention who the lucky girl was; it was Helen Rusk. No, it's not what you're thinking; he wasn't lovesick. Here's what it's all about:

When G. F. reached his room, that southern gentleman, Holder, sitting placidly at his desk, bemoaned his sad plight with the expression: "Gee, I wish I had a girrul". Immediately Herr Greiner wrote a poem which appears in this week's issue.

Now, we're not casting any reflections, or even fish nets, but the poem sounded as if it contained Greiner's idea of the afternoon, mixed with his pity for Holder. You're entitled to your interpretation, however.

—o—

Dr. Lloyd doesn't let the Vesper Choir bother him a bit; he sings right with it. We were surprised a little, to say the least, to hear his deep voice issuing from the stage Wednesday morning, and we kind of looked for someone with a handkerchief and a cold, but we finally saw our good President's lips moving. No sir, we were glad to hear him up there because the choir needed him..

WHAT IS A BOOGER

(Continued From Page One)

the boogers. It is less tangible today, perhaps, than formerly, because it is more remote and appears more rarely. And yet today it is the author of greater terror, greater horror, than ever before. The people of olden days lived in pepetual contact with war, warriors, and the idea of war. They had their burned homes, their razed cities, their widows, and their slaves. But it was all a matter of course. War then was elemental and had little of the diabolical refinement of brutality which we find nowadays. War was not nearly so much of a booger then as it is now, when we fight only once in a quarter of a century—when we have societies and councils of learned men to strive their futile best against the booger War. There is an ever-present dread, an ever-present fear, which is not imaginary, but all too real, of whole nations, whole continents, being desolated by the guns and the gasses and the birds of the sinister genius of modern warfare. Man today lives in endless terror, so to speak, of those four ghosts created, nursed, and sustained by his own malevolent cunning in the evolution of his civilization—the Apocalyptic Four Horsemen—Conquest, Struggle, Famine and Death. When they run their spectral roll across the countryside their press agent is fear. They are fear, and in their wake comes a fearsome thing to direct them, the Booger War, which gloats over them, and approves them with a malignant chuckle, and calls them "his children". When they disappear in the murk of the bloody horizon the people sob with relief, and Thank God, and then find that they have another booger to contend with.

Call him anything, for greater familiarity, that you will, but you will always pale before the gaunt, hungry, ravenous fear that is the fear of poverty. He lurks in the populous places of the world as well as in the barren hill-sides, the ruined fields, the devastated crops. Poverty can be guided to a hearthstone by a tax-gatherer's greasy pen, or turned loose by a mill-owner's aristocratic, greedy hand. Povcongestion, and feeds on the sores and callouses of industrial labor. It erty thrives in the sweat of human finds an excuse in the fear of communists, socialists, and foreigners, which fear is not a booger, but a bogey, because it is an imaginary creature fostered and encouraged by the capitalists, the bureaucrats, the mill and mine owners, the politicians and the Sunday School teachers. There was once a time, in support of M. Rousseau, when poverty had no place in the human vocabulary. Perhaps he is right. We cannot say. But certainly we have today the product of a fecund, discontented humanity in Poverty—another of the spawn of Civilization.

I once was beguiled into taking a basket of food to a starving family. It was in a mill town. The man had worked years for the mill on what his captains of Industry considered a living wage. He had worked so long and so hard that he bent his back, and dimmed his eyes, and weakened his lungs. He had gone hundreds of dollars in debt to the company commissary for food. When he was no longer useful, they told him one night that he needn't come back. Now he lay on a dirty bed, coughing his lungs out, starving, dying, and yet owned, body and soul, and family, by the mill, which was waiting for his two boys to work, and work, and work, and pay off their father's debt, and contract new ones, and live and die as slaves, to an industrialization inordinately capitalistic. I looked at them, standing at the head of their father's bed, one eight and one ten years old, pale, wan, stupid-looking, and I asked myself how much they would be able to stand until they too were broken and conquered by the booger Poverty.

The man on the bed talked for half an hour, with spasmodic curses and coughs, denouncing his superiors the mill owners in terms so bitter and convincing that I admired the force in his arguments.

But when I told of it later to some bourgeois friends, they sneered, and one exclaimed—"That ignorant fool!"

Yes, that ignorant fool! He was ignorant, as books and bourgeois ideals go. He had lived a life of poverty and work. He had been hounded all his life by the fear of what his ignorance would do to him, to his children. In addition to living under the domination of the booger Poverty, he lived under the domination of the booger Ignorance. The booger Ignorance it is which has driven men, and spurred them on, harnessing them to this mad chimera which we call the progress of the world.

Then there is the booger Lawlessness. There is the booger Evil. There is the booger Insanity. There is the booger Disease and the booger Death. But these are different boogers, may we say, from the boogers War, Poverty, and Ignorance. These three belong in a separate category, that of the boogers patronized, fostered and encouraged by the greatest booger of them all—Civilization.

Whether or not M. Rousseau, in his plea for us to go "back to Nature", was right or wrong, we do not say. We leave that to fundamentalists who believe in the right and the wrong of things. But may I say that fear as we know it is a product of civilization, of progress. Oh, to be sure, savage people fear. They fear spirits, and goblins, and the things which cause the floods, and the storms, and the earthquakes. But to a great degree their fear is the fear of bogeys, of imaginary things, which are, after all, of less magnitude and terror than the boogers we fear, which are real—the boogers which go hand in hand with our skyscrapers, our museums, our books, and our aims. Civilization has given us our cities, slums, and automobiles. It has given us a frenzied, eager, anxious existence. It has given us subtlety and refinement. It has given us the overgrown forms of the boogers Ignorance, Poverty, and War. But whether it is heading us for the millenium, as the scientists say, to damnation, as churchmen say, or to the end of the cycle and barbarism again, as some philosophers say, we dare not try to guess.

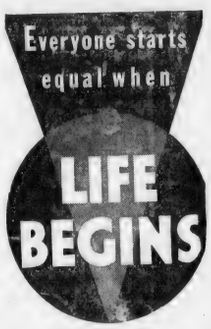
Certain it is that life today is a constant fight with boogers. And not the least of these are Ignorance, Poverty, and War. Of these three, there is another booger, behind them all, which is to be watched, and guarded against, and restrained more than any other—the booger Civilization. . . .

I often think of these two Russians, with their eagerness for a knowledge of what they fondly imagined to be good English, wanting to know what a "booger" was.

My grandfather couldn't explain. He didn't know what a booger was. But I know what a booger is. . . .

A murder is committed every forty minutes in these United States; it is perhaps a mere coincidence that that is also the length of the usual after-dinner speech.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

YE SHIRTSNIPPERS



(Continued From Page One)

dust pan that they would like to borrow for a few months. Won't someone please get them one for Christmas?

Now, here's one that we intend to try sometime. We have in our fortunate possession a man who can boast of at least thirty shirts. Your writer heard him confess the fact between his own Pearson mangled teeth. (We heard that they were mangled by chewing the rag). You know, it shakes us to the very smallest toe nail to hear of a single man owning thirty shirts, there being only seven days in the week. But, to get back, we think it might be a good idea, or at least an experiment, for him to hang his thirty shirts all in a row and snip them off as the days come around, so that he could more easily see the horizon of the coming vacation. That is about the only way in which the boys from West Dodge Avenue could copy the Memorialites' new fashion.

You may count all you please, you may cut up all the shirts your wardrobe will grant, or you may even try to snitch a little to make yourself feel better about it; but whatever you do, vacation is still sixteen days, three hours, and thirty minutes off at the time of writing. And before we leave, we grant all the girlies from the three dormies to cut all the dollies they care to, so that they may keepie their nimble fingers in perfect trimie for the days of rest slugsligenglipercagfflumpff.

Children Not Admitted

The mantle of life falls on rich and poor alike . . . it levels the barriers of color and creed. That's why you'll be thrilled past understanding. Here's life in all its reality for the first time on the screen.

Life BEGINS

WITH LORETTA YOUNG
ERIC LINDEN
ALINE MacMAHON
GLENDA FARRELL

Palace Theatre
NEXT WEEK
MONDAY-TUESDAY

TIES that make Distinctive Gifts

50c to $1.00

These ties are not just the ordinary, proverbial gift suggestions—they are distinguished additions to a man's wardrobe.

Proffitt's
MEN'S DEPARTMENT
See our beautiful display of other gifts

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 — THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, DECEMBER 17, 1932 — NUMBER THIRTEEN

Professor Cloeting Speaks To Members Of Theta Alpha Phi

Leader Emphasizes Fact That Theta Alpha Phi Is Honorary Organization

"I guess it's the smell of the grease paint," said Prof. A. P. Cloeting to the members and prospective members of Tennessee Alpha chapter of Theta Alpha Phi in an informal meeting Tuesday afternoon. "I guess it's because of the smell of the grease paint that I can't stay away from my job."

Prof. Cloeting who was on the campus Tuesday, is secretary-treasurer of Theta Alpha Phi, national honorary dramatic fraternity. He is spending his Sabbatical leave from the speech department of Pennsylvania State College visiting the local chapters of the fraternity. Since September he has visited 35 colleges and every significant Little Theatre east of the Rockies.

In his talk to the Maryville chapter Prof. Cloeting emphasized the fact that Theta Alpha Phi is an honorary organization.

"Everyone who knows anything about education knows about Phi Beta Kappa, and everyone who knows anything about dramatics should know about Theta Alpha Phi."

Prof. Cloeting characterized the hazing type of nitiation as undignified, and protested that Theta Alpha Phi is not a rah-rah fraternity.

"On a campus in Louisiana," said he, "I met a man who had nine medals on his watch-chain and five pins on his vest. You can't tell me that he earned those fourteen insignia. It's a physical impossibility. Theta Alpha Phi is not such an easily acquired honor."

Another value of Theta Alpha Phi to its members, according to Prof. Cloeting, is the social side of the organization. Chapters are made up of congenial groups with a common interest.

"It's the smell of the grease paint that holds us together," he said.

He thinks that monthly or bi-monthly meetings at which the members "sit around and chew the dramatic rag" have a definite value to them as social beings..

Theta Alpha Phi, also, is a means of keeping contact with the theatre, which is the temple of Art.

"Last summer," said the professor, "I visited Stratford-on-Avon. At New Place I sat down in a chair, and saw the whole train of Shakespearean characters troup across the room. There were Olivia and Desdemonia, Falstaff, Puck, Bottom, Viola, Rosalind, Macbeth and Lady Macbeth, Othelo, Iago, Hamlet.

"Presently in came the gay bard himself. I said, 'Hello, Bill.'

"And he said, 'Hello, Art.'

(Continued On Page Four)

How necessary and welcome holidays are! After the steady push of work from September until December, there is joy in freedom from the usual obligations and schedule.

How strong is the pull homeward after an extended absence! And it is one of life's most satisfying experiences to find that the folk at home are counting the days also.

That the coming holidays, wherever spent, may be happy and profitable and that the New Year may present enlarged opportunities for every Maryville College person is my sincere wish.

RALPH WALDO LLOYD

Novel Program Will Be Given Sunday Night By Vesper Choir

Cornet Quartet Will Accompany Choir; New Soloists Will Be Heard

Tomorrow evening, at the regular vesper service in Voorhees Chapel, the Vesper Choir will present its annual Christmas program. An attractive list of Christmas Anthems has been arranged composing a program which will deviate from the customary cantata and singing of carols. The program will be divided into three parts with the choir singing the opening chorus, the girls' chorus following in two selections, the men's chorus singing three selections, and the choir as a unit closing with the Hallelujah Chorus.

The choir will be accompanied by a trumpet quartet composed of Gordon Karnell, James Laing, John Phay, and James Stevenson. Miss Susan Howard and Miss Carrie Pearson will accompany the cornetists. The soloists for the evening are Norma Spilatore, Marie Carlson, Peter Hamilton, William Greenawalt, Sam Wade, and Donnell McArthur. Dr. Stevenson will bring a short Christmas message.

The complete program follows:

Opening Chorus
Heavens Resound - Beethoven
Girls' Chorus
Night Divine - - - - Adams
Calm on List'ning Ear - Worthing
Men's Chorus
The Shepherd's Story - Dickinson
Shepherds and the Inn - - Mexican carol
Hark, What Mean Those Holy Voices - - - - Bliss
Choir
Hallelujah Chorus - - - Handel
(from the Messiah)

SPANISH CLUB

The Spanish Club met Wednesday night in Bainonian Hall. The meeting was conducted entirely in Spanish; carols were sung, conversation carried on, and stories were told in Spanish.

Translation Of Goethe Is Read By Dr. Shine In Writer's Workshop

Three Poems and Prose Selection Are Read By Dean Hunter

A translation of a fragment from Goethe and three poems read at the regular meeting of the Writer's Workshop on Wednesday furnished one of the most stimulating programs of that organization this year.

Dr. Shine's initial contribution to the Workshop was a translation of one of the choruses in Goethe's fragmentary drama "Prometheus". This drama is from the pen of the young Goethe, and is indicative of the early ardors of his ambitious and rebellious spirit which, in the later poet, was tempered with a universal kindness.

The legend of Prometheus used by the German poet is the less widely known one of the creation of man by the legendary Prometheus. The chorus in question is a defiance flung to the gods by the rebellious, aspiring Prometheus.

Dr. Shine's translation maintained the original form of the fragment, and the meaning suffered little for it. The remarkable strength of the original was transmitted to the English with no loss of power, and in a few places with a gain. The difficulty encountered in the extreme compactness of the German words was successfully met, and the further difficulty of the use of German words for which there is no equivalent English word or words was mastered in most places.

Dr. Hunter's contribution for this semester was three poems and a prose sketch. The first poem read was entitled "Lucifer Remembers". The form was quatrain, and the idea returned to the old legend of Satan's answer when, asked what he missed most in his banishment from Heaven, he replied, "the sound of the trumpets in the morning".

The second poem was free verse, having the title "A Romantic Point of View". The Dean herein held a dramatic monologue with the prospective Christmas tree for his household, at first lamenting the pending fate of the young cedar, and then confessing that, without the tree, he could not look into a pair of five-year old eyes.

The third poem was a sonnet, "Harper Library Exit, 10 p. m.",

(Continued on page four)

Organist To Play Program Of Carols In Voorhees Chapel

At 6:00 a. m. Sunday, and at 9:15 p. m., Tuesday, an organ program of Christmas carols will be broadcast from one of the balcony windows of Voorhees Chapel. The program will include twenty numbers on Sunday morning and twenty-eight on Tuesday evening. The program for Tuesday is printed below. The numbers to be omitted on Sunday morning are indicated by an asterisk (*).

*Christmas Oratorio—Break Forth, O Beauteous Heavenly Light
*Messiah—Glory to God Chorus
Joy to the World
Good King Wencelas
Oh Christmas Morn
Christians, Awake
It Came Upon the Midnight Clear
Hark! the Herald Angels Sing
*Of the Father's Love Begotten
Deck the Halls
*Angels from the Realms of Glory
Canticle of Noel
*Sing We Noel
Away in a Manger (first tune)
Away in a Manger (second tune)
Shepherds, Shake Off Your Drowsy Sleep
We Three Kings of Orient Are God Rest You Merry, Gentlemen
In Excelsis Gloria
O Come, All Ye Faithful
*Hark, a Thrilling Voice
While Shepherds Watched Their Flocks by Night
O Little Town of Bethlehem
Shout the Glad Tidings
Once in Royal David's City
The First Nogl
*Silent Night! Holy Night!
*Messiah—Hallelujah Chorus

Maryville Students Will Spend Heavily On Christmas Trip

Private Automobile Is Chosen As Most Reliable Conveyance To Promised Land

The report of the student body concerning the exodus, and the return were of great interest, and proved, arithmetically, to be quite a problem. The reports were depleted in number due to hesitancy on the part of some students, mostly girls, to indicate publicly their way of travel.

The purpose of the report was to gather, in some fashion, statistics concerning the method of travel and the amount of money being spent to travel, by Maryville students. As regards totality, the report would necessarily be null and void, but for an average, it is, no doubt, a representative average.

The amount of money being spent was of great interest, and mounted to huge proportions. Great hesitancy possessed the students in reporting the amount they will spend over the vacation. The average amount for each student, spent for carfare, or for gas and oil in the case of students who will drive, was $15.97. The total amount, if this average should be held true, would amount to near $12,000. This is easily explained when it is considered that almost half the student body will travel over seven hundred miles on the vacation. A great number will travel over 1500 miles, and of these students, many of them will employ the hitch-hike method for covering the miles. The longest hitch-hike trip was that of a student going to Kississimee, Florida. The round trip is 2,900 miles. Other students will attempt to bum 1500 miles and over, a number of them going almost directly north.

A few students are still undecided as to mode of travel. Of those who have decided, the greatest number will go by automobiles, many of them being fortunate enough to have a member of the family drive here for them. Others will travel in the cars that have graced the campus all season. Next to automobile, the bus seems to be most popular. Of four hundred students designating their mode of travel, 100 will go by bus. Half that number will take the train and a smaller number yet will rely on the "thumb in the air" method to bring them to their resting place.

Last Of Leap Year Parties Is Given Tonight In Thaw

After the "As you like it" party to be held at Thaw Hall tonght, the Leap Year of nineteen hundred thirty-two will fast fade into history. Tonight's melee will mark the third and last of the series, the other two having been held last spring. The young ladies of the institution are requested to call by Carnegie for their chosen ones on time; the gentlemen must not be kept waiting.

Rook, Ping-Pong Checkers, Touring, etc., will be the subjects of tonight's blowout. Although the party tonight will be of the same type as that of its predecessors, the future holds some promise of a diversion. It happens that the College is the proud possessor of a moving picture machine which, unfortunately, has not been subjected to its maximum of usefulness. In the future, the students will enjoy comedies and vaudeville acts at the "As you have to like its".

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club met Wednesday night with the following program: Ruth Bayless read an article on "What Home Economics Means to the American Boy and Girl". Louise Cline played several Christmas numbers on the violin. Veta Mae Stevens read a Christmas poem. The meeting was concluded with singing Christmas carols.

I wish for the students (so-called) of Maryville College an un-dean-like Christmas wish. I wish you a Merry Christmas, free from thoughts of books and tests and professors, with sweet dreams o' nights, dreams of sugar plums and dates and moonshine, with no nightmariah phantoms of "F's" and ominous summonses to the Dean's office. My New Year's wish is more dean-like. I wish you a Happy New Year with a hopeful return to the Hill, to books and study hours and the somnolent influence of professors' voices. And may your resolutions for 1933 result in "A's" and "B's" and grade points and fulfilled requirements and a sense of duty well done.

—Edwin R. Hunter

Mixed Chorus Will Give Delightful Program Monday Evening

Christmas Music on Chimes Will Add To Attractiveness Of Program

The YMCA and YWCA have arranged an interesting Campus Christmas Service for Monday, December 19, at 7:30 p. m. The program will be presented from the porch in front of Thaw Hall. The porch will be decorated and a well-lighted tree on the campus will add to the effectiveness of the program.

A mixed chorus of sixteen voices has been chosen, and Miss Frances Henry, assisted by members of the Girls' Glee Club, has prepared a Christmas pantomime. A distinctive part of the service will be the playing of Christmas music on chimes. Below is the entire program:

O Fir Tree Dark - - - Chimes
O Fir Tree Dark - - - Chorus
Dedication of the Tree
Prayer
Prayer
Silent Night - - - Chimes
Cantique de Noel - Mrs. E. Topalian
Miss M. Purviance
Oh Little Town of Bethlehem - - Chorus
Hark the Herald Angels Sing - Chorus
Away in a Manger - - Chimes
We Three Kings of Orient Are - A. Courtenay, A. Alexander, C. Orner
Gesu Bambino - - Miss F. Henry assisted by Girls' Glee Club
Noel, Noel - - - - Chorus
It Came Upon a Midnight Clear - Mrs. E. Topalian, Miss M. Purviance
Joy to The World - - Chimes Audience
Benediction

Modern woman's fondest wish is to be weighed and found wanting.—

Another thing this world needs is a grapefruit that can yell, "Fore!" —Judge.

Faculty Will Spend Christmas Holidays In Twelve States

Maryville Claims Majority Of Instructors; Others Visit Away

In accordance with the precedent set by the students during the past century, the faculty of Maryville College are also making plans preparatory to spending vacations during the approaching Christmas season.

The magnetic pull of the city of Maryville seems to be stronger than any other possible holiday resort, for twenty-six of the instructors will spend their leave of absence here. That number is composed of Dr. Lloyd, Dr. Hunter, Dr. Shine, Dr. Knapp, Dr. McMurray, who promises a family reunion, Prof. Ellis, Prof. Lagerstedt, Prof. Thrower, Prof. Kiger, Mr. Proffitt, Mr. Black, Prof. Walker, Prof. Howell, Miss Wilkinson, Miss Gamble, Mrs. Alexander, Mrs. Worley, Miss Calwdell, Miss Darby, Mrs. Proffitt, Miss Beebe, Miss Bassett, Miss Clemmie Henry, Mrs. Newberry, Miss Clemens, and Miss Heron.

Ike-union with families and homes takes eighteen of the faculty to points of interest all the way from Florida to Wisconsin. Miss Anna Jones will tour the extreme Southern state in an automobile, dividing her time between the east coast first, and the west coast last. Miss Meiselwitz will go to her home in Wisconsin. Miss Josephine Hunter will visit her family in Pittsburgh. Miss Virginia Kennedy will spend the holidays with her family in Montgomery, Alabama. Miss Susan Howard goes by train to her home in Paris, Kentucky. Miss Holland will go to Selma, Alabama, to see her mother. Mrs. West, the other half of the expression department, will spend some time with her sister Mrs. C. F. Crowder in Maryville, and after Christmas will visit her daughter at Emory and Henry College. Mrs. Butcher and Miss Butcher will be at their home in Knoxville. Knoxville will also claim Miss Kellar, who will spend the time at her home; Miss Johnson, who will stay with her sister, and Mrs. Hall, who will stay with her daughters. Miss Jewell will visit her sister in Benton, Tennessee. Prof. and Mrs. Davis wil drive to Kansas City and Marshall, Missouri, to visit relatives. Prof. Honaker may go to his home in Wytheville, Virginia. Miss Hudson, and Miss Carroll, two essential elements in the Biology Department, will pend the vacation at their respective homes, which are in Cookeville and Morristown, Tennessee. Miss Bird is going to her home in Jefferson City, Tennessee. Miss Coulter will visit her family in Walland, Tennessee. Miss Frances Henry will return to her home in Mount Sterling, Kentucky. She will travel to Lexington with Dr. and Mrs. Fields, who are going to Ohio.

(Continued On Page Four)

ADDED AVOIRDUPOIS

(by Eliazbeth Kunkel)

At last the time has come for the show down. In another week I must face my fond family. There is just one question that troubles me.

For the past three months I have in my letters painted dreary pictures of back-breaking labor and brain-racking study. Perhaps I may have even intimated that I have lost all interest in life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness and that I am now entirely devoted to the pursuit of knowledge.

I have, with all due respect to Pearsons' corn bread and molasses, complained at length about the nature of my daily sustenance and longed for the time when I can have my three squares a day.

And now, with this as a background I must greet my folk with a net increase in avordupois of any where from ten to twenty-five pounds. Just one comprehensive glance from Mother and all her loving schemes for my vacation will vanish.

There is no need now for her to concoct all those tempting dishes to whet my lanquid appetite; no need now to plan delightful parties and amusements to take her dear daughter's mind from studies and bring back rosy cheeks and robust health.

There must be no way out of my predicament. Night after night I have bent and twisted in all sorts of gymnastics. The underweight exercises prescribed in September have gradually been supplanted by the omst strenuous overweight workouts. Each morning I rise with a firm resolution not to eat that fourth biscuit. Each morning that resolution wanes with the scent of warm brown biscuits covered with sweet "goo".

Still I am gaining. The larger I grow, the smaller grows my wardrobe, and the larger grows that of my smaller sister.

The day of my exodus draws near, and with it the growing assurance that I can never return home as stylishly slim as I was before. I can not rid myself of a guilty feeling that I have intentionally given my family, a very wrong impression . . . an impression which is bound to appear decidedly incongruous with this perfectly disgusting good health!

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

(by Bryan Payne)

Having spent the week between two somewhat equally hot fires, not having fully accounted to the paternal side of the family for the last allowance, and not yet having accounted to the editor of the local wish-wash for a feature article supposed to have been written in the earlier stages of the week, we find it comforting, to say the least, to get the latter underway, since we cannot hope to accomplish the former. First hopefully, then dejectedly we hurry through a list of possibilities: "Sweeney's Ford", "This Flu Epidemic", and we might even use "Paxton's Room" in a pinch; but suddenly we find that we would like to elucidate a little on the various "buggy rides" that the boys are going to take before long.

As we look out our blood stained windows, (they were stained because of the fellows who tried to get "too close" while gazing toward Memorial), at the growing junk pile beneath us, we can't help but offer a prayer of some sort for those who will grace those tin fenders and ragged seats for the ride home next week. Every day the papers carry a couple of lines telling about the ten and twelve feet snow drifts which are greedily waiting to catch poor Maryvillians in their exodus from ye institution. But even those few lines don't daunt them there snow-eaters from the Adirondacks; they love it. Well, let 'em love it; we're not jealous, not we; we're just puny, we reckon, we do.

It is not without some few side-stitches from laughter that we look languidly down upon that mass of motionery, consisting of a starter, long dead and embalmed, a hulk big enough for three Fords, and a few strips of rubber erroneously called tires. If we're not mistaken, it bears the name, "Packard"!

Well, here's a fact. It burns eight gallons of gas to the mile. (A few reservations to that, among which is our recognized ability to lie like a freshman.) Nine "depression victims" are going nine or ten hundred miles in it, but they are all afraid to make predictions on their return. Well, we're afraid to also; only we hope that the buggy, buggy doesn't freeze on them, for we no-

(Continued On Page Four)

THE HIGHL AND ECHO

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSO CIATE EDITORS

KAY CARPENTER - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, December 17, 1932

What Can We Do?

An editorial comment at this stage of the school year will mean as much, probably, to a student body as a request by the Dean to stay over one day longer before leaving for home. It just doesn't mean much. One thing is preoccupying everyone's mind just now, and for one person to attempt to divert any person's mind from his "chief aim in life" would be downright foolishness.

Of course, the editor feels that it is downright foolishness for a student body to spend $12,000 simply to go home and spend Christmas. That money, in individual piles, or in bulk, could surely be used to a very great advantage otherwise. He also feels that to go home at this time of year involves a certain amount of foolishness, largely because it encourages the student to forget the little that he has been able to grasp. After vacation, we come back to Maryville, and like the traditional ton of bricks, our studies hit us so hard that we hardly recover. Mid-term vacation does little to appease our feelings toward our professors who have treated us unseemly. We might go on ad infinitum explaining alternately the advantages of having no Christmas vacation, and the disadvantages of going home, but we have to hurry this along in order to get packed up. Time and tide, someone said, wait for no man. We're particularly concerned in this case with time.

In the event that we are going home, at least we are going apart, this department of information and all the cohorts would like to extend to every person in the College, our best Christmas wishes.

An Active Organization

To an observer who has spent all of his college existence in Maryville, it seems quite obvious that the advance of one organization, The Student Volunteers, has assumed remarkable proportions.

From a mere handful in the beginning, this group has taken responsibility, increased its scope, and has added a large number to its membership.

One important feature of the organization is the Student Volunteer World News Bulletin which originated in 1931. This recent innovation has added to the prestige of the Volunteers and has lent largely toward creating the reputation that the group has—that of being the only active organization on the campus.

While the Student Volunteers are primarily a group of students preparing for the missionary work in the foreign field, their program and their purposes are general enough to attract students of other pursuits.

For their successful efforts at advance, and for their willingness to cooperate with other organizations the Student Volunteers have earned the respect of both the students and the faculty on the Hill.

WORLD TODAY

Another world record has been set recently, and this time it is for flying upside down. Michael Detroyat, French speed and acrobatic pilot, flew for twenty-six minutes two and two-fifths seconds in that manner in a small stunt plane above the field at Villacoublay, France.

—MC—

And here's another one on that well-worn subject "excuses". Pierre Lauranaudie, a French wine merchant, attempted to slip past the customs officers with twenty-one quarts of wine to be used for "illustrated lecture purposes". Upon the flat refusal of the United States government to admit him and his "lecture materal", he turned sadly toward France carrying his wine.

—MC—

Bolivia and Paraguay are at war in somewhat the same manner that Japan and China are; no one has yet declared it. Reports come from La Paz, Bolivia, that army tanks are being used with huge success. Unofficial reports from Fort Munoz state that the Bolivian cavalry forced the Paraguayans to beat a hasty retreat from the Fort Cuatro Vientos sector. The estimate of Paraguayan dead has been set at 1400.

—MC—

The Soviet government of Russia has resolved to tighten the discipline for the "Reds". A plan by which the three million members of the Communist party will be subjected to a purge is being formulated and put into action. The new plan states that the true party member "must know the party program, its most important decisions and decrees and how to apply them, and must keep the party discipline.

—MC—

Chairman Borah, of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, has suggested that the United States Government pay thirty thousand dollars to Mexico as an act of grace on the part of the United States for the slaying of two Mexican youths on June 7, 1931 by deputy sheriffs of Ardmore, Oklahoma. He adds, "without reference to the question of legal liability."

—MC—

The news comes from Geneva that diplomatic relations between Russia and China have been resumed. It was pointed out that China, not Russia, had broken the tie and had suffered noticeably from it.

—MC—

Premier Mussolini has offered the name of Augusto Torati, for five years the secretary of the Fascist party, to be stricken from the membership rolls. Italy's dictator gives as his reason that Torati had been found writing letters of a scandalous nature.

—MC—

Germany, now aiming for party in arms, claims that the battle for disarmament is only beginning. The Reich government will attempt to insure security by means of extensions of the Kellog pact, international law, and a maximum of disarmament.

—MC—

While the "lame duck" Congress is harranguing over light wines and beers, the European wine merchants make the statement that their wines are going to be "good and light". Throughout the list—Port, Bordeaux, Burgundy, Sherry, and Rhine valley wines—reports show that an interior quality will be gathered from the vineyards, as compared with the qualities of the preceding years.

—MC—

Dr. Joel Stebbins, astronomer at the University of Wisconsin, has made a discovery which leads him to believe that the distances to many stars have been greatly overestimated. For instance he says that some of the stars in the Milky Way are less than half the reported distance away. Due to the dust and gas particles in the air, Dr. Stebbins says that great mistakes in measurement have been made. He says, "Previous calculations of distance based on intensity of light have not taken account of the absorption of the light by these particles, and consequently the distances arrived at in many cases are too large."

—MC—

The names, deeds, and honors of some twenty-five thousand of the world's notables are recorded in the new edition of "Who's Who In The World" for the year 1933. The list includes many Americans, and although Josef Stalin, Dictator of the Russian Soviet, is not mentioned, Mahatma Ghandi is listed as a barrister and is accorded ten lines regarding his campaigns and his political importance. Col. Chas. A. Lindbergh was given eight lines and a wrong address—Hopewell, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

LITTLE CHURCH

Fundamentalist Criticises Some Fundamental Views on Missions

The purpose of this discourse is to clarify one of the main issues concerning Christian missions. Although I am opposed to liberalism in missions, I take this opportunity, rather than raise an issue with the liberals, simply to try getting the conservatives together on ground more solid than that on which many of them appear to me to be standing. It is my purpose, therefore, to attempt a partial interpretation of the Great Commission—"Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every ceature"—by proving three propositions.

The first proposition is that political divisions are impertinent to the missionary project. Such divisions are but man-made, whereas the Great Commission was of divine origin. They, like their promoters, are changing; the Author of the Great Commission is "the same yesterday, and to day, and for ever." They were not observed by the apostles in their obedience to the Great Commission, for St. Paul went to Rome, but St. James stayed home in Jerusalem.

Why should many Christians today think that in order to obey the command, "go", they must of necessity leave their fatherland? They contend, in effect, that Americans must leave America, Englishmen leave England, Italians leave Italy, if they are to be obedient missionaries. But such a philosohpy is really one of "leaving" rather than of "going". Besides, we can conceive easily of a French missionary in some destitute community in Alsace-Lorraine before the World War, who, upon signing of the treaty of Versailles, suddenly finds himself no longer a missionary because he is back in France, although still in Alsace-Lorraine. It is utterly asburd to insist on bringing political divisions into a consideration of the technical side of missions. They are impertinent to the question.

The second propostion is that the missionary's outlook on mission fields should be impartial. It should be on a basis of personal, rather than national, need. Many Christians have the brass to maintain, on their own authority, that the United States "has had her chance" while the "heathen" lands have not had theirs. Who made these Christians judges of the United States that they might decide when to deny her the gospel? What if there are more preachers to the square mile here than in Africa? Are they all proclaimers of the Truth? It is only too evident that the United States has not had a chance; there are countless thousands of persons here, many of whom perhaps have attended church regularly, who have never heard the gospel.

The third proposition is that the essence of "Go ye and preach" is simply the doing of the will of God, whether at home or abroad, whether in "sacred" or "secular" work. Christ told his apostles to go into "all the world", not into every land except their own native land. It is our business, not to close our minds to our own country, but to be just as willing to be in one land as in another. And we do not have to preach sermons to be missionaries. In Acts 1:8, Christ revealed that his idea of obedience to his commission to preach was that his apostles should be "witnesses" in every mundane province. St. Paul once stated that those who partook of the communion elements by that very act were preaching ("proclaiming") Christ.. It is quite evident that sermons and short, informal, devotional talks are not necessary to preaching, but that the missionary enterprise is simply one of doing the will of God in Christ, whether as a minister, an engineer, or a grocer; whether in Philadelphia, in Cape Town, or in Shanghai.

This discourse is not intended to slap missions in the face for I am strongly pro-missionary. But it seems to me that some of our zealous promoters of missions often lose their heads in the midst of their theorizing, and consequently discredit missions. The missionary project can best be helped by those who have taken the trouble to get a clear concept of it in its right perspective, which is one of Christian men and women trusting and following God for every step of the way, whether that way lead them into clerical or secular vocations, whether that way lead them into their own home-town or out to the ends of the earth.

—Frank R. Neff, Jr.

BALDWIN PARTY

Baldwin parlors will be the scene of a Christmas party tonight at eight o'clock. Miss Hunter is in charge of the program, which will be put on by the girls of each floor. The parlors will be decorated with include not only games, but stunts candles and wreaths.

Mystery Play Well Done According To Student Criticism

Large Audience Is Well Pleased With Alpha Sigma's Play "The Bat"

Producing the first mystery play since "The Black Flamingo", Alpha Sigma delighted a good sized audience last Monday night with the second of the midwinter plays, Mary Roberts Rhinehart's "The Bat".

The play follows the usual mystery play formula of suspicion on innocent characters, comedy relief in the right places, and a solution which the audience is not supposed to expect.

Extraordinary skill and good taste was shown in mounting the play. A convincing atmosphere was achieved and sustained with almost uniform success.

The defective lighting of the third act could have been prevented, were it possible under the exigencies of production here to hold a real dress rehearsal with the stage fully set, but this flaw was more than offset by the realistic storm in the first act. Mr. Lowe is to be commended on the short waits between acts and the absence of noise in the changing of scenes.

Most of the make-up was very good. The costume of the Bat was artfully contrived and cleverly manipulated.

The acting was almost uniformly good, with first honors probably shared by Miss Reichelderfer and Mr. Jamieson. Mr. Briggs, although below his usual standard, improved considerably in the last act.

Miss Mize carried the comedy part very well indeed. Mr. Schmidt played his part in a promising manner. Mr. West, Mr. Beyer, and Mr. Tope carried inconspicuous roles inconspicuously well done. Miss Masey managed the always difficult feat of the young actress who must interpret the role of an old woman.

A Scotch professional golfer, after fourteen years of retirement, has resumed the game. Evidently he found his ball.—New York Herald Tribune.

Book Browsing

Call Home The Heart, by Feilding Burke, Longmans, Greer and Co. New York 1932 432pp.

Call Home the Heart is an epic story in three movements of the mountains of Western North Carolina. Its heroine, Ishma Waycaster, is the descendant of one of the oldest families of the region. In the first movement she is working as a hand on her mother's mountain farm. She is different from her fellows, due to the influence of her maternal grandmother and her own good mind. She rebels against the sordid poverty and misery of her mountain life and wants to run away. She is held, however, by her love for the 'ballit' making Brit Hensley.

Finding life on Cloudy Knob with Brit only more burdensome, she runs away to a mill town, where she becomes interested in social work. All the while, however, she hears the call of her heart and the hills.

Since the title reveals the end of the story, we can feel no compunctions about telling that Ishma finally returns to Brit. She finds, however, radical changes on the old farm.

One of the best features of this book is the stark realism of its description. The life of the mountain people, who are always struggling against tales, forset fires, poor crops and every conceivable handicap, is described in a strikingly convincing manner. The description of the natural phenomena is also convincing. The use of moutain dialect adds to the impression of realism.

The principal value of the book, however, lies in its depictions of character. The struggles of Ishma for an understanding of life forms the framework of this. The crude, rugged mountain characters lend interest to these struggles.

The portion of the book devoted to the industrial struggle of the mill workers is one of the best done pieces ever written on this subject. The speech of the communist missionary and the reaction of the people is another of the very real spots in the story. "If the devil were asked to choose one instrument, and only one, for making earth a hell, he would choose poverty," says one character, and the lives of the mill workers convinces us of this.

The book ends by raising a question which the thoughtful reader may have ome difficulty in solving. This is done by the single sentence, "A cup, though full, is not the sea". And we are compelled to ask, "How long will the heart hold Ishma this time?" This just when we thought that she had learned.

"Beautiful and humorous as wel as grim," is a terse way of describing this novel.

Open Forum

Editor The Highland Echo:

For some time now there has been going on here a practice which, it seems to me, shouid be stopped. It concerns Bartlett Hall and its use by women. At least once a wee. those of us who have been playin handball in the second floor gymnasium have been summarily ousted by the entrance of a women's gym nastic class of some sort. There is simply nothing to do but leav when this class arrives. Now Bartlett Hall is our building. The Y. M. C. A.—not the college—built it, and we paid our dues to this organization through the college treasure in September. We, the members of the Association, have the purchase right to use the building. There are other places and times for women' gymnastic classes, but there is only one place for handball; and the women ethically should cease their un invited and often unexpected invasion of our territory.

—Joe Peery

Editor The Highland Echo:

It is to be hoped that the writer of this letter will not be accused of a lack of respect for that which is holy because he chooses to criticise the manner of its use. But when he has had to listen to the monotonously monthly reading of the Ten Commandments by students in the vesper services for a period of years, he is unable to keep silence any longer. While it is true, I suppose, that we can not hear too much of the Ten Commandments, it is also true that too much repetition renders them cold and meaningless.

And that is precisely what has happened here at Maryville College. So soon as we see our Christian student leaders come to the platform in a vesper service, we are sure of one thing, namely, that one of them soon will say: "Let us turn to the page in front of the first hymn, and read responsively the Ten Commandments." This fact conveys the impression that our Christian student leaders do not know how to read anything else, and both they and the holy moral code which they read (often against their wills) are ridiculed rather than reverenced. What we need around here is less of stereotyped custom and more of spontaneous worship, less of Old Testament ethics and more of New Testament life, less of law and more of grace. If our so-called "student services" are really to be such, let the wills of the students concerned have some part in the determining of their features.

—Phil Sorce

The Poetry Corner

DREAMING BY CHRISTMAS CANDLELIGHT

Dreaming, dreaming,
In the candlelight,
In the dusk of night;
Shadows are creeping
Like a soft downy feather;
Shadows are falling
Like a mist of the night;
A story is told, a story old,
A story I've longed to see:
As night speeds on.
The light shines on;
In the gleaming flame,
A star of fame,
Guides me—leads me,
To a manger of straw,
To a babe fast asleep,
In a slumber deep;
The wise men three,
And shepherds see,
The light glows bright,
And angels white,
Sing joys of the night.
The light is dimming,
Their voices grow faint,
The mist is coming,
The star disappears,
The bells stop ringing,
Lo! The vision is gone.
The mist grows heavy,
Darkness creeps on.
Like a swift black fawn,
Darkness enfolds me,
In arms secure;
Sleep comes and takes me,
As the candle goes out,
Yet—I keep on dreaming
Of the vision untold,
Dreaming, yes, dreaming
Secluded with darkkness.

—Helen Goldie Nakshion

IMMANUEL

When you spend your years
Till the end,
Seeing dawn glory,
Breathing sea winds,
Hearing warm songs,
And feeling world old pain,
You suddenly find
You know what God is.

—Kay Carepnter

HAUNTING MEMORY

To tread alone the bleak, interminable years
Were not so hard for me.
Many souls have risen to grey days,
Stepped to discordant music,
And filled long painless, payless hours
With trivialities,
Bread, work, dry knowledge.

'Tis exquisite irony, indeed,
That even this am I to be denied
By the curse this haunting aftermath,
Thy memory, gives.

—Kay Carepnter

INSUFFICIENCY

I.

God, since Thou hast given me
This cross I cannot bear,
Wilt thou forgive my weakness, then
My bitter, black despair?

II.

I would not be rebellious, Lord,
I try—but fail, you know,
And if I'm human, hopelessly—
'Tis Thou hast made me so.

III.

I recall now—God forgive
A thing thou saidst for me,
"My strength in weakness perfect is,
My grace enough for thee."

—Kay Carepnter

M CLUB MEETS

At a meeting of the "M" Club Tuesday night Mrs. Queener made a talk on "The Value of Dancing", and read an article from the Reader's Digest on "Poise". During the remainder of the meeting the members learned several folk dances.

SPORTS

Woodruffians Fall Victims Before Highlanders Floor Attack Led By Captain Lewis and Cherry

Knoxville Athletic House Give Scot Hardwood Squad a Tough Scrap But Are Finally Overcome

FIRST VICTORY

Last Minute Stratagem Saves Day For Maryvillians

In the first basketball game of the year, the Maryville basketeers defeated the Woodruff five in a fast, exciting game last night. The Scot offensive was practically irresistable, and the defensive was what might almot be termed impenetrable. At the half, the score stood tied at 3-3, but the fighting Maryvillians, led by Captain Yankee Lewis were not to be denied, and came back to win, 44-19.

It was the initial go of the year, and quite a number of moonshiners and townsfolk braved the snows of winter to see what Coach Honaker had wrought from is material. And they were not disappointed, for a well-rounded outfit was displayed. Captain Lewis, who played his usual game at forward, making 22 of the 44 points, was ably abetted by by Bob Cherry, who chalked up a total of 10 points. Haub, a newcomer was initiated as center, and Kiser and Stone performed most efficiently at guard.

The first half was very slow, no doubt because of the intense cold, which also showed up a few of the less persistent moonshiners. Nary a field goal was scored by either side during the entire first half, although Smith and Jones, of the opponents, came very nearly sinking a couple of shots, tryed from beneath their own goals.

After stirring pep-talks, however, players and moonshiners alike got off to a fast start in the second half. Haub began the festivities by neatly flipping the opening tip-off through the Maryville goal. A few seconds later Cherry tallied for the locals when he made good a pair free throws.

And so it went, until the middle of the second half. Then it happened. Just as Brown, of the visiting team, poised himself for a crip shot from the center of the floor, the lights went out. No one seemed to be able to locate the truble, and an assistant manager was sent to rouse electrician Toms. After three quarters of an hour's later, in which time the moonshiners miserably awaited the return of the light, Mr. Toms traced the trouble to the switchbox, where he found that some one had apparently turned the lights out.

Light being thrown on the subject once more, Brown, who had held his pose in the interim, shot for the basket and missed by a scant six feet. This left the score standing just as it was when the light went off, at 5-3, in favor of the locals. Enraged by the turn of affairs, the visitors called time out, to collect their scattered breaths. Play being resumed, they immediately put on a drive which netted fourteen points, making the score 19-5.

Captain Lewis then called time out, and made an after-dinner speech to his four cohorts. As only three minutes remained to play, it was clear that something had to be done. So he used strategy. He quickly concocted a fake play, in which both forwards clambered into the rafters, took the ball on the tip-off, and dropped it through the net. Needless to say, this completely baffled the Woodruffians, and the game ended three minutes later, 44 to 19.

Note:—This write-up of the game was written before news leaked out that the game was off. Now we ask you, could we refuse to run the story just because they didn't play the game?

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN TOPE, Representative

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

We had help with our home-work last week, and the editor of this weekly (no pun) demanded that we do so from now on. But he turned right around and made us be his lunch, so we decided to punish him by writing this column as long as we da--urn please. Of course, that's tough on our LONE READER (i. we mention her again we'll have to do it in the headlines), but we ruthlessly put that behind us and state;

—S—

The boys down in Georgia can't expect any free publicity this week. Reports state that the rain has plumb ruint all the basketball courts. They are standing in a foot of water, and even if the water were gone, the clay is too soggy to play on for several weeks yet. Cheer up, though, maybe they'll be oke again after Christmas.

—S—

A bit over two weeks now, and we'll be listening to the Rose Bowl classic, Pitt and Southern California. Personally, we don't have any doubts about who's going to win, albeit both teams triumphed over Notre Dame by two touchdowns. In spite of the score dope, however, we're wavering the family farm against a Princess Eugenie that the boys from the Hoover state will win easily. Now, who are we betting on?

—S—

We can't seem to get it into our br- - heads why papers insist on running sport pages in the interrenum between football and basketball. No wonder the mortality is so high among sporting editors! After the football team has everything, past, present, and future, said about it that could be said; and after the basketball team has been discussed, all it will stand, why not take a vacation until some sport activities commence? At least that's what we hear from all sides.

—S—

Maryville should organize a crew. Yes, you wisecrackers, we know all about the crews we already have, but we mean a rowing crew. The way Pistol Creek rose during the recent rains, 'twould make an excellent place for a regatta. Then, when nothing else could be found to do, we could have a class rowing tournament, with all the moonshiners perched on the rail of the Olde Bridgge.

—S—

And then we must tell about the absent minded professor's wife, who darned his socks.

Co-Ed Basketball Is Discontinued Until Post-Yule Season

Basketball practice for the women continues to indicate increasing interest and ability of prospective teams, both new and old.

The games to be played next year are beginning to advertise themselves by reason of such veterans as Kizer, Cooper, and Johnson being star players.

Following the history of former years, the interest of the student body is expected to increase the success of the approaching season.

A CHRISTMAS BULL SESSION

Echo Sportsters Turn Bard-Prognosticator

Athletic events came few and far between this week. So the sports staff, in collaboration, offers the following prediction of more than one family meeting this Christmas:

The Christmas fire shone brightly;
The room was filled with cheer.
"Tell us", asked a high-school
brother,
"'Bout your football games this year."

The room grew strangely silent;
To me it lost its cheer.
For the family paused to listen
'Bout our football games this year.

With many a blush and stammer
I talked of stocks and bonds.
But they wanted tales of half-backs,
Line-rushes, and end-runs.

"Perhaps they'll talk depression",
Perhaps—but that was all.
For a clamor rose for stories
Of the backs and forward wall.

Retreating four feet further
Into the fireside bleachers,
I spoke of Scottish triumph
Over Murfreesboro Teachers.

McCray's men, called the Bulldogs,
Were our next alleged foes.
Skipping Tusculum, I stopped next
On Milligan's Buffaloes.

The next, and last game that we played
Around my Yule parental fire,
Was Appalachain Teachers, whom
The fighting Scots drug in the mire.

"Just four?" my brother shouted.
"You must have gone to Yale."
I nodded—then I rallied—
Went to sleep and left my tale
(cont'd.)

Unfinished and unheeded.
For I know they knew darned well
That the Volunteers of Neyland
Plumb licked us all to. .. . pieces.

But they acted nice about it,
Never mentioned to a soul,
That we didn't have, as usual,
An almost uncrossed goal.

Apologies are promiscously scattererd around for this masterpiece. Special apologies are rendered, however, to the English department.

Have you noticed anything unusual about the Pearson's grub lately? Isn't that strange; we have not either, except that the beans were burned the other day. It might be a good idea to put some moonshine rules on these cooks of ours. There's no telling what goes on out in that kitchen. It's none of our business of course, but when it gets so that the beans (good old beans!) are made to suffer, there's where we put our foot down. Give us beans or give us beans, but we won't have burnt beans.

—o—

Letters from home are asking what college has done for this poor ignoble freshman of three months. The answer has been deferred until the homecoming when the folks can see (or guess) for themselves. Further dispatches state that the woman next door, who married the rubber man from India, presented her husband with a bouncing boy. Now, we would say that's stretching things a bit. Almost broke down when father discovered that our favorite hen, who had been laying two eggs at a time, has been leading a double life. Eggsactly!

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

KODAK FINISHING
... FOR ...
Best Results and Permanent Prints
Our Negatives Solve the Christmas Problem
THE WEBB STUDIO

Springfield Newspaper Praises Sportmanship Of Maryville Captain

Principal of Peabody Demonstration School Gives Luncheon In Lewis' Honor

The Springfield Herald, official newspaper of Springfield, Tennessee, carried some news in its issue of December 8, that should be of particular local interest. The occasion for the write-up, which included a reference to a specific instance of sportsmanship by Captain Yankee Lewis of the local squad, was the winning of a sportsmanship award which is granted each year to the schools of the Big Tenn. Conference, receiving the highest vote of the players and coaches of the member schools. This is the third time in five years that Springfield has reached this achievement.

Particular reference was made to an act of Lewis which was largely instrumental in the winning of the award by Springfield in 1928, for the first time. To quote from the paper, "In 1928 a signal honor came to the Springfield High School by a particular act of sportsmanship by James Lewis in the annual football game played between Springfield and Columbia. It was a circumstance in which the Springfield team might have gained a decided advantage over their opponents by a false statement. Young Lewis chose to tell the truth, and as a consequence, the ball went to Columbia."

Lewis was playing end on the grid squad of Springfield at the time of his performance of sportsmanship. A matter came up concerning a punted ball, and the referee's decision in the matter depended altogether on the truth of a statement made by Lewis. No one on either team knew the situation and the facts except Lewis, and his decision to play fair in the matter gave much praise to Lewis and to the entire Springfield squad.

W. H. Yarbrough, principal of Peabody Demonstration School and an ex-president of the Little Tenn, learning of the incident from the Columbia school officials asked permission to give recognition to the act of sportsmanship by a tangible token of appreciation from his school. He gave a special luncheon in Lewis' honor on the day of the Tennessee-Vanderbilt game. Referring to the incident as he presented the trophy, a beautiful full sized silver football, he said, "Springfield has the best football team in the State. Young man, you have brought honor to your school and credit to yourself."

News of this incident is well received by Maryville students. While Lewis never has graced the gridiron at Mayrville, his work on the basketball court has proved him to be a square player, and a hard worker. He has been on Maryville's cage squad since his freshman year, and his ability and influence have always been encouraging to Maryville's coaches and fans.

A woman, generally speaking, is generally speaking.—Oregon Orange Owl.

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	*†9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*††Direct connection to Townsend

COLLEGIATE SWAPS

Up in Illinois, (corresponding to Beale's (down in Georgia), we find suddenly that many grads from our alma mater have become famous for one thing or another. Of course we glanced feverishly over the list to see what the authorities thought of us, but after a futile search we somehow remembered that we had forgotten to write back about our accomplishments in one thing or another, so we managed to forgive them. . . for one thing or another.

—:—

The stirring news comes from the Clemson College Tiger that the student body rallied most nobly, without regard to state of dress, or undress, to help quench the thirst of the fire which gutted the Presbyterian Church on the campus. The fire was reported as one of the most devastating on the campus in years. The cause was stated under the general heading of defective flues. . . . . well, they should have had steam heat like the kind that swarms up around the fourth floor of Carnegie—yes, without a doubt.

—:—

The "Tiger" featured an editorial upon the willingness of the students to pitch in and help in an emergency. The answer to the call was described as equalling the answer to the call for troops during the World War; that is, Clemson was there.

—:—

And now that we've warmed up to our subject, so be it—amen, we come to that exchange of bull which gives us the greatest pleasure of all, and that is with our cherished "Gamecock", University of South Carolina publication, We've a lot of gibbering to do this time, too. In the first place, as we scan the editorial masthead to see if any of our trained writers have been added to the list, we notice that all the Paynes seem to have slipped into print. We say slipped because we didn't see them come in, and neither do we see how they got in.

—:—

We did like the headlines "Auburn Plainsmen Hold Gamecocks to Tie Score". Of course, we all expected S. C. to trounce Auburn, who all season has been in line for the championship of the Southern Conference, by an almost unbelievable score. We were disappointed, to say the least, to hear that S. C. was unable to shake loose from the unexpected grip of the Auburn Plainsmen; but, after all, we were consoled by the conclusion that the moniker, "Gamecock", was most fitting.

—:—

Accustomed to the schedule usually followed by us farmers, we learn with surprise that some lucky students have managed to do without sleep and study in order to go through college. Many the time do we remember when we have tried to do all of that extra duty in one measly hour, but when we see that four students from ??? College work all night in a telephone exchange, we are gently inclined to shriek. The article from which this interesting bit of news was taken said

(Continued on page four)

Wrestling Squad Attacked By Influenza; 22 Members Struck

Tryouts Abandoned Until Holiday Season Closes

Old man Flu and his equally famous Madame La Grippe, have been victorious in early season meetings with Maryville's wrestling team. Out of the squad of thirty-eight, twenty two arm-breakers are laid out flat or semi-flat. Included among the indisposed are all the last year letter men, except Burns. Therefore, the hope planted in the hearts of all moonshiners for a demostration before Christmas of the neck-to-neck art, rumored to take place in the gym among Maryville men, is a vain hope.

That eliminations have not taken place, and cannot until January, still leaves a chance that the contests from which the team will be selected may be made public. But if the chance is not given to see the boys wrestle each other, they will be shown against the best opposition to be found hereabouts. It is quite certain that Vanderbilt will send its squad here for one of two meets, and that Appalachian Teachers will increase the schedule by two more contests.

Smith Outslams Thrower To Win Y Handball Tourney Finals

Faculty Members Demonstrate Superiority Over Students In Fast Games

The handball tourney, sponsored by the athletic committee of the Y. M. C. A., closed Thursday afternoon when Professor Smith defeated Professor Thrower to claim the championship. Although pushed hard by the runner-up, Prof. Smith won his crown in straight games, 21-15 and 21-17.

Old rivals at the handball game, the two faculty members provided quite a match for the few who were fortunate enough to have attended. At no stage of either game was the outcome assured, except at the close of both.

To win his way to the final, Smith won by forfeit from Yarberry, defeated Quigley, Neff, and Moore. Thrower was entitled to his place as finalist by virtue of wins over Hook, Carson, Fischbach and Greene.

The Y. is to be lauded for its attempt to establish handball more firmly as a sport at Maryville. The game is recognized as an athletic aid all over the country and is worthy of a swift growth at Maryville.

When Cupid hits the mark he usually miss. Mrs. it. —Pennsylvania Punch Bowl.

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

OBSERVATIONS

!!!!!!

Our Man Saturday

Shh! We've Erred

Pet Incorporated

Well, well, well, if it isn't old Donald. So you're the guy who's been holding out on us all this time! Guess we should have known ahead that the bat would have been the battiest person on the campus. We confess that we were thrilled almost too much by the actions of our fellow men. We also think that the stage managing, the advertising, and all work connected with "The Bat" (with the exception of Open Forum articles) showed effort and skill! Further braggings are found elsewhere.

—O—

Gladly, it is this week, that we concede to R. Bryan Payne the honor of being the greatest liar this side of the Rocky mountains (we haven't forgotten that man from California who made a chapel speech once). If he isn't a liar, we grant him our bronze medal for being able to get more from a drunk man than anyone this side of . . . of. . . well, of the Rockies. We refer any doubters to thirty inches of newspaper "line" slung by R. Bryan in last Sunday's Journal under "Eight Babies in One Day Was Not Too Many For This Pioneer Doctor". For telling tales, we bow our lofty head in shame to that.

—O—

There is the story of the girl, Elizabeth Kunkel, by name, who had a swell—maybe swelled—plan laid out for an organized farm system. She had it all attractively dolled up with cows, and chickens and all those things. . . . . all but a husband. There was, however, one serious flaw which can be accounted for by considering that Miss Kunkel, not like us, has been raised more metropolically. Her hens on this project were to lay two eggs a day—and that isn't all. Of the hatch, 98% of the youngsters were to be future hens. Mathematically speaking, all right, but agriculturally, and biologically, No!

—O—

Much do we regret the fact that we lied for the very first time last week. We meant to say that Greiner's poem would be in the paper this week. Like all fresh things, it had to season. Everything we said last week still goes, however. . . . out the window.

—O—

We were just trying to work out, mathematically (being mathematicians at heart, but not at brain), how far we could go in a straight line, by railroad, with all the monty that this student body uses in simply going home. Our calculations show that we could get around the earth exactly three times, and we'd land right back in Maryville. We guess we won't go, then.

—O—

Someone said last week that Charlie Beale writes about Georgia too much of the time. We quote the statement: "Why he'd write about some pig pen if it was in Georgia." We, on the other hand, don't think so; it's getting too close home.

—O—

While Charlie was giving his column over to his man Friday last week, we placed our comic strip in the hands of our good man Saturday (just as Saturday is the last thing in the week, so is our co-observationist the last thing—or word—in everything; the last to catch on to our jokes; the last to do his English; the last to get copy in, and all that). From now on, Saturday will be writing the things you don't like, so be sure to see him. If there's something you like, we wrote it. His name has been referred to once in this column this week, so to avoid repetition, not to mention circumlocution (for evident reasons), we'll refer you to 301 Carnegie.

—O—

Someone doing too much talking made the crack that our little old paper is being made a hot-box of because of undue and severe criticism that is printed on any one of the four pages, not including that between the lines. We hasten, almost itch, to inform these here people that it takes talk to make a hot-box—not print, only. Of course, we will furnish the matches. . . if you care to strike 'em.

—O—

Another one of these someones suggested that we write, or have written, a column that would have as its express purpose, the getting of scandal, dirt, slime, and such, on campus people who lend themselves to such things. First, we think that this person hadn't observed this column so closely, and second, we rather suppose that we could, possibly, be involved in that column in more ways than one, that is, besides being the writer, or perpetrator. We have our own little scandals that we wouldn't quite desire to see in print.

—O—

We've been wondering what makes Fred Kirchner take on an appearance which could be far fetchedly and analogically likened to that of Sweeney's ford (done up). He says that the cause of all this is too much wine, women, and song. Our very serious advice to Kirchner is, that he should cut out this singing.

—O—

Next to people who use this codified system from Memorial to Carnegie are the ones who use the modified system from the new sidewalk to the windows in Baldwin. We saw the basketball captain going up and down the long walk last week just a swingin' and a swingin' and we don't know whether he was trying to stop a train or catch a pass from someone. It was his arm that he was swingin', if that isn't clear already. For further exemplification, and clarification of the situation, we remind you that Mary Lillian Steed was sick last week and we further remind you, if you've not already been reminded, that Mary Lillian lives in a room that faces the walk. We suppose that it was one of these, "you pass by my window, and I'll wave" affairs. . . but we don't know. No, we don't know.

—O—

We might mention that Phil Sorce has made an incorporation into the family that was mentioned in this column some time ago. Phil has been pursuing this Pettibone girl more concentratedly and more earnestly, even, then we pursue our lessons. The new rating is "wife" to Phil and just sister to the rest of us.

—O—

Our position is not advisory, but we give advice to you for what you may think it's worth. We observe that not only Phil Sorce has been driven, led, or enticed, into the fold recently. Several of these men (not excluding Burt Graham) have been becoming too intimate with the women-folk for their own good. We don't know for sure, but we wouldn't be afraid to venture that there's ulteriur motive in some of this stuff, which might involve a renewed belief in Santa Claus. . . .which is going a long way to say nothing much except that it's getting too close to Christmas to start falling in love. And this—listen now—is leap year. Some people fall. . . . . others are pushed.

—O—

There we go, talking about Christmas. We feared that greatly, and averted it thus far, but our enthusiasm got the better of us. Now that we have mentioned it we want to say that we wish all of you, except you hitch-hikers, a pleasant trip home. We wish the hitch-hikers the same thing, but we just hope that we get there first.

SWAPS

(Continued from page three)

nothing about study, it just said that the four boys work at night and go to classes in the daytime.

—:—

Something caught our attention just as we were about to turn in for the nightly hayride. It sort of reminded us of that when do song: Through the when-do I see you. We see by the papers that Maestro Owen, of the University of Chattanooga, will present his pupils in a music drama through Mary's window. Well, we would just like to know how big Mary's window is, and if there is room for one more. The U. C. Echo states that Maestro Owen has planned the drama in the hopes that some Christmas atmosphere can be created around the school. Heretofore, we've had the Christmas, but no atmosphere; now we've the atmosphere, but prospects for Christmas look mighty sleem. . . mighty sleem.

STUDENT VOLUNTEERS

(Continued from page one)

tice that, even in this beautiful sunlit country, the nose of the thing is always held over that repair hole for steam pipes in front of Carnegie.

Again, our heart melts right down to a thick paste when we traverse that section of town commonly known as the "flat" and notice a forlorn, Roman-nosed, browbeaten, gasless Ford that has Haub written all over it. Because no one feeds it enough to get it back to the Hill, it sits there day after day, taking its medicine, which consists of cold, rust-laden rain drops, with the rest of the trash. It reminds us of a very dear "gutter-loafer" ancestor of ours, who once slobberingly muttered, "Well, if itsh good enush fer me anshesters, it'll do fer meshelf"; and he fell to the gutter and died. Haub says that they are going to New Jersey in it; but some weeks ago, while we were dropping the miles across the plains of Injianny, we says to ourself, says we, "This here critter ain't agoin' to go fer ever"; which it didn't on the following Monday morn.

Just one thing more. We get a kick out of watching the agents for the Greyhound Lines, Inc. throw contemptuous looks toward the many species of automobilery here. We notice that they give one look and then take out a piece of paper and start to figure. . . . . well, we suppose they're figuring how much they would charge to pick the boys up on the road.

Two Pictures Will Be Added Attraction In Home Ec. Club Room

With the proceeds from the recent art exhibit the Home Ec Club has purchased two pictures which are to be placed in the club room as soon as frames are secured. The first picture, The Shepherd Boy, which was one of those on display here, is a work of Franz Lenbach, a German who has been acclaimed the greatest portrait painter of the century. Harp of The Winds, the second painting, is by an American landscape artist, Homer Martin. Its original hangs in the Metropolitan Museum in New York. The club purchased these pictures from the Practical Drawing Company of Dallas, Texas, the same company which furnished the paintings for the art exhibit.

This exhibit, which the Home Ec Club sponsored, aroused much interest. In addition to the many college students approximately one hundred and twenty-five outsiders and faculty members saw the display during the week.

THE REAL CHRISTMAS

It was two thousand years ago when there occurred the major incident in the history of mankind. Such an effect has it had on mankind that today the commemoration of this occurrence is the greatest of all celebrations among men.

In the stillness and quiet of the night, broken only by the cheerful and glorious proclamation of the Heavenly Messengers, humanity received the humblest of all gifts—yet the greatest—the Christ-Child.

Born in a lowly manger amidst surroundings devoid of all ordinary comfort and luxury, the future Savior of the world was beheld. He was worshipped and adored by lowly shepherds, the most despised of all folk. There was truly nothing of a kingly nature that accompanied this advent. Unostentatiously the greatest of all men entered the sin-sick world in the lowliest and most humble manner!

Away with selfish pride! Down with egotistical schemes, hypocrisy and falsehoods. Garb ourselves with the mighty spirit of the humble Christ-child —the spirit powerful enough to melt the hardest of hearts, the panacea for human ills. Embody within our hearts the unselfish desire for a life of service, as we again celebrate the joyous Christmas Day. With the spirit of the Christ-child within our hearts is the only true means by which we may experience the real meaning of Christmas.

Christ and Christmas? The former is the reality of the latter. Come worship Him, the King of Kings!

O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
O come, let us adore Him,
Christ, the Lord!

—Frank R. Mease

I WANT A GIRL

(with apologies and all due respect to O. T. Holder)

Gosh, I wish I had a girl!
Any type or kind
Just any ordinary girl
Forever on my mind.

A girl to take to vsepers,
One who likes my line,
A girl with eyes of blue or brown
And lips as red as wine.

The kind that makes me dizzy,
Leaves me in a whirl,
The thrilling, luring, killing kind;
Oh gosh! I want a girl!

—G. F. Greiner

Girls Societies Elect Officers

At their meetings on December 10, Bainonian and Theta Epsilon societies selected the following members to hold office:

Bainonian:
President—Willimae Renegar
Vice-President—Louse Cline
Secretary—Margaret Mozingo
Program Secretaries—Eleanor Johnson, Elizabeth Peterson
House Chairmen—Cecilia Conover, Dorothy Casseres
Poster Chairman—Alice Timblin
Editor—Elizabeth Kunkel
Sergeant-at-Arms—Lillian Steed

Theta Epsilon:
President—Mary Katherine Mize
Vice President—Mary Ella Spencer
Secretary—Kay Carpenter
House Chairman—Mary Branche
Poster Chairman—Eleanor Denslow
Sergeant-at-Arms—Virginia Wysong

Installation of the new officers will be held tonight.

MISS HENRY TO SPEAK AT Y. W. C. A.

Miss Clemmie Henry will speak at the Y. W. C. A. meeting Sunday. Her talk will concern the part of the individual in the depression, and will be especially interesting as she has recently made a tour of the country and has seen the conditions existing in the large cities.

The special Christmas music is in charge of Norma Spilatore. It will consist of Christmas carols of this country and of foreign countries. There will be a violin accompaniment for the music.

MINISTERIAL ASSN.

"The Message of the Ages" was the subject of the address given at the meeting of the Ministerial Association by President Phil Sorce, on Wednesday night.

Special emphasis was placed on Christ as the sin-bearer and the ruler. Christ came, said the speaker, to fulfill prophecy and to serve as the perfect sacrifice. The virgin birth, Mr. Sorce explained, was necessary, since all sin is from natural parents. If Christ is not God, he is an impostor; ambassadors of Christ need to preach Christ as the word of God.

Sunday evening, the members of the Association are invited to the Christian Endeavor service in the Presbyterian Church. The Student Volunteers will be in charge of the meeting.

AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY

We are so accustomed to hear talk about bull sessions and bul, with the "session" left off that we seldom think of the term in its true light.

The fact that the word is falling into decadence recently called forth efforts on the part of our Maryville scientists to restore it to its rightful lofty position in the English vocalulary. Those noble efforts led to an amazing discovery; namely that bull is a gas, and not a vacuum, as has long been supposed. The discoverers even go so far as to tell us some of the properties of the new gas. We are told that it is odorless, tasteless, and colorless; that it neither burns nor supports combustion; and that it mixes readily with ordinary air, especially the air of college dormitories. It is thought, that the gas is related to laughing gas.

One of the most amazing qualities of this wonderful element is that it can be generated without the aid of the usual laboratory equipment. It occurs naturally in men's dormitories, but is generated only with great difficulty in the presence of proctors and matrons. It is very unstable and cannot be kept over long periods of time, but must be generated as used.

The meeting of the Georgia Club on Thursday evening was opened with the singing of "Georgia Land". The program consisted of the following numbers: A reading by Elinor Denslowe; vocal solo by Mildred Brooks; a debate, won by the affirmative side of the question, Resolved: that chaperones should accompany dates home at Christmas.

A mock trial was carried on at the meeting of the Law Club Thursday evening in Athenian Hall. The following persons composed the cast: judge, Charles Haddocks; jury foreman, James Wills; plaintiff, Jerry Carter; prosecuting attorney, Hank Otto; defendant, Andrew Graf; defense attorneys, Robert Tripp, Larry Agnew; witnesses, Sidney Portrum, Reuben Alford.

SUPERIORS COTTIES

We had hoped the editor would forget about this business of eulogizing the seniors of the institution this year, not that we have a grudge against any of our superiors, but that we've noticed, in our experience wth this column, that we get murderous glances cast in our direction each time we pass one of the great or near-great seniors. Let's hope that all belligerents, or at least all belligerents above five feet ten and weighing more than one fifty-five, will listen to reason and refrain from bodily attacks on this poor correspondent . . . .

Nobody seems to be quite able to inform us as to the existence of such a thing as seniority among seniors, so we take it on ourselves to commence hostilities in the pre-Yule season with none other than our one and ony Alexander Peru Duff.

We'll not wax too enthusiastic over the qualities of Duff—we want it understood that such a thing could be done, of course—but we also want it understood that statements made herein come straight from the shoulder with no grammatical strawberries and cream thrown in. Suppose we consider the doctor first in the light of his Y works, since these seem to be a bit more outstanding. In the first place, he has renovated that old Bartlett Hall until it begins to look like a real building. This fact is borne out by the floods of applications received from various campus organizations for use of the rooms to hold meetings. No one ever wanted to hold a meeting there before! But his work goes further than clean-up. We notice that the athletic program is being carried on more efficiently and enthusiastically than ever before. His administration extends to the local Mission, where it is doing excellent work. The meetings of the Y. have taken on new meaning. In general, his Y.M.C.A. program has been revolutionarily pleasing.

Then we could mention Doc's other offices. . . . the presidency of his class in its first year. . . the head of the present Student Council . . . his work in the theatrical productions on the hill. . . . and on and on.

But what we appreciate most, perhaps, is not Doc Duff the campus figure, but Doc Duff the man. He has been known to violate all rules of personal health by going several nights in a row without a wink of sleep while some epidemic raged on the campus. In the flu fad of the past week, hardly an hour has passed but he has been visiting or giving helpful advice to the sick. No one who has ever gone to him for aid has gone away without the best at Doc's command.

We could go on for hours telling of his many fine points. Let us close, though, by stating that somewhere back in the insides of Duff's elongated frame, space is found somehow to shelter a heart which is as big as the scope of man; by reminding ourselves that he will leave us after a few short months; and by simply saying that departure will leave a space on the campus which will be a long time in being filled.

When a colored man was arraigned in court, charged with some minor offense, the judge said to him:

"You are accused of petty larceny. Have you an attorney to answer for you?"

"Does dat mean has Ah got a lawyer?" asked the darkey.

"Yes", said the judge.

"No, yo' honah; Ah'm jus' goin' to throw mahself on de ignorance of de court."

FACULTY VACATION

(Continued From Page One)

Prof. and Mrs. Queener will visit Mrs. Quener's relatives in New York state. Prof. Queener may attend the meeting of the Historical Association of the Mississippi in Toronto.

The rest of the vacationing faculty which refuses either of these classifications remain as follows: Miss Hale will be the guest of the directress of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati. Miss Green will go to Hickory, North Carolina a week after school closes. Dr. Hussey will go to North Carolina for part of his vacation. Miss Brown will visit in Annapolis. And Prof. Griffitts will divide his time between Maryville, Knoxville, and Philadelphia, Tennessee.

The Committee on Selection for the Highland Echo met Friday afternoon in Professor Davis' classroom for the purpose of selecting a junior associate editor to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Miss Geraldine Smith. No decision was reached, and January 10 was set as a date for another meeting for the same purpose.

If somebody would only discover a cough medicine for radios.—Judge.

THETA ALPHI PHI

(Continued from page one)

"Then he sat down, and we had a chat. 'How's the theatre in your day?' I asked.

"'Pretty good, right now,' Bill answered, 'but it won't last long. Pretty soon they're going to close the theatres.'

"'That's too bad', I said.

"'You can't keep a good man down though. Before long, they'll open them again. And there's a crowd of oncoming dramatists.

"'And, now, how's the theatre in your day, Art?'

"'That depends on how you look at it. What with cheap revues, rotten plays, and the censorship, some folk think the theatre is on its last legs. And the depression has hit art the same as industry.'

"And so,"—with a gesture we were back in 1932—"I started out to see if they were killing the theatre. I was totally unprepared for the interest, enthusiasm, and optimism which I met. There are 800 colleges in the United States putting on plays —mostly good plays, very well done."

The last few minutes of Prof. Cloeting's meeting were given to what he referred as "chewing the rag". He offered various suggestions about plays, staging, and lighting in response to questions from members of the group. He commended the expression department of Maryville College, appearing to be much impressed by the high quality of work done here with inadequate staging facilities, and offered whatever assistance the national offices of Theta Alpha Phi might be able to give.

WORKSHOP

(Continued from page one)

which recounted the experience of one, who pursuing tales of medieval Chaucer all evening in a library, is forced to return to his present century with his sudden entrance into the street again. This sonnet continued lines of true poetic tone, and was a fitting tribute to the clean, live words of the Middle English poet.

The prose selection was a variation of a theme suggested by the occurrence in Bearden, Tennessee, last week of a deputy guard of six being stationed in a church during the church election.

The New Belding - Corticelli Run-Proof Hose is Here

$1.35

GUARANTEED against runs forever. Full fashioned--

It is the loviest sheer fabric ever produced for fine hosiery.

Think of it--no more embarrassing runs at parties, dances, but instead -- a gorgeous chiffon hose that we absolutely guarantee will not run.

See this stocking that has taken Belding-Corticelli years to develop--today.

NEW FALL COLORS OF COURSE

Chandler-Singleton Company

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, JANUARY 14, 1933 NUMBER FOURTEEN

ANNUAL MEETINGS TO BE HELD HERE FEBRUARY 7-16

Jose Iturbi, Pianist Will Entertain Here On Lyceum Program

Criticism By Iturbi Appears In The Etude Magazine For February 1932

"It is not a question of whether there is more color or less color in Bach, or, say, in Chopin. The color is here—in the keys. Here is the complete range of colors, from ppp to fff. The color itself does not become wider or narrower in range. It is the process of applying this color which varies with different compositions."

Thus begins Jose Iturbi, a pianist of note, in a discussion of outline and atmosphere in piano music as secured in an interview for The Etude of February, 1932. This young Spanish pianist will appear on a Lyceum program here next semester. Excerpts from the above article follow, setting forth, among other things, Mr. Iturbi's estimate of world-famous composers.

"In Bach there is as much romanticism, as much passion, as much grief, as there is in Schumann or Chopin. But the ways of expressing these emotions, of applying these colors, must be different.

"Bach's harpsichord had no pedal to sustain tones and overtones. That was the sort of instrument for which he thought and wrote. If we play Bach's "Chromatic Fantasia" we have put on too much color, too much "halo". Bach did not intend that effect.

"Goya was the first painter to mix his colors in such a way as to produce the effect of immense impressions and emotion, yet he was always exact, precise, in the way he managed his color. If you look closely at a painting of Velasquez, of Rembrandt, from a short distance, you can see the detail and also get a good idea of the painting itself. These paintings were created for the effect at a short distance. But if you look at a Goya from this short distance you will see spots or dashes of paint, but you will not see the picture. You will see black laid upon white to give—at a distance—the effect of grey, red laid upon green to give the eeffct of yellow. To give the effect of distance he counted on optical phenomena. You will find that you cannot see the clear line when you look closely. It seems always to be wavering. But at a distance you get the effect of the line. You will find him very deep, very fresh, but always with "halo", "aureole."

"Similarly, in music, the colors are at hand for every composer or artist. But the ways of using them are different. The classics have the clear line, the romantic and modern composers have the overtones of pedaling and of chord combinations, which, though they affect the distinctness of line, must yet be so managed as to give outline and form to the composition.

"The chefs d'oeuvres of Chopin, his greatest works, are the preludes and mazurkas. Why? Because they are short, and the characteristic melody of Chopin is short. He did not write the "long breasted" melody which must be the foundation of the true sonatas, this is the case. The "breath" of the melody gives out. It is not sufficiently sustained for these large forms.

"Chopin was a fanatic, a great soul who sang! Therefore, the color which one uses in playing Chopin must be aureoled, suffusing the whole effect, for the beauty of Chopin is not chiefly of the classic line.

"Schumann, likewise, has an effect of atmosphere rather than of classic development.

"Schubert, however, was a composer of line, and often too much a composer, writing at too great a length, wearying his listeners by over-development, the while he was telling them the most interesting things!

"But Bach! In Bach the first

(Continued On Page Four)

Y. W. C. A.

"Three Goals for the New Year" is the subject for discussion at the Y.W.C.A. meeting Sunday afternoon. The entire program is sponsored by the freshmen under the direction of Jane White.

Eleanor Ritchie will lead the devotions. The three phases of the topic will be presented as follows: Phyllis Brennamon will speak on "Sincerity"; "Service" is the theme of Marie Carson's talk; while Leola Halsey has chosen "Understanding" for her subject.

A trumpet solo by Ruth Flint and a vocal solo by Jane Pettibone will also be included in the program.

Dr. Shine Reads Paper At Meeting of Modern Language Association

Paper Consists of Survey of Carlyle's Work in Relation To His Philosophic Knowledge

Dr. Hill Shine, member of the English department of Maryville College, read before the Modern Language Association meeting at Yale university, New Haven Connecticut during the latter part of the Christmas holidays. His subject matter was "Carlyle and the German philosophy problem during the years 1826-27."

Dr. Shine's paper was particularly for the Victorian section of the English group of the association. It consisted of a survey of Carlyle's works in an effort to throw some light on whether or not the latter was technically familiar with German philosophy of his time. Some critics are of the opinion that he was, others are not.

Dr. Shine's conclusions are to the effect that Carlyle's knowledge was only superficial, that he knew little of the systematic side of German philosophy.

Rockne Coach Is Won By Theron Alexander In Slogan Contest

Three short lines, seventeen words to be exact, won a shiny new Rockne coach for Theron Alexander, Jr. in a slogan contest sponsored by the Southern Dairies.

Scion of a long line of Maryville graduates, Theron Jr. modestly declined to give particulars. "There are no particulars", he said. It seems, however, that Alexander had sent an exceedingly simple little verse as his entry in the contest and much to his surprise, that simple little verse came out on top, and at the same time topped off a perfect holiday vacation.

The winning verse:

Sweet, delicious, rich, and cold,
Eat as much as you can hold;
Southern Dairies' good as gold.

Freshmen Cabinet Members Are Chosen At Recent Meeting

Initial Year For Undercabinet In Maryville Y.W.C.A.

At the last meeting of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet before the holidays five freshmen girls were selected to compose the new freshman cabinet. The members are Cora Mae Deats, Harriet Clark, Bill Stead, Virginia Wysong, and Jane White.

This is the first year the plan of an undercabinet has been initiated at Maryville. Its value to the organization will be training to a representative number of the girls who will in a few years carry on the administrative work of the Y. W. C. A.

The junior members will attend their first meeting on January 22. From then on they will be expected to be present once a month.

Student's Interracial Group Holds Meeting At Knoxville College

Negro Music Increases Interest In Attractive Program

The program of the January meeting of the East Tennessee Students' Interracial Commission held Saturday afternoon at Knoxville College consisted of musical selections, an open forum discussion, and a period of informal fellowship. Several Maryville students were present at the meeting.

The musical part of the program, which was furnished by the music department of Knoxville College, was prefaced by a discussion of Negro music. This was followed by the rendition of compositions by White and Taylor.

During the open forum evidence was given by Prof. Boyd and Dean Minor, of Morristown College, to explode the theory that because members of the Caucasian race have larger cranial cavities than those of any other race they are by that token mentally superior to all other races. Student opinion was expressed to the effect that an amicable solution of the race problem must wait for academic freedom in both white and coroled schools, that professors of sociology and psychology must lend their support to the movement, and that religion in the South must become realistic and dynamic.

The February meeting of the commission will be held at the home of Prof. J. H. Daves, of Knoxville College.

Faculty Club Hears Dr. Knapp Read Paper Concerning Astronomy

Scientist Relates Very Recent Discoveries In America

"The origin and life history of the stars is perhaps the question of paramount interest in the whole realm of science", reads a portion of a paper on "Recent Astronomical Discoveries and Theories" read by Dr. George A. Knapp, head of the mathematics department of Maryville college before the Faculty Club, January 10.

A great part of the paper was technical, requiring much disgressive explanation by Dr. Knapp. He mentioned the Planetarium in Chicago, the result of Felix Adler's efforts, which was opened in 1930 and visited by over a million persons in fifteen months; a large telescope finished in Germany which is to be set up soon in the Franklin institute in Philadelphia for public use; the 69-inch reflector of the Perkins Observatory of Ohio Wesleyan university completed in 1931.

The latter, the paper says, "was a significant, notable, and perhaps epoch-making achievement for it was an American product. The mirror is a new kind—made of quartz and was cast and finished in the United States. Previously, all large lenses and mirrors had been cast in France or Germany."

The Perkins telescope is the second largest in this country, and the second in the world.

In 1930, the planet Pluto, 4 1-2 billion miles from the sun, was discovered. Two other members of the solar system were found this past year: one by Dr. Karl Reimuth of Heidelburg on April 24, and the other by Prof. E. Delporte on March 12.

"These discoveries were a great surprise for two reasons: they were so far outside the normal zone for asteroids and they came so near the earth."

A new clerk was in doubt about the use of a phrase. He turned to a steno:

He: Do you 'retire a loan'?

She: No, I sleep with mama.

Professor Queener Spends Holidays In New York and Canada

Attends Meeting of American Historical Association At Toronto, Canada

During the Christmas holidays Prof. Queener attended the joint meeting of the American Historical Association which met at Toronto from December 28 to 31.

Prof. Queener enjoyed meeting many outstanding professors of history from the leading universities of the country, and also renewed his acquaintance with one of his old professors, Dr. William E. Dodd, of the University of Chicago. He became especially interested in the reading of a series of papers by prominent educators present at the convention, the two of greatest interest to him being papers on "National Ideals" by Charles A. Beard and "Frontier Life" by Frederick L. Paxton.

While in Canada, Prof. Queener visited the University of Toronto and was very much impressed by the size and character of the institution. This university conferred the degree of LL.D. on the President of the American Historical Society.

Upon his arrival in Canada, Professor Queener had his money changed into Canadian money, getting $1.13 for every American dollar, and thereby made thirteen cents on the dollar. "The only trouble with that", said the professor, "is that you have to give them $1.13 for a dollar when you leave."

New Members Of Theta Alpha Phi Receive Initiation

Nathalia Wright, Jean Campbell, Robert Toms, and Michael Testa are Accepted

Four Maryville students were admitted to the Tennessee Delta Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi last night in a double ceremony of initiation.

The first part of the service was enacted at the home of Mrs. Sarah Moore Traylor, alumni member of the fraternity, and later in the evening the formal initiation took place at Dr. and Mrs. Crowder's.

This signal honor has been awarded to Miss Wright on the basis of her work as stage manager. Her success in the case of "Mary Rose", produced early in the season, is a matter of recent memory. Two years ago she did an equally good piece of work for Theta Epsilon Society, when they produced "The Big Pond."

Miss Campbell's first appearance in an important role was that of Anne Bolyn in "When Knighthood Was in Flower", Bainonian midwinter of last season. She will also be remembered as having carried the title role of "Mary Rose" extremely well.

Mr. Testa is also being received on the basis of his acting. He played the part of Cameron in "Mary Rose" this fall, and last spring he took the role of Quincy Davenport in the College Players' production, "The Melting Pot". His first appearance on the stage at Maryville was in "The Big Pond" when he played the role of a servant in an Italian villa.

It is hardly necesary to say that Mr. Toms' bid came as a result of his excellent work as electrician. He has been responsible for the lighting of practically every play produced here since his advent to the college. Some of his best effects have been the storm scene in the recently played "Bat", the fires in "Allison's House" and "Green Stockings", sunset in "The Melting Pot", and sunrise in "Sunup".

Ashes to ashes, and dust to dust
After pleasure, studies come fust.

Dr. Ralph Marshall Davis Of Erie, Pennsylvania, Will Conduct February Meetings

Reverend Sidney Stringham of Pekin, Illinois, Returns To Lead Singing

Announcement was made last week, through the office of the president, of the 57th annual series of February Meetings to be held this year from February 7 to 16. The leader, new to most Maryville students is Dr. Ralph Marshall Davis, pastor of the Church of the Covenant (Presbyterian) of Erie, Pennsylvania. Dr. Davis is widely known as a college preacher, a friend and advisor of youth, and a pastor of eminent churches. He holds degrees from Missouri Valley College, San Francisco Theological Seminary, Boston University, and Harvard University.

Dr. Davis went to Erie, Pennsylvania three years ago to become the first pastor of the Church of the Covenant, formed by the union of two churches, which built a magnificent million dollar edifice, and has a membership of more than two thousand. He had been for eight years pastor of the prominent Hyde Park Presbyterian Church of Chicago, located near the University of Chicago. Previous to that his pastorates included the First Presbyterian Church of Boston, and the Westminster Presbyterian Church of San Francisco.

For a number of years Dr. Davis has been much in demand as a preacher and speaker at universities, colleges, conferences, and other groups of young people. His university and college ministry has taken him to some forty institutions, including Harvard, Chicago, Purdue, South Dakota, Coe, Missouri Valley, Carroll, Otterbein, Grove City, and many others. In 1931 he was one of the American Interchange Preachers to Great Britain. In 1928 he visited Palestine, the Near East, and Europe in the party of which President Lloyd also was a member. He holds important positions in denominational and interdenominational church groups. One of his interesting and valuable services has been given as chairman of the Presbyterian Commission on Marriage, Divorce, and Remarriage, and as a member of the Committee on Marriage and the Home of the Federal Council of the Churches of Christ in America.

In spite of this extensive training and experience he is a comparatively young man of forty-six, and incidentally is an expert golf player. It will be of interest to know that he is a cousin of Professor E. W. Davis, of Maryville.

Dr. Davis is a man of assured faith in Jesus Christ; he is a genuine friend of young people and comes for this great service because of his unswerving desire to lead young people into the heritage which Christ offers.

It is a privilege to announce again that Rev. Sidney E. Stringham, Pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Pekin, Illinois, will lead the singing. This is the twelfth consecutive year in which he has rendered this service. His ability as a song leader, his devoted Christian spirit, his wholesome personality, and his good sense make his help most valuable.

It can almost be said that wherever Mayville College is known, the Maryville February Meetings are known. Their tremendous helpful influence through the years, their careful and practical organization their natural and reasonable emphasis, their magnificent support from the entire student body and faculty, the strong religious leaders which they so frequently bring to the College—all these and other facts serve to make the Meetings notable among American colleges. Many years ago President Wilson was be-

(Continued On Page Four)

Dr. Paul E. Fields Author Of "Studies In Concept Formation"

Conducts Experiments While Studying At Stanford University

The December issue of the Comparative Psychology Monographs is devoted to "studies in Concept Formation", written by Dr. Paul E. Fields. This article is the seventh of a series dealing with the general problem of visual figure discrimination in animals, and is to be followed by three others more closely related to concept formation.

Prior to 1926 the physiological and anatomical data as well as the experimental results indicated that white rats could not see distinctly enough to tell the difference between a triangle and a circle. After reversing these findings, the next problem which arose was "how well rats see?" The acuity of their vision was tested by experiments to determine whether or not they could discriminate between different sizes and positions of the same geometrical figures.

Eleven white rats were used by Dr. Fields in the present experiment which was conducted at Stanford University where, for the past two years, Dr. Fields has been working under an N.R.C. fellowship. He also studied concept formation in raccoons and found them to be far superior to rats.

This study of concept formation in rats is comparable to studies of concept formation in human beings, where, after a dog and the word "dog" had been presented to a child in a number of situations the child

(Continued on page four)

Glee Club Promises An Unique Program At Spring Concert

"Three Springs" a cantata by Paul Bliss, will be presented by the Girls' Glee Club in its annual spring concert on February 2nd.

The program for the evening is in two parts. The first half is constituted of selected choruses; and the second of the cantata.

The stage for the concert promises to be an innovation, even for the Glee Club. The beauty of the springtime, which is the theme of the cantata, will be caught by the stage manager into three springs (of water) on the stage. Butterflies are now being sought to fly about the bodies of water.

Further announcement from the Glee Club will allow the full program to be printed in the these columns.

Beginning Of Next Semester Will See Debaters In Action

At the meeting of the debate class last Tuesday evening, Professor Queener presented a skeleton outline of both the affirmative and negative arguments on the War Debt question, which is the Pi Kappa Delta argument for this year. The debate class has been cut from its original number to twenty-five members. These members will be eligible to take the examination next week which will be largely instrumental in the chossing of the forensic folk to represent Maryville in intercollegiate competition which

(Continued On Page Four)

The Highland Echo

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

KAY CARPENTER - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
BERNARD MATTINGLEY - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, January 14, 1933

CALVIN COOLIDGE

In the passing of the last living ex-president of the United States, we have lost one of the greatest statesmen of this day. It seems significant that Calvin Coolidge, much more appropriately called "Silent Cal", should have died in the way that he did—alone in his own room, and that his funeral should be with very little ceremony.

In Calvin Coolidge, America realized a president of immense capabilities. He was a person who knew the value of few words, and correct speech. His honesty and patriotism went always unquestioned. His integrity was recognized by his associates, and by his political opponents. While necessarily a political man, Mr. Coolidge never allowed his political loyalty to outdo his devotion to his country. Mr. Coolidge's "I do not choose to run" statement will remain always as a symbol of his sound and unwavering judgment.

The death of this great person is mourned by the entire nation. Political and religious bonds are broken as people stop to pay respect to the man, Coolidge. He will grow in the minds of future Americans and memory of him will call to mind a man who knew, and taught by example, the doctrine of few words. He will be eulogized with other leading statesmen as one of the greatest and most successful of our Presidents.

THE BASKETBALL SEASON

Last Tuesday the Maryville College cage quintet started off the basketball season with a contest against Woodruffs, an independent team from Knoxville. Thursday night they tangled with the Woco-Peps, an independent team from Knoxville. Tonight the first college basketball game will be played against Tusculum College.

After considerable guess work, and uncertainty on everyone's part, a game was finally arranged with the alumni of Maryville, December 20, the only game previous to the holiday season!

Aspiring basketeers were tossing the ball around the gym as early as the middle of October and continued through October, November, December, and half of January in preparation, apparently, for the first college game. Our opponents on the other hand, were playing games with other teams during part of this time, matching their skill against someone beside their own second stringers. If these games did not furnish valuable information for the coach, they at least brought about a necessary diversion for the players.

One of the marks of our cage teams has been their characteristic late season start, and the corresponding hard schedule which is inevitable. It appears that a few college games previous to the holidays for Smoky Mountain teams would be valuable, at least it would make October practice seem like something beside utter foolishness.

MONDAY NIGHT PLAYS

For a number of years there has been a decidedly queer procedure at Maryville in staging plays. It has to do with the presentation of plays on Monday night with none of the characters having had the advantage of a complete rehearsal. Often the player shows a noticeable unfamiliarity with the stage setting, a fact which can be most appreciated by anyone who has attempted to perform before an audience in his actual rehearsal.

This has been noticeable this season, with the pesentation of plays that demand mastery of one's surroundings on the stage. In an otherwise almost perfect play, serious, but unavoidable errors occurred, the blame for which can be placed in the above category.

It would be, it appears, much simpler on the part of everyone, to create a plan which would allow an opportunity for the actors to know their stage. This can not be done if Monday night remains "play night" at Maryville, because of the conflict with the Vesper Service.

There is, however, little apparent opposition to having plays on Saturday night. By this plan, dress rehearsal could be held Friday night. Chapel could be held in the usual manner on Saturday, since it has been the custom for the choir not to sit in the usual place on this day. By intensive effort, clean-up work running into the Sabbath day could be averted. At least it could be no more noticeable than it is at the present time.

These suggestions may appear ridiculous after consideration, but they seem as sound as the present plan whereby the play audience is inveigled into paying thirty-five cents to see a group of players in dress rehearsal.

Plays of the type that Maryville presents, especially during the present season, deserve the best that amateur actors can give. They have been, and will be, of the highest quality, and demand the utmost in stage handling, and directing. This can not be had under the present conditions.

Techno-Crazy

Fads came once in the line of dress, make up, means of conveyance, and in all sorts of novelties, but things have taken on a new color now. We have technocracy. The pleasant thing about technocracy is that no one seems to know what it is. It does, however, reveal some significant facts, and suggests important, and unheard of developments.

Technocracy tells us something that we should all be inclined to guess—that with an industrial force equal to that of 1929, only one-half of the present unemployed number could have employment. This is, naturally, because of the perfection of the machine. There is nothing startling about this finding—to the many people who possess jobs, or even positions, but the fact that machines, at the present rate of development, will rapidly add to the number of unemployed taxes everyone's sense of humor a bit beyond the limit.

If a man wishes to feel his own insignificance, he can recall that report about the huge turbine which possesses 300,000 horse power, which is equal in converted energy to 3,000,000 times the horse power of a man (which is one-tenth of one, for an eight hour day). The above contrast is on an eight hour day basis. The turbine continues to work while the man sleeps, and during the time that he recreates, to increase its capacity to 9,000,000 times that of a man in a 24 hour day.

Technocracy remains in the experimental stage. It will develop something interesting, probably that the standard of values is in proportion to the creation of debt—owed, in electric dollars, or electrified notes. The most attractive feature so far revealed is that $10,000 a year bonus to start off the New Year. That would be enough to shock even the most composed laboring man.

Ergs, joules, and calories have always been the units of energy, but we didn't recognize their value. Now that money has proved a necessary evil, rather an unnecessary evil, we shall (or shall we) adopt the unit of energy as our standard of progress.

Whatever the result of present day investigation is (of which technocracy is probably the best example) we can be thankful for one thing . . . that present conditions caused, or allowed people to think. So long as people think intelligently, progress should never cease. . . . all of which sounds good until some technocrat tells us that we've been fooled all along—there hasn't been any progress.

We're very much attracted by an editorial opinion, which we took from a recent paper, saying that, "The assurance that every member of society will enjoy the legitimate fruits of his own ingenuity and industry has always been and will continue to be the main spring of personal ambition and achievement. That is the natural law of compensation and it cannot be permanently changed by any man-made rule."

That is a little difficult to understand because of a preponderance of abstractions—but the terms "personal ambition" and "achievement" stand out as still saying something. It rather seems that whether we measure value in ergs, or pennies, we still have achievement being the direct result of personal ambition (or endowment).

This may not be an argument (the editorial opinion above) against technocracy. It is more nearly an argument against socialism. We suppose, however, that technocracy, novel as it is, does not take many steps in opposition to socialism. But we don't know—because the technocrats don't know.

HUSSEYS ADOPT GIRL

Dr. and Mrs. Hussey have recently adopted a little girl, three months old, whom they have chosen to call Mary Margaret. It has been Dr. Hussey's wish to double the size of their present family, therefore they plan to adopt a boy of approximately the same age as a playmate for the girl. Mary Margaret's former home was in the Tennessee Home for Children at Nashville, Tennessee.

STORK VISITS DR. ORR

Christmas morning brought a baby girl to Dr. and Mrs. Horace E. Orr; she has been christened Ruth Frances. The smiles and general good spirits of Dr. Orr indicate that both the baby and Mrs. Orr are doing well, and it is the wish of everyone that they continue to do so.

Gossip—putting two and two together and make it five or more.

Open Forum

Some time ago we were told that one of the principle reasons why the administration did not give the students more privileges and powers was because they did not show any appreciation for the things that were done for them.

The one who said this may be right and we do not mean to take issue when we say that we hold to another view. Certainly, one of the fundamental purposes of education is to increase a person's power of appreciation, and appreciation should not be used as the criterion for determining our actions. Most of the noble deeds done in the past were not appreciated nearly so much at the time, if at all, as they were later. Moreover, education is more than the power of appreciation, it is the willingness to attempt to make the whole environment around us worthy of appreciation. A good action is not determined by the appreciation of that action by others, however, most good deeds are appreciated either at the time or later.

We must continue improving the Y.M.C.A. even though certain ones do continue to break up the furniture and misuse the building. We must sod and probably resod the lawn where both young women and men have thoughtlessly walked in their rush to the pool and other places. We must continue to paint and repaint the window sills where thoughtless feet are placed, also the wainscoting in the pool-room where careless heels rest. We must continue improving the "Y." meetings even though the father and mother of every young man in school would rather see them at the meetings than in a bull session.

The oak bears acorns and the pig eats them. If the oak ceased to bear acorns because of lack of appreciation it would not be an oak. If the pig looked up to see where they came from it would not be a pig. Indeed, "where are the nine?"

Alexander Duff.

CRAWFORD—MOORE

On January 1, 1933, Miss America Arcy Moore, class of '28, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Moore of San Antonio, Texas, was married to John Calvin Crawford, Jr., class of '27, son of Judge and Mrs. J. C. Crawford of Maryville.

The ceremony was solemnized immediately following the New Year's Eve watchnight service, in the Westminster Presbyterian Church of San Antonio, with the Reverends J. L. Green and H. P. Bates officiating.

The music accompanying the occasion consisted of vocal solos by Miss Mary Louise Green of "O Day of Golden Promise" and "O Perfect Love"; and organ music by Jack Teale of "In a Monastery Garden", the Loheagrin Wedding March, and "At Dawning".

The bride's attendants were Misses Dorothy Borchers and Evelyn Green. The groomsmen were Stuart MacRohre, class of '26, and Glenn Murray, a former Maryville student.

Since her graduation from Maryville College Mrs. Crawford has been teaching in the Edgar Allen Poe Junior High School of San Antonio. Mr. Crawford, after his graduation from Maryville, received a further degree from Harvard. He is the junior member of the law firm Crawford and Crawford in Maryville, where he and Mrs. Crawford are now at home to their friends.

McMurray—Hertzler

Older students on the Hill will be interested in the following announcement:

Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMurray announce the marriage of their daughter
Marion Elizabeth
to
Mr. Elmer Afton Hertzler on Friday, December twenty-third
Nineteen hundred and thirty-two

Mrs. Hertzler was a student here in 1930, and has been attending Pratt Institute in Brooklyn for the past two years. She will receive her degree from Pratt next year.

ALUMNI VISIT

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Welsh, class of '28, were visitors on the campus several days of last week. Mrs. Welsh was better known when she was here as a student as Mildred Renegar. They are now visiting in Culleoka, Tennessee, with Mr. Welsh' parents, but will return to Kentucky soon.

A hick town is one where there is no place to go that one shouldn't.

LITTLE CHURCH

If we go through the Bible and attempt to find out the reason for Christ, why God came down to earth in the person of Jesus Christ, we can find our answer in one word. That word is sin. If there had been on sin the hearts of men, there would have been no Christ; and as long as sin remains in men's hearts, just so long will there be the need for Christ.

Sin isn't a very popular word today and we don't hear very much about it. But we shall never obtain social and political justice, or world peace, until we meet squarely this problem of sin in men's hearts. Social gospels, peace conferences, political and economic freedom and equality, all these are good, but they aren't enough. They aren't sufficient because they are to no avail without one condition. Every individual must accept Christ as his own Saviour; he must be regenerated or born again. This must come first, and all other remedies and reforms depend upon this.

Christ came to fight sin and he fought an uncompromising and a successful fight against it. He provided the only adequate solution to this problem. His perfect life and atoning death were effected in order that we may conquer sin in our own lives.

Every follower of Christ, therefore, is obligated to spend his life in a ceaseless and untiring war against sin. It will mean suffering and persecution; it will mean perfect and instant obedience to the Captain of this army of the living God; it will take all the stamina and courage that the soldier has, and then some. And, naturally, it will mean making enemies. Christ said, "Think not that I am come to send peace on earth; I came not to send peace, but a sword." We can't fight successfully against sin and not hurt someone's feelings, and the Christian who is afraid to make enemies and who tries to please everybody is not a good soldier of Christ.

And listen to one of the greatest soldiers of all time as he approaches the end of his part in the battle against sin. "I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day."

—Robert Stevenson.

Book Browsing

Leonard, William Ellery, A SON OF EARTH", New York, The Viking Press, 1928, pp. 1-235.

The author of the memorable "Two Lives", a long narrative told in sonnets, here issues a volume composed of poems from all his published poetry.

The principle of selection, he acknowledges", was relative quality, somewhat modified by the principle of arangement. The principle of arrangement was autobiographic, and thus the volume is, in intention, a 'poem-sequence', in eighteen episodes, about one life-time. . . . . about one son of earth. So the volume registers changes in art as well as in life; and in so far as it achieves organic unity, the whole is more than the sum of the parts".

The Greek in Mr. Leonard is evident in the first poem in this volume, which concludes with the lines

"For, of a truth, you have guarded the Gift, have guarded and given, Loving the Greek in man's soul—quickened today in how few."

In this poem, as in a number of others in this collection, the meter is the familiar Greek hexameter.

As for his other verse forms, they are largely variations of the sonnet. Leonard does everything possible with this short form, varying the rhyme scheme, changing the continuity of thought, until it becomes a vehicle for any idea.

Here is no weakling and his lot. In every poem is a strength, which, if we take the author's word, is born of struggle with pain. Mr. Leonard's life suggests Poe's, and the sestet of his sonnet to the sombre poet clarifies the relation:

". . the unconquerable soul that pain
Nor poverty with forty stripes and odd,
Fire in the throat, nor fever in the brain,
Death in the house, nor calumny abroad,
Could torture from a faith, not held in vain,
With service unto Beauty—unto God."

There is defiance in his voice as, to the friends who advise him to "Let The Past Die", he replies

"I am my past so long as I am I;
And in a brave reshaping, not forgetting,
Is my one hope and action not to die:
The Past that might have killed me if it could
I sternly mould to art and hardihood."

But there is never a frenzied note; never a bit of froth. It is with this thought in his mind that he writes.

" O art is to the free!
When pain is torn, like viper, from the breast,
Its head in dust beneath the heel, and we Know it can nevermore uplift its crest—
Then, and then only, may we masters be,
Telling experience to East and West."

There is a delicacy in these poems, a refined touch to their imagination and lyric beauty. This poetry has a distinguished note that sings out above most poetry of today. It is this quality that makes Mr. Leonard a poet of note; that elevates him in the minds of those who waver between Robinson, Jeffers, and Millay in placing their selection for the greatest modern poet.

WORLD TODAY

A new social system is now being advocated in the United States which to most people seems to be an attempt to produce a heaven on earth. The name of this new system is "technocracy". Under the new order there would be no money, price or banks, but everyone would receive the equivalent of a $10,000 a year salary. Whether this plan is feasible or not remains to be seen, but certainly it cannot be put into practice over night as some of the "technocrats" would have us believe.

—MC—

Reports are that President Hoover is going merrily about the task of packing up his belongings. Since President-elect Roosevelt's refusal to meet him in a conference on the war debt question the Chief Executive has ceased to worry about governmental affairs, and seems to be eagerly looking forward to March the fourth.

—MC—

France's refusal to pay her war debt payment in December has drawn the comment of aroused citizens all over the United States. France has lowered her standing with Uncle Sam, and unless the new French cabinet does something about it her credit will be absolutely worthless.

—MC—

Law-suits totaling $2,000,000 have resulted from the filming of George Eliott Burn's book, "I'm a Fugitive from the Chain-gang". Warner Bros. have been sued by Georgia prison officials who allege that the picture misrepresents the real condition of Georgia's chain-gangs.

—MC—

A newspaper correspondent sums up the Sino-Japanese struggle as a battle between Japan with unlimited courage and trained soldiers and China with the same resources, but with an inexhaustible amount of patience. China avers that Japan's financial system will collapse unless the war is won soon. China is just holding on, waiting for Japan to run down.

—MC—

At last the U. S. Marines have been withdrawn from Nicaragua after a nineteen years stay. This action of Uncle Sam will satisfy a large number of citizens who opposed the "big brother" attitude toward Nicaragua.

—MC—

President Hoover's plan for regrouping governmental bureaus met vigorous disappoval by congressional leaders. They declared that the advent of a new administration was too near for any drastic changes to be made.

—MC—

Great Britain set an admirable example by paying her war debt payment to the United States after two requests for more time had failed. It tended to strengthen relations between the two powers.

—MC—

Professor Albert Piccard, noted explorer of the stratosphere and authority on the cosmic rays, plans to supervise another trip into the stratosphere in Canada soon.

SPORTS

Hardwood Team Receives Defeat At Hands Of Knoxville Indepeandents As Last-Period Drive Fails

Scintillating Performances By Waldrop and Kiser Are Outstanding

In a contest which showed fight and dazzling speed at times and ragged play at other times, the Maryville Scots went down Thursday night before the Woco-Peps of Knoxville, 29-25. The game was marked by excellent floorwork and defense on both sides, and by successions of failures at offensive work. It seemed that neither side could find its shooting eye, especially for the crip shots under the basket.

The first half opened with a bang, the visitors manufacturing a field-goal before the referee's whistle had ceased to send reverbrations into the rafters of the big gym. Then, after racing up and down the floor several times to no avail, both teams lined up under the hoop while Captain Lewis sank a free throw. Several moments later, after more ineffectual attempts from both sides, he repeated, and the score was tied. More dazzling floorwork followed, and more dismaying shots at the little circle of victory, and the first half ended with the petroleum boys leading 16-12.

The second half was merely a repetition of the first, the sole exception being that the visitors could not, try as they may, increase their slender lead. When the little foghorn sounded for the game to end and the moonshiners to go home, both sides had scored thirteen points and the score stood 29-25.

For Maryville, one defensive star shone brightly, although a bit off his usual form. Under the enemy goal at all times, fighting for that ball with more success than any player on either team was none other than Mrs. Waldrop's proud possession, J. L. Although on several occasions, he was deserted, once through a misunderstanding, by his fellow-guardsman, he rose admirably to the occasion and held his ground well. On offense, Johnny Kiser looked exceptionally good. Handling the ECHO SIXTEEN sphere as skilfully as a mother of twelve handles the latest, he was hither, thither and yon all over the floor. He was ably abetted by Brothers James Lewis and Carl Haub.

MARYVILLE

	f.g.	f.t.	t.p.
Lewis, f.	2	2	6
Cherry, f.	1	0	2
Kizer, f.	4	0	8
Haub, c.	4	0	8
Waldrop, g.	0	0	0
Stone, g.	0	0	0
Creed, g.	0	1	1
Totals	11	3	25

WOCO-PEPS

	f.g.	f.t.	t.p.
Snodderly, f.	4	0	8
Reeder, f.	4	0	8
Sterchi, f.	0	0	0
Greenblott, c.	0	5	5
Bronson, g.	3	2	8
O'Conner, g.	0	0	0
Totals	11	7	29

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

For a bit over two weeks we have been on vacation. We're not bragging about it, as we understand that most of Maryville's inmates have been engaged in the same occupation. But we insist that we were among the very few who were really able to appreciate the joys of sleep without nightmares. Nightmares, we mean about grid losses, empty columns to be filled, irate editors and contemptuous critics. After two weeks of sleep with no interruptions from athletic ogres of gigantic proportions, we return ready for anything—that is, anything with a few exceptions.

—S—

It is sadly real that prophets are indeed without recognition in their own countries, While being conveyed to our parental roof by the sons of Greyhound, we encountered no less than seven members of our native state who had never even hard of us or of our percipient perambulations. 'Twas a sad blow indeed to learn that, with all our jesting about our lack of followers, wewere correct without knowing it. Maybe we'd better put on a contest for the purpose of increasing our circulation. The winner of the contest will be that person with the best suggestion as to the type of contest most admirably suited to this purpose. Address your entries to the puzzle editor, or pin them to the World News Bulletin. Winners will be announced next April.

—S—

While the holidays were in progress, our female athletic champion was reinstated by national athletic officials, only to decide that she had no further use for an amateur standing anyhow. Miss Mildred Didrikson, amateur sportser, as a result of that decision, is now Babe Didrikson, movie, sports, and radio star. We cannot blame her. She was making a good living as an amateur, so we can see no reason why she shouldn't turn pro and make a fortune at easier work.

—S—

And Pitt just would go to the Bowl, in spite of all we told her! Of course, we have the profoundest respect for Jock Sutherland and his feline gridders, as well as for the Trojans from the Hoover state. But we have a feeling that Tennessee, or Auburn, or Colgate could have upheld the honor of the gridiron East a trifle better, certainly no worse, than did the gentlemen from the City of Smoke (and we don't mean Winston-Salem.)

Personals—Maryville: Cherry 1, Kizer, 3, Waldrop 4, Creed 3, Stone 1. Woco-Peps—O'Conne 3, Bronson 1, Greenblott 2, Sterchi 2, Reeder 1, Snodderly 3. Referee: Delaney.

Tusculum Pioneers Are Next Opponents In Tonight's Game

The Maryville Basketeer squad left this afternoon for Johnson City, Tennessee, there to engage in their first collegiate game of the year. The opposition will be furnished by the Tusculum Buffaloes. Tuesday night, the Scots take on Emory and Henry here in their own back yard. The boys from up there are coming in very highly touted, and will likely provide tough going for the Scots. Thursday night, a team from Johnson City Teachers College will display their wares on the local court, and Saturday night the Scots trek to L. M. U. to play another game away. All these foes are worthy of the Highlanders' best efforts, and should provide interesting games.

From Marquette University comes the boast that said institution possesses the world's fastest water-boy for their foot-ball team. And well might this be true, for the water-boy is none other than Ralph Metcalfe, Olympic sprinter. With such a man to lug refreshments, it seems that the Marquette players should be able to take a drink between each play without having to call time out do so.

—S—

Although we realize its none of our business, we still have undying passion to discover what happens to our netmen between halves. Of course, we've only played three games at this writing, and it could be mere coincidence. But, to this humble correspondent at least, there seems to be a noticable let-down among the boys directly after their return from the lockers, and for the twenty minutes thereafter ensuing. Then, too, maybe the other team just naturally picks up. . . we don't know.

—S—

Personally, we're plumb satisfied with the guards chosen by Dr. Honaker for his 1933 hardwood edition. Mistah Stone is in there after that ball, displaying the same tenacity that he demonstrated to our delight in his football togs. And as foh Mistah Waldrop. . . my, my! ! We won't say any thing about him, except that we're darned glad he didn't choose to play for Carson-Newman, or Tusculum, or anybody but us.

—S—

Captain James (Yankee, Cocky) Lewis hasn't had a chance to get going yet. About the time he starts to warm up, he takes a trip to ye Olde Bynchhe. But one of these games pretty quick, we're venturing to stake our slightly cloudy reputation that the Springfield ace is going to cut loose with disastrous effects to somebody's ball club. Of course we were wrong once—but never again!

—S—

Down in St. Petersburg, Florida, the last few weeks have seen the staging of a novel athletic carnival. An octogenarian's club has been

(Continued on page four)

Pre-Yule Tilt With Alumni Shows Scot Form Pleasing

Thrower and His Men No Match For Younger Opponents; 36-34

Playing before a band of valiant moonshiners who braved the last vestiges of snow to witness the encounter, the Maryville College basketball squad opened its season Wednesday night, December 20 by defeating the Maryville Alumni 36-34. Although the game was somewhat slow, and although the contestants failed to exhibit as much polish as will inevitably follow, the teams were well-matched and the closeness of the score brought the game to an approach to thrills. Indeed, the score was so close that the game ended in a tie at thirty-three all, but in an extra five-minute period, the collegians put on a spurt which gave them a two-point victory over the ex-collegians.

The first half opened with a bang, both teams showing eagerness to drive the ball into the opponents territory, but reluctance to retreat to a defense quickly enough. In fact, during the earlier stages, the burden of defense was laid at the feet of the guards, Cherry and Stone for Maryville and Cherry's big brother, Cherry, and Clemens for the Alumni. As the game progressed, however, both teams broke more quickly and neither defense could be penetrated so readily. The half ended with Bob Thrower and his men leading 21-20.

The Alumni managed to preserve their lead during the third quarter, but the Scots came back in the fourth to take the lead, only to be tied in the last few minues as the game ended 33-33. In the extra period of play, the visitors could not find the hoop, marking only one free throw, while Honakker's men matched the free throw and added a field goal.

Tillie Bird, Alumni forward, captured honors for the evening's high scoring with a total of eighteen points. He was closely followed by Captain Yankee Lewis, who managed to garner sixteen pionts for the Maryvillians. Lewis played a brilliant game at his forward post, seeming to have gotten a good start in his last, and what should prove his best, season.

Cherry and Stone, starting at guard, played a dependable brand of ball at their posts, although several occasions came up when it seemed to the naturally prejudiced moonshiners and fans that the play in the Alumni quarter lasted entirly too long. Waldrop, a newcomer to the ranks, recovered from a shaky start and showed the fans a brand of floorwork that brought memories of Jack Nee to the minds of the fans.

Haub, a junior, but also a newcomer, showed promise at center, although at times he showed signs of uncertainty.

The annual game with the Alumni is used as a preliminary test for the netmen, and the game this year was very interesting. The team as a whole exhibits skill and coordination. A bit more of both and Maryville foes may well think twice before taking the Scots lightly in the least.

Basketeers Triumph As Woodruff's Is Unable To Cope With Slashing Play Of Scots In First Half

Rally In Second Half Almost Is Fatal To Scot Hopes For Victory

Starting off the post-holiday season with a 24-22 victory the Woodruff Sport Shop team at the Alumni gym last Tuesday, the home team showed promise of a threatening combination for the coming season.

Starting fast with Haub doing most of the scoring, the Scots piled up a comfortable lead in the first half. When the visitors did manage to get through the home defense to within shooting distance, they missed heartbreaking hoop shots which literally lolled on the rim before dropping over the side. Stone and Waldrof held the fort against the Woodruff onslaught to little more than nothing during that first period. Waldrop, a freshman incidentally, does his basketballing fast and furious. Slim Haub, the lanky center, did the high scoring of the evening with ten points to his credit. His shots are apparently effortless as his reach comes somewhere in the vicinity of the basket itself.

In the second half, when Woodruff started finding the rim with alarming accuracy, the Highlanders lost the team coordination that they had at the beginning and fluffed their passes to the extent of losing the ball at midcourt. The visitors, realizing the handicap they were working under, played inspired basketball and Fisher, their high point man, did practically all of the scoring. The only thing that stopped their whirlwind attack was the final whistle that left Maryville the bare margin of one basket.

In the preliminary game, the Maryville town girls rolled over the Woodruff misses to the tune of 31 to 13. The local mainstays were Kiser and Martin, with 13 and 14 points, respectively, while Fay Mizer held high honors for the visitors with 7 points.

The Line-ups:

Maryville

	f.g.	f.t.	t.p.
Cherry, f.	1	0	2
Lewis, f.	0	0	0
Allen, f.	0	0	0
Kizer, f.	2	0	4
Haub,	5	0	10
Waldrop, g.	4	0	8
Stone, g.	0	0	0
Creed, g.	0	0	0
Totals	12	0	24

Woodruffs

	f.g.	f.t.	t.p.
Fisher, f.	4	5	13
Cobetti, f.	0	2	2
Harris, c.	1	0	2
Cruze, g.	0	3	3
Capps, g.	1	0	2
Boruff	0	0	0
Totals	6	10	22

Southern Conference Officials Change To Metric Measurements

Record Holders Will Become Momentarily Extinct With Change

Of interest to collegiate sport fans was the recent decision of Southern Confernce athletic officials in regard to a change from the present system of measurement of distances to the metric system, now used by all countries, excepting England and the United States. As a result of this change, all present record-holders will be ousted from their psitions of honor, as the distances at which they won their records will no longer be official. That is, the track distances will be changed. Field records will remain as they are until other claimants break them.

This announcement comes at an opportune time for Maryville, as a movement has been startd by the Athletic Board of Control to make changes in the length of the Maryville track. These changes, when made, will probably now be made to meet the qualifications of the new metric measurements.

Instead of the 100-yard and 220-yard dashes, track stars will compete at distances of 100 and 200 meters. The quarter-mile, half-mile, mile and two-mile runs will be replaced by runs of 400, 800, 1500 and 3000 meters.

GIRL'S BASKETBALL

The Scotchettes basketball teams have seen two practices since the Christmas holidays, and are fast shaping themselves for the intramural games which will begin the week of semester examinations and continue through the following week. The teams have been tentatively chosen, and each of the class teams has selected a captain to guide them in their short season.

The class was studying 1 Corinthians at the point wherein Paul the apostle commented upon long hair as the glory of women.

Louise Reichelderfer: "Dr. Rodgers, wouldn't a man have hair as long as a woman if he would let it grow?"

Dr. Rodgers: "Well, I wouldn't."!

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	*†9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*†‡Direct connection to Townsend

PALACE THEATRE
NEXT WEEK MON.-TUES.
Frank Buck's
"Bring 'Em Back Alive"
Amazing Sound-Film Record of the Greatest Adventure ever recorded on film.
Every foot of this film made in the Malay Jungle.
On the Stage
CALVERT & CO.

SOPHOMORES!
The sooner your pictures are made for the 1933 Chilhowean, just that much sooner will the book be ready for publication. Webb's studio can accommodate you at all times Let's Go! ! ! ! !

CHRISTMAS IS PAST
But there are occasions for giving throughout the year. Always make your gifts personal
GIVE PHOTOGRAPHS
THE WEBB STUDIO

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN TOPE, Representative

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

LET'S KILL THE CALF

(By Bryan Payne)

We have just about come to believe that good old Maryville College holds the record when it comes to wild tales about engine trouble, tire trouble, and various losses of religion. And out of all the horde that went home and returned in the various components of Carnegie's exclusive junk pile, we believe that the Quigley boys have the biggest story to tell. Truly, they have been martyrs to a cause, but they have not been half the martyrs that the tires which graced that big tub of a Packard have been; at least we think not. Those tires surely took a beating, so to speak. The boys said that they didn't mind the first four or five flats, but when the sum mounted to nine they became quite irreligious. Another disappointing fact was that they didn't make anything, pecuniarily speaking, on the trip. Each fellow was to pay twelve dollars for the round trip.—well, we heard that every dollar of the ninety six went for gasoline, oil, tires, tire repair, and for repairing the general condition of the tub—we like that word "tub", so we use it. We left when they told one story about the time when they had to pay five dollars for having one tire fixed. . . . yes, we left.

Another crate and its adventures which interested us was Andy Newcomer's Reo. It, loaded down with any number of girls and boys, went all the way to New York. . . and came back. A good many of the fellows were intensely interested in its return, too, because Roberta Howie, M.C. red-head, was along, and that, they figured, was something. However, Bill Frisch didn't have much to say about the matter; he passed it up with a grin. (Maybe it was cha-grin).

It so happened, or at least it so was told, that Tope, driving a ford, had twenty blowouts. After taking one look at the car, we rather supposed that the statement was correct, although we took care not to be sucked in by the draft.

We've managed to save the climax till the last. Having spent the day, after vacation was supposed to have been over, on a watch party for the Haub Ford, we and our vigilance were rewarded at last with a distant rattling and shaking noise which closely resembled that made by a tin roof in a wind storm. The coming to rest was characterized by a violent precipitation of Virginia dust, New Jersey cinders, and Tennessee clay; and as we looked around for Haub, we saw him unwind himself from around the gear-shift, open that two-ton mouth, and say, "Has anybody anything to eat?" Well, here's the surprise. They didn't have a single bit of trouble. Not a single leak in the old boat bothered them. We're mighty glad, of course, but the part that hurts us is that our predictions in the last issue fell short, very short. We feel that someone did us a wrong because they didn't see that the Ford would be sure to break down, thus fulfilling the dope sheet. Oh well, we'll call it off and save it for an editorial sometime. Yes, we think so; you know, it's preposterous the way they upset these buckets nowadays.

OBERVATIONS

Hunting Huntington
Bassett Makes Leap
Superior Theron
Ten Men For Wright!

Having led a different life—we were well fed—for the past two weeks, we settle down to this with something of the feelings of a dark cloud, (we imagine), which has had a lot of fun playing around in front of the sun, as it reluctantly fades away. Well, we faded away, too; no one knew when we left. . . that is, no one but the grocer; and he must have felt the loss pretty keenly.

—O—

Just one more paragraph about us and our good times, and it is for the benefit (not financially) of some one who kind of leads us around by a string; (it's really a pretty big chain). We had a good time, we did; she lives in Huntington—and right there was where we stopped hunting. One thing we did do, tho', was to stay sober, and that is pretty fine, for we notice that some of them are still groggy from the cheer (sousing instead of rousing); our boy Snyder, for instance, only this afternoon had to call someone from the basement to let him out of his room—well, that's benzine for you.

—O—

We reckon that we are not the only one who had had a good time. Quite a few co-eds trapsied up the hill wearing nothing but diamond rings . . on their fingers. (We hope that our faculty advisor doesn't strike this out). But the thing that surprised us most was the flashy diamond that graced the Georgia-maid fingers of Almira Basset, freshman, Memorialite, etc. We almost said that the fingers graced the ring, but not being able to tell whether its former home was in a mansion or in a shack, figuratively speaking, we put it this way. Well, congratulations, Almira; that's a pretty big accomplishment for a freshman. . . . and a whole lot bigger one ior someone else, we're thinking.

—O—

Yes. . . the Quigley boys are here at last—at last of money, at last of faith in automobiles, and almost at last of Packard. We're thinking that the last of their good sense went with the fifty dollars to pay for the car. Everybody was worried to death; the question was on everyone's lips, "Have you seen the Packard?" The last thing we heard before it rolled in was that it was stranded up the road with four flat tires. Well . . . we were relieved; at least we knew that they couldn't have any more, which they didn't. (Unlike the woman who had twins . . .she did)

—O—

Even a staff meeting is sometimes interesting. Someone suggested that Beale write Theron Alerander, Jr. up in the "Superior Scotties" column. Yep, Theron Jr.'s "pichur", which came out in the News-Sentinel was posted on the bulletin board to greet the boys as they came back. A foine pichur it wuz, too; him a lookin' like Carl Sandburg in a inspired mood. Carl, I mean. Theron wrote a wee verse and won a car, Rockne to us, which he immediately turned over to the family, to quote the News-Sentinel, to take the place of one he had wrecked recently. We're watching to see whether or not his motto will be "There will always be another one along", which is ours in some cases. All this publicity makes the going a little tough tho'; Dr. Hunter will be expecting some good grades in poetry class from Theron.

—O—

While we were down the way burning our good Merchaums (we whisper the fact that we have a pipe, for we know someone in Huntington who doesn't like pipes), we met two freshmanlike sophomores who had to study for a test in calculus; calculus, mind you, and they were going to the show. Well, we always did think that one's education should never be neglected. And their names, Wright and Thomas of three thirty-two Carnegie, bear a certain connection to the unscholarly act, which term isn't meant to be harsh at all.

—O—

We hate to mention our staff meetings more than once in a column, but we would like to commend the members for their fine attendance in response to the announcement in chapel Thursday morning. No one seems to have heard it . . . . except ten males and one female. . . . . Nat Wright must have felt honored at the attention she got.

—O—

Funny things happen sometimes, even in colleges. Dean Hunter pulled a good one not long ago on one of our more serious minded students. We're not mentioning any names in this, but recently a senior wrote a term paper to fulfill a history requirement, which in itself is an uncommon thing, and handed it to the dean with this note attached. "I have written this paper for history, but would like your comment and criticism on it before handing it in." Well, the paper came back with a red penciled—"should" in place of the "would" in the note, which we were thinking was about as emphatic a way of giving criticism as could be thought of. It struck us as being pretty good, so we thought that we'd pass it on.

And then there is the freshman who had a tough time on the examination, and who, to smooth things over, wished the teacher a Merry Christmas, and who wrote on the end of the paper a ples for forgiveness for such a paper.

—O—

Some few weeks ago in the filta of this great weekly, we see where we got the razz together with the title of biggest liar east of the Rockies. Yes, we did appreciate that, but now we feel that we have served our time under that heading. We do not feel that we are doing right by some of our upperclass friends to continue in the above capacity—here's why. Recently, in a reeking bull session, Yankee Lewis, full of enthusiasm from the folly-days, belittled our rating with the fact that he slept on an average of nine and a half hours every night during vacation. We did not expect such a tale from Yank, but we have what we think might be a possible solution. Fritz Neff was there with his little red book figuring up just how many hours he had had. Well . . . . the evils of competition are many, they say.

—O—

Some articles make their respective owners prominent, such as Paxton's room, Haub's ford, Howie's red hair, and Bob Borcer's new white turtle-neck sweater, but really we have noticed something about a fellow that has made us wonder about a lot of things. We see Mr. Ad Swicegood going down the street with his shoulders bent and his eyes roving over the bottoms of his trouser legs. At first we thought that he might have lost something, but now we figure that he's all wrapped up in his walk. You see, it is a good collegiate swing, and he likes it, we reckon. Those gracefully tailored pants swish back and forth in a manner that is quite the stuff and they look good, but we rather expect that he wont be doing those things next year; most sophomores don't.

We have seen and heard of lots of ways for journalists to make money, but never have we seen anything so simple as a column in a certain northern paper, an Indiana paper, to be exact. Some editor spends his time walking up Jefferson Street, of the town in question, and observes the actions of the citizenry on that particular street. "So and so shining his shoes—Mr. X straightening his tie—P. S. jay-walking across the street—walking up Jefferson." Yeah. . . . it's great to be an observer.

Y. M. C. A.

"God and the Depression" is the subject on which Mr. Black will speak tomorrow at the regular 1:15 meeting. It will be an informal exposition of some of the information God's Word gives us on the place of suffering in the Christian Life—surely a problem of current interest! Why should Christian's suffer? Can a merciful God cause people to suffer? Is there blessing in trouble? Should Christians woryy? These are some of the questions our speaker may touch on.

The members of the Y.M.C.A. last Sunday had the unusual pleasure an. In the morning Mr. Buchanan sang at the Presbyterian Church and in the evening he sang and spoke at the Student Volunteer meeting.

Mr. Buchanan was graduated from Maryville College in 1922 and took his seminary training at Richmond, Virginia. In 1925 he sailed with his wife (formerly Miss Clara Browning) and daughter, June, for Japan. During seven years in Japan, Mr. Buchanan has conducted Bible classes besides doing regular preaching. He conducts classes in singing and is in much demand as a concert singer.

The first of the week he left for Princeton where he is doing post-graduate study. He will finish this work the 22nd of June and will start on a lecture tour. Later he will spend some time in Montreat and start to California the last of July by automobile. Mr. and Mrs. Buchanan and their two children will sail the last of August for Japan where he will resume his heavy duties among the natives.

Mr. Buchanan's parents, Dr. and Mrs. David Buchanan, are missionaries in Kobe, Japan, and his sister, Ruth is teaching in the same town. His brother, Mr. Edwin Buchanan, is also teaching in Japan.

AND THANKS, LORD—Amen

Here's their claim to the record—fifty hours on the 700 mile stretch from Philadelphia to Mayville with one stop to eat, none to sleep, but with nine or ten to fix flats, sharps, and blowouts. Beat that if you can.

Nine valiant, trustful souls left Maryville on December 19. Only eight ventured to start back on January 3, and of these, two fell by the wayside. Six left out of nine! What a grind! But what a car!

Ask W. W. if he remembers that cider half way up a Virginia mountain. Said staid Junior Warman, "One glass of this goes to my head" . . . . and it did. Then it was "hoop", "hic", and a lot of unsuspected brightness from Warren.

There was the five and a half hours one morning before seven o'clock spent fixing the first flat. There was the mid-night halt of two hours in the rain while the tire was rolled back three miles to be fixed. There was the mile ride on a rim to a gas station for gas, and all because the tire insisted on staying flat. With solid tires that Packard could cross the continent—in a freight car.

The inmates looked like a bunch of gansters, unshaven, unkempt, unwashed, and almost unconscious. As "Sue Martha Jane" bounced along they whooped it up with the college cheers and yells. In spite of tire trouble, tired limbs and eyes, they had a rattling good time. And another thing, they must get credit for advertising the college. Not a burgh passed on the trip but knows and has seen of Maryville. What the impression is, is another matter.

Them Virginnie hills were the stickers, but the Packard crossed them. If you don't believe us, look in front of Carnegie. Once or twice the contingent had to disembark, it is true, and walk and push to ease the strain on the twin six. Then the gearshift sounded like a 'bus and six trucks in dire distress. There certainly was music on those hills. And how the engine heated up! The steam generator in front at one time shot a fountain of steam and water at least twenty feet into the air. But everybody was happy.

It was a trip that had to be experienced to be appreciated. Who wouldn't have enjoyed the expedition? Picture the sleepy crew filling the radiator with water from a roadside stream, using a cardboard box, a rusty can, and a Coco Cola bottle. Think of the fun fixing at least nine flats. Imagine a Packard, Quigley-conducted, and Warman-announced tour through Washington, with a search for parking space at the Lincoln Memorial. What a contrast—that Packard perched at the curb in front of the Lincoln Memorial! Fancy you hear the bunch singing hymns to the hum of nicely purring Packard cylinders. Sympathize with them in the search for cheap gas, and then hear it spit in the exhaust.

It would take volumes to describe that tour. The statistics are interesting—700 miles, enough gas to run a normal Ford from Maine to Florida, oil enough to raise the oil industry out of the depression, and the steam generated could run a locomotive across the continent and back (almost).

Adv. Wanted: a strong bunch of college men to run a Parkard, 1923 model. . . . . into the Tennessee River.

SPORT SLANTS

(Continued from page three)

meeting there, with baseball games, etc. for recreation. In one of the baseball games we happened to be reading about, a rookie pitcher of eighty-seven was bested in a pitching duel by a veteran of ninety-four. Then came the news that a couple of the boys of eighty or thereabouts engaged in a friendly prize-fight of four rounds. The referee, one hundred and one, declared the fight a draw when, in the last round, both the youngsters swung haymakers to the beard and fell to the floor, kayoed. The same doctors who protested, horrified, against the match, stated that no harm was done and a good time was had by all.

—S—

The water finally cleared off the basketball courts in Georgia, and the net season there is in full swing. Every available barrel is bereft of its hoops, the staves remaining as a mute evidence of the sacrifice of industry to athletics.

—S—

Philosophizing turns athletic:—sport dress for athletes is somewhat out of kelter. Track and swimming costumes are all right, but some of the rest! Baseball season comes in hottest part of the year, and the players are compelled to wear sweat shirts, heavy woolen uniforms, ditto sox. Comes fall and cooler weather, and footballers remove a layer of shirting and a pair of sox. Along comes winter and basetball and, Lordy, the things they can wear. Then the weather gets warmer and the athletes begin to don more clothing. 'S a good thing we don't have extreme heat and cold. The boys might forget to wear anything in winter—and wear coonskin coats for summer sports.

FEBRUARY MEETINGS

(Continued From Page One)

ing asked and repeatedly now President Lloyd is being asked to tell of them in some college or church group or through the pages of some publication.

From year to year the College has been able to secure the leadership of men of different type and approach who bring their own contributions to the common purpose of presenting the privileges and claims of Christian faith, Christian character, and Christian service.

DEBATE

(Continued From Page One)

will begin soon after the opening of the second semester.

Announcement has been made by Professor Queener that the provincial convention of Pi Kappa Delta will be held in Maryville Friday and Saturday of the first week in April. The seven teams of the convention who will attend this meeting are: Franklin College, Franklin, Indiana; Transylvania College, Lexington, Kentucky; Georgetown College, Georgetown, Kentucky; Centre College, Danville, Kentucky; Tusculum College of Greeneville; Johnson City Teachers and Maryville College.

About fifty people will attend the convention. The program will consist of contests in debate, oratory, and extemporaneous speech for both men and women from these colleges. Other announcements of a more definite nature will be made later.

Miss Henry Sponsors Holiday Entertainment

On Tuesday, December 27, a party for the students who remained in Maryville during the holidays, sponsored by Miss Henry, and chaperoned by Miss Henry, Mr. and Mrs. Newberry and Mr. Lagerstedt, was given in the alumni gymnasium and the Y.W.C.A. reading rooms. Forty-five students attended. The recreation was supervised by Tess Frye and Fred Kirchner.

An interesting and well-planned program supplemented by various games, was planned for the evening's entertainment. The refreshments were furnished by the students present.

At Texas Christian University a questionnaire prepared showed that advertisements in the school paper draw a large amount of trade to the business establishments of the town.

DR. FIELDS

(Continued from page one)

developed a meaning for the term and was able to make the language response to the situation. In the study with the rats the triangle was presented to them in many situations and then they were tested for the concept of triangularity. But "the rat cannot tell us what he is thinking," says Dr. Fields, "and for that reason a gross muscular response had to be used for the language response."

The form of muscular response used was that of jumping. A modified form of an apparatus designed by Dr. Lashley of the University of Chicago, was used in establishing this response. This material is described in The Monograph, to which the reader is referred.

The rats were given extensive training in distinguishing between a circle and a triangle, and were then tested for discrimination between figures which do not contain the quality triangularity and any design which does. These rats were given some 40,000 trials to 80 different visual patterns arranged in 240 combinations. For this reason these animals can be assumed to have had "triangle experiences" more nearly approaching those of man.

"The experiment was really an attempt", says Dr. Fields, "to find out just how much the rat could learn and how nearly it can approach man in the formation of concepts." The results of the study indicate that rats are able to form concepts, which is contrary to the popular belief.

New Year Customs

Although most countries have a great deal in common about New Year's celebrations, there is much that is different in various countries.

In Europe the beginning of the year is a time for giving and receiving gifts, and good luck tokens.

The Italians like to gather together with their neighbors. While waiting the coming of the New Year they roast chestnuts. This is a very important part of the evening's merry-making. At midnight stillness reigns. They do not usher in the Year with noise. If they are religiously inclined someone will offer prayer. Then the jollity is continued with feasting, drinking, singing, and playing of instruments.

In Scotland, Hogmanay (as New Year's Eve is called) is celebrated more than Christmas, and is a time for the exchange of gifts. The people gather at the squares in the towns and villages and wait the coming of the New Year. It is a solemn occasion. At twelve the bells toll out "to ring out the old, and ring in the new." Almost all over the land groups of Scots unite in singing "A Guid New Year to Yin and A'," and make much of wishing their friends a Happy New Year. Then they part to carry on the old Scottish custom of "first footing." A Scot likes to have the honor of being the first one to cross his friends' doorstep in the year. Some superstitutions are connected with this custom. The "first footer" must carry something in his hand; he may not enter empty-handed. Too, a red-headed person is sure to bring bad luck for the rest of the year.

The Japanese like to make a round of their friends on New Year's Eve. At each home a large plate of sweetmeats is offered. It is the custom just to take a little then move on to another home where more will be eaten. They also drink much and some of the Japanese go to extremes in that.

Across in Korea the New Year is welcomed with noise and firecrackers. The fireworks are noisier than even an American Fourth of July celebration. The native Koreans are fond of dressing up for the festivities, visting their friends, and feasting.

Registration Program

Announcement regarding registration for the second semester was made as follows this week from the office of the Registrar:

Seniors—Friday and Saturday, January 20 and 21

Juniors—Monday and Tuesday, January 23 and 23

Sophomores—Wednesday and Thursday, January 25 and 26

Freshmen—Friday and Saturday, January 27 and 28

Registration will begin each day at 9 a. m., at the registrar's office in Anderson Hall, and continue until 3:00 p. m.

Students will enroll with the classes in which they enrolled in the first semester. No changes in classification will be made until the grades are recorded. Those eligible for promotion will be notified.

Students should have their students' cards with them when they register. A duplicate will cost ten cents.

All students will be reported to teachers by Thursday, February 2, and absences will be recorded beginning with that day.

The treasurer's office will be open for the payment of bills, from 9 a. m. until 3 p. m., on Friday, January 27, Tuesday, January 31, and Wednesday and Thursday, February 1 and 2. The late registration fee of $5 will go into effect on Friday, February 3.

At the meeting of the Committee on Student Publications, held January 10 in Professor Davis' class room Bernard Mattingley was chosen junior associate editor of the Highland Echo to fill the vacancy left by the resignation of Miss Geraldine Smith.

JOSE ITURBI WILL APPEAR HERE

(Continued From Page One)

idea is Order! The second idea is Order! Call it what you will, plan, sense of proportion, deisgn, feeling for development. What is a real melody? An "idea", a theme of intrinsic value? It is a succession of notes which leads in a beatuiful curve. It must produce a harmonious, well-proportioned line. It must lead to a climax. Cheap melodies are short; they lead nowhere.

"In Bach all melodies have this intrinsic value, this beautiful line. Bach has both heart and brain, spontoneity and science. Therefore, he is for me the genius. Noble, lofty, there is no man of the present or the past, not even Beethoven, who can compare with him.

"Throughout America I have had audiences which showed the deepest interest in music—splendid audiences. The character of audiences differs markedly in the various cities. But the audience which is the most interesting to me personally is the one which wishes to understand, which is not at first too demonstrative, but is gradually won, step by step, by the artist."

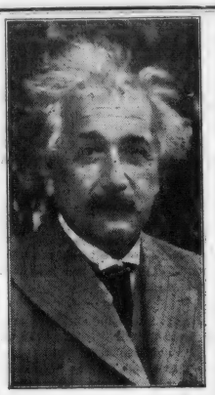
The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, JANUARY 21, 1933 | NUMBER FIFTEEN

Observations

STEEDELUMDEDEE

While the rest of the cullij is spending its time choosing the most beautiful girl on the hill, the handsomest boy, and all that foolish business, we've been noticing that the girl with the most "whatyou maycallit" is by all means Mary Lillian Steed. We don't want Miss Steed, or anyone else, to misconstrue the meaning of the above enclosure to mean "it", because we're quite sure that isn't what it is. Its "whatyoumaycallit". We calculate that there are not less than 16 men on an average who stop to talk to the Winchester chesty in the course of each day's filling, and that does not include out of the dining hall procedure, and by the way, it does not include us. We can't stand this blamed competition . . . not meaning to comment in a disparaging way toward any of the women folk who have found themselves in our inspiring presence at any time. We hadn't thought of mentioning this until the other evening at which time we were noticing T. Madison Byar spending much time at this particular table, and he wans't talking to one of the other 13. T. was preoccupied! All we can say about any woman who can cause the eyes of T. Madison Byar to fall on her for over five minutes at a stretch is—What a woman! What a Woman! But, after all, who wants people to say that about him. (We realize that as we say this, the last thread of our popularity—if we ever had any—has actually vanished . . . vanished. . . vanished).



NOW, LOUISA

We heard Louisa Hillyer make the statement the other day that she's "off men" for the second semester". We print this just to give the little woman the much needed publicity, and also, we print it in the interests of improved manhood. Actually, we print it as free advertising. We shall be willing to accept Louisa's thanks at any time.

HAUBOUTIT?

We were so much encouraged over the thanks we got from the last bit of. . .. shall we say, "diamond-studded publicity", that we have made the resolution to continue the practice. However, we cannot tell just how long it will continue to be a practice. We might make it a profession; but if we do, please, don't call us "professor". There is one thing, though, which has not escaped our observation, and that is the little affair which seems to be springing up between one of our table mates and Maryville College's sensational basket ball player. This Branning-Waldrop affair is very interesting. And we really think that Haub makes an efficient mediator. You see, Haub sits at our table, or rather devours it, and he

(Continued On Page Four)

Dr. Albert Einstein Is Important Speaker At Student Gathering

3000 College Men and Women Will Attend Meeting At Southern California

Over 3000 college men and women will convene in the Civic Auditorium in Pasadena, California on January 23 to hear Dr. Albert Einstein and several other prominent personalities speak on "The World Economic Situation." The program, which is to be sponsored by the Southern California Student Body Presidents Association, will be broadcast over a national hook-up.

The success of a similar meeting on "World Armaments", held by the group last year, was cited as being directly responsible for the student executives' decision to sponsor a session this month during which time Dr. Einstein will be studying in Southern California. The 1932 meeting was the first of its kind ever to be held, its conception and management being entirely reliant on student initiative. Featuring besides Dr. Einstein, Dr. Charles A. Beard, noted government and American history authority; Dr. Robert A. Millikan, winner of the Nobel Prize; and Dean McHenry, who was student president of the University of California at Los Angeles last year; the program was enthusiastically received and attended by a capacity crowd.

The purpose of these meetings which are staged by collegians is to "help the objective consideration of the basically important problems which are now confronting the civilized world." Further, the sponsoring body of eleven student presidents says "Public opinion is a much abused term. Sometimes it is

(Continued On Page Four)

Collegiate Gigolos Form Date Club At Tulane University

Collegiate gigolos are quite the latest thing at Tulane University as indicated by the announcement of the formulation of a "gigolo club". It will provide "attractive, well-dressed dates" for all occasions for "small remuneration."

Such a club has been formed primarily to solve the date problem for women attending Newcomb College in New Orleans.

"Clients" names will not be revealed, and all engagements will be held strictly confidential. A fee of $2 will be collected by an escort to a formal party requiring a dinner jacket, while "formal" dates will change $1.

Taxi fares, night club checks, flowers, shows, and similar items will naturally be paid by the young woman.

Winners Are Decided In Contest Conducted By Chilhowean Staff

Betty Zoller Is Most Beautiful Girl; Tom West And S. Boretsky Win

Betty Zoller is the most beautiful co-ed in Maryville College. So voted the student body last Wednesday morning in chapel, naming sixty-seven other possibilities in the process. Of the total sixty-eight girls mentioned in votes, those who approached the final laurels were Betty Zoller, Mary Ellen Anderson, Opal Johnson, and Frances Mingea. Miss Zoller, from Maryville, received the highest number of votes.

The most handsome man, an honor equally important in the eyes of the students, is Tom West, who was followed closely by Donald Briggs.

The title of most typical college man was awarded Steve Boretsky. Donald Briggs also ran a close second in this race.

Over a hundred men were mentioned on the votes for both these honors. Dr. Hunter, Mr. Mac, Skippy, and Huey P. Long received frequent votes. Miss Mollie was mentioned often in competition with the three score and eight co-eds.

Writer's Workshop Votes New Members At Recent Meeting

Viola Lightfoot, Kay Carpenter Mildred Brooks Are Selected

The three news members voted into the Writers' Workshop at the regular meeting last Wednesday are Viola Lightfoot, Kay Carpenter, and Mildred Brooks.

The two conditons for membership in the organization these students have fulfilled, namely, the minimum scholastic classification of juniors in college, and ability in the art of original composition. Elections of new members, which are held three times each year, in the fall, at the end of the first semester, and at the close of school, limit the membership to twenty-five students and faculty members.

The program for last Wednesday was furnished by Miss Gamble and Prof. Lagerstedt. Miss Gamble's contribution was a short story, "The Quilt". The immediately local setting, familiar characters, excellent dialect, and dramatic situation were characteristic of the entertaining sketch.

Prof. Lagerstedt read an English translation of a story in the Berlin Illustrated Daily entitled "The Last Prisoner". The purpose of the narrative was to present the German side of the problem of harsh treatment of war prisoners.

A committee was appointed from the Workshop at the suggestion of the Expression Department to work on the project of producing a short play for presentation by the De-

(Continued On Page Four)

Two Changes Are Made In Cast Of Athenian Midwinter, "Dracula"

Two changes have been made in the cast of Athenian's play, "Dracula". Robert Lodwick has been given the part of the attendant due to the fact that Peter Hamilton, who had the part, may not be back in school the second semester.

Harvard Miller, who was cast originally as John Harker, does not expect to return to school. Arthur Lazell now has the part.

There have been no other changes in either the cast, or stage and business staffs.

Illness has contributed towards holding up rehearsals, but at the present time all indications point to stability and the best effort coming from everyone connected with the play.

The date for the play's presentation has been definitely set for February 27, one week after Theta's "Enchanted April."

Speech Bureau Proves Valuable To City Organizations

New Functionary Is Unit Of Professor Queener's Debate Class

The Speech Bureau, in connection with the Public Speaking Class, has proved valuable to town organizations by providing student speakers on topics of interest to the particular organizations.

Robert Stevenson recently spoke at the regular meeting of the D. A. R., on "Loyalists in the Revolution", and James Smith gave a talk at the local W.C.T.U. on "Law Enforcement and the Criminal". February 2 a group of six students will speak at the circle meetings of the Presbyterian Church on the present Chinese-Japanese situation. The speakers are Maria Wynn, Leslie Webb, Reuben Alford, Douglas Carhart, Andrew Newcomer, and Frank Meese. Wednesday, February 3, Earle Crawford and Benjamin Groves will address the local Kiwanis Club on "The Measures before the Present Congress."

The Speech Bureau is an experiment of the debate organization of Maryville College, to increase opportunities for developing ability in preparing and delivering speeches on any desired subject.

"The Enchanted April" Is Well Supplied With "Subtle Humor"

Harry Mathias And Nez Hamrick Provide Much Humor In Delightful Play

When Harry Mathias, in the role of the precise Mellersh Wilkins, is precipitated onto the stage in the middle of the second act of "The Enchanted April" the audience will not be concerned about the scientific cause for his entrance, which is the explosion of the bathroom heater. Their amusement will lie in the the very spectacle of Mellersh, clad in a bathrobe, (the modified form of a large bath towel, for which the original directions call) and muttering one adequate malediction at the steaming bathroom which has thus compromised his dignity.

The Theta Epsilon midwinter is "subtle humor", says Mrs. West, who is directing "The Enchanted April". The character of Mellersh Wilkins is typical of this humor, which, though it is hilarious in few places, is light satire on characters and their idiosyncrasies.

"Radiant, positively radiant", Nez Hamrick as Lotty Wilkins characterizes Mellersh, after greeting the husband she has fled to Italy supposedly to abandon along with her household duties for a temporary development of her aesthetic temperament.

Lucille Swafford is cast as the pompous Mrs. Fisher, continually

(Continued On Page Four)

Y. W. C. A.

At the special request of the program secretaries of the Y. W. C. A. Miss Clemmie Henry will again be guest speaker at the Sunday meeting of the Y. W. C. A. tomorrow afternoon.

She will lead a discussion on the general subject of "Ideals and The Limit of Tolerance", with the idea of discovering the proper relation between ideals and tolerance.

The mmbers of the Y. W. C. A. are urged to be present at this meeting, and to participate freely in the discussion.

Special music will be furnished by the Y. M. C. A.

Delightful Program Will Be Presented By Glee Club Feb. 2

Arabian, Spanish, German, French, And Negro Songs Feature Novel Program

Arabian, Negro, French, Spanish, and German songs will furnish a program of variety for the annual spring concert of the Girls' Glee Club, to be presented on February 2nd. The selections will present not only musical trends in various countries, but a sharp contrast of musical types. The program, which ranges from the rich minor strains of a negro spiritual to the humorous, lilting lines of an old German student song, runs the garnet of melody emotions. An unusual stage setting will provide atmosphere for the entertainment.

The program will be opened informally, and after the introduction the following two groups of numbers will be given:

It Is The Sunset Hour—Arabian
Song Cycle - - - - - Spross
Deep River - - Froher-Harris
Around the Gypsy Fire - - Hahm-Stickler
Serenade—Donna Juanita - - - Von Suppe-Deis
Johnny Schmaker - - - McKinney
Will You Remember—Maytime - Romberg
Si Mes Vers Avaient des Ailes - - Hahm-Stickler
Lndy - - - - - Spross
Come With The Gypsy Bride—Bohemian Girl - - - Bolf-Helton

The last half of the program will consist of a cantata "Three Springs". The Dancers will be Violet Webb, Elizabeth Bailey, and Carrie Lou Tweed. Tiny human butterflies will be another feature of the spring setting.

Lamar Library Receives 250 New Books In Last Shipment

Van Loon's Geography, Best Seller, Is Inluded In List

The last major shipment of books for the current school year was received by the library last week. There were 250 books in the collection, the subjects ranging from a volume of southern recipes to the complete works of Theodore Storm, in the original, and several volumes on such subjects as organic syntheses. These books are now being catalogued by the Librarian and will soon be ready for circulation.

One of the most interesting books in the group is Van Loon's Geography, which, according to Brentano's list, is a best seller among the non-fiction class in all the larger cities in this country. It presents geography in such an unusual manner as to make it vital and easily understood.

Another book of more than ordinary interest is a collection called "Fourteen Stories From One Plot". This is edited by John Milton Borden, Professor of English at Yale University. It contains stories by fourteen leading short story writers of the day developing the so-called "Mr. Fothergill's plot." This plot is:

"A man gets into correspondence with a woman whom he doesn't know and he finds romance in it. Then he sees a girl, falls in love with her in the ordinary way, marries her and drops the academic correspondence. Happiness, then friction. He writes again to the unknown woman and finds consolation till by accident it is discovered that the married couple are writing to one another." Many different styles of writing are exemplified in the collection.

In the field of fiction there are a number of new novels and also a number of older novels:

Scott—Dead Hands Reaching
Maxwell—Amos the Wanderer
Bromfield—The Green Bay Tree
Gather—Obscure Destinies
Bentley—Inheritance
Glasglow—The Sheltered Life
Mann—The Magic Mountain (1932 translation)
Bridge—Peking Picnic
Galsworthy —In Chancery
Galsworthy—The Man of Property
Hergesheimer—Jana Head
Hergesheimer—Balisand
Walpole—Fortitude

(Continued on page four)

DREAMAGINATION

Wouldn't it be nice if we could dwell in dreamland? It seems that way from the thoughts that come to us from time to time. If this were dreamland think of the changes we could make in Maryville.

For one thing, we could parcel out to everyone a great big quota of common sense. That would eliminate foolish questions. It would produce feature articles worth reading (of course, you don't have to read these), and make table conversation less irritating.

Then we could have a radio and a telephone in each room, with a bathroom next door.. Wouldn't that be convenient? The bathroom idea is good, for it's badly needed. Then we wouldn't have to yell for lights; we'd just call up Mr. Mac. Happy thought! we could speak to the girl back home whenever we felt like it. The toll charges Oh, they'd be taken care of—this is dreamland.

Dreamland would provide for everyone the ideal roommate. We'd each have one who'd do all the work for us, remind us of all those things we forget, gossip when we want to gossip and shut up when we want quietness.

When we should need cash, it would be right at hand. No more anxious waiting for that check that never comes! No more empty stomachs. No more compelled abstinence from candy, or absence from the movies! Then we could treat that lovely brunette without after pangs of remorse. College could be made really interesting.

Of course, it goes almost without saying that those tiresome social regulations would be puffed into the upper air, or anywhere else out of sight and effect. The problem of conscientiously evading the rules would be solved. The moonlight nights could be used and so could those fine college woods. Dream on, sad soul!

Another happy thought! we could have breakfast in bed seven mornings in the week (eight if there were eight). A little better than that, we could have our pick of the waitresses to bring it over. We'd soon have Elysium. Naturally Pearson's would be renovated, particularly the kitchen; and the food—well, you do your dreaming, I've done mine.

Studies, one of the banes of college life, would get interesting, for we could leave the uninteresting alone, and concentrate on the more attractive courses. That would probably leave nothing to study, but that's so much the better.

And so on we dream and are happy for the minute. But presently we notice the calendar and reflect that in a day or three the debacle will be on.

LET'S PLANT BUSHES

(by Bryan Payne)

Good ol' bushes of Maryville College; how protecting they are. . . . sometimes. Bushes are really very fine things; even Moses once hid in them, and if it is for no other reason than the fact that Moses did hide in the bushes, these fringy things planted around the campus offer ample attraction to the one social function of the college, that of moonshining. But now, alas, the one protector of social liberty on the Hill, the secret-sharing bush, is losing the last thread of its popularity. Why it is, we don't know. However, we suspect that someone made a little too much noise one night, or perhaps someone's chewing gum stuck. At any rate, it has now become the custom of the matrons to peer twice to make sure about "those things". More than one unsuspecting party has been broken up hurriedly this last week with the admonition, "Stay out of the bushes." Thus, clinching the argument with one hand and the typewriter with the other, what we wish to say is that moonshiners are going to have to put their heads together for another reason than that which the above title implies. The havens around the campus for moon shiners are bit by bit being found out by the telescopic eyes of the faculty.

But let us not be alarmed by that fact. Just remember that several hundred years from now, these match-like cedars will have grown to be mastadons of their species such as the giant redwoods of California have become. It would then hardly behoove the business administration of the college to build dormitories with windows large enough to afford an encompassing view of the opposite sides of the trees. Years from now when our bearus have become hoary with age, (barring women, of course), we can think over the problem of our grandchildrens' education with self-satisfaction, because we shall know that the cedars of Maryville College are large enough to protect our moonshining grandchildren. Yes. . . or maybe M. C. will have penthouses and dance pavilions by then.

Regardless of whether or not Haarlem Avenue will ever reach the campus, we feel it our duty to inform, to the best of our ability, those who will hereafter find it difficult to find a suitable place where they may exchange whatever informalities they may wish to exchange.

The deep shadows of the library might often serve the purpose. We would suggest however that those shadows outside the building be chosen instead of those on the inside, for one can readily find more available space through which to vamoose in the event of being chased by the ever alert nightwatchman. And then shelves of books

(Continued on page four)

The Highland Echo

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

KAY CARPENTER - - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
BERNARD MATTINGLEY - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, January 21, 1933

LIGHTING EFFECTS

The time is much too rapidly approaching when every student becomes "superman" and attempts to do his best on semester examinations, with the attainment of good grades as the hoped for an ultimatum. There can be no doubt that this week is the most unnatural of all-times during the school year.

One of the practices is cramming—a habit which is becoming generally accepted as a common and expected procedure. Faculty members don't encourage it, but students, by practice, do. This incurs one procedure which is likewise common and expected. . . . that of "burning the midnight, and post-midnight oil". It happens, unfortunately, that burning the midnight oil, when concerning Maryville, is spoken literally. This adds to the fire hazard which is an important consideration where all dormitories are wood–constructed, and by no means fire-proof.

A perfectly reasonable way to avoid, to a very large extent, this danger, and to, at the same time comply with the wishes of a large number of students is to extend, for the semester week, the time of darkening all the halls. An extension of this time to midnight would meet the approval of nearly every student, and would make studying for semester examinations seem much less like drudgery. At the same time, it might decrease the number of "moon-eyed" and "blearyeyed" students the morning after.

NO BEER

Professor William R. Slaughter, publications director for Northwestern University, has barred the word "beer" from university magazines and periodicals. "Beer has nothing to do with students, no matter what is done about it in Washington", he said.

Thus another word is added to the short list of Anglo-Saxon four-letter unprintables, and we have no doubt that naughty small boys in Northwestern will presently begin scrawling it on the board fences on the way home from school with chalk obtained from Northwestern's blackboards. (from "The Gamecock", South Carolina.)

WHITE COLLARS

According to a statement made by the president of Berea College, Kentucky, sending college graduates out into the cold, cold world is "like throwing naked babies into the Atlantic Ocean." He further declared that the time will come when the graduates of colleges will have no kind of collar at all, white or otherwise.

WET WOMEN

Two out of every three co-eds at the University of Pennsylvania drink intoxicating beverages of some kind or other, according to a survey made by Kenneth W. Conners, graduate research student at the University. The results of the survey were published in the alumni magazine of the university.

"Among male students", Conners said, "we found that three out of every five drink occasionally and that one out of every five is a steady drinker. The co-eds usually drink socially.

"The student most likely to drink comes from a 'wet' home in an urban community, lives at a fraternity house and buys his liquor at a speakeasy or a roadhouse."

The survey, Conners said, was made on a scientific basis and represented about 25 percent of the senior class of the university.

TOO MANY TEACHERS

Several prospective teachers might feel a little insecure after hearing the suggestion of one of Tennessee's legislature members at the last meeting as it was recorded in the Knoxville Journal. The suggestion, which would be in line with an economy drive is to do away with all teacher colleges in Tennessee. The reasons are two: that practically the same courses are given in many other schools in the state; and that there are, at the present time, at least two applicants for every teacher's position in this state. This would seem to bear out the none too encouraging comment of the Berea president. Some of the future teachers won't need a collar—white or otherwise—until they get a shirt to wear with it.

FRESHMAN DEBATORS

While the college as a unit is more interested in the varsity debate team and its war debt problems, the freshman club is having its little troubles with the matter of banking. If the freshman class can do justice to this banking problem, in their own minds, they will be doing something, certainly, that few college freshmen can do, inasmuch as financiers, brokers, and men who have worked with money all of their life have found themselves unable to solve the problem. It rather seems that the freshmen have a question that will go "far over their head."

OUR SOCIAL LIFE

One of the most distasteful elements of the social life on the hill is the remarkable way in which everyone is aware of everyone else's business. That seems a crude way to state it, but it is, nevertheless, exact. Some of this has "grown" on the hill with time from a beginning in the vicinity of 1819, and the rest of it is due to the unusual, and very unnatural, dormitory life of both men and women. Try as we may, we can't become convinced that life at Maryville nears normalcy. . . whatever that is.

HANDSHAKING

One of the criticisms of college students by college faculty is that they fail to appreciate the many favors that are granted them. We have been convinced of this very same thing ever since our first year at school (we're not trying at this stage to identify ourselves as faculty members) with the truth in this. At the same time, admitting the very fact of this, we have never found a way of expressing thanks, or seeing other students do it without feeling, or having someone else feeling that it is a "handshaking" proposition. Most normal students have an inherent antipathy for that term and they risk all faculty opinion to guard against student opinion which might regard them as handshakers.

SOCIALIST STIGMA

A recent dispatch from a local paper contained the news that Norman Thomas would start, or at least encourage, an other, and a much larger and better prepared hunger march on Washington, D. C. just after the beginning of President-elect Roosevelt's term on March 4. We rather hope that this will meet with someone's disapproval enough that it won't develop. It would seem better to believe that people voted for Mr. Thomas for some reason besides casting a protest vote. About one more hunger strike on Washington should bring a stigma on the name "socialism" which should last for all time.

SING SING CHAPLAIN TELLS WHY COLLEGE MEN GO TO JAIL AND HOW THEY BEHAVE

Men Who Work Way Through College Rarely Become Criminals, Says Chaplain Petersen

All the best known colleges are represented in Sing Sing Prison, but the majority of crimes for which college men are jailed are different from those in the case of non-college men, declares Anthony N. Petersen, Protestant chaplain of the prison.

"Alumni of the best-known colleges and universities share prison tasks with men whose mentality is that of a little child, under-privileged boys who have never been taught to read and write, and foreigners who cannot speak intelligible English. The son of one of the leading educators in America has served two terms in Sing Sing.

Sing Sing Culture

"The intellectual atmosphere of Sing Sing is far more cultured than most people suppose. Among the inmates are experts in history, literature, journalism, philosophy, comparative philology, science and religion. We have college-trained lawyers who usually are glad to give advice to the other prisoners, and doctors who informally prescribe for minor ailments of their fellow-inmates. We once had an unfrocked clergyman; a brilliant scholar he was, too. One of those highly educated men said to me: 'Chaplain, you don't class me with the rest of the prisoners here, do you?' 'No', I answered, 'I place you far below them. They did not have your training, your opportunities, your general background. So I consider that you are much more to be condemned than these other poor fellows who never had the chance in life that you did.'

"It is seldom, however, that our college men show such a conceited spirit. On the contrary, they seem to feel the disgrace of their conviction and imprisonment more intensely than other group of inmates. Usually, too, they think back of the punishment to the crime for which it was inflicted. But however much a highly educated man may feel the disgrace of imprisonment and shrink from the associations of prison life, his superior intelligence prompts him to accept quietly the exigencies of his new situation, and as a rule college men are model prisoners. In fact, disciplinary measures among them are practically unknown.

"To the best of my knowledge, we have not had any school teachers or college professors among our prisoners. Whether this is because such men do acquire a real education at college, or because of something connected with the essential altruism of their profession, the truth remains that those who make teaching their life-work do not come to Sing Sing.

"How does it happen that so many of them are in prison? Why should men who belong to what is popularly considered our most privileged class make such a failure of life that they have to be shut up behind the bars? A college man now at Sing Sing is inclined to lay the blame on social and economic conditions. He says that in periods of financial depression the proportion of highly educated men who are in prison should be expected to increase, because, in the first place, a depression hits earliest and hardest those who are holding white collar jobs, and in the second place, these men are used to living better and more extensively than laborers or mechanics, and so, when the crisis comes, they are less able and willing to adapt themselves to a lower scale of living. I have not yet been able to get any statistical check on this theory; but as far as it goes, it sounds plausible.

"Hard drinking and sexual excesses are, of course, nearly always associated with a life of crime; but it would take a professional criminologist to say just how far they are causes of crime, and how far they are effects of crime, and to what extent they are merely concomitant results of the ethical and emotional instability which leads to both dissipation and crime.

Not Murder

"College men are seldom convicted of offenses where either force or intimidation is involved, or even extreme physical exertion. They are not likely to become human flies, or cat burglars, or safe-blowers, or hold-up men or racketeers, or kidnappers, or mail-coach robbers. They are not addicted to the crime passionel. It is very rarely that, for any cause whatever, they commit murder. Since I came to Sing Sing seventeen years ago, only one college man has been electrocuted.

"As compared with the present inmates of Sing Sing who have only attended high school, the prisoners who have attended college have, in proportion to their total number, committed only one-eighth as many robberies (robbery being a crime that involves personal violence or the threat of violence), but they have committed three times as many larcenies. The typical college man's crime is taking money that does not belong to him, while the owner is not watching, and doing this in what seems the easiest and safest way.

"Of all crimes, college men seem most addicted to forgery. In view of the fact that this is one of the easiest crimes to detect, and also one of the easiest on which to obtain a conviction, their partiality to it would seem to support the contention of the prisoner who doubts whether, after all, one gets an education in college."

(from current Redbook, article by Chaplain Peterson).

MINISTERIAL ASSN.

At its regular weekly meeting on Wednesday, January 18th, the Ministerial Association installed its newly elected officers for the second term. The accomplishments of the old administration were reviewed by Phil Sorce, the outgoing president. The plans of the new administration were outlined by Frank R. Neff, Jr., the incoming president. New officers are:

President—Frank R. Neff, Jr.
Vice President—Harry Wood
Secy.-Treas.—Andrew Newcomer
Editor—Winn T. Barr

There will be no publication of THE HIGHLAND ECHO next week because of semester examinations. The next issue will come out Saturday, February 4.

A vacancy has been left on the Business Staff of the Highland Echo by the resignation of David McArthur. Mr. McArthur will not return to college the second semester. Aspiring business managers are asked to make application for this position to Andrew Newcomer, or Professor Walker.

'Two Paradises are in one,
To live in Paradise alone,'
—Marvell, The Garden

Y. M. C. A.

Sunday afternoon at one o'clock the Y. M. C. A. presents Professor Raymond O. Smith, Superintendent of the Maryville City Schools, as the speaker. This meeting will be of interest to all.

The Y. M. C. A. is planning to have speakers from the department of psychology of the University of Tennesse, Dr. Clifford Barbour, and other speakers who should attract all men to the Sunday "Y".

WORLD TODAY

Imagine traveling by railway on pneumatic tires and in a stainless steel car. That's what they do near Reading, Pennsylvania. Due to the lightness of the material used, the car has unusually high speed.

—MC—

The atom is still as elusive and as mysterious as ever, says "Science" for January. Other texts seem to be confident about its nature, though the layman is still as perplexed as ever.

—MC—

At last the Phillipines are nearing freedom. The "New York Times" reports the Senate as voting down the presidential veto by 66-26. Rejection of the bill has been forecast in Manila.

—MC—

President-elect Roosevelt has indicated that the Hoover policy in the Orient will be upheld. He is quoted by the "New York Times" as saying, "American foreign policies must uphold the sanctity of international treaties.."

—MC—

President Hoover in a message to Congress again stressed the need of more taxes for balancing the national budget. Obviously the first step is to reduce the nation's expenditures. President Hoover still seems to prefer a general manufacturer's sale's tax, says the 'Times'.

—MC—

Citizens of sunny Madrid refused to leave their homes on January 19 because of a 3-inch blanket of snow. The "New York Times" says that lions roaring mournfully were very disturbing. That's getting the lions' share.

—MC—

65,000 Federal positions will be distributed after March 4 by the then President Roosevelt. Sometimes it's good to be a Democrat, although the "New York Times" probably forgot that many of these positions have already been given out.

—MC—

British, French, and American financial aid, according to economic experts at Geneva who are reported by the "New York Times", will soon have the world back on the gold standard.

—MC—

The Japanese-Chinese question seems no nearer solution than before. Hopes for a reconciliation, held by the League of Nations, is as far off as ever points out the "Times" in a funereal tone.

—MC—

According to a report made by J. S. Tritle, vice-president and general manager of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., machines have not replaced men to any great extent during the last forty years. Technocracy may not be pertinent to present-day conditions after all. Mr. Tritle quoted government figures.

—MC—

Vitamin B, found in cereals, milk, and eggs, has at last been made by London scientists. Ultraviolet light was an important factor in the process, according to the "Times".

—MC—

From the "Literary Digest" comes the news that Reno granted only 3,105 divorce decrees in 1932 as compared to 4,248 in 1931. Women received twice as many as men. Perhaps the depression has brought about greater sympathy and understanding.

—MC—

Katherine Mansfield, one of the most remarkable of modern story writers, died ten years ago this month at 34. As a writer of note her reputation continues to grow yearly imply the "Bookman".

—MC—

Samuel Insull's permit to stay in Greece has been extended to January, 1934. The home office, at Athens, recommended that the foreign office allow Insull to remain here at least five months longer as he is not considered a criminal and is not engaged in trade which would cause unemployment among Greeks.

Every man is suspicious of three things: his daughter's boy friends, a new noise in his automobile, and hash.

The Poetry Corner

Note:—The poetry in this issue and subsequent issues consists of some of the best work done in Dr. Hunter's class in poetry 207.

Fair Fever

(parody on John Masefield's "Sea Fever")

We must all go to the fair again,
to the happy crowds and the clowns,
And all we ask is a lolly-pop and popcorn by the pounds,
And the horn's toot, and the fife's song, and the whistle's blowing,
And a black pig in a green barn and a red cow lowing.

We must go to the fair again,
for the call of the sawdust pike
To a wild call and a clear call that we can not deny,
And all we ask to a perfect day and gay balloons flying,
And the sizzling sound, and the savory smell of hot dogs frying.

We must go to the fair again, to the crazy shows and freaks,
To the "Hey-dey" and "scenic railway" where the air is rent with shrieks;
And all we ask is a good time with a bunch of jolly friends,
And a "kewpie" doll and a walking stick when the long day ends.

—Marion Faulkner

The Cramming Hour

Between the dark and the daylight,
With a lamp about two candle-power,
Comes a time for deep concentration
That is known as the Cramming Hour.

I hear in the chamber above me
The tapping of restless feet,
As more students struggle with History
An average of "F" to beat.

From my study I pause for a moment
And vow right then and there,
That if only I pass this quiz,
Next tme I'll take more care.

The dates—I study and study
Yet I know those teachers wise
Are plotting and planning together
To take me by surprise.

And so though I'd study forever
Yes, forever and a day,
Till backward, and forward I'd learned them
I'd flunk History anyway.

—Fern Metzger

With apologies to Longfellow

Only Stone

The likenesses of two men
Carved in cold stone
Above the door of a chapel
Where all the world might see.
Leaders of their nation,
Roosevelt and Wilson,
Facing each other
And resting forever now,
In peaceful enmity.

—Helen Thompson

Twilight

It is twilight—
Grey December twilight.
Everything is still,
And I am lonely.

Chimneys send smoke
From cheery home fires;
But they are not my fires
And the smoke is grey
And cheerless.

A train whistles eerily—
Mournfully
Like the wail of wind
In the trees.

I am lonely.
It is twilight—
Grey December twilight.

—Fern Metzger

A great thing is a great book, but a greater thing than all is the talk of a great man.—Disraeli.

At the University of Rochester all graduates of the class of 1932 who have been unable to secure employment are permitted to return to the institution and study for their master's or doctor's degree without charge.

Christianity is now offered as a way of life, not a type of talk.—Goodwin B. Watson.

Human beings are the most interesting objects on earth, and to know themselves and get along with one another is their most important business—Dorsey.

SPORTS

Maryville Fans Get First Taste Of Classy Basketball As Emory-Henry Steam-Rollers Honaker's Horribles

Scots Humiliated By 41-18 Score As Wasps Buzz Too Effectually

The Maryville Scots dropped their second consecutive college game of the season Tuesday night as Emory and Henry's Wasps buzzed too effectually for the Highlanders defeating them 41-18. The game was relatively free from thrills, as there never was a time during the contest when it seemed that the Scotties would rise up and give the visitors a run for their money, or victory.

The battle opened, seeing the contestants on even terms for the only time during the evening. The opposing faction dropped a bucket through the hoop ere the home boys seemed to hear the whistle. Then, after another tip-off, the two teams fought on a fairly even status for a time, albeit the Maryvillians showed a striking reluctance to break for the enemy goal to form a defense. Then the carnage began and continued until the horn blew for the end of the half, the score being at that stage of the game 20 to 12, decidedly in favor of the enemy.

Kiser's offensive work and Waldrop's defensive were the outstanding features of the first half, so far as Maryville was concerned. Haub, lanky center, seemed unable to find himself, and finally did so on the bench. His height was immediately and sharply missed, as the highly touted center of Emory and Henry had no difficulty at all in outdistancing Stone, who is a mere six or seven inches shorter, and flipping the ball to any of his teammates who happened to be comfortably situated. The lead gained while Haub was cooling his dogs on the bench did much towards making the opponents' lead as humiliating as it was.

The second half was merely a repetition of the first, with the sole exception that both teams scored about half as many points therein as they did in the first period. When the timekeeper marcifully blew his horn, the score read 41-18, with the Wasps carrying off the laurels.

Summary

MARYVILLE	F.G.	F.T.	P.	T.P.
Kizer, f.	1	0	2	2
Fisher, f.	0	0	0	0
Stone, i.	1	0	3	2
Stone, f.	1	0	3	2
Allen, f.	0	0	0	0
Haub, c.	1	1	4	3
Lewis, g.	3	1	1	7
Cherry, g.	0	0	0	0
Taylor, g.	0	0	0	0
Waldrop, g.	2	0	0	4
Creed, g.	0	0	0	0
Totals	8	2	13	18

EMORY-HENRY	F.G.	F.T.	P.	T.P.
Robinson, f.	4	0	2	8
Fulk, f.	3	0	1	6
Marshall, c.	0	0	1	21
Roberts, c.	7	7	1	21
Mackey, g.	3	0	1	6
Countiss, g.	0	0	1	0
Anvil, g.	0	0	0	0
Neel, g.	0	0	0	0
Totals	17	7	7	41

Railsplitters Furnish Opposition To Scots In Next Game

Scots Invade Harrogate To Tussle L. M. U.

Harrogate will be the scene of the next Maryville basketball game, as the Scots trek there tonight to engage the Railsplitters of L. M. U. The home-folks will again see the Highlander machine in action Tuesday night, as the Eagles from Carson-Newman fly over to battle the Scotties. L. M. U. will be played on the local court next Saturday night in a return match for tonight's game here.

According to many R.O.T.C. professors in various colleges, some students haven't advanced from the infantry yet.

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

One of the two readers of this column has suggested that we change the type which is customarily set up at the top thereof. Our deference to our predecessor made us naturally indignant and a bit curious at such a suggestion. So we up and asked for suggestions for a new name. Believe it or not, the answer came back like a check that we should erase the legend SPORT SLANTS, substituting therefor a more fitting legend. . . . OBITUARIES. Of course we refused to do such a thing. . . tch-tch.

—S—

It begins to seem as though Maryville would have a much better chance to win basketball games if there were no intermission between halves, or if the intermission came after the game is over. In the game Tuesday night, the Scots garnered exactly six points during the twenty minutes of play after intermission. Thursday night, the boys improved, scoring seven points in the final period. Maybe perhaps we'd better speak to the officials 'bout getting this change made at once. Some of the student-fans would kinda like to see the boys win a game.

—S—

Oh yes! Brother Payne and the inscriber promised to give each other a bit of free publicity this week. We don't know what he's gonna say, if he says anything, but we want both our readers to know that it ain't so. The eye-deah.

—S—

A certain member of the student body who ain't gonna be a member of the student body next semester, but is transferring to Pitt, berated us severely for putting the I-told-you-so on the Panthers after the Rose Bowl fracas. Just for that little outburst, we're gonna let the world know what they're calling the boys from Pitt out in sunny Cal since the two Pitt disasters:—the Kittsburg Kittens. Cute, eh?

—S—

After promises of a gal's swimming team, your scribbler and George Vick are very much disappointed at not seeing any material materialization of such an institution. And well might George mourn. He had his eye on the position of coach—or su'p'n.

—S—

After seeing a great Kentucky outfit trample a not-so-great outfit from Tennessee last week, we came to the conclusion that the boys from the corkscrew state had a championship quintet. But here came Milligan and rolled over the Vols by a score which lacked only three points of being as humiliating as the one piled up by the Gobblers. So we just decided perhaps maybe U. T. was having an off-year too. Maybe it's contagious,. whut?

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.

Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	*†9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.
Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville. Etowah and Cleveland
*†‡Direct connection to Townsend

Freshmen Demonstrate Skill To Cop Interclass Swimming Meet

Obert For Freshmen, and Shields For Junior Class Look Best

Those members of the freshman class who competed in the interclass swimming meet held in the college pool last Monday night stepped out in fine style and really showed their upper class competitors how to do things in a big way. Out of a total of sixty points the freshmen captured a majority of thirty-one, Juniors came second with twenty-five points, and the seniors and sophomores trailed along with three and one respectively.

The outstanding event was a diving match between Obert, freshman, and Shields, junior. Snappy form was displayed by both contestants, but Shields was no match for the supple, twisting body of Obert, as was evidenced by the outcome; Obert, with a percentage of eighty-five, and Shields with sixty-eight.

The events and their winners are as follows:

First event: fifty yard dash; over hand style: Obert, freshman, first; Waldron, junior, second; Johnson, senior, third. Time 32 2-5 seconds.

Second event: one hundred yard backstroke: Young, junior, first; Herries, freshman, second; Alexander, sophomore, third.

Third event: two hundred yard dash: Shields, junior, first; McNaughton, freshman, second; Stevenson, senior, third. Time 3 minutes 50 seconds.

Fourth event: one hundred yard breaststroke: Herries, freshman, first; Lampe, junior, second; Carson, senior, third. Time, 1 min. 30 sec.

Fifth event: Obert, freshman, first; Shields, junior, second.

Sixth event: one hundred yard dash: Greiner, freshman, first; Lampe, junior, second; Stevenson, senior, third. Time 1 min. 16 sec.

Final event: one hundred yard relay: freshmen, first; juniors, second; seniors, third.

The horrible men beat his poor father, sharpened their knives, set the pot to boiling, and then began to— horrors of horrors!—actually, they began to cut the old man up into pieces! Whereupon the young scamp in the tree just laughed and laughed, because he knew there wouldn't be enough pieces to go around!

Last line: "I didn't know she was that kind of a girl."

And they dew tell that Mr. Friday Greiner showed up at the swimming meet last Saturday evening and took his bath in a blaze of glory. He'd said before that he leaned to hot baths, but we thought he meant just hot. The rumor hath it that the inundation of last week was so warm, some of the trailers got scorched, or scalded.

Intramural Basketball Attracts Interest Of Many Students

Third Floor and Cellar Rats Clash Tonight In Alumni Gym

The intramural basketball program, sponsored by the Y. M. C. A., is in full swing and is developing more interest than any such tourney in recent years. A six-team league is formed by teams for each of the floors in Carnegie and a team from the students living in town.

At present, the third floor team is leading, with two wins and no defeats. The town team and the basement crew are tied for second honors, having won two apiece and lost one. The second floor has a 500. percentage, having won one and lost one game. The first and fourth floors are battling desperately for the cellar position with two losses apiece.

Two more games will have seen each team play every other team. When each team has met all other teams twice, the tournament will be officially over, and the winners will be announced.

The Cellar Rats and Third Floor Boys will clash tonight in the gym at 7 p. m. This bout will be in the nature of a grudge fight, and will afford plenty of entertainment.

Mat Tryouts Completed As First Engagement Draws Nearer

Knoxville "Y" First Opponents Of New Edition of Mat Team By Thrower

The past week has seen the wind-up of the annual tryouts to determine the men who shall represent the Maryville mat squad in future competition. The squad of twenty-two has been progressing rapidly in the manly art of bone-crushing and under Coach Throwers tutelage, has come far since the opening of the season.

In the 118-pound division, Bob Beyer triumphed over Garry Ridder to win the right of representation, in the first match at least, in that class. In the 125-pound division, George Hogland won matches over Costner and Sherlock (Sissie) Ballard to gain entrance into the first match. In the next heavy class, Graham will compete against enemy garpplers. Boretsky will resume his old position in the 145-pound class by virtue of a win over Crainock, who in turn defeated Burns for the right to contest against Boretsky. Tope will also be among the veterans who continue from last year's championship team. In the 165-pound class a lively contest was forthcoming when the boys clashed. IIn the first match of the day, Millsaps won over Hardy by time advantage. Teddy Burns, Maryville's Hercules, will again match brawn with his 175-pound opponents. And in the Leviathan class, Mose Gamble will plant his two hundred odu pounds on the mat to the consternation fo enemy foemen.

The first match of the year will be held next Saturday night in Knoxville, where the Knoxville Y. M. C. A. mat team will undertake to avenge themselves for the defeat handed them by the men of Thrower last year.

Students Wax Mournful As Scotties Are Defeated By Teachers Making Three Consecutive Losses

Tusculum Down Scots In Opening Game Of Collegiate Season

Captain Lewis Is High Scorer For Scotties At Greeneville

Opening their conference season last Saturday night at Greeneville, Tennessee, the Maryville College basket five went down to the Tusculum Pioneers by a 32-24 score in a rough battle. The Scotties were far from par against Tusculum, missing shot after shot that should have put a dent in the bucket. This, coupled with the fact that the Pioneers were playing a bang-up game, making shots good, using every opportunity to cop onto the ball, spilt the final score for Maryville.

Maryville led the scoring only once or twice in the entire game, Tusculum drew first blood with a field toss which was followed by two fouls tossed in by Captain Lewis. Tusculum scored again, and Lewis came through again for a long shot, near the center of the floor. Maryville continued their streak to lift the score to 8-4 before Tusculum wised up and became the aggressors to catch up and lose the lead only one more time. This was early in the second half when Maryville held on a short time to a mere 20-21 lead. The score at the half was 18-14.

The starting line-up for the Scotties was Lewis and Kizer forward; Haub, center; Waldrop and Stone at guard. Creed saw considerable action substituting for Stone, and Allen and Cherry played a few minutes at foward and center.

The Maryville five was still lacking plenty of polish in their first season conference game. They had trouble, even with their six feet four center, in getting hold of the ball with any regularity. Having secured the ball, their greatest difficulty was in keeping possession of it. Tusculum played hard fast ball, every man being on the alert the entire game. Several of Tusculum's scores were garnered by their ability to catch the Maryville boys napping. Kimetz, left forward, looked best for Tusculum, while Lewis at forward played well, and was high score man for the Scots.

	F.G	F.T.	T.P.
Lewis, f.	3	2	8
Kizer, f.	1	0	2
Allen, f.	0	0	0
Haub, c.	1	1	3
Waldrop, g.	3	0	6
Stone, g.	1	1	3
Creed, g.	1	1	2
Totals	10	4	24

TUSCULUM	F.G	F.T.	T.P.
Seerback, f.	2	0	4
Evans, f.	0	0	0
Francisco, f.	0	0	0

Johnson City Quintet Noses Scots Out In Last Minute Battle

Bowing in an ignominious defeat at the hands of a mediocre league team, Maryville registered her third consecutive defeat of the season here Thursday night. After two somewhat excusable drubbings from Tusculum and Emory and Henry the general comment is "What has happened to Maryville athletics" when the Scots were again put on the short end of a 36-27 score.

The old rafters of Alumni Gym must have felt somewhat chagrinned as they witnessed the home quintet slow down as usual in the second half. The score at the end of the first period was 20-17 with the visitors on the bottom, but a mere three point lead at the half doesn't win the game. Teachers came back and they came back strong. From the spectator's viewpoint it looked as if they had too many men on the floor. Besides the shots that they made they must have missed as many heartbreaking attempts. There always seemed to be a man or two free under the basket and if he did happen to be covered, the offense was allowed to come as far in as the foul line for an easy shot.

As for Maryville, well, when the Scots weren't missing baskets, they were missing passes. They did take the sphere down past the center line in good style, but that is to be expected. Once past this territory, however, the leather froze-up somewhere about ten or fifteen yards from the basket, and then it was either a poor long shot or an inaccurate pass which changed the possession of the ball.

Maryville made twenty points in the first half; Teachers made seventeen. Maryville made seven points in the last half, and Teachers made nineteen.

Fathom that if you can. It can be plainly seen nevertheless, that Highlander basketball is sadly in need of an urgent dose of rejuvenation.

(Continued on page four)

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

Coulter's Greenhouses
Phone 163
JOHN TOPE, Representative

SOPHOMORES!
The sooner your pictures are made for the 1933 Chilhowean, just that much sooner will the book be ready for publication. Webb's studio can accommodate you at all times Let's Go! ! ! ! !

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

CHRISTMAS IS PAST
But there are occasions for giving throughout the year. Always make your gifts personal
GIVE PHOTOGRAPHS
THE WEBB STUDIO

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

OBSERVATIONS
(Continued From Page One)

also plays basketball. Get the connection?

TRAVELOGUE

Lots and lots of things are run in the ground these days. Even the best of spaces are run in at some time or other, excluding the ace, of course. Now that vacation is over—for some—we think that all publicity artists should lay off the various modes of travel scattered around in front of Carnegie. It becomes mighty monotonous to open a freshly printed edition of ye Echo only to see another dissertation about the fact that so and so has a pretty good car, and that so and so ought to have a good trip in it. Because of the "fact" that we have no more days of rest until June, we figure that the old buggies ought to be allowed to rest in their glory, such as it is, for a while.

WE RECOMMEND

The following might be edging in on some of R.K.O.'s editorial material, (get the euphony), but it wouldn't hurt to have a full column devoted to it sometime. It's a mighty fine swimming pool that we have over on Bartlett Green, but we're thinking that it's still lacking a lot of things, . . things to sit on, and things to stand on other than the radiators and windows, to be explicit. If we "happened to be a girl", which someone once told us we should have been, and wore a dress (the usual indentification mark) to a swimming meet and had to sit on the rail during a diving contest, we're afraid that we shouldn't appreciate the many drops of water that happened to find their way to our apparel. And incidentally, we think that there should be a press-box, at least to stand on. When the reporter, poor fellow, has to stand in the background and trust the hoarse voice of the announcer to furnish the necessary news, there's likely to be a bit of yellow journalism floating through the files of the Echo. .. . yes sir, think of it; yellow journalism.

BRING THE CHILDREN

We promised Beale to make this little bit of comment a headliner, or maybe a double streamer such as he threatened us with. After reviewing the facts, the most we can make of it is a third or fourth page story. Innocence (Beale) got ahold of an ad (Beale is the sports editor) for the Palace Theatre, the same ad that runs in the paper of the village, which ended with the invitation "come and bring the children". We don't reckon that Beale meant to tell on anyone here in college, but we lawf to think how it would have looked in the Echo. Luckily, some far sighted soul caught it on the proof and chucked it. And another thing—Beale went to Sunday School and Church the other morning; why, he's almost convinced us that he means well regardless. . . . well , regardless of what?

OH, THUCKTH!

This expression "files of the Echo" gets in dutch once in a while, just as Orr's "an unique program" almost did in last edition. Imagine our surprise when we saw that something had appeared in the "filts of the Echo". We thought about it quite a bit. . .n we even tried to associate it with "filth" and a sewage "filter", which almost satisfied our curiosity, but finally we put it aside as some proof-readers mistake, which includes us in a way. . . especially for the fact that an "s" was left out of Observations." The fact that page two was on page four and visa versa rather topped the whole affair, though, we're thinking.

SWEENEY, FOR THE LAST TIME . . . WE PROMISE

Very seldom, in our knowledge, has Sweeney ever received any credit for anything when he has graced this column, but this is one time that we bow to him for recognizing something that we've been wearing around for quite a while as being something. That something is a Delt pledge button . . . don't bother to ask what it is, Maryville doesn't have 'em; but Sweeney saw it, which all goes to prove that he's been around a little. We thank you, Sweeney, from the bottoms of our twenty fours; and in case anyone asks you, we'll depend on you to tell 'em what it's all about.

MARYVILLE OR HANOVER?

We resolved some time ago to make this entire column destructive in content, but as we looked out of our chamber at the beautiful blue haze over on yonder (sounds poetic) Chilhowees, we weakened in our resolution and so have decided to put at least one little bit of constructive comment on the list. We figure that for beauty of surroundings we couldn't have chosen a more competent college, unless it would have been Hanover in Indiana whose campus looks down over the lazily drifting Ohio River about which many a song has been written, and incidentally, . . many a love story. On a sunny afternoon, the sun throws a semi-cold shroud over the blue hills which rise in all their majesty from the fields and streams below. A tramp or ride through those mastadons of blue foliage is enough to rest any tired or dissatisfied feeling which a student might have. We'll vouch for it. . . . we know from experience.

FRESCH FRISCH

Our ability to get around over the campus has not quite done justice to our own snoopy nature, but our alternative is to talk to the boys that have. We were in this process of conversing with one of our contemporaries just the other day, and he was telling us about the unfailing, persistent, ultraregular visits of one Bill Frish and one Chenault (making two awful bad men) to the parlor of Baldwin. These two men have, we're told, made their omnipresence very noticeable lately much to their own apparent peace of mind, and much to the dismay of those with whom they come in contact, and despite coughs from the peanut gallery (something that threatens to develop in Baldwin) they go on tuning in the little old radio and having a good time. The boys have had perfect attendance for the last wedon'tknowhowlong. they gain entrance by their own guile, and behind women's skirts. . that is, one man behind two women.

BANG! BANG!

Then there's this business of Dr. Orr's pop quizzes in ethics. Pop quizzes, we have been informed are those tihngs which are sprung on students (you know, Dr. Shine) and the student is supposed to be ethical and flunk without asking any questions. This condition of ethics, though, is different. Seniors cut in a body, and a few stragglers, very courageously make their way to their apparent doom. For POP quizzes, we should say that these tests are rightly named, if "pop" means report.

QUESTION?

We happed over gymwards last Thursday night just in time to see Honaker's horribles before they very aquiescingly relinquished their hard earned lead and took it once more on the chin. That is, we came in at the half at which time we were just notiicng the usual procedure of the younger boys (future folk on basketball fame) tossing the leather around, demonstrating for the crowd, we guess. It is probable that we should, if we were really human, be getting accustomed to this procedure of seeing the youngsters in practice, but we just can't. We even think it's a very high schoolish procedure and we would prefer very much to wait a long time before we see more demonstrations of the physique of our younger superiors interrupting college basketball games on the homecourt.

THREE BLIND MISCELLANIES

We'd like to wind this thing up with a bit of miscellaneous wildfire that just wouldn't make a paragraph any other way. We just heard over the radio that the sensational "technocracy" has started on the decline, and we think it's funny because, to quote one editorial last week, no one seemed to know what it is; which fact indicates that it merely stuck its head out of the hole long enough to create a little head scratching among the people.

Second, we wonder why Haub looks at his feet just before arching the ball to the rim.

Last, we were amused the other day, while we were visiting nicotine row, to see Patterson and Petit come trudging in from the country looking very tired but happy. What do you think . .. they had been picking wild flowers and shrubs.

EINSTEIN
(Continued from page one)

merely a cloak for the energetic propaganda which is stirred up from motives of self-interest. Possibly this situation can be remedied to some extent if college students will do what they can to demonstrate the possibility of having great public problems discussed in an intelligent and objective way."

It is an effort to present an intelligent basis for the formation of opinion on questions of world importance that the Southern California group is presenting the discussion on January 23.

The awe with which we usually speak of great men was not always shared by their contemporaries. Spicy and tart remarks made by the writing fraternity about their brothers are frequent in the Golden Book Magazine examples.

Examination Schedule, First Semester, 1932-1933

Wednesday, Jan. 25—a Courses, 8:30 a. m.; A Courses 1:10 p. m.

Thursday, Jan. 26—b Courses, 8:30 a. m.; B and bx Courses 1:10 p. m.

Friday, Jan. 27—c Courses, 8:30 a. m.; C and cx Courses, 1:10 p. m.

Saturday, Jan. 28—d Courses, 8:30 a. m; D Courses 1:10 p. m.

Monday, Jan. 30—e Coures, 8:30 a. m.; E Courses, 1:10 p. m.

Tuesday, Jan. 31—f Courses, 8:30 a. m.; F Courses, 1:10 p. m.

SUPERIORS SCOTTIES

Maryville College has students who come here to go through four years of studies, who do just that and no more. Others come who do everything but study. The unusual student is one who can take a large number of extra-curricular activities upon his shoulders, and yet maintain a high standard, scholastically. The quiet, serious hero of today's story has done the unusual thing. Here is a list of the jobs he has undertaken in his four years here.

Class President—2; Y. M. C. A. Cabinet—2, 3, 4; Lyceum Manager—3, 4; Alpha Sigma Program Secretary—2 ; Treasurer—3; President—4; Editor of "M" Handbook—3; Triangle Club President—3; Theta Epsilon Midwinter—1, 2; Alpha Sigma Midwinter—3, 4; College Players—2; Theta Alpha Phi—2, 3, 4; President—3; Secretary-Treasurer—4; Play—2, 3; Choir—1, 2, 3, 4; Glee Singers—1, 2, 3, 4; Dixie Vagabond Quartet—2, 3; Pep Committee—3, 4; Chairman—4.

Since his grades throughout the four years will not be listed, suffice it to remark that he states in his customary modest manner that he expects to pass a subject during the coming trials known as the mid year exams.

Our hero, when not making faces on his own account, imitates others for a hobby. He has not a complete repertoire of impersonations of faculty members because he has not had time to observe the new teachers closely. He should have time however, to observe the new men as they lead chapel services in spite of the handicap of yawns and the rubbing of sleep-encrusted eyes. And since he is not noted for his avoidance of Eve's daughters, there is hope that no member of the faculty shall be overlooked entirely.

With all his accomplishments, particularly noteworthy being the vocal talents of singing and talking, this Superior Scottie has a weakness. When most freshmen look over their lyceum tickets, they feel sorry for the signer who seems destined to go through life bearing the name "Buggo". Gradually they come to realize that BRIGGS is the name, not "Buggo", but it takes time to spread that knowledge through the entire Freshman Class.

Of course our hero is Donald Warren Briggs of Tarrytown, New York. But that was no secret. As soon as the adjectives "quiet", "serious", and "modest" were used, the image of our Donny flashed upon each and every mental screen. And we hope that when Don Briggs becomes a teacher of mathematics he may emulate members of the Maryville College Faculty still further, especially the head of his major department.

The woman—That guy kisses every girl in school.

The man—How does he do it?

The woman—Oh, very nicely.

"I call my girl X-ray".

"How's that?"

"I have the inside dope on her".

What a hero one can be without moving a finger—Thoreau

COLLEGIATE SWAPS

The L.I.D. News is one of the papers that makes it a regular practice to grace our desk. For those who are not so well acquainted, we're speaking of the publication of the League for Industrial Democracy to which Mr. Norman Thomas, and Dr. Darry W. Laidler are rather closely connected.

—S—

Chastened by the rigors of a presidential campaign, students and delegates from more than thirty eastern colleges attended the seventeenth New York conference of the League for Industrial Democracy for a serious discussion of tactics for attaining "Socialism in our Times"; during the holidays. It was a conference of students who were fighting the battle of socialism on their own college fronts.

—:—

The students at Tennessee Polytechnic Institute are all interested in their own little dairy herd at the institution. It has been only a few weeks since they won some high sounding record (that is, the cows) on the production of milk for the fiscal year. This record was 601,11 pounds butter fat in a year. and one doesn't have to be agriculturally inclined to know that that is up in the money.

—:—

"The people who raise a large portion of the world's clothing material have not enough clothing for themselves" points out Professor Emmet Kilpatrick of The University of South Carolina, in a recent talk of the condition of the Alabama Negro. He said that the rural Negroes are so hard pressed for money that they often swap a cow or a horse for a dress or suit, and that they find it impossible to obtain necessary medical care. Even food is something which is now extremely hard to get.

—:—

It is with a great feeling of fellowship that we see someone at the University of Kentucky printing a technocratir article which in some ways conforms to our own opinions. The closing paragraph of the article, "What is Technocracy", goes "I think some good may come from the technocratic raze since people will get slight respite from the depression thoughts and many may be brought face to face with this perplexing problem, but if you ask me, Technocracy is three-fourths "hokum."

—:—

Through another capacity, the Swaps editor has had opportunity to get into contact with other newspapers on the little old continent. That is through an investigation of campus slang which is gathered in connection with the Introductory Philology class. One of these papers is the Oregon Emerald, publication of the University of Oregon, way out in Eugene. Another is The Dickinson College is Carlisle, Pennsylvania. At Oregon they have a slang that is all their own. This is even more true at Denver University, Denver, Colorado, at which place they seemed to have ten equivalents for every term. These are those for the campus automobiles: flivver, club car, hack, box, town car, leaping lena, buggy, bus, wagon, can, wreck, tin can, crate, whoopie, boiler, model-T, bug, thunder wagon, Evans 8. That's all. For names of particular professors they carry: Mrs. Mac, Dave, Jack, Paul, Gus, Duke, General, Frog, Ben, Four-eyed Monster, The Old Lady, Battle-Ax, Charlemaga, Clap-Trap, Nit-Wit, Cat's Meow, Skipper, John D., Doc, Sagging Socks. And then there are many more. . . this is a sample of that which is to come.

A recent report made by President Hoover's Committee on Social Trends consisted of fifteen volumes that cost $100,000, but it painted the picture of the United States down to the last minute, unflattering detail. According to the report as found in the "Literary Digest" there has been a rapid growth of economic and governmental organizations, while the Church and family have declined.

NEW BOOKS
(Continued From Page One)

In the biographical group three are of particular interest:

Aliss—Up The Years From Bloomsbury

Sir Isaac Newton

Prindrille—First Ladies

Tucker—Sons of the Wild Jackass

Books which discuss the economic situation are:

Orchard—Japan's Economic Position

Dahlberg—Jobs, Machines, and Capitalism

Soule—A Planned Society

Thomas—As I See It

Books from a more general field are:

Adams—The March of Democracy

Bobyns—The Underworld of American Politics

Bent—Machine Made Man

Ilin—New Russia's Primer

LET'S PLANT BUSHES
(Continued From Page One)

often tumble, uncomfortably revealing a temporary hiding place to the aggressor. (Aggressor, we think, is a bit too literary for nightwatchman).

Also, if one doesn't mind the damp smell of clothes and drying stockings, one might trek to the wash-house just east of Baldwin Hall. We have often thought, in secret, that such a place would be ideal indeed. Why we haven't made use of it we don't understand . . . . but we believe that the faculty does (understand).

We hesitate to mention any more until a later date; we should like for the knowledge of their whereabouts to remain with us as long as possible. We might mention that in case anyone would wish to run the gauntlet or receive the dreaded black letter, he might mosey away from the open area of the campus for a while. In that case, the best place we can think of is the pile of logs below the campus. They would make fine seats if they were provided with cushions. However, we suppose that someone would get the urge to call down in a loud voice, "Hey you, get off the logs!" Well, if they do yell, watch us. . . run.

WORK SHOP
(Continued From Page One)

partment in its graduation exercises in June. The committee consists of Dr. Shine, Kay Carpenter, and Nathalia Wright. It was suggested to them at the meeting that Miss Gamble's story, "The Quilt" be dramatized for this play, and they are to begin their project at once.

The next meeting of the Workshop will be held on February 9, at which time the dates for individual readings during the second semester will be announced.

Canada Club Has Special Meeting To Elect New Officers

A business meeting and election of officers was held by the Canada Club last Tuesday evening at Carnegie Parlor. The following officers were elected unanimously by standing vote:

President—Arthur Courtenay
Vice Preident—Gordon Courtenay
Secretary—A. G. Courtenay
Treasurer—Arthur G. Coutenay
Social Chairman—A. Gordon Courtenay
Janitor—Arthur Gordon Courtenay

During the business session, marked by its lack of the usual verbal clashes, it was decided to accept the resignation of Arthur G. Courtenay as Treasurer, for, in the words of Mr. Courtenay, "A treasury without a treasure needs no treasurer."

Following the business meeting, Red Courtenay entertained with two vocal numbers entitled, "Shovels, Gentlemen!" and "Whatever it is, I'm Against It."

The remainder of the evening was taken care of by Social Chairman A. Gordon Courtenay, who had arranged for a table of solitaire.

ENCHANTED APRIL
(Continued from page one)

quoting Carlyle to the naive Lotty, who does not realize that Keats and Shakespeare were not contemporaries.

Ernest Lowe takes the role of Mr. Arbruthnot, who gullibly believing he is a talented author, has forthwith selected a pen name of Arundel. He innocently arrives on the scene to make love to the aristocratic Lady Caroline, interpreted by Anne Trewhitt, only to find that his wife, who wife-like believes him in London penning a Nobel prize winner, is also a resident at the Italian villa.

The comedy of the three-act comedy is built aroud such intrinsically amusing situations as these, which, while they are not brilliant, have the quality so noticeable in "Journey's End", the "human touch".

TEACHERS
(Continued from page three)

MARYVILLE	F.G	F.T.	T.P.
Lewis, f.	4	1	9
Fisher, f.	1	0	2
Kizer, f.	2	0	4
Allen, f.	1	0	2
Haub, c.	0	0	0
Waldrop, g.	1	0	2
Creed, g.	0	0	0
Stone, g.	4	0	8
Total	13	1	27

TEACHERS	F.G	F.T.	T.P.
McCall, f.	2	0	4
A. Hoss, f.	4	0	8
Massengill, f.	6	0	0
Bailey, c.	5	0	10
Seaton, g.	4	2	10
Scheerer, g.	0	0	0
Crouch, g.	2	0	4
Total	17	2	36

Personals: Maryville— Haub 2, Waldrop 2, Stone 1. Teachers: McCall 1, Bailey 1. Referee, Snodderly

TUSCULUM
Kimetz, f.	6	6	18
Rader, c.	0	0	0
Rankin, c.	3	0	6
Hauner, g.	2	0	4
Linefoot, g.	0	0	0
Totals	13	6	32

Found in a Bible notebook: "Five points of Calvinism—total depravity, unconditional election, limited atonement, irresistible grace, perseverence of sex."

EVERYONE

Realizes It Takes Cooperation to Bring Success

Students! Patronize Maryville Merchants
Maryville ! Patronize College Enterprises

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FEBRUARY 4, 1933 | NUMBER SIXTEEN

CAGE SQUAD SHOWS IMPROVED FORM IN TWO HOME GAMES

First Service Of Annual February Meetings Will Be Held Tuesday, February 7

Dr. Ralph Marshall Davis Will Arrive in Maryville Monday Evening

The first service of the February Meetings will be held on Tuesday morning. Rev. Dr. Ralph Marshall Davis, the leader, will arrive from Erie, Pennsylvania, Monday night or Tuesday morning.

The services this Sunday form a kind of introduction with President Lloyd preaching in the morning at the New Providence Presbyterian Church in town and Dr. Stevenson preaching at the college vespers.

During the Meetings the chapel hour will be 9:45 a. m. The evening services will be at 6:30 p. m. except on Sunday, when it will be 7:00 p. m. On Sunday morning, February 12, Dr. Davis will preach at the New Providence Presbyterian Church in town. There will be no services on Saturday night or Monday morning. The first two morning class periods will come before chapel, the first beginning at 8:10.

President Lloyd sends the following information concerning the meetings and the leader:

We are once more greatly favored in that an exceedingly busy and able man has consented to give to Maryville College almost two weeks of his time. Dr. Davis is in demand for many things, yet because he believes so much in the possibilities of college youth and wishes so much that they should live life victoriously he goes every year to college campuses to present the way of Christ and of life. He has been a speaker in not less than forty colleges and universities.

Dr. Davis brings to the Meetings a strong physique, great energy, wide experience, understanding of young people and life, high scholarship, and Christian consecration. He is known as a speaker of unique power.

Rev. S. E. Stringham is an old friend; eleven times he has led the singing for the Meetings. With the excellent support of the Music Department he makes a large contribution to the services.

Year by year God has used the February Meetings mightily to help great numbers of men and women; for many the Meetings help in forming life purposes and answering vital questions; and over 2,800 Maryville students have first begun to live the Christian life during some one of the Meetings.

Spring Concert Of Girls' Glee Club Is Decided Success

With the finale from Paul Bliss' cantata "Three Springs", the Women's Glee Club, in its annual Spring Concert, concluded one of its most successful and delightful programs last Thursday evening.

Opening on a realistic exterior, with snow capped crags in the background and rustic pines in the foreground, the program began with a vigorous chorus, introducing the director and accompanist, and furnishing a foretaste of the numbers to follow.

The program was excellently selected and arranged. The first part consisted of varied selections of popular, semi-clasical, folk, and spiritual music. The variety in the songs offered an artistic musical effect. The Serenade from the opera "Don Juanita" was suggested again by the number "Come With the Gypsy Bride", but both were contrast to "Deep River" and "Lindy I Love Deares". The German student song "Johnny Schmoker" elicited more applause, but "Will You Remember", from the opera "Maytime" was probably familiar to more ears.

The second part of the program consisted of the cantata "Three Springs". Running water from the springs was achieved, and butterflies presented small difficulty. The five little girls who flitted about with quivering wings were more suggestive of the charming scene which the cantata demanded than even the admirable rocks and trees. The music, coming from behind the curtain while the dances occupied the stage, comprised some of the most beautiful numbers on the entire program.

The dancers, representing the three springs, were the main visual part of this second half. The dancing was the feature of the cantata, and was received well by the audience. Violet Webb did especially outstanding work in rhythm and expression.

More tomes have been written on Abraham Lincoln than on any other hisorical character, excepting Christ. Prior to 1870 Napoleon apparently held the record in this respect.

College Maid Shop Continues To Do Thriving Business

Order For Twelve Hundred Nurse's Uniforms Has Been Obtained

The Maid Shop reports that it is doing a thriving business, with demands for as many shipments as it can fill, and with prospects for even larger orders. Within the last two weeks it has been necessary to call in extra help. The continued success of the Maid Shop in spite of the present conditions is due to the fact that its customers and patrons consider College Maid garments superior in workmanship to ordinary factory made clothes.

Through the efforts of Mr. Alvin Keene, an order for approximately twelve hundred nurse's uniforms has been obtained as a result of a special regulation that a new type of uniform must be in use in all Veterans hospitals by July 1st.

Maid Shop choir vestments which are worn and recommended by the famous Westminster Choir have won a wide reputation for the shop. An order from Mount Holyokke College fr fifty robes was received recently. Other important requests for shipments of dresses and smocks have also been received from the Nunn-Bush Shoe Company and from the Kress stores.

A new button hole machine, which, it is hoped, will increase the efficiency of the work, was installed this morning.

Students Are Asked To Be Conservative During Spring Vacation

Vacation Is Not Intended As Opportunity For Students To Visit Homes

According to an announcement from President Lloyd in Chapel this week, the faculty have decided that there will be an Easter holiday this year. There will be no class work from Friday afternoon, April 14, till Tuesday morning, April 18.

The following notice has been received from the office relative to the vacation:

The purpose of the holiday is to give a respite from the long steady pull of the months from January to June. It is not intended to encourage students to go home; certainly in these difficult financial times no one should incur extra expense unless amply able to afford it. The dormitories and dining room will be operated as usual. The regular rule by which all absences on the days preceding and following the days announced as holidays will apply.

From time to time during recent years the faculty have considered the need and wisdom of a spring vacation. But to provide a long vacation period which would require or unduly tempt students to go home as they do at Christmas time would greatly increase the financial burden of many. The College wishes to avoid such a result. Furthermore, it does not seem wise to extend the date of Commencement. It is hoped that the plan which has been announced will provide an opportunity for rest for all without laying a hardship upon any.

CHAPEL HOUR CHANGED

a—8:10-8:55
b—8:55-9:40
Chapel—9:45-10:35
c—10:40-11:25
d—11:25-12:10
Afternoon Schedule Unchanged.

Mrs. J. H. McMurray was operated on for appendicitis last Thursday at Saint Mary's hospital in Knoxville. Her condition has improved normally since then, and she expects to be brought home by next Wednesday. Her plans for the Maid Shop are still going on, despite her enforced leave of absence.

February Meetings Have Had Long List Of Potent Leaders

Dr. Nathan Bachman Conducted First Meetings in 1877

The February Meetings have been a definite part of the program and purpose of Maryville College for 58 years. The first service was conducted by Dr. Nathan Bachman in 1877, and only four meetings have been omitted since that date.

The first leader, Dr. Nathan Bachman, was the speaker eight different years and Dr. E. A. Elmore conducted seven series of meetings. Other ministers of the earlier years include Rev. Donald McDonald, Dr. S. C. Hickey, Dr. W. R. Dawson, Dr. E. A. Cameron, Dr. W. B. Holmes, Dr. J. P. Calhoun, Dr. W. T. Rodgers, Dr. George C. Mahy and Dr. Joseph W. Cochran.

For a period beginning with 1912, Dr. E. A. Elmore, Dr. Joseph M. Broady, Dr. W. T. Bartlett and Dr. Frank Marsrton conducted the meetings until 1920. In 1920 Dr. Mel Trotter with Mr. Homer Hammontree as song leader had charge of the meetings. Dr. Lloyd led the meetings in 1928 and in 1931. Dr. Vander Muelen, Dr. Vale and Dr. Foulkes have also brought powerful messages during recent years. The far reaching influence of these annual periods of serious thought cannot be measured. The entire student body is looking forward to this the fifty-fifth series of February Meetings.

Maryville Loses Three Excellent Students By Graduation

George Brown Has Proved Persistent Student Despite Physical Handicap

With the close of the first semester the graduation requirements were completed by three men of the senior class—George Emmett Brown of Binfield, Tenn., Frank Carhart Garman, Morrisville, Pa., and Ernest White Houts, Alcoa.

Mr. Brown, who has been totally blind since early manhood has proved a worthy representative of Maryville College by his excellent scholarship. Mr. Brown's knowledge was acquired simply by taking mental notes in class, and by having text material read to him by other students. By this simple method he has attained a remarkable retention.

Mr. Brown majored in English with minors in History and Education. He plans to enter the Presbyterian Theological Seminary of Chicago. Frank Garman took his major in Social Sciences and minors in Bible and Education, while Ernest Houts' major was English and his minors, Sociology and History. Garman's and Houts', both will likely enter some kind of social service work.

Debate Tryouts Are Held Today

The tryouts for the freshman debate teams are being held today in Prof. Davis' class room in Anderson Hall from 1:15 until 8:30. From the original group of forty-three freshmen, thirty-two have reached the final tryouts from which girls and six boys will be chosen.

The question used for freshman debate is: Resolved: That the United States government should control all banks and guarantee bank deposits. The judges for the tryouts, which are conducted in eight debates are: Miss Heron, Miss Johnson, and Prof. Kiger.

George Washington is said to have been the richest president of the United States.

Tennessee Wesleyan Bulldogs And Lenoir-Rhyne Bears Bow To Rejuvenated Maryville Five

Allen Breaks Jinx For Scots; Lewis and Waldrop Play Consistent Ball

In two of the best games to be seen on the Maryville court in many moons, the Maryville Scots showed a complete reversal in form on Tuesday and Wednesday of last week in celebration of the post-exam week to decidedly trounce the strong Tennessee-Wesleyan and Lenoir Rhyne teams. In both games Maryville's squad entered as the underdogs, being conceded only a slight chance for a victory by even the most ardent fans.

Tennessee-Wesleyan Game

Displaying a brand of teamwork clearly too efficient for the Tennessee-Wesleyan Bulldogs, the Maryville court machine rolled up an aggregate of 58 points Tuesday night to submerge the opposing faction 58 to 39. Maryville's lead was never theatened and it seemed that the Scots were able to score at will. The junior team seemed a bit ill at ease on the larger floor of Alumni gym, and were not able to offer any serious competition.

In a preliminary game the Scottish scrubs were defeated by the House of Fischbach 35 to 28. Jess again was the outstanding performer for the Reserves, while West looked [illegible] from [illegible]

Tennessee Wesleyan opened the evening's scoring with a long shot. Immediately [illegible] Highlander retaliated with [illegible] goals by each member of the team. Kiser did his part in making the evening a scoring success by dropping three shots through the net in as many minutes, or less. The Scots seemed to have recovered from their old habit of fumbling, and worked the ball into scoring territory nicely, and with few mishaps. The Lady Luck repented for all the raw deals recently given the Scots in the matter of making tries good. Honaker's men might as well have been throwing through a hole in the wall. They just couldn't miss. A few moments before the half was over, Captain Lewis, who for some unfathomable reason had been sitting around on the bench all evening, was allowed to enter the fray, and he showed his appreciation by keeping the ole hoop warm the remainder of the period. The half ended

(Continued on page four)

Moonshining Course Is First Fatal Step For Maryville Grads

The other day a Freshman remarked that moonshining was the only course in which an examination was not required. However some old grads have deemed it worthwhile to undergo the test and have passed out into a state of matrimony. All cautious souls should observe the present matrimonial conditions in Maryville before they advance further in the course of love.

It would take hours of labor to amass statistics showing the number of marriages resulting from harmless moonshining, but for the benefit of a few who seem to need this advice we will tell of a few recent Maryville marriages.

"Joe" Gamble has found time to marry Frances Leisenring besides carrying on a heavy law practice. They live in the Foster Apartments, in the very shadow of the College. They are a living example of where moonshining will lead. To an observer it doesn't look so bad does it?

Miss Virginia Crider came to College and achieved a diploma, and shortly after that a Maryville man. Mr. Jimmy King is a successful business man and, from all appearances, seems to enjoy being fed by a Home Ec major. Another idea—beware of Home Ec majors!

After playing football at Maryville for four years, Carl Storey decided he wanted to be carefully tended the rest of his days, so he married Miss Annie Rowe Templin, a graduate of Maryville and a registered nurse from Johns Hopkins.

To start off the new year right, John Crawford, Jr., decided to love America Moore, in fact he married her.

The list looks so big it is really discouraging to continue. Perhaps already you will have seen the results of moonshining, you undoubtedly are familiar with the course. This is a simple warning, but in case you do not wish to heed, just ask any of the old grads listed above and they will tell you how to obtain the condition of continual moonshining bliss.

Geoffrey Chaucer was the first poet Laureate of England.

OLD RAZOR BLADES

(By Alex Christie)

I have a fondness for old razor blades. Though they dull with age, I hate to part with them. Like a Scotchman, I keep them in the razor long after their shaving edge has gone. They become old friends of mine, and even when taken from the razor they are carefully treasured. How the little collection grows, blade by blade, and box by box!

Well I remember the huge quantity that I consigned to the ashcan when I left for college. The parting was not accomplished without a sigh and a vain regret for the need of the separation. Now, at Maryville, the little silvery objects begin to accumulate once more. This time the hoard is kept less orderly, for there is no container for them. They lie around the room in places more or less obscure, one on the molding, a few on the window sill, a number behind the radiator, some under the bed, and others in the back of a chiffonier drawer.

They are serviceable little things, old razor blades. Often have I used one to slice off the crusted top of an aching corn. Hardly could I continue to perambulate without the razor's kindly ministrations. It is useful. In my humble opinion (backed by the roommate's) there's nothing quite as good as an old razor blade for taking clippings from a paper, whether the clipping be a stale joke, or the baseball scores, or the latest campus scandal. Then, too, the handy tool is second only to a Boston pencil sharpener for putting a point on a pencil. Paint scraping is another duty performed by this versatile little helper of mankind. Painters seem to take a wicked delight in flicking daubs of paint onto window panes. But the noble razor blade to the rescue! many a harrassed housewife has cause to bless the shiny steel for its aid. They're equally good for slitting dresses and slitting throats.

These are but a few of the many services rendered by the old razor blade, but listen to two men talk. Says one, "What do you do with your old razor blades?"

"Oh, I drop them behind the bathtub, or if the wind is blowing right I toss them over the window. And you?"

"I save them up."

"Why do you do that?"

"Well, what do you give your friends for Christmas?"

"Neckties, or sox, or a cigarette lighter. And you?"

"I give them razor blades."

SCOTCH NECKWEAR

(By Alex Christie)

Neckties are funny things and not even their history is known. Several beliefs are held regarding their origin, and many are the profound and knotty volumes which have been written about them.

There's Rudolph Susranola. He has a very learned and exhaustive treatise on the subject. After a discussing at considerable length some of the theories of the Origin of the Common Necktie, Susranola advances a new and clever theory of his own. He says that many, many years ago while it was still unlawful for men to have pockets in their suits, an inventive youth, Necktorius by name, hit upon the happy idea of carrying his nosewiper around his neck. In course of time the handkerchief became decorative and degenerated into the necktie as it is known today. Susranola insists that the article is called a necktie after its inventor, Necktorius.

Others, however, and with equal authority, put forward Nero the Fiddler as the originator of the necktie. In substantiation of this claim they point to the Laos bust in the British Mustum which clearly shows, or so they say, that Nero wore such an accessory. The opponents, denying this claim, say that what looks like a necktie is in reality nothing but the mark of the join in the mold. There is more to this argument than a plaster cast, however, and that is the record of the Roman historian, Bolonius. He recounts the well-known story of the burning of Rome and relates that as Nero's arm grew weak from holding the fiddle aloft, the Emperor conceived the brilliant notion of tying the instrument around his neck with a brightly colored cloth. Indeed, says Bolonius, this and not an overloaded stomach caused the death of Nero, for, in the midst of playing Sousa's "Stars and Stripes", the fiddle slipped, tightening the neckcloth, which choked the fiddling idler.

We might continue to tell of Howe, and Whenn, and Whie, and their explanations of the necktie's humble beginning, but the editor's patience forbids. Suffice it to say, that in all the earth there is no more fascinating study than that of the Origin of Ties.

Ties are dangerous things, too. Even one innocent in hue has to be watched with eagle eye. No matter how quiet and subdued the tie may be, it has, seemingly, an irre-

(Continued on page four)

The Highland Echo

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

KAY CARPENTER - - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
BERNARD MATTINGLEY - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, February 4, 1933

OUR SALVATION

While the millionaires are much concerned over their possible chance of being reduced to the $100,000 class; while the colleges of the country wonder whether they can exist another year without unthought of financial replenishments; while people on the street are starving; and various other social problems present themselves before us, we are forced to consider one of our own which involves the matter of finances.

Up to the present time, the advertising in THE HIGHLAND ECHO has been less in quantity than at any previous existence of the paper. Town merchants are veritably at a loss, being practically forced to save every penny possible in an effort to avert possible business failure. Aff business, and consequently all advertising, not only in this town, but in all towns and cities of the country, have fallen off to an unbelievable extent, and advertising has taken a corresponding setback.

Our immediate problem, and one which must deserve the attention and consideration of the entire student body, is the advertising in the THE HIGHLAND ECHO. The people who use our paper as a basis for advertising are the home merchants and the only way to expect their support is to support them in return.

We wish to remain an active news unit of the college during the entire semester. Our ultimate life or lack of life depends on the financial backing which we receive, part of which comes from the treasurer's office, and the remainder of which rests in the returns for advertising material. We ask of the student body that they may, as much as possible, support this paper in its effort to remain active by purchasing from Maryville stores.

RE-THINKING MISSIONS

The most recent eye-opener coming to the attention of the church leaders in America, has been "Re-Thinking Missions", which is a "Laymen's Inquiry After One Hundred Years". One of the criticisms of this book has been that the inquirers came back with the same conclusions that they had upon leaving. . . . that the entire enterprise was but a confirmation of existing beliefs.

Whether this is true or not, one can be sure that this was a great and worthwhile undertaking, and we wish that every person could take the advice of Mrs. Pearl Buck, who says, "I want every American Christian to read this book". Mrs. Buck might have substituted the word "citizen" for "Christian". Even if the leaders of this influential movement received but a confirmation of their opinions, they have put down into valuable language some important conclusions that any aspiring missionary should accept as axiomatic material.

The object of the investigation was "To aid laymen in determining their attitude toward Foreign Missions, by reconsidering the functions of such Missions in the world of today. They worked with this general aim, To make an objective appraisal of activities; To observe the effect of Missions on the people of the orient; and to work out a practical program for today, offering, recommendations as to activities.

It is impossible to enter into any detail of their report. We do, however, sift out three findings that seem of outstanding importance, and three findings that should be, and must be instrumental in the foregoing of a profitable change in missions. They are: That it is not the duty of the Christian missionary to attack the non-Christian systems of religion—it is his primary duty to present in positive form his conception of the way of life and let it speak for itself; The commission is convinced that a much more critical selection of candidates should be made, even at the risk of curtailing the number of missionaries sent out; and that one of the most urgent needs in all fields is the rigid enforcement of a policy of concentration of personnel and resources. . . . . which would do away with the denominational interests, institutional pride, and lack of cooperative planning which have contributed to the development of conditions which should no longer be tolerated.

HITLER IN CHARGE

With the innovation of the present government in Germany, a new regime is begun, and several important political facts have been brought to light. There seems to be one outstanding desire of all the leaders of German political affairs . . . . that is to get a stabilized and efficient government at the sacrifice of party lines.

The surprise entrance of Adolf Hitler, the Nazi leader, to the chair of the Chancellor in Germany means at least the temporary overthrow of Marxism. If not that, it is the temporary weakness of that traditional institution. It means, or professes to mean, the doing away with communism, and a corresponding emphasis on the centrist party. It should mean the much-to-be-desired stabilization of German currency. It is the hope of observing nations that the advent of a new administration will signify certain definite steps toward disarmament in Germany.

There is much of international interest in the recent developments in Germany. Unrest is prevailing at present, and war is on constantly between the Communists and the National Socialists. It presents a problem for a great man to solve. It will take a great man to undertake anything of a constructive nature. Just now two of the greatest men in Germany are put to this test. The team of Hindenburg and Hitler has the eyes of the entire world on it, watching from a critical viewpoint, and at the same time hoping sincerely that these men can be instrumental in ultimate attainment of peace and progress in the Fatherland.

LITTLE CHURCH

THOUGHTS On The Words of Christ

Only one source exists to which we may go to read the words of Christ. That source is the divinely inspired Word of God, the Bible. Yet within the source we can discover that there is recorded what men said about the words of Christ as well as the quoted words of Christ.

Jesus had, we are told in first part of Luke, returned to his home town and was asked to take part in the service of the synagogue. He read to them Isaiah 61:1 and then expounded to them its meaning and revealed to them its immediate fulfillment. "And all bare him witness and wondered at the gracious words which proceeded out of his mouth." Luke 4.22. Although He spoke gracious words and they knew him as Jospeh's son they refused to tolerate Him, and they made to cast Him out of His home town.

Again on another Sabbath day we find Jesus teaching, putting forth His principles, and doctrines which He received of the Father. These peole were astonished as were those in Nazareth, "And they were astonished at His doctrine for His word was with power", Luke 4:32. Not only did He speak with gracious words but only His words had power; power to heal men of all their diseases, mental, spiritual and physical.

On another occasion officers were sent out to arrest Jesus and to bring Him before the chief priests and Pharisees. We find these officers witnessing to the words of Christ. They were held by His words, and were restrained not to arrest Him, "The officers answered saying, Never man spake like this man." John 7:46. Even though they did not recognize Him as the Messiah yet they did recognize His words as uncomparable to any man's.

As a final example of men's opinions and expressions of Christ's words let us consider Peter's answer to a question from His Master. Peter, while he often spoke vehemently spoke the truth. When Christ's followers were beginning to leave Him He turned to His disciples and asked if they too would go away. To this Simon Peter answered, "Lord to whom shall we go? Thou hast the words of eternal life." Living words, words that abounded in eternal life, for Peter, for all of us who "believe and are sure that Thou art the Christ, the Son of the living God," John 7: 68-69.

Now turning to Christ let us see what He has to reveal to us concerning His words. In His divine nature He knew that the Word of God was a revelation of the Father, the Son and the Holy Ghost, and He also knew that His words would be recorded in the Word.

Christ tells us that heaven and earth shall some day be destroyed, but His word shall never fail."

In Mark the thirteenth chapter thirty-first verse He said, "Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away." They are imperishable, living eternally.

But if you reject His words what shall happen? Christ answered this when He said, "He that rejecteth me, and receiveth not my words, hath ONE that judgeth him: the word that I have spoken, the same shall judge him in the last day."—John 12:48.

While Christ was and is divine, the living Son of the Living God, Christ tells us that loving Him is keeping His words. In John 14:24 Christ says "He that loveth me not keepeth not my sayings; and the word which ye hear is not mine but the Father's which sent me." "If any man teach otherwise and consent not to wholesome words, even the words of our Lord Jesus Christ, and to the doctrine which is according to godliness;—from such withdraw thyself. (1 Tim. 6:3-4)

Christ's words are divine and of the Spirit. He speaks God's Word, obeys God and is God. His oneness with God makes us realize the authority and power of His words.

In Capernaum while speaking the deep truths of life Christ said, "it is the spirit that quickeneth; the flesh profiteth nothing: the words that I speak unto you, they are spirit and they are life,"—John 6:36.

May the words of Christ dwell in us. May we say "Thy word have I hid in my heart, that I might not sin against Thee."—Psalms 119:11, And then the words of OUR mouths and the meditation of OUR hearts will be acceptable in His sight and He will be our strength and our Redeemer.

Book Browsing

Pearl S. Buck, "The Young Revolutionist", 182 pages

This latest story from the pen of Mrs. Buck concerns some of the problems of Chinese youth of today. In many respects is it different from The Good Earth, the first and probably the best book by this modern writer.

In the Young Revolutionist is presented a youth of modern China. This boy, Ko-sen, is the descendant of generations of farmers. His family has never been more than a few miles away from the small inland village near which they live. He is dedicated by his parents to the priesthood in a pagan temple. After a few months in the temple school, however, he runs away and joins a revolutionist army. He becomes disillusioned after the first battle and returns to his home. His experiences, however, bring to him the realization that the ignorance and superstition of his ancestors are useless. He resolves to "take service for his country under the leadership of one named Jesus."

There is a note of propaganda in this story which has been objected to by many reviewers, and which indeed detracts from the charm of the story. The general idea of the critics seems to be that the subject matter is not worthy of the vehicle. The book, however, makes intensely interesting reading, and gives an insight to conditions in China, and what happens when the walls of superstition are surmounted. Its view of missions has caused particular interest, and, together with the article "The Case for Foreign Missions", has involved Mrs. Buck in a widespread controversy.

The Bible is the world's best seller. An average of 30,000,000 copies are sold yearly or 80,000 each day.

Sienkiewicz' "QuoVadis" Remains Most Popular Novel In America

"The Good Earth" Is Second Best Seller In The United States

Although "Quo Vadis" still leads as the most popular novel published in this country since 1895, Pearl S. Buck's "The Good Earth" has edged into second place, displacing "David Harum" by Edward Noyes Westcott, according to Irving Harlow Hart, director of the extension division of Iowa State Teachers College, in the Publishers Weekly.

Mr. Hart has been making statistical analyses of national best seller lists as reported by book-sellers since January 1895, as a hobby. His recent article contains yearly lists of the 100 best sellers from 1919 through 1932.

Sinclair Lewis led the yearly lists twice, once with "Main Street" in 1920, which is the fourth best seller since 1895, according to Mr. Hart, and with "Elmer Gentry" in 1927. His "Dodsworth" is rated second in 1929.

The ten most popular books from 1919 to 1932, Mr. Hart reports were "The Good Earth", "Main Street", "If Winter Comes", by A. S. M. Hutchinson; "The Sheik", by E. M. Hull "So Big", by Edna Ferber; "The Bridge of San Luis Rey", by Thorton Wilder; "All Quiet on The Western Front", by E. M. Remarque; "Four Horsemen of the Apocolypse", by Blasco-Ibanez; "Little French Girl" by Anne Sedgwick, and "Years of Grace", by Margaret Ayer Barnes.

"Gentlemen Prefer Blondes", by Anita Loos, was best seller in 1926; "Black Oxen" by Gertrude Atherton, in 1923, and "Simon Called Peter", by Robert Keable, in 1922.

E. V. Shepard in the Auction Bridge Magazine says that the 635,013,559,600 different hands that may be dealt may be distributed among the four players in 53,644,737,488,792,839,237,440,000 different ways.

Jose Iturbi Heard As Soloist With Musicians Symphony Orchestra

Musical America Notes Performance of Pianist Who Will Appear Here

Jose Iturbi, noted Spanish pianist, who will appear in a few weeks on the Maryville Lyceum program, was heard as soloist with the Musicians Symphony Orchestra on the evening of December 27, in the following varied and well-received program:

Symphony, From the New World—Dvorak

Concerto No. 4 in G - Beethoven
Mr. Iturbi

On the Steppes of Central Asia—Borodin

Franco-American Jazz Concerto—Jean Wiener
(First Time in America)
Mr. Iturbi

Overture to The Flying Dutchman—Wagner

"In this program", comments the Musical America for January 10, "Mr. Iturbi's contributions stood out, although the purely orchestral portions pleased the large audience enormously. The soloist played the Beethoven work with crystal clearness, limpidity, and excellent taste. The new concerto, whose composer visited this country last year with his piano partner, M. Doucet, shows that Gallic wit which one expects from this type of thing. It is a mixture of so-called popular musical manifestations from the two countries, and in its very involutions there is a certain sort of impertinent charm. It was delightfully played."

This is not the first time a performance of Mr. Iturbi's has been recognized with praise in this magazine. His appearance on the Voorhees Chapel stage will bring to the campus one of the most promising pianists of America, for he is thus acknowledged among musical authorities and critics.

Paul Young Is Heaviest Outside Reader In College

Statistics from the library at the close of the semester reveal what students during the past five months have been heavy readers. Paul Young, at the head of the list, has 102 books marked on his card. Sophia Carson is next with 44. Five persons read 26 books each. The list, as received from the library, follows:

Paul Young - -	102
Sophia Carson - -	44
Conrad Quenelle - -	34
Phyllis Booth - - -	32
Barnard Mattingley - -	32
Fred Kirchner - - - -	26
Benjamin Groves - - -	26
J. W. Hina - -	26
Mary Hollis Carter - -	26
Geraldine Smith - - -	26
Herr Wissler - - -	24
Robert Tripp - -	23
Ralph Walker - - -	22

FRENCH CLUB

At the meeting of the Cercle Francais held last week, the following officers were elected to serve during the present semestre:

President—Jean Warren
Vice President—Arthur Lazell
Secretary—Dorothy Nethery
Treasurer—Phyllis Dexter
Program Secretaries—Marie Bailey
Walter Cloud
Editor—Dexter Reno
Pianist—Willamae Renegar

"Bryant," remarked Edgar Allan Poe, "is not all a fool. Mr. Willis is not quite an ass. Mr. Longfellow will steal, but perhaps he cannot help it."

Sidney Smith remarked of Daniel Webster that he struck him "like a steam engine in trousers," and William Wordsworth said of the Brownings: "So Robert Browning and Miss Barrett have gone off together. I hope they understand each other—nobody else would."

When some one asked Charles Dickens how he liked Wordsworth: "Like him!" he roared; "Not at all; he is a dreadful old ass."

Religion will be subject to quackery and hypocrisy until humanity itself becomes more humane than human nature and religion itself ceases worrying about heaven and hell and devotes its energies to making this earth a paradise.—Dorsey

Forty-two of the fifty-five highest mountain peaks in the United States are in Colorado.

SONNET

I met you on a summer day.
Your smile
Was like the sun itself; your eyes were blue;
Your hair was like a flame. I looked at you.
We spoke; you smiled again; we talked awhile.
We each a little breathlesaly talked on
About the things one talks of to a friend;
Each feared a parting now would mean an end.
It came at last and I found you were gone.
Of course we met by accident I know,
And months have passed since you have gone your way;
Those months have made a mem'ry of that day,
But they have proved that this one thing is so—
"There is a place (I found) where love begins;
There is a place (I think) where (all) love ends.

—Mildred Brooks

SEAS

Motionless a sea-gull
Hangs in the sky. The beach
Reaches white and smooth to where
A lazy water no more than ripples
On the gleaming sand.
I too am motionless
Feeling the delightful ease of Summer day. Then I think
This is the sea I love the best.

But other times I go a-sailing.
A glad, joyous, youthful
Feeling the water has. The wind
Whips waves all into spray.
The boat, it is a thing alive,
Seeming as some fish to sport
Among the white-caps. Surely then,
This is my favorite sea.

Again, I am on deck of steamer,
While many are lying below.
Mountains of green and white crash
'Gainst our sides. A sickening swoop—
Now we are down, now up.
Reeling, straining, savagely fighting,
The ship goes on. Here the bow
Catches a thundering crest—
Tosses it high in rainbow sheets
I thrill; this is the sea!

Sometimes at night the water
Is calm as if an oil were on it.
A broad, shining path leads up
To where the moon looks down.
I like. . . . but then
I always love the sea.

—James R. Crothers

GLIMPSES

Was it Marie, the wife of Louis
Who said so blithely,
"What, the people have no bread?
Then why do they not eat cake?"
Lean faces,
Haggard faces,
Wearied faces,
Trembling, pleading hands
Held out for bread
While the World's chosen few,
Miserly rich,
Ride by with heads held high
To avoid the sight of those beggars.
Oh, that for one glorious hour
Might the world be filled
With that Greater Love,
The love for one's fellow men,
Has man forgotten all else
Save his mad pursuit
For glory, fame and gold?
Would that all could remember
That long ago Angels sang,
"Peace on Earth,
Good will among men."

—Helen Thompson

STREET CORNER

There she stands,
Flaunting her papers in the sophisticated faces
Of the indifferent crowd.
Old as time itself she seems,
Crying out in gutteral sounds,
Hardly a voice,
Of the latest murder, the newest killing—
Sheer ugliness—the tatters and filth of her,
But, looking close enough, one sees
Service in the twisted, gnarled hands
And the very essence of heart-break
In the lines of her aged face.
On and on she croaks,
While above and beyond the city street
The molten glory of a far-flung sunset
Stretches down, in flaming banners
Behind the dingy roofs.

—Kay Carpenter

SPORTS

THROWER'S WRESTLERS WIN TWO MATCHES

Farmer Watkins And His Appalachian Teachers Humiliated By Maryville Matmen In First Home Match

Home Matmen Lose Only One Match, By Narrow Margin; Millsaps, Costner Best

In the first home wrestling match of the season, Bob Thrower's Highlander matmen took the count of Farmer Watkins' Appalachian Teachers grapplers by the score of 33-3. The Scotmen lost only one match, ad that on the exceptionally slender margin of 26 seconds time advantage.

Festivities were commenced with a pair of preliminary bouts in the 145 and 175 pound classes. In the lower of the two divisions, Willocks, of Maryville, and Whaley of the visitors cautiously manoeuvered for about six minutes, then wound up with an exciting finish in which Willocks won by a fall. In the second match, Byar gave ten pounds weight advantage to his Appalachian foe, then won by a fall in the time of eight minutes, thirteen seconds.

In the first of the match bouts, the 118-pounders, Beyer of Maryville, and Collins, put on a "waltz me around again Susy" act, at the end of ten minutes of which, Collins was found to have twenty-six seconds time advantage. In the 125 pound weight, Costner, of the Clansmen, put on a real show for the fans to pin Wilson in two minutes, fifty-four seconds.

The 135-pounders, gave the fans additional merchandise for their ducats when Graham, Maryville and Finley Moore, Appalachian, went ten minutes with a wim and a wigor. In the closing seconds of the match, the action got exceptionally fast, the fans showing real interest as they scented the fall that Graham would surely have given his opponent had not the match ended there.

Steve Boretsky, 145-pounder, never gave Robertson a chance to show what he had. After one minute, forty-one seconds of aggressive work by Borretsky, Robertson found himself gazing at the ceiling, "Tombstone" Tope was almost as inhospitable to his foe, Frank Moore, pinning him twice in three minutes and fifty-seven seconds.

Buck Millsaps drew Loy as an opponent in the 165-pound class, and the Scot had quite a time with him. Loy never threatened the local lad, but doggedly refused to be thrown even after the gruelling beating he took. He finally succumbed to a fall in ieght minutes, twenty seconds.

Teddy Burns, the Maryville strong man, gave his man, Johnson, the works in four minutes and thirty-one seconds. The visitor never had a chance. Bryant, who ate in Pearsons and attended class at Thaw last year, had a real home-coming when big Mose Gamble wrapped his brawny arms about him to throw him twice in the final match of the evening.

The two matches which Bob Thrower has won in a breeze this season are indicative that the Texan is again headed to the State championship with his mat crew. Soon he will have to search for new fields to conquer. His boys can't seem to find any opposition.

When the game of football was first played, 15 men were on a team. The number was reduced to 12 and then 11, as it now stands.

L. M. U. Furnishes First Cage Victory For Scot Basketeers

Haub, Lewis and Waldrop Shine As Highlanders Break Into Win Column 34-28

Winning their first college game of the year, the Scotties stepped out and defeated the Railsplitters from L. M. U. two weeks ago tonight at Harrogate, Tennessee. The Scotties made a complete reversal in form.

The entire first half was a nip-and-tuck affair, the score at half-time being 13 all. In the second half the Scotties slumped and allowed a five point lead to be garnered against them, the score being 22-17 before activities really began. The score when the boys took for the showers was Maryville 34, L. M. U. 28. Mitchell for the opponents looked best, while Haub, Lewis and Waldrop starred for the homeboys.

The score:

Maryville	f.g.	f.t.	p.	t.p.
Lewis, f.	4	1	0	9
Kiser, f.	3	0	2	6
Haub, c.	4	2	2	10
Waldrop, g.	1	0	4	2
Stone, g.	3	0	2	6
Creed, g.	0	1	2	1
Totals	15	4	12	34
L.M.U.	f.g.	f.t.	p.	t.p.
Kennedy, f.	2	2	2	6
Mitchell, f.	5	4	2	14
Bradley, c.	3	0	3	6
Bowling, g.	1	0	0	2
Ages, g.	0	0	3	0
Totals	11	6	10	28

Sophs Win First Tilt Of Co-Ed Basketball Tournament

Freshmen Prove Too Green For More Experienced Upperclassmen

Thursday, February 2, the sophomores won a 34 to 17 victory over the freshmen in the first game of the girls' basketball tournament.

From the first toss-up to the last blow of the whistle, the game was a fast one—too fast for the inexperienced freshies. In spite of the fact that many of the sophs' shots went wild, they accumulated quite a score, most of which was acquired during the first half.

Taken as a whole, the game was a good one. Cooper, captain of the sophomores, and Kiser, star forward of the freshmen were the high-scorers.

Sophomore		Freshmen
Gillingham,6	f.	Carringer, 4
Duckett, 8	f.	Baldwin
Cooper, 12	f.	Kiser, 9
Johnson	g.	Smith
Coates	g.	Brown, M.G.
Proffitt	g.	Coker

Substitutes: Frreshman— Doty 4, Walker, Emigh; Sophomore—McClurge 8, Hast.

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

This business of Captain Lewis starting the game on the bench is great stuff! I Saturday night the Yank warmed Ye Bynchhe for most of the first half, to enter the fray and become high scorer. Tuesday night, the same thing happened except for the fact that Rex Allen outpointed the Cap by one point, Wednesday night, Brothah Lewis again kept the company of the scrubs for quite a major portion of the first period. And we remember that, of the fifteen Scot tallies in the second half, no less than twelve were rung up by the lad from Springfield. We reiterate— Great Stuff!

—S—

Young Harry Jess, diminutive forward of the reserve team, has been giving the fans their money's worth here lately. That is, the fans who arrive early enough to witness the first clash. Since the games are arousing so much interest, mayhap 'twould be well to delay the opener about thirty minutes so as to give the townsfolk ample time to get their evening meal bolted.

—S—

We have also heard (we don't keep our ear to the ground all the time—it must be washed occasionally) that one of the three readers to which we have finally attained demands that we confine ourselves strictly to Maryville ports. We submit—we didn't know sport readers were of such a gloomy turn of mind.

—S—

The matmen had some time of it over in Knoxville last Saturday night. Although this lower insect was perched on a plank in the Alumni gym bleachers, viewing the extermination of the puny Railsplitters, we do hear that Thrower was exceptionally well-pleased with the way his men showed up. Of course, he wouldn't admit any such weakness, but we could tell by the added carressing he gave his nose Sunday morning that the Toreador knew he had "done it again."

—S—

That dust which is kicked up in the melee caused by the rush for the door after each basketball game has a flavor all its own—thank Goodness! We're glad nothing else possesses such a taste. They might feed it to us in Pearsons. But if they're gonna do that, they'd just as well sprinkle it with a touch of water—just to make it bulkier of course. Then too, it wouldn't get in the noses of the poor cooks.

—S—

While casting a diagnstician's eye over Scot basketeers, we have come to an amazing, astounding conclusion. We could be wrong—we were wrong only a couple of years ago—but we believe that it would help considerably if Maryville could manage to get the tip from center a bit oftener. They do say its a wonderful advantage.

—S—

The rasslin' match last evening was no disapointment to the co-eds, even if Farmer's boys couldn't seem to offer any competition. For two small schools, the teams presented as imposing array of masculine pulchritude as we have seen in some while. Of course we've never seen an old Greek, or a young Greek contest, but we all have our ideas, even sports scribes.

—S—

In spite of Jimmy Laing's timely warning, the mat meet was not without its bit of sportsmanlike "roasting". It's a pity the galaxy of wise-crackers with which the ole Alma Mater is blessed can't confine their witticisms to their immediate vicinity. When they insist on roaring some of their supposedly cute but cutting thoughts (?) at the top of their lungs they not only give themselves a reputation for asininity but the school a name of unsportsmanly audiences. These things ought not so to be.

L.M.U. Again Falls Before Highlanders In Fray Last Saturday

Saturday Night Conflict Shows Clansmen Improving Steadily As Railspitters Fall

In a game which showed interest only because the locals won, the Maryville Highlanders bowler over the Lincoln Memorial Railsplitters last Saturday by the score of 25-17. The coming of the Harrogate crew to Maryville heartened local fans immensely, convincing them that hope still exists while L. M. U. does. Some went so far as to state that the Highlanders had "returned to form."

The first half opened with both teams fighting on a fairly even basis, as neither could seem to wake up or get started. Maryville soon drew ahead, however, and managed to hold a slight lead for the remainder of the game. The insertion of Captain Yankee Lewis, who had started the game on the bench, helped matters considerably, and the half ended with the visitors trailing five points 13-8.

In the second half, the Scots again managed to outscore the adversary, and finished the game victors by eight points, 25-17. The second period was marked by an epidemic of chronic fubmling by both teams. It seemed, indeed, to most of the fans that the majority of the playing time was utilized in the center of the floor, neither team being able to retain the ball long enough to carry it into scoring position.

Lewis was the leading scorer for the Scotties with eight points, Waldrop and Stone, although a little off their usual game, looked good at guard. But Kennedy, lithe forward of the invaders, was easily the most effective man on the court. His passing, and general teamplay were the features of the game, while he took high score honors with a total of nine points.

In a preliminary, the Maryville Reserves took the measure of the Alcoa Alloys 32-31.

Summary:

Maryville	f.g.	f.t.	p.	t.p.
Allen, f.	1	1	0	3
Lewis, f.	3	2	0	8
Kiser, f.	2	1	3	5
Jess, f.	0	0	0	0
Haub, c.	2	0	2	4
Cherry, c.	0	0	0	0
Waldrop, g.	2	1	1	5
Fisher, g.	0	0	1	0
Stone, g.	0	0	1	0
Creed, g.	0	0	1	0
Totals	10	5	9	25
L.M.U.	f.g.	f.t.	p.	t.p.
Bryant, f.	0	0	0	0
Mitchell, f.	1	0	0	2
Bradley, f.	1	0	0	2
Kennedy, f.	3	3	1	9
Gillis, c.	0	0	1	0
Slover, g.	0	0	0	0
Agee, g.	0	1	3	1
Bowling, g.	1	1	1	3
Totals	6	5	6	17

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	*†9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*††Direct connection to Townsend

Knoxville "Y" Is Defeated 35-5 As Bob Thrower's Grapplers Breeze To Season's First Victory

Scots Show Superiority In 35-5 Score

The home team invaded Knoxville last Saturday and returned with the proverbial wrestling bacon in the form of an exceedingly convincing score. The present crop of matmen, with many good men turned away, gives ample promise of a continuance of last year's successes. Power and technique constitute the ingredients of a winning team and Maryville has both. Coach Thrower has built up as fine a team around the nucleus of last year's varsity as has been seen here in years.

After Beyer had drawn an easy five points by default, Costner had little trouble in felling his man in the 126 pound class.

Graham, the only man to lose for Maryville, had his opponent in some sad spots but allowed himself to be tricked into a fall. Boretsky, Tope, and Millsaps came back in succession for revenge with three easy falls and Burns just managed to beat Aitken in one long cautious fall. The last and crowning event of the evening between the elephantic Moses Gamble and the corpulent Word proved to be also the spice of the program. If you can imagine two titanic behemoths frolicking jocosely on the mat, you have a conception of the bout. Our own Mr. Gamble won, however, and in doing so, piled more laurels upon the already-steeped Maryville victory.

Carson - Newman Eagles Defeat Scots 46-29 As Laymon Stars

Frosty Holt's Crew Easily Wins Over Maryville Hardwood Crew As Layman Stars

On Thursday night, January 26, Carson-Newman's mighty Eagles soared over the Maryville Scots to a 46-29 victory, administering to the Highlanders their only defeat for the past fornight. After getting off to a flying start which gave them a 9-2 lead in the opening minutes of play the Maryvillians suddenly unlaxed and the scoring began in earnest. Led by Laymon, at center, the visitors uncorked a smooth, deadly passing attack which, to the Scotties at least, was irresistible.

Throughout the first half, the game was marked by a succession of heart-breaking failures at field goal attempts. The men of Honaker showed flashes of brilliance, only to be repulsed by shots which came excitingly close, then bounded away to notihngness. But the Orange and Blue tide consistently rolled under their basket to emerge with two more points for the old total. At the half, the score stood 21-13, with the Eagles holding the lead.

The second half was like the first, only more so. Lewis, at forward for Maryville, and Haub, at center put up a magnificent fight for the entire second half, only to see the enemy ring up point for point. With but several minutes left to play, Maryville sank a couple of field goals from out behind the foul line, and the fans almost woke up. Slowly the Scots whittled down the lead of the visitors, but with three minutes left of play, Carson-Newman again put on steam, to draw out to the comfortable margin with which they ended the game.

Summary:

Maryville	f.g.	f.t.	p.	t.p.
Lewis, f.	3	1	2	7
Allen, f.	1	0	4	2
Kiser, f.	2	0	1	4
Fisher, f.	0	0	2	0
Haub, c.	2	4	3	8
Cherry, c.	0	0	0	0
Waldrop, g.	2	0	3	4
Jess, g.	0	0	0	0
Stone, g.	1	1	1	3
Creed, g.	0	1	2	1
Totals	11	7	18	29
Carson-Newman	f.g.	f.t.	p.	t.p.
Clark, f.	2	0	0	4
Monroe, f.	2	0	3	4
Davis, f.	3	1	1	7
Layman, c.	6	2	2	14
Holt, g.	1	0	0	2
Kinsely, g.	2	0	2	4
Ladd, g.	5	1	3	17
Totals	22	4	11	46

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

SOPHOMORES!
The sooner your pictures are made for the 1933 Chilhowean, just that much sooner will the book be ready for publication. Webb's studio can accommodate you at all times Let's Go! ! ! ! !

CHRISTMAS IS PAST
But there are occasions for giving throughout the year. Always make your gifts personal
GIVE PHOTOGRAPHS
THE WEBB STUDIO

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

SULLIVAN & PINYAN
Hair Cuts 15c
Basement Carlisle's 5 & 10c Store

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

Heah and Theah

(By Bryan Payne)

Did YOU ever pancake an examination, and if so, why? Did YOU ever stop to figure out just how flat a pancake really is? Well, a pancake is pretty flat sometimes, and it covers a lot of territory when used in reference to examinations. If YOU don't believe it, just flunk flatter than a pancake at sometime or other (preferably when a freshman) and find out for yourself.

The bit of terminology which used to describe that one-time shady side of college life, the state of being flunked, is the word "fail"; but for some reason or other that term has become too literary for use upon most modern campuses today. Just now, the word is "pancaked", and that bears no reservations as to being sweetened with syrup and butter from Pearson's Tavern.

It just struck us a few moments ago (or maybe last September) that we have never made any predictions as to the outcome of Maryville College and its quaint old buildings. (Thinking of Memorial Hall). We have figured out that it is yet in a formativve stage; that is, we, honored by the inspiring presence of J. Arhur Lazell, figured it out. Within the next ten years we rather expect to find the power plant sneaking off down behind the hill to the rear of the chapel, so that all the odors which volatilize from the refuse, which smoulders daily in the fenced enclosure, might trail up around the echoing vacanies of the old rock crusher, instead of twining around the windows of Carnegie, as it often does.

Although we have no right to do so, we rather expect Sunday afternoon dates, (to be held, of course, in the area of the campus). It might even become so smacking of liberalism as to have dates every afternoon up on the great white way of Maryville, Broadway.

We well remember the summer during which the college installed the sprinkler system throughout the dormitories. If we remember correctly, we spent afternoons in picking up stray bits of the pipe and making miniature rock gardens with them. (That does not mean that we claim to be the originator of the rock garden craze). But we venture to predict that sometime Carnegie will have showers with temperatures that remain constant, and, to quote Boyle, with chilling or scalding effects that do not vary inversely with the pressure. . .. of ornery fingers upon the water pipes where they have no business.

And when they start to pave West Dodge Avenue clear down to Court Street we want to be sure that we have no studying to do. Those cement mixers aren't very quiet when it comes to letting one know what they're doing. And what would the automobilery do for parking space?

Also, we want to be on the scene when the book store is moved to a new resting place, if it is for no other reason than to retrieve that nickle we lost during our advent to this place as a freshman, which we still are.

And then, of course, there comes the ticklish proposition of mentioning any changes which might be brought about among the faculty. We leave that up to any crowds which might gather to discuss the question. Suffice it to say that once while we were in high school we spent one complete night wishing for the extinction of one, a very self imposing health teacher by the name of . . . . . well, she was a health teacher. Within the next two weeks her flame was snuffed out like a worn out candle's. Of course we tried to hide our guilty looks and such.

We often wonder just what visitors think of students whom they see walking groggily along, seemingly paying no attention to anything in their paths. Such a condition, as witnessed recently by a disinterested person, is what we think about the most accurate description of sleepiness on the Hill. And do you know what causes it? Staying up nights to study for examinations causes it. But that is not the complete story. The electricity, good, cheap electricity, takes to flight at eleven o'clock and the students are plunged into darkness until someone hurriedly scrapes a match across the wall to light a bit of fish-oil. And we wonder in chapel the next morning why we're so blamed sleepy and sore-eyed.

Well, at least the optician and the optometrist won't go broke during this depression. And incidentally, M. C. won't be following the crowd of colleges which keep lights during the entire night. And as we say this we remember that the purpose of the college paper is that it should be a mirror of student opinion. (Which does not mean to imply that we are lacking in gratitude for this and that.)

RECITAL

At the request of friends in Lafayette, Georgia, Willie Lee Houston gave a recital in expression on the night of January 31st. The readings she gave were as follows:

1.—White Clown's Last Dance—
Se Della Houston

2.—A Racer Sweetheart—
Alline Koons

3.—A Surgion Who Cuts on People—
Eleanor Denslow

4.—A Maryville Do-ed—Lou Emmalyn Collins (Chattanooga)

5.—The Vagabond Violinist—
Katheryn Bell

6.—Shakespeare's Ghost—
Eleanor Denslow

7.—Star Bound—Willie Lee Houston

Y. M. C. A.

"Christ's death is the measure of your worth to God!"

Tomorrow's 1:00 o'clock meeting promises to be of special interest. Dr. Fields, of the Psychology Department, has kindly consented to talk and answer general questions about "Psychic Phenomena". These phenomena often seem to belong to a so-called "spirit-world" and are used by certain individuals in exploiting for pecuniary gain the superstitions of the common people—and others, also. Purely physical tricks are the basis for these deceptions used by the spiritualist medium.

It was encouraging to see fifty-five men out last Sunday afternoo at the song service, Lamar Woodward's father bought us a helpful message on Christ's challenge to us to surrender to His will.

The "Y" urges all men to attend the prayer meetings for the February Meetings. The list of rooms for these meetings is posted on the Carnegie bulletin board. "Prayer changes things". As we ask, God acts. If you don't believe it, try it! At least, no one denies the subjective value of prayer: that prayer changes men, and men change things.

Phillips Brooks—"Prayer is not conquering God's reluctance, but the taking hold of God's willingness."

The Program Committee

Next Saturday the organization will further the improvement of its promises around Bartlett Hall. President Duff asks for volunteers to help plant shrubbery.

SCOTCH NECKWEAR

(Continued From Page One)

sistible attraction for gravy, pickle juice, and tomato sauce. A man may be attractive, and his manner winning; but with a necktie flavored with hamburger and onion, for instance, he is not the best companion on a moonlit night.

Neckties are responsible for another evil, the playful sport of "yanking". What a temptation they put in the mind of the simple! When an irresponsible buffoon sets out on an orgy of "yanking" trouble always results. Why is it that people like to pull out neckties? Usually a tie is the same all the way down, and no discoveries are made when the whole tie is exposed.

For honesty's sake we must admit that ties are good for something. One of their biggest advantages is the way they keep the cold air from slipping down the neck of a shirt, and keep the warm air in. The colder the day, the tighter should the knot be tied, until, at the Polar regions, the wearer is well-nigh choked.

We mustn't forget to mention another great service rendered by the cravat. This is an emergency service, available at all times. When a belt breaks, as belts will do at embarasing moments, the necktie can serve as temporary girdle until the next Five and Ten is reached.

The defenders of the necktie as an article of dress have their best argument in the way the necktie conceals the dirt and grease on a shirt front. As Bill, the Bard of Havn, says in his own inimitable style,

"It matters not how soiled the shirt,
How few the buttons on the seam,
A tie will help to hide the dirt
And make the shirt look fresh and clean."

SCOTS WIN

(Continued From Page One)

with the Scots in front to the melody of 27-12.

The second half marked a beginning of another scoring spree, like the one of the first half, only a bit wilder. Captain Lewis and Rex Allen appeared to be in a contest for the high-point honors, both men sinking shots from all and sundry angles. First the Springfield ace would coax one in from behind the foul line, and then the boy the fans called "Wimpy" would leap into the air, throw up one arm, and the scorer would rise to turn over another new leaf. When the game ended, computations showed that Allen had garnered more points, having a total of 18, while Lewis was following closely with 17.

Defensive work in the second half was allowed to suffer a bit in the dash for points, as the teams failed to break as quickly as in the first period. Maryville also had a bad spell of dropsy for a moment also, somthing akin to the similar spell of the last L.M.U. game. But it was undoubtedly due to the top-heavy lead gained by the Scotties that such a letdown appeared at all.

Offensive honors for the game are awarded, naturally, to Allen, Lewis and Kiser. On the defensive Stone and Waldrop functioned excellently Stone's interception of enemy passes and Waldrop's work under the basket were encouraging to say the least. For the Athenians, Roy, stocky center, and Wilson at forward, were outstanding.

Summary:

Maryville
Allen, f,	9	0	0	18
Kiser, f.	6	0	3	12
Haub, c.	0	0	1	0
Creed, g.	0	0	1	0
Stone, g.	1	0	2	2
Cherry, g. c.	2	0	0	4
Lewis, g. f.	7	3	1	17
Waldrop, g.	2	1	1	5
Totals	27	4	8	58
Wesleyan:
Marcum, f.	1	0	1	2
Wilson, f.	2	3	1	7
LaForce, f.	0	0	0	0
Roy, c.	7	5	2	19
Carlock, g.	1	1	0	3
Ellen, g.	1	2	1	4
Gregory, g.	0	0	0	0
Mitchell, g.	2	0	3	4
Totals	14	11	9	39

Subs: Wesleyan— Gregory, Carlock 3, McDonnel, Norcum 2; Maryville—Haub, Creed, Lewis 17.

Lenoir Rhyne Game

On Wednesday night the Scots played a more conservative brand of ball against the Mountain Bears from Lenoir-Rhyne. No man featured on defense for Mayville, but the team as a whole functioned as an impenetrable defense unit. Practically all Lenoir-Rhyne shots were hurried by the Maryville guards, and close in shots were few.

The game opened with Cherry, guard, contesting against the entire Bear team in a scoring contest. Cherry garnered the lead with a close in shot, and followed immediately afterward with another basket to give Maryville a lead that was never relinquished. The remainder of the first half was a nip-and-tuck affair with Maryville holding to a slight lead of three points at half time, the score being 14-11. All of Maryville's scores in this period were made by fielders, with Cherry contributing 4, Waldrop 2, and Kiser 1.

In the second half, the referee entered more enthusiatically into the fray and turned the game into a contest from the gratis stripe. The two teams scored one basket and two fouls each to advance the score to 18-15. Maryville scored another gratis shot, and Lenoir-Rhyne scored three quick points to make the count 19-18 at which juncture the team braced and scored six successive points, four of them on free-throws, to put the game in the bag. The second half was featured by Captain Lewis' dead eye from both afield and the free throw lane; the Maryville captain made 12 of the 15 points scored by Maryville in the second half. Lewis has been particularly proficient at basket shooting in the second half of nearly every game this year after running a scoreless first half as a rule.

The whole team showed a world of improvement in the battle with Lenoir Rhyne as witnessed by a large and very well pleased crowd of Maryville Co's and Co-eds.

SUPERIORS SCOTTIES

One sedate little senior who has done her share to put Maryville College on the map (as if we thought it needed to be put) is Laura Elizabeth Duncan. Laura—who is occasionally know as Elizabeth or Lib—has talked her way for Maryville over a fair sized section of the United States, having travelled as far west as Tulsa, Oklahoma. Her pleasant voice is a successful carrier of her reasoning, having convinced debate judges for nigh onto four years. Last year she was president of the Maryville Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, the National Forensic Fraternity. Before her college career is finished, chances are that she will win the right to wear the Pi Kappa Delta diamond eye of special distinction in her fraternity key. And that, my dears, is the achievement of very, very few college students.

Lib has stretched a bit beyond the college in bringing fame to this city. The high school half a mile away has come within the radius of her good labors, so that, for the first time in its history, there will be a team representing Maryville in the high school forensic tournament at the University of Tennessee. For, as Miss Duncan, Practice Teacher, she has taken the high school youngsters under her wing and coached them well in the art of arguing.

Another place, beside her shoes, where Laura Elizabeth shines is in the student council. The lady is said to be Doctor Duff's right hand man. She has been elected to the council in every one of her four years, and as Lord Chester Fields says, such popularity must be deserved. Her good influence among fellow-students is, therefore, recognized by them as well as by the faculty.

The sweetest thing about Lib is her purely platonic affection for a man named something like Oldgoer. However, too much good may be said about a person. Not that it is to be feared that our young lady will have to throw away her hats, but because it should be known that she has a few human limitations, even as you and I. I: you wish to know one of Elizabeth's, engage her in conversation b"auf Deutsch." If she answers, "Du bist ein Esel," give her credit for having learned that much while doing all the rest of the work which fell upon her shoulders.

BUY IN MARYVILLE

OBSERVATIONS

THE SILENT OBSERVER

We came into our office the other day, and after pushing our way through much of the trash on the path to our desk, we found, much to our consternation and excitement a letter from we don't know whom. It was signed, however, by "The Silent Observer", and it contained therein a long dissertation on the part of the writer about this much talked of matter of cheating on examinations, and along with that a special request to publish what was written. We don't really mind the possible risk of being supplanted, in our own blatant, uncouth way of speaking about our campus fellows by a more conservative and silent person, but we do wish the person who wrote us the letter would trust our own confidence enough to tell us his name only. We care nothing of his past history. . . just his name. Then too, you know, papers are not in the habit of publishing unsigned things for. . . oh, . just so many reasons.

THIRTY-NINE MORE!

While we were making an attempt to keep from being bored ourselves, and from keeping our own company from being bored in conversation last week, we turned to the always reliable matter of tennis. That is, we thought it was reliable. We found however that this girl. . . a freshman, and Orr too by name, knew little of the game, a fact that can be partly accounted for by the fact that she is afflicted with athletic heart. As a matter of fact that platinumish blonde from Nashville slyly informs us that she is familiar with only one aspect of the game. . . . that is the score, love-forty. You see where that left us. . wondering who and where the other thirty-nine are.

BEALE-AMMONS

It was Geraldine Smith who wondered if Mary Elizabeth Ammons is that much mentioned lone reader of Charlie Beale's. That reader has been mentioned enough times to warrant our informing the public at large that Beale is speaking of the linotypist. As an answer to Jerry's question, we stated "No Jerry, Not lone. . . . . reader."

BLUE FRESHMAN

We still foam when we think again of the trick that was pulled on us by a freshman at the beginning of examintions. We sent him to our room, if he wouldn't mind, to get us a blue book. He went to the room, asked the roommate for "that blue book". He got us the only blue text book we had. . . "The Governments of Europe" because it was a Blue book. We reversed the charges on the freshman student and informed him of the truth, that the joke was on him.

SMOKE RISES

Oooooooh! Did you see what we heard about? That was the presence of the one and only Miss Caldwell (know who we mean) in the drug stores of the city last week. They say that the smoke veritably rose to the ceiling and that there were more cigarette stubs made there than a five year old child could smoke in a month. We guess that the presence of Miss Caldwell in Byrne's and Walker's is quite an innovation, not to mention a genuine surprise. But you know, girls, Miss Caldwell must have her ice cream. Perhaps Miss Mollie should come to Carnegie some time and watch the dull red glows go to and fro from various Memorial windows after the lights have been squelched at night. Don't think that we waste our time doing that. We waste our time at something more profitless.

ABSURDITIES

We don't know which is the more absurd. . . . women smoking in the dormitories or women and men both cheating on an ethics examination . . . but they both run one another a good race. We'd elucidate on that ethics business, but there's no use in riding a free horse to death, you know.

HOW TO REST?

Some of our students (not exactly including your observer) were very much at a loss to know what to do during vacation between semesters. A rest is supposed to be a change, and a change, in some of these cases, better answered by semester reports than by us, was not a rest. A little labor might have been a much-to-be-desired change.

PROFESSOR'S FAVORITE

After a survey of English Literature as portrayed by owah instructor, Dr. Shine, we were wondering, like we're prone to do, just which one of the men was the favorite of our professor (we mean of the authors studied, not of the men in our class) and Ol' Sam Johnson won with flying banners. We just wish that we could be a quiet rat at some improvised meeting of the one and only Sam Johnson, and the one (we suppose only) Dr. Shine. They could "get together" and have one of the traditional "bigerns".

SPARKY'S FATE

We were very much astonished to hear our name, and about everyone else's name, taken almost in vain the other day by the one and only Sparky Woodward, and the corresponding one and only Harold Carson. We checked up on all the bad things we'd been doing to date (with the help of three secretaries), and could see nothing in relation to the subject matter of these two great men. We learned after further speculation, however, that it wasn't we, but the Orr who has a Dr. accompanying his name, who received all this personal attention. The calculations of the aforementioned resulted in a severe disapproval of giving only one A in a class of over 100, especially inasmuch as the two next grades, both within the .04 rrange of the leader happened to be those of the aforementioned. But Sparky and Harold did what they set out to do. . .or what we're told they set out to do. . . . . to defeat these preachers.

THE UNITITIATED

Chagrin has been urn as we look upon these self-conscious aspiring freshman the first few days of their college (career, Miss Heron) when they come to Pearson's and regard it as a place to dine, because it's called a dining hall. Several of them were caught by the final bell because they chose to eat as ladies and gentlemen but later in the week they began to get that old Pearson Technique that is gained only by long and arduous practice, and they could finish not so near the finishing tape. It does embarrass even the most unembarrassable to realize that after all we do show such a small degree of culture in our table behaviour. There is one very noticeable and appreciated adjustment, for which the entire college is responsible. . . .the matter of the few silent seconds previous to the one great sitting. This has improved tremendously, a thing for which we can all feel quite pleased.

L'IMAGE

We were running the pages in the latest "Forensic" this week and much to our pride we rran across a loving picture of Professor Verton Queener, better known to the Freshman students as "That blank history professor." We were attracted by the complaisant, unassuming look on the professor's face, a peculiarity which found its answer in the lower left hand corner, where one found the shoulder of the oly woman Professor Queener loves. You see, they wanted one in which he was smiling, and the only one they could find was this one, where his wife was right there to make him smile. They just separated the Queeners and gave him the benefit of the doubt. . . . for on of the few times he's had it.

HERE, HERE, EDITOR!

We Observation editors probably have no business in other people's editorials, but we do get there occasionally . . . . just for fun. You know, editorials are so much fun. We were perusing the first editorial written by Lenoir Rhyne's new semester editor, and we find this statement, which proves more conclusively that even editors are not amendable to occasional error. It goes, "Why have Exams anyway, They only show us how much we don't know instead of what we do know. Just the same we hope each and everyone knows more than they thought they did, Maybe "each and everyone led a doduble life. Do you suppose?

THOSE NINE

We take this much more space just to announce that Al Duff has not found those nine lately. Therefore it remains, "Indeed, where are the nine."

TO A FRIEND

For one brief, singing moment
I watch the smile in your eyes.
I speak with you
Of commonplaces.

Then you go to your work,
All unconscious that I, going to mine,
Am as one who, having had
A drink of fresh water,
Walks more steadily on.

—Kay Carpenter

Fat persons float easier than lean persons, for the reason that adipose tissue is lighter than that part of flesh which consists principally of muscle without fat.

It takes a man to make a room silent—Thoreau

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, FEBRUARY 20, 1933 | NUMBER SEVENTEEN

"Dracula" Is Presented In Voorhees Chapel On February 27

Rennie Tubbs, Wesley Culver, Ruth Brocious and Herr Wissler Have Leads

On February 27, the Athenian Literary Society will present "Dracula", a dramatization of the novel by the same name, written by Brahm Stoker. This will be the last Mid-winter of the dramatic season.

"Dracula" is not like the ordinary mystery thriller in which one is given a list of likely murder suspects—only to see in the end much to his consternation that not one of them is guilty. Rather, the audience will be presented with the novel spectacle of knowing who the guilty one is, being kept in suspense until the several efforts to put an end to the sanguinary actions of the vampire are successful.

The plot of this play is based on a medieval superstition that people may be transformed voluntarily, or involuntarily into a wolf—known as wer-wolf; that the soul is transformed into another body, often human. A vampire is the soul of a dead man which leaves the dead body at night to suck out the blood of living persons. There are two methods of stopping this. The commonest method is to drive a stake through the body. The other means is to cut off the head from the corpse.

Dracula, played by Rennie Tubbs finds his victims easy to control. Cunning as Dracula is, he is finally run down through the supreme efforts of Doctor Van Helsing (Herr Wissler). Dr. Van Helsing comes at the bidding of Dr. Seward (Harry Wood) who is much concerned over the peculiar actions of his daughter Lucy, played by Ruth Brocious. She seems to be possessed by some incurable disease and all attempts at a cure have been unsuccessful. The two doctors are not alone in their anxiety, as John Harker (Arthur Lazell), the fiance of Lucy wishes to see his future bride well again.

Renfield, played by Wesley Culver, adds much to the chill-provoking atmosphere of the play as he creepily moves about, trying to capture flies and spiders which he saxophones. But we like cornets less (casting no reflections toward John Phay, Ruth Flint, nor even some of our friends). This cornet announces the time to get up, the time to go to breakfast, to start study, to stop study, to eat dinner,

(Continued on page four)

Theta Epsilon Presents "The Enchanted April" In Chapel Tonight

Play of Delightful Comedy Has Been Well Received By All Audiences

Kane Campbell's dramatized version of "The Enchanted April" "Elizabeth's" popular novel of nine years ago, will be the midwinter production of the Theta Epsilon Literary Society tonight at 8 o'clock in Voorhees Chapel.

The comedy, in a prologue and three acts, is constructed about the story of two English women, who desire to have a fling at Italian romance, as their mundane existence grows irksome. They accordingly, rent a villa on the Riviera, and advertise for two other women to join them so the expense of the enterprise may be reduced. Into this simple plot the author has woven strands of subtle humor at delightful intervals. The idiosyncrasies of human nature, and especially female human nature, are revealed cleverly as the plot progresses, and the absence of the husbands makes the hearts of the romance-hunters grow fonder. No clouds obscure the sky at the final curtain, but how the empyrean is cleared is the work of three acts to manage.

Everywhere this play has been presented, both by amateurs and professionals, the reception has been excellent. Its mild satire on human personalities and its bits of outspoken humor forecast it to be one of the most popular productions of the Maryville dramatic season.

Seventy-five years ago on last Friday, Dr. Samuel Tyndale Wilson, President Emeritus of Maryville College, was born, in Homs, Syria. The events of his active life as they have often been recounted, form a story of heroism. But his acute mind and his strong personality, more than his physical activities, have won for him the reverence and acclaim of his friends.

His activities have not terminated with his retirement from public life, for during the past year his most recent book, "Isaac Anderson", was completed and published. His literary contributions reflect his own personality in their strength, virility, and stmulating challenge.

President Emeritus Wilson is a man outstanding in two generations for his leadership and character. He has left Maryville College richer than it was when he found it. It is the wish of the students of the College that his life continue for long to be successful.

Y. W. C. A. Rooms Open

The Y.W.C.A. suite of rooms in Thaw Hall is now open to any individuals or groups who wish to entertain there in the afternoons. The suggestion, made by the cabinet, has been approved by the Dean of Women, and is ready to go into operation.

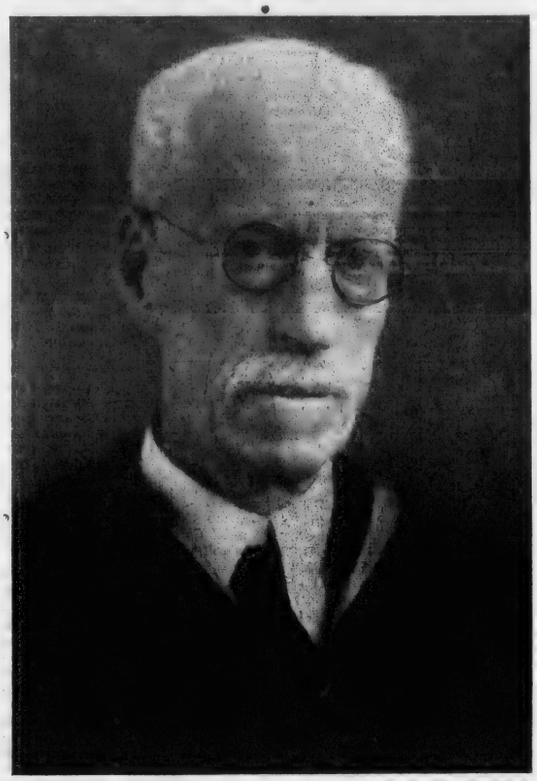
Individuals, couples, or larger groups may have the use of the rooms for entertaining their friends. They should give their names to Inez Hamrick. The object of these social gatherings is to spread them among a large number of students. Frequent entertainments by the same persons will be discouraged.

Many Students Return For Second Semester

According to reports from the office of the registrar, the number of students remained practically intact after the many mid-year adjustments caused, as in every year, by students being forced to leave school, other students returning, and some entering the college for the first time. One reason for many students remaining, in face of financial reversals, is the Student Help System that has workked very effectively.

The second semester found a great many old students return to resume their scholastic obligations. Amella Dickens, Mary Elizabeth Dyer, Eunice Grant, and Eunice May Baldwin are seniors who returned. Those who entered as juniors are Herbert Burns, Florence Broyles, Mark Dance, Vivian Kelly, Wilhelmina Quandt and Charles Richardson. Returning underclassmen and special students are Estelle Greene, Francis X. Huber, Kathryn Mitchell, Leland Shanor, James Shaw and Charles B. Stanbery.

Barbara Lyle Receives Honors At Philadelphia



Barbara Lyle, M. C. '32, has been elected president of her class in the nurses' school at the Presbyterian Hospital, Philadelphia. She also had the highest grades for the preliminary course.

In a recent letter received by Miss Green Miss Lyle tells of the "capping" ceremony, which included speeches by the Directress and some of the trustees. She adds a few items of alumni news.

Julian Johnson has a four-year fellowship in surgery at the University of Pennsylvania.

During his recent trip East, President Lloyd stopped in Philadelphia to attend a dinner of the Atlantic Highlanders. Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Gillingham, Lynn Rankin, Stanley McCool, Hayden Laster, Willie Nell Harold Laster, William Mayer, Gordon Jeffries, Thomas Cooper, Edward Cooper, Eleanor Franklin, and Barbara Lyle.

DR. SAMUEL TYNDALE WILSON

"Social Equality" Is Impossible According To Interracial Group

"Character, Rather Than Pigment Should Be Basis of All Association"

"Social equality" of the races, that bugbear of the Southern white mind, was branded impossible at the February meeting of the East Tennessee Student Interracial Commission. Since social equality cannot exist within racial groups, it was said to be impossible in interracial affairs.

One student said, "Character, rather than pigmentation, should be the basis of all association."

"What I want", said Prof. Cary, of Knoxville College, "is to be evaluated on my worth as a man. There are many people of both races with whom I do not care to associate."

The topic of the meeting was "Dualism in America." Prof. Herman J. Kloepfer, of Knoxville College, introduced the subject in an address in which he spoke of dualism under three aspects; educational, economic, and social. Prof. Kloepfer also led the open forum diisussion which followed.

Students of both Maryville College and Knoxville College expressed disapproval of the high cost of segregation, of the excuses for it conventionally advanced, and of the almost inevitable injustice involved in segregation. Misappropriations of funds for education, recreational facilities, and municipal improvements were cited and condemned. Knoxville College students revealed the inequalities of accommodations in public carriers and the virtual impossibility of a Negro buying a Pullman in the South, even on north-bound trains.

An attractive feature of the afternoon's program was the music. Miss Beulah Smith sang "A Birthday", by Woodman and Leander Boykin sang H. Tipton-Campbell's "Hymn to the Night".

The next meeting of the Interracial Commission will be held at Maryville College Saturday afternoon, March 4. All students and faculty members who are interested will be welcome.

Influential Leaders To Attend Conference Of Student Volunteers

Miss Elizabeth Manget and Dr. Harry C. Whiting Are Among Leaders

Miss Elizabeth Manget who spoke on China in a Chapel service early last fall, is to be one of the leaders at the spring conference of the Tennessee State Union of the Student Volunteer Movement Miss Manget is traveling secretary of the Movement in the South Atlantic Region.

At the expense of considerable effort other able leaders have been secured for the conference. Dr. Harry C. Whiting, formerly a medical missionary in Korea and now the pastor of three home mission churches, comes from Fairfield, Iowa. Dr. Whiting is a popular and successful worker with young people.

Miss Mary Miles, of Vonore, Tennessee, is a returned missionary from Japan. She was a Maryville Colige contemporary of President Lloyd, and her father, Dr. Thomas Judson Miles, is a Director of the College.

Mr. George W. Rhoad, who is a pioneer missionary in Abyssinia under the Sudan Interior Mission, was secured only with the greatest difficulty. Mr. Rhoad is spending his furlough on a speaking tour of the colleges and churches of the United States and is in very great demand.

The theme of the conference is "What is the Real Purpose of Missions?" Between sixty and a hundred delegates, representing white and colored colleges over Tennessee, are expected.

Special features of the conference are open air forums on Saturday afternoon and a banquet to be served in Pearsons dining hall Saturday evening. After the banquet, the missionary romance, "Robert and Mary" will be presented in the philosophy classroom.

Most of the sessions of the conference will be held in the Bartlett Hall auditorium. Students and faculty members of Maryville College are invited to attend without the formality of registration.

A face that cannot smile is like a rose that cannot bloom.

Freshman Debate Team Is Selected

The tryouts for the freshman debate team were held on Saturday, February 4th in Professor Davis' classroom with Miss Heron, Miss Johnson and Professor Kiger as judges. There were thirty-two debaters to enter the tryouts from which six boys and six girls were chosen. The girls selected were: Mary G. Brown, Mary Dunn, Roberta Howie, Eleanor Pflanze, Helen Rusk, and Catheryn Smith. The boys were: James Badgett, Gordon Bean, Edward Friar, Archibald Preper, William Quigley, and James Saint.

The girls meet Tusculum College in a dual debate on April 10th while the boys meet the University of Tennessee on April 14th. The question is the same as that used for the tryouts, Resolved: That the United States should control all banks and guarantee bank deposits.

Both boys and girls are now holding discussions twice weekly with Gordon Bean and Mary Brown as leaders of their respective teams.

Dr. Davis Speaks To Students Of Ministry

On last Sunday night, after the evening sermon, Dr. Davis met all ministerial students in Athenian Hall and gave them a few pointers about probable future experiences in the ministry.

Dr. Davis laid special stress on getting a thorough education to qualify for a pastorate in the Presbyterian Ministry. He recommended for each student the attainment of not only the B. D. degree, but also an M. A. and Ph. D. This is a need that has been provoked by the recent consolidation of churches, leaving thereby a noticeable number of jobless preachers.

After getting one's ministry, the preacher's problem is to understand his associates, and to learn to deal with "touchy" problems. The first qualification for a good minister, says Dr. Davis, is the knowledge of human nature. Dr. Davis cautioned would-be successful ministers first, not to "ride a hobby" in the ministry; and second, never to show anger.

Dr. R. M. Davis Conducts Fifty-seventh Series Of Annual Meetings

Powerful Minister Makes Great Appeal To Students And Townspeople

With sane philosophy and unique expression, Dr. R. M. Davis conducted Maryville College through its fifty-seventh annual series of February Meetings to final results of outstanding success. During ten days of addresses which not only presented valuable matter, but presented it in a remarkable manner, Dr. Davis offered to his listeners a vigorous picture of life and a daring challenge to its problems. The power of his style lay in its strength, its virility, and its unexpected changes; and the chief appeal of his matter was his un-illusioned interpretations and his almost whimsical approaches. His sincerity and his sympathy with young people were evident in every message. The seventeen vital addresses which were offered to the students during these days are reviewed in the following summaries.

TUESDAY MORNING

The Rich Young Ruler who came to Christ was rich and young and strong. Life had been made easy for him; he, like us, had inherited everything,—friends, country, religion, race, life itself. "What shall I do to inherit eternal life?" was his question, and in answer Jesus' immediate command was "Then follow me." But the young ruler, who seemed willing to do anything to obtain the power of Christ, refused the true way.

TUESDAY EVENING

"God, I thank thee I am not as other men", prayed the Publican. The purpose of religion is not to imitate others, but so to have an injection of God's power as to make one indelibly and forever himself. Christ had this idea in mind when choosing His disciples, for a consideration of the twelve reveals the diversity of their natures. An imperishable loyalty to the Master, however, was the one trait which each disciple, except Judas, possessed.

WEDNESDAY MORNING

"There are very few things you can really do yourself, but one of them is to make up your mind occasionally." Confronted in the wilderness, where Jesus had gone to be alone with his mind, with three ways of enterprise, stomach philiso-

(Continued On Page Four)

Clothing Exhibit Is Planned By Home Ec. Department

Exhibit Is Under Direction of Miss Clara J. Brown

An exhibit of children's clothing, designed for easy making and easy laundering, and to help the child to dress himself, will be given by the Home Economics Department from February 27 to March 4. The designs have been furnished by the Bureau of Home Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and the exhibit will be under the direction of Miss Clara J. Brown.

The exhibition will be open to the public, free of charge, on the third floor of Science Hall, from 3 to 5 on the afternoons of Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. On Friday, from 11 to 12, in the Home Economics classroom Miss Brown will deliver a lecture, which is also open for the public, on this subject.

The main objectives in the designs, says the Bureau, are freedom and comfort for the active child, encouragement to self-help, and the saving of his mother's time and energy. All the garments in this exhibit are adjustable, also, to the growing child, extra material being allowed for lengthening. There is a minimum of buttons, and those that are used are conveniently placed, and of a size and type easy for children to manage.

Most of the fabrics are cotton, but there are also some washable

(Continued On Page Four)

The Highland Echo

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

KAY CARPENTER - - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
BERNARD MATTINGLEY - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
DAVID McARTHUR - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Monday, Feb ruary 20, 1933

SUPPOSE WE CREATE

In the last analysis, allowing for very few exceptions, the amount a person gains or losses in college bears greatly on his ability to utilize spare time. Spare time is that time not used in preparing for classes or in recitations. There may be students who very coolly confess that they have no spare time . . . . they spend it all on their studies. It might be wise for these students to begin creating spare time. This term has been corrupted until it has become a synonym for a "bridge game" and "bull session" in common college parlance.

Granting that we have time to spend, the first question pertains as a rule to the most profitable way of spending it. Usually this involves reading. . .or professors as a rule would convince us of this and professors can't be far wrong. But the person who continually has his nose in a book doesn't know whether he's good or not, except that he might be a good reader.

One of the most constructive methods of "spare-time-behavior" is to attempt creative writing. This can apply to the person who expects never to write, and to the person who might aspire to a life of writing, but who is waiting until commencement to begin. This is college for him. . . . after commencement, life begins. The person who has no aspiration as to future work in this field can at least make an attempt to put out in contrast to the book-worms affinity for taking in.

As an incidental matter but one that should be more than incidental, we find that colleges, this one not excluded, lack greatly in the means for motivation of this art. We have literary societies, but there we are practially all entertained, except for a noticeably small number who happen to be on the program. We have a Writers Workshop which is supposedly composed of the 'cream' of the college writers. Only juniors and seniors belong and very uncertain methods are used in choosing this number. This is not meant to contain a criticism of existing institutions; rather a vivid illustration of the reality, that creative writing is creative. . . . it fairly demands initiative. The individual who waits until he leaves college to begin is similar to the dormitory student who sets his alarm, leaves the book open at the right page, locates the lamp, but forgets to borrow a match to light his lamp. The one inconsistency here is that the lamp can't be borrowed. It must be manufactured.

There is, in reality, a great opportunity offered for the encouragement of creative writing on a college campus, but it doesn't make itself too obvious. Colleges are usually tolerant in their attitude toward prospective writers. Criticism and advice are generously offered by members of the faculty. Campuses offer a wealth of material from which writers may draw themes for their works. The only thing left for the writer is to create the spare time, and then not to forget how it has been intended.

AN INTERNATIONAL LANGUAGE

Important to world commerce and science, and of great importance in general, is the advance in the field of standard language, the most recent result of which is the new Basic English. Basic English is an extensive step from the Esperanto language which has been on the verge of extinction for a number of years, or has at least claimed little attention, except as something to be improved upon. The recent attempt at an improvement is largely due to efforts of C. K. Ogden of Magdalene College, director of the Orthological Institute at Cambridge.

Basic English bases its claim on its simplicity and practicality. Of the 20,000 words in the English Language, a mere 850 have been gleaned as being a sufficient working vocabulary. Of the 850 words, 400 are nouns, 100 adjectives, 100 verbs and adverbs, 200 names of picturable objects, and fifty adjectival opposites.

It seems reasonable to believe that this language will be successful in spite of the constant fate of its predecessors. It is based on the original English Language which is spoken by over 500,000,000 people. It is thorough enough to fill the requirements of an international tongue, and it is simple enough for men of all countries to learn rapidly. It is, in construction, very similar to the languages of the Orient, and those of Africa. According to authorities, an ordinary person, regardless of his native tongue should be qualified to learn this new speech thoroughly in one month's study.

It appears that Basic English will be a success. If it should, for some peculiar reason, prove a failure, it will at least signify an important move toward an inevitable end—the creation of a language which may be used by all educated people on earth.

The Wranglers' Club

"If I were a collegiate ministerial student, I'd study: first, social science; second, classical languages; third, natural sciences; fourth, literature. Pack up the old kit-bag with a thousand things more than you can use; it gives you a sense of reserve."

"Read philosophy. All we do nowadays is to repeat Plato, and think we've got something original."

"Seventeen is the most important year in a person's life."

"How'd that guy get out there?" He worked. It's a question of a delivery of the goods."

"College days are great janegathering days."

"Darrow's philosophy is suicide."

"Make disciples of the oldsters."

"I want to know what these younger philosophers are up to."

"Currents of cosmic thought seemingly move along like well-stratified fogs."

"There are two aspects of you: the instrumental and the spiritual. The instrumental is the unimportant."

"Jesus to me is God in history."

"The God side of Christ is not touched by Calvary. You can't kill God."

"Nobody has to die for the proof of a principle. Jesus did not die as a martyr."

"People didn't like Jesus: he told them the truth."

"Men have always paid blood for life."

"We preachers are up to our eye brows in life all the time."

"The first thing you do when you start to sin is to get God out of your mind. Sin is practical atheism."

DAVIS DYNAMOS

Christiantity is not a major operation on joy.

Christians don't have to be Gerty Glooms or Frigidaires.

A man isn't a man until he's met his devil.

Thomas wasn't a doubter, he was a thinker.

I hope life is hard for you.

The great mystery is not death but life.

The highest privilege of man is being himself.

Religion can stand on its own legs. It doesn't need to ask science if it can believe in God.

To know a person completely is vulgar.

My fellow immortals.

Jesus might have died unconsciously but he died sane.

Men live on words.

The cheapest thing in the world is to imitate someone else.

To love a person is to know him.

Everyone attends the crucifixion of Jesus sometime in his life.

The crucifixion was not an event historically concluded; it is a living rreality.

It has never been proved that anyone has ever died.

When you fall in love you fall in jail.

The most exacting thing in the world is love.

We can be in a Far Country just a few blocks away from home.

No one really has freedom.

Love is the greatest power in the world.

You can't enter each other but Jesus can.

One of the greatest things one person can do for another is to save him from embarrassment.

The Place of Motherhood is at the Cross of her boys.

To BE in the hands of God and to FALL in the hands of God are two different things.

Superchemistry is beating back to God.

The end of human evolution is the humanity of Christ.

No one is glad to welcome home a Black Sheep.

Would we be glad to welcome back a Prodigal Son if he had besmirched our name?

The thing that we long for is Peace.

It takes a brave person to go to sleep.

The Greatest Blessing is Peace.

Peace is an establishment between two people.

Peace is a sacrament.

I believe in the aristocracy of man.

Weather is feminine.

You can't fight Life's battles with a quotation even if it is from the Holy Scriptures.

1 IN 1,000,000

Bang! Bang! Bangs!

Editor Bangs, 42, editor of the Huntington (Ind.) News, and one time president of Huntington College, is firmly convinced that the small-town editorial tail can wag the state-wide financial dog. Two weeks ago, by a series of editorials, he crippled business to the extent that the mayor was forced to declare two holidays in a row.

Last fortnight, Editor Bangs was jailed on charges of criminal libel against the banks. Upon gaining his freedom he found that electricity, gas, and steam had been cut off from his plant. Then Editor Bang's readers did for him what New York Times' readers would probably not do for Adolph Ochs. Women's organizations hurried to the News plant with lanterns. Farmers drove in with gasoline pressure lamps. Friends rigged a gasoline melting pot for linotype metal. Willing, brawny arms hauled an old automobile into the plant and hitched its engine to the News press. Citizens of Huntington crowded around the doors to watch the first edition come out only an hour and a half late with the streamer headline: N. I. P. ADMITS PART IN CONSPIRACY TO CRUSH NEWS.

Yoo-hoo! Mistah Bahclay!

To Charles E. Mitchell, United States minister, colored, to Liberia, Liberia's president is merely "Mister". It so happened that Mr. Mitchell found it necessary to make inquiry concerning some payments which were due the Firestone Company in America from the branch in Liberia. The important letter began: "My dear Mr. Barclay". Immediately Mr. Mitchell was upbraided for his "slanderous conduct". The self-centered Barclay finally refused to talk with Mitchell, except through French mediators. Officials at Washington bore Mr. Mitchell up, saying that he was not required to say "Mister", since the United States has not yet recognized the president of Liberia.

You Tell 'Em, Freddy!

Here is a bit of news that will be interesting to at least a "few" college students, if not to the most of them. When a man has owned forty-six railroads and built four, he rather assumes the right to tell the world what is what. Such a man is proud old Frederick Henry, Prince of Prides Crossing, Massachusetts. He says, "Professors are one of the chief curses of the country; they talk too much. Most professors are a bunch of meddlers and cowards. The sooner we get away from them, the better off we'll be. I am borne out in my statement by the many difficulties which professors have drawn us into in the past few years. If anyone can point out a single instance outside the Glass-Stegall bill where their advice has been accepted, I will award him a gardenia."

Bee For Poets . . . ?

John Masefield, poet laureate of England, in a recent statement to New York reporters declared in favor of saloons. He thinks that the speakeasy can never take the place of the saloon, which is just about right. . . the law won't let it. He says, "The saloon was not sordid, its greatest drawback was being linked with the sordid side of life. In a speakeasy one does not expect to find merriment. There one gulps his drink in the hope of getting through before the raid comes."

Mister Journalism . . .

The Desperate Desmond of journalism, Frederick Gilmer Bonfils, is dead at the age of 72. For many years editor of the Denver Post, he had come to be known as the very essence of all that the term "journalism" implies. Thirty some years ago, he saved the Post from complete extinction on the "rocks" by buying up the whole thing and inaugurating a reign of publicity which spread over the entire group of western states. On the very first day under his management, the presses reel off page after page of editorial "bull" which had been piled up by his reporters. His chief command was "Comb the town for scandal!" So wide was his knowledge of scandal and so forceful were his editorials that Harry F. Sinclair was more than willing to offer him the bribe of $250,000 to keep still. It was rumored that he got his fine home from one who feared publicity. He had no scruples about printing scandal. Well, he's dead now, and the city of Denver, instead of rejoicing over his riddance, is mourning his loss. Well, some people are like that.

WORLD TODAY

The Inflationary idea is growing in Congress. This, however, is stimulating movements to head it off. The Roosevelt program is planning to take the place of this movement. Foremost in the list, undoubtedly, is the hope of international action which will stabilize currencies, reduce trade barriers, and otherwise promote an upturn in the foreign trade levels, which have been steadily declining since the depression began three and a half years ago. It is to this end that it is proposed to tackle the troublesome issue of war debts as a first step after March 4. Second, Roosevelt would add to the purchasing power of the farmers by some sort of artificial stimulations of prices of basic commodities. Third, the Democrats are determined to do something to make easier the process of liquidation of debts. Finally, the Democrats are considering ways and means of broadening the activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation with a view of providing jobs for the present unemployed.

—:—

Disaster is feared unless the new Government succeeds under Hitler in Germany. "The road is now clear. The Hitler-Papen-Hugenberg Cabinet represents Germany's last reserve. If it fails, a catastrophe of gigantic dimensions is inevitable. Germany has a good way of making Communism live hard.

Organ Recital In Voorhees Chapel

By Frank R. Neff, Jr., '33

PROGRAM FOR SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 26, 1933, 4:00 P. M.

Hymn tune: Wareham	Knapp
Prelude and Fugue in D Major	Bach
Two Arias from Rinaldo	Handel
Menuetto (Symphony No. 3, in E-Flat Major)	Mozart
Gloria in Excelsis (Mass No. 3)	Haydn
Memorial Serenade	Neff
Cujus Animam (Stabat Mater)	Rossini
Bouree	Handel
The Lost Chord	Sullivan

"The Times" of London Gives Brief Account Of Brahm Stoker's Life

Author of "Dracula" Was Not A Notable Figure In Literary Field

Athenian's play of next week is a dramatization of the novel of the same name, by Brahm Stoker. Stoker is not a notable figure in the literary world. This much, however, can be learned of him through the obituary notice of "The Times" (London) for April 22, 1912.

"Braham, or baptismally Abraham Stoker, was born in Dublin in 1847, his father, Abraham, being one of the officials in the Chief Secretary's Department in the Castle. He was educated at Trinity College where he won honors in science, mathematics, oratory, history, and composition, beside distinguishing himself as a sportsman and debater. He was for some time in the Irish Civil Service as Inspector of Petty Sermons and was engaged in journalism as well, both as editor of an evening paper and as a dramatic critic. How long he could have been content to play these humble, though miscellaneous, parts it is impossible to say, but in 1876 or thereabouts he came into contact with Henry Irving, and two years later he had permanently thrown in his lot with him as his manager and confidential secretary, and he remained with him to the end.

"He shared Irving's counsels in all his enterprises",—assisted at many brilliant entertainments which his chief gave during the heyday of the lyceum; and knew thoroughly the ins and outs of the financial side of the riskiest of all professions. After Irving's death it was not unnatural that Stoker should write his biography. A fluent and flamboyant writer, with a manner and mannerisms which faithfully reflected the mind which moved the pen, Stoker managed to find time to write a great deal. He was the master of a particularly lurid and creepy kind of fiction, represented by "Dracula" and other novels. He had also essayed musical comedy, and had of late years resumed his old connexion with journalism.

The notice goes on to state that Brahm Stoker died on April 20, 1912, and was survived by his wife and one son.

The "Orange and Blue" from Carson-Newman was running over with information as to "How we took the Maryville boys on the home court", and similar predictions as to how the avalanche would continue in Jefferson City. Since the recent, unexpected loss at the hands of the horribles, the columns have been exempt of any such comment. We guess from what we can hear that it wasn't Captain Lewis and his cohorts who took the C-N boys but timekeeper Moore, who won by alertness, and his ability to tell time.

The sentence "She lit his pipe and took herself a few puffs on it" was rendered "She lit his pipe and made herself a pair of draws with it."

SUPERIORS SCOTTIES

When traveling over this great world and wide, one is brought to the knowledge that there are men, and again, there are men. Some, like George Hoglan and Popeye, don't know their own strength, while others are not aware of their own ability. One in the latter category has come to us from Lenoir City, Tennessee, in the person of Ralph Conrad Quenelle. Although the two names are mentioned in the same paragraph, gentlefolk, do not become confused, for it is not meant that the Pride of Birmingham has come upon misgivings as to his varjous talents. Now, turning back to the subject of modesty, let us observe how some lights cannot be hid under a bushel of reserve.

When in 1920, the Republican Party was asking a suitable man to run for Vice President, there were the usual number of gabby congressmen as prospects. But they were all passed up, and the ability of Silent Calvin Coolidge was given recognition. Similarly, when the class of 1933 at Maryville College held its presidential convention at the Hall of Voorhees, the crown skipped over the heads of the glib tongued members and rested upon the pale brow of Conrad Quenelle. Long live King Conrad I, the Calvin Coolidge of Maryville!

Besides being class president, Conrad is Literary Editor of the Highland Echo, a member of the Y. M. C. A. Cabinet and of the Writer's Workshop. In the past, he was secretary to Dean Barnes. He is a student of honor roll caliber, for, though not a Phil Cory in the classroom, he shows up to advantage in examinations.

That Conrad is the incarnation of patience and good nature is indicated by his enduring Arthur Lazell, the genius from Long Island as a roommate. But such training is calculated to serve him well in his life work. Yes, Conrad is majoring in English with the intention of becoming a professor of the mother tongue. And what could take more patience than being an English instructor?

With all this superabundance of virtue, Conrad has one vice; namely, moonshining. This scandalmonger has had a committee of henchmen at work upon Mr. Quenelle's past, and the detailed report is now in. Hours of reading bring out the definite knowledge that twice during his college career, Conrad has moonshined. What a blight upon an otherwise clean slate! But, my boy, we have faith that you may live it down. For have you not already risen to the presidency of the noble senior class?

The Poetry Corner

Facing The Dawn

Sunrise and morning star,
And one clear call to give,
And may there be no clouding of the skies
When I set forth to live.
But such a glow, as shining seems ablaze,
Too full for shade or night,
When that which drew from out
the sun's vast rays
Bursts forth in light.

Daylight and morning bell
And after that to work,
And may there be no soft and subtle spell
To make me shirk.
For though into the maze of toil and strife
My tasks may set my way,
I hope to meet my Master life
to life,
As I shall live this day.

—William Hiram Foulkes,
Pastor Old First Church,
Newark, New Jersey.

The constancy of love is to be measured by the strain brought upon it. The point where it fails is the measure of its strength.

SPORTS

Scots Come From Behind To Wallop Pioneers In Ragged Show

Last Half Spurt Comes In Time For Home Boys To Cap Needed Victory

After the side-line support had stopped functioning,a and had completely lost hope of anything like victory, the Maryville Scots became suddenly rejuvenated in their game against the Tusculum Pioneers last Thursday night to eke out a 25-22 win in the waning moments of the encounter. Because Maryville won, coupled with the fact that they played a stellar brand of ball in the second half, the crowd that left the bleachers was one of the happiest ones to witness a game this season. Many fans suggested that the Tusculum battle was the best game of pitch and toss since the memorable fray against the Milligan Buffaloes last year when a 41-41 tie was broken in the last few moments of the game to let Maryville lose by a scant two points.

During the first half, Maryville scored six points, Tusculum scored 11 points, and Coach Honaker handled 465 pounds of sawdust besides completely demolishing three fingernails, all of which was a result of the Scots being off form from afield. The first five minutes might as well have been omitted as far as a gain or loss for either team was concerned. Both teams spent the first five minutes warming up, and the next five consisted of four points for Maryville, and a scant two for the rivals. Allen broke the ice for Maryville, and Cherry slipped one in the improvised niche to give Maryville the slight lead. The only additional points for Maryville were made by Allen as the halftime approached. Lewis entered the fray in the middle of the first half and contributed a great number of misses to the grand total.

The second half was started off slow and continued in that fashion until the more pessimistic boosters had lost hope and donned coat and hat to return to the domicile. Maryville pushed the total to 11 with Allen and Lewis contributing while Tusculum gradually slipped up to 17. When the score was 17-11, the horribles became suddenly incensed and began to function much like a well-geared college machine. Five points were scored for Maryville while Tusculum added three to boost the score 16-19 at which juncture the timekeeper began to hold two and a half fingers in the air and the crowd saw, for the first time, hopes of victory.

Tusculum scored next to dampen the ardor of the homeboys, but this only inspired five quick successive points, the last two points being a long lazy looper from the hands of Captain Lewis who let one fly from near the center of the arena. Kizer then scored a foul to give Maryville the first lead since early in the first canto. Three successive points were heaped on, and the only counteracting effort was given by a Tusculum substitute who sunk fifty percent of double free throw attempts. The game ended soon after with Maryville trying to control the ball, and Tusculum firing from all angles in attempting to tie the count before the second hand beat them out.

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

We're made! When we took over the reins of this column we couldnot even find anyone to read the copy therefor, much less a regular reader. Now, after a mere four or five months our pal James Largen concedes us a minimum of thirty readers ! ! ! ! ! With our mathematical turn of mind, we have computed that, should we conduct this column only fifty more years, increasing at the same rate of the past few months, we should attain to as many followers as has our contemporary, the Observationist. Something to strive for?

—S—

Haub's added height makes him an ideal guard. This much already been proved, especially by his work in that capacity Thursday night. He was smagging quite a few of those Tusculum lost hopes which might have easily been converted into points. And we couldn't have stood many more points against us.

—S—

While on the topic of swimming, perhaps a word or two along that line might be permissible. We've heard from all sorts of sources that Maryville is this year planning to have an intercollegiate swimming team. The boys are practicing semi-regularly, and hopes are high for an excellent team. All we need is an opponent or so.

—S—

And why should swimming season come in the dead of winter? That makes it kinda tough on the institutions in these heah pahts which don't happen to have a tank. If the season were moved up to May, we could hold meets in the Tennessee, marking off lanes with tugboats and clothes-lines. Then too, we should have the added attraction of journalistic comment as to which school had advantage of the direction in which the stream happened to be flowing.

—S—

Rumors currently circulating are to the effect that the 1933 tennis team will be a hummer. Besides the lettermen and members of last year's squad, a flock of new material is present. Haub, at present sporting around in abbreviated trousers for the entertainment of the moonshiners in the gym, is reported to be an ace. So with Karnell, and others, C. B. Stanbery, who went great guns in the fall tournament year before last, is in school again, and will probably make his bid for a position on the team. Mebbe we might win a match or so, huh?

—S—

We haven't mentioned Ye Olde Nativve Stayte in so long, we fear 'tis beginning to injure our patronage. Even so, we shan't rave at length (for fear of the editorial knife); we'll just ask for comfort as to the manner in which Ye Stayte Institutionnes are behaving on the court, Tech and Georgia, usually threats to anybody's club, can't even beat Tennessee much! ! They just meander along, now and then winning a game by surprise, or between themselves.

—S—

Thursday night's game was packed with heart-rending misses in field-goal tries. The Scots were apparently a bit off their eye, probably as a result of their long layover, but even so, Lady Luck turned "thumbs down" on many a shot that we opined should have pierced the netting. At times the Lads reminded us of poor Cumberland in the first half of the recent game played here.

Varsity Wrestlers Find Bulldogs Worthy Opposition

Six Matches Are Copped By Thrower's Invincible Crew

Coach Robert "Toreador" Thrower's invincible varsity wrestling squad met the proteges of Coach "Popularity" Boretsky in the alumni gym last Saturday night and faced considerable opposition before managing to win the contest by a count of six matches to three. The solemn, ceremonial march of the varsity, followed by the bulldogs, was led by champ Robert F. Paxton, Jr. who presented anxious fans with an indelible picture of his masterful physique. This was the first "open" appearance of Mr. Paxton since he entered Maryville as a junior in 1931.

The first match, in the 118 pound class was copped by "Puny" Ridder of the varsity over "Squirt" Beyer of the scrubs. Ridder and Beyer spent little of the alotted time on the mat in their "say uncle" maneuvers.

The next match in the 125 pound class was won by Chesty Hogland over Costner of the varsity with a time advantage of two minutes and thirty-nine seconds.

"Champ" Graham teased Holloway of the scrubs for eight minutes and thirty seconds before he gave him a few seconds of rest with both shoulders scourely placed on the accepting canvas. This match was followed by a battle in the 145 pound class with Krainock and Kid Burns competing, and Krainock emerging victor by a fall in three minutes and seven seconds.

The varsity 155 pounder, Teddy Willocks, was floored by the erstwhile champ of the National guards, Toots Blazer in six minutes and thirty seconds. This match was followed by a speedy match between Millsaps and the man of the enviable physique, T. Madison Byar. Millsaps required five minutes and forty-three seconds to down the doughty Ohian.

In the heay weight fray, Butter Atchison and Cowboy Peiper, from Bartlett's basement, succeeded in throwing their 175 pounds at each other for the alotted time with no advantage for either of them, except the incidental exercise. This was the only draw of the evening.

The final match of the evening, which could be matched for loving tactics only by the contemporary wrasslers of the benches on the respective side-lines, amounted to a draw. Neither Tombstone Tope, nor Stevedore Boretsky seemed in a fighting mood, so they merely wrestled, each getting a fall, the referee being disposed to give the advantage to Tope because it didn't take him quite so long to accomplish the desired end.

Basket Boys Bow To Tenn. Wesleyan

The Scotties journeyed to Athens, Tennessee, last Saturday night and for the fourth successive time in four years were defeated by the Wesleyanites in the "cracker box" gymnasium. The Bulldogs from Wesleyan have the reputation of being able to defeat any team if they get them in their own back yard. This they did to the confident Scots by a 31 to 26 score.

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

ECONOMY CAFE
Headquarters for Students

SULLIVAN & PINYAN
Hair Cuts 15c
Basement Carlisle's 5 & 10c Store

Cumberland Shows Fight But Honakerites Win 38-26

Vast Improvement In Team Brings Easy Victory

In their last game before the long lay-off during the February Meetings, the Highlanders gave the spectators a treat by trouncing Cumberland 38-26.

Maryville started fast and piled up a twenty point lead in the first half. The passing attack clicked superbly and with Allen posted under the whoople, very few of the attempts at the goal failed. Long shots were generally good and Allen again did his work well in the follow-up shots. No finer coordination has been seen on the Hill this year. A 23-3 score at the half is ample proof of it.

In the second period the Scots had their habitual slow down and true to tradition, the visitors stepped up their game a notch or two. To add to the distress, Stone, who was playing a sterling game at center, hurt his ankle on a jump and was forced to leave the game. The loss was felt heavily as Cumberland accumulated twenty points to Maryville's ten in the next few minutes. The home team put the screws down in time, however, and put on a little of their own steam in the bargain. It did one's heart good to see Captain Lewis back in his old form again. His uncanny accuracy on medium and long shots kept the spectators gasping and grinning at once. Then, to insure victory completely, the defense threw up a breastwork of zone defense that froze the Cumberlanders out of scoring distance and although some gallant attempts were made by the visitors, who really played good ball in the second half, the Maryville lead was too tall a hill to climb and the game ended in the midst of their hopeless ally. It is fitting to say that the Maryville fans went home with their basketball appetites fully satisfied.

Sophomores Paste One Point Victory On Junior Cagers

Freshmen Cop Second Honors With 129 Points; Junior-Seniors Trail

The junior and sophomore class basketball teams tangled in a championship encounter before a handful of fans as a curtain raiser to the wrestling match last Saturday night the juniors emerging victors by a scant one point margin.

During the first half honors were divided with the juniors managing to hold a lead most of the time, holding their adversaries in check by two points at half time.

The sophomores improved enough to gain the lead in the second canto and leave the arena with a one point advantage at the close of the game. Paul shot the winning counter for the victors.

Sophomores		Juniors
Paul 9	f.	Lampe
Atkins 4	f.	Richardson 6
Cloud 8	c.	Rusell 12
Camp 2	g.	Gwynn 2
Ramsey	g.	Dunning 12

There are seventy parts to a violin.

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	°††9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
°††Direct connection to Townsend

Bulldog Matmen Trounce Knoxville Trojans

On the Saturday night previous to the beginning of the February meetings the Bulldog wrestlers took seven matches out of eight from the Trojans of Knox High to win the meet 33-3, the same score by which the regulars took Farmer Watkins and his boys into camp. As a whole, the show was interesting, the reserves and the high-schoolers putting on a fiasco almost equal to the exhibition of their superiors on the first team.

In the first match, Ridder of the Bulldogs made short work of Tipton, the opposing entry in the 118-pound weight. Getting to the mat in a few seconds, Ridder climbed all over his man like a steeplejack before he pinned him. The time was the shortest of the evening, 1:47. George Hoglan, Birmingham's celebrity, contested Waller of Knox High in the next higher class. After six minutes, seventeen seconds of grappling which was slow at times, but fast at other times, Hoglan was tapped on the back by Referee "Tombstone Tope", and the Alabaman rose a victor.

The slowest match of the evening was found in the 145-pound division. This was probably a result of the visiting Badgett's height advantage over Holloway, as well as to the former's ability to "take a beating". Badgett succumbed to a fall in 12:20. Captain Louie Krainock drew a tough man in Leonard, of the visitors. In spite of the Scot's apparent superiority in all departments, he required the time of 9:45 to pin his husky opponent.

Teddy Willocks, in the 155-pound class, dispatched Disney, of the Trojans, in 2:16 seconds. The match was one of the fastest of the meet. In the next match, Creekmore opened up on Bill Dunning like the proverbial domicile aflame. Dunning immediately responded in kind, with the result that the first few moments of their match were packed with action. But both men readily weakened, and the remainder of the ten-minute period was spent on the mat, Dunning not able to arise, and Creekmore not being able to secure the fall. The Trojans took the match and three points with five minutes, twenty seconds time advantage.

Byar, giving ten pounds handicap for the second night in a row, turned in four minutes, his heavier adversary not being able to cope with Byar's octupus-like leg holds

In the nightcap, "Butter" Atchison tugged for eons at the two hundred-odd pounds of avoirdupois named Graves, of Knox High. The fleshy Trojans never threatened the stocky Scotsman, but proved immovable enough to save himself from a fall, Atchison winning by four minutes time advantage.

Sophomores Emerge Class Victors In Basketball Tourney

The sopohomore girls, upholding their undefeated record of this year, emerged victorious from the basketball tournament with a final score of 172. The freshmen, next in line, registered a final score of 129, and the junior-seniors a score of 54.

Four games have been played during the past two weeks, the first of which was a walkover for the sophs. The junior-seniors had a hard tussle, but managed to muster up 13 points to the 51 of the sophomores, Gillingham was high scorer.

The freshmen also triumphed over the junior-seniors when they garnered a 45 to 16 victory. Cooley made most of the points for the upperclass girls, while the excellent scoring and teamwork of all the three freshman forwards was outstanding. The freshmen made a remarkable showing playing together for the first time.

A third consecutive defeat was registered for the junior-seniors when the sophomore lassies overshadowed them by a 54 to 17 score. The speedy sophs outplayed the upperclass girls in every department of the game. Gillingham again took scoring honors with a total of 17 pionts to her credit, gaining all of these in the last period.

The last, closest, and most interesting game was battled off by the freshmen and sophomores. Both teams put on "full steam ahead" and did some real honest-to-goodness fighting. Through the whole game the sophs kept just two points ahead, Kizer, of the freshmsn, with a total of 13 points, was followed by Cooper, captain of the sophomore team with 16 counters.

The trouble with golf is that a man can't complain if his wife buys a new hat just as often as he buys a dozen balls.

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

FOR BIRTHDAYS—
And Other Occasions Make Your Gifts Personal
GIVE PHOTOS
THE WEBB STUDIO
PHOTOGRAPHS LIVE FOREVER

Sophomores
SATURDAY
IS YOUR LAST DAY

OBSERVATIONS

DARK LIMELIGHT

We think we might turn this into some sort of correspondence agency for pepole who don't feel disposed to put the trade mark down below. Our latest is short enough to quote. Thus we do: "We, the girls of Memorial Hall do not appreciate the insinuations made against us in last week's issue, and the preceding issues of The Highland Echo. We cannot understand why such false articles are allowed to be printed, and we would like it very much if we were left out of the limelight for awhile at least, "Signed, Memorial Girls" (by typewriter). The reference is to a very innercent (by Popeye) accusation made by one of us old meanies concerning one of the careless habits of our nigh neighbors of said dormitory. May we take this chance at the risk of our very necks (Oh, no doubt) to enlighten ourselves, and themselves, and concurrently, we hope, to re-establish our personal standing in their estimation, First, we say that anyone who wants to be kept out of the limelight doesn't write letters to be published; second, we have the latest filth on Memorial and not on the other girls' dorms because we're forced to live opposite the "White House."

—O—

BULLY AGNEW

Coming around behind the bleachers after a basketball game we were the other night, and happened we to be immediately following the Biddle-Agnew sensation. We don't know what the trouble was, exactly, (maybe motor trouble; or maybe sensory trouble) but we passed them only to hear Agnew utter the incriminating statement, "Gee, you're strong." These are only three words in the regular routing of the day, you know . . . . but this was night.

—O—

THE UNLIMITED CLASS

Curiosity was ours when we read in the report from the President's office that "Dr. Davis brings to Maryville an excellent physique." We know now, what he meant. As a matter of fact, from the neck down, our leader could have come near passing for one Dr. Foulkes of recent acquaintance to most of us. We'd like to see either of these men tangle with Mose Gamble in the unlimited class.

GREINER WRITES HOME

We met Herr Greiner, Brownie's right-hand man, a few days ago as he rushed from the dormitoty, only half dressed (not the dormitory; Greiner) to place one more burdensome letter in the mailman's pack. We joshed the boy about it, but he explained reassuringly that the letter was HOME. Well, we know how these home folks kick when they don't get the letter on the right day. We, like Greiner, and every other black sheep in the fold, write to our home. . . town.

NOT CAMERA SHY

During one of the short periods that we were awake last Sunday afternoon, we heard a slight disturbance on the ground floor (you will recall that every pine and fir and hemlock was wearing ermine too dear for an earl) and looked out to see Finklesetein Russell and one of his cousins on the tennis court, wearing a bathrobe. Another carried a camera. It was this way. The boys with the bath robes got set; the cemeraman got set; and at a given signal, bathrobes were tossed aside, and the men, with trunks as clothing, snowballs for weapons, and gymshoes for footwear, had their likenesses pictured in the land of Sunny Tennessee. Quite a trick we'd say. One of Finkle's tricks, for which we don't envy him the privilege, was to lie down on a bank of snow and get filmed. We'd want at least an athletic shirt to pull that one.

C. B.—ALL-AMERICAN

We've often suggested something as possible competitors for being the height of egoism. But now they've all been thrown in the traditional ash-can for one much better, and again our finding comes from Baldwin Hall. This is, likewise, pertaining to Baldwin parlor. C. B. Stanberry, known in Etowah as a golfah, a tennis enthusiast; and known in Maryville, generally, as a whatnot, goes to Baldwin and entreats some poor soul to come from her studying and play the piano for him in order that he can "entertain" the entire dormitory with a vocal rendition of "The All-American Girl". Plenty spoken.

NOW, THIS SEASON

The criticism has been put to us that we're too partial toward boys in this column and not enough observing of the girls' various peculiar actions which should, by all means, make for observation material. Being a man, this might be an applicable criticism, but we're forced to confess that our own good judgment has prevented us from saying many things herein that have been suggested to us. For instance, you'd think us right down crude should we make light of the recent soaking that Baldwin girls were subjected to, and if we told about the rencent sign-painting that took place in Pearson's which was provoked by the loss of Miss Butcher's one and only. It just wouldn't be the thing. . . . . or as Jane White says, "They're not doing that this season." We might tell Jane that now and then, but Jerry is always too near when we feel constrained to speak. To get back to the girls, and their eccentricities, matched only by their dormitory stunts, we'd add that we, like the New York Times, print "All The News That's Fit to Print."

TRIPP VERSUS FACULTY

Many consequences of the recent snow were in evidence the day thereto and the day after as students went about with broken arms, sprained arms, black eyes and hardly went around at all with sprained ankles. Two or three of our heman students, not excluding Robert Tripp, learned of the excellent physique of our professors, principally Professors Crothers and Fields. We stalwarts who live in Carnegie should be thankful that snowballs could be made at all, for from what we can hear, they weren't making many in the old home town. There it hovered around the 20 degree mark. .. and that was below zero.

SNOWMEN

Incidentally, anyone who feels broke can compare himself with the city of Chicago. This city was visited with a seven inch snow that was heaped up here and there all over the city, and was made to stay there because the city could hire but 100 men to haul it off. A person who has ever been lost in Chicago for any length of time can rather imagine what 100 men could do in a raging snow storm off Lake Michigan.

HEAVEN VERSUS A CORNET

Saxophones and colleges are generally inseparable by people who know. Recently there has been a variation from that, and as nearly as we're able to detect, the innovation, which is a cornet, is located one room below. We don't like and on interminably. It even plays taps. We're not always in the abode, but of the thirty-seven times that we've been on homeground, we've heard taps played thirty-seven times. One can imagine how harmoniously would blend a beautiful, peaceful sunset in the heavens with a blatant, unceasing cornet from the floor below.

CLOTHING EXIBIT

(Continued from page one)

woolens. The materials in all the garments were chosen because they have more all-round practicability for children's clothes than any others. Cottons can be secured in many weaves and qualities, for any sort of suit or dress, as the exhibit demonstrates.

The garments included in the exhibit are play suits, sun suits, and sun suit ensembles for girls and boys, dresses for little girls, infant's wear, and rompers for creeping babies. They were designed by the staff of the Division of Textiles and Clothing in the Bureau of Home Economics at Washington, and four such exhibits are constantly in circulation throughout the country in response to requests from colleges and other institutions or organizations concerned with child welfare. The bureau does not distribute patterns for the garments, but several pattern manufacturers have adopted the bureau's designs and put the patterns on the market.

DRACULA

(Continued From Page One)

adds to his food supply. His diabolical laugh will cause much "cold" concern among the members of the audience. An attendant tried to control Renfield, but he cannot be brought under jurisdiction . . . . he is a servant of Dracula.

"Dracula" not only presents an opportunity for splendid acting, but also for ingenious staging. In addition to the regular lighting effects, provisions have to be made to allow for the complete disappearance of Dracula and Renfield. The method for this accomplishment of this trick, along with other stage maneuvers, will be an added attraction to the audience.

Life and death are the opposite sides of the same great orb.

IF WINTER COMES

More than likely I'll goo all over myself, or purr like Dr. Rodgers, trying to tell about the snow last Saturday. Of course you saw it and felt it and breathed it, unless you are one of those sophisticated sissies who hibernated; and even then you knew it was here, else how would you have known to shield your pretty face? I saw you though, morose and glum, as you longingly looked out upon that Alpine pass, The Corduroy, where much skiing and sledding and sliding was going on.

This sister of the Sunny South was there being intitiated—but not to snow, oh no! I've lived south by southeast of the South long enough to know its sleet and snow. But I was ignorant of the wilfull wiles of "damn Yankee" tricks, instituted and practiced at Maryville to trap frolicsome lasses into falling, dripping, squirming, and burning.

On leaving Pearsons portico after a lunch fit for an August sun (excitement was too great to eat more), a volley of Yankee-made snowballs beat upon me. Hard ones to sting; soft ones to blind; cold ones to lodge between shoulders and drip and drip andripndrip until they ran together in a slithy slush. 'Twas brillig! Then out upon the battlefield, it was ignorance against guile. A knowing one crouched leap frog fashion beside an innocent was a signal for another to "poosh". Three times I fell backwards, shoulders first, kicking snow into my eyes.

Sleds recalled childhood porings through Sears-Roebuck catalogs. Yes, they were recognizable. Sledding continued with great popularity until one sled plunged half a dozen screams onto the railroad track. Somebody detected a taint of southern guidance. I didn't; I heard a chuckle from a northern brother.

A sleigh came by dawn by—no, another trick! It was not Dapple Gray. It was a gyp. But he pulled about twenty of us over to the seven-mile loop and left us to slide home. Tricks and stunts and gyps all afternoon! But even while I try to soothe the ache and pain of frostbitten fingers, I can't say that I mind Yankee pranks— in the snow!

FEBRUARY MEETINGS

(Continued From Page One)

phy, cheap confromity, and coercion, the Master chose none of these, but the true way of love. As this is the only way to discover individuals, so it is the only way to find God.

WEDNESDAY EVENING

Ruth and Naomi embody in fullest detail the principle of that companionship which is the greatest thing that may exist between two individuals. Not only did Ruth say "Where you go I will go", but also "Where you have to stay, I will stay." She was willing not only to follow, but to abide. Her devotion extended even to the people of her kinswoman, and her culminating act was the acceptance of the same God.

THURSDAY MORNING

"It is written in your hand—your destiny." The thumb, which some primitive man began one day purposelessly to pull, gives us our grip. The index finger, which is used to point, directs us on our way. The middle finger gives our altitude, which is the height of children of God. The fourth finger gives our hand its span. When these fingers are folded in the palm of the hand, and the thumb pressed down upon them, that which is formed is a fist, with all its potentialities of power.

THURSDAY EVENING

"He that hath ears, let him hear." The parable of the sower illustrates the fate of the good word, which may fall on hard ground, where mediocrity and stereotyped conventions lt it perish; or among thorns, where alien interests choke it out; or upon the fertile soil where it may spring up and take root in the heart of an individual, and from there spread to many other places.

FRIDAY MORNING

Our name is important. It has a history. It is the symbol of our reputation. We should not lose it. There is a name—Christian—that should be attached to all of us. It signifies the supreme lineage, and distinguishes those who are gentle, kind, and honest. It is an honor to attach that name to ourselves.

FRIDAY EVENING

Whne Mary Magdalene, who was not a bad woman at all, came to the tomb on the resurrection morning, she found Jesus gone. Christ may depart from our lives and we be unconscious of his going. He may slip out through our forgetfulness, perhaps during that period of adjustment between childhood and youth. Sin will exclude Christ, for its existence precludes the presence of God; it is aethistic.

SATURDAY MORNING

Jacob was an obedient stay-at-hom, but Esau was a roamer. After Jacbo had sinned he was forced to run away, as all sinners are, and he served long years in that other land where he met Leah and Rachel. After he had spent half his life there the voice of God sent him back to Bethel, and with the significant wound inflicted in his encounter with the angel at night, he returned to his original land, rededicated to his God and his ideals.

SUNDAY MORNING

When the voice spoke from heaven at the time of Jesus' baptism, there were three reactions among the spectators which are current dogmas today. Those sophistocates who insist upon interpreting everything in terms of natural phenomena, glibly explain it as thunder. The superstitious, who in every age have swelled the revenues of crystal-gazers and soothsayers, call it the flutter of angel wings. Jesus, the sane religionist, recognized it as the voice of God.

SUNDAY EVENING

"There is only one story; it is all there" may be said of the Crucifixion. Jesus, sane and in possession of all his faculties, made provision for the safety of his mother. He gave the first gleam of hope to one of His fellow-sufferers. For a brief interval he returned to childhood, calling for his father. With magnanimity such as is possessed by only God, he forgave those who wronged him. In the most fitting finale conceivable—setting an example for countless saints—he made the last act of trust by committing himself to God.

MONDAY EVENING

"You and I are the eternal survivors". The historical evidence of the resurrection is supported by the five hundred who saw the risen Christ, by the existence of the church, and by the documents of the Gospels. The impossibility of death is inescapable. Not only do we live and live, but at the same time we preserve our distinct personalites, which finally attain the perfected humanity of Christ, the end of human evolution.

TUESDAY MORNING

"Cast not that which is holy before swine." Hogs know nothing about holy things. The complete realization of holiness requires dedication, which gives us a great love; loyalty, which sacrifices the purest offerings; and defensive opposition, which saves holy things from being cast out. We who are children of God should bring the gift of our holy selves to our Creator, heeding not the cries which are of the swine.

TUESDAY EVENING

The gold coin, for which the woman sought so diligently, could not know it was lost; only the loser knew that. The prodigal son too, did not know he was lost when he was far away from home. The complexity of modern society increases the difficulty of maintaining morals, and it is not until our morals have a chance to react that we can know their unimpeachability. Sonship, whether of man or God, is a matter of matching character with character.

WEDNESDAY MORNING

"The thing we are all seeking is just peace." This peace, between man and God, is a covenant between two people. It is not a passive condition, like a stagnant pool of water; it is full of action. It is a sacrament, the oath taken, like the old Roman oath of Catiline's army, by all freemen to engage in battle, to follow their leader, never to retreat, and to die facing the foe.

WEDNESDAY EVENING

"I wish you happiness in the morn of life, a bright afternoon, but above all, a clear sky when the sun goes down." When the gods go out of their lives, half-gods take their places. We Christians should keep the divinities of quality, idealism, conviction, service, and religion in our lives, and close our hearts to the semi-divinities which threaten to crowd their way in. It is our faith, not in man but in God, that sustains us.

THURSDAY MORNING

The great idea of Christianity was born in the mind of God before the creator, and has been on the march ever since. Down through the mind of Christ it came, then to the Nile, Rome, England, to Luther, Calvin, Wesley, to us. We shall never see the church; its visible buildings, its denominations are only concessions to our poverty of spirit and fraternity. The real church is that spiritual idea which moved out of the mind of God, that found its way into our hearts, that will not stop with us, but will march on through countless ages more.

COLLEGIATE SWAPS

In a recent daily edition of a newspaper, we read a streamer—"Cold Wave Strikes Eastern States" . . . and the following head line began, "Utah sucers greatly in terrific blizzard". It looks like direction doesn't matter much anymore.

—MC—

One of the loudest, and most varied papers that we're privileged to read is the "University Echo" from the University of Chattanooga. It isn't in content, but general appearance that this paper differs. Each edition is printed in a different color. The last three, which are on our desk now, are a dark, unmistakable blue; a pinkish-red, about the color of Pearsons' tomato soup; and a bright and shining orange, which, as you might suppose, is unmistakable.

—MC—

As we peruse these papers especially the first ones after the new year, we can be as sure of finding an editorial entitled "Resolutions" or something similar, as we are at the first of the year when college news editors find it necessary to tell the students how to get along through the ensuing year. . , as if they knew how they would get along.

Where The Highland Echo runs "Collegiate Swaps", the neighboring papers run advetisements for tobacos of various forms and colors. For example, the last Tech Oracle, from T.P.I., has a 12 inch, five column add for Granger tobacco; a twelve inch five column add for Camels; and an eleven inch five column add for Chesterfields. That's just to give you an idea of what other college papers look like. That adds up 175 column inches, which would pay almost anyone's printing bill.

—MC—

We're always being confronted with the searching question "After College WHAT?" This is imposed upon us by too many people and we's suggest an answer for anyone else who experiences embarrassment such as ours. We's suggest "Why, Graduate School, of course". Then we's suggest that you run before they say, "After Graduate School, WHAT?"

—MC—

We find a few college papers running columns similar to that of Doris Blake of the Chicago Tribune, except it's all in fun. Our observation has previously been that even high schools had outgrown this method of filling columns.

—MC—

Technocracy ceases to be the rage. Three weeks ago it was spilled all over the front page, and the editorial page of college publications, but ever since Mr. Scott took the much spoken of "ride" from Columbia University, the brakes have been universally applied, and people have ridden back to normalcy.

—MC—

We've searched here and yonder for something in the Lenoir-Rhyne paper about the recent trouncing that Maryville administered the boys from Hickory. It has all been in vain, however, and we can't determine whether it's because they don't write up their losses, or don't send Maryville a copy of the paper that contains this write-up.

AVIATRIX

We don't pretend to understand all the mysteries of this world; we don't even want to understand some of them, but we would like to know why, of all times, a certain unwanted guest, a big green fly had to pay us a visit while we were laboring hard preparing for a Livy quiz.

The night was balmy and we were really disgusted that we had to stay indoors reading page after page of Livy's recital of how Hannibal and his elephants managed to cross the Alps, for at the moment we weren't half so interested in a magnificent feat that happened almost twenty centuries ago as we were in the magnificent moon outside. Nevertheless, we were accepting our cross philosophically until that daring intruder burst in rudely upon our solitude.

He was a dashing gentleman (gentleman is hardly applicable, but we need a word,) He wore a stunning green coat and a beautiful black hat but we forgot his gorgeous attire when we heard his voice. It was a deep bass, a devilish bass which at once gave us the creeps and made us mad; not just plain angry, for our mention was more than anger; it was tinged with a suggestion of temporary insanity. His was the sort of voice we imagine Mephistopholes had or should have had. He was immoderately proud of it. He insisted upon thrusting his buzz upon our ears from the minute he entered the room and not for a moment did it cease to grate on our nerves.

We resolved, however, not to let the mere intrusion of a fly disturb our peace of mind. We hoped that he would leave when he perceived our decidedly frigid reception. Accordingly we resumed our Hannibalic campaign. But did our visitor take the hint! Not he. One would have thought he was a privileged guest. He continued to buzz, he tickled our ears, he brushed our cheeks, he looked over our shoulders at our book, he even had the audacity to rest upon the pages and to survey them with a critical eye. When insult had been heaped upon injury we made a solemn vow to buy a fly swatter. Meanwhile we looked around for some weapon of atack; for by this time our outraged spirits had but one purpose, to show the disrespestful insect that we would not tolerate such utter disregard of our privacy.

Eureka! Our eyes fell on an old copy of The Highland Echo. With courage renewed by our formidable instrument of attack we entered upon a fight-to-the-finish campaign to rout our invader. The possible outcome of the contest was doubtful; often it looked as if the fly might be the victor. He was always just one jump ahead of the Echo. In the end, however, might and right prevailed and the villain met his doom.

Now all of this led us to indulge in a bit of meditation. We wondered why flies have to exist at all, and since it seems that they do, why do they have to choose such inopportune times to make their appearance? We don't know. We admit that such a perplexing problem is beyond the bounds of our intelligence. Perhaps Einstein can explain it with his theory of relativity or perhaps, perhaps—it comes withn the confines of technocracy.

Morning Mood

I cannot relaize you're at my door
Again, and I am smiling as I say
A calm good morning, asking you no more
Than "Are you well?" while all the time I pray
You cannot sense confusion on my face,
The rhythm of my blood beats
like a drum
Beneath my consciousness, while I retrace
Unwillingly our course of love, and sum
Up all its points. An opalescent prism,
Yet dark—as is the thinness of a flute
To viol tones your love—no
chrism
Could consecrate this thing. But
I am mute
Of this. In this brief time I merely say
The things I now will send you on your way.

Search

I'll spend my life on road and sea,
They tell me that is squandering,
But should I find one perfect thing—
Well-spent—my years of wandering.

Death Prayer

When my lif ends, for rest and peace
I would not think to ask,
But grant me in the Unknown,
God,
A nobler, finer task,

—Kay Carpenter

French Club

A story read in French by Dexter Reno and a solo by Donnell McArthur were special features of a program presented at the meeting of La Cercle Francais Friday night. Group singing of a number of French songs was an additional part of the program.

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, | MARCH 4, 1933 | NUMBER EIGHTEEN

Jose Iturbi Comes On Lyceum Program March 15

Artist Is One of Greatest Attractions On Maryville Stage In Several Years

The second number on this season's Lyceum program will be presented on March 15, at 8:00 o'clock, with the appearance of the famous Spanish pianist, Jose Iturbi.

Iturbi was born in Valencia in 1895. His musical education began in his native city, and it was not long before he attained considerable publicity as a child prodigy. At the age of seventeen he graduated from the Paris Conservatorie with first honors. In 1919 he accepted the post of the head of the piano faculty of the Conservatory of Geneva, a position once held by Liszt. He remained there for four years until his concert work allowed him no further time for teaching.

He has toured all Europe, South America, Cuba and the United States, and is world famous as a pianist. His American tour is characterized by noteworthy appearances as soloist with the Philadelphia, New York Philharmonic-Symphony, and with Cincinnati, Boston, Chicago, Celevland, Detroit, St. Louis, Los Angeles and San Francisco Symphony Orchestras. Not only is he popular in public appearances, but with undergraduate audiences as well, having performed on the educational college courses of Hamilton, Rutgers, Skidmore, Williams, and Iowa State College and of Cornell, Yale, Arizona and Illinois Universities.

Iturbi's style of playing is similar to that of Paderewski. His musicianship is characterized by a brilliance and fire, exceeded only by Paderewski himself. It is said that "He plays Mozart as Mozart himself must have played it; with consummate taste, poise and a patrician style," His playing is of rare beauty and captivating grace, and it is crowded with delectble mirthial." Press comments read "Iturbi is a pulse-stirring performer." "There is fire in his playing that is swiftly transmitted to his audience." "His feathery pianissimi, his incredibly rapid fingers aid him to achieve tonal effects of delightful beauty."

Iturbi has expressed himself as being interested in ultra modern music as well as in the older types such masters as Beethoven and Bach. He says "I cannot say that I am a specialist in the music of any composer. I think the ultra moderns have more or less lost their way and do not quite know where they are going. Much of what they write seems to me to be music to be read rather than to be played. In that sense it is absorbingly interesting.

Of course, there are certain musicians at the present time who do their composing, I am told, by chemical formulas. Can that be anything but a pose? You might write a piece and say it described a beef steak, but I cannot think it would be a success as music and it certainly would be a failure as a dinner."

"The danger of too much of this sort of thing, however, is not so much what it is now but what it is leading to. Where is the youth of today going to end that knows so little of beauty. I mean the youth who claims that ultra modernism is the be-all and the end-all in music, painting, sculpture, poetry architecture and all the other things in which the restless spirit can be expressed, even in behavior."

"It seems to me that its only salvation lies in holding on to what is fine in the past, while accepting the present and the future. The reverse of that, of course is the dried-up pediant who lives only in the past. That is my artistic creed, and I believe it to be a safe one."

Y. M. C. A.

The program at the Y. M. C. A. for the coming Sunday will be given by the Knoxville College Y. M. C. A., led by their President, Mr. Ernest Sutton. The musical aspect of the program will be furnished by a quartet and probably a part of the College's well known Band.

HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

Miss Irene Bewley

Miss Irene Bewley Makes Appearance On Chapel Platform

Renowned Reader Will Present Excerpts From "Tales of Tennessee Hills" On Y. M. C. A. Program

On Tuesday evening, March 7th, the YMCA will present Miss Irene Bewley, widely known character artist and one time student of Maryville College, in a varied program of "Tales of Tennessee Hills" of which she is the author.

From Coblenze, Germany to Dallas Texas she has spread the fame of these portrayals. In an evening's program she presents fifteen different characters, all types of whom can be found in the vicinity of Miss Bewley's former home territory, the hills of Tennessee. She gives the characterizations with an ease and artistry that captures and holds the interest of her audience.

All over the country the press has given Miss Bewley the most favorable comment. The New York Times says, "Miss Bewley portrayed the characters artistically. . . with an ease and finish that stirred the audience to applause after each act and at the end of the performance." Miss Bewley has appeared in Paris, Boston, Columbia University, New York, Washington, Chicago, Nashville, and other places of importance.

"Tales of Tennessee Hills" possesses a charm that is felt by all who listen to her sketches of them. The program will be in four parts, consisting of a monologue scene of a home in the Great Smoky Mountains; a scene entitled "Mountaineers as Seen Through Movies"; a two scene act called "Two Points of View" which portrays the view of the New Yorker and the inhabitant of the Unaka Mountains; and a one act play in three scenes, "Thar's Somethin' in it".

Music for the entertainment will be furnished by the Maryville College Orchestra.

Six Contestants Enter Preliminary For T. T. Alexander Prize

Six girls will compete in the preliminary contest for the T. T. Alexander oratorical prize open only to the contestants and the judges next Tuesday afternoon at 3:15 in the Philosophy classroom.

The possible subjects for this contest are stipulated in the regulations, and have been chosen by the participants thus: Elizabeth Duncan, "The Atonement"; Dorothy Casseres, "The Deity of Christ"; Maria Wynn, "Salvation Through Faith"; Lucille Swafford, "The Deity of Christ"; Margaret Mozingo, "The Resurrection"; Nathalia Wright, "The Resurrection."

This preliminary contest is for the purpose of selecting the two best orations submitted. The three instructors in the Department of Religious Education act as judges. The final contest will take place in the chapel between these two, the judges being ministers from town.

Maryville Loses To Tusculum; Vanquishes King In First Debate

Ben Groves and J. A. Lazell Lose; R. Stevenson and Earl Crawford Enter Win Column

Professor Verton M. Queener's forensic folk began activities in earnest last Friday night in a triangular debate on the Pi Kappa Delta question against Tusculum and King College.

The home team represented by Robert Stevenson and Earl Crawford, debating the negative of the War Debt question, received the decision of critic judge, Barr Miller of Knoxville College. Professor Fred Griffitts of Maryville presided. Both teams had the question well in hand and debated proficiently, the decision being granted to the negative on the grounds of better constructive speeches. Professor Miller credited the Maryville team for taking the opportunity afforded a negative side of suggesting an alternate plan for the cancellation of War Debts.

While King College was being taken into camp at Maryville, Professor Queener and two veterans, Arthur Lazell and Benjamin Groves, journeyed to Greeneville where the home win was counteracted by a loss to Tusculum College. Mr. Groves and Mr. Lazell represented the affirmative of the question in a very able manner. The decision was rendered by a critic judge.

Executive Council Votes Omission Of Examination Week

Final Week Will Be Devoted To Regular Meeting of Classes

The Executive Council of the Faculty at its meeting on February 23, took action providing for the omission from the calendar of the current semester of the final examination week as scheduled.

Examinations are to be given by the teachers, in general as they deem wise, and distributed through the semester as needed, except that teachers are expected to give tests or examinations in each course covering at least as many hours as the class is scheduled to meet each week; a three-hour course, approximately three hours; a two-hour course, approximately two hours. Thus, it is hoped, may be avoided the intensive cramming and eleventh hour preparation attendant upon concentrated examination periods.

Classes will meet at their regular times up to and including Wednesday night, June 7. Absences from the last scheduled session of each class will count double.

Seniors whose grade average in a course is "C" or above will be excused from attendance on that class beginning Thursday, June 1.

SENIOR MASCOT CHOSEN

Bobbie Jean Smith, the little daughter of Prof. and Mrs. R. L. Smith, was elected mascot of the Senior class at a class meeting held for that purpose last Wednesday morning.

The protege of the class of '33 will be pictured with the seniors in the annual, and will lend her talent and general presence to the glory of comencement week.

Y. M. C. A. IMPROVEMENTS

As a part of the extensive movement of improvement on Bartlett Hall a number of shrubs were secured through the efforts of President "Al" Duff. Mr. Duff secured the shrubs from the Alcoa Nursery Company which was kind enough to donate them to the Y.M.C.A.

By next Saturday night the President hopes to have Bartlett Hall in good condition for the "AS YOU LIKE IT". Lime and paint are all ready for further redecoration and this week he says that the work will be accomplished.

Maryville President Has Long Series Of Lecture Engagements

Dr. Lloyd Addresses Students Of Centre College in Special Religious Program

Dr. Lloyd has returned from a three day trip to Centre College, Danville, Kentucky, where he gave several addresses in the special religious program that is held annually.

Centre College consists of a Men's College and a Women's College and addresses to these two separately, were made by Dr. Lloyd on Monday and Tuesday, February 27 and 28. On Wednesday, March 1, a joint meeting was held. Numerous small group meetings and conferences occupied the rest of the President's time.

Dr. Lloyd spoke with appreciation of the cordiality and courtesy shown him by both the faculty and students of Centre College.

Last week he spoke to the Maryville Tuesday Club on "Psychology and Religion". He also spoke at a Men's Dinner of the Park City Church of Knoxville.

This past week, although he returned from a three day trip to Centre College, where he had made several addrsses, he spoke on Thursday in the First Methodist Church of Maryville, and on Friday to the Knoxville Civitan Club. He expects to speak at the Western College for Women in Ohio on March 12.

'Within The Law" Is Presented By College Players On March 20

Lois Wallace Plays Leading Role In Y.W.C.A. Benefit Number

The cast has been picked and work begun on "Within The Law", to be given March 20. As previously announced the play will be presented by the College Players and will constitute the Y. W. C. A. benefit program.

Lois Wallace will play the part of Mary Turner, who works in a large department store, is unjustly accused of theft. The owner, wishing to set an example to his employees, uses all his influence to send her to prison. The result of her three years of experience there turn her against society, and she resolves to be avenged by playing the law. She becomes known as an unprincipled woman, but because of her cleverness in keeping "within the law" nothing can be done. The methods by which she becomes wealthy and the way in which she captures the affections of the son of the department store owner (played by Bob Borcer) combine to make an interestingly worked out and very climactic plot.

SPANISH CLUB

At a meeting of the Spanish Club on February 21 a new series of programs was inaugurated, in which a study will be made of the Spanish speaking people of the world. Porto Rico was discussed during this meeting and at each subsequent one until the series has been completed a diffrent country will form the basis for study.

Katherine Smith gave a talk on the Porto Rican people, their characteristics and customs. Garnet Manges played a number of Porto Rican songs and assisted the club in learning the national anthem of Porto Rico.

An interesting exhibit of native musical instruments, basket work, beads, and lace work was displayed during the evening.

The next meeting is to be held on March 7. Cuba will be the topic for discussion.

Bristol County, Rhode Island, is the smallest county in the United States, having an area of 24 square miles.

Hate is a luxury no man can afford—rich or poor.

CONFERENCE LEADERS

Rev. W. M. Elliot

Elizabeth Manget

Candlelight Service Is Held In Voorhees Chapel Sunday Night

The regular Sunday afternoon meeting of the YWCA will not be held tomorrow, but the candlelight installation service will take place after Vespers. The old cabinet, led by the president, Inez Hamrick, will light the candles of the new officers and cabinet which consists of Tess Frey, president; Veta Mae Stephens, vice-president; Violet Webb, secretary; Phyllis Dexter, treasurer; Elinor Winn, Nu Gamma chairman.

The members of the new cabinet are: Programs— Dorothy Nethery, Elizabeth Peterson; Music— Mary, Elizabeth Cromer; Devotions—Janet Warren; World Fellowship—Lillian Steed; Mission— Harriet Clark, Katharine Orr; Orphanage—Barbara Whitmore, Cora Deats; "Y" Store—Lorena May Dunlap, Mildred Schoeller; Benefit—Maria Wynn; Publicity—Mildred Brooks, Dorothy Mae Lewis; Athletics—Lucille Swafford; Social—Dorothy Casseres, Ercelle Hunter; Lyceum—Thelma Iles; Librarians— Dorothy Hassall, Margaret Nelson.

Athenian Society To Elect Officers

Tonight at the regular meeting of the Athenian Literary Society election of officers will be held from the following list of nominations:

President: Wesley Culver, Leslie Webb
Vice-President: Richard Orr, Donald Fortune
Secretary: Warren Warman, Sam Waid
Critic: Burton Toms, Charles Gillander, James Crothers, Charles Beale
Sergeant-at-arms— William Dobbie, Charles Allen, John Sweeney
Program secretaries: Frank Mease, William MacCalmont, Earl Crawford, Joe Truxton
Editor: Robert Lodwick, Bill Garrett

It is estimated that William Shakespeare never made a continuous journey so far as a round trip from New York to Boston.

In certain parts of Africa, the locusts attain a length of four inches and feed on mice.

Miss Elizabeth Gillis Re-elected President Of Tennessee Union

Conference Is Well Attended By Representatives of Tennessee Colleges

Elizabeth Gillis, of Maryville College, was elected to succeed herself as president of the Tennessee Union of the Student Volunteer Movement at the business meeting held here last Saturday afternoon in connection with the State Conference. Between forty and fifty students representing colleges over Tennessee attended the conference.

Mr. George W. Rhoad, pioneer missionary in Abysinia delivered the opening address Friday evening, speaking on the subject, "Your Place in the Kingdom". Mr. Rhoad spoke again on Saturday morning, taking as his subject, "New Objectives for the Student Volunteer Movement". Mr. Rhoad is a popular and an inspiring speaker; his messages were cordially received by the audiences here.

Dr. Harry C. Whiting, who had led the college chapel service, delivered the second address Saturday morning. His topic was "Korea's Mission to the Orient." Dr. Whiting was one of the first medical missionaries to Korea, and since his return from the foreign field has been working under the Presbyterian Board of National Missions in Iowa. He delivered the sermon at the conference church service Sunday morning.

Rev. W. M. Elliot, pastor of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church of Knoxville addressed the conference Saturday afternoon on the subject, "Is Christ Real to You?" Dr. Elliot's main contention was that "whom do I believe" is more important than "what do I believe."

Elizabeth Gillis was elected state president of the Union at the business meeting Saturday afternoon. Other officers elected at this time were: Frank Tweedy, of Peabody, vice-president; Brindley Snowden, of the University of Tennessee, secretary; Red Pettit, of Southwestern, treasurer; Rose May Butler, of Scarrit, editor of the Spotlight and Reflector, monthly organ of the Union; and Julia Hereford, of Lebanon, Tenn., out-of-college secretary.

Open forums were held Saturday morning, Saturday afternoon, and Sunday morning. Leaders of these forums were Dr. Whiting, Miss Elizabeth Manget, who also led the devotions at all sessions of the conference, Miss Clemmie Henry, Miss Mary Miles, and Dr. R. I. Gamon, field secretary in Tennessee under the Presbyterian Board of National Missions.

An organ recital given late Saturday afternoon in Voorhees Chapel by Frank Neff was followed by an international banquet in the Home Economics rooms. President Lloyd acted as toastmaster at the banquet, which was attended by seventy-five delegates, visitors, and students.

After the banquet a missionary play, "Robert and Mary" was presented by a group of Maryville students in the philosophy classroom.

On Sunday morning Miss Mary Miles, on furlough from Japan, delivered an address on "Christian Education in Japan."

The eleven o'clock church service was the closing session of the conference..

FACULTY AT NASHVLLE

At the Twenty-seventh Annual Meeting of the Tennessee Philological Association held in Nashville on March 3 and 4, four Maryville College faculty members took part in the program.

On Friday, Miss Catherine Wilkinson read a paper on "Breton Customs as Shown in the Works of Anatole Le Bras," and Dr. Edwin R. Hunter read a paper on "Some Aspects of Colloquial Grammar". On Saturday, Dr. Hill Shine talked on "Thomas Carlyle: The Reading of a Young Romantic, 1795-1818", while Dr. George B. Hussey made "Comments on Plato's Theotetus and Sophists."

The Highland Echo

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

KAY CARPENTER - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
BERNARD MATTINGLEY - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
HUGH CRAWFORD - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, MARCH 4, 1933

OUR SOLUTION IS HERE

While the new examination system is being inaugurated, and all the school seems to be elated, or at least confused, we can say that we also witness a change. The extent of this change as far as early season predictions concern themselves, is an extra week of school, a little more work for seniors, and just a few more examinations in the course of the school year, all of which we must be thankful for. Someone said that we can't expect all sweet without a little bitter thrown in. We were thinking at that time of all bitter with a little sugar thrown in.

But it isn't in our mind to have any individual misled by careless remarks to the extent that he should misjudge our recent innovation. It must be good . . . . it's a change. At most, this can be but a step. It may mean that the school is developing toward some satisfactory scheme of grading or rating students, which, if true, would place a hefty feather in our cap. Just as probably, it may be a projection which will be counteracted by a necessary retraction. Be that as it may, it still gives us one more week of scheduled curriculum.

In nearly all colleges the curriculum is greatly under the supervision of the adminstration. The administration maps out the minimum requirements, and students still do the required work because they must in order to have the handshaking from the Registrar's office, and incidentally the all valuable recommendation from the Dean's office at the end of the four years malnamed career. Teachers are very little obligted to teach . . . . they merely outline the requirements. There is little incentive for one teacher to make his course more attractive than that of another instructor.

Our Utopian college has something to do with a system whereby no juniors and seniors flunk; unless they're unbelievably indolet. The Registrar gets a report from the professors which is nothing more than a rank of each class. Each instructor gives his report by rank, and the ultimatum, as far as the student is concerned, is a high standing on the scale of values . . .the final one in the Registrar's office, with which each instructor has little acquaintance. A student body may be low enough to flunk two subjects by our present system, but may be pulled up by other work, and result as an average student. We say that juniors and seniors shouldn't flunk for two reasons. The weeding out would take place almost entirely in the freshman year, and, second, we consider that each student would be good enough in his pet subject to raise his lower grades. There might be a certain social significance, or shall we say social consequence in being the lowest on a scale of some 800 students.

Perhaps this doesn't sound attractive. On the other hand, a plan where no person should flunk, must sound good to any student. Why shouldn't we have some such system. When we get out into what ever we're going to we don't measure our success by our ability to remember main points, (the editor realizes that in a few years there might not be such a thing as main points —much less a world). Our intelligence remains what it should have been in college. . . our ability to adapt, but from our attainments in all fields, probably headed by something beating to our major subject. It is possible that this would do away with major subjects, but human beings just have an inert way of specializing in something.

This is all for the purpose of saying that, try though we do, we haven't been convinced that brilliant successes and magna cum laudes are synonyms. It is also confessing that, although it isn't a personal experience, a thorough study will not detract from any one's college education. And incidentally, it's a plan which we should consider a move toward a satisfactory educational system, and we realize all the time that that much ground can not be covered in one step.

FOR THE 18TH TIME

Here we are again. If our readers looked for us so soon, they are optimistic. If they look for us more than four more times this year, they will be surprised. In short, we invite ourselves, and you with us, to the remainder of a year which is practically exempt from anything in the way of college newspapers.

As for the mailing list. . . well, it takes a real punishment. In that, however, we are not setting a precedent, we are merely following one that has long existed, according to the college historians.

We regret deeply to report this downright failure. It may be on account of a bad year; it may be because of inability to accomplish assigned tasks. We on the editorial staff of THE HIGHLAND ECHO regret to make this announcement. Heretofore we have been doing work that was enjoyable to us. Furthermore it gave us a pleasant diversion from the downright dull routine of "going to school." And further even than that, we had as our defense for poor scholastic accomplishment, the all reliable excuse of "extra curricular activities" Now even that has practically escaped us.

If you think we're a bunch of low lifers for taking your $700 and not giving a refund, you might be right. The question might be debatable. If you care to tell us what you think of us, we're always glad to hear (this includes alumni) and we always have room and more room for copy clear down to Open Forum articles. We might even make special concession and print your article in the editorial column. Wouldn't that be an honor?

After this issue, look for THE HIGHLAND ECHO when you see it coming, . . and then look three times. . . . just to make sure.

ENCOURAGING MISFORTUNE

In an institution which is literally flooded with fire hazards, every individual should make every conceivable effort to protect himself and others. We don't mention carelessness in dormitories for lack of space, but refer to one particular condition which should be watched more closely.

The case in question is the chapel on "play nights". For the sake of quiet, the doors are not only securely closed, but locked. That is, the side doors, leaving but the front double-door open. It took fifteen minutes for the crowd which witnessed "Dracula" to disperse, because there was but one passageway. In case of fire, fifteen minutes would seem considerably longer than this, and much more excitement might be manifested. These things ought not ne to be.

Athenian's "Dracula" Receives Praise Of Student Play Critic

Improbable Plot Does Not Detract From Tensely Dramatic Situations

As good acting as has been seen on the Maryville stage went into Athenian's production of "Dracula" last Monday evening. In both acting and mounting the play, singular success was achieved.

A thoroughly improbable plot which nevertheless involves tensely dramatic situations was made convincing by skillful interpretations of the various roles. Wesley Culver probably deserves highest honors for his skillful portrayal of the maniac. Herr Wissler and Robert Lodwick are new stars in the theatrical firmament which will probably shine with increasing brilliance. Carrie Lou Tweed's best scene was her reaction to hypnosis.

The makeup was uniformly good. It goes without saying that Rennie Tubbs' understanding performance of the title role would have been much less effective without his bizarre appearance. Ruth Brocious' success also depended to a great extent on her makeup.

The mechanics of the play were well managed. The set for the last act was designed by Wesley Culver, and gave evidence of having been carefully worked out. Probably Brahm Stoker would have written a much better horror-story had he spent less time on the rather long-winded early parts of the play and emphasized the scene in "the lair of the vampire."

Book Browsing

Nordhoff, Charles Bernard, and Hall, James Norman Mutiny on The Bounty, 396 p. $2.50 Little

In this novel the authors have paraphrased and fictionized a story from the British navy of the eighteenth century. It is romantic and entertaining, and the historical background gives an impression of realism.

Roger Byam tells the story in the first person, and he is a very fascinating narrator. It is the history of the voyage of H. M. S. Bount, to Tahiti on a scientific expedition. The ship was commanded by Captain Bligh, a domineering and avaricious master. He treated the soldiers so harshly, roobing them of their food, and having them cruelly beaten for trivial offenses, that they became surly and nearly ready for revolt. Then, one night after Bligh had been particularly unfair and brutal, conditions arose which seemed ideal for a mutiny. It just happened, without much planning on anyone's part. The Bounty was seized by some of the men and Captain Bligh and part of his followers were set adrift in the ship's launch. Some of the men who wished to go with him had to be left behind because there was not room for them in the smaller boat. Captain Bligh promised to rescue them if he could navigate his frail boat to safety. Byam was one of those who was left behind, and it is his experiences as involuntary pirate which constitute the most interesting part of the story.

With this as a start Nordhoff and Hall have developed what is perhaps the best of recent historical novels. One critic says this "work is as vigorous, as spontaneous, as real, as mightily impressive as if it had sprung direct from the inmost heart of their imagination." And though there are a few things which make one wonder, as Blight's great but apparently unmotivated hatred of some of his best men, one must endorse this as one of the more interesting of recent books of fiction.

The fact that Mutiny On The Bounty is on Brentonno's best sellers list does not detract from its interest.

AS YOU LIKE IT

Next week will see an innovation in the "As You Like It" program to be held in Bartlett Hall and the large gym. Roller skating will be the feature of the evening and will be arranged in half hour intervals so that everyone will have a chance on the "rollers".

Both the floors of the large and small gyms are preparing themselves for the tumbles that are bound to come. Besides the skating there will be the regular games of pool and ping pong and a program in Bartlett auditorium. Everyone is invited to attend.

OBSERVATIONS

IS OUR FACE RED!

After serious and long winded consideration, we have come to the conclusion that it is in these parts that we should make mention of the wonderful hand received at the occasion of our recent chapel announcement which we just know is elicited by nothing other than our own indisputable popularity. But we just never felt that you readers held us in such high repute. Incidentally, we don't consider seriously the question of your clapping "at us" or "with us".

B. M. O. C.

The chapel demonstration upset the B.M.O.C. (Al Duff; B.M.O.C. standing for Big Man On Campus) quite a little, and he came our way with "What do you make of the recent demonstration in the chapel, Dick . . . . what do you think of that?" After much pondering we retaliated (we think the fitten term is retaliated, and not merely replied) with "Well, don't know Al, but that's a bigger man than the student council has had yet." We and our twenty-five agree that we are right, and any time a fellow can get twenty-five with him that makes for luck. . . . and it also makes 26.

TWO AND TWO MAKE FOUR

According to the statisticians bureau (Friday Fritz Neff at 411 Carnegie) the average attendance at the Student Volunteer Sunday Night Meetings ranges at 103.78. . . we'll defy anyone to find an arithmetical error in those computations.

WHERE HE LEADS ME

We've thought all along that there were some niggers in the woodpile, not to mention strangers among the future missionaries (we suppose that you like the analogy) who might come to the meetings for any number of reasons, and our thought projections became conclusions last Sunday evening on the occasion of a lapse in the series of Student Volunteer programs. They had about half the usual attendance in the upper room, and consternation abounded among this half when they found that they were uncalled on that evening. It rather looks like half of the number of the regular attendants, if not many more, instead of following the continuity of the meetings, follow one another.

EASTER GIFT

It has always been a craving o. this scribbler to make himself something of a cynosure of opinion regarding women's fashions, and the sort, and he has done this with little cross comment one way or the other. He'd like to project one more opinion with you've advised, for the sake of your own capacity to display horse sense, to agree with. He thinks that women's hats have at last come to the point from which they can grow no worse. We're glad to see Easter coming, for we know that hats will take on a more attractive appearance.

BATTLERS

At this juncture the highest points of the women folk take on the appearance of the American helmet during the recent war, and since that suggests hell, we suppose that they won,t grow worse. . . . . inasmuch as war is hell. They might be the thing to wear on a desert, and we,d suggest a desert at a reasonably distant distance from Maryville, to be used for carrying water. That's the only capacity in which they could be used, in our opinion, and still not leak.

UNANIMOUS

We were out in Colorado this summer at the far west point of a summer of vagabondery and saw a creature in the shape of a woman who had her nails painted a deep scarlet. It was our misfortune to be in a cafeteria at the time, and a further mishap for us to become ill at this very disconcerting sight. This method of discoloring has recently become in vogue at Maryville among what we previously considered the better folk. You could probably guess our thoughts concerning such cheap procedure, and likewise our estimate of the women folk who indulge and you can probably retaliate (unless you agree) with the statement that our opinion doesn't amount to much, in which case the matter would be debatable. But we just know plenty well that when we say that we're speaking in behalf of all intelligent men on the campus. . . . and if you'll pardon a little sex pride, that's about 10 more than 90%.

A VALUABLE CHANGE

In spite of the fact that we have to stretch our neck a little to follow the movements of Dr. Stevenson's head at the vesper service on Sunday nights previous to plays, we are pleased to observe the recent change in play production at Maryville which allows for the much-to-be desired dress rehearsal on Saturday night. That is something that the collegge has needed for one long time, and likewise it is a concession on someone's part for which the play loving public, not to mention the actors and coaches, can feel decidedly grateful. We haven't sough. Dr. Stevenson's opinion of the change.

OUR HEROINE

All college faculties get reprimanded from time to time about their attitude toward athletics and athletic teams until it has assumed the proportion of stigma (if it is of tha importance) on professors. It does seem comforting to find in the midst of faculty members a professor who shows interest in athletics of all kinds, and who, more than that is out to back a loser as well as a winner. The person of that distinction is Miss Heron on the campus and fullback Jessie to some of the boys. . . . , that is, those who have escaped freshman English for good Call Miss Heron what you will (except a pansy) and she's still everyone's idea of a loyal supporter of clean college athletics.

AGAIN ! ! !

Somethings just can't be defined, and one has to resort to analogy to clarify vague conceptions. This was the method used by Dr. Hill Shine in a class last week in his attempt to define courtly love. Courtly love saith the Dr. is that type analogous to two people making love over a recently whitewashed fence, and neither of them collecting any white.

OH, WHAT'S THE USE

Our cornetist of previous mention treated our publicity staff much as does the traditional duck treat the traditional water, as evidenced by the recent noises which rise from below. Mr. Buffalo has started an orchestra in the room now (that is, there are several musical instruments all going at the same time. As a result of this recent innovation, we have a choice of three procedures: We may become stone deaf; we may move to another location; or we may (and we may) recommend Mr. Buffalo to the Kangaroo Courters, who, we trust, haven't become extinct.

UNLESS . . . .

In case of the third suggestion, we'd like Mr. Bison to have the accompaniment of the freshman who makes it a regular practice to spill chemical on the bathroom radiators in Carnegie to have it diffuse profusely and envelop the whole of Carnegie in an unbearable stench. This is just plained darned unnecessary and foolish in our opinion and we wish that such procedure could be squelched.

FOINE, KOICHNER

It is not literary society prejudice that leads us to say that the advertising for "Dracula" was one of the most impressive accomplishment seen this year, notwithstanding the fact that several of the signs were mutilated by curious people. For general impressiveness, and for harmony with the type of play to be presented, we think we'll give our cup (tin) to Mr. Kirchner.

A MAN, WHAT?

Our next bouquet goes to a freshman whom we've been led to admire through plain negative attraction. This tall, sedate individual is young Glover Leitch of "Enchanted April" fame. It seems to us that it's quite a little accomplishment for a freshman to carry a role similar to that one of Leitch, and it's another worthwhile accomplishment to remain the same old guy after it's all over. Some things just go to people's heads, but this didn't enlarge this person's brain-box. Maryville could stand more such freshmen and profit thereby.

FOR THE UNEMPLOYED

Every day we get doggier and doggier. . . in Pearsons, in the library, in Thaw, in Anderson, to there, and there is a dog waiting to receive you. If you're there first, the dog, like Mary's lambie, is sure to follow. This is one of the rare cases in which one can speak literally of a college going to the dogs!

SPELL MISSPELL

Of twelve students coming to the library desk one hour last week in search of outside reading for freshman English, six of them wanted books by Henrik Isben. We took a check on all the students who came after these books, and nearly half of them misspelled the Norwegian's name. This error could be rivaled by only one, that of the Home Ec. majors who wanted "the old addition" of the Cook Book.

Inexperienced Cast Works Successfully In Theta Midwinter

On Monday evening, February 20, Theta presented "The Enchanted April", the most subtle play of the midwinter season. Theta successfully ventured the always daring project of using an almost altogether inexperienced cast, and achieved a smoothness and finish of peformance without which the production would have been a complete failure.

Probably the best acting was done by Lucille Swafford, in the character role of Mrs. Fisher, and by Glover Lietch, as leading man. Other roles were only in small degree less skillfully handed, Nina Gamble and Michael Testa being close runners-up for highest honors.

The set and properties for the play itself were more convincing than the set for the Prologue, which was entirely too neat for a room in a woman's club of the type it obviously was. Several lovely tableaux and a number of pleasingly colorful effects were arranged against the background of the medieval castle and the blue Mediterranean in juxta-position.

Varsity Debaters Will Encounter Extensive Forensic Schedule

An extensive program is being planned for the varsity debaters during the coming month.

On Monday evening, March 6th, the men's varsity debate team will engage in a triangle meet with Teachers College and Tusculum College. On Friday evening, March 10, Maryville, Carson-Newman, and Teachers College will have a triangular debate for women. A triangle debate has been sought for the men with Milligan College and Tusculum College on March 21st. Another probable dual debate for the men has been tentatively arranged with Carson-Newman on March 13th. The evening of the 25th of March will find the men debaters from the University of Dayton, Ohio stopping here on their trip through the South. The following Tuesday, March 28th, Michigan State Teachers College meet our men in a single debate.

Professor Queener has proposed a trip through Kentucky for the men's team on March 29th, 30th and April 1st. No final arrangements have been made as yet.

One of the most important events of the year will be the Provincial Convention of Province 13 which is to be held here on April 7th and 8th. The plans for the convention will be given in more detail later.

"M" CLUB MEETING

The Girls' "M" Club met Thursday, February 23 for a business meeting. Plans were made for earning money for the Chilhowean picture, and also for a party to be held the following Saturday. The party was held in the little gym, with the girls who have earned monograms as the guests.

SPORTS

MATMEN AGAIN WIN STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

CAGESTERS TROUNCE KING IN FINAL GO

Hardwood Team Downs Tornado In Fast Game As Captain Lewis Closes His Maryville Basketball Career

Second Period Spurt Proves Too Much For Kingsterrs And Honaker's Men Triumph 42-30

In the last game of the year for the Highlanders; Maryville fought her way to a 42-30 win over the King Tornado. The game was sprinkled with high spots of lightening play as well as with periods of looseness on both sides. Captain Lewis, closing his career at Maryville, was outstanding for the homesters , while Davis, forward, looked good for King.

The game opened with neither side able to score or work into scoring position, wild passing marking the only exciting moments. King took the lead and was not caught until near the end of the half, the period ending with the score tied at fourteen-all.

The Scots came back in the second half with the pep they seldom showed this year. After a ragged start, they took the lead from the Tornado, now converted into a summer breeze, and maintained it for the remainder of the game.

Individually and collectively, the Scots played a remarkably smooth game throughout. Captian Lewis rounded out his last season creditably; Kiser played a jam-up game at the other forward post; Haub was all over the floor from the center position; and Waldrop and Allen were troublesome to the foes at guard. For the visitors, Davis and Kleinhans, at forward and center, were outstanding.

Summary:

Maryville	FG	FT	TP
Lewis, f.	5	1	11
Kiser, f.	4	1	11
Haub, c.	3	1	7
Allen, g.	4	1	9
Waldrop, g.	0	2	2
Holloway, f.	0	0	0
Cherry, c.	2	0	4
Creed, g.	0	0	0
Stone, g.	0	0	0
Total	18	6	42
King	FG	FT	TP
Davis, f.	5	2	12
Cash, f.	2	0	4
Kleinhans, c.	3	2	8
Miller, g.	0	0	0
Bingham, g.	0	0	0
Harris, f.	1	1	3
Bricker, g.	1	1	3
Total	12	6	30

Referee: Clark.

OUT FOR BUSINESS

Action upon a suggestion which originated with he Y.W.C.A. cabinet has been taken, and the Y.W.C.A. store on the third floor of Pearsons will be open every afternoon from 3:15 to 4:15.

The time in the afternoons heretofore has been from 3:00 to 3:30. This addition of thirty minutes, it is thought, will not only swell the coffers of the Y. store, but will be a convenience to many girls.

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

Football's gone, basketball's gone, rasslin's gone. That just leaves tennis, baseball and track, all of which will be over all too soom. . . which reminds us that 'twon't be long now before we journey back to the family farm and work for a living awhile. A few more days and the boys will be out on the ole diamond limbering up soupbones and chasing flies all over, while the Toreador is over on the track with his short pants boys, giving them instruction in the manly art of evading the manly art of self-defense. And Coach Smith will be down back of Memorial with his white pants boys trying to get it across that a lob is not merely a diminutive of a species of sea-food.

—S—

Speaking of Memorial courts, George Vick is getting worried about them. The Big Wind isn't planning to be among those present next year, and he's afraid he won't get to play on the new courts ere he departs once and for all. Of course, we assured him that he would, but he couldn't seem to quiet his fears.

—S—

And we don't seem to see anything of our golf course either. Too bad, especially after all the co-eds had purchased their ducky little oxfords 'n things.

—S—

Roark, the gentleman who played forward for Milligan the other evening, made the Scots very unhappy with his bullet-like passing. The way that man could snap that ball around was a shame! All the local experts are agreed that, had the ball contained another pound of air pressure, it couldn't have gone through some of the holes he found to pass through. Could he pitch for our ball team? ? ! !

—S—

The razzing accorded a certain member of the King team Wednesday night was unkind as well as unsportsmanlike. A small athlete is generally at a disadvantage, and when one makes good in spite of such a handicap, surely we can afford to give admiration instead of wisecrax. And we noticed that the wisecrax weren't so plentiful when, as a player on King's grid team, he helped turn back the Scots, 20-0.

—S—

Captain Yankee Lewis has played his last game for the Scots. Not in a blaze of glory did he wind up his career. Of course, he played a corking good game in his last go, and won, but against a team which, long with his own, was "out of the money". Even at that, we saw a triumph for Yankee in his last game, a triumph in a fight he has been waging since the first day he came out for Maryville basketball—a fight against older, more experienced men; against an operation wound which should have ended his play, but didn't; and against other forces. The Scots have missed men before; but it has been a long time since an athlete's absence has been felt as will that of Captain Lewis.

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

ECONOMY CAFE
Headquarters for Students

SULLIVAN & PINYAN
Hair Cuts 15c
Basement Carlisle's 5 & 10c Store

Road Trip Nets Only One Win For Scotties

The annual basketball road trip for the Highlander basketeers was not quite successful this year, from the point of view of games won and lost. The Scots were defeated by Milligan, Emory and Henry, and East Tennessee Teachers, breaking into the win column against King College.

MILLIGAN GAME

On Tuesday night, Maryville engaged Milligan in Johnson City. The Buffaloes apparently were out for revenge for the pasting dealt them by the Scot gridders, for they went to work and piled up a total of 42 points, only allowing Maryville 20. Roark at forward and Payne at center shone for the foemen, while Waldrop and Kiser looked best for Maryville.

Maryville	FG	FT	TP
Lewis, f.	0	0	0
Kiser, f.	1	2	4
Haub, c.	1	1	3
Waldrop, g.	2	1	5
Allen, g.	2	0	4
Jess, f.	0	0	0
Creed, g.	1	0	2
Cherry, g.	1	0	2
Total	8	4	20
Milligan	FG	FT	TP
Roark, f.	7	1	15
Randolph, f.	3	1	7
Payne, c.	6	2	14
Campbell, g.	0	0	0
Grant, g.	2	1	5
Vogle, f.	0	0	0
Shelley, f.	0	0	0
Witt, f.	0	1	1
Millsaps, c.	0	0	0
Ayers, g.	0	0	0
Total	18	6	42

Referee: Wilder

EMORY-HENRY GAME

Bristol, Virginia, was the scene of the next game, on Wednesday night with Emory-Henry. The Wasps were again too strong for Honaker's lads, and when the game was over, they stood on the long end of a 39 to 28 score. Roberts, highly touted center around whom the team is built, scored twenty of the Wasps thirty-nine points.

Summary:

Maryville	FG	FT	TP
Kiser, f.	3	4	10
Allen, f.	1	1	3
Haub, c.	1	1	3
Waldrop, g.	1	0	2
Cherry, g.	1	0	2
Lewis, f.	0	2	2
Creed, c.	2	0	4
Stone, g.	0	0	0
Total	9	10	28
Emory-Henry	FG	FT	TP
Robinson, f.	2	2	6
Fulk, f.	2	1	5
Roberts, c.	5	10	20
Neel, g.	0	0	0
Mackey, g.	1	0	2
Countess, g.	3	0	6
Total	13	13	39

Referee: Meredith

KING GAME

Remaining in Bristol, the Scotties next tackled the King Tornado, on Thursday night. This was the one win for the Maryvillians out of the four-day series, and was a closely fought battle from whistle to whistle. It was a heart-breaker for the Kingsters to lose, as the score at the half stood 10-10. Lewis and Allen shot the works in the second half, however, to give the Highlanders a comfortable margin.

Summary:

Maryville	FG	FT	TP
Kiser, f.	2	1	5
Allen, f.	4	0	8
Haub, c.	2	0	4
Waldrop, g.	0	1	1
Cherry, g.	2	1	5

(Continued on page four)

Championship Milligan Crew Trounces Scots 47-31

On Tuesday evening, Milligan, having wrested the conference championship from Carson-Newman Saturday night, gave the Scots a drubbing to the tune of 47-31. It was a second-half game, the boys from Johnson City taking things in their own hands the first half, but being fought inch for inch with a couple of feet to spare in the last period.

In the opening minutes of play, the Scotties could not cope with the flashing offense and the efficient man-to-man defense displayed by the Bisons. The visitors completely baffled the home boys, and the score stood twenty-one to one when J. L. Waldrop pulled one through the bucket on the dead run from the foul ring. At the half, the teams retired with Milligan leading 25-3.

In the opening moments of the second half, it seemed as though Sherman's definition of war had popped loose, along with Lewis and Cherry. But the Buffaloes soon stopped the rally which bid fair to catch them ere they scored, and did a bit o. shooting on their own hoop. The one-sidedness of the first half, however, was gone, for the Milligan team had its hands full holding on to that twenty-point lead it had acquired in the first half. In fact, the Scots scored four more points in the last half than did their championship opponents. But the top-heavy lead of the Bisons was not to be denied, and the game ended 47-31.

Captain Lewis starred for the home team, garnering a total o. twelve points. Cherry came second with seven. For Milligan, Roark at forward and Payne at center attracted most favorable atttention.

Summary:

Maryville	FG	FT	TP
Kiser, f.	1	2	4
Allen, f.	2	2	6
Haub, c.	0	0	0
Waldrop, g.	1	0	2
Cherry, g.	3	1	7
Lewis, f.	5	2	12
Total	12	7	31
Milligan	FG	FT	TP
Roark, f.	5	0	10
Randolph, f.	5	1	11
Payne, c.	8	1	17
Campbell, g.	1	1	3
Grant, g.	2	2	6
Total	21	5	47

Referee: Wilder.

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
§8:00 a. m.	*†9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	§3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§ Thru Alcoa to Knoxville
xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*†Direct connection to Townsend

Chattanooga Goes Down In 33-5 Defeat As Thrower's Wrestlers Win; Card Packed With Action and Thrills

Boretsky Wins Over Ancient Rival As Entire Team Displays Power, Speed and Endurance In Last Match

The Maryville College matmen are the champs of the state of Tennessee. And Steve "Popularity" Boretsky, varsity 146 pounder, is the Tennessee state champ in the 145 pound class.

The home wrestlers walked away, with the cat in the bag, from Chattanooga Y. M. C. A., reputed champion wrestlers of Tennessee, in a short eightmatch meet here Friday night. The final score was: Maryville 33; Chattanooga 5. Costner of the 126 pound class was defeated by Couch of Chattanooga, unbeaten during the past three years, to give the opponents the only score of the evening.

In the first bout of the evening, Graham, of the 135 pound class, pinned his man Stone of Chattanooga in five minutes forty seconds. Graham passes this season undefeated on the mat.

"Tombstone" Tope, M. C. 155 pounder, caught Kell of Chattanooga up the creek paddle-less and won by a fall in four minutes fourteen seconds.

Millsaps, 165 pounds, whirled Snyder of the Y. M. C. A. for a hard fall to the mat in exactly six minutes. Snyder could hardly shake himself from the pretzel-shape he had been put into.

Ridder threw Smith of Chattanooga twice in fifty-nine seconds. The first fall of Smith came after fifteen seconds of rabbit-hopping around. But Coach Thrower didn't want to humiliate the Y. men too much, so they went at it again.

O' Steve took all the cockiness out of the champ of Tennessee in a two minute fourteen second time advantage. Every time Steve was the the aggressor the Y. man didn't feel comfortable on the mat. . . . so he slid off.

(Continued On Page Four)

Knoxville Y Defeats Tank Team In Swimmers' First Match

TANK MEN BOW TO KNOX. Y

State Champs Outpoint Inexperienced Home Team

A state championship aggregation played the over-ambitious host to an infant swimming team from Maryville. In all events but two, the newly organized Highlander mermen had to content themselves with second and third places. Herris' easy form won him a first in the 100 yard breast-stroke and Obert's grace easily copped the diving in spite of the unfamiliar board.

The times were, on the whole, slow and it is believed that, with the material on hand, a fairly accountable team can be developed if time and attention are given to rigid and systematic practice. The embryonic nucelus of what can possibly be a championship team has, in spite of a defeat by the score of 45-19, made a favorable debut in swimming competition. Last night's defeat had the desired effect of bringing to the fore the absolute necessity of training and regular workout periods. Should this effect prove to be a lasting one, we might look for better results in the future.

Summary:

160-yard relay: Won by Knoxville (Waters, Crawthon, Fletcher, and Chamberlain.) Time 1:33.

100-yard breast-stroke: Harris, Maryville, first; Wise, Y. M. C. A., second; Silva, "Y", third. Time, 1:22 4-5.

40-yard free style: Chamberlan

(Continued On Page Four)

BYRNE DRUG CO.
THE STUDENTS' STORE
... For ...
STUDENTS' NEEDS
TOAST SANDWICHES—ICE CREAM

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

FOR BIRTHDAYS—
And Other Occasions Make Your Gifts Personal
GIVE PHOTOS
THE WEBB STUDIO
PHOTOGRAPHS LIVE FOREVER

Sophomores
SATURDAY
IS YOUR LAST DAY

THE BUTCHER SHOP

(By Alex Christie)

Once upon a time, when I was a little boy, my father took me to see the inside of a slaughter house. That was a momentous occasion, for, there, amid blood and entrails, I highly resolved to pursue the study of living things and to see for myself how they worked.

I wondered when the opportunity would come to me, for every door seemed closed, I tried to find a job in a butcher shop, in a poultry mart, and even on a farm, but to no avail.

Finally, after years of hungry cherishing of my goal, I found myself on Maryville campus. And there in the General Biology course I found the answer to my search.

Now I could delve into the study of life and learn why I vomit when I'm sick, and why a tear drops when it falls. This biology is an important science. Bashfulness and reluctance to enter intho a dispute alone prevent me from hailing it as the greatest science. It is important because it teaches us why we are the way we are. It brings us greater understanding of our body, our nose, our tongue, and our nails, too. Our nose is for more than picking, and our nails for more than filing and biting. In short, it enables us to understand us, and any science that can do that merits a first place in any man's Hall of Fame.

Then, too, it is an engrossing study. What wonders we see under the microscope! Frog's blood, there, looks like calf's liver, and human bone like fossilised wood. We learn that all life is similar, that the tissue inside our cheek is like the hide on an elephant, except for the smell. A drop of water has a world of life within it, and a speck of dust just as much death. A wonderful world we live in!

A study of biology adds interest to life. A walk in the woods takes on new meanings, for flowers are no longer flowers: they're groups of sporophylls which produce microspores and megaspores. Melons cease to be melons! they're berries. And so on. We look on the world through new eyes, for our old ones, are not good enough.

One who knows biology is better equipped to eat at Pearsons. When he tires beans and sweet potatoes he can get his mind off their unattractiveness by thinking of them biologically. Isn't that something? When the food grows tasteless, he can pass the mealtime by searching for the hypocotyls in the beans or by looking for the plumule. We can never exhaust the usefulness of the science. It is more useful than a pass key in Carnegie.

Since that early day in the slaughter house, I have yearned to know how life works. I have wanted to know, for instance, how soup was turned into eyelashes. Now I know, for I am studying biology. I salute you, Master Science. You offer, without doubt, the greatest field of study. Your riches can never be exhausted. Your usefulness can never be surpassed. You are unique. But how I wish you had never been invented!

There is no market for unkind feelings.

Matmen Whitewash Knox "Y" Saturday Night In Slow Meet

Matmen Trounce Visitors 34-0

Knoxville Y. again fell before Coach Thrower's wrestlers last Saturday night as the Scots took every match to win a slow meet.

"Gandhi" Ridder, the nighty mite opened the evening by pinning his man in a single fall and Costner in the 125 pound class followed suit with another neat fall.

Graham (135 pounds) and Krainock (145 pounds) had more trouble with their men, both taking their matches by time advantage.

Captain "Tombstone" Tope literally buried his opponent in two fast and neat falls and Byar in the 165 pound class did likewise in his match by setting his man on his shoulder in two falls in rapid succession.

Jugernaut Mose Gamble took his fiasco in distinct time advantage over his unfortunate opponent who insisted on losing his dimuniative trunkies in the most inopportune moments. The benevolent Mr. Gamble would philanthropically release one of his crushing holds in order to give the misbehaving panties a hitch and thereby save the unfortunate wearer from much embarrassment.

All in all, the evening was a merry and successful one.

WRESTLING

(Continued from page three)

Costner of Maryville, plainly not in condition for the match, had tough luck against Couch of Chattanooga. The fall came in six minutes fifty seconds.

The last bout—fhe elephant class—went to Gamble, Maryville College 197 pounder. Last night's wrestling closed the season of 1933 for Maryville College.

Perhaps the best biography of Charles Dickens is that written by his friend, John Forster, published in London in 1872.

The Bible is the world's best seller. An average of 30,000,000 copies are sold yearly or 80,000 each day.

Dr. Fred Hope Will Visit Maryville

On March 22 and 23, the annual Fred Hope Drive will be held. Dr. Fred Hope, a graduate of Maryville and for more than twenty years a missionary in Africa, is now in America and plans to come to Maryville during these two days. He will give two or three addresses and once more the faculty and students will be given an opportunity to contribute to the fund for the furthering of Dr. Hope's work.

ROAD TRIP

(Continued on page three)

Lewis, g.	4	3	11
Total	14	6	34
King	FG	FT	TP
Cash, f.	0	0	0
Davis, f.	2	1	5
Kleinhans, c.	4	1	9
Miller, g.	1	0	2
Bingham, g.	4	0	8
Total	11	2	24

Referee: Thayer

TEACHERS GAME

Back in Johnson City, the Highlander machine engaged East Tennessee Teachers College in that city, losing a close fight 35-28. At the end of the regular playing time, the teams were deadlocked 28-28, but in the five-minute extra period, the Teachers score seven points to Maryville's none. Captain Lewis was the sensation of the game, scoring fifteen points. Hoss at guard and Bailey at center starred for the pedagogians.

Summary:

Maryville	FG	FT	TP
Kiser, f.	0	1	1
Allen, f.	3	0	6
Haub, c.	0	1	1
Waldrop, g.	0	0	0
Cherry, g.	2	1	5
Lewis, g.	2	1	15
Total	11	6	28
Teachers	FG	FT	TP
Crouch, f.	3	2	8
Seaton, f.	1	0	2
Bailey, c.	4	2	10
Hoss,	3	1	7
McCall, g.	3	0	6
Scheerer, f.	1	0	2
Total	15	5	35

Referee: Jones.

SWIMMING MATCH

(Continued from page three)

"Y", first; Crawther, "Y", second; Greiner and Obert, Maryville, tied for third. Time 20:4.

220-yard free style: Waters "Y", first; Shields, Maryville, second; Crawther, "Y", third. Time 3:2.

100-yard back stroke: Chaffin, 'Y' first; Gleason 'Y', second; Young, Maryville, third. Time, 1:23 4-5.

100-yard free style: Fletcher 'Y', first; Chamberlain 'Y', second; Greiner, Maryville, third. Time 1:6 1-5.

Diving event won by Obert, Maryville; Shields, Maryville, second; King 'Y', third.

160-yard relay: Won by Knoxville 'Y', (Chaffin, Wise, Jones). Time 1:19.

HONOR ROLL, FIRST SEMESTER, 1932-1933

SENIORS

Briggs, Donald—16-35; Brown, George 16-32; Burns, Annabel—17-34; Duncan, Elizabeth—20-40; Du Pre, Frances—15-34; Greene, Edwin—18-37; Groves, Benjamin—12-27; Hamrick, Inez—18-36; Macrae, Ellen—15-33; Makovsky, Vera—15-30; Myers, Ruth—17-38; Overly, Robert—12-30; Peery, Joseph—15-34; Prince, Sue—18-38; Putnam, Dollie—18-41; Renegar, Willimae—16-32; Spilatore, Norma—18-39; Walker, Ralph—20-40; Webb, Leslie—15-32; Williams, Ada—15-36.

JUNIORS

Beck, Roland—16-35; Burgin, Arnold—17-40; Carpenter, Kathaleen—18-36; Cooley, Margaret—15-33; Coulter, Gladys—18-36; Dick, Sara—17-40; Haub, Carl—15-30; Kidd, Kenneth—19-42; Kipp, Howard—20-43; Kirchner, Frederick—18-42; Knight, Nell Jo—15-33; Massey, Frances—16-40; Tarwater, Oliver—16-39; Thomas, Maisie—17-34; Throne, Pauline—18-36; Toms, Burton—15-33; Vanaman, Edith—15-33; Walrond, Harry—21-47; Warrent, Janet—15-33; Welsh, Mary Sloane—18-48; Willocks, Maurine—15-30.

SOPHOMORES

Brewer, Betty—15-39; Brown, Robert—19-38; Cherry, Robert—17-35; Coates, Dorothy Elizabeth—19-44; Crawford, Hugh—19-48; Cromer, Mary Elizabeth—18-36; Crothers, James—18-42; Davenport, Virginia—18-36; Deebel, George—18-36; Dunlap, Lorena May—19-48; Gillander, Alexander Charles—19-38; Gillingham, Jonathan—16-36; Hyde, Mary Florence—18-39; Irwin, Ruth—15-33; Joyner, Rena—15-30; Kidd, Thomas—19-41; Krainock, Louis—18-39; Metzger, Fern—17-34; Nethery, Dorothy—15-39; Reveley, Roberta—16-35; Rieves, Bessie—16-34; Sibey, Eula—15-30; Waechter, Muriel—17-35; West, Nettie—16-32; Woodwell, Elizabeth—15-30; Wynn, Maria—19-51.

FRESHMAN

Barron, Sara Lou—15-35; Best, Edwin—14-31; Birchard, Wilson—16-34; Chittick, James—15-34; Christie, Alexander—16-44; Fogaris, Michael—16-34; Gillis, Paul—17-34; Hamilton, Winifred—15-32; Jones, Harold—15-33; Keeble, Nita Jane—15-30; Kent, Elizabeth—17-36 Kunkel, Elizabeth—15-33; Leitch, Glover—15-33; Llewellyn, Ralph—14-28; Lodwick, Robert—15-34; Orr, Katherine—15-30; Osborne, Jean—15-42; Procter, Alice—15-33; Quigley, William—16-41; Reimer, Elizabeth—15-42; Ressler, Mary Frances—15-30; Ritchie, Elizabeth—16-32; Saint, James—16-38; Smith, Catheryn—16-39; Stevenson, Edgar—15-30; Tootell, John Edward—15-35; Wilkerson, Joseph—15-31.

SPECIAL

Boram, Margaret Rodgers—18-45.

Palace Theatre

NEXT WEEK

MON.-TUES.

SEWING AND HEMSTITCHING

New Low Prices for Spring Styles

MRS. BROOKS

ABOVE REAGAN'S CAFE

Y. M. C. A.

PRESENTS

Miss Irene Bewley

— IN —

Mountain Character Sketches

MARCH 7 :-: Admission 25c

LYCEUM

PRESENTS

JOSE ITURBI

Famous Spanish Pianist

MARCH 15

Within The Law

— BY —

COLLEGE PLAYERS

Y. W. C A. BENEFIT NUMBER

March 20 :-: Admission 25c

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 13 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, | MARCH 18, 1933 | NUMBER NINETEEN

UNIVERSITY OF TENNESSEE TRACK OFFICIALS REFUSE MEET WITH COACH THROWER'S SQUAD

Maryville Student Committee Gathers Interesting Returns In Nation-Wide Slang Investigation

Questionaires Are Returned By Thirty Colleges And Universities

A committee of five Maryville students made an extensive investigation of college slang last semester as special work in the Language course, English 301c.

Questionnaires were sent to fifty colleges and universities, thirty of them returning the questionnaires, and a number sending separate sheets containing college terms of local origination and use. Those colleges answering were: Rutgers University; Wilson College, Chambersbung, Penn,; The University of Maine; Dickinson College, Carlisle, Pennsylvania; Vassar College; New York University; Centre College, Danville, Kentucky; Vanderbilt University; Cumberland University, Lebanon, Tennessee; Louisiana College, Pineville, Louisiana; Catawba College, Salisbury, North Carolina; Chattanooga University; Creighton University, Omaha, Nebraska; Hamline University, St. Paul, Minnesota; University of Indiana; Manchester College, North Manchester, Indiana; Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio; McKendree College, Lebanon, Illinois; Hanover University, Hanover, Indiana; University of Illinois; Carroll College, Waukesha, Wisconsin; University of Oregon; University of Wyoming; University of Oklahoma; University of Tulsa; University of New Mexico; University of Kansas; Denver University; Baylor University, Waco, Texas; and Kansas State University at Manhattan, Kansas.

The questionnaire showed that there is little of definite provincial nature to college slang. That is, that no particular terms could be considered western, eastern, northeastern, or far western. It also confirmed two beliefs: that college students consider slang a definite and necessary part of the make-up of campus language; and that college students and faculties as a whole are interested in this sort of enterprise. The best sectional response to the canvass was from the eastern schools. The most thorough and most interesting reports came from Denver University, Oregon University, McKendree College, Manchester College, University of Wyoming, Dickinson College, Rutgers University, University of Maine and Louisiana College. The committee took liberty to reject some of the terms on the grounds that they were considered of general colloquial usage.

The material was collected under six headings there being a total number of fifty specified standard terms. The divisions are equivalent terms for (1) those individuals connected with the administration of the college; (2) Instructors, courses and exams; (3) Students; (4) College Routine; (5) Social Life; and (6) Miscellaneous terms. The name of the college is given in parentheses if the term appears to be noticeably localized to that particular campus.

I.—ADMINISTRATORS OF THE COLLEGE

The President: prexy, the black shadow (Manchester College), doc, chancy, papa, old man, and Mr. God (both from Denver Univ.)

The Dean: doc, pop, dizzy dean, the dean, mogul, and deanie.

The Dean of Women: vice squad, (Rutgers University), dean agony. (University of Kansas), battle axe, (Carroll College, Waukesha, Wisconsin), mendy ma'am, aunt kate, Mrs. Murphy, Ma, the sacred cow, (Dickinson College), lady dean. The office of the dean is considered "the

(Continued on page four)

The three succeeding issues of The Highland Echo will be under the supervision of the the three junior associate editors to continue the custom of former years. Further issues will be in the hands of the regular staff. Kay Carpenter will perform the editorial duties for the issue of April 1.

Annual T. T. Alexander Contest Is Won By Elizabeth Duncan

Oration On "The Atonement" Wins Final Contest From Miss Nathalia Wright

The annual award of the T. T. Alexander prize of one hundred dollars in gold goes for the year 1932-1933 to Elizabeth Duncan for her oration on "The Atonement". This prize is awarded annually by an anonymous donor in memory of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries, to the winner of an oratorical contest, open in alternate years to men and women and conducted under supervision of the Bible and Religious Education department on any of several specified subjects.

The preliminary contest is held early in the spring at which time the three instructors of the department select the two best orators who appear for the final contest in chapel. The two survivors of the preliminary contest this year were Elizabeth Duncan and Nathalia Wright, who were heard in chapel on Friday, March 9th. At that time Miss Duncan was awarded the final decision by three judges from Knoxville, the Reverend Theron Alxander, son of the man in whose name the contest was organized; the Reverend Lavender, pastor of Graystone Presbyterian Church; and a member of Knoxville College faculty.

Music Department To Present Recital By Undergraduates

The Music Department of Maryville College will present an undergraduate recital in Voorhees Chapel on Tuesday afternoon, March 28, at four o'clock. This recital will be one of the first activities of the Spring season.

The program will consist of numbers from the piano and voice departments, as well as additional numbers. Piano students appearing will be Margaret Brient, Burton Toms, Opal Johnson, Carrie Pearson and Avaleen Hogan. Marie Carleson and Wesley Culver will represent the voice department. Ruth Flint will give a trumpet solo and William McCormick will give a clarinet number.

The recital is open to students and to the public, without admission charges.

PROFFITT'S DISPLAY

Members of the Clothing Department of Proffitt's department store will be in the lobby of Carnegie Hall Saturday evening showing the latest spring styles in Hart Shaffner and Marx and other lines of men's suits.

Jimmy Smith, an employee of Proffitt's and a member of the student body will represent the college while Turkey Smith will be here representing the Department Store.

Maryville Forensic Squad Downs Team FromCarson-Newman

Joe Arthur Lazell and Ben Groves Give Excellent Affirmative Argument

Maryville, taking the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved that the United States should agree to the Cancellation of the Inter-allied War Debts" defeated Carson-Newman last Monday evening. Maryville was represented by J. A. Lazell and P. B. Groves, and Carson-Newman by Mr. James and Mr. John Johnson. Dean Hunter presided over the debate and Mr. Argus Tresidder of University of Tennessee acted as critic judge.

In awarding the decision to Maryville, Mr. Tresidder said that though the affirmative argument contained some fallacies it was the best he had heard on the subject. The negative team dealt too much on statistics to keep the debate interesting. The affirmative speakers, he also said, were fluent, interesting, and better in rebuttal than the negative.

A number of debates have been arranged for. Next Monday afternoon, March 20th, Milligan, Tusculum, and Maryville will have a triangle debate for the men with Milligan and Tusculum debating here. Saturday, March 25th, the men debaters will meet the University of Dayton, Ohio who will stop here on their trip through the South. This will be debated according to the Oregon Plan. On Tuesday, March 28th, a team from Michigan State Teachers College will meet our men.

"Death Takes a Holiday" Is Selected By Senior Committee

Mystery Story Has Experienced Both Amateur and Professional Successes

A play of high dramatic tension and shadowed mystery has been chosen for this season's senior class production with the selection of the popular "Death Takes a Holiday", a comedy in three acts by Alberto Casella, rewritten for the American stage by Walter Ferris.

The committee for selection, consisting of Jean Campbell, Nathalia Wright, and Wesley Culver, was guided in its choice by the recent professional and amateur successes which this dramatic innovation has received in this country. The play belongs to the rather large number of recent creations of drama which have seized upon a metaphysical twist of incident and built around it a highly sensational and dramatic, though often unconvincing plot. Some of these plays include "Hotel Universe", "Outward Bound", and "Barkley Square."

"Death Takes a Holiday" is based on the poetic conception of death suspending all activities for three days, during which period he comes to earth in human form and falls in love with a beautiful girl, through whom he learns why mortals fear him. It is a play that arouses thought, stimulates discussion, and presents a novel and optimistic philosophy on the eternal problems of love and death.

SAN SPITTOONA

(By Christie)

The balminess of spring hath returned bringing with it that desire to loaf and enjoy life. Who wants to go to school when the wild open spaces call? But, alas! few of us can do as we feel. We have to stay put with the nose to the jolly old grindstone. It's a cruel world, but if we can't get out into the wilds, we can at least think of them.

Let me tell you of a fishers' paradise in the mid-Pacific. It's the sun-kissed, snow-crowned isle, San Spittoona. A land of strange contrasts it is and of strange sights. Every animal ever seen or felt in dreams roves at liberty there. And in the tepid waters of the muddy lagoon can be found every variety of fish from the lowly pickled herring to the giant Grecian whale.

As there is an art in catching fish there, lessons should be taken. A novice rarely succeeds. In case you are ever delirious and find yourself upon the sandy sands of San Spittoons, list to these instructions that you may the better enjoy your stay there. Two of the astiest fishes that teem the waters there are the brachumeneto and the spidarius. You should know how to catch them. In the first place the fish there are divided roughly into several pairs of classes. There's the dead and alive, the big and little, and the knight and dae. We are concerned in this treatise with the knight and dae classification. The firsh are so numerous that the Pisces Police Department have arranged affairs so that some of the denizens of the aqua salta may sally forth at night only (these are the knights); the others are free to exercise during the day (these are the daes). So far so good.

The next point to observe is that the brachumeneto belongs to the knight class, and the spidarius to the dae group. Never try to catch a spidarius at night, for instance, wice wersa. And a third point to bear in mind is that the brachumeneto is innately fond of bananas. That is important, for that is how they are caught, via the banana lure.

The best time to catch the brachumeneto is 2:15:32 a. m. right after the sun has set. Provide yourself with a choice section of ripe bananas, unskinned. Proceed to any part of the lagoon where the water is wet (it is well to use a boat). Hold one banana aloft, about two feet from the water. Soon there will come a mighty rushing. 'Tis a brachumeneto bent on feeding the face. It will come to where the tempting fruit is dangled and make a mighty leap out of the water to snatch the provender. Now is your opporunity. Quick as a flash yank the banana out of the line of attack and stick it in the hole from whence issued the fish. This will close the hole and the fish will be unable to return to its habitat. Then all you have to do is lift the Brachumeneto and deposit it carefully in the boat, but away from the bananas. (You may want one yourself). Repeat the process until your heart melts, or the boat sinks.

The spidarius responds to a different treatment. The old adage has it: "Never build a house on top of another", or in other words, don't do the unnecessary. This fish literally traps itself. We use a characteristic of it to bring about its own downfall. Never since its ancestors were shellfish has it conquered a dislike of water in its eyes. Accordingly it swims backwards to keep the water out of its eyes. Now the procedure to catch a spidarius is as follows:

Proceed to a level stretch of water and dig a circular hole about two feet square and four feet deep more or less. At the bottom of the hole place a slab of non-sinkable concrete. Then sit by the hole in the water. By and by a spidarius will come along swimming backwards. It will not notice the hole and fall in. On hitting the concrete bottom, it will lapse into unconsciousness. Grab it up quickly and wait for another.

Coach Britton Of U. T. Fears Obvious Consequences Of Meeting Scots Crack Cinder Aggregation

State University Secures Meet With Emory-Henry's Mediocre Squad After Rejecting Every Maryville Offer

Why won't the University of Tennessee accept Maryville College's challenge to a track meet this season? Are they afraid?

For the last twelve years U. T. has been on the schedule of Maryville College. For the past twelve years U. T. track teams have conquered; but this year they will not accept the challenge Here's why.

Early this season Coach Thrower mailed a letter to Coach Britton of U. T. requesting a place on the schedule. Shortly an answer came bearing the excuse that there was no available space to be had this year. Anxious for a meet, Coach Thrower wrote another containing a more urgent expression of his desire for a meet. This time the answer came back saying that U. T.'s budget would not permit them to accept.

Shortly after the second answer came, it was learned that U. T. had recently requested—and secured—a meet with Eormy-Henry College of Virginia, a track outfit that is known to be inferior to the great aggregation from the university. That discovery cinched the fact that there is a colored gentleman in the underbrush somewhere, for Emory-Henry College is one hundred miles from Knoxville while Maryville is a mere sixteen miles.

For many years those interested in Maryville track teams have waited for this chance, a chance to teach the unbeatables from Tennessee a thing or two about track. This year their great chance had seemed to materialize, only to be wiped out by a narrow-minded, purely selfish action of the U.T. officials. It would be embarrassing to see the State University humbled by a puny squad from a college of only 800 students.

Last year at the start of the event of the meet Maryville College was leading U. T. by a score of 57 to 55 final. The last even was the mile relay. Otis Paul, who was counted heavily upon for the quarter mile, had only recently recovered from an attack of the flu. He was in no condition to run, yet he was out there running for Maryville on that day. He was not only out there running, but he was leading Andy Pugh, his anchor opponent, by 20 yards. As Paul neared the tape he fell, exhausted. The last obstcale out of the road, his opponent sprinted in and won the meet for U. T., 60-57.

So sharp has been the antagonism between the two teams that every ounce of energy has been expended by both teams when they have met. Once Coach Britton, in an argument over a place in a javeline throw, made the measuring tape bear down so accurately as to determine the half inch by which U. T. won second place from Maryville in the throw.

Incidents of this kind have been taken on the chin. Incidents like these have increased the desire for a meet. So defiant has been the talk on the athletic field that Coach Thrower has announced that he wants a meet at any cost. He suggests that each team pay its own expenses. That would do away with the budget excuse. If U. T. could find room for Emory-Henry she can find room for Maryville, thereby showing that the "no room" excuse leaks.

Sports Editors of the News Sentinel and of the Journal have tactfully sidestepped the issue: they have been careful to withhold all vidence of the fact that Maryville College this year has one of the strongest track outfits it has ever had. Headlines and streamers heralded the football clash last Fall; head

(Continued On Page Four)

Dr. George Allen Knapp's seventy-third birthday was celebrated Wednesday evening with a pretty dinner party at the faculty table. Dr. Knapp, who has been Professor of Mathematics and Physics for nineteen years, was the recipient of congratulations from many students and other friends on this occasion.

"Within The Law" Is College Players' Benefit Production

Play Exposes American Modes Of Detection and Justice

"She was convicted in the courts of justice."

"Nowadays we don't call them courts, of justice; we call them courts of law."

Thus Demarst, lawyer of the capitalistic department store magnate, strikes the keynote of Bayard Veiller's satire, "Within the Law", which the College Players present as a Y. W. C. A. benefit production Monday evening.

The play is an expose of American methods of detection and "justice." In it are revealed the workings of "the law, the wonderful, twisted law, which was made for the rich." It also reveals the ways by which one may evade the law, and even be protected by it to be a legalized thief, blackmailer, or what he will. In the course of the exposure, a number of thrillingly dramatic situations are developed. The play is touched with sentiment here and there and its humor is unforced.

Lois Wallace plays the leading feminine role, and Robert Borcer plays opposite her. Veta Mae Stephens is stage manager. Miss Holland is director.

Miss Wilkinson Reads In Faculty Club

Miss Catherine Wilkinson, associate professor of French at Maryville College, discussed Breton customs and characteristics before the Faculty Club, Tuesday before last. She cited the works of Anatole LeBraz to substantiate her paper.

According to Miss Wilkinson, Brittany and Provence, in the western part of France, have remained "practically unchanged for the last ten centuries, and the few changes that have taken place have been merely on the surface."

"The Land of Pardons", "best known work in this country", by Monsieur LeBraz, contains the stories of five major pardons. As defined by Miss Wilkinson, a pardon is a festival held at some shrine where pilgrims go to pray for forgiveness, to pray for the soul of some friend who has perished in a shipwreck, to receive strength for the tasks of everyday life, or to receive physical healing.

The Highland Echo

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

KAY CARPENTER - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
BERNARD MATTINGLEY - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Caristie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
HUGH CRAWFORD - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, March 18, 1933

ON USING THE LIBRARY

One of the five major ways of acquiring learning is by the use of books as tools. Since most of us cannot afford to buy all the books necessary or desirable for the pursuit of wisdom, and since such books may be found in libraries, it seems that the knowledge of how to use a library to the most advantage should be a part of everyone's education. Perhaps, therefore it might be of some advantage to examine some of the methods, which might be followed in the study of a particular subject, or of any subject in general.

Perhaps the most important tool which we have at our disposal in the study of a subject is the card catalogue. In our library this is to be found in the steel cabinets which stand near the charging desk in the main reading room. There are three ways in which the cards are filed: first, by the title; second, by the author, and third, by the subject. If one knows any one of these things about the book for which he is looking, he should be able to find it. If neither the name of the author nor the name of the book is known the book may be found by looking up the general subject and finding if any books are listed under it.

Another tool of which we may make rather extensive use if we go about it properly is the "stack permit". If you do not have a card giving you this permit ask your major professor for one. Then take it to the library and have the librarian sign it. Ask the desk attendant to show you the shelf where the books on your subject are to be found. Learn the Dewey decimal system of filing books, which is used in the Maryville library, and depend on yourself to find what you want.

A rich source of information which is frequently ignored by students is the current periodicals. Titles, authors, and subjects are listed in the Readers' Guide to Periodical Literature in the same way as in the card catalogue. Some of the material in magazines is more desirable than that in books, because it is more recent.

The library subscribes to special magazines in most of the major subjects. Students should form the habit of reading the articles which seem worth while in both these and regular periodicals, especially if the articles pertain to the major subject in which they are interested. Both special and general reference book should also be used in this connection.

In olden times libraries were places where precious books and documents were locked up and protected from the general public. Now libraries are open to everyone, and offer unlimited opportunities to the sincere and eager student.

Enthusiastic Audience Hears Piano Concert Of Mr. Jose Iturbi

The concert presented in Voorhees Chapel on Wednesday evening by Mr. Jose Iturbi, famous Spanish pianist, was enthusiastically received by a large audience of music lovers. Mr. Iturbi's masterful technique and powerful interpretation gave undeniable charm to a program composed of numbers ranging from the difficult and classical compositions by Liszt to the ultra-modern and highly impressionistic numbers of Claude Debussy.

The program opened with two entertaining and romantic Sonatinas by D. Scarlatti , a seventeenth century composer. This was followed by Mozart's Sonata in A majir, No. 9, the three movements of which ran a remarkable range of emotions.

The next number, Brahms' Variations on a theme of Paganini, was of particular interest because it was played by Horowitz when he gave a concert here last spring. The interpretations of the two artists were very different, and opinion is about equally divided as to which is the more desirable.

Of the numbers in the second group the Debussy compositions and the Paganini-Liszt La Campanella were perhaps the most interesting. Ravel's Pavane was the least interesting number on the program, but the descriptive Fete Dieu a Seville of I. Albeniz made ample amends.

The modern melody with the jazz motif and the well known Brahms Waltz in A minor, played as encores, gave a lighter tone to another wise heavy program.

While Mr. Iturbi's temperament at times got the better of him he was on the whole very generous as to encores and showed remarkable patience with the audience.

Tornado Demolishes East Tennessee Home

The tornado which swept across the State of Tennessee last Tuesday night, struck East Nashville and partially destroyed the home of Miss Katharyn Orr on Chapel Avenue.

The roof was completely missing. A sleeping porch on the second story was carried away and both porches on the ground floor were badly damaged. The windows on the South and West sides were broken by the gale. Most of the furniture was unharmed except for damage done by the rain which followed the wind storm.

A garage and chicken house on the premises have vanished, but the car was left standing, somewhat impaired by the falling debris

Most of the houses in East Nashville were much more damaged than the Orr home, many of them being completely wrecked and blown away. Giant trees throughout the section were uprooted and hurled against buildings.

Several persons were hurt and one killed in the vicinity of the Orr residence. Miss Orr's family was very fortunate however in escaping without serious injury.

OBSERVATIONS

OUR FINAL WORD ?

With two examinations yesterday; another today, and the responsibility of getting 775 parasytic people something to read, we have managed to form our opinion definitely of this newly inaugurated 'xam system. And that ain't all. . . . . but it's all we're going to say.

CHIEF KNOCKER

We feel about as helpless and as incompetent in face of something like this as Yankee Lewis must have felt, at least looked, 'tother night when he was trying to make a 13 1-2 neck fit a 16 1-2 shirt. Incidentally, this was the shirt for a tux which he was going to wear while ushering the people to see the great Iturbi.

OH CHEE

We've observed that Hessie Keeton, the bad woman and editor of former days, those days when we observed things from a very freshmanic viewpoint, has returned to the campus. Her presence will be largely instrumental, no doubt, in the assumption on our part of an inferiority complex, a step which many people have had the brass to tell us is a large step, in fact, almost an impossible one. That, however, like the broken wing, might be only a matter of opinion.

FORE

If precedent is anything to judge by, there should be a record set on our little old College Hill before this year has passed into the traditional oblivion. When, or if (and "when" is the most likely term), we lose our job, we'll need someone to take our place, and that will make on this college campus an accumulation of four editors and exeditors of the great Highland Echo. The four include the present, the future, Weldon Hina, and the aforeobserved Allison, Hessie Keeton.

RIP SNORTER

Aftr seeing Rip Ripley's accumulation of ten or twelve French words all of which may be pronounced the same way, we have thought of the same thing on a small scale regarding southern pronounciation. We have only three words, but our experience has been that they all receive the same linguistic treatment. The words are "how many", "hominy", and "harmony".

HER FATHER'S SON-IN-LAW

Ever since brother Newcomer (brother to sister Lib Duncan) won that fifty dollars in the T. T. Alexander contest the fate of the Highland Echo has taken on an appearnce that is not too gloomy. Even the least concerned individual caused the brother's anxiety during the rendition of the two masterpieces, and the time of waiting for the decision. We think that there's nothing quite as attractive as fifty dollars. . . and then, fifty dollars in gold.

LONG FIGURES

We suppose that it will take the family something like seven or eight more days, with a great many more important trips to the old reliable, but nearly insecure, debate room to compute the figgers on this division plan. Rather significant, don't you suppose, that people in the state of Newcomer and Duncan should go to the debate room to have it out.

WHERE'S MY DAGGER?

Our lack of respect for the great Arnold Burgin has all passed as does the wind after seeing the mighty act of bravery enacted by him last Sunday. We kinda noticed that Burgin was more or less attached to Bob Thrower's most recent, and most --------- little woman, and for that we'd like to hand Mr. Burgin our chocolate soldier. It isn't that we'd rather see the Baldwin watch doggie with Burgin more than with Bob. . . , just that we like to see an act of bravery. As far as that's concerned, we can think of a better man than either of these to sustain the matron's attention. . . but we always refuse to get personal.

NO?

Dr. Fields pulled one of his characteristic fast ones in the chapel last week in informing his little men that any church report that was signed with "Methodist Sunday School, No." would be rejected, and the signer would be counted absent from church attendance. The result of his request was astonishing, for where there were a great number attending that Sunday School the previous Sunday, not one was recorded for the Sunday accounted for. It looks like some of the boys in this chapel section need a new way to assuage their conscience. Understand, now, we didn't say consciousness.

IT MUST BE IMPROVEMENT

At a debate at Tusculum College many days ago, the mighty Groves raved forth many minutes to have the debate judge get up and rave on two things: The excellency of Mr. Groves' diction, and Mr. Groves' enunciation. Also, Mr. Groves' position on the stage was mentioned several times. It rather looks like Miss Heron can place a feather in her cap any time for making a man of diction out of only Benny Groves in the few weeks since the senior English examination.

POOFLE

Ye old college doesn't need to worry anymore about a business head to take the place of Mr. Black when he retires. They'll just telephone old Owl Duffe of Booot Kentucky to do the work. Owl is the guy who placed the sign in the lobby of Carnegie for the buoys to come over and work all afternoon fixing up the skating rink in order to skate free that night. We heard Owl had quite an accumulation of broken men in line for the saving of that nickel that night.

LET'S GET STYLISH

Last issue we were talking about prevailing styles. This week, it's those that must prevail before long, if we men are going to have any modesty left at all. Our concern is on a lower level now, being about women's hose instead of their dresses, and hats. We believe that since the banks closed, we've seen more runners in hose, darned holes in hose, and holes that should be darned, than we've seen in the history of ourselves. There are only two ways to correct this, and if we're allowed, we prefer the latter. The first is to reinstitute the old style of dresses to the ground, so that the goilies can wear what ever they like underneath, the second is to completely abandon hose as wearing apparel. We never went for that much anyhow.

DIFFERENT LEVELS

Someone said that we should keep our mind on a higher level than girl's hose. . . . . that we should look straight ahead. That might be all right, but we like to begin at the ground; and then too, we figure that those people who look down, looking where they're going, run no danger of stumbling . . . . and we don't really mean to be insinuating.

"The Enchanted April" Is Winner Of Theta Alpha Phi Cup

Jessie Mae Ramsey, W. Culver And D. Briggs Are Commended For Excellent Work

The Committee on Selection for the best mid-winter of the season has awarded the Theta Alpha Phi Cup to Theta Epsilon Literary Society for the production of "Enchanted April". This year the committee was composed of Dr. Hunter, Miss Holland, Harry Gauding from the Maryville High School, Dr. Knapp and Mrs. Sarah Moore Traylor. Mrs. Traylor and Mr. Gauding are both graduates of the Expression Department of the College.

The committee made its decision on the following basis: 50 percent for acting, 30 percent for production, and 20 percent for selection of a play. While "Enhanted April" did not have any outstanding acting, unless it was that of Lucille Swafford, on the whole it was more uniformly outstanding. The play was produced exceptionally well and seemed to have been selected by Theta Epsilon on a basis which made it more suitable for production on the Maryville stage.

The acting of Jessie Mae Ramsey in "The Little Journey", Donald Briggs in "The Bat" and Wesley Culver in "Dracula" was considered the most outstanding work in their respective midwinters.

Last year the Theta Alpha Phi cup was awarded to Alpha Sigma Literary Society for their production of the comedy "David Harum."

Theta Alpha Phi, the Maryville chapter of the National Honorary Dramatic Society will not present a play this spring. However, the chapter plans to take in several more new members whose dramatic ability has been outstanding.

If uncomfortable under the world's scrutiny, be sure there is something you ought to know about yourself.

Worry is the mental message that you have poison in your veins.

LITTLE CHURCH

THE CASE FOR "CONTROVERSIALISM"

"Ye should earnestly contend for the faith,"—Jude 3.

With these words the Scriptures state a truth often disparaged or ignored in these days. Very concisely they state the case for so-called "controversialism", which I propose to defend. Most of the "Little Church" articles are for everyone, but some have been simply for those of liberal tendencies. This one, however, is strictly for those conservatives who believe in God's Word and Christ's atonement, but who label those who defend that faith as controversialists and dogmatists simply because they obey the Biblical injuction quoted above. I might say that such branding is the easiest and laziest thing to do; but there are better ways of espousing the cause.

The Bible is full of exhortations to, and examples of, that which is branded today as controversy. To note only three references, we may recall that St. Paul, St. Peter, and St. Jude, all include in their canonical writings definite warnings against false teachings, and that in no uncertain terminology. Search your Scriptures for verification of this; it is true. And even St. John, the apostle of love, urged, "Try (test or prove) the spirits whether they are of God." And Ezekiel, in instructing Israel's civic watchmen, unwittingly gave Christians a lesson. The watchman on the city walls who failed to sound the alarm at the approach of an enemy was responsible for the disaster that followed. And so it is in the Church. Hence, those Christians who warn against false teaching and who seek diligently to safeguard Christian institutions and organizations are not simply controversing, as popular misrepresentations would have it, but are merely sounding the alarm as faithful watchmen.

The explanation of these unloving misrepresentations is easy. The majority of Christians do not seem to be concerned with defending their faith against the invasions of unbelief, and it remains for a few to "do the dirty work". It follows that if a man sees the need and jumps into the breach he becomes known simply by that act. This fact causes others to lose sight of his finer virtues, and no amount of precept and example to the contrary can convince these blind ones of the error of their cruel branding. They tell us, "If you'll stop your controverting, the Church might not be so hampered by dissension." But we maintain that the dissension is caused not by our "controverting" but by the majority's failure to defend Christianity. If all Christians did their defensive duty, then we "controversialists" might get opportunity to leave off so much defense, as we often desire through weariness. If, under the present circumstances, we left off defending, then there would be something to complain about.

The Church today has been defended almost entirely by "controversialists"; it has been betrayed by pacifistic conservatives—"in the house of its friends". The heresy of a Presbyterian synod passed the General Assembly because of a pacifistic conservative's carelessness. The same heresy was again upheld in the General Assembly by that one man's voice alone—a man who insists that he believes in Jesus Christ. A militant would not have acted thus.

Yes, we militants, we "controversialists", are discredited by our best friends as calamity-howlers, gripers, fault-finders, mistrusters, haters, men of perverted attitudes, pessimists, disparagers, men who are needlessly alarmed, "Needlessly?" How about Auburn Seminary, Lane, Union? How about Princeton? Did the "controversialists" know what they were talking about, or were their words fables? If they had been heeded by a few stubborn pacifists—a few apostles of so-called love—a lot of evil work might have been prevented. Westminster Seminary has not weakened an iota. Why? It is run by militants, by "controversialists." And neither did Princeton weaken so long as it was run by militants.

Sweet dispositions may be attractive and desirable. But alone they are worth nothing. Love is not love at all when it accomplishes nothing. A man must be more than simply a "good fellow" to be worth anything in the kingdom of God. He must have a backbone. He must have courage. He must be a faithful steward of God's truths. And if branded as a "controversialist" he must persevere. He may find it expedient to make some changes in his plans, but above all he must remain faithful and true, like his Master. "Courage, brother, do not stumble." —Frank R. Neff, Jr.

SEWING AND HEMSTITCHING
New Low Prices for Spring Styles
MRS. BROOKS
ABOVE REAGAN'S CAFE

COLLEGE CLEANERS
A. Nash Suits Tailored To Order
Representatives
Ada Williams "Coon" Creed "Teddy" Willocks

McBRAYER SHOE SHOP
AND
SULLIVAN & PINYAN BARBER SHOP
Basement Carlisle's 5 & 10c Store

FARMER'S CASH STORE
Groceries, Fresh Meats

EASTER PERMANENTS
At Special Prices—call
SERVICE BEAUTY SHOPPE
for appointment Phone 643

CRAWFORD, CALDWELL & McCAMMON
For Furniture and Floors use
"61" Quick Drying Enamel and Varnish

CHANDLER, FLORIST
For Easter Flowers
Corsages a Specialty
"COON" CREED, Representative
(REAR OF BYRNE DRUG COMPANY)

SPORTS

Early Spring Practice Gets Underway As Thirty-five Men Report For Spring Football

The gridiron hopes of next season have been getting the kinks out of their muscles during the past week as Coaches Honaker and Thrower have been putting the men through their paces in the early spring practice sessions.

More than half of those who reported are letter-men and many of the others have had some game experience also. Honaker, as usual, says nothing about his material, but maintains his sphinx-like attitude.

The ideal weather has brought the warriors out prancing like a herd of colts and among the fastest ponies are West, Clark, Kizer, Boretsky, Blazer, Payne, and Martin Gillespie, all backfield lettermen who saw service last year. Captain Russell at center led the veteran linemen Gamble, Millsaps, and Atchson back into action while five capable wingmen reported for end positions, Stone, Atkins, Kalman and Gwynn have lettered last year and Smiley Richardson who has been out of school a year is also snagging passes at end. Grantham, Gray, Bailey, and Loesberg who all played last season are back in cleats again, while Lehr, Huff, and Woodling make up a good portion of the new green material.

Scot Swimmers Carry Effects Of Rigid Work Out To Chat. Tonight

The Chattanooga "Y", will play host tonight to the Highlander tank team in one of the most important meets of the season. A period of rigid training has been undergone since the last meet with Knoxville "Y" and seconds have been lopped off each individual time.

At the time trials last Wednesday eight men were selected to make the trip, the longest so far this season. Those who swim tonight are: Obert, diving and freestyle dash; Heinzer, freestyle dash and relay; Shields, diving and freestyle distance; Lampe, freestyle and breaststroke; Waldron and Young, backstroke; Herries, breaststroke, and Greiner, freestyle dash and relay.

This is the second in a series of four scheduled meets this yeer, the remaining two being return meets with Knoxville and Chattanooga at the Maryville pool. Negotiations are being made at present for a pair of meetings with Nashville and Tusculum.

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

Another lull between sporting seasons brings to the sports scribblers another spell of prolonged rag-chewing—that is, to most sports scribblers—Ye Poore Slantster does not seem to be so full of material since a member of his Public forbade talk on outside subjects.

But home interest won't deter us from wondering why it is that Brothah Bill Britton and his Volunteer panty-boys won't give the Scots a meet this year. For the past three years the Maryville tracksters have been supplying the fans at Shields-Watkins with pullenty of close matches, in fact so close that the Vols have refused to be supplied with any more. Why?? Oh yeah, the University is cutting down on their athletic appropriations and can't afford to pay Bob Thrower to bring his boys over. Surely they can't be paying Emory and Henry, who substituted for us, any less than the thirty-five dollars with which we have been remunerated. And surely Emory and Henry couldn't come to U. T. for any less than the nothing-at-tall for which Thrower offered to engage the Vol cinder team. Nope! Looks like a plain case of Brothah Britton's bein' aieared to meet Brothah Throwah! What else, Brothah Britton?

—S—

We'll have to retract our crack about the new tennis courts. It begins to look as though George Vick (who resents being called the Big Wind) will get to have a match or two on them—if he's not in too much of a hurry to get away after commencement.

—S—

The spring sports program for the Scotties looks a bit brighter than the one for the fall. Maybe it's because Coach Smith has so many first-rate players out for tennis, he's planning to pickle a few in vinegar (or beer) and save them for lean years. Maybe we could have used a pickled ace or two last spring, eh?

—S—

And then, there was the case of the student who was a pitcher. He went out for Maryville baseball—and became one in fourteen! ! Whut aboot that? And among the fourteen are the three twirlers who saw service last year as well as Pete Park, diminutive screw-ball artist. A sight for sore eyes? A sight for any kind of eyes!

—S—

Although we have no official license to do so, we wish all freshmen who can better college track records would report for track at once, not waiting until the interclass track meet to strut. We well remember the case of the freshman who broke the college broadjump record in the intramural meet last spring. Of course, it later turned up that he wasn't eligible for intercollegiate athletics, but he might have been, for all he knew.

Alpha Sigma And Theta Epsilon Win Society Basketball Contests

In the two literary society basketball games, held two weeks ago tonight, Alpha Sigma and Theta Epsilon emerged victorious over the sharpshooters of Athenian and Bainonian societies.

In the boys game, Athenian threatened to upset the dope can by getting off to an 8-0 lead in the first few moments. The Sigs crept up however, and led at the half 20 to 14. The lead was increased in the second half and the game ended with Alpha Sigma on top by a 43-30 count.

The girls game was all Theta. With Cooper, Gillingham, and Duckett scoring at will, the T's rung up a 29-6 score at half time. In the second half Bainonian outscored the adversaries 18 to 14 points, but the game was well in the bag before the Theta guards let up. Gillingham looked best for Theta Epsilon, while for Bainonian Burchette held scoring honors with 15 points.

The Score:

Bainonian		Theta Epsilon
Burchette 15	f.	Cooper 10
Baldwin	f.	Gillingham 13
Purviance 2	f.	Duckett 8
Johnson	g.	Doty
Farlee	g.	Coates
Hale	g.	Joyance

Substitutions: Bainonian: Steed 1, Connor 2, Smith, and Wayland. Theta Epsilon: Brown, Gamble 12, Reveley, Pflanze, and Walker.

Athenian		Alpha Sigma
Paul, f. 6		Dobson, f. 8
Goodwin, f. 5		Fishback, f. 12
Lodwick f. 2		Otto, c. 18
Moore, c. 10		Atkins, g.
Grooms, g. 2		West, g. 1
Green, g. 2		Collins, g 4
Wood, g. 3		Springer, g.

Sophomores Capture Volleyball Contest

The sophomore girls again emerged victorious when they netted a total score in the volley-ball tournament of 76 over the 45 points of the freshmen and the 33 points of the junior-seniors. This is the third consecutive tournament in which the sophomores have captured honors.

The result of the first game, played between the sophomores and the junior-seniors was a score of 26 for the sophomores to 12 for the junior-seniors. 33 to 21 was the score of the second game in which the upper class girls triumphed over the freshmen. The freshman girls lost the final to the sophomores by an overwhelming score of 50-12.

Eleven Men Receive Medals As Season Closes For Champs

Eleven men received medals last week as awards for service on Maryville's wrestling squad this year. Those who received letters are: Beyer, 118 pound class, Garry Ridder; 126 pound class, George Hoglan, R. Costner; 135 pound class, Burt Graham; 145 pound class S. Boretsky; 155 pound class, John Tope, Leon Millsaps, and T. M. Byar; 175 pound class Theodore Burns; and unlimited class, Mose Gamble. The team was managed this year by Rollie Huffstetler.

State Championship honors were again captured this year by the Scots as they had one of their most successful seasons, piling up 168 points to the opponent's 16. Only two falls, and two time advantages were taken against the musclers.

NATURE CLUB

The most recently organized club on the Hill is the Nature Club under the sponsorship of Miss Green and Miss Hudson. One of the activities of the club will be a monthly field trip.

Those interested in trees and flowers make up one group within the club while insects and animals are the chief interest of the other group. The naming of the trees on the campus will be one of the first projects undertaken by the club, and in connection with zoology considerable interest has been aroused in the collecting of termites whose mating season is near.

Members of the freshman class desiring membership must be approved by the sponsors.

The club's officers are:
Leland Shanor—President
Ed Lodwick—Vice-president
Cecelia Conover—
Secretary-Treasurer
Louise Cline and Randolph
Shields—Program Secretaries

Maryville Basketball team has recently finished a season which must be ranked as mediocre compared to last year and other years. Though eleven out of the twenty one games played were victories, opponents scored a few more points, 677 to our 636. One must consider of course, that the team had to be made up of men most of whom lacked the experience of White, Woodard, and Nee of last year. Captain Yankee Lewis led our scoring attack, followed by Johnny Kiser, their respective totals being 187 points and 116 points. Of the younger players, Allen scored 88 points and Haub ten less. Seven men earned a letter, including Lewis, Kiser, Allen, Cherry, Haub, Stone, and Waldrop. Since only Captain Lewis will be lost by graduation, prospects are that next year will be brighter in Maryville basketball circles.

Fishback and Phay Reckoned To Cop Topnotch Positions On Tennis Squad This Season

Tennis hounds answering the call to arms have been out hopping around a bit on the courts getting in trim for the coming tournament by which place on the team will be determined.

Without a doubt the tennis squad this year will be the strongest seen here in several years, Fishbach and Phay, the two outstanding players have reported for practice and are getting their mid-season form down to the fine points of play. Other members of last year's team who have reported are Talmage and Gillingham.

Aside from the regulars a great deal of material is out for the first time at Maryville. Haub, of New Jersey, plays a steady, brainy game, and he expects a place on the team. Last Fall Haub went to the semi-finals triumphing over Gillingham in the qurter-finals. Karnell, from Pennsylvania, expects to place on the team, and will be aided by the experience gained in the past two years as number one man on Hanover College's team.

Those reporting to Coach Smith for practice Thursday were Fishbach, Phay, Talmage, Karnell, Gillingham, Haub, Bradbury, Lietch, Hurst, Quigley, Payne, Price, Warman, Alexander and Woodling.

The new varsity courts will be finished in time for the opening meet scheduled for April 4th. The schedule includes two meets with the University of Tennessee, Tusculum, the University of Kentucky, and others not yet definitely arranged.

SUPERIORS SCOTTIES

The three sides of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Triangle stand for the Mental, Moral and Physical sides of life. Because of her ranking high in these three phases of activity, it was fitting and wise that Inez Hamrick should have been chosen to be president of the Y. W. C. A. for this past year.

On the mental side, Nez's record is nothing to be one bit ashamed of. Not having gone under a "B" average in her grades, she has been regularly on the honor roll, which makes her a cum laude student thus far. It is quite a feat for the average student to place his name upon that select list once. And when one considers the extra-curricular activities carried by Miss Hamrick, her consistency is all the more commendable. This year, she is one of the varsity debaters.

She has, as president of the Y. W. C. A., accepted her share of spiritual responsibilities. Leading in prayer at one of the February Meetings, helping Dr. Stevenson at Vespers, and taking charge of services at meetings and joint meetings of the triangle organizations have been among her moral duties.

Her athletic ability made her outstanding in the first two years. The record she compiled in the point system has not been surpassed since. She has never been beaten upon a Maryville tennis court. Since her sophomore year, Nez has had her athletic career terminated by doctor's orders. Therefore, it can be only gussed to what heights in the realm of women's sports she would have soared in her latter two years as a student. Because of her interest in athletics, Inez has been prominent in such student organizations as the Athletic Board of Control.

Connected with the physical side is the fact that Nez has never been entirely overlooked when the student body has had occasion to vote for a most attractive girl. Her popularity, as well as quality of leadership, has been better shown, perhaps, in the offices she has held in various organizations, beside those already mentioned.

Miss Hamrick plans to teach in her native state of North Carolina after graduation. Here is hoping that she gets the opportunity to carry out her plans despite the scarcity of jobs. This chance to make good is about the best one could wish for a college graduate.

ATHENIAN ELECTS

Leslie Webb was elected president of Athenian for the third term at the meeting of that society last Saturday night. Other officers elected were:

Vice-president—Donald Fortune
Secretary—Warren Warman
Critics—Charles Beale and Charles Gillander
Program Secretaries—Earl Crawford, Frank Mease
Sergeant-at-Arms—William Dobbie
Editor—Robert Lodwick

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.

Effective March 14, 1933

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.
Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

COLLEGE STREET BARBER SHOP
(across from public library)
Haircuts—15c
Willocks-Reps.-Clopton

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

ECONOMY CAFE
Headquarters for Students

Trade In Barber Shop
15c—Haircuts—15c
Back of M. M. Elder
Cash Carry Store
Rep. Al Duff

STUDENTS...
For the Best in Sandwiches and Drinks
Visit our Fountain
Byrne Drug Co.
"YOUR DRUG STORE"

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

M. M. ELDER
CASH CARRY STORES
The Best Place to Buy Your Groceries

WEBB, SAYS:
If you want Best Results and Best Prints, bring your Films to
THE WEBB STUDIO
College Street :-: Maryville, Tenn.

EASTER FLOWERS....
Kindly give your order for Roses, Lily of the Valley, Corsages, Etc. to John Tope, Representative
COULTER'S GREENHOUSES

SUBSCRIBE NOW FOR YOUR 1933 CHILHOWEAN

SEE ANY ONE OF THE FOLLOWING PEOPLE:

Howard Kipp — [illegible] Bailey
Elizabeth Gillis — [illegible]t Tripp
John McQueen — [illegible] Rusk
Dorothy Casseras — Charles Beale

SLANG

(Continued from page one)

deanery" at the University of Oregon.

The Dean of Men: The only slang term designated for this personage is The Doctor, and the only college giving this term is Louisiana College, Pineville, Louisiana.

The Librarian: The old lady, Libe, (Carroll College).

The Nightwatchman: black shadow, campus cop, bull, Diogenes (The University of Maine), Santa Claus, Barnacle Bill, pussy foot, owl eyes, john the cop, (N.Y.U.).

Proctor of Dormitory: snooper, Minnie the mother, Chief Slusher (Wilson College), punk, Proc, Duke (Creighton University), Old Man.

Particular Professors: (The number was much too great to give near all of them; only some of the most peculiar are related here). Rippy du Van (Kansas State), Sleepy Jesus, Charlie Molecule (University of Maine), Ducky Wucky, Deacon Peanuts, (McKendree College), Popeye, Barnhouse, Daniel Boone, King Fish, Aunt Gussie, Fannie, Flip the Frog (Creighton University), and M. T. Smith (for T. M. Smith at N.Y.U.).

II.—INSTRUCTORS, COURSES AND EXAMS

An Easy Course: Pipe, snap, set up, fresh air course, cinch, crip, sap (Louisiana College), clutch (Creighton University), fluke, slip, grapes (Denver University).

A Hard Course: grind, gripe, stiff course, beaner, sticker, pain, gag, sweat session (Wyoming University), heller, stiff course (both from Vassar College), burner, jonah, rocky, twister, dilly, honey, wow, headache, drag, eye-opener, and strang course.

An Easy Instructor: honey, softy, good stick, pal, fish, humdinger (Denver).

A Hard Instructor: bear, driver, old crab, tough egg, slave driver, meanie, grinder.

Examinations in General: exams, quizzes, finals, ex's, pay-off, and 'xams.

Unexpected Examinations: pop quiz, shotgun, quiz, sprung quiz, drop-quiz, surprise party (Wyoming), a quick (Denver University).

III.—STUDENTS

Freshmen: frosh, freshie, shinie, greenie, green cap, rat, goat, dog, simp, slime, and yearling.

Sophomore: soph, bird's nest, last year's bird nest (Indiana University), 2nd. year freshman, snooties, wise guy, softie, scrub.

Junior: old lady, big shot.

Senior: big shot, old man, Mr., oldster, oldtimer, high-brow.

Conscientious Student: grind, lily, sissy, prude, book worm, sucky, Phi Bete (standard for most universities), dig, pansy, sap, dead head, stude, drudge, prig, "self conscious himself" (Denver).

One who carries tales to the administration: lug, skunk, squealer, stool-pigeon, stooler, tattler, apple polisher, handshaker, snooper, spiller, rat, sissy-stool, sob sister, pain, ninny, and supe.

IV.—COLLEGE ROUTINE AND CUSTOM

To Study: boning, cramming, hitting the books, cracking books, bearing down, grinding, pounding, plugging (Maine), pounding the print (Oregon), cracking down, chiseling, pounding the pages.

Failure to Study: The standard designation of this condition is "not cracking a book". Others are: sliding, getting by, floating, sitting on one's heels (Wyoming), lazy faire (Dickinson College), gold bricking, coasting, playing around.

Making High Grades: soaring, Phi Beteing, Phi Jake, gunning, pulling strings, crashing through, handshaking, polishing the apple, fogging it on (Louisiana College) being a Jesus (Denver), slaving, going to town (Denver).

Failure in Examinations: flunk, flop, bust.

Hazing: hell week, ruthing, scrapping, goating, razzing, ratting, the works.

Regular Sunday Religious service: chapel, vesper.

Church attendance on Sunday: Pain in the neck, holiness, getting religion (Denver)

College Chapel Service: convo, gripe, bore, recess, compulsory bore, preaching.

Pep meetings before athletic contests: pep meetings (this is probably not regarded as slang, but common vernacular in most colleges), fight talk (Maine), sessions, rally, noise makers, rah-rah, booster, revival (Denver), gab-fest (N.Y.U.).

Talking sessions of Men Students: The standard for this is "bull sessions"; bull-fest, gripe session, fat-chewing sorio, smoker, oil session.

Talking sessions of women students: henfest, rip session, gore session, catty session, confab, angel session, hen party, cat session, chin fest, fuss hall, truth session, catting.

V.—SLANG FOR SOCIAL LIFE

Association between young men and young women: dating, radiator romance (Hamline University), crush, racket, contact, (McKendree), lilying, pigging (Oregon University claims this as "Oregon's very own"), stepping out, courting, cookie pushpushing (Dickinson College), case, blowing honey, making time, jellying, pudding around, chinning, sissying.

Girl Friend: My woman, standby, frau, dame, fern, frail, squaw, girl friend, big moment, flame, gal, honey, bim (Wyoming), pal, liability, wife, ball and chain, wench, baby, lady-love, hag, weakness, old lady, skirt, heifer, date, sweetie pie, sugar, jane, steady, little woman, nuisance, she-babe.

Boy Friend: B.M.O.C. (big man on campus), big shot, pest, husband, gigolo, pair of pants, big moment, guy, head-man, dilly honey, beau brummel, sucker, crush, war department, man baby (Denver), sweet tarzan, sugar, heavy date.

Popular Boy: Joe College, Phi Kap, Hot Shot, Pansy, Social Hound, sheik, smoothy.

Popular girl: honey, queen, hot shot, betty co-ed, wow, knock out, darb, pip, powerhouse, Queen Elizabeth, ha-cha.

College Social Function: formals, hops, tackies, struggle, varsities, jigs, brawls, shindigs, shuffle, drags, frolic, pink tea, prom.

The woman who seeks variety among her admirers: Oh-oh, fickle, flirt, campus widow, interfraternity girl (Hanover), all-american, gold digger, chiseler, hussy, heinz (Vanderbilt), line slinger, cleo.

The man who does the same: Chiseler (if he breaks into another's "territory"), rounder, whataman, big time, God's gift to women, social lion, cellar digger, rake, heart breaker, crippler, Don Juan, skirt chaser, cooky pusher, Arab, gigolo, lineman, delegate at large, B. F., boy about town, Romeo, monk, Casanova, play-boy.

A student who remains true to a previous year's lover: steady, standby, hopeless, true blue, holdover, old faithful, widow, hangover special, goof, true heart, long sufferer. The University of Kansas reports "phenomenon unknown".

VI.—MISCELLANEOUS TERMS

Mail from home: fanmail, good news, getting the devil, monthly stipend, the gazette (Carroll College), Godsends, check, scribb, home tidings.

Food: grub, garbage, beans, hash, fodder (Rutgers), chow, eats, gulash, gik, chuck, fud, slumgullion, chuck, chow, oats, mess, nose bag, sand, starch, slop.

Movies: talkies, flicks, flickers, dimery, show, squawkies, shoot-em-ups, legs, noises.

A Student who is broke: An All-American Guy (McKendree), pal, a flat, a fluke.

The condition of being broke: flat, drained, busted, stony, stranded, financially embarrassed, on the rocks, strapped, smooth, shot, in the pink, shelled out, flat as a pancake, punctured.

Smoking Material: fags, weeds, nervine, makings, butts, long white ones, bull durham, nails, coffin nails, stogies, Hoover dust, tacks, ducks, dope, rope-makings, snipe, baccy, nicotine.

College Automobiles: cans, silver bullets, klunks, tanks, crates, buggies, heaps, wrecks, wagons, jalopies, gallopies, chariots, flivvers, whoopees "Jones, U. drive it", club car, barges, hacks, leaping lena, thunder wagon.

College Campus: Practically every one of the colleges reported the campus as "The Hill"; zoo, graveyard, the pen, camp (Vassar), the works, gamboling yard, the back yard, on the green.

The hospital or infirmary: pesthouse, St. James, pill room, bug lab, horsepital.

Names of Particular Courses: bugology, sike, comp, econ, hysterical grammar, lit, zo, C.I.P., war, polisy, baby ec., catology, campusology, deutsch, spanol, gas house course.

The boys' dormitory at McKendree College is called the mule barn, and the girls dorm is named the hen house. At Indiana University, a mid term warning is called a "smoke-up". The College directory at Kansas State is the "herd book". At the same institution the lad with plenty of wherewithal who takes an easy course and plans only to get by is "going to college" in contrast to those students who actually study.

Over 14 million bags of coffee have been burned since 1929 by the Brazilian government in a desperate effort to hold up the price of the product. This procedure is the greatest example of peace-time destruction of property on record.

Books Of Interest Are Added To Student Volunteer Library

Seven new books of special interest to Student Volunteers and other persons interested in missions have been placed in the Library. The list, selected by members of the Religious Education Department, is composed of fiction, biography, and discussions, by well informed writers, of missions today.

"Kagawa" by Axling is the story of Kagawa, the famuos Japanese evangelist. Honore Wilsie Morrow's "The Splendor of God" is a biography, written in almost fictional style of Adoniram Judson, one of the pioneer missionaries to India. Thompson's book "Farewell to India" paints another picture of India. "Portrait of a Chinese Lady", a novel by Hosie, gives an insight into Chinese life.

Three other books of similar type complete the list. These are studies of various phases of the situation in missions today. They are: "The Challenge of the East", by Sherwood Eddy; Hatchinson's "World Revolution of Christianity", and "The Present Day Summons to World Missions of Christianity" by John R. Mott.

These books are available at the call desk. Sometime in the future may be placed in the Student Volunteer Library.

STUDENT COUNCIL

At its next meeting, the Student Council will consider the advisability of undertaking the building of an amphitheatre in the college woods as its annual project. It is probably that this will be attempted if the necessary help can be garnered from the college students. The proposed location is extremely good, and would be an excellent place to have the annual Mayday services which always attract an unusually large crowd.

ST. PATRICK'S PARTY

A St. Patrick's Day party is being planned by the girls of Baldwin Hall and their matrons. The party is to be held in the parlors from eight to nine-thirty this evening. The rooms will be decorated in green and white, and every girl attending the party is to wear green. The color scheme will also be carried out in the refreshments. Miss Hunter has appointed the following committees:

Refreshments—Helen Frish and Eleanor Johnson

Program—Elizabeth Ann Huffaker and Helen Beard

Decorations—Asenath Birchfield and Margaret Kelbaugh

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club met Wednesday evening. A short business meeting was held. It was decided t have a half page picture of the club in the Annual. The club also voted to prepare and serve the banquets for the remainder of the year except the faculty banquets.

Y. M. C. A.

Dr. B. B. Lavendar, pastor of the Graystone Presbyterian Church, Knoxville, will speak at the Y. M. C. A. meeting, Sunday afternoon at 1:10. Dr. Lavendar is a very interesting speaker and is especially interested in young people. There will be music by the Y. orchestra and a violin solo by Clark Lathan.

At the regular meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday afternoon, Dean Hoskins of the University of Tennessee gave an interesting and inspirational lecture, choosing his message from the scriptural text "Be sure your sin will find you out". The officers of the Y. felt exceedingly fortunate in securing the services of Dean Hoskins. Special number on the song service program was a solo by Marie Carleson.

The Y. M. C. A. is making definite plans for the few weeks preceding vacation. They expect to finish shrubbing in front of the building and painting the inside of the building in order to make it more an ideal place for social functions.

Y. W. C. A.

Miss Margaret Stith, Director of Religious Education and Young People's Work at the First Presbyterian Church in Knoxville, will speak to the Y.W.C.A. group Sunday afternoon. Norma Spilatore will sing. The program will not begin until 2:00 o'clock.

MAXIE SMITH IMPROVES

Maxie Smith, who had an operation for appendicitis several weeks ago, is reported to be resting well after a second operation last Thursday night. Her parents are here from Cartersville, Georgia.

GERMAN CLUB

The meeting of the German Club, held Thursday night, March 9, was opened with the singing of two German folk songs. A play "Ubuung Macht den Meister" (Practice Makes Perfect) was presented by the members of the club. The play contained delightful German humour, was worded simply enough to be well understood, and was well received by a reasonably large audience of members.

The cactus is a native American plant.

TRACK

(Continued from page one)

lines and streamers heralded the sixty-to-nothing defeat suffered at the hands of U. T.'s second string men.

And now we want a track meet with the University of Tennessee. . . .but we can't have it, because U. T. athltics might be humbled. . . might lose the prestige which has been enjoyed, yea, gloated over, throughout the past year and many other yars. This year's track team can beat the University of Tennessee fair and square, and the boys from the highland waste no words or breathe in shouting that challenge. . . and, what is more, U. T. knows it.

"We Are Never Undersold"
THE J & K STORES

DRESS UP.....

Easter Inspires it
Styles Develop It
Values Induce It

BOB WELLS, JR.
Made to Measure Clothing
Next to City Drug Store

Announcing the Change of Ownership
City Drug Company
HARRY H. BIRD OREN D. LOWE
Try Our Fountain
Sodas, Ice Cream, Sandwiches
"THE STUDENT'S STORE"

Blazer's Lunch Room
25c—Regular Meal—25c
35c Sunday Dinner 35c

Buy All Your Music From CLARK & JONES
In Knoxville

VIVA EL CANTORO! VIVA WHAM!
Screamingly funny? You know it! But here's a musical romance that scales a new peak of dramatic thrills and sweeping, breathless beauty!
SAMUEL GOLDWYN Production
EDDIE CANTOR
in
"The KID FROM SPAIN"
with LYDA ROBERTI, The Witching Sex Menace and The GORGEOUS GOLDWYN GIRLS
Most Beautiful Title Sides of Filmland
UNITED ARTISTS PICTURE
PALACE THEATRE
MONDAY, TUESDAY, MARCH 20, 21
ADMISSION 28c, CHILDREN 10c

IT'S A SNAP
Not only the style of this smart hat but also the very low price attached to the fine quality of felt and workmanship.
10. Andrew Johnson
I'ts a Stetson
$5.00
PROFFITT'S MEN'S DEPT.

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 1, 1933 | NUMBER TWENTY

President Lloyd Broadcasts Speeches On Liberal Arts College Over Two Stations

Maryville President Sets Forth Advantages of Small Independent Universities

On Saturday evening, March 25, over radio station WNOX, at Knoxville, and again on Monday evening, March 27, over radio station WDOD at Chattanooga, Dr. Ralph Waldo Lloyd broadcasted a speech on "The Distinctive Service of The Liberal Arts Colleges." The speeches were sponsored by the liberal arts colleges of East Tennessee.

In part, Dr. Lloyd said: "One-fourth of our American people are in school. Thirty million boys and girls and young people are enrolled in the nation's school and colleges. One million of them are in one thousand colleges and universities; they comprise one-half of all the college students of the world. Today the number of American college students is fifteen times as large as it was thirty years ago; four times as large as it was twenty years ago; and twice as large as it was ten years ago. This is an unprecedented growth. The size of many universities has increased immensely. There are 150 institutions which enroll over 1,000 students each, 35 which enroll over 5,000 each, 6 which enroll over 15,000, and 2 with over 30,000 each. The State institutions have increased greatly in number, size, and facilities. And yet three-fourths of American institutions are not tax-supported, but are independent or church-related; most of them are relatively small; and three fourths of the college students of tht nation are enrolled in them."

After thus indicating the importance of the institutions of higher learning in the American system, Dr. Lloyd proceded to partially define a liberal arts college, and to list the distinctive services which they render.

"It is the college offering a general cultural education in the humanities, arts, and sciences which is commonly called a liberal arts college. It does not aim to train students for specific professions. It forms the central unit in the university, such as the University of Tennessee, Vanderbilt University, and the University of the South, or it may be a separate institution as are those in Tennessee which sponsor this broadcast.

The distinctive service of these liberal arts colleges, lies

I. First, in the value of the cultural training which they give.

The aim of the liberal arts college is to prepare men and women to live an abundant life," No greater service can be renderered to the nation, and the program of the liberal arts college is such as to meet this need in a way which is impossible to univerities and technical schools. A period of training in some college enables our people to be better, whatever their field of endeavor.

II. "The second distinctive service of these colleges grows out of the fact that in most of them the enrollment is comparatively small." Maryville is the largest independent liberal arts college in Tennessee, and its enrollment is 800. The tendency even in the larger universities is to smaller units. A college must be large enough to provide a program of "ideal proportions or worthy standards." Nevertheless, the small institution has the advantages of allowing general participation in chool affairs, acquaintance and personal touch with the faculty and student body, and the opportunities for building a strong institutional spirit and conducting a unified program.

III. "The third distinctive service of which I shall speak is this: these colleges are uniquely fitted to associate the development of character with the development of intelligence." The most of the liberal arts colleges were founded by the church, and a majority of them are still connected with it in some way. They are small enough to make the development of character a part of the official program, through reli-

(Continued on page four)

Debate Season Draws To Close With Final Try And Convention

Speakers Chosen In Preliminary Contests To Rrepresent School

Early last Wednesday morning Prof. Queener and four debaters started on a debating trip through Kentucky with debates scheduled with Trannsylvania, Berea, and Georgetown College. The boys' team, consisting of Benjamin Groves and Arthur Lazell, will debate at all three colleges, while the girs, Maria Wynn and Ercelle Hunter will debate at Trannsylvania and Berea. Prof. Queener and the teams are expected to return to Maryville tonight.

Maryville's debate season has been successfully filled, with a total of twelve debates completed and five additional debates scheduled, not including the Convention contests. On Thursday morning, March 15 Maria Wynn and Florence Hyde upheld the affirmative side of the Pi Kappa Delta question at Tennessee-Wesleyan College in a chapel non-decisional debate. On March 20, a triangular debate was held with the women's teams of Milligan and Tusculum Colleges, the decision given by Dr. Hunter as critic judge for the two visiting teams. At that time Maryville's two travelling teams evened scores by losing one decision and winning one. On Saturday night, March 25 Maryville's men, Douglas Carhart and James Smith, met a travelling team from the University of Dayton, Dayton, Ohio, in an Oregon Plan debate. Prof. Tresidder of U. T. acted as the critic judge, deciding in favor of the Dayton men. The last debate was held on March 28, when Andrew Newcomer and Robert Stevenson debated against Michigan State College in a non-decisional contest.

In the tryouts held on Friday, March 24 for the contestants for the Provincial Convention the following representatives were chosen: men debaters: Arthur Lazell, Benjamin Groves, Earle Crawford, and James Smith; women debaters: Ercelle Hunter and Maria Wynn; extemporaneous speakers, Elizabeth Duncan and Andrew Newcomer; orators, Florence Hyde and Arthur Lazell; after dinner speaker Robert Stevenson.

The Convention to be held on April 7 and 8 will close the debate season for the varsity teams. However, the freshman contests are held in April with the frehman boys' teams debating against the University of Tennessee, and the girls meeting teams from Tusculum College.

Well-Known Contralto To Appear on Maryville Lyceum Platform Soon

Kathryn Meisle Is Hailed As Eloquent Successor of Schumann-Heink

Kathryn Meisle, American contralto who has starred with the Chicago, San Francisco, and Los Angeles Opera Companies, will appear at Voorhees Chapel on April 24 as the third number on the Maryville College Lyceum program for this season.

An artist who has acquired a reputation in opera is not always successful on the concert platform, and it is rare to find one equally prominent in both fields. Miss Meisle is one of those unusual artists whose ability has accorded her a place not only as a leading operatic star, but as one of the finest concert singers.

In opera, in song recital, in oratorio, with orchestra, and in festivals of music, Miss Meisle has acquired

(Continued On Page Four)

Interracial Commission Will Hold Conference During Easter Holidays

Students From Several Nearby Colleges Will Gather At Morristown

A pleasant and profitable Easter vacation is being planned by a number of Maryville students, who will attend the week-end conference of the East Tennessee Student Interracial Commission at Morristown College, April 14-16.

The subject of discussion will be "The American Economic System and Its Effect on Minority Groups." Rev. T. B. Cowan, a Maryville alumnus now connected with the Highlander Folk School, will deliver the opening address Friday evening. Other leaders at the conference will be Rev. C. Clayton, of Knoxville, Howard C. Kester, southern secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, and Prof. Herman J. Kloepfer, of Knoxville College.

The conference theme will be discussed in a series of platform addresses, open forums, and informal group meetings. The Easter sermon will be on the topic, "Christianity in the Social Order".

Music, recreation, and worship will serve to make the conference a balanced one. A reading room will provide information on all phases of the interracial movement and interesting reading from Negro authors. A very special feature of the conference set-up will be a collection on paintings by Negro artists.

Delegations to the confernce will represent Maryville College, Knoxville College, the University of Tennessee, Tusculum College, and the host institution. Maryville's quota of delegates is not quite full. Any student who wishes to go may make arrangements early next week with Jerry Carter or Roberta Robison.

Y. W. C. A. TO HOLD TWILIGHT SERVICE

A twilight service will be held by the Y.W.C.A. at 5 o'clock Sunday afternoon instead of the regular early meeting. The topic for the program is "Are Our Standards Stagnant-" The speakers will be Geraldine Smith, Thelma Iles, and Ellen Macrae. Catherine Morrow will lead the devotional part of the program. Marie Carlson and Mildred Purviance have charge of special music.

Bernard Mattingly will be in charge of the next issue of the Echo, to appear April 15.

Fred Hope, Leader Of Frank James Industrial School, Visits College

Former Maryvillian Presents Interesting African Customs

On Wednesday, March 29th, the drive for the Fred Hope Fund was launched at Maryville College with the appearance of Fred Hope at the chapel exercises.

This drive is for the purpose of raising funds by student subscriptions for the use of Mr. Hope in the Frank James Industrial School in Elat, Kameroun, West Africa. Mr. Hope, a graduate of Maryville College, class 1906, went to the Kameroun in 1907. He visited Maryville College on one of his twelve month furloughs about four years ago, but his present furlough may be, of necessity, prolonged, for Mr. Hope is not in the best of physical strength. His daughter, Arta Grace, is a member of the class of '34, and his daughter, Elizabeth, is a member of the class of '36.

Although preceding missionaries had taught the Gospel, Mr. Hope was the first missionary to teach the natives how to work as well as to teach them the Gospel. The Frank James Industrial School, of which Mr. Hope is the superintendent, gives vocational training to the natives, enabling them to employ up-to-date skilled methods in the making of furniture and pottery. The differences between the primitive and modern methods of transportation and labor, the comparison of Elat with neighboring villages, and the vast number of people influenced by the Elat missionaries, besides numerous customs and costumes impressed those who saw the moving pictures in the chapel on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Hope in his various addresses spoke very interestingly on the lives and customs of these peoples. The final lecture on Thursday morning was followed by the distribution of subscription cards to the students.

Y. M. C. A.

Dr. Elliott, a well-known young minister from Knoxville will be the speaker at the regular Y. M. C. A. meeting this Sunday. Many students on the Hill know him personally, and will be glad of the opportunity to hear his message. Dr. Elliott was an outstanding personality in the Retreat held at Tallassee Springs last fall. Men are urged to be present.

FEATURE

(By Orr)

We had an interview with Herman the other day. Neither we nor Herman knew that he was being interviewed; we simply thought we were having an interesting conversation as we watched Herman pour out the mayonnaise into the glasses. But we were told to write a feature and since we aren't able to snatch any of those elusive featuristic ideas out of the air, we've had to resort to putting a part of our chat in print, in which a mere chat assumes the proportions of a dignified interview. We hope Herman won't find this bit of free publicity distasteful! We hope rather that he will like it and perhaps—that he will reward us sometime with an extra biscuit.

Now Herman, in case you haven't guessed already, is one of those worthy colored gentlemen who wields the rolling pin at Pearsons. Herman has worked at Pearsons two years. More than that he says he would enjoy his work except that cooking all day takes his appetite away. We noticed, though, that he doesn't look particularly emaciated or undernourished. Whatever his occupation may have done to his appetite, it has not affected his genial dispositions, for he was quite patient with us when we fired our questions at him.

If you are an analytical or an arithmetical turn of mind, you may be interested in some of the things we learned during our talk with Herman. For instance, did you know that every morning, except Sunday, betwewen a thousand and fifteen hundred biscuits are baked for these hungry Pearsons diners? We can hardly imagine so many biscuits all in a pile. If they were put out in a row they would probably reach as far as—well—as far as that many would reach.

Were you aware, too, that a wholesale slaughter takes place every Friday morning? If baked chicken is on the menu for Sunday dinner, from eighty-five to a hundred chickens lose their heads. If fried chicken is in order 110 or 120 or perhaps even 130 are sacrificed to appease our lusty appetites.

And soup! It takes fifty gallons, not quarts, to go around when soup is on, not to mention ten gallons of mayonnaise for our salad and forty heads of lettuce for Saturday night suppers.

There are some things, of course, which we forgot to ask about. We didn't remember to inquire about the number of gallons of ice cream required, or the number of loaves of bread used daily. And strange to relate, the "old lady" (molasses to the uninitiated) slipped our minds entirely, but we'll leave those for another time.

All this talk has made us hungry. That is well, for our task is done and the supper bell is ringing.

Provincial Convention Of Pi Kappa Delta To Be Held Here The Latter Part Of Next Week

Seven Colleges To Be Represented In Coming Forensic Contests

The bi-annual Provincial Convention of Province 13 of Pi Kappa Delta will be held on Maryville campus the 7th and 8th of April. Prof. Queener, who is governor of this particular province will be in charge. Seven colleges of the Province of Kentucky will be represented at the Convention. They are: East Tennessee Teachers College, Tusculum College, and Maryville, in Tennessee, and Georgetown College, Transylvania College, Centre College in Kentucky and Franklin College in Indiana. In addition to these schools Milligan College, which is now making application for a chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, has been invited to attend.

The sixty-five delegates who are expected, will be entertained at the Montvale Springs Hotel. The official headquarters of the convention, however, will be in the college debate room in Thaw Hall. The various delegates will enter contests in debate, extemporaneous speaking and oratory. The debating subject for this year is the Cancellation of War Debts. There will be eleven men's debates teams, Maryville being represented by two men's teams, Franklin College by three, and all other colleges by one team each. Women debaters compose eight teams dbaitng the same subject.

Subjects for the extemporaneous speaking contest are: Industrial Planning for the men's contests, and Advertising for the women's. Contestants in oratory are not under any restrictions as to subject matter.

Competent judges, several of whom are professors in colleges not represented in the convention, will be present. Dr. Emperor and Prof. Argus Tresidder from the University of Tennessee, Prof. Barr Miller from Knoxville ollege, and Prof. E. W. Sydnor from Carson-Newman College will act with the coaches of the several teams in judging. It is expected that H. Dana Hopkins from Heidelberg College, Tiffin, Ohio, president of the national fraternity of Pi Kappa Delta, and Prof. S. R. Toussaint from Monmouth College, Monmouth, Illinois, vice-president of Pi Kappa Delta will also be present.

The Convention will open at 8:30 on Friday, April 7th. After registration and necessary arrangements are made debate contests will be opened. Four rounds of debates are scheduled for Friday, the decisions for debates not announced until after the third round. The debate contest will be continued Saturday morning and the extemporaneous speaking and oratorical contests will follow.

A distictive attraction of this year's Convention is the after dinner speaking contest. This will take place immediately following the banquet at Montvale Springs Hotel on Friday evening. The general subject for the contest will be Competitive Speech, each speaker being allowed to choose any phase of this subject he wishes.

Pi Kappa Delta holds national conventions and provincial conventions in alternate years. Last year the national convention was held at Tulsa, Oklahoma. Maryville was represented with the girls' teams having reached the semi-finals in the last provincial convention held at Centre College.

College, the first school to be granted a charter in Tennessee, was ad a Pi Kappa Delta ce 1922. Since installa- attained a membership

Expression Department Gives First Recital In Chapel, Sat., April 8

Variety and Innovation Characterize Forthcoming Presentations

"Smilin' Through" will be presented as this year's first recital of the Expression Department on Monday evening, April 10. The play will be rendered in readings, acted scenes, and songs by members of the graduating class.

This season marks an innovation in the type of recitals given by the Department of Expression. Programs are planned which will reveal the balanced nature of the expression course, which emphasizes acting and stage management as well as dramatic reading. Every member of the class will have some part in each recital. The plan is an especially good one this year, as an unusually large class is being graduated.

The program of "Smilin' Through" is as follows:

Reading of Act I.—Ruth Brocious

Act II.—The Cast

Moonyeen—Jean Campbell
Mary Ruth—Ruth Boyd
Ellen—Jessie May Ramsey
John—Wesley Culver
Jeremiah—Michael Testa

assisted by Herr Wissler, who plays the part of Dr. Owen.

Reading of Act III, scene 1.—Ruth Brocious

Act III, scene 2.—The Cast

Moonyeen—Jean Campbell
John—Wesley Culver

Roberta Robison is chairman of the stage committee.

The second recital of the department to be given on April 21, will be a Shakespearean evening. Casket Scene from "The Merchant of Venice" will be read, and Act I of "The Taming of the Shrew" will be presented. Shakespearean songs will complete the program.

On May 15 a religious program will be offered. Wesley Culver will read a cutting of Channing Pollock's play, "The Fool" and a one-act play, "The Feast of Faith" will be presented. This play was written by Bertha Russell, a graduate of the Department of Expression. Sacred music will be furnished by Frank Neff.

The final recital will be on Monday evening of Commencement Week June 5. Readings from the play, "Friend Hannah", by Kester, and from Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth the Queen", will be given. A play written by members of the Writer's Workshop of Maryville College will also be presented. Miss Mildred Butcher will furnish the music.

Wesley Culver Cast As Death In Leading Role Of Senior Class Play

Supporting Cast Includes Some of Best Dramatic Talent

The Senior play, "Death Takes a Holiday", has been selected and the cast is almost complete. The dramatis personae consists of thir people, six women and seven With the exception of two serva an army officer, and Death, they all members of the Italian nobi

Death, who in his three-day upon earth assumes the title Prince Sirki, will be played by W ley Culver. Opposite him is Gra the leading feminine role, which be taken by Helen Thompson.

The part of the Princess, mot of Grazia, will be interpreted by Norma Spilatore. The Duke Duchess, in whose home the acts take place, are played by Ha Wood and Roberta Robison. The only son is Corrado, mortal su

(Continued on page four)

. Crothers, Pastor of the once Presbyterian Church , is being forced by ill- out of his pulpit for a President Lloyd is to is place on each Sunday ough Easter.

ant to climb a tree you at the bottom.

The Highland Echo

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

KAY CARPENTER - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
BERNARD MATTINGLEY - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
HUGH CRAWFORD - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
MAURICE MAXWELL - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, April 1, 1933

MODERN LITERARY TRENDS

Recently an article appeared in a leading magazine entitled "Five Years of Planning Literature". This article discussed a plen newly set forth to explore certain trends in social planning as measured by recent literature, which reminds us of such old sayings as "Tell me what a nation reads and I will tell you what that nation is", or "let me choose the books for school children and future society will take care of itself." Perhaps this stretches the point a little.

If we spent many hours perusing the pages of the latest books we might do well to hope it exaggerated. At least we would recognize the need of directing young minds to the older masterpieces. One wonders if there has ever been a time when the minds of the general public were more willing to accept and absorb the cheap and common than now. That brings us to the point of conjecturing as to whether the difficulty lies in the fact that the public has to swallow wholesale whatever the authors give it, or whether the people's innate taste require a certain type of literature. Be that as it may, if one were to judge by the usual subject matter and treatment in most of the present day periodicals, the trend of modern literature is distinctly not upward.

Many people would heartily object to that statement. Literature, they would say, reflects the spirit of the age; this age dmeands realism; realism is not supposed to be idealistic and lovely. That reminds one that some sage once declared that beauty is a point of view. Evidently, then, literary art today merely represents a differnt point of view. Values are judged, though, by the length of time a thing endures. It would be interesting to speculate on how much of the present day essays, short stories, poems, and novels will be on the shelves a hundred or two or three hundred years from now, representing our much talked about point of view.

American people would object to being rated over sex-conscious. Yet the acceptance of the unnecessarily suggestive is quite universal. One would think that it was becoming impossible to deal with life situations in a wholesome way judging by the efforts of the Lewises, Dreisers, and others. Concentrate for a moment on the sordidness in "An American Tragedy", "Ann Vickers", "Elmer Gantry", "Good Earth", and "Scarlet Sister Mary", two of them acclaimed Pulitzer Prize novels. Such books compared with established literature seem cheap. One almost gets to the point where he enjoys simple refreshing tales even though his literary sense might be offended.

We are not discrediting the entire field of recent American fiction. We are just remarking that this type of thing seems at the present to dominate, and that, after all there are wholesome things and people with pleasant, healthy attitudes toward life. Why doesn't someone choose these to write on for a while?

Of course, we can't suggest that you go out and write a novel. However, popular demand does largely determine the trend of literary material. Perhaps, then, the fault is ours.

It might be interesting for the indivivdual to make a five year literative plan to meet personal needs. Appreciation of the best is a matter of cultivation.

ONCE IS ENOUGH

Seems as though the best subject for an editorial at this point in the week is the general one of appreciation. Maybe we ought to throw understanding in on that. The thing we have in mind is lack of knowledge on the part of most of us of what goes into the making of many things we use daily and thoughtlessly.

Which beginning makes as wish we hadn't lost one editorial and found it quite necessary to discard a couple of others. However, we become compelled to make up our minds on some editorial subject, good or bad, immediately, so we continue.

What is particularly on our minds is the editing of newspapers. Yea verily, what a job that is! This week's editor labored under the illusion that she had at least a remote understanding of the various things that go into the making of a paper. But after suffering the always trite "trials and tribulations" of ye olde editor, she has come to the conclusion that what she knew was—nothing—nothing. For instance, it seems as though the oustanding impressions of a week of editorship should be of a week of orderly systematic writing and collecting of news. But— the main impressions turn out to be sleepless nights, lessonless days, foregone meals, cut classes, lost copy, (maybe all editors aren't absentminded) ditto temper, late material, and general blessings out. On second thought we feel we might throw the weather in on that, although we haven't been in the least aware of it.

The collecting of news, it seems, is by no means the only item in newspaper making. There is the dummy to be made, proof to be read, reporters to be teased along into turning in articles, and then, cutting numerous other things, headlines to be written. If we weren't particularly hopeful that few people know about those, this week, we would take time off and tell you a thing or three about them. It is a mystery why more editors aren't crazy.

But the effect of this very insufficent summary appears to be the descending of the writer into general gloom. So perhaps we had better put off further explanations and exhortations on appreciation 'till a happier day. We can't help being didactic enough to say don't criticize your college paper too often and thoughtlessly. We are firmly resolved never to be guilty of such an offense again.

And now, lacking time to compose a profound and convincing conclusive paragraph we feel like putting on a postscrip, explaining that this is a sort of filler-in. But sensible editors would never do that, so neither will we.

OBSERVATIONS

We go back to the good old system this week of working for someone else. We find after this much experience that Miss Carpenter makes an excellent boss. . . . we haven't seen her yet.

—O—

What we'd like to see is Bobbie Paxton on the mound and this fellow they call "Squirt" tossing them back to him before the baseball season ends. After having a good taste of midget battery work, we'd like to go a step further . . . although we are not sure you can improve on the Graf-Park combination.

—O—

Incidentally, or by the way, either, (one's as trite as the other) we'd like to inform the Graf that Miss Gamble wasn't on the sidelines when he was pulling some of the Psychology line of his. We haven't checked up on Dr. Fields yet.

—O—

Herb Dunning tells the best one for this week. Herbie had a little M. S. found not in a bottle which he wanted copied, and he assigned Bryan Payne (synonym for ego) to do it for him. Payne asked the writer how long it should take. He (not Payne) figuring on the basis of his own ability allotted a theoretical two hours and a half at which suggestion Bryan made the contract. The rest of the story as told by the above Duning is that Payne began at 9:30 and labored far into the night and on into the morning until 4. The he went to bed ad saw daylight next just before dinner when the roommate got back from morning classes. Herb got the manuscript; he went after it.

—O—

One day last week the tennis courts were marked off for the first time. The same day we counted a number of Carnegians on the court with street shoes on to initiate the new season. As a result of this thoughtless practice, the courts are badly cut up at the first of the season and will remain in poor shape all summer. We'd like to suggest that the same rules be put on all courts on the campus even if it might mean digging down in someone's jeans for enough money to purchase tennis shoes.

—O—

If you find difficulty in reading any of this we have a reason all ready for you. The horn below is on its 17 hour run, and we're trying to keep time to it. Yes, it's the same horn.

—O—

We think we're at the bottom of this examination change. Dr. Lloyd and his hirelings had to have the thing divided into three parts. From our early season results in examinations, not excluding English Literature, we'll be hoping that the three parts aren't equal. Not so, we hear with C. Beale who woke up just in time to take the test. . . .and also, in time to hit it right.

—O—

That Beale business reminds us of a practical remark of the Senator of a few days ago, when someone in our presence mentioned Josephine in connection with Hunter. Beale assumed that look so much similar to his usual countenance (not conscious) and finally asked who Josephine was. When told, Chuck came back with. . . "Oh, Yah, I thought her name was Miss!"

—O—

Someone wanted to know whether the i in "Big wind" was long or short. It matters little in this case as to length, since they both designate the same thing (you understand that Vick's behind all this). If you call it short i you can't miss it, and if it's long i. . . . well, we guess he winds. . . . yarn.

—O—

Right after last week's paper we observed that Bob Thrower had his throat bandaged. We didn't know whether Snedeker had become wild with that javelin again, or maybe perhaps Bill Britton from Knoxville way had taken the toreador in hand. It turned out to be only an innercent boil. Maybe Bob got a little hot over the matter . . . . what do you think?

A PERFECT HOUR

An interesting story appeared in the Macon newspaper some days ago. It is mentioned in this column because it illustrates so well the fact that men can easily be brothers given some intensive uniting force. Unfortunately such incidents happen rarely, and are of all too brief duration.

A shabby old tramp, seeking shelter from the cold, strolled into the social gathering at the First Presbyterian Church on a Sunday afternoon. He explained to those present that he simply had to get out of the cold. They gave him coffee and food, and then he saw the piano. "Would they like to hear him play?"

And humoring the old man's whim as one does in tolerance of the aged they said they would, with amused smiles. He played only a few notes until they discovered he played with the touch of a master. They begged him for more, and at the close of the afternoon asked him to return for the evening service.

He did, and after the service was over climbed to the choir loit and ran his old gnarled fingers down the pipe organ keys. White-haired and stooped, he bent over them, sounding the depths of human emotion in his harmonies. At first he seemed in a militant mood and played stirring marches. Then the atmosphere changed as the well known strains of "When You and I Were Young—Maggie" filled the church, The room was stil as death as the last note died away, and there were tears in the eyes of some of the most fashionable people present.

Rugged Scotch tunes came in quick succession. "If I were in a theater," said the old man between numbers, "I would play the Highland Fling."

"Play it", replied the minister, who speaks with a strong Scotch accent. And he did. People came in from the streets to hear.

Then the tramp's moods changed again—"Last Rose of Summer"—the organ fairly spoke. "Home Sweet Home" ended the concert. The crowd begged for more, but the ragged, pathetic, old tramp-musician was through. They crowded about him and found in the few short moments of fellowship that followed that he was 72 years old, and was without a home, relatives, or work.

He has not been seen since that night, but the congregation is still talking of the effect the beautiful music had on their hearts and minds that night.

NATURE CLUB

The Nature Club held a meeting Monday evening in the Zoology laboratory. The program consisted of an enlightening discourse on "Spiders" given by Chase Sheddan. Louis Krainock talked about that species of ants known as termites. A paper on bird migration was read by Glenn Hook.

McBrayer's Shoe Shop
Basement Carlisle's
5c and 10c Store
Representative Ed. Lodwick

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective March 14, 1933

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.
Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland

Organ Recital, In Voorhees Chapel

By Frank R. Neff, Jr., '33

PROGRAM FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 9, 1933, 4:00 P. M.

Hymn tune: Desert - - - - - - - - - - - - Neff

Prelude, C Minor, op. 28, no. 20 - - - - - - - - - Chopin
Overture (The Barber of Seville) - - - - - - - - - Rossini
Two Ballets from Orpheus - - - - - - - - - - - Gluck
I. "Dance of the Spirits"
II. "Air of the Wandering Spirit"
Scherzo (Symphony No. 7, in A Major) - - - - - Beethoven

Ase's Death, op. 46, no. 2 - - - - - - - - - - Greig
Humoresque, op. 101, no. 7 - - - - - - - - - - Dvorak
He Was Despised (The Messiah) - - - - - - - - - Handel
Mary Elizabeth Cromer, '35, Contralto
The Heavens Are Telling (Creation) - - - - - - - Haydn

Release

After so long a time
I have found thee, O God.

I have searched in the dark
Groping to find the balm that soothes deep longings,
Groping at the brink of an abyss
To find the peace that quells high yearnings,
Searching in the blackness for understanding,
Searching through the despair of failure
For faith!

I longed for death in the darkness,
I raised blind eyes, sending a prayer from the depths
For release!

Then love reached down from far off heights
Flooding me with warmth and light,
With beauty!

After so long a time
I have found thee, O God.
—Kay Carpenter

Strike me, Life, I dare you
Strike the vicious blow
Crush my castles in the air
Remake each friend a foe.

Lift your cruel black finger
Of pain and clouds and shame
Make my cup a bitter one
And curse my very name.

Dare to break my spirit
Kill this Hope divine
Life, I'm not a child of yours
You're just a child of mine.
—G. F. Greiner

The man who does not practice what he preaches is no better than a rattlesnake, who warns, then strikes.

All of us complain of the shortness of life, yet we all waste more time than we use.

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

Palace Theatre
NEXT WEEK
MON.-TUES.

Admission 10c and 25c

Buy your Picture Frames at
STERCHI BROS., Inc.
The most complete Home Furnishers in Tennessee
PHONE 666

SEWING AND HEMSTITCHING
New Low Prices for Spring Styles
MRS. BROOKS
ABOVE REAGAN'S CAFE

CRAWFORD, CALDWELL & McCAMMON
For Furniture and Floors use
"61" Quick Drying Enamel and Varnish

CLARK'S FLOWERS
For Easter...
Lilies, Roses, Gardenias, Orchids, Sweet Peas, Valley, Etc. Cut Flowers, Corsages, and Pot Plants.
QUALITY GUARANTEED—PRICES REASONABLE
Representatives
Jack Atkins, Teddy Willocks, Frank Clark

SPORTS

Vestal Furnishes Little Opposition In Practice Tilt As Scot Batsmen Pound Out Seventeen Hits

Pete Park Gets Credit For First Win of The Year; Stone And Creed Hit Home Runs.

The 1933 edition of Maryville's machine took the field Wednesday afternoon against an aggregation from Vestal, and emerged from the fray victorious by a top-heavy balance of 15-4. The affair was arranged between the two teams as a practice tilt, so the brand of baseball displayed was not at all an indication of the heights which can be expected later in the season. Even so, the afternoon was not a total failure, as the work of the Maryvillians looked exceptionally good refracted in the lesser light of the Vestal lads, who had seen only a couple of practices before the game.

The last mentioned fact was apparent more in the opposing pitchers. Neither Berry, who opened the game, nor Wilkerson, who relieved him, showed any indications of having taken the moth-balls from around the old soup bone yet. The old apple didn't want to act up any, and that extra ounce of speed reserve was nowhere to be found.

Enemy fielding was also a contributing factor to the ease with which the Scots were able to breeze home. No less than seven errors were committeed by the opponents, some of them at critical moments which allowed several scores which otherwise must have gone ungarnered. But weakest of all were the Vestal boys at the platter. This is stated with no discredit to them, as it has already been said that practice their has been almost nil.

Highlander bats were not so idle, however. The Scots, at an advantage by reason of a couple of weeks work and the resulting batting eye, smacked the deliveries of the two Knox county pitchers hither, thither and yon for seventeen hits; two of these, by Stone and Creed, were scored as homers, while a lusty clout from the hands of Russell eluded the glove of the Vestal center fielder to allow the Finklestein to score four bases while getting official credit for two.

Maryville fielding possessed cases in the play of West, at short, and Russell in left field. The pitching of Pete Parks, unorthodox side-winder left but one thing to be desired: the unfortunate occurrence in the second inning which caused Big

(Continued On Page Four)

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

We couldn't say for sure, but we have a slight premonition that it won't be long now ere baseball season will be here again. It's a bit too chilly yet for the slap of the bat and the thud of the glove to sound like the ole summer sport, but from the looks of things (Dame Nature's new finery, etc.), warm weather will soon be here again. Oh-Oh!

—S—

But there was nothing chilly in the way Petey Park slang 'em up Wednesday afternoon. Few and far between were the deliveries which failed to travel through the window. And that screwy stance of his had the boys swinging like the proverbial barroom door.

—S—

Brothah Howard (Banty) Kipp is dissatisfied (along with several legions of less important people, including the editor) with the manner in which this column is conducted. Asked to give birth to a Slant or two on his own hook, he merely desired to have Ye Slanter called a few dirty names. His Slants will appear in another issue (maybe,)

—S—

We're ashamed to keep recurring to the new tennis courts, but the surprises that its creators give us day by day are nothing if not worthy of comment. One day we see wire up, the next day it's down; one day we pools of water standing there, presently dust is kicked up by players. Which reminds us that, so far as we have been able to ascertain, the honor of the first sets there goes to none other than two gals: Ruth Farlee and Helen Thompson. Whut aboot that, Senor Smith?

—S—

Gossip doth have it that Joe Woodard, erstwhile four-letter man of the Maryville campus, is now playing in the garden for Joe Engel and his Chattanooga Lookouts. And, continues said gosisp, he leaned into one the other day against Auburn and propelled the poor thing over the fence and far away.

—S—

The little fuss the ECHO raised the other week about U. T. and her meet with us didn't seem to do any good. The Knoxville papers reprinted bits of the article, and Britton gave out a statement that he had authorized Parker to offer the Toreador a meet, but nary a word has the Scot boss heard. Meany-meany!

—S—

A friend with an enquiring bent has noticed that the shanty on the north edge of the campus is being torn down, and has suggested that the demolition was executed in order to provide a suitable place for the first tee of the golf course we were promised last fall.

—S—

The great Finklestein busted a spear the other day. Although the javelin had plenty of excuses for cracking than the force of Russell's toss, we'll bet anybody a W.C.T.U. membership card against a government license to sell beer that this first material break is nothing if not an omen of the records yet to be broken this spring by the Loudon athlete.

Knoxville "Y" Comes To Maryville Tonight For Return Match

Champion Girl Swimmers Are Slated To Give An Exhibition As Added Attraction

The newly organized Highlander tank team comprised mostly of freshmen will swim against the strong Y. M. C. A. combination from Knoxville this Saturday night. Coach Crothers has been drilling his mermen for the past week in hopes of affording some worthy competition for the visitors.

The yearling swimmers gained some valuable experience during the season which should be of great value to them in future competition. Paddling their best against Knoxville and Chattanooga Y.'s earlier in the season, they managed to uphold their end of the scoring quite well. Those who will probably see action for Maryville are:

50 yards—Greiner, Bunch
100 yards—Greiner, Heinzer
200 yards—Shields, Lampe
400 yards—Shields, Lampe
Breast—Herries, Cloud
Back—Young, Bunch
200 yard Relay—Greiner, Obert, Young, Waldron
Diving—Obert, Shields

The spectators will have the added privilege of seeing a few of the Mid-Atlantic mermaids perform as an added attraction. The girls, who make up the Knoxville Y.W.C.A. team are entered in the Mid-Atlantic meet at Charlotte, North Carolina. Those swimming here Saturday are:

Reba Morton—Mid-Atlantic Record for Junior women—50 yard free; 100 yard free; 220 yard free; 50 yard Breast.
Margaret DePue—Mid-Atlantic Record for Senior Women—300 yard Medley swim.
Mary Elizabeth McCabe—Member of Junior Record Relay Team of Mid-Atlantic
Patsey Neal and Gladys Agee are the other members of the team entered in the Mid-Atlantic.

The competition will start at 7:30 p. m. and an admission charge of 25 cents will be made.

Collegiate Mermaids In Contest For Places On Teams

Five Co-Eds in Tryout For Examiner's Position

In the spring the young girls' fancy turn to thoughts of swimming, or so it would seem from the amount of swimming these lassies have been doing lately. Every night for two weeks the would-be-senior life-savers attended a swimming class over at the pool and at the end of that two weeks they took the life-saving test, given them by the already senior life savers. Out of the original number of 30, 9 successfully passed the test.

Five girls, namely, Tess Fry, Betty Woodwell, Virginia Davenport, Nettie West, and Dorothy Himler, are already hard at work in getting themselves prepared for the examiners' test to be given here in June. They already are senior-life savers and if they pass this June test, they will be eligible to teach swimming.

On this coming Tuesday, the girls' swimming teams for the point system will be chosen. According to report, the prospects for good swimming teams this year, are encouraging.

The boys aren't the only baseball sharks—we've got some pretty hard hitters among the girl base ballers. They've been doing quite a bit of practicing in the past two weeks and some of the girls have actually acquired the knack of hitting the batter's bat. A chance to show their acquired skill will be given the freshmen and junior-seniors, next Tuesday, when the first game of the girls' baseball tournament will be batted off.

"Spec" Moore Overcomes Last Obstacle To Garner Membership In National Honorary Athletic Fraternity

Long Distance Man Splashes 100 Yards In Required Minimum To Gain Coveted Honor

Clifton Moore, Maryville track ace, better known around the campus as Spec, has recently achieved membership in the National Honorary Athletic Fraternity, Sigma Delta Psi, the highest athletic honor that can be awarded an athlete at M.C.

Membership in the fraternity is the aspiration of scores of athletes, few in comparison make it; Moore is the sixth man from Marvville to be admitted. For four long years Speck has been out to "do or die" for a place in the organization which very few Maryville past heroes have been able to attain. Among other luminaries from M. C. who hold the golden key, emblematic of membership, are Gene McMurray, John Taggart, and Lea Calloway, all of whom are remembered for their top-notch participation in athletics here.

Four years ago Spec walked out on the field and tied the college record for the high jump. Thus started the track career of Spec Moore. All that year Coach Thrower had Moore doing the high and broad jumps. At the start of the next track season, some lucky intuition told Coach that Spec could run, and he did run all that year. He ran the mile and the two mile, lowering the college record of 10:30 for the two mile run to 9:58.4, over thirty seconds better than before. Last year he broke the college record for the five mile cross-country run, and this yar broke his own record with a new one of 26:45. At the close of last season he was elected captain of the 1933 track team.

Last summer Spec was selected to compete in the National A.A.U. tryouts for places on the Olympic team; the tryouts were held at Memphis. He captured second place in the 5000 meter run.

Sigma Delta Psi was founded in

(Continued on page four)

Tusculum Netmen Are First Opponents For Smithmen

Tentative Match In View For Wednesday With Business Men

The first tennis match of the year will be held next Saturday afternoon on the home courts with Tusculum College. The tournament to decide who shall compose the members of this year's team has progressed to the finals, with Johnny Phay and George Fischback as opposing factions. Fischbach has won the right to his final position by virtue of a 6-0, 6-3 win over Leitch, a 6-0, 6-1 victory over Haub and a 6-1, 9-7 win over Karnell. Phay has defeated Overly by a score of 6-2, 6-0, Hurst by 6-3, 4-6, 6-3 and Talmadge 6-4, 6-3.

A tentative match is in prospect for the team on Wednesday afternoon, with the business men of the town. This will be in the nature of a practice session, but should prove an interesting test of the team's power.

CORRECTION

The Sports Department of the ECHO wishes to apologize for an oversight of the last issue. In the account of the men who won their leters in wrestling the name of Louie Krainock, 145-pounder, was omitted, Krainock turned in a couple of good matches for the team, and was prevented from becoming a regular only because of his happening to fall in the same weight with Steve Boretsky.

In 1853, the slave holding states offered large rewards for Garrison, Whittier and others connected with northern newspapers that sponsored the abolition agitation.

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

WEBB SAYS:
If you want Best Results and Permanent Prints, bring your Films to
THE WEBB STUDIO
College Street :-: Maryville, Tenn.

Weyenberg Shoes $1.98, $3.00, $4.00, $5.00
Men's Suits $9.98, $11.75, $16.00
Wool Sweaters, 98c-$1.49
Hats $1.98-$2.98
BADGETT STORE CO.
"THE STORE OF BETTER VALUES"

COLLEGE CLEANERS
EASTER SPECIALS NOW ON
Representatives
Ada Williams Jane White "Coon" Creed "Teddy" Willocks

FREE...
One Dish Ice Cream for each College Girl presenting this advertisement to
ECONOMY CAFE
2:00 to 5:00 o'clock, April 4

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

EASTER FLOWERS....
Kindly give your order for Roses, Lily of the Valley, Corsages, Etc. to John Tope, Representative
COULTER'S GREENHOUSES

STUDENTS...
Get Your Easter Candies, Sandwiches Cold Drinks at the
Byrne Drug Co.
"YOUR DRUG STORE"

SUBSCRIBE NOW FOR YOUR 1933 CHILHOWEAN
SEE ANY ONE OF THE FOLLOWING PEOPLE:
Howard Kipp
Elizabeth Gillis
John McQueen
Dorothy Casseras
Marie Bailey
Robert Tripp
Helen Rusk
Charles Beale

ROXY THEATRE
KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE
FRIDAY—SATURDAY
—On The Stage—
"Clifford's Musical Revue"
A sizzling pepperpot of youth, personality and pep.
22 People including 6 dancing rockets and Rambler Radio and Stage Band
—On The Screen—
ZANE GREY'S
Greatest Story
"WILD HORSE MESA"
Special Stage Show Saturday Night 10:45 p. m.

Music Lovers Offered Twilight Concert On Tuesday, April 18

Modern and Classical Numbers Are Combined To Balance Program

The Chilhowee Club of Maryville will present its annual Twilight Concert in Voorhees Chapel on the afternoon of Tuesday, April 18. This concert, one of the features of the musical program at Maryville, is attended each year by music lovers of Maryville, Alcoa, and Knoxville. It is arranged and directed by Miss Laura Belle Hale, the Head of the Music Department of Maryville College.

The program for the concert this year is well-balanced combination of modern and classical compositions. Opal Johnson will play a group of numbers, including May Night by Palmgren. Ruth Henry, who was graduated by the Piano Department last spring, will play the Dedication by Schumann-Liszt, and the first movement of the Saint-Saens concerto in G minor. Mrs. Martha Burchfield will play the brilliant Schultz-Evler Arabesques and the Beautiful Blue Danube.

As a feature of the program Garnet Manges will play a modern composition by Ballentine, 'Mary Had a Little Lamb". This number is an example of humor in music. The well-known melody is played after the manner of Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert, Debussey, Wagner and MacDowell.

Frank Neff will give an organ number, Bells of Ste. Anne d'Beaupre.

Mis Hale will comment on the numbers as they are presented and thus add materially to the understanding and enjoyment of the program.

Undergraduate Recital

At the undergraduate Recital of the Music Department Tuesday afternoon, March 28, a wealth of new talent was displayed. Though many of the participants had not appeared on any of the Department's program before the quality of the preformances was high and the interpretations were refreshing.

Those appearing for the first time as members of the Department were Margaret Brient, Marie Carlson, Avaleen Hogan, Burton Toms, and Wesley Culver. Others on the program were William McCormick, Carrie Person, Ruth Flint, Opal Johnson, and Grace Proffitt.

BORETSKY HAS OPERATION

It is already a well-known fact on the Hill that Steve Boretsky, popular Maryville athlete, was obliged to have his appendix removed last Wednesday afternoon; the Sports department wishes to mention this fact, however, to report that his condition is excellent, and to wish him a speedy recovery.

'WITHIN THE LAW"

With the third play of the season to boast a murder on the stage, the Maryville College players concluded their performances as a group for this year, "Within the Law", a play offering opportunities for subtle and intense drama, was presented by a cast of veterans and amateurs, with convincing interpretation in all but several unessential details.

Lois Wallace in the leading role of Mary Turner offered an almost consistently convincing interpretation of her character. Her acting gained power in the last acts of the play.

Robert Borcer, cast opposite her, displayed a notable attainment of ease and polish in his acting since his performance in "Mary Rose" last fall.

Gordon Courteney, as the brusque police commissioner, and Ruth Boyd, as the confidence woman, were particularly good in caricatures of their types.

Earl Crawford's portrayal as irate father, and Jessie May Ramsey's interpretation of the salesgirl, though these roles did not offer a variety of emotional expression, were well sustained throughout.

The members of the cast which made their initial appearance in "Within the Law" were promising amateurs and indicate that the expression department will have excellent material to work with in the coming seasons.

The stage, which presented the difficulties attendant upon four changes of scene, was well managed. Shifts were for the most part made in the eight minutes or less.

Maryville Alumni Reunion Held At Theological Seminary

A report has just been received of the Maryville Alumni in New York which was held on February 18, 1933. Dinner was served at Union Theological Seminary. The place cards were miniature cutouts of Pearsons Hall, and the color scheme was orange and garnet.

Rev. Howard D. McGrath gave the invocation. After dinner Mr. Ralph Teffeteller was elected president for the new year, and Miss Sylvia Mayer was elected secretary. Miss Frances Brown spoke of the Self-Help Fund at Maryville, asking for contributions to be added to the fund. Judge and Mrs. Boardman invited the group to a picnic to be held at Nyewood, their home in Bloomfield, New Jersey, on Saturday afternoon, May 20, 1933. The meeting came to a close with old college cheers, led by Jesse Pierce, and the singing of the Alma Mater.

Those present were: Judge Samuel W. Boardman, Jrr. '96, Mrs. S. W. Boardman, Virginia Pearson Pierce '30, Jesse Pierce '30, Rev. Howard McGrath '22, Mrs. Howard McGrath, Jane Morton McGrath '19, Frances Brown '17, Bob Lockhard '26, Emma Brown Alexander '75, Vera Boyd '30, Ralph Teffeteller '32, Charlotte Messler Carr '21, Sylvia Mayer '30.

BAINONIAN ELECTION

The following officers for Bainonian Literary Society were recently elected and are to be installed Saturday night.

President—Ruth Brocious
Vice President—Helen Stuart
Secretary—Mary Cornwell
Program Secretary—Norma Spilatore, Marjorie Salmons
House Chairman—Ruth Boyd
Sergeant-at-Arms—Lucy Hasuer
Poster Chairman—Harriet Clark

SPANISH CLUB

On Tuesday, March 21, the Spanish Club held its usual meeting. The program centered around Mexico including a paper on Mexico, read by Virginia Wysong, and Mexican music given by Mimi Baez. An exhibit of Mexican articles was shown including a costume and hand-embroidery work. The meeting ended with a general shout of "Viva Mexico."

The geological survey says that in geoligic terms the period which has elapsed since the Colorado river began to cut the Grand Canyon is not determined very closely and an attempt to put it in years is speculative. It might be as much as ten or fifteen million years.

VESTAL GAME
(Continued from page three)

Jim Holloway to remove his foot from the bag, allowing two runs to count against Park which didn't belong there. But it makes no difference—as long as it never happens in a scheduled game. The pitching of Atchison, Gabbard, and Collins, who followed Park in the box was interesting as well as reassuring to the Scot followers, most of whom remember times when four Scot pitchers were hardly ever seen in one week, to say nothing of one afternoon.

The line-ups:

Maryville	AB	R	H	E
Kiser, 2b	4	2	2	0
Lehr, 2b	1	0	1	0
Russell, lf.	4	1	3	0
Kalman, lf.	1	0	0	0
Stone, cf.	4	2	2	0
Coker, cf.	1	0	0	0
West, ss.	4	2	1	0
Holloway, 1b.	4	2	2	1
Loessberg, r.f.	3	1	2	0
Atkins, 1b.	1	0	0	1
Granthamr, 3b	4	0	0	0
Creed 3b	2	1	2	0
Graf, c.	1	2	0	0
Clark, c.	2	0	0	1
Park, p.	3	2	2	0
Atchison, p.	1	0	0	0
Gabbard, p.	1	0	0	0
Collins, p.	0	0	0	0
Totals	41	15	17	3

Vestal	AB	R	H	E
H. Berry, rf.	4	0	1	0
P. Doyle, 3b.	5	0	0	0
Howard, 1b.	5	0	1	1
Huling, c.f.	2	1	0	2
Burns, lf.	4	0	0	0
Strong, c.	2	1	1	0
B. Berry, p.	1	0	0	0
Wilkerson, p.	1	0	0	0
Bodenheimer, ss.	3	2	2	3
Byrd, 2b.	4	0	0	1
Russell, p.	2	0	0	0
H. Doyle, r.f.	2	0	0	0
Totals	35	4	5	7

SPEC MOORE
(Continued from page three)

1909 at Indiana University, Bloomington, Indiana. Almost all the larger universities and colleges now have chapters of the frat. To be a member one has to pass certain requirements which are laid down by the committee in control of membership. These requirements are as follows:

100 yard dash—11:3-5 seconds
120 yard low hurdle—16 seconds
Mile run—6 minutes
High Jump—5 feet
Broad Jump—17 feet
Shot Put—30 feet
Baseball Throw—250 feet
Javelin Throw—130 feet
Football Punt—40 yards
Rope Climb—20 yds. in 12 seconds
Fence Vault—Chin high
Hand Stand—10 seconds
Front Flip—land feet on floor
100 yard swim—1:45
Good Posture—as passed by committee
Eligibility for varsity competition.
Three substitutions of varsity letters and the like are allowed.

Moore substituted only one for the hand stand.

Moore's time of 9:58.4 for the two mile run is in many cases better than that made by nationally known runners competing in 1932 championship meets. In the Southern Conference Championship held at Atlanta last year the best time of 10:52 was made by Lewis of Duke University. The best time of the Big Six Conference Championship 10:34 was made by Balser of Nebraska University. The best time of the Rocky Mountain Conference Meet, 10:5, was made by Pyper of Utah State.

Maryville College is proud to acclaim Spec as its leading athlete of today, and he will be remembered as a great one among the great.

DR. LLOYD'S SPEECH
(Continued from page one)

gion, selection of faculty members, provision for self-help.

IV. "I wish to say a final word concerning the fact that the liberal arts colleges render a distinctive and essential service to the state." By providing opportunities of higher education at a comparatively small cost, they relieve the state of the responsibility of maintaining institutions for this purpose. "Any kind of institution which exerts any large influence for culture, for personal development, for greater intelligence, and for right character, is of course, rendering a tremendous public service. And these colleges are doing it to a marked degree."

"Today there are in Tennessee 38 institutions of higher learning—34 for white people and 4 for negroes. Seventeen of the institutions for white youth are four-year liberal arts colleges or universities; 6 are teachers colleges, 11 are junior colleges. Six of the 34 are state tax-supported institutions and 28 are church-related or independent institutions."

More than half of the young people attending institutions of higher learning in Tennessee are in church-related and independent colleges and universities. Thus the service of the liberal arts colleges i apparent. "Without them the state would face an impossible burden at the present time. They are taking care of one-half of the State's college youth. They exist for that purpose. They have no other motive than altrusism. They seek no higher privilege than that of training and sending into the cities and towns and homes of Tennessee young people of intelligence, culture and character. This the independent and church-related liberal arts colleges will continue to do so long as they are given adequate freedom, encouragement and support.

SENIOR CLASS PLAY
(Continued From Page One)

of Grazia, who is to be played by James Lewis.

Two women, Alda and Rhoda, extremes from the character of Grazia, are played by Jean Campbell and Frances Mingea. Humor, which is rare in the play, is furnished principally by the Baron, a greyneaded old fossil who clings tensaciously to his youth. William Hannah is cast in this role.

Major Whitread, the army officer, is to be played by Reeder Carson. The parts of the two servants, Cora and Fedele, will be taken by Ruth Boyd and George Vick.

Stage managers are Ruth Boyd and Boyce Mahan. Leslie Webb is business manager.

KATHRYN MEISLE
(Continued from page one)

this distinction through her unusual ability and consistent succss. She is definitely etsablished as "one of the world's greatest contraltos."

Her voice is of that rare and fortunate quality known as a natural contralto. It is of great power, richness, and flexibility, which she uses with unerring judgment and fine control. Her rich tones have wide range, from G sharp below the staff, to high B.

Miss Meisle is a thorough musician, a gifted and versatile artist, who can sing equally well such widely divergent types of music as the compositions of Bach and of Wagner. Her charm of personality and sincerity of manner aid in making her one of the outstanding favorites on the recital platform.

A few of the characteristic press comments on this celebrated artist are significant. "I have never heard but one or two singers who could rank as her equal", says the critic of the New York World. "Reminded us forcefully of Schumann-Heink's grandiose voice in the prime", is the endorsement of the Chicago American.

When Miss Meisle first sang at the Newark, New Jersey, Festival the critic of the Newark Star Eagle said "Schumann-Heink at her best never surpassed the charming contralto's eloquent delivery of the immortal Schubert's tone poem." The San Francisco Call says "Meisle is the greatest contralto of the world today. The mantle of the beloved Schumann-Heink has surely fallen on her shoulders."

CHANDLER, FLORIST
For Easter Flowers
Corsages a Specialty
"COON" CREED, Representative
(REAR OF BYRNE DRUG COMPANY)

....smart
EASTER SUITS
$12.50

Smart, because of their pattern distinction; elegance of textures, nicety of cut and smoothness in models . . . smart to choose them because of extra value they represent.

CHANDLER-SINGLETON CO.
DEPARTMENT STORE

.... smart
EASTER SUITS
$13.50
April 16th
Is Easter

Just 14 more Shopping Days before the big Easter parade. You will be ready if you are dressed in one of these good suits from Proffitt's Men's Store. Authentic styles for both the College Man and the modest dresser. 5. Cleopatra

ALSO HART SCHAFFNER & MARX SUITS
$17.50 and $22.50
Proffitt's DEPARTMENT STORE MEN'S STORE

DRESS UP.....
Easter Inspires it
Styles Develop It
Values Induce It

BOB WELLS, JR.
Made to Measure Clothing
Next to City Drug Store

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 8, 1933 | NUMBER TWENTY-ONE

Miss Gamble Reads Paper Before April Meeting Of Faculty

Paper Based On Psychological Examination For High School Graduates and College Freshmen

At the April dinner of the Faculty Club Tuesday evening in the Home Economics rooms, Miss Helen Gamble read a paper on results of the Psychological Examination for High School Graduates and College Freshmen as it has been given at Maryville in the years from 1926 to 1931.

This test, prepared by the American Council on Education, is used extensively in colleges and universities, so that Miss Gamble was able to compare results obtained here with those of other similar schools. Her conclusions include these comparisons and reveal interesting facts about the scholarships of students here.

Miss Gamble investigated how well this test predicts success in college as measured by graduation, and found that only a very small number of those who made low scores have been graduated. Even among those who were graduated, there were no honor students in the lowest quartile.

One-half of those in the highest 5 per cent. were not graduated from Maryville, but two-thirds of this group asked for a transcript of grades to be sent to some other institution, thus showing some further interest in education.

The correlation of grade point to hour ratios for the classes graduated in 1929-1931 Miss Gamble found to range from .403 to .554, with an average of .50, which is about as high a degree of correlation as is found in the Council.

The correlation of percentile rank of the Council Norms and the point hour ratio ranged from .313 to .569, which is about as high as the averages obtained in similar studies.

Comparison of the median of scores obtained here and elsewhere shows Maryville College ranking lower than the Council Norms. This disparity has been lessened, however, since freshmen here have been selected from the upper two-thirds of the high school classes. Nevertheless, Maryville ranks higher than a good many similar colleges in this section of the country.

Miss Gamble was interested in comparing the differences in scores made by men and women, but was unable to find any uniform or significant advantage on either side.

Very few students make as high grades as are predicted by their scores on the tests.

The Psychological Examination for High School Graduates and College Freshmen seeks to test both native intelligence and accomplishmnt. Last fall it was administered to 41, 639 students in the United States.

STATE STUDENT VOLUNTEER OFFICERS MEET

The Officers Councils of the Tennessee Student Volunteer Union met in Nashville April 1st and 2nd. Fifteen officers and members gathered at Scarritt College to draw up plas for the coming year. Representatives from Maryville were Elizabeth Gillis, Andrew Newcomer, and John Talmadge. Elizabeth Gillis plans for the coming year. Representive to the National Council which meets in New Jersey this summer.

The Council heard, among other speakers, Dr. E. Stanley Jones in three addresses.

Y. W. Cabinet Luncheon

A luncheon given in honor of the YWCA president was held today at 12:30 by the Y. W. C. A. cabinet in the reading rooms.

The celebration was a surprise to Miss Frey, and was given in commemoration of her birthday which is tomorrow.

The luncheon was planned by Veta Mae Stephens. Souvenirs were small cardboard frying pans.

Live your love and it will need no interpreter.

Annual Easter Program Will Be Presented In College Chapel, April 9

Regular Vesper Service In Chapel On Easter Sunday For Those Who Remain On Hill

Due to the fact that many students will be absent from the college during the week-end of Easter, because of the spring vacation, the annual Easter Program of the Vesper Choir will be presented on Palm Sunday, Apirl 9. There will be a regular Vesper service in the chapel on Easter Sunday for the benefit of those who remain on the campus during the holidays.

The program tomorrow evening will be like the Christmas program in that there will not be a cantata, but a collection of selections from cantatas and special Easter anthems. Two of the most interesting numbers on the program are the beautiful Legend, by Tschaikowesky, and the Easter Alliluia, by Baird. These numbers will be sung a capella.

Other numbers on the program wil be: Awake, Awake, Utter a Song, by Case; There Was a Great Earthquake, by Phillips; They Departed Quickly, by Phillips; As It Began to Dawn, by Vincent; and Break Forth Into Joy, by Barnby.

Dr. Stevenson will bring the Easter message. The subject of his address will be Mortality or Immortality—Which?

The audience is requested to be seated promptly. After the benediction they are requested to remain standing for the response, which will be Peace I Leave with You, by Holton.

The Vesper Choir has spent several weeks of hard work on the preparation of this program. Miss Frances Henry, Director, says the choir is doing better work this year than has been done for a number of years. The members sing better together and seem to be more in sympathy than formerly.

Annual Fred Hope Fund Campaign Huge Success With $631.10 Raised

The annual campaign to raise funds for the maintenance of Maryville's Missionary, Fred Hope, was attended with more than ordinary interest this year because of the presence on the campus of Mr. Hope himself. He spoke in chapel on Wednesday and Thursday mornings, and showed an interesting film illustrating the work in Africa in the chapel Wednesday evening.

The subscriptions this year amounted to $631.10, as compared to $679.85 which was subscribed last year. The campaign is thought to have been unusually successful in view of the present financial situation.

In all there were 236 pledges made, most of them in small denominations of from one dollar to fifty cents. The total was swelled, however, by one gift of $100, another of $75, two of $25, and one of $20.

DR. AND MRS. SHINE HAVE LITTLE HEIR

Dr. and Mrs. Shine are now the proud parents of a husky baby boy, who arrived Wednesday morning, April 4. He is the first little Shine and has probably caused more excitement in the way of news on the campus than anything that has recently happened. The littl'un's name hasn't leaked out yet, but he is already affectionately dubbed on the Hill as Son-shine. What better appelation could a child ask than that?

A rousing cheer was given in chapel the other morning by way of congratulation. The Echo takes this opportunity to congratulate Dr. and Mrs. Shine for the entire student body.

At last Franklin D. Roosevelt and Ramsey MacDonald are to meet and exchange views on the general economic situation and the problems of disarmamet. Present indications are that Mr. MacDonald will sail on April 15th.

Miss Elizabeth Shugart Will Appear On Program Of College Glee Singers

Advance Announcement Indicates Unusual Presentation

From advance reports this year's Annual Spring Concert by the Maryville College Glee Singers will far surpass the successful one of last year. An extremely well-balanced program has been arranged; choruses, quartette numbers, and solos, both vocal and instrumental.

Prominent among the instrumental numbers will be the rendering of Mendelssohn's Concerto in E Minor by Miss Elizabeth Shugart, guest artist. Miss Shugart is the most prominent young violinist of Knoxville and she will be remembered for her artistic playing with the University of Tennessee Glee Club in their concert here last year as a Y.M.C.A. benefit.

Two modern American compositions will be given as piano solos, Rhapsody in Blue by George Gershwin, and Song of the Bayou by Rube Bloon. Miss Frances Henry will also sing a group of numbers.

As one of the features of the program the Glee Singers will present Strauss' famous and popular Blue Danube Waltz. Other numbers by the chorus of twenty-four well-trained voices will be Home on the Range, Gipsy Trail, To Arms, and Through the Years, an arrangement of material from Sibelius' "Finlandia".

The concert will be given in Voorhees Chapel on Monday evening, May 1 at 8:00 o'clock.

Maryville College Clubs Are Formed In Larger Cities

College Alumni Are Scattered Over Many Lands

Maryville Alumni are located in every state of the union, except one, and in thirteen foreign countries. In some states there are only two or three but wherever a group can be brought together, Maryville College Clubs are being organized. For some years there have been successful meetings in New York City, Chicago, Philadelphia, Cincinnati, Birmingham, and Los Angeles. Plans are being made to form a Nashville group and in a number of smaller towns in Tennessee, interest is being created, looking toward organization.

A meeting of the Maryville College Alumni and former students who live in Knoxville, was held on Thursday evening, March 30th, at the Park City Prresbytrian Church. About seventy-five were present and an organization was perfected with Rev. Theron Alexander as president. Mrs. Stella McCall Murray, vice-president, and Mr. J. B. Young, secretary-treasurer.

Roger Rusk was the presiding officer and introduced President R. W. Lloyd, who was the speaker of the evening. Dr. Lloyd spoke on "The Second Century of Maryville College," outlining some of his plans for the development of the college and urging the need of loyal co-operation from all former students in carrying out this program.

Dr. Fred Hope was present and spoke briefly. Mrs. F. L. Proffitt, secretary of the Alumni Association, spoke of the work being done by Maryville College Clubs in other cities. Music was furnished by an orchestra, under the direction of Mrs. Yervant Topalian.

The Knoxville group plans to hold regular meetings and a committee is working out some definite objectives, which will be presented at their next meeting. There are sixty-seven Maryville graduates in Knoxville and their organized support will be of inestimable value to the work of the college.

Dr. Elliot, Knoxville minister, who was unable to attend the Y. M. C. A. meeting last Sunday, will be the guest speaker there tomorrow. Dr. Elliot is an outstanding person, and is known by many students on the Hill. Everyone is urged to attend.

Dr. Lloyd Will Deliver Commencement Adresses In Neighboring States

Heavy Speech Tour Faces Maryville President

During the next two weeks Dr. Lloyd will have a very heavy schedule. He will travel in three states, Tennessee, North Carolina, and Alabama, and will speak at several high school commencements, and address the Presbytery at Knoxville and a Christian Endeavor Convention at Birmingham.

On Friday, April 7th he will give a commencement address in the high school at Sparta, Tenn. Monday, April 10 he will be at Walnut, N. C. for another commencement address. As the moderator for the Union in this section of Tennessee he will address the Presbytery on April 11. On Wednesday and Thursday, April 12th and 13th he will be attending the Tennessee Colleges Association meetings to be held at Vanderbilt University in Nashville. On the 20th he will speak at the commencement exercise of one of the Knoxville high schools. Birmingham, Alabama will be the next place where Dr. Lloyd will speak. He will be there April 21, 22, and 23. He will give four addresses before the state Christian Endeavor Convention and preach in three churches. Sunday morning, April 23 he will conduct the services at the Independent Presbyterian Church.

1933 Chilhowean About Ready To Be Placed In Hands Of Printer

Last reports from the editorial offices of the 1933 Chilhowean indicate that the annual is almost ready to be placed in the hands of the printers. A few organizations were not prepared to submit names of their members until this week, but all copy for engravings has at last been forwarded to the engravers.

The business staff announces also that Friday, April fourteenth, is absolutely the last day on which subscriptions may be placed for a copy of this year's work. Contrary to current opinion, a large deposit is not necessary in order to have a Chilhowean ordered. A deposit of fifty cents will be sufficient, the balance to be paid at any time between now and the time the annuals are delivered.

The price of the annual has been reduced by one-fourth this year, and those who have seen the editor's proofs of art work, cover design, and engravings have unanimously agreed that the 1933 Chilhowean is the best money value in the history of Maryville annuals.

Class and organization treasurers also join in an entreaty for the prompt payment of dues, reminding the students that the sooner all bills are paid, the sooner will the books be in the hands of their owners.

THETA ELECTION

At a special meeting of Theta Epsilon Thursday night, the following officers were elected:

President—Ann Trewhitt
Vice President—Marian Morrow
Secretary—Lucille Callahan
Program Secretaries—Jerry Smith, Marian Faulkner
Poster Chairman—Mary Elizabeth Harrison
House Chairman—Emma Marshall
Pianist—Ruth Doty
Sergeant-at-arms—Jane White

Installation of officers will be held at the regular meeting tonight.

Y. W. PROGRAM

Miss Lucy McGehee, pastor's assistant and director of young people's work at the Little Brick Presbyterian Church in Knoxville will speak at the Y. W. C. A. meeting Sunday afternoon.

The devotions will be under the direction of Elizabeth Gillis. Mimi Baez will read the invocation and the benediction.

Kentucky Province Convention Of Pi Kappa Delta Meets On The M. C. Campus Yesterday and Today

Popular Play "Smilin' Thru" To Be Presented By Expression Dept.

Ruth Brocious Who Graduates To Read And Other Members Of Department To Take Part

The first graduate expression recital of the year will be held Monday evening at 8 o'clock in Voorhees Chapel. The popular play "Smilin' Thru" will be presented in a program distinct from anything of the department in recent years.

Part of the pay will be read and part acted, thus giving the department opportunity for the display of more than one phase of its work. Ruth Brocious, who graduates this year in expression, will be the reader, and the cast for the scenes to be acted include both senior members of the department and undergraduates.

For use in the recital Miss Holland has presented a backdrop especially deisgned for this play.

The evening's entertainment will be opened by Miss Frances Henry who will be accompanied by Mildred Purviance and Carrie Pearson.

This is the first of a series of four recitals which are open to the public, and which have been planned this year along lines distinct from any of the previous years.

Depression Does Not Affect Enrollment Of Maryville College

Figures from the Registrar's Office indicate that the number of students enrolled in the College has not been affected by the depression. The total number of students enrolled in the college is 807. This is 14 more students than were entered last year and is more students than the college has ever had registered in th college department in the entire history of Maryville. In spite of the hard times the number of those who dropped out at the end of the semester was less this year than it was last year.

Of the total number of students Tennessee is well represented with 330, Pennsylvania comes next with 84 and then New Jersey with 53. Ohio has 49, North Carolina 40, Florida 34 and Kentucky 31. Seven foreign countries are represented in the student body. These are: Africa, China, Canada, Costa Rica, Japan, Korea and the Philippine Islands. An interesting fact is that there are only 13 more women students than men students. This is the nearest approach to an exact division since the World War.

Choir Girls Economize

As a matter of preparing for Easter and also as a matter of saving a laundry bill, the girls in the Vesper Choir laundered the choir robes last week. This work was done at considerable cost in time and energy and the ones responsible for it deserve much commendation.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The Chemistry Club held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening April 4th. Mr. Mims from the Alcoa Aluminum Plant gave an interesting talk on the History of Aluminum and the Processes by Which It Is Extracted From Its Ore.

At a recent meeting of the club the following officers were elected:

President—Henry Lowry
Vice President—George Deebel
Secretary—Ernest Caldwell
Treasurer—Winfield Glass
Program Secretary—John Smelcer
Editor—Edwin Greene

The next issue of The Highland Echo will be issued by Clarence Beale.

Lazell and Groves Win First Place In Men's Debate Division

The Provincial Convention of the Kentucky Province of Pi Kappa Delta was drawing to a close as the Echo goes to press. Maryville's number 7 mens team, composed of Arthur Lazell and Benjamin Groves, won first place in the contest by winning through the entire convention without a single defeat, displaying some of the best debating ever heard at Maryville. Second place in the convention was won by another Maryville team, Jimmie Smith and Earl Crawford. This team lost only one debate during the convention, being thus just one debate behind the number 7 team. A team was not disqualified until it had lost two debates.

The Convention met at Maryville yesterday and today. Eight colleges were represented in the contests. They were Centre, Georgetown, Franklin, Milligan, Maryville, Teachers, Translyvania, and Tusculum. A total of thirty-eight debaters were registered in the contests. Maryville had four teams and Franklin (Franklin, Indiana) had five. The other colleges had two each, one men's team and one women's team. In addition to the debaters five women were entered in the extempore speech contest, the general subject of which was banking, and seven men were entered in the men's division of this contest, the general subject of which was economic planning.

At the end of round four, Friday afternoon, the situation was as follows: In the men's debate Georgetown, Centre, Franklin, Transylvania, Teachers, and Milligan were eliminated. This left one Tusculum team and one Maryville team in the contests on Saturday morning. In the women's debate division, Tusculum, two Franklin teams, Milligan, Transylvania, Teachers were eliminated. This left two Maryville teams and one Franklin team in the contest in that division.

On Friday evening the delegates were entertained with a banquet at Montvale Springs Hotel. H. Danna

(Continued on page four)

Twilight Concert Will Be Presented In Chapel Tuesday

Miss Garnet Manges Will Interpret Modern Variations By Ballentine

The annual Twilight Concert presented each Spring by the Maryville College Music Department under the auspices of the Chilhowee Club, will be given in Voorhees Chapel on Tuesday afternoon, April 18. The program for the concert is arranged each year by Miss Laura B. Hale, Head of the Music Department of the College. All lovers of good music are invited to attend the concert as guests of the Chilhowee Club.

The program this year is of unusual interest. Both modern and classical compositions will be included. A special feature will be the playing by Miss Garnet Manges, graduate student in piano, of a modern number by Ballentine. This is a variation on the theme "Mary Had a Little Lamb", played in the styles of Beethoven, Mozart, Schubert, Debussey, Wagner, and MacDowell. Another feature will be an number by Frank R. Neff, Jr. Numbers on the program Palmgren, May Night, by Johnson; Schumann-Liszt, and Saint-Saens, first of the concerto in G Ruth Henry; Schultz- Arabesques, and the beautiful Danube, by Martha Burch-

Standing and enjoyment of ers will be aided by com- Miss Hale.

The Highland Echo

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITORS

KAY CARPENTER - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
BERNARD MATTINGLEY - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
HUGH CRAWFORD - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
MAURICE MAXWELL - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, April 8, 1933

BE YOURSELF

Why is it human nature to try to be something which we are not? Two of the biggest obstacles to being one's self are pretense and diffidence.

We are all pretenders to some degree. Which one of us has not gone to a movie and imagined himself in the arms of Clark Gable or playing the part of Douglas Fairbanks, Jr? Few of us can deny having indulged in such fancies. Pretense is alright up to a certain degree. Indeed it is commendable and certainly should be practiced by the majority of the human race. Like all things, however, it may be carried too far and soon become a habit. It is this type of pretense—the habitual kind—which is harmful to a student.

Not only is it harmful to the campus but what is more dangerous it is harmful to the individual himself. Many a college graduate has awakened to the fact that he should have been himself and not a pretender. The great harm of pretense cannot be adequately appreciatd by many. It is more dangerous than the Bolshevikk's bomb. At least the bomb kills the people while the others continue to exist.

Diffidence or the lack of self-confidence is the other fault which keeps students from being themselves. This is a serious disadvantage and unless combated in early life will lead to a real handicap in personality in later life. College is a place where students should find themselves. Certainly there is better place for a student to overcome his timidity or bashfulness. One way of doing this is by developing an interest in some outside activity and to become deeply absorbed in it. Every student should feel that he is a specialist in some field of work and should not be reserved and retiring in a discussion of his particular subject.

Certainly a college student has all the chances necessary for him to overcome his diffidence. With educational possibilities within his grasp he should take full advantage of his opportunities. A college education should be a privilege and not a thing to be taken for grantd. A college education should develop a person's abilities. He should feel that each day he gains some new knowledge—some new grip on life and in doing so he should feel his mental powers expanding.

Oftentimes a student feels that his work is not as good as another persons. He works with this idea in mind and in doing so submits his mind to an unconscious retrogression. The student soon feels that his work will always be inferior to that of others and if he is not released from this idea his whole career may be ruined.

Let us have a "College Clean Up Week" for pretenders and resolve that we shall develop an interest in life that shall make us lose our diffidence.

EFFECTIVE SPEAKING

The Pi Kappa Delta Convention has focused our attention on the use of effective speaking. Any one who has been fortunate enough to hear the debates, orations or extemporaneous speaking has felt that these collge students are really doing something worth while. They have shown us that competent speech is a matter of hard work and making use of all one's abilities. Which one of us has not felt deeply stirred by some harmonious phrase in an oration or by some subtle point in a debate? Not only the speakers but also the listeners have gained much from these speeches.

In order to attain to any value a speech must possess certain qualities. An effective speech must be clear, that is clear as regards perception. In order to perceive clearly one must be willing to explain these facts in such a manner that every one will know what he is talking about. In other words he is an interpreter of meaning and as such must satisfy the curiosity of his listeners. The point or argument must be presented in such a manner that even the least informed person may understand it. Impressiveness implies vividness, and this is a second necessary quality of an effective speech. Speeches must be impressive. The speaker must make his subject live by means of word pictures or vividness. Emotions must be brought into play and the listeners made to feel the actuality of the idea. Some speeches make us accept a belief. The speaker feels that what he is saying is the truth and he attempts to make his listeners accept this belief. He discusses the matter thoroughly— perhaps from two viewpoints— and then goes on to try to influence the audience to accept his contention. Action is another essential quality in speech. Action is doing, and this is the most important element of all. The others, clearness, impressiveness and belief are combind in action. Lastly some speeches may be entertaining or amusing. Pleasant feeling may be aroused, and sensations of happiness and self-contentment.

Certainly the values of effective speaking have been demonstrated in the speeches of this convention. We should keep these values in mind and try to become increasingly conscious of them both as speakers and as listeners.

On Thursday the Senate passed and sent to the House one of the most drastic legislative attempts ever made to overcome machine-age unmployment problems—a bill limiting labor in manufacturing industries to five days a week and six hours a day.

Observations

A NEW SLANT

Now that the new tennis courts are in shape, and that the great Wind has played a few games of tennis on them, we guess that Chuck Beale will have to look for something else to write sport slants about. We'll inform you people who neglect to read the sport page that you don't know what we're talking about. Nor do we mean to insinerate that we do at any time.

POOR POPOPTIC

We don't mean to do it, but we are borrowing a lot of good old cheap English from the boy just across the way. . . . Popeye. If it takes the correct vernacular to make a seaman we guess we, and all tee ohther comic readers qualiry. Many of our associates of the intelligentsia (note the implication) say that Popeye is the one comic in which they indulge.

I'LL BE A SUNBEAM FOR HIM

Little old Sunshine (seems like we have recollections of one of those from Barney Google days) made his way into the Shine home this week, managing to arrive on the day that we didn't havve English Literature. Most interest, aside from the business of 8 3-4 had to do with the name for the Newcomer. Gosh. . . . . Another! Names were suggested ranging from the man who stood on the edge of the prmeval ooze to a replica for the latest bootleggers latest son. Some of the most talked of were Homer, Dante, Agamemnon, Ulysses, Milton, and Achilles. We still like our suggestion best . . . . we'd like to see the little man named Beowulf!

PLAGIARISM!

A freshman apprentice was severely reprimanded last week for not qualifying her name with her initials, and the editor of last week's paper got rather told for taking our name in vain. . . . that is, as implying that we were the "Feature" writer of last week. We guess Miss Mollie better keep on the job . . . the idea . . . we think . . . of allowing the waitresses to talk to those cooks in the back room of the kitchen!

AYE AYE AYE

We don't mean to imply . . . . gosh, that word's getting a work out. . . . that the A.A.A. is composed of a bunch of yes men. That Presiednt Overley, and secretary Sparky Woodand have been quite dormant in the way of organization and general activity for the past week so we can't give you quite the latest developments. It might be that too much Cincinnati interferea with the President's official duties. The club goes under the more correct name (according to the constitution) of the A.A.M.T. . . . the Association for the Advancement o. Modern Thought. We have forgotten just now the capacity, but Harold Dexter Reno claims one place, as does the great Mimic man, Briggs.

NOT SO GOOD!

Nothing has attracted us so much lately as the Chattanooga college paper which was mentioned before for its mutliciolored publication scheme. Going from form to content of our neighbor paper we should say that the contrast is noticeable; that in content it is quite color. . . less. There is, on the whole, much more obscene language bordering on, and sometimes going beyond, profanity than is allowed in all other of our exchange news sheets placed in a lump.

ALUMNI

The twenty-year class is hoping to have a large number of their members here for commencement.

The names and addresses of the class of 1913 are given below:

Miss Christine Alexander, Metropolitan Museum, New York City
Rev. Robert Cross—Pleasanton, Cal.
Rev. George Douglas—Franklin, New York
Miss Ethel Fanson, M. D.—Pasadena, Calif.
Supt. V. F. Goddard—Alcoa, Tenn.
Mr. Albert Haynes—Telford, Tenn.
Mrs. Grace Jewell Mounce—Ferguson, Missouri
Miss Dale Johnson—Warren, Ohio
Mr. Lloyd Langston—
Mrs. Hattie Lester Felknor—Bement, Illinois
Miss Ella McCampbell—Townsend, Tennessee
Mr. Ralph McConnell—Maryville, Tennessee
Miss Ruth C. Newell, Maryville, Tennessee
Miss Reva Newman—
Miss May Nuchos—1101 K. St., Washington, D. C.
Mrs. Nellie Pickens Anderson—Maryville, Tennessee
Mrs. Miriam Rood Seel—Santiago, Chile
Mrs. Marcia Secor Klannon—Fairfax, Missouri
Mrs. Helen Silsby Cross—Pleasanton, California
Mrs. Mae Swanner Newberry—Nashville, Tenn.
Rev. Howard L. Weir—Malin, Ore.
Mrs. Olive Wilson Murry—Maryville Tennessee.

Mrs. Anderson or Mrs. Murry will be glad to hear from those who expect to attend the reunion in June.

The Class of 1923 has also for some time, been planning a reunion for their tenth anniversary. The members of this class are widely scattered and, of course, it will be impossible for all of their number to be present, but correspondence in regard to their proposed meeting has brought some interesting information to the Alumni office.

Mr. Herrick Arnold is in the research department of the DuPont Company, and is located at Elm Street, Delaware.

Rev. Roy S. Buffatt is pastor of the Presbyterian Church at Herrin, Illinois.

Miss Ruth Gamble is doing advanced study in kindergarten work at Columbia University.

Mr. James L. Jackson is a missionary in the Belgian Congo and is located at Bulape, Africa.

Mr. August Johnstone is Y.M.C.A. Secretary at Chattanooga, Tenn.

Miss Agnes Lewis is connected with the Frontier Nursing Service in Kentucky and is located at Wendover.

Dr. Roy A. McCall is engaged in the practice of medicine at Sevierville, Tennessee.

Mr. Arthur Milling is in the Government Teaching Service at Manila, Philippine Islands.

Mr. Howard Sullinger is practicing law at Bessemer, Alabama.

Miss Hazel Marie Nichols, '26, who has been studying medicine since her graduation, has recently been appointed house physician of Bethesda Hospital, Cincinnati, Ohio.

An announcement has been received of the marriage of Miss Helen Post, '05, to Mr . Fred S. Wright at Brownwood, Texas.

Mr. R. A. N. Wilson is doing mission work under the Presbyterian Church and is located at De-Soto, Missouri.

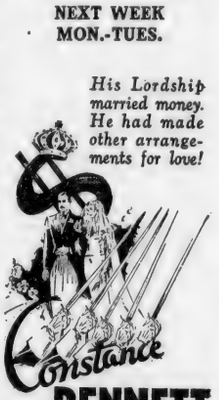
Rev. Clyde Wilson is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Sheboygan, Wisconsin.

The Class of '23 had sixty-eight members and of this number, only one has died during the ten years, Rev. Ralph Armstrong died in 1931 at Ecorse, Michigan.

Miss Irma Gamble, who happens to be the only member of the class in Maryville, will be glad to get in touch with those who plan to attend the commencement this year.

CONSOLATION

I rejoice; I have my certain place,
I knew this in my garden yesterday.
The rose spoke to the violet,
(And this is what she said)
"You are so delicate
And so small,
You must feel weak,
I, so exquisite
And so tall,
You must feel meek."
The modest little flower
Shyly shook from fright:
"God asked me not to tower
Nor to contest thy might
My beauty lacks not power
I need no thorns for fight."
—M. A. Falkner



Mount Everest, the world's loftiest peak, was conquered last Monday. Four Britons flew over the 29,000 foot mountain and took pictures 100 feet above the summit.

President Roosevelt has sent to Congress a far-reaching plan for refinancing farm mortgagees in a way to make the indebtedness conform more nearly to present commodity prices and carrying a two billion Federal Farm Bank loan issue with which to start it off.

BUY YOUR Easter Cards
.. AT ..
RICKETT'S
HUNDREDS TO CHOOSE FROM

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

Palace Theatre
NEXT WEEK
MON.-TUES.

in W. Somerset Maugham's greatest stage success
OUR BETTERS
With ANITA LOUISE
GILBERT ROLAND
CHARLES STARRETT
Directed by George Cukor
David O. Selznick, exec. producer
RKO-RADIO Picture

McBrayer's Shoe Shop
Basement Carlisle's
5c and 10c Store
Representative Ed. Lodwick

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective March 14, 1933

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland

Buy Your Automobile Tires from
STERCHI BROS., Inc.
"The tire with an unlimited gua antee bond"
PHONE 666

STUDENTS...
April 15 is the last day to subscribe for the CHILHOWEAN
See the Represenative in your Hall
SUBSCRIBE NOW

CRAWFORD, CALDWELL & McCAMMON
For Furniture and Floors use
"61" Quick Drying Enamel and Varnish

Just an ECHO from
WALKER'S DRUG STORE
Maryville's Oldest Druggist
Thanking Students of Maryville College for their loyalty to us. With the hot days coming our TEA ROOM will be "The Place."

WEBB SAYS:
If you want Best Results and Permanent Prints, bring your Films to
THE WEBB STUDIO
College Street :-: Maryville, Tenn.

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

EASTER FLOWERS....
Kindly give your order for Roses, Lily of the Valley, Corsages, Etc. to John Tope, Representative
COULTER'S GREENHOUSES

SPORTS

Smithmen Display Near Mid-Season Form To Garner Practice Tilt From Maryville; Battle Tuscumlum Today

Netmen Take Six Matches In Seven; Quigley Drops To Staley

Winning six matches out of seven last Wednesday, M.C. netmen floored the village squad in the first meet of this season. Dr. Lloyd played the number one position for the townsmen, while George Fischbach headed the college octet.

Most of the college players displayed form slightly under mid season peak. Fischback and Lloyd played the hardest match, Fischbach winning, 3_6, 8_6, 6_4. Playing on one of the new courts, each sent his return shots skimming over the tape with a worrying cut or chop that refused to bounce on the yet soft surface of the court.

Match number two between Phay and Traylor was wholly lopsided in the first set, Traylor coming back in the second set to force Phay to 7_5 to win the match, 6_0, 7_5.

Haub won over Hardim of Maryville, 6_4, 6_0. Hard drives and clever placement shots ran Hardim all over the courts in attempted returns.

Talmadge playing fourth position won from Harry Norton after losing the first set 8-10. Norton's physique finally gave way to Talmadge's steady drives into the back court. Final score was 10_8, 6_2, 11_9.

Gillingham played an easy, sure game won easily from Gamble to the tune of 6_2, 6_1. Gamble was at a disadvantage, having been out for practice only once this season.

Hurst won from Jobe, Maryville High School star, in three hard fought sets, after dropping the first one.

Quigley lost to Staley, 6_3, 6_4, losing the only match of the meet.

The first intercollegiate match will be played Saturday afternoon with Tusculum College at the home court. Fischback will play his usual number one position.

SUPERIORS SCOTTIES

When last year's Freshmen, the present Sophomores, came to Maryville College in September, 1931, two important looking little red heads, appearing / everywhere together, were judged by the greenhorns to be twins. Even after it was known that the two were not brothers, it was difficult to distinguish between them. They had several classes in common, but were separated by their jobs on the campus, Homer McCann being a Biology Assistant, and Benjamin Groves, a book finder under the supervision of Librarian Ellis. Homer was let out to conquer the world with the class of June, 1932; in this year without him, Peter Ben has been too busy to become lonely.

The remaining one of this red haired duet is of an argumentative frame of mind. Ben started debating when a freshman, and, with the varsity team, has been slinging logic in behalf of his Alma Mater for three years. He is a Pi Kappa Delta man, being president of that debating fraternity this year.

In more than debating has the Groves voice been heard, for Benny is also a singer. For his first three years here, he was a member of the Vesper Choir, strengthening the tenor section colorfully and audibly. The Maryville Glee Singers have had him four years, in two of which he has been business manager.

This boy with the sunny end up has come to us from beyond the Ohio River. He is president of the Ohio Club this year. Some day, the town of Troy, Ohio, may hear of the local boy making good with his oratory. Our Trojan isn't certain at the present moment whether or not his rise is going to be from lawyer to judge to supreme court justice. He has dickered with several law schools, but one has, as yet, made him a satisfactory offer. Having done honors work in sociology, he may decide on any one of several channels into which to pour his talets.

Forty Men Report As Thrower Gets Cinder Burners Into Shape

Moore Beset By Freshmen; Meet With Vandy Pending

With three meets scheduled, one pending, and one still in doubt, Scot tracksters are putting on their spring wings and muscles in preparation for the coming melees. Coach Thrower reports more than forty men out, among whom, he is sure, there is plenty of promising material. He refused to make any predictions about the men most likely to hold the top positions.

Close competition is expected in the long distance run trials, although Moore now holds a comfortable margin over his opponents. The competitive pot was set to boiling when two freshman distance aces chose this neck of the woods in which to do their collegiate running. Gillis, who achieved mile fame at Stoney Brook school on Long Island, will be beating Time with his usual stride, which pulls him around the mile path in 4:41. Snedecker, who unofficially took second place in the five-mile cross-country last Fall, has had the distinction of taking third place in the mile from

(Continued on page four)

Scot Swimmers Drop Second Meet To Knox YMCA Tankmen, 51-32

Obert Outclasses Gibbons In Diving Contest

Paddling their way with speed and persistence last Saturday night, the Knoxville Y.M.C.A. swimming team showed superb form to win over the Scot tankmen 51-32. First places in the backstroke, breaststroke, and diving were taken by Young, Herries, and Obert; the free style and relay events went to Knoxville without much opposition.

The most interesting performance was given in the diving contest when Obert nosed out Gibbons in a series of graceful body maneuvers. Gibbons was in state competition last year, but suffered a leg injury and since has been forced to withdraw from such competition.

Exhibition splashing was carried on between events by the Knoxville Y. W. C. A. girls.

GOLF COURSE SOON

The long awaited golf course is now almost an actuality. Plans are now being made to mow the fairways. The greens, however, will have to be improvised for some time. The cups and flags are ready for installation and soon Maryville will be able to say that it has a real nine hole golf course.

TENNIS SCHEDULE

Tusculum—Here—April 8th
Tusculum—There—May 5th
University of Tennessee—Here—April 21st.
University of Tennessee—There—May 12th
Centre—Here—May 20th—(tentative)
Tennessee Wesleyan—Here—April 29th
Tennessee Wesleyan—There—May 27th
Carson-Newman—Here—April 20th

Scot's Victory Over Hiwassee Packed With Errors; Contest Saved by Timely Hits Of Scots

Nearly A Re-hashing of Hiwassee Grid Rout Last Autumn

In a loosely played, but highly exciting game, the 1933 Scot nine opened their college season with a 3-2 win from Hiwassee on Wednesday afternoon. The game was chockfull of Maryville errors and Hiwassee "boners".

Pete Park again opened the contest for the Maryvillians, and travelled the entire route in first-class condition, never wavering except for a slice-throw to second which went a trifle wild. The mighty midge had the gentleman from Madisonville swinging like the proverbial cemetery gate as his screwballs and slow-balls mixed themselves with a few teasing curves and speeders to fill the visitors with confusion and consternation. The opposing pitcher turned in a creditable performance but poor support and a pair of timely Scot hits conspired to chalk him up in the loss column.

Perhaps the most interesting play of the game was a Hiwassee squeeze play which failed to squeeze when Park anticipated the trouble and tossed a high, inside ball to the batter which was too much for him to bunt. This resulted in the necessary two outs to retire the side.

Maryville fielding was much looser than usual, each player on the team, with the exception of three, being credited with errors, while several easy chances went ununtouch-

(Continued On Page Four)

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

We've had another criticism! Strange as it seems, we love 'em, since it gives us assurance that someone has either read this calumnious column or has held words with someone else who has either read it or held word—etc., etc.—all of which instills new hope in our bulging chest. But back to the criticism: we understand that at least one person is of the opinion that we are stealing the observationist's stuff (who said criticism?) in that we are mentioning the names of too many campus personalities who are neither athletes nor athletically inclined. We apologize—but reserve at least one Slant per issue for non-athletic material. And doesn't Bob Murphy write of pink teas? If you don't know, you should have been U. T.'s basketball team. Not to speak of Col. Allen's 1932 Smokies.

—S—

If you ever have an hour or so to spend in recreational amazement, don't read Ripley—take a trip to the Toreador's place of business out on the cinder path. If you're lucky, you'll get to see what we saw—Collins, the erstwhile linesman and grid behemoth, running the 440 yard dash. Folks, if you are now under the impression that a man of his specifications can't dash, you are gonna get the same foolin' we got—cause he can.

—S—

We nominate for the most nonchalant: Petey Park. After tearing around the bases at ninety per while running on a close ball, he takes a half-hour to get back to first base. As for a name for that shuffle of his—they ain't no such thing, chillun.

—S—

More thoughts while strolling, with the customary rates on apologies: "Finklestein's" tongue in cheek is not a result of modesty, folkses—it's about time for some co-ed to ask whether or not Honaker and Graf are brothers, or su'p'n—Coach Bob Thrower gives the most interesting address of any member of the faculty; why not in chapel—wonder what will happen when Jim Halloway pulls his foot off that bag in Hiwassee?—will Doc Shine remain with us long enough for young Shine to play right end?—or will the boys be taking up knitting by then?—we fear lest Karnell will slip one day and strike himself on his German Gaiter; OH-OH—we're stil fer a gal's swimmin' team—they have one now, but it's a sorta private affair—wonder if anybody'll read this far?

—S—

Playing for the Business Men of the village the other afternoon, Dr. Lloyd conspired with himself to give George Fischbach a real workout. Winning the first set, the doctah proceeded to take a 5_4 lead on Georgie, and a 40_10 lead in the tenth game. But 'twas here that Fischbach rallied, and won the match. "And", quoth Dr. Lloyd in almost these words, "'twas better so."

NEW COURTS OPEN

During the past week the new tennis courts in the rear of Memorial, started last summer, were opened up and they are now ready for use. At present anyone may play on them but as soon as they are broken in they will be used for varsity courts for college matches.

U. T. Track Heads Agree To Disagree

The probability of a track meet with the University of Tennessee is still in doubt. Rumor had it that Coaches Thrower and Britton had agreed on a date, March 92th, at which time Maryville had scheduled L.M.U., and that satisfactory arrangements had been made with L. M.U. for the change in dates, which would leave the 28th open for U. T. Then, more rumor, word was sent to Thrower to the effect that a meet with U. T. would not be wise in that the resulting antagonism between the two teams would be too great. When this supposition was waived, university heads petitioned for a meet on May 28, the Monday following the Saturday's meet with Emory-Henry College—in the meantime, Ernie Clark, U. T. dash man, strained a ligament in his leg. Coach Thrower wrote recently and offered Friday, March 28th, as a possible date for the meeting; the outcome has not yet been made public. U. T.'s reason for not accepting the first date was that the freshmen and various high schools would be there at that time. -- ---

TEAM ELECTS KIZER

Carrying a majority of four out of seven votes, Johnny Kizer was elected captain of the 1933-34 basket ball squad. Each letter man was eligible to run for the position; the other three vots went to

This last year closed Kizer's third year on the varsity squad. Plying from bench to playing floor and back during the first year, he played himself into regular position in the second year. Whirling, dodging, and passing with extraordinary speed, he has won this coveted position with his accuracy and consistancy of playing.

When basketball is a thing of the past, Kizer can be seen hurling the ol' horsehide around on the baseball field.

ECONOMY CAFE
Headquarters for Students

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

FOR EASTER
.. GIVE HER ..
Whitman's or Hollingsworth's Fine Candies
50c Up
BYRNE DRUG CO.

TENNIS RACKETS
$1.98, $2.98, $3.98
Others up to $15.00
SPALDING KENMORE WRIGHT & DITSON

We Restring Rackets
$2.50 to $8.00
WORK DONE BY EXPERTS

Presses 75c
Covers 85c

Spalding Club Balls 35c each, 3 for $1.00
We carry a complete line of Spalding and Wright & Ditson Equipment

GIVE AT Woodruffs
424 GAY STREET KNOXVILLE, TENN.

THE VOGUE
Pre-Easter Specials

DRESSES AND SUITS
A beautiful selection with all new fashioned trends
$5.95 and $9.95

SPRING HATS
In the smartest accepted Spring styles
$2.95, $5.95 $9.85

Chic Skiris and Sweaters
$1.29 and $1.98

Shoes for Spring
$1.99 $2.50
$2.95 $3.95

Children's Dresses
59c to $1.98

TRY OUR LAY BY PLAN

FLOWERS...
Are the only acceptable gift for her
EASTER
See JACK ATKINS, TEDDY WILLOCKS FRANK CLARK
Representatives of
CLARK'S FLOWERS
Opposite Methodist Church

WagnerAnniversary

Every day a thousand gondolas float up and down the Grand Canal in Venice, but rarely does ones pass the Piazzo Vendramin buts its passengers cast their eyes upward to the windows of that chamber on the second floor wherein one of the greatest personalities of history died on February 13, 1883.

The fiftieth anniversary of the death of Richard Wagner is being commemorated this year in proportions whose magnitude and grandure of which are befitting the memory of this musical god. In the vicinities of Leipzig and Bayreuth, the operas of Wagner are being presented by loyal disciples to enthusiastic audiences.

The most pretentious of the many celebrations took place in Leipzig his birthplace, on Sunday, February 12. Elaborate preparations were made, and formal invitations extended all the prominent personalities in European music, art, literature, science, and politics. The official stamp of recognition was given the occasion by the presence of Chancellor Adolf Hitler and several of his cabinet. After the memorial address, delivered by Prof. Max von Schillings, president of the Prussian Academy of Fine Arts, Karl Mutck, general music director of Hamburg, and the oldest Bayreuth apostle, brought to an impressive close by a brilliant performance of the Meistersinger Prelude.

In Vienna a performance of Parsifal under Clemens Krauss was hailed as one of the most superb ever given there. It was generally admitted that such a production could not have been possible anywhere else in Europe, except at Bayreuth.

The celebration in Dresden took the form of a memorial orchestral concert and a re-staged performance of Tristan and Isolde conducted by Richard Strauss. Tristan and Lohengrin have always been considered two of Strauss' most brilliant achievements of conducting, and his announcement before the performace that it was the last time he would conduct Tristan gave the evening a note of solemnity.

Besides musical services, there have been memorial exhibitions of unique relics connected with the life and person of Wagner. In Vienna the collection of Max Millenkovich icludes the multi-colored bandanna handkerchief of the gondolier, Luigi Trevisan, who used it to wipe the forehead of the dying master. A beautifully bound score of Das Rheingold bears an autographed inscription by Wagner to Brahms, which states that this score was in exchange for a few sheets of a manuscript of Tannhauser which Brahms had come into possession of.

In keeping with the ideas of her late husband Seigfried Wagner, Frau Winifred Wagner has decreed that during the summer the Wahnfried archives at Bayreuth be accessible to all serious students of Wagner. This collection of souvenirs is the most valuable of the Wagner collections, and contains priceless letters, notebooks, portraits, and copies of music.

These celebrations and exhibitions in memory of one of the most colorful figures in the history of music and the theatre have called devotees of the master back again to the glorious twilight of the pagan gods of Walhalla. This year marks for them a rededication at the shrine of Bayreuth, the sanktum sanctorum to the idolaters of Richard Wagner, where the spirit of the master lingers even today.

"Wagner's not long for this world", remarked a friend of his after hearing the first perrformance of Parsifal, six months before Wagner's death. "A man who could produce such a work as 'Parsifal' cannot stay long among the living. His work is done on earth. He is already among the gods."

WHEN THE CAT'S—

The most discouraging thing of all was the performance in the dining room on the day of mention. One had to wade in bread to get out of the dining room, and at the same time run plenty of risk of taking one on the head from any direction. . . and it wasn't necessarily bread! The utter juvenikty of the thing lies in the fact that the freshmen (we think this gets them all) performed in the complete absence of faculty [illegible] . . . . anybody co[illegible]

Tell the truth [illegible] me that devil; you [illegible] ise him very often.

A spoiled child [illegible] in and the world ru[illegible]

CONVENTION
(Continued From Page One)

Hopkins, of Heidelberg College, acting National President of Pi Kappa Delta, acted as toastmaster at this affair. In his speech he referred to Prof. Verton Madison Queener, of Maryville, Governor of P.K.D. Province 13, as "the "red hottest live wire" that he had ever seen. The chief purpose of this banquet was to talk up the National Convention of this organization, which will be held at Lexington, Kentucky. S. R. Toussaint, of Monmouth College, spoke about this convention. Prof. Queener, as Provincial Governor, will share the responsibility of preparing for the convention with the college which is to act as host.

After the banquet the After-dinner Speaking Conest was held. The general subject was Effective Speaking. The first place in this event was won by Carty, of Centre, and second place was won by Higgins of Georgetown.

After the fifth and sixth rounds in the men's debate division the only teams remaining were the two representing Maryville. As the Echo goes to press the outcome of the women's debate division is pending the seneyth round, which will be between Hunter and Wynn of Maryville and team number one of Franklin.

The contests not reported here are the finals in the women's debate division, and the outcome of the men's and women's oratory.

The last thing on the convention program was to be a lucheon at Pearsons at one o'clock, where prizes were to be awarded and officers selected for the coming term.

In the men's extempore speaking division first place was won by T. J. Mattingly of Transylvania. Second place was won by E. Firestone, of Franklin. M. Guthrie, of Franklin, won first place in the women's extempore speaking, and Frances Edwards of Tusculum and Elizabeth Duncan of Maryville tied for second place.

As Is The Calm

As is the calm
Of a black sky
Just now rent by lightning,
Or a shoreline
After the receding thunder of surf,
Or yet the bewildered freshness
Of an earth, not long since
Pounded into submission
By hard rain;
So is my soul
Since your passing
O wanderer!

—Kay Carpenter

SHORE, RENNIE

Rennie Tubbs feels that with a lot of good social psychologists at work we could figure out what's the trouble on that day, and avert some of the mishaps, not to mention so much ill feeling. . . ill feeling that is bound to extend beyond the first day of April. We don't know, but we have a good old feeling that if Rennie can figure that out to a solution, he'll make a better social psychologist even than a Dracula.

Let no man flatter himself that he cannot be spared; there are more people waiting to step into his shoes than he is aware of.

Chattanooga Champs Furnish Opposition At Home Pool Tonight

Tucker Bros. On Billet; Obert "In For Exercise"

When the Chattanooga Y.M.C.A. arrays its swimming champions in the Highlander pool tonight for the second meet with the Scots this year, spectators are in for a view of some real competition and expert swimming.

Listed among the brightest luminaries scheduled to appear are the Tucker brothers, who placed first and second in the state meet several weeks ago at Chattanooga. So far as diving is concerned, Chattanooga produces some of its own who are hard to beat for form and grace. Obert, diving ace for Maryville, is said to claim that he entered this event "for the exercise".

Harrise, who was barely beaten by a nose in the last meet with the champs, is hoping for better results in the breast stroke. The tankers will miss the lightning speed of Paul Young who will be unable to enter intercollegiate competition. Greiner again expects to pull the well-known bravery act of chasing the boys up and down the pool in the free style dashes. The Scot swimmers have had a slow season for the most part, but hope is high as this chance for redemption draws closer.

TRACK
(Continued from page three)

among some of the classiest runners of the country.

Hope sank a bit in the quarters of the dash men because Steve Boretskky couldn't carry his appendix and run at the same time, but Byar and his cohorts will be able to hold things down pretty well this season.

Lavender, Jess, Fisher, and Waldrop are clearing the pole at about ten and a half feet, with plenty to spare when under pressure. Woodling, Hoglan ,and Russell, the latter a college record holder in his event, are putting space between them and the jolly old discus. Information concerning other events is withheld at the presetn.

The schedule is as follows:
Emory-Henry—May 6th—Here
Centre College—May 13th—There
L.M.U.—May 20th—Here
Vanderbilt—April 20th—There
(Pending)
U.T.— In doubt

In spite of all the mistakes and tragedies of love, it remains the world's one vital thing.

Look your Best for Easter
Our Hair Cuts are sure to please
15 Cents
COLLEGE STREET BARBER SHOP
JOHN PETERSON BEN MARTIN
Opposite City Library

BASEBALL
(Continued from page three)

ed. Hiwassee fielding, however, was only a trifle better.

As a hitting game, the coolness of the air, coupled with a strong breeze, made the hits few and far between, both sides managing to score six hits.

The contest was close until the last inning, bidding fair to turn into a re-hashing of the Hiwassee grid spectacle, when the visitors pushed across a loot-quarter touchdown to snatch victory from the Scotties. Only an indecisive throw to fifirst by the opposing catcher enabled Russell to drive in home with the winning run.

The line-up follows:

Hiwassee	AB	R	H	E
Baier, c.f.	4	0	0	0
Reedy, s.s.	4	0	0	0
Davis, r.f.	4	0	1	0
Youell, 3b.	4	1	3	0
Westberg, 1b.	4	0	0	0
Rosenbaum, p.	4	1	1	0
Shelton, 2b.	4	0	1	1
Wright, c.	4	0	1	1
Sameson, l.f.	4	0	0	0
Totals	36	2	6	2
Maryville	AB	R	H	E
Kizer, pb.	4	0	0	1
Russell, l.f.	3	2	1	0
Holloway, 1b.	3	0	0	1
Stone, c.f.	3	0	0	0
West, s.s.	3	0	0	1
Loessberg, r.f.	3	0	1	1
Creed, 3b.	2	1	1	1
Graf, c.	3	0	1	0
Clark, c.	0	0	0	0
Park, p.	3	0	2	1
Totals	27	3	6	6

Triple: Shelton; Double: Russell, Base on Ball, Rosenbaum 2; Umpire Clemens.

Sophs Swat Junior-Senior Combination In Indoor Tilt

Sophomore women added another win Friday to their string of interclass victories when the indoor baseball ninette swamped the Junior-Senior base runners 51-17. So far, the Sophomores lead the field in women's sports this year. They have yet to play the Freshmen, who recently won over the Junior-Senior team by one point. Mary Gillingham was high scorer in Friday's game.

I call my girl Hinge because she's something to adore.

WHO'S RIGHT

There seems to be quite a difference of opinion among the campus folk as to whether the April Fool jokes on the campus are funny. We rather observed that the division line seemed to be somewhere near the division line between the faculty members and students—'though not exactly. Also, we observed that the newer faculty members were more wroth over the juvenile actions of our fellows than those more hardened members.

Pearson's Serves
KERN'S
Good Bread and Cakes
KERN'S BAKERY
South Henley St.
KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

EAT AT THE
Blount Lunch
Excellent Food
Well Prepared
Courteously Served
W. T. SMITH, In Charge

"... the shade of the old apple tree"
... was a pretty little number, but it's out-moded now! Now-a-days we're more interested in our own limbs and we're fussy about our smart new stocking shades. Which leads us right around to our lovely new belle-sharmeer stockings ... designed for the individual, and exclusive with us. They do fit perfectly. Come in and see the season's smartest stockings ... belle-sharmeer ... in chiffons, service chiffons and service weights. 75c, $1 and $1.35 the pair.
belle-sharmeer
STOCKINGS
designed for the individual
CHANDLER SINGLETON CO.
Department Store

These New Spring Suits
$6.95

You are sure to like these Suits. Double breasted Tweeds, Navy Blue Flannel, and Silk Rough Crepes made up in the New Slim Effects. Also Belted styles. Sizes 12 to 20.
Proffitt's THE BEST PLACE TO TRADE Proffitt's

Monday...
Is the last day to have your EASTER SUIT Tailored-- distinctively for you.

BOB WELLS, JR.
NEXT TO CITY DRUG

....smart
EASTER SUITS
$12.50

Smart, because of their pattern distinction; elegance of textures, nicety of cut and smoothness in models ... smart to choose them because of extra value they represent.
CHANDLER-SINGLETON CO.
DEPARTMENT STORE

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, APRIL 29, 1933 | NUMBER TWENTY-TWO

SCOTS MEET VOLS TODAY IN "GRUDGE" GO

College Woods To Be The Scene of Annual May Day Festival

Yearly Spring Pageant Is Presented Monday With "Parade Of The Months" As Novel Feature

Procession Will Be Headed By Nathalia Wright As Queen Of May

At two-thirty Monday afternoon in the ampitheatre in the College Woods will begin the most colorful and elaborate May Day pageant at Maryville in several years, "The Parade of the Months."

Queen Nathalia Wright, escorted by KIng Conrad Quenelle, will have as her attendants Marian Alice Faulkner and Steve Boretsky, Bobbie Revely and George Vick, and Key Braford and Ed Hurst.

The Queen is holding court on this occasion because eleven months of the year are dissatisfied that May should have a Queen when none of the others have. They have therefore challenged May to a contest, in which each month will present for the Queen's consideration its own special merits. The Queen has graciously appointed the day, and the contest is now at hand.

January will present her claims to royal patronage with a dance of the snowballs.

February will take as its motif the St. Valentine idea. Against this background George and Martha Washington and James and Dolly Madison will dance the Minuet.

The claim of March to the Queen's sponsorship will be presented in a St. Patrick's dance.

In April sun will vie with shower, and will vanquish in a rainbow dance.

The Queen's own month will entertain the sovereign with a May frolic to the Queen's taste.

A June wedding with a June bride will be presented, with a dance of the cupids as motif.

To represent July Uncle Sam will review a flag drill.

A flower garden and dance of the flowers are the bid of August for the Queen's favor.

In September the wind will dance among the leaves for Her Majesty's entertainment.

October will offer a Hallowe'en carnival.

In November Pilgrims will go to church, with Indians skulking in the background.

December will conclude the Parade of the Months with a dance of the Christmas bells.

After all of the months have thus exhibited their claims to the regal favor, the Queen will announce her decision, and the month which she chooses as her own will conclude the festival with another dance.

This pageant is the result of the combined efforts of the pageantry class and Department of Expression, the Music Department, and the Department of Women's Physical Education. More than two hundred people will participate in it.

NEW STAFF CHOSEN

The Committee on selection of the Highland Echo met in Professor Davis' class room at 7:30 last night and chose the new staff of the school publication which will serve for the remainder of this year.

The selections consisted of four staff editors, all of whom are from the present junior class; three junior associate editors from the present sophomore class, and six sophomore cubs from the present freshman class.

The selections are as follows: Staff Editors: Charles Beale, Bernard Mattingley, Kay Carpenter, and Richard Orr; Junior Associate editors: Dorothy Nethery, Violet Webb and Grace Proffitt; Sophomore Cubs: Katharine Orr, Helen Rusk, Elizabeth Kunkel, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, and G. F. Greiner.

Queener's Debate Team Ends Season Friday Against Cumberland

Maryville Captures Second Place In Regional Tourney Here

On May 5, Maryville debate team, Earle Crawford and Jerry Carter will meet Cumberland College at Maryville in the final debate of the forensic season, concluding a successful and busy year. During the debate season Maryville teams have met teams from twelve schools besides the schools represented in the contests during the Convention. The schools on Maryville's schedule were: King College, Tusculum College, Tennessee Teachers, Michigan State Colege, Dayton University, Berea College, Georgetown, Transylvania, Milligan, Carson-Newman, Tennessee Wesleyan, Cumberland.

During the year the debaters engaged in 44 debates, with then non decision and thirty-four decision, of which Maryville won twenty-four and lost ten with a score of 70.6 percent won.

The varsity squad consisted of Elizabeth Duncan, Benjamin Groves, Inez Hamrick, Arthur Lazell, Andrew Newcomer, Robert Stevenson, as senior members; Ercelle Hunter, and Clifford Withers, junior members; Reuben Alford, Douglas Carhart, Jesse Carter, Earle Crawford, Florence Hyde, James Smith, Herr Wissler and Maria Wynn sophomores.

The freshman teams were coached by Benjamin Groves. The girls won both debates and the boys debates were non-decision. The freshman teams consisted of James Badgett, Mary Gladys Brown, Alex Christie, Mary Dunn, Edward Friar, Roberta Howie, Eleanor Pflanze, William Quigley, Archibald Pieper, Helen Rusk, James Saint, Cathryn Smith.

The climax of the debate program was the Pi Kappa Delta Provincial

(Continued on page four)

Tuesday Brings Last Weekly Meeting Of Faculty Club

Miss Laura B. Hale, will be the speaker at the monthly meeting of the Faculty Club on Tuesday evening, May 2nd. Her subject will be "Jewish Music".

The Faculty Club, which was organized in October, 1931, for the purpose of sponsoring productive scholarship and encouraging investigation and writing as well as to provide fellowship among the members of the faculty, holds its monthly club dinners in the Home Economics room. Some member of the four groups, Language and Literature, Science, Humanities, and the Fine Arts, into which the membership is divided, has presented, at each meeting, a paper representing study and research on a subject of interest.

Miss Meiselwitz, with her usual originality and cleverness, is making special plans for this the last meeting of the year.

After all, it isn't how many co-eds have been in your life during your college career, but how much life has been in the co-eds!

Wlater Smith, 83, the last of a succession of famous Provincetown, Massachusetts, town criers, is dead.

Glee Singers Present Concert On Monday Night, May 1st

McCormick And Phay Billed As Soloists; Garnet Manges At Piano

The Annual Concert of the Maryville Glee Singers will be given in Voorhees Chapel on Monday evening, May 1. A program of unusual interest has been planned for this occasion by Miss Frances Henry, director of the organization, and Mr. Robert Overly, president. It will consist of numbers by the chorus and special numbers by individuals.

The special features of the program are: Non mi dir, from "Don Giovanni" by Mozart, sung by Miss Frances Henry; Rhapsody in Blue, played by Miss Garnet Manges; Mendelssohn violin concerto in E minor, played by Miss Elizabeth Shugart; The Blue Danube Waltz, sung by the Glee Singers, and The Old Woman in the Shoe, sung by Dixie Vagabond Quartette.

Every minute of this program will be filled with solid musical enjoyment. The soloists are among the best that can be secured in the Knoxville district, and the Glee Singers are prepared to present a well-balanced group of chorus numbers. The selection of music ranges from the classical to popular songs of the day. There will be something for every taste. Many of the features are ones that will be heard for the first time on the Maryville concert platform, while others will be recognized as old and enjoyable favorites.

Tickets for the concert may be secured at the Book Store and at the Y stores this evening and all day Monday.

Spring Season Brings Demands For Lloyd As Speaker

Graduating Classes And General Assembly Gives President Full Schedule

The next few weeks will be filled with many speaking engagements for Ralph W. Lloyd, president of Maryville College. He spent the past week-end in Birmingham, Alabama, where he made eight speeches at the Alabama State C. E. Convention, the Indedpendent Presbyterian Church, and the Methodist Church.

President Lloyd made the commencement address at Crossville high school on Friday of this week. Tomorrow he will give the baccalaureate address at Walland high school.

When the annual retreat of the religious leaders of the University of Tennessee takes place at Montvale Springs May 6 and 7, Dr. Lloyd will make three addresses. He will also be the main speaker at Everett high's baccalaureate service on the latter date.

Following is a resume of some of the engagements President Lloyd expects to fulfill: Loudon high school baccalaureate service address, May 14; commencement address at Rutledge high, May 16; commencement address at Young's high, Knoxville, May 19; General Assembly of the Northern Presbyterian church during part of the week of May 22; baccalaureate address at the Univesity of Tennessee, June 4.

"Your boy friend talks too much. He rattles on like a flivver. I'm afraid he's a flat tire."

"I know, Pa; but his clutch is grand."

Life may be just a bowl of cherries to some folks, but to most of us it tastes like spinach.

Performance Of Kathryn Meisle Delights Her College Audience

Famous Contralto's Energy And Genius Capture Fancies Of Lyceum-Goers

With the best stage presence of any artist appearing at Maryville this year Miss Kathryn Meisle, internationally known contralto, captured the hearts of her audience in the manner of a real genius in her concert at Voorhees Chapel Monday eveinng. Achieving from the first notes of the first composition a favorable contact with the listeners, she maintained it throughout the entire program by merit of her splendid personality and superior performance.

The program was widely varied in scope, ranging from the emotionally stirring "Der Erlkonig" of Schubert to the light and humorous "Five Eyes" of Armstrong Gibbs. With the first of these Miss Meisle reached what seemed to us the height of the program, and she herself appeared to feel deeply the sentiment of this masterpiece. She enjoyed to an equal extent, however, the lighter numbers, and the sheer joy which she takes in singing is probably a part of the secret of her success.

The unusually wide range of Miss Meisel's voice was another factor which contributed to her artistry and to the enjoyment of the performance. She takes with equal ease both high and low notes. Her large repertoire gives her access to almost every kind of taste, and further accounts for her general popularity. The key factor in this, however, is the sheer artistry with which the numbers are performed.

Miss Meisle went from Maryville to Cincinnati, where she will appear as soloist in the May Day festivities.

Maryville Y.W. Sends Delegates To Meet In Morristown

Four Colleges Represented In Two-Day Meeting of Interracial Group

Thirteen members of the Maryville College Y. W. C. A. attended the first week-end conference of the East Tennessee Student Interracial Commission, held April 14-16 at Morristown College.

Informing addresses were delivered by Prof. Herman J. Kloepfer, of Knoxville College, Mr. Howard Kester, southern secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, Prof. Miller W. Boyd of Morristown College, Dr. Ralph Maynard, dean of Morristown College, and Prof. J. Herman Daves, of Knoxville College. Rev. C. Clayton, pastor of the East Main Avenue Methodist Episcopal Church of Knoxville led devotions.

The theme of the conference was "The Present Economic Situation and Its Effect on Minority Groups". Prof. Kloepfer opened the discussion with a description on the various minority groups in America and their methods of adjustment to the dominant group. Prof. Boyd sketched the history of the Negro in America and described the present situaton of the Negro in his environment.

Mr. Kester suggested state socialism as a remedy for the breakdown of the present system and told how interracial relations would be ameliorated under such a system. Mr. Kester rendered a further service to the group in giving first-hand information about the Decatur trial.

A [illegible] Easter service was held

(Continued on page four)

Comparison Of Individual Times Indicates That Thrower's Men Have Good Chance At Victory

Wolfe and Hitch Expected To Furnish Thrills Galore in 880; Moore Will Meet Stout In Mile Run

CLOSE BATTLE

Free Admission Expected To Attract Many Maryvillians

After several weeks of delinquent bush-beating, athletic officials at the University of Tennessee have finally consented for the track teams of that school and Maryville to meet on the field of battle. Such a meeting will be held today! The affair promises to resolve itself into a grudge match, since the arrangements were made after the ECHO had published an article on the subject stating in no uncertain terms that the Highlander cindermen were infinitely superior to the Vol trackstars, and were itching to prove such to be the case. Now that the chance for proof is at hand, the ECHO pauses a moent to consider the chances Coach Bob Thrower and his worthies have of defeating the mighty Volunteers—and predicts a Maryville victory!

This prediction is based on actual times which have been made by individual members of the two teams. Perhaps the closest match of the day will be that between Harold Wolfe, star U. T. half-miler, who won his evnt last Saturday against Alabama in 2:00.7, and Jim Hitch, Scot 880 man who has yet to be bested in a race. Hitch's time in the half in a trial heat last Saturday was 2:01.8, but it is expected that the competitive spirit, together with the faster track at Shields-Watkins, will cut this time considerably.

The mile run, featuring Spec Moore and Chauncey Stout, will be no less interesting. Stout is acclaimed by Knoxville papers as among the South's best, while Moore has met with the best of opposition in his day, and defeated it. The best mark set by Stout this year is 4:34, which Moore can best with ease. But Stout has not been pushed yet, so the mile run can be predicted to be indeed close.

In the dashes, Byar and Loessberg are being relied on to capture their events, such computations based on their times as compared with the times of Pugh and Dorsrey, who will oppose them. The hurdles, both high and low, remain in doubt, as both Scot and Vol lumbermen are not yet seasoned to the point of prediction.

Devotees of the Highlander machine sadly concede to the Knoxville team victories in both the shot put and discus throw, since the distances in both events for U.T. have far exceeded those for Maryville. In the pole vault Lavendar will furnish plenty of competition to enemy leapers, while Russell will win the javelin throw, barring accident. Robert Toms lanky leaper, is rated about on a par with the Vol opponent in that department, and is expected to give competition galore to all comers. The Scot broadjumpers have also proved themselves at least the peers of the performers in that event at U. T.

The two-mile, about which nothing [illegible] said, is left entirely [illegible] of Spec Moore, distance runner, who is sure to [illegible] ing boasted of by Ten- [illegible] of a six-day bicycler. [illegible] for the predictions! [illegible] s on this afternoon—the [illegible] begins at one-thirty—[illegible] atest will be over before [illegible] this far into this article. [illegible] predict—victory for the

Meeting Of Honor Roll Students Held To Discuss Grades

Curriculum Also Comes In For Consideration By Students And Faculty

The students who "made" the honor roll, together with members of the faculty, held a conference in Philosophy class room Wednesday night. The conference which took up scholarship aims and standards, was presided over by President Lloyd.

Donald Briggs opened the discussion by a talk on grades and grading systems. Maryville grades, he said, had run almost true to the curve the past several years. Last semester, however, instead of five percent of A's, which is average, Maryville had 6.17 percent.

To stimulate discussion Mr. Briggs asked the following questions: Should grades be relative or absolute? Is too much emphasis placed upon grades? Is the grading system in Maryville satisfactory? Dr. Hunter, in his talk on the same subject, explained the Oberlin system of grading and some systems of other colleges.

After a short discussion of grades, Inez Hamrick and Dr. Orr lead a discussion of curriculum. Inez Hamrick talked of the purpose of Maryville's curriculum, whether it had been planned for broader culture or preparation for vocations. Dr. Orr answered that Maryville had planned a cultural curriculum and therefore had included as broad a range of required subjects as were practical and financially posisble.

In the general discussion which followed it was brought out that requirements such as Bible and Philosophy had resulted partly from endowment stipulations and partly from an extensive study of curriculum by a special faculty committee.

President Lloyd, as he closed the discussion, asked how many students in the group expected to teach About half of those present were planning to do so. This showed, President Lloyd said, that although Maryville is a Liberal Arts College, the type of students it enrolls forces the school to offer considerable vocational training in addition to a broad cultural background.

Miss Howard Resigns To Accept Position In Lexington Ky.

Miss Susan Logan Howard who has been teacher of music in the College for the past two years has recently resigned to accept a position in Lexington, Kentucky. The opportunity which opened in Lexington was one which required that if she accepted it at all she must do so immediatley. The College therefore released her from her contract that she might take advantage of this opporutnity. Lexington is but a few miles from Paris, Kentucky, which is Miss Howard's home.

It is with real regret that Miss Howard's resignation was accepted for she has won a real place for herself and her work at the College.

The Highland Echo

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - - - - Faculty Advisor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

NATHALIA WRIGHT - - - - - - - - Managing Editor
ROBERTA ROBISON - - - - - - Feature Editor
CONRAD QUENELLE - - - - - - - Literary Editor
ARTHUR LAZELL - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSO CIATE EDITORS

KAY CARPENTER - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
BERNARD MATTINGLEY - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - - - - Sports Editor

SOPHOMO RE CUBS

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - - - - Societies Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - - - Alumni Editor
THERON ALEXANDER - - - - Associate Feature Editor
FRANK THORNHILL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
CHARLES GILLANDER - - - - Associate Sports Editor

FRESHMAN APPRENTICES

Helen Rusk, Roberta Howie, Elizabeth Kunkel, Katharine Orr, Alex Christie, Bryan Payne, G. F. Greiner, Charlotte Upp, Alice Procter, O. T. Holder, James Stewart, Ralph Llewellyn

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
HUGH CRAWFORD - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
MAURICE MAXWELL - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, April 29, 1933

ARE WE NARROW-MINDED?

Are we narrow-minded? The average collegian is insulted at the mention of this question; perhaps some who chance to read these lines will feel themselves insulted. But, ARE WE NARROW-MINDED, we ask again, taking the liberty to answer the query with a vigorous affirmative! What makes us think so?

Observation of Maryvillians!

There are several methods by which Maryvillians may be clasified. Taking the liberty to use most of these clasifications, let us consider the degree to which the average Highlander is of a sympathetic nature. One of the first classes to come to our minds is that of the group which is assertedly religious. Can they sympathize with the brother who is not so spiritually strong? Are they open to conviction that the way they have chosen to live is not the best way—or the right way? Are they conscious of the fact that they, too, are human, and err daily? We wonder.

The next natural division we approach is the class of students on the Hill who are avowedly non-religious. There is no need to side-step the issue; Maryville has unwittingly received into its bosom a group, small though it be, whose members either closely approach or plunge deep into atheism. Nor is the "Nicotine Squad" the only harborer of this group; its charter members can be found intermingled on the campus with some of the finest men God ever made! We see them in the dormitories (not only Carnegie, we understand), sneering at and berating meetings where earnest Christians are gathered in prayer. We see them in the chapel service, with knowing, sardonic smiles for each mention of the spiritual. Can they see that each of us has a right to his personal convictions? Can they see that the holy things they mock are really dear to the souls of their fellows? We wonder.

We turn next to the "low-brow" element which is always with us, realizing that its members may also be included in either of the two groups already mentioned. Among the members of this group, we find the student who rails at the best literature, who is "disgusted" with the work of the masters in art and music, and whose appreciation is reserved almost entirely, if not wholly, for that which may be grasped. Can these students be made to feel that others are able to see beauty in fields to which the "low-brows" character has not attained? Can they be convinced that tangibility is not the first requisite of worth? We wonder.

Maryville also is the home of an element which those who are not a part of it call the "intelligentsia". Most of its members (not all), it is generally granted, are of more than average intelligence—and they are obsessed by the knowledge of this fact. Inflamed by the meager handful of knowledge which they have managed to wrest from a few puny years of study, they feel themselves infinitely above the "mass", which meanders through life devoid of the blessings of knowing everything. Does this class realize many of their fellows are better read, more versatile, and are not VAIN because of it? Do they know that they are not infallible? We wonder.

All of us are aware that these groups exist—but not that we BELONG TO ONE OF THEM! Very few of Maryville's children can be exempt from all of these classifications. We are either on the outside fringe or in the vry heart of one or more in th very heart of one or more self-study will be sufficient proof to most of us that we do "belong" Are we narrow-minded? We wonder.

POLITICS?

An isue of the ECHO would hardly be classed as an issue of the ECHO if it appeared around this time of year without an editorial concerning the coming "Y" elections. We bow to precedent—but ask leave to become a little less delicate, a little franker, than former editorials have been.

Politics, we understand, have never been missing from "Y" elections. So we have no kick coming on a political turn to the approaching election. For quite a while, students of the problem have been aware of the presence of annual gum-shoe campaigns, of whispering campaigners, proxy votes, and other evils, or so-called evils, which Spring and the "Y" election bring. But, we reiterate, we have no kick coming here. Where, then?

We concede that politics in the "Y" is absolutely all right. But we warn those few who really have the better interests of the Y.M.C.A. at heart that politics and the College Y. M. C. A. are becoming synonymous terms and that, in the eyes of most of the students, the "Y" exists merely for the purpose of an excuse for the elction of officers. Witness the past year. When the Spring elections are over, a man will be at the head of the "Y" whose clique has been running him for the job since school opened last fall. (We don't rail against the man. We endorse him, and are certain that he is the cream of the official crop.) But the same thing would have happened if the same clique had chosen to run a man totally unfitted for the position. Such acquiescence is a monument to the non-thinking element of the student body, which could be led into any sort of a vote requiring compromise desired by a shrewd leader..

But where are we headed? It will not be every year that "the clique" will coose to run able men. What shall we do to eliminate the faction spirit? "Nothing", is the answer expected—but that will not suffice. Someone will have to do somethihg, and the quicker reform is started, the more easily it will be accomplished.

Let those those who so loudly proclaim that they have nothing but love for the "Y" now show their hands!

Observations

THE SEARCH IS ON!

Constitution, constitution, who's got the constitution. Secrertary, secretary, who's got the minutes of the meetings this year? Who keeps the books? Who runs the elections? Who's going to be president? Who has the most men working for him? . . . . . And someone said that there's politics in this Y. campaign.

WHO CARETH KIPPETH?

Up at DePaul University they have decided to admit free to the Junior Prom all students who appear at the dance with an eight-day growth of beard. That might not work at this institution for some people. Now, take Kipp, he'd have to pay allsamee . . . and we guess you know why. The little Spaniard Senorita didn't tell us that . . . we just observed.

AND FRIDAY TOO!

That reminds us of Friday Neff just across the way who goes about all the time bragging on his two-bit Gillette razor. "Why", says Friday, "my razor never gets dull." we think we know why . . . . it's because he knocks the "whiskers" off with his shaving brush!

SO!

We understand that the first prize for eligible theme songs for the week (no, it's three weeks someone reminded us) goes to Elizabeth Duncan with her contribution "Andy walks with me, Andy talks with me!"

THE TAKEOFF

We don't wish to go into a discussion as to whether or not our girls have become ladies or not, but we might suggest the first step in that possible attainment: that is the correction of the very athletic and boisterous descent of dormitory stairs when they come down to meet the man on the ground floor. They generally manage to be five or maybe thirty-five minutes late, and then come rushing to the fore in a very breathless condition, all of which wouldn't be so bad, if they didn't look so much like beginners at the art, shall we say? We'd suggest as an alternative, which would at least do away with the necessary noise, the descent by sliding down the bannister.

THE MONARCH

And poor old Benjamin Peter Groves, to quote the Ohio Sage, wasn't even king for a day. Grove says he wouldn't have minded i nearly so much if the queen ha not been so hesitant and even awkward in breaking the news to him You understand, reader, that to quote Groves is to euphemize from beginning to the other side. We rather suppose that the stately Quenelle will do the job quite as well. . . but we're wondering where Groves will be during the performance. All of which, ladies and gentlemen, is said only for the sake of conjecture.

THE ASSISTANT

Miss Faulkner on the otherhand, on all hands as a matter of fact, had men of great number in a state of anticipation and expectation, which turned out for all but Stevedore Boretsky to be a matter of disappointment (sorry we couldn't get another "ation"). Marion is the little woman who felt a spell of conscientiousness one day and says to someone (it must have been Kipp, he keeps her at the library desk about half of each hour of duty) very earnestly . . . .

"Say do yo' all think Ah talk Suth'n". Any oportunity to assure the girl that her suppositions are wrong should be taken.

DOWN A STEP

Now that we're down in the grapefruit, we'll mention—only mention—the predicament of the tornado. We sort of guess that besides Bobbie Reveley's losing a man, the great Vick got put through by the sophomore class in a quite worthwhile way. The peculiar part of the situation was the fact that the boys of the sophomore class voted as a body to depose the erstwhile king. There was another peculiar element however; the fact that that was the sole occasion for this meeting; the president called it; and the president is a very much married man.

ROCK BOTTOM

The fourth of the fortunate women, if this designates fortune, is the Bradford woman whom we know only by name, which we learned after the election. We'd just like to say for her consideration that it takes a purty good looking woman to get more votes than the next best looking in this class inasmuch as the improvement in feminine attractiveness this year is very worthy of consideration.

TRUE STORY

That's enough of this stuff, so we'll mention for modification the true case of the frershman girl who wanted to hurry to vesper in order to "keep from sitting on the ropes".

IN THE SINK——

This calls to our attention the matter of girls with dates washing the dishes in Pearson's on Sunday night. We'd be willing to conjecture that on the whole, each person gets more food if you call that food for the amount he places in his dishes on Monday morning than at any other time, and if you still don't follow, we mean that dishes should be given more time to soak, or washed again on Monday morning—early. Or it might be suggested, but this isn't our suggestion, that the dishwashers be deprived of the Vesper dates, and that church credit be given in proportion to dishwashing . . . after inspection.

CARNEGIE AGOG

The hall of Carnegie was much agog until the facts were learned over the occupancy of Robert Tom's room one day last week. A member of the Maryville press, the writer himself, went by in time to see a WOMAN in Bobbie's room. He rushed up with his pencil and paper (what did you think) to get the particulars for the scandal sheet only to find that the girl was Bob's siter, and also, to be mentioned; that his mother was on deck. Oi. . . Oi, . . . oioi.

BELTS FOR WANT

We heard that Bill Steed used up her fourth belt last week. Bill is a descendant of the westerners who make a notch for each successful killing. Little old Roberta Howie started out with much the same method we're told, but Phay stole her belt, er sump'n and we don't think it's supp'n.

No Defeats Recorded On Debate Team Of Class Of '36

The Freshman debate question this year was: "Resolved that the United States should control banks and guarantee desposits". Maryville, as usual, had four teams, two men's and two women's, and each team debated the question once.

On Friday, April 24, the women's affirmative team journeyed to Johnson City and debated with Tusculum. The same evening our negative team debated with Tusuculum's affirmative side here. Both these debates resulted in wins for Maryville.

The men's debates were held on Wednesday, April 19. Both debates were held here against a team from the University of Tennessee. The U T. team debated both sides of the question, the affirmative in the afternoon and the negative in the evening. These debates were held according to the Oregon Plan with no judges, and accordingly there were no decisions on either of the men's debates.

SUPERIORS SCOTTIES

Hail to the Queen! Long may she reign! Verily, has the noble Senior Class come through again, their latest deed of note being the election of Mabel Nathalia Wright to the throne for May Day. Nathalia wrote the scenario for last year's pretty little pageant, "The Quest of the Blue Bird", and took charge of the whole affair. Thus, her being elected queen this year is a fitting reward as well as a tribute to her. Some remarks were made in this column several weeks ago concerning Conrad Quenelle, Conrad I. of the Senior Class. It now appears that to Nathalia will go the honor of presenting His Majesty to the public, for she has made him king for a day.

When shy little Nat came to college four years ago, few might have suspected that she would evolve to queenship through the passage of time. With her brown hair in a boyish bob, she may be remembered as extremely retiring, timid about talking to any of the new strangers. Though her home is in the town of Maryville, she came to the dormitories to live in order to get more of the campus life, and to mix with other students. This living on the Hill, along with her course in Expression of which she is a recent graduate, has enabled her to speak well both in private and in public. Her oration in the finals of the recent T. T. Alexander prize contest is an example of how college life and work have transformed her into a speaker. Her shyness has yet a few ways of manifesting itself instance, it is known that she writes a quantity of poetry which no one ever sees. Few know that she plays a violin, or that she teaches a Sunday School Class. She cannot hide so well her being a member of the Student Council, the Student-Faculty Committee, or the Highland Echo Staff. She has been active on the college paper her entire four years.

Nat is now doing honors work in English. Her name is not a strang-er to the honor roll. She is a hard worker in every line of endeavor with which she is connected. That ability to put herself fully into an activity will, quite certainly, serve her as well after graduation as it has during hee college career.

Let Us Pray

The day was long, the burden I had borne
Seemed heavier than I could longer bear
And then it lifted—but I did not know
Some one had knelt in prayer.

Had taken me to God that very hour,
And asked the easing of the load, and He,
In infinite passion had stooped down
And taken it from me.

We can not tell how often as we pray
For some bewildered one hurt and distressed,
The answer comes—but many times those hearts
Find sudden peace and rest.

Some one has prayed, and Faith, a reaching hand,
Took hold of God, and brought Him down that day.
So many hearts have need of prayer—
Oh, let us pray.

MAY DAY

A beautiful queen—
Beautiful atendants—
200 other participants—
Crowds from Maryville—
Crowds from Knoxville—
Crowds from everywhere
Will be in the college woods on May 1, at 2:30 p. m. if the weather permits.

It's May Day!

Are you going to be there?

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

H. T. HACKNEY
KNOXVILLE, TENN.

Mother's Day Suggestion
3-5x7 Fine Photographs in Folders Complete
1-5x7 Glossy for Reproduction
(Value $11.00)
Special Offer $6.00
This ad—is worth $1.00 credit on Photographs if presented before May 6th
BRANSON SISTERS STUDIO
713 1-2 S. Gay Street KNOXVILLE, TENN.

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

McBrayer's Shoe Shop
Basement Carlisle's
5c and 10c Store
Representative Ed. Lodwick

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective March 14, 1933

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.
Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland

THE CHILHOWEAN
Will not be given out until all organizations, Clubs and Classes have paid their bills. Act now so the Annual may come out on time.

SPORTS

HARD HITTING HIGHLANDERS TEAR DOWN OPPOSITION OF OPPOSING LEAGUES IN BIG TIME FASHION; LOSE ONE CONFERENCE GO

Scots Split Double Header With Carson-Newman To Lose Only Game In Seven Starts

Playing a tight but losing game, and coming back strong in the second, the Highlander baseball team split a double header with the Carson-Newman nine at Jefferson City last Saturday afternoon. An error made with a man coming in home and a wild throw contributed to the loss of the first game. The score was 5-3.

Playing steadier ball and making every hit score a run, the Scotties trounced the opponent 15-5 in the second game. Batteries in the first heat were: Maryville—Park and Clark. In the second: Duff, Atchison and Graf, Carson-Newman—Corban and Smith; Layman, Carbon and Smith.

The summary:

	R	H	E
Maryville	3	4	3
Carson-Newman	5	7	1
Maryville	15	15	4
Carson-Newman	5	7	2

Hiwassee Fades Away Before Batting Attack of Scots

Maryville, led by Duff, Atchison, and Holloway, threw defeat on the backs of the Hiwassee nine with a fierce batting attack that netted sixteen runs to none on the latter's field Monday, April 10. Holding errors to two and scoring all but two of the eighteen hits the Scots exhibited better ball than on the home court with Hiwassee. In spite of the many hits of the Scots, the Hiwassee pitcher, Rosenbaum, with Wright at the mit, stuck it out till the end. Graf and Clark were on the receiving end for Maryville.

	R	H	E
Maryville	16	18	2
Hiwassee	0	5	4

Down Emory-Henry Nine

On Friday, April 14, Maryville took the erring Emory-Henry team into the bag to the tune of 16-8. Eight errors on the part of the latter helped to salt away the game. Batteries for Maryville—Park, Graf, Clark. For Emory-Henry: Francis, Harber, and Mackey.

The summary:

	R	H	E
Maryville	16	14	3
Emory-Henry	8	13	8

Scots Eke Out Bare Win In Return Game with E.-H.

Successfully curbing a wild batting attack by Emory-Henry, the Scots nosed out the much needed run in the ninth inning to turn back the enemy 10-9—the second consecutive attempt of the visitors to beard the lion—on Saturday, April 15. Duff went wild in the seventh inning and was replaced by Atchison, who retired the opposition without more ado. Graf played hero in the ninth when he knocked a triple with a man on third to bring in the necessary run. Batteries for Maryville: Duff, Atchison, Graf, and Clark. Batteries for Emory-Henry: Francis and Mackey.

The summary:

	R	H	E
Maryville	10	8	9
Emory-Henry	9	11	8

Scots Put L.M.U. to Rout In Two-Day Tussle

Holloway and Scott led the Scots to a 9-5 win over the L.M.U. squad on the home diamond Thursday, April 20. Errors were even at four all. Battery for L. M. U. was Grimsley and Slover.

The summary:

	R	H	E
Maryville	9	8	4
L. M. U.	5	11	4

Following up Thursday's victory over L. M. U., Loesberg pitched a two-hit game to the Lincoln men on Friday, the Scots winning 13-3. Graf caught for Maryville. Battery for L.M.U.: Bolling, Grimsley, Lowden and Slover.

The summary:

	R	H	E
Maryville	13	12	3
L.M.U.	3	2	5

Ping Pong Wins Hearts Of Many; Tourney on Wed.

All lovers of the good ol' Chinese sport of ping pong hold yourselves in readiness to enter the tourney to be held at the Y. M. C. A. "court" starting next Wednesday. Those who wish to enter the tournament see Charlie Muir on Indiana Avenue or Fred Kirchner on the fourth floor of Carnegie or in the Library. The entry fee will be ten cents, which will go to pay for balls and extra paddles. Announcements concerning the tournament will be posted on the campus, and applications for entrance will not be considered later than six P. M. Monday.

Sponsors of the tourney indicate that there is a possibility of selecting the few best players to meet the University of Tennessee at some later date. Meeting the university seems to be quite the rage now, so why not in ping pong?

Tennis Squad Trounces Carson-Newman Falls Before Vol Crack Aces

"Win All-Lose All" Is Method Of Smith's Gentlemen

Consistent playing and steady form contributed to the sweeping victory of the Highlander netmen over the Carson-Newman squad 7-0 at the home courts Thursday, April 20. Little opposition was offered by the visitors except in one singles match, in which Phay was pushed to win over a one-set handicap. Five singles and two doubles were played.

Fischbach easily won from Roberts 6-1, 6-1. Talmadge beat Sams 6-4, 8-6. Phay won from Fox 8-6, 4-6, 6-2. Karnell and Talmadge defeated the opposing doubles in two sets. Fischbach and Phay won in two sets.

Bagging six matches and breaking even in one doubles match because of darkness, the University of Tennessee racqueteers took the Maryville net men over the proverbial coals last Friday afternoon.

Fischbach and Phay had been counted on to win their matches, Talmadge having drawn plenty of opposition in Polk Crumbliss, U. T. star. But the slip came, as slips are prone to do, and the Phay-Fischbach combination were making frantic efforts to atone for the miscarriages when darkness stumbled over the court.

After winning the first set 6-4 Fischbach lost to Percefull 4-6, 7-5, 6-3. Phay lost to Fitts 8-6, 6-2. Talmadge lost to Crumbliss 7-5, 6-0. Karnell lost to Flemming 11-9, 6-0. Gillingham to Hylton 6-4, 6-3. Karnell and Talmadge lost the doubles to Percefull and Crumbliss 6-0, 8-6. With one set each and 8-8 on the final set the last doubles was called.

The Smithmen will meet the Tennessee Wesleyan netmen this afternoon at the old varsity courts. Next week the team will go to Tusculum.

Gay Battle Branch Paradise In Review As Carnival Comes

(By Bryan Payne)

Girls, this is a story worth your reading. It is written, not only to fill up space, but also to try to give as detailed a picture as possible of the elite of Maryville's tobacco chewing, snuff sniffing Battle Branch citizenry as it passes in review before our ringside seat at the carnival. We realize that your legitimate afternoon excursions into the void of the countryside enclosure in no way disclose the genuine gaity of the people—they really are people—as they strut pompously in their dashing, colored skirts and shawls. And, too, the truly elite become extremely so when the brilliant light falls across their greasy faces.

Having shaken our hoof free from the last strand of barbed wire that lies maliciously across our path, we find ourselves rubbing noses with the most genuine reproductions of Airican negroes we've ever seen in a good while. While we are hardly yet free from the air containing the fetid breath of these individuals, we run amuck in a crowd in which every man holds a lighted fag in such a manner as to burn the very coat-tail off'n you with very little chance of escape.

As we wiggle around to escape the burning brands we are arrested by the rapid skipping of the "master of the show" over the rough corn cobs lying strewn around . . . . no doubt for the pigs to glean. He was a short, squat human, we should hardly say man, who perched a cane on his arm much as though it were the very sustenance of his false and ludicrous life. Briskly he stepped up to another equally imposing man of nearly the same caliber and whispered, pointing down the lane as he did. (No doubt the future of the big show was at stake). Together the two hurried off! Barnum himself couldn't have played the role of being the master of such a "great show" as this man did.

Ragged, mucky women dressed in THEIR finery waddled through the customary straw with bony urchins clinging to their tired arms. Bay-windowed men with "toofer" cigars in their mouths pawed the ground with their heavy shoes, and talked as if the depression were hanging only over the First National Bank. Silly freshmen boys in high school picked and pined over equally silly girls who had become their imaginary queens for the evening. And above all the streaming tobacco and pungent smoke could be heard the wailing cries of the fortune tellers as they lured the suckers to their dens.

Lured by the propaganda that their company was paying five dollars to the person who could stand watching a man eat a live rat and eat a hamburger, we sheepishly paid our dime-ten cents and under cover of the shadows slipped in to do our act, having taken the precaution to buy our own supply of sandwiches at a reliable place. Great became the chagrin when we learned that the proffered five dollars had "just

(Continued On Page Four)

SPORT SLANTS

By Payne

This sheet went to press this morning with the most important news of the semester . . . missing, The Toreador's men are splitting wind with the university squad this afternoon; and by heaven it's up to everyone who can to go over to Shields-Watkins field to help push the Scots along. Admission is free, thanks to Bob Thrower, and the thumb in air method never fails. We are not making predictions,—Tennessee made 'em before she met Alabama, and she was knocked into a cocked hat—but there's one thing we're sure of . . . . . we've got an even chance, so let's go over and back 'em up.

—S—

Among those to whom this week's share of chagrin should belong are Charlie Gillander and . . . . us. As if it were not enough that we should give credit in the last Echo to Hoglan for throwing the discus for good ol' Alma, we had to make it worse by thinking that the mighty Russell's name was really Finklestein. Gillie, that ever curious scribbler of Superior Scotties, seriously asked Spec Moore if he knew what girl would run the two-mile and the mile in feminine competition.

—S—

Whassa mater here, Smithmen? The proverbial Daniel couldn't have done a better job of bearding the lion in his den than the U.T. tennis team did to Maryville. Perhaps there's no question about who had the better team, but we should have had at least three matches. Phay and Fischbach in doubles and the latter in singles twice had the cat bagged, but didn't follow up with the jolly ol' winning smash. Let's close up the leak and take a winning team to the university in the return meet.

—S—

An, tch-tch, did ye see them fellers frum U.T. smoking them things called cigarettes on our very own campus? Wot guys they were to tempt us poor inmates like that, when they know we have to whisk ourselves down to the famed alley for the precious "drag".

—S—

Bob Thrower became the hero of the moment the other day at the baseball diamond. As the goliath stood there watching the antics of the batsman the latter swung, and swung, and behold, the pill trundled back into the hands of the former where it was fondled and caressed by the recipient before the

(Cotinued on page four)

Tennis Shoes Are Cheap

An important requisite for the one who wishes to play tennis is a pair of tennis shoes. That type of shoe is so chosen for that particular game because it has a soft, flat sole and it has no heel with which to impair the necessary smooth surface of the court. Tennis is a recreation, and recreation, to be sure, should be enjoyed. Every player, and especially the more experienced player, can realize that a smooth surfaced court is essential to a good well executed game of tennis. Lately, several students have been seen on the new varsity courts, playing in street shoes, and jumping around gouging and mutilating their fresh surfaces. The new courts are by no means yet smooth, but thoughtless students who insist on occupying a court thus which they have no right to do without the proper paraphenalia, do not in any way contribute to the future excellence of the new courts, or any other courts on the Hill. It is only fair to those students who appreciate the smooth surface of a good court that those who are not prepared to play should properly equip themselves, or—the alternative is obvious—stay off the courts. Out of sheer appreciation for the interest which the college has shown for tennis players in building these new courts, the student is under obligation to consider this suggestion.

Carson-Newman Comes Off Perch; Will Meet Scots

Kentucky University Among Newcomers For 1933-34

"Absence makes the heart grow fonder", and so the Carson-Newman grid machine will once more clash with the Highlander eleven after a year of the "outs'. The game is schedulued for November 30th. As a result of quite a struggle on the part of the local bookers, the Scots will meet the University of Kentucky there on September 23rd.

The complete 1933 schedule follows:

Sept. 23—Kentucky Univ.—There
Sept. 29—Tenn. Wesleyan—Here
Oct. 6—Tusculum—Here
Oct. 14—King—There
Oct. 21—Murfreesboro—There
Oct. 27—Lenoir-Rhyne—Here
Nov. 3—Johnson City Teach.—There
Nov. 11—Cullowee Teach.—There
Nov. 18—Milligan—Here
Nov. 30—Carson-Newman—There

Annual Inter-Class Sport Classic Held May 11, Says Moore

The annual inter-class sport classic, featuring a track meet which includes the regular program with the exception of the relay events, will be held at the track on May 11th. Early announcement is being made for the benefit of those who wish to enter so that they may begin training, since a certain amount of training is necessary to make the affair resemble a track meet.

All those students who have not participated in varsity track this season are eligible to enter competition. The classic is under the direction of the Y. M. C. A. athletic board which is composed of Spec Moore and Ed Greene. Those wishing to observe training rules see Coach Thrower for instruction as to procedure.

Further information concerning various events will be announced later.

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

Always Look Your Best
Our Hair Cuts ars sure to please
15 Cents
COLLEGE STREET BARBER SHOP
JOHN PETERSON BEN MARTIN
Opposite City Library

PAPER YOUR ROOM WITH
STERCHI BROS. WALL PAPER
Prices ranging from 4c per roll and up
STERCHI BROS.
East Tennessee's Most Complete Home Furnishers PHONE 666

ON MOTHER'S DAY...
Gladden her heart with a personal gift—She will appreciate your Photo most—
THE WEBB STUDIO
Photographs Last Forever

Pearson's Serves
KERN'S
Good Bread and Cakes
KERN'S BAKERY
South Henley St.
KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE

Remember Mother
Mother's DAY
Nothing Is More Appropriate Than FLOWERS
CHANDLER, FLORIST

For a limited time at the Rexall Store ONLY
85¢ VALUE
49¢
5 PROBAK or GILLETTE BLADES
THEY FIT ALL STYLES GILLETTE HOLDERS and a BIG 35¢ tube of LAVENDER MENTHOLATED Shaving Cream
BYRNE DRUG CO.
The Rexall Drug Store

Maryville And U.T. Hold Joint Banquet In Knoxville

Much Interest Is Displayed As Maryville Furnishes Lively Program

On Tuesday evening the Y. M. C. A. together with the "Y" organizations of the University of Tennessee held a banquet at the Second Presbyterian Church in Knoxville. About twenty-five representatives of each organization were present.

Mr. John McKinney, president of the University of Tennessee Y. M. C. A., opened the program with a welcome to the Maryville College Y. M. C. A. Then after a short song service a delicious dinner was served.

After the dinner the program was turned over to the Maryville Y. M. C. A., and the following program was presented:

Address—Cooperation—Dr. H. E. Orr
Piano Selection—Robert Overly
Vocal Duet—Jesse Willis and Harry Mathias
Reading—Robert Downes
Banjo Selection—Robert Roberti

With the completion of the proggram by the Maryville Y. M. C. A. the meeting was placed in charge of Mr. McKinney again, who, in concluding the program for the evening, stressed the desire for further joint banquets with the Maryville Y. M. C. A. It was decided that two banquets will be held next year. One will be held here next Fall and another at Knoxville in the Spring.

It was decided that the banquet to be held here this Spring would not be held because of the limited time left in which to have it.

Y. W. SECRETARY

From Wednesday to Saturday of this week Miss Carrie E. Meares, a National Student Secretary of the Student Y. W. C. A., has been the guest of the Maryville Association. Miss Meares, whose headquarters are in Atlanta, Georgia, comes here from other campuses of the Southern States where her work centers. In this region there are approximately 200 student organizations. Sixty of these are colored.

Miss Meares devoted her time to interviews with Y. W. officers and cabinet members as well as to informal discussions with the cabinet on Thursday and Friday, dealing with its purposes and program for the coming year.

College Orchestra To Offer Concert On May 12th

The Maryville College Orchestra will present its annual concert on Friday evening, May 12th, in Voorhees Chapel. Considerable practice has been put into the preparation for this presentation under the leadership of Miss Mildred Butcher. The program is well varied, containing light numbers such as "Nellie Gray" and Victor Herbert's "Naughty Marietta" to Mendelssohn's "Concerto in D Minor" in which the pianist, Garnet Manges, is featured, the orchestra accompanying. William McCormick with his clarinet and John Phay with his trumpet do solo work also. The program in full:

Il Trovatore ---------- Verdi
Orchestra
Concertina ---------- Reissinger
William McCormick with orchestra
Barcarolle (June from "The Seasons") ------- Tschaikowsky
Naughty Marietta -------- Herbert
Orchestra
"Nellie Gray" Air Varie--Chambers
John Phay wiwth orchestra
Concerto in D Minor---Mendelssohn
Garnet Manges

NATURE CLUB

During the spring months the Nature Club is sponsoring an unusual project which will be of interest to all the students. They plan to identify every tree on the campus and put a metal marker at the base of each tree.

At the last meeting of the club, Miss Dorothy Nethery spoke on Lichens and illustrated her talk by showing different types of lichens found on the campus or near it. Miss Mary Gillingham gave an illustrated talk on wild flowers. The next meeting will probably be a field trip.

And there's the Scotch theatre owner who played nothing but mystery plays. They cut his light bill in half.

Piano Post-Graduate And Voice Grad In Recital

A combination graduate and post graduate recital will be given in Voorhees Chapel May 8, at 8 p. m. by Norma Spilatore and Ruth Henry. Miss Spilatore, who is to be presented by the voice department in her first public recital, is the first voice graduate in Maryville for a number of years. She will sing groups of Italian, German, French, and English songs, including an interesting number from the fairy opera "Snegourotchka" and the always pleasing "Ramonza" from "Cavalleria Rusticana". Miss Spilatore has been a member of both the Vesper Choir and Women's Glee Club for several years, and has appeared on numerous concerts and recitals on the campus. Her accompanist will be Carrie Pearson.

Ruth Henry who graduated from the piano department last year will offer several brilliant and interesting numbers as a post graduate reital. Miss Henry's ability as a interpretative pianist is well known.

Miss Spilatore's numbers are as follows:

Ramonza from "Cavalleria Rusticana" ---------- Macagni
Als die Alta Multu---------Dvorak
Im Hahue ---------- Grieg
Do Not Go, My Love------Hageman
Song of the Sheperd Tehl (from Snegourotchka) ---------- Dunsky Korsakof
Shushau—American Lullaby --- -- Hagapion
A Bird-Note is Callin_g--- Sprass

ALUMNI

All of the alumni will be glad to hear of the prize awarded to Miss Helen Horton, who graduated from Maryville in 1921, and who is a member of the faculty at Bradley High School in Cleveland, Tennessee. She has been notified that she has been awarded a fifty-day tour of Europe as the grand prize in a contest put on by the Scholastic Magazine.

The contest was on "Teaching Techniques". The competition was based on a magazine report of the Sino-Japanese situation relative to the Lytton report. All of Miss Horton's expenses on the trip are to be paid, including those from Cleveland to New York, from where she will sail on July 4. She is scheduled to return August 25. The trip will take her to twenty-five of the principal cities in twelve countries of Europe and Africa.

DEBATE

(Continued from page one)

Convention held on Maryville campus on April 7 and 8. Province Thirteen was fully represented with the addition of Milligan College as an invited school, and Prof. H. D. Hopkins, president, and Prof. S. R. Toussaint, vice president, as representatives of the national organization of Pi Kappa Delta.

Eight schools sent a total of 6 contestants for debate, oratory, and extemporaneuos speech. Franklin College, Franklin, Indiana won highest honors in the convention with Maryville second. The winners of the various contests were:

Debate: Men's—Maryville first and second places
Women's—Franklin first and Maryville second
Oratory: Men's— Franklin College first place tied with Teachers College
Women's— Franklin College first place and Maryville second.
Extempore Speech: Men—Transylvania College first and Franklin second.
Women—Franklin first and Tusculum and Maryville second

The after dinner speaking contest held on Friday evening after the banquet at Montvale Springs Hotel was won by Georgetown College representative in first place with Centre College taking second place.

At the business meeting and luncheon on Saturday, Franklin College was decided upon as the entertaining school for the next provincial convention, to be held in 1935. Prof. Quener was unanimously re-elected as governor for the province for the new term, and the medals were awarded to the winners in the various contests.

"You mustn't believe all the stories you hear about me," said the man from Hollywood, "most of them are just old wives' tales."

Agnes—"Confess now—you men like talkative women as well as you do others."

Louis—"What others?"

FINANCIAL STATEMENT FOR HIGHLAND ECHO

Received from Student Activity Fee		$ 771.50
Received from Advertising		129.05
Received from Subscriptions		12.25
Balance due on Advertising		138.45
Printing Echo	$792.50
General Expenses	26.00
Balance due for printing Echo including April 29 bill	130.00
Balance	102.75
Total	$1051.25	$1051.25

Committee on Auditing.

Honor Students Chosen For Coming Year In Three Fields

Chemistry, Sociology, Biology Are Selected By Star Students

The Faculty Committee of Selection for Honors Work has chosen three students definitely and one tentatively to do special work for next year. These students will make out definite programs of study which will be submitted to their department heads for approval.

Dana Hanby working in the field of Chemistry will be under Professor Howell's supervision. The field of Sociology will be represented by Howard Kipp who will do his work under Dr. McMurray's counselorship. Frances Mathieson, under Miss Green's direction, will do her work in Biology. Mildred Brookes has been tentatively approved to do her Honors Work in English under Dr. Hunter. The final approval has been withheld because of a ruling that a student must be enrolled in Maryville for at least one year.

The students this year who have been doing Honors Work were: Benjamin Groves in Sociology; Harvey Lowry in Biology; Ellen Macrae in Psychology; Frank Neff in American History; Robert Overly in Spanish; Robert Rummel in Chemistry; Ada Williams in Mathematics, and Nathalia Wright in English.

THETA ALPHA PHI HAS INITIATION MEETING

Six new members were admitted to the Tennessee Delta Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi last night in a formal initiation at the home of Dorothy McCulloch. The new members, Mary Katherine Mize, Ruth Brocious, Roberta Robison, Lois Wallace, Reeder Carson, and Harry Mathias, were neophytes for the last five days of the week, and their informal initiation was concluded yesterday afternoon in the rooms of the Expression Department in the Chapel.

Mary Katherine Mize is eligible for membership in the fraternity for her acting in "David Harum", the winning play of last season, and in "Mary Rose" and "The Bat" this season.

Ruth Brocious was elected on the merit of her dramatic ability displayed in "When Knighthood Was in Flower", "Mary Rose". and Dracula".

Roberta Robinson has been accorded the honor membership for her excellent work as stage manager of "Peg O' My Heart" and her interpretation of roles in "When Knighthood Was in Flower", "The Melting Pot", and "The Little Journey".

Lois Wallace is entitled to membership on the strength of her dramatic interpretation in "When Knighthood Was in Flower", and "Within the Law", and for her stage managing of "The Little Journey".

For his work in roles in "Green Stockings", "The Swan", and "She Stops to Conquer" Reeder Carson has been accepted in the society.

Harry Mathias was elected on the basis of his acting in "The Swan", "Alison's House", "Mary Rose", and "The Enchanted April".

Y. W. MEETING

Miss Mary Keller, associate professor of Psychology and Education, will speak at the Y. W. C. A. meeting Sunday. She has chosen for her subject the single word "Steadfastly".

The devotions and the music have been selected with this particular topic in mind. A special feature of the musical part of the program will be a solo by Mr. George Crothers, Arta Grace Hope will be in charge of the devotions.

The meeting will begin at 1:15.

Soused Voice—"Hello, is this the city morgue. Well, this is the Medical school. We want you to come out and pick out the stiffs so the rest of us can go home."

Maryvillian's Attend D. A. R. Convention In Washington

A group of Maryvillians, consisting of Misses Clemmie Henry, Irma Gamble, Frances Massey, and Mrs. Lloyd, attended the National Congress of the Daughters of the American Revolution, held in Washington. This convention, which meets annually, and is attended by approximately 5000 people, was held this year from April 17 to 22. The delegation from Maryville attended in the interests of the institution.

Among the projects of the D. A. R. is the furtherance of certain approved schools, of the type of Maryville College. This list, which is comprised of 17 colleges throughout the United States includes Maryville. Each one of these colleges was given an allotted time to present their interests, ideals, etc. Miss Frances Massey set forth Maryville admirably in a short speech which was given on a program turned over to college affairs.

A pleasant feature of the convention was the reception in the White House at which the delegates were able to shake hands with and speak to Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt. The party reports a very enjoyable trip spent in attending the convention and sightseeing Washington.

BALDWIN HEDGE

To satisfy any curiosity that may exist a word might be said about the Baldwin hedge. For many years the high hedge around the Baldwin lawn created a rather attractive and useful enclosure; especially was this true when a roadway ran from the Chapel to the Book Store. But when the new walk was built last summer it was necessary to transplant the hedge as it stood on the line now occupied by the walk. Transplanting required cutting it short. The drouth last summer and the hard freeze this spring killed much of it and since growth of such a hedge is very slow, it was decided in the interests of appearance to take out all that along the new walk. The tall hedge at each end of Baldwin lawn will be kept for the present.

CIRCUS

(Continued from page three)

been withdrawn", but we stayed anyway.

The occasion was the great call to worn housewives to pull the freedom act and run to eat at the lunch counter. Negroes still sweating from the day's labor on the roads milled about the stand upon which stood the hula-hula girls giving the public a bird's eye view of their act. Straw, cigarettes, braying asses, and moaning cows added to the din of the little fat man on the box yelling for attention. Others whose sales had ceased stood sullenly by while the neighbor stole all the business.

Self confident (we had no money) we walked up to the sleek gentleman, his pockets and hands bulging with money, who yelled at the top of his voice, "Everybody wins, folks!" It wasn't long till the grait and trickery became evident to some of the more keen sighted members of the crowd, and, bursting with the desire to impart the knowledge, they dragged us down from the scene.

Battle Branch is reveling in its first carnival of the year, and its people are curious as simple people always are. The "Sunday clothes" which they wear are begged from others, but this does not dampen their pride as they parade in their simple way across the grounds.

INTERRACIAL

(Continued From Page One)

on Sunday morning. This service was planned and led by Mary Blanche. At the church hour a worship service was held, and Professor Davis delivered an address on "Christianity in the Social Order."

At the final meeting on Sunday afternoon Dean Maynard summarized the addresses and discussions of the conference, interpreting the meaning of the meeting to be the responsibility of individuals for the achievement of Christian attitudes in all social relations. Dean Maynard recommended certain resolution to the commission, which will be considered at the next weeting, to be held in Knoxville May 6.

An unusually fine spirit of fellowship pervaded the entire meeting. Morristown College and people in the city dispensed generous hospitality to the visitors.

Delegates representang Knoxville, Maryville, Tusculum, and Morristown Colleges were present at the conference. The Maryville delegates were Phyllis Dexter, Ruth Romig, Martina Robison, Mary Blanche, Marie Carlson, Pauline Coles, Phyllis Booth, Ruth Flint, Pearl Hunterr, Harriet Clark, Virginia Ross, and Roberta Robison.

SPORT SLANTS

(Continued from page three)

throng. After a moment of dillydallying he returned the sphere to the mound, where it was immediately put back into circulation. Loud cheers followed this act.

—S—

The Knoxville News-Sentinel sports page condescended to give the Scot cinder squad the first bit of acceptable publicity over the coming track clash last Tuesday evening. In an unbiased manner, as we had previously thought to be the opposite, they ceded us an even chance, and described the situation as one "with a colorful background" with reference to the meet held last season in which the Scotties lost by a nose. They said they were convinced that Maryville "was out to beat the Vols" . . . and they were right.

—S—

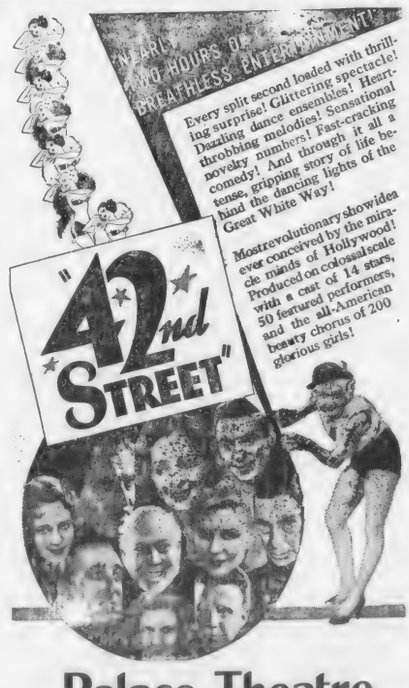
Cups and pins for the rapidly maturing golf course are planning to seek their holes before long. At the present one must simply play around until he sees a hole and then play for it. It might be mentioned that an impromptu driving range has been set up which takes in Wilson Field and the athletic field beyond.

—S—

By the way, we think we've discovered why these cigarette ads are banished from our worthy publication. Carnegie would soon became a hall of magic instead of a house of just plain devilment.

—S—

And now we'll close wiht:
Little Tommy Burns
Took a drink of hootch.
Little Tommy Burns . . . .



Meet Your Friends at
ECONOMY CAFE
We Won't Sell Beer

Clothing....
Distinctively Tailored

BOB WELLS, JR.

Wear a Flower for Mother
And send her a Floral Tribute
You will only ONE Mother
We deliver HERE or Far Away
CLARK'S FLOWERS

Palace Theatre
THURSDAY-FRIDAY
MAY 4-5

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 | THE HIGHLAND ECHO, MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE, MAY 12, 1933 | NUMBER TWENTY-THREE

G.W.Brown of New York To Give Commencement Address Thurs., June 8

Detailed Announcement Made Of Commencement Plans

The one hundred and fourteenth annual commencement exercises of Maryville College will be held at ten o'clock on Thursday, June 8. The annual address will be given by The Reverend George William Brown, M. A., of New York City, General Secretary of The American Bible Society. Mr. Brown occupies an important place in the great world-wide program of the Society. He is a young man, a graduate of Washington and Jefferson College and of the Presbyterian Theological Seminary, Chicago, was with the American armies in France, and before entering upon his present position was a pastor in Illinois and Pittsburgh. .

The Baccalaureate Sermon will be preached by President Lloyd on Sunday morning, June 4.

The detailed program for Commencement week is published in this issue of The Highland Echo. Commencement invitations and announcements are now being mailed.

Comencement brings to the campus many visitors including alumni, parents and friends of the graduating class, and others.

PROGRAM

Saturday, June 3

8:10 a. m.—Distribution of Prizes for 1932-33

8:00 p. m.—Graduation Exercises of the Music Department

Sunday, June 4

10:30 a. m.—Baccalaureate Sermon by President Lloyd

Monday, June 5

3:00 p. m.—Reception to Seniors and their Friends and Visiting Alumni by Dr. and Mrs. Stevenson (The House in the Woods)

8:00 p. m.—Graduation Exercises of the Expression Department

Tuesday, June 6

8:10 a. m.—Chapel Program—Music and Expression

9:00 a. m.—Senior Breakfast at The President's House

8:00 p. m.—Senior Class Play

Wednesday, June 7

8:10 a. m.—Chapel Program—Glee Singers and Women's Glee Club

3:00 p. m.—Senior Class Day Exercises

4:00 p. m.—Reception to Seniors and Their Friends and Visiting Alumni by President and Mrs. Lloyd (The President's House)

6:30 p. m.—Alumni Dinner (Pearsons Hall)

Thursday, June 8

8:30 a. m.—Meeting of The Directors

10:00 a. m.—Commencement Exercises—Address by The Reverend George William Brown, M. A., of New York City, General Secretary of the American Bible Society

Sophomores Plan New Type of Chilhowean For Ensuing Years

Maryville May Adopt Plan For Next Five Years

The sophomore class, acting through its officers and Chilhowean apprentices, took definite steps last week to introduce a new policy for the publicaiton of next year's Chilhowean. This decision, reached with the aproval of the faculty advisor, Prfessor Queener, was made in an effort to adapt the year-book to the special needs of Maryville students.

By reducing the cost of each page from fourteen dollars to twelve dollars, it was found that a satisfactory annual could be put out for $2000. This would mean a total cost reduction of from sixteen to twenty two hundred dollars. Such an annual would cost the student only $2.00, would lower class dues for seniors, from $10.00 to $5.00, for juniors from $6.00 to $3.00, for freshmen from $1.00. The edition would be self supporting, and would save the Chilhowean running into debt.

A year book published with such a policy of economy as an aim would be far more practical for a college with the particular needs of Maryville, than those which have so far been edited. The faculty favars the plan, and it is probable that the committee on publications will recommend that $2000 be the maximum cost of the Chilhowean for the next five years.

H. Mathias Elected New Y. M. President

Several Changes Proposed In Constitution

The annual balloting for next year's Y. M. C. A. officers took place in an orderly fashion at Bartlett Hall last Tuesday evening. With President Al Duff presiding the voting was quickly and easily disposed of and the new officers received their numerous congratulations. Before the ballot was taken Arthur Lazell read several new amendments to the constitution subject to criticism and approval by the students and members.

The ballots ran close for all officers. Result showed Harry Mathias president; Louis Krainolk, vice president; Warren Warmon, secretary, and Ernest Lowe treasurer.

The new officers will take office next September. The cabinet will be appointed by the presidnt sometime between now and the time he assumes his office. The newly-elected administration plans to organize on a progressive basis and carry even further the good work done by the present ruling body.

"TIRED FINGERS"

Tired fingers so worn, so white,
Sewing and mending from morn 'til night.
Tired hands and eyes that blink,
Drooping head too tired to think.

Tired arms that once had poised
A curly head to a mother's breast.
Tired eyes so soft, so short
Saying "Sleep well, darling, mother's near."

Tired fingers so worn, so true,
Sewing and mending the whole day through
From brink of dawn 'til setting sun,
A Mother's Work Is Never Done.

The new HIGHLAND ECHO staff met on Tuesday afternoon, May 2, and elected Miss Kay Carpenter editor for the school year 1933-34.

Miss Carpenter has served this year as Junior Associate Editor, taking this position at the opening of the school year and proving in that capacity to be an accomplished journalist. She came to Maryville from Tennessee Wesleyan College at Athens, Tennessee.

According to the report of the Business Manager of this publication,, there will be no more issues of the HIGHLAND ECHO this year. The financial report, as presented by the Business Manager, and as audited by the college auditor, Professor E. R. Walker, shows that the budget is entirely accounted for with the exception of a small number of uncollected bills with city advertisers.

Expression Department Offers Final Recitals

Two Last Recitals Promise Novelty

Two recital programs remain yet to be presented by the Expression Department. The first of these, which will be held May 15th, will consist of Channing Pollock's arrangement of "The Fool", read by Wesley Culver, and a one-act play, "The Feast of Faith", written by Bertha Russell, a former graduate of the Maryville College Department of Expression. Miss Russell, since her graduation in 1924, has had remarkable success as a play-wright, and has done some outstanding work in her field. A number of her plays have been published by Walter Baker, the well-known publisher of Philadelphia, a fact, which of itself, speaks for the merit of her work. Frank Neff at the organ will assist in the program.

The final recital, in which only expression graduates will participate, will take place on June 5th. A reading, "Friend Hannah", by Kester, will be given by Jean Campbell. Nathalia Wright will read the third act of Maxwell Anderson's "Elizabeth the Queen". A one-act play, "Pierrot and Pierrette", and the presentation of diplomas to the graduates by Dr. Lloyd will conclude the evening's entertainment. Music will be furnished by students of the violin department and by Francis Huber.

Those who are to receive diplomas are: Ruth Boyd, Ruth Brocious, Carrie Lou Tweed, Jean Campbell, Nathalia Wright, Roberta Robison, Mary Katherine Mize, Lois Wallace, Jessie Mai Ramsey, Michael Testa, and Wesley Culver.

OFFICERS ELECTED BY GIRLS' GLEE CLUB

At a business meeting of the Women's Glee Club last Wednesday plans for the ensuing year were discussed, and officers elected. They are: President, Lucille Swafford; Vice-President, Kathryn Wayland; Business Manager, Geraldine Smith. The Glee Club has enjoyed a very successful year, and is looking forward to the next.

M. C. Orchestra Offers Well Arranged Program For Tonight's Concert

Orchestra

The annual orchestra concert under the direction of Miss Mildred Butcher will be presented tonight at 8:15.

The features of the program will be a D Minor Concerto played by Garnet Manges accompanied by the orchesta instead of the usual second piano arrangement; a cornet solo by John Phay with orchestral accompaniment, and a clarinet solo by William McCormick accompanied by Miss Manges.

Il Trovatore, Barcarole and the Light Cavalry Overture are three popular numbers also to be given. Admission, instead of the usual 35c will be 25c. The program is as follows:

Il Trovatore ---------- Verdi
Orchestra
Rigoletto ---------- Verdi
William McCormick
Barcarolle (June) ---Tschaikowsky
From "The Seasons"
Naughty Marietta---Victor Herbert
Orchestra
"Nelly Gray" Air Varie--Chambers
John Phay (with orchestra)
Light Cavalry Overture----- Suppe
Orchestra
Concerto in D Minor---Mendelssohn
Garnet Manges (with orchestra)

Decided Success Marks First Campus Carnival

Program of Tapping, Speeches, Music, Attracts Crowds

Dr. Drinkham and his boys entertained the campus last Saturday evening beside Baldwin Hall with a diversified program of tapping, singing, and instrumental music. Dr. Drinkham otherwise known as Don Briggs, popular senior, was outstanding for his witticisms and stimulating glib discourses. The Drinkham Boys, Dan Hicks and Chic West, opened the program with a series of tappings. Next came the Faculty Trio, as the Drinkham Girls; Misses Johnson, and Henry, and Mrs. Newberry, gave a refreshing, if somewhat surprising inter-

(Continued on page four)

Maryville Student President of Tennessee Interracial Commission

Jerry Carter, Maryville College sophomore, was elected president of the East Tennessee Student Interracial Commission at the May meeting of the Commission, held last Saturday at Knoxville College.

The other incoming officers are Miss Mary Hoard, of Morristown College, who is vice-president, and Miss Marie Carlson, of Maryville, secretary.

Carter was vice-president of the commission this year. He has been active in the organization for the past two years, and it is expected that under his administration the Commission will engage in many constructive activities.

During the current school year the meetings of the Commission have been scenes of lively discussion and fine fellowhip, culminating in a week-end conference held at Morristown College April 14-16.

Resolutions of the conference, which were adopted at the May meeting put the Commission on record as opposing all discrimination on the basis of racial differences, as favoring equality of opportunity in tax-supported schools, and as actively striving for amelioration of the situation of all dominated minority groups.

Twenty students of Maryville College attended the meeting.

Initiation Writer's Workshop Next Week

The fact that there are quite a number of outgoing senior members made it possible for the Writer's Workshop to vote in an unusually large number of new members. At the election which took place at the May 3rd meeting, the following twelve people were selected to fill vacancies: Marian Faulkner, Violet Webb, Grace Proffitt, Phyllis Dexter, Maisie Thomas, Naomi Woods, Fern Metzgar, Maria Wynn, Louis Krainock, Theron Alexander, Harry Walrand, and Herbert Dunning. Of these five are juniors, seven sophomores.

Initiation of these and also of the members taken in the fall and spring semesters, will take place at the Workshop picnic to be held next Wednesday.

Y. W. C. A.

Mrs. Joe Brown Love from Knoxville, wife of the University Pastor, will be the guest speaker of the Y. W. C. A. on Mother's Day at 2:30. Mrs. Love is interested in dramatics among other things, and directs the pageants of the Church Street Methodist Church. Another feature of the program will be a reading by Maria Wynn. Marjorie Salmons will be in charge of the devotional part of the program.

Hebrew Music Subject Of Discussion At Last Faculty Club Meeting

Miss Hale Reads Interesting Music Research Paper

Miss Laura B. Hale was the speaker at the last monthly meeting of the Faculty Club on Tuesday evening, May 2nd. Her subject, "Jewish Music", involved the necessity of extensive research which Miss Hale, brought out in an interesting manner.

In trying to find the first recorded song in existence Miss Hale was led back to record after record, coming upon many so-called "blind alleys" but finally discovered in the Book of Exodus, Chapter 15, the first recorded song, humanity's first great song, for after Moses had led the Children of Israel across the Red Sea and delivered them out of the hands of Pharoah, he, with the multitude, lifted up his voice and sang, "I will sing unto the Lord for he has triumphed gloriously; the horse and his rider hath he thrown into the sea."

In the book of Gensis, Chapter 4, however, is the record of the first musician.. "And Adah bare Jabal; . . . . and his brother's name was Jubal; he was the father of all such as handle the harp and organ." Jubal was of the seventh generation..

The high lights in the history of Bible music were the introduction of psalms and singing under David, and its subsequent introduction into the temple service under Solomon. To David is attributed the fact that music became an organized part of worship, later however, it reached its peak with the antiphonal chorus effects in temple services in which not only voices sang antiphonally, but large number of instruments were used in supporting the voices.

Music reached its highest form during Solomon's time when it became highly embellished and more artistic. Some of the music used in the holiday synagogue services of the Jewish people of today is taken from the music of this early period. The effect of this music through the succeeding ages has resulted in music becoming part of worship as we have it at the present time.

In concluding, Miss Hale said "It is a long time from the first song at the Red Sea to Haydn's magnificent creation. It is a long time from the singing of simple music in an ancient tmeple to the swelling of the Hallehujah chorus by the most expert musicians of our time, but each was prompted by the same original impulse, to worship God through music, and to express through this sacred channel honor and glory to the one eternal God, whose mercy endureth for ever."

"Ends and beginnings—there are no such things,
There are only middles"—Forst

FEATURE—K. ORR

We don't know what other folks think of us, but we are inclined to believe that one of our besetting sins, or perhaps, one of our besetting virtues, is our remarkable ability to sleep. At no time of the year are we afflicted with insomnia; even on the most bracing winter afternoon we find it easy enough to take a nap in a dormitory, an accomplishment which, you must concede, is not to be sniffed at. E classes have been our worst trial. The soothing drone of the teacher's voice, the peace and quiet after a dinner in which carbohydrates were by no means lacking, have been so demoralizing to our good manners, that we've often found it hard even to look interested, much less to be so.

As long as we semed to be in the minority, we did not bother ourselves especially about our condition, but of late, half the students on this campus show signs of adopting our lethargic attitude. No longer can we sleep through E classes. The other members of the class are drowsy too, no one answers the questions put before the class, and the professor's voice is no longer soothing. We cast our eyes about over the lawns and see all sorts of people in all sorts of reclining positions. We hear one woeful tale after another of low test marks because people fell asleep while they were studying. We come into our room to take our afternoon siesta and what do we find but an imposter, snoozing peacefully and possessively in our beds.

Now such a state of affairs, we believe, requires immediate action. We are not sure that we are competent of prescribing a practicable remedy, but we find a few suggestions lurking around in the corners of our brains. We might inaugurate a business man's luncheon at Pearsons, consisting of a grapefruit, and a piece of dry toast. In that case our appetites would doubtless keep us awake. Or if that measure seems too drastic, we might make E classes, classes in correct sleeping and substitute them for certain gym classes. Another thought comes to us, a thought which we admit is a bit out of date, but which we offer nevertheless. Someone might start a sleep-

(Continued On Page Four)

FEATURE—K CARPENTER

We have decided that this is not going to be the feature article we intended. Features, or any other kind of exalted writng is beyond us, we find. In order to redeem ourselves for that statement we explain how it has become necessary for us to simply elaborate on how we tried to write a feature and why we failed.

You see it's like this—we have been studying the novel this term, and studying the novel entails being exposed to various and sundry styles. Styles, you say—yes, styles, my dears. That indefinable thing that—that makes it possible for one to distinguish his favorite author from any other kind. Each style puts one in a state of mind similar to that which the author must have been in—we think—and the consequence is that one's conversation unconsciously takes on a new hue, causing one's friends to look on in wonder, marvel, dismay or things worse.

That isn't so bad—most friends are willing to forgive what they think are mere twists of nature. But now, alack, alas, we have found we cannot take up our pen to write without being haunted in some peculiar manner by a phrase, passage, idea, or style from out of the many hundreds of pages we've been required to pore over.

For proof we cite an example from our first discarded feature sheet.

The fine food hath a fair look in its aspect, the fine food is found, alack, in faraway places: the sweet fortune lieth not with us in the matter of satisfyething (several corrections made) our unfortunate appetites: misfortune filleth the days of him that doth esteem himself ill fed. Contrariwise, if we respecte more the inward filling than the upper cramming, good Jupiter, into how many mischiefs do wee fall? Into whwat blindness are we ledde? Do we not commonly feel that in the long run, yes, does not experi-

(Continued on page four)

The Highland Echo

VERTON M. QUEENER - - - - Faculty Advisor
KAY CARPENTER - - - - - - Editor-in-Chief

STAFF EDITORS

BERNARD MATTINGLY - - - - - Literary Editor
CHARLES BEALE - - - - - - Sports Editor
RICHARD K. ORR - - - - - - - Activities Editor

JUNIOR ASSOCIATE EDITOR

VIOLET WEBB - - - - - - - Managing Editor
DOROTHY NETHERY - - - Associate Literary Editor
GRACE PROFFITT - - - - Alumni and Feature Editor

SOPHOMORE CUBS

KATHARINE ORR - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
HELEN RUSK - - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
ELIZABETH KUNKEL - - - - Associate Activities Editor
R. BRYAN PAYNE - - - - Associate Sports Editor
GEORGE F. GREINER - - - Associate Sports Editor
ALEX CHRISTIE - - - - - Associate Feature Editor

BUSINESS

ANDREW NEWCOMER - - - - - - Business Manager
HARRY MATHIAS - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
FRANK CLARK - - - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
HUGH CRAWFORD - - - - - Assistant Business Manager
MAURICE MAXWELL - - - - - Assistant Business Manager

Thirty Issues Per School Year by the Student Body of Maryville College

Subscription Rates - - - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Friay, May 12, 1933

Presbyterians in America and elsewhere have been shocked by the apparent apostacy of Pearl S. Buck. Mrs. Buck, who until recently has been a missionary under the Presbyterian board, has become widely known for her almost obscene novel "The Good Earth". Recently she spent some time in America during which she was highly praised, not to mention highly paid for her writings.

In a very recent magazine article Mrs. Buck expressed some exceedingly radical thoughts for a missionary. She seemed to be in some doubt as to whether such a personage as Jesus Christ ever existed. She was also, she stated, very dissatisfied with creeds and would prefer a faith without such encumbrances. She further astounded Christians by her assertion that Christ actually is not believed in by those who profess t follow him and that his name is seldom heard except at places of worship.

The response of the Presbyterian Church we are glad to note, was immediate and emphatic. Dr. Charles R. Erdman, president of the board of foreign misions of the church, and to whom Mrs. Buck is responsible in her stewardship, stated that the board upholds church doctrines and Mrs. Buck would be required to subscribe to that doctrine.

The question that naturally comes to our minds is what has Mrs. Buck been teaching as a missionary in China? For many years she has been in this service, and during that time of course has influenced many hundreds of Chinese youths and aduits. One wonders whether her teaching followed her own beliefs or those of the Christianity and Presbyterianism.

It has been a compartively short time since Mrs. Buck achieved fame in the field of fiction. Her success in that direction has made it possible for her to feel independent of the Presbyterian board, if she cares to. She doesn't, we suppose, have to subscribe to doctrines which she disagrees, nor need she engage in mission work. It appears she need not worry about her futute—ar least the immediate part of it—as an author. Whether or not there would have bee n a break with the mission board had there been failure at writing is a matter of conjecture. Success, it seems, often makes a great deal of difference in people's ideas and views.

James Bryant Conant has been named by the Harvard Corporation to be the next president of Harvard University. He is forty-one and is the third youngest man to be called to the presidency of Harvard.

—MC—

Reports from the Kentucy-Tennessee border swept by tornadoes on Tuesday night fix the known death total at 58. This brings to approximately 250 the number killed in the tornadoes which have swept portions of the Southern States in the past few weeks.

—MC—

Germany intends to be heard at the disarmament conference in Geneva. She has notified the conference that, among other things, if submarines are not abolished she will reserve the right to demand submarines too.

—MC—

The observance of Mother's Day is taking a new turn this year. For some years the observance of this day has been commercialized for the increase of business. Recently a committee was formed in New York which adopted for its name National Mother's Day Committee. This committee is representative or all sections of the United States and of the major educational and philanthropic organizations.

It is the belief of this group that a better and more worthwhile observance of Mother's Day could be promoted. The idea was conceived that many people whose mothers are no longer living would appreciate an opportunity of paying a tribute to their mothers. One of the truest tributes that could be paid to a mother would be to pass on to less fortunate women and children something of the ministry that was received from her.

That there are thousands of such destitute mothers and children who are hoping not for flowers and remembrances this Mother's Day, but for the barest necessities of life, is evidenced by a recent action taken in Congress. A resolution was introduced into both the Senate and the House of Representaitves calling upon the president to issue a special Mother's Day proclamation in the interest "of an unprecedentedly large number of unemployment or loss of their bread earners, are lacking many of the necessities of life."

The resolution calls upon "our citizens to express on Mother's Day of this year, our love and reverence for motherhood by the usual tokens and messages of affection to our mothers, and by making contributions, in honor of our mothers, through our churches or welfare agencies, for the relief and welfare of such mothers and children as may be in need of the necessities of life."

Such an emphasis is an admirable one, and surely much more worth-while than the old commercialized rule of order. This ought, for many mothers who have been desperately unhappy, to be a much fortunate Mother's Day than they had expected.

Pressed by European selling, the dollar has fallen to a new low in foreign exchange. At the same time there is a broad advance in stocks and commodities to the highest prices yet reached since the country went off the gold standard.

—MC—

Last Sunday night President Roosevelt gave his second nationwide broadcast outlining his views on economic measures, inflation, and world problems. He reviewed his program to date and gave his plans for the immediate future.

—MC—

Conversations preliminary to the World Economic Conference to be held in London June 12, are still being made in Washington. Within the last few days represetatives from China, Germany, and Holland have joined in parleys at the Capitol.

—MC—

Observations

CRAWLING BACK

And now we break down and offer the much waited for apology which, in all probability, should have come sooner, if not oftener, this year. We do this in due respect to Miss Nathalia Wright, the girl we put on the band-wagon entirely too vociferously (don't mind mixtures) last week. After a second reading of our "Observations", we felt downright ashamed that such a thing could go in with our name attached to it. We wouldn't let a member of our former staff say such a thing, and in keeping with fairness, we suppose that we shouldn't have done it ourselves. Therefore we're downright sorry, and we're hoping that Miss Wright hasn't lost all the respect that she might have sometime had for us.

AND GOING ON

We'd like to add a little to the Superior Scotties line while we're on this particular subject. The editor of that column just forgot to say that the Managing Editor of the paper this year has been Nathalia, and also, in keeping with the general tone of the entire staff, that she's been one of the best'erns. We just don't mean any wisecracks toward any up-and-coming person when we say that the next editor will have to move some to get the kind of satisfaction that we've had with Miss Wright's news hounding.

AND STOPPING

It was with some more grim satisfaction relating toward those whom we call our antagonists that we had our assignments this week include the writing of "Observations". We'd made about enough inexcusable errors this year that cause us to wonder whether or not we can, or could, have our job back next year. Now, though, we feel that we're set, and we feel further that Miss Carpenter has extremely good judgment. All of which is more or less directly to say that we enjoy the opportuity of occasionally panning the members of our student body and our faculty.

THIS WAS GREAT

Many were the comments to the effect that this May Day was one of the most successful in recent Maryville history, and we're glad to place a hearty endorsement on that. The novelty of the "months" performance and the little leaf act in which Wesley Culver starred, was beyond doubt, quite the thing. And, then, everything ran smoothly, and we're sure that's worthy criticism of May Day festivities.

FRIDAY

In the waning days of the school year, we'd like to have one more opportunity to give a rose. It goes this time to what we consider one of the most accomplished and most intelligent persons on this college green (we're not supposed to consider the faculty members in this analysis) who happens to live just opposite the way from us, one Frank R. Neff, Jr. We're quite under the impression that more people than Dot Casseres will miss Mr. Neff next year for his work in the Ministerial Association, his work with the Student Volunteers, his extra work with the Student Volunteer News Bulletin of which he has been editor the last two years, his work with the squad of Thrower which has been quite indispensable, and the last to be mentioned, his one big enterprise which has been to give the college the best in music with the one manual reed organ. And besides all this, Mr. Neff has a very good chance of being a Cum Laude student. It would be a simple accomplishment if Mr. Neff had not been disposed to take far too many cuts in several subjects, and suffer the consequent deduction of quality and quantity credits. Of course, we're apt to get some person to fill each of Mr. Neff's well done duties, but we're qquite sure that it won't be one person doing it all.

EVEN THE FRESHMAN

With Y elections and the accompanying ballyhoo we've heard a great deal about the faculty being for some people, and the students being (by natural law, we suppose) for someone else until we're forced, almost, to believe there's dissension in the ranks. We attended a banquet of the Highland Echo Staff the other evening at which a mixed crowd was present (that is, faculty and students), and from what we could determine on both sides, every individual was quite decidedly for himself, regardless of classification.

WUF, WURFF, DUFFF

Charley Beale offices just opposite us. We heard him begin one of his customary storms the other day and we went into his office, pulled down his blinds so Dr. Lloyd would not hear thinking he would ((not Dr. Lloyd; Beale)) attain his usual pitch) and listened to what he had to say. Charley's trouble was this; he had to place the pictures of Lib Duncan and the great Duff both on the same page and that was a phyisical impossibility with Duff's honors going below his pictures. We don't know what Charley did; he might have reduced those of Duff by 2-3 and then had barely enough room . . . but we'll wait till the annual comes out and see for our good selves.

SWAN SONG

In passing our last pass we'd like to be wishing everyone a happy and cool summer vacation with a minimum of tornadoes. We also wish those freshmen who are not coming back a happy year at Maryville next year. That goes for the sophomores and juniors. We also hope (and this is last) that you won't have as much difficulty scaring up the necessary wherewithal as we expect to have. Now go to the next column, and congratulations for getting through this one.

Book Browsing

Horace Liveright, New York, Robinson Jeffers, "The Roan Stallion", 1925, $3.00

Robinson Jeffers, one of the most interesting figures among contemporary poets, has been fittingly called "The poet of tragic terror." In "The Roan Stallion", one of his earlier books, are three long dramatic tragedies. The first, "The Roan Stallion", contains a vivid character portrayal of a woman in tragic circumstances. It is unpleasant, but unforgettable. "Tamar" is a powerful dramatic narrative on the stem Greek model. It is written in free verse which seems more prosiac than poetical in spots. In this poem, also, characters are portrayed with remarkable power. The grandeur and beauty of many of the lines give the poem, as someone has expressed it, "the roll and swing of the elder seas". Indeed, a hypnotic rhythm is characteristic of most of the Jeffers poetry.

"The Tower Beyond Tragedy", the third of the tragedies, is a unique treatment of the Electra story.

Serener, and perhaps having more real beauty, are the shorter poems in the book. These are not only more appealing from the thought content standpoint, but abound in exquisite imagery. "Joy", "Natural Music", People and a Heron", are as beautiful free verse as one would ask.

There is an unusual quality in the Jeffers imagery. In one instance, speaking of the dawn, the poet says "grey boils over the mountain.". He characterizes evening as "leopard-footed evening". Again we find "a huge beast in whose mane the stars were netted, sun and moon were his eyeballs."

Amazing expression is another of his characteristics. Such phrases as "pained thoughts found the honey peace in old poems"

and

"At night the half-moon was like a dancing girl,
No, like a drunkard's half dollar" linger in the memory.

Robinson Jeffers is an ardent realist. Many readers would be horrified by the extreme morbidity of his realism. He has often been criticized as a teller of shockingly tragic stories. On the whole his view of a world full of corruption and ugliness is far from cheerful. But the personal intensity with which he sets forth his thoughts make his poetry so powerful, even magnificent, that one reads on and on although he may heartily disagree with the philosophy expressed.

Mark Van Doren says of this remarkable book, "Few recent volumes of any sort have struck me with such force as this one has; few are as rich with the beauty and strength which belongs to genius alone."

FLORIDA CLUB

A meeting of the Florida Club was held in Bainonian Hall, Thursday evening, May 4. The program included the following numbers: a reading by Emma Morgan, a vocal solo by George Buffaloe, and piano solos by Bill Frish and Irene Branning.

NATURE CLUB

The Nature Club met Monday night, May 1, in the Zoology laboratory. During the business meeting plans were made for holding a picnic on Saturday, May 13. A paper on Smoky Mountain Park was given by Cecelia Conover.

Miss Josephine Hunter, Instructor in History and Head of Baldwin Hall, has been in the college hospital since last Monday because of illness. It is thought that she will be able to be out by the last of the week.

Poetry Corner

Sterile Mountain

I am dead
No person ever treads my back hoping to see something beautiful.
No person builds roads around me for men to travel over.
I grow no stately pine trees, and home no wild animals.
My back is of sheer worthless,
hard rock.

I am not of civilization—I am dead.

But I have my purpose.

I furnish power for men, to run their machines.
I fill rivers with gold from my deposits.
I give water to the fertile valleys that they may produce.

My purpose is not to live, but to give life to others.

—R. K. Orr

On Thoreau's Journals

As I read o'er the pages in this book
Admiring this strange life which you portray;
As I approve the way did forsake
The colorless conventions of your day;
As I go with you in this life
alone
To all the ends of life which you explore,
With no one near to comfort, to bemoan
Your fate, should you in fear, one's aid implore.
I realize in you a friend of men,
A friend of men sincere who lose their way
And live their entire lives without one plan
Except to be inspired by what you say.
When I encounter any mental strife
This book contains for me the way of life.

—R. K. Orr

President Roosevelt will formally open the Century of Progress Exposition at Chicago on May 27. The date of the opening of the World's Fair was advanced from June 1 to May 27 in order to make it possible for the President to attend.

—MC—

The Mills

The mills are still and silent
There is no ring of steel on steel
Nor any deafening hum
Of any giant wheel.

The furnaces are black.
No molten metal lights them now.
No flames leap forth from open doors
To scorch the laboring brow.

The crane is still and powerless.
There is no snap of shears,
And everything stands spectre-like
Among the dust of silent years.

At night no crimson flames
Leap far into the sky
From double rows of blackened stacks
To meet the watching eye.

The mills are still and silent.
There is no beauty anywhere,
Men only stand and hope and wait
For work that isn't there.

—Fern Metzger

Mahatma Gandhi has been released from prison and immediatley he began a three-week's fast of "purification" to call attention to the plight of India's 40,000,000 Untouchables. At the same time he called off the Indian civil disobedience campaign and anti-British boycott for a month.

CARLISLE'S
5c & 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective March 14, 1933

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	x4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30 p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

xConnections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland

Summer Pants...
You will feel lots more comfortable in a pair of our Summer Pants of Flannels and Whip Cords, and a large number of fancy weaves and patterns. We have them to fit any pocket book.
98c to $2.98
BADGETT STORE CO.
"THE STORE OF BETTER VALUES"

THE CHILHOWEAN
Will not be given out until all organizations, Clubs and Classes have paid their bills. Act now so the Annual may come out on time.

SPORTS

Coach Thrower's Scanty-Boys Show Class In Winning Regional A. A. U. Meet In Kentucky

Byar Ties College Mark In Century; Old Reliables Produce Good work

Maryville track fans learned with pleasure last Sunday that the Maryville delegation to the Southeastern invitation A. A. U. track meet on Saturday at Elizabethton, Kentucky, had captured first place in the men's participation. Thrower's delegation of ten men captured eight first, four seconds, and three thirds to garner enough points to nose out Emory and Henry, her nearest rival.

Byar, Scot sprint star, was high pointer for the winners, with a total of thirteen points. He was followed by Moore, who captured the long runs to gain ten points. In winning the 100-yard dash, Byar tied the college record of ten seconds flat. This is the second time that Byar has equalled the best mark of Maryville tracksters in the century.

Russell, mighty javelin tosser, failed to live up to his performance at U. T., but heaved the stick 169 yards to capture first honors. Toms, lanky leaper, hove himself into the air at a height of five-feet-eight to take first place in the high jump. He also failed to reach the heights he attained at Shields-Watkins but his mark was plenty to add another five points to Maryville's bid for the cup. In the pole vault Lavendar reached his best so far in Maryville competitive work and propelled his weight to eleven feet, one inch to win the pole vault.

Platt, Emory and Henry speedster, nosed Ed Greene out in a fast hurdle competition, also nudging Byar out for a win in the low timbers. Both these races were exceptionally fast, and the Scots coming in second were far from trailing.

Stuart Snedeker, who equalled the college record in the quarter against the Vols, framed up, along with Hitch, on the boys, and coasted the lap in 55:8 to win that event. Hitch was second.

In the half-mile Vaughn, highly touted L.M.U. runner, was completely outclassed by Jim Hitch, who traversed the distance in 2:05. The cup presented Maryville by virtue of her victory is a huge, but handsome, piece of artizanship. It is a symbol of an attempt to make this meet an annual affair.

Athletic Awards

Following a recent meeting of the Board of Athletic Control the following men and women were announced as having been awarded letters for this year's work in athletics:

Men receiving letters and sweaters in football:
West, Tom
Gillespie, Martin, captain
Gillespie, Hardy
Clark, Wade
Atchison, Frank
Kalman, Louis
Atkins, Jack
Gwynn, Stroud
Stone, Cecil
Tolliver, Ray
Holloway, James
Millsaps, Leon
Wilson, Don
Payne, Sylvester
Gamble, M. H.
Myers, Harold, manager
Russell, Ray
Collins, Delmas
Blazer, Lamar
Boretsky, Steve

Men receiving letters and sweaters in basketball were:
Lewis, James, captain
Stone, Cecil
Cherry, Ralph
Allen, Rex
Haub, Carl
Waldrop, John
Kizer, John
Moore, Clifton, manager

Receiving monograms for work in Women's Point System were:
Burchette, Delores—398
Davis, Katherine—380
Hale, Hazel—380
Blessing, Lois—360
Emigh, Florence—359
Doty, Ruth—356
Hammett, Christeen—346
Simmons, Kathryn—333
Hast, Grace—332
Coates, Dorothy—326
Robison, Martina
Carringer, Lila—311
Coker, Myrtle—309
Jaynes, Rena—302
Dick, Sara—300

SPORT SLANTS

By Beale

Those who condescend to read this sport page will maybe notice that there is no mention herein, in a separate article, of the recent U. T. debacle. Such an oversight is a result neither of a desire to slight deserving Maryville athletes nor of a wish to save our face, or rather what is left of our map. We jest figgered 'nuff was already said.

—S—

The last home ball game has been had. That is the last collegiate ball game. We reiterate, the last ball game has been had—and hot weather is just now getting here. It won't be long now before a pitcher can really heat up his ole soupbone and deliver nine innings worth of the bony-fidy. And here we are putting. Shucks!

—S—

Deserving of special mention somewhere, if not in the Maryville Hall of Fame, is Martin Gillespie's performance in Tuesday's game against Johnson City Teachers. Gillespie made four trips to the plate and collected four hits. He also fielded without an error. Doesn't sound too big—but try it!

—S—

Bob Thrower was click-clacking through his nostril (his one good nostril) the other day, and making wise-cracks at the boys who were doing their dead level best to hurdle like he said. Did he appreciate their efforts? Nah! He even told one star timber-topper that his form was a variation of the "henwaller shuffle." We thought it was right oute, though.

—S—

T'was just one week ago that Broker's Tip won the Derby up in the Land of Nod (corn). 'N we know how come. It wasn't because Col. Bradley was so smart, nor because the hoss naturally had the goods. It was because we chose Head Play to win. Our favorite only lost by a nose or so, so we're sure that without the several length handicap he labored under as a result of our picking him, he would have come in winner in a breeze. We ain't gonna predict no more. That must have bee an awful blow to those ladies who were hoss-swapping around there with Head Play.

—S—

Sports weren't so bad, once we got past fotball (oh yes, and basket ball). Only two collegiate losses with the home schedule already over is god enough for anybody's league. That's what General Honaker has done so far. And he only has the spring road trip left, so it begins to look like a successful season.

Prime Minister MacDonald has just announced in the House of Commons that there is "every prospect of an agreement" between Great Britain and the United States on an immediate tariff truce.

Diamond Stars Split Two Game Series With Teachers

Loose Playing Is Responsible For Scot Defeat In Last Home Game

Maryville and East Tennessee Teachers split a two-game series here Monday and Tuesday, Maryville losing what will probably be the last home game of the year. The Johnson City team, coached by Jean McMurray, son of Dr. J. H. McMurray of Maryville, showed signs of power, but was handicapped by weaknesses at the bat.

In the first game Atchison allowed the visitors six hits and two runs, breezing to victory as the Scots clubbers bunched hits in the third inning to score five runs and win 7-2. Clark was the only local to get more than one hit, all but one Scot clout coming in the third inning.

Score by innings:

Teachers	100	100	000—2
Maryville	115	000	000—7

Clark and Atchison; Sams and McCall.

The second game was a more closely contested affair, with Maryville coasting along on a 3-1 lead until the seventh, when the Teachers scored two runs to tie the score In the ninth, after Loessberg had weakened and Atchison sent to relieve him, two runners scored before "Butter" had the arm limbered appropriately. The Scots could make no hay in their turn in the sunny ninth, and the game ended with the visitors in possession of the spoils.

Score by innings:

Teachers	000	001	202—5
Maryville	002	010	000—3

Graf and Loessberg, Atchison; McCall and Seaton.

Campus Golf Course Ready For General Use

Students Invited To Participate In Golf Matches

Cups and flags have been placed for nine holes of the proposed golf course. It has not been possible this year to construct real greens and the fairway grass is not short enough for the best results. The College had hoped to secure the use of a regular fairway mower but was unable to do so and under present conditions does not feel justified in purchasing one. But the field mower used cuts the grass short enough to allow playing by "winter rules", if players keep their eyes on the balls.

Tee No. 1 is at the end of the tennis courts behind Carnegie Hall. You play parallel to the lower fence and the railroad track to green No. 1 just across the walk which runs down the hill over the "corduroy" from Baldwin Hall. Green No. 2 is in the corner of the campus toward "Little Town"; No. 3 is near the Hospital; No. 4 over the trees near the College Farmer's House; No. 5 down the big field near the sign; No. 6 back by the Hospital; No. 7 toward Town, near the location of the old house recently torn down; No. 8 near the walk below Baldwin; No. 9 behind the Chapel.

Most of the holes are short enough for iron clubs but adequate for real playing. Every one is welcome to the use of the course.

A conference of France and her colonies is being held and in many ways it bids fair ultimately to have as profound an effect on world trade as the British Empire Ottawa Parley. It is the beginning of a supreme effort by France to make her vast colonial empire as self-contained as possible.

Railsplitters Drop a Pair To Scot Baseballers

Loessberg Clouts Homer To Score Two And Win Own Game

On May 4 and 5, the Highlander baseball machine took a pair of close games from the L. M. U. Railsplitters by the scores of 4-3 and 6-3. Both games were played on a wet field, causing several freak plays to come off, the Scots snatching victory from the jaws of defeat in both games in the final frame. In the first game, pitcher Loessberg after giving up only six hits in the nine innings, went to bat in the ninth with Jim Holloway on base and hit a four-bagger to win the contest for himself. The second game was also won in the last inning, Gillespie scoring on Holloway's fly to center field, and Stone and West scoring on Loessberg's triple.

In the first game the Harrogaters set the pace the entire game, holding a 3-2 lead on Maryville as the ninth inning opened. Loessberg pitched excellent ball the entire route, but his mates seemed not to be able to bunch their plate energies into a scoring drive. Gillespie, with two hits for three times at bat, and Stone with three for four, carried away the batting honors of the day.

Score by innings:

Maryville	000	011	002—4
L. M. U.	100	020	000—3

Clark, Graf and Loessberg; Slover and Grimsley, Bowling.

In the second game Doc Duff orthodox Kentucky Boatman, held the Railsplitters at bay for seven innings, allowing six hits and three runs. In the meanwhile, his mates garnered four hits off Bowling to score six runs. The infield was very muddy for this game, but the infielders prospered in spite of it, only three errors being recorded against them.

Score by innings:

Maryville	300	000	003—6
L. M. U.	030	000	000—3

Graf and Duff; Slover and Bowling.

Beer of 3.2 per cent alcohol by weight is now sold legally in thirty states. Laws have been passed permitting its sale at later dates in several other states.

—MC—

A demand that either the interest or principal of foreign debts be reduced and the markets of the big nations be thrown open will be made by Greece at the World Economic Conference according to the Greek Foreign Minister.

—MC—

Eugene Black, Governor of Atlanta Federal Reserve Bank, is definitely slated to succeed Eugene Meyer as Governor of the Federal Reserve Board. Mr. Meyer has resigned.

—MC—

According to statements by Postmaster General Farley the deficit of the Postoffice Department this year will be less than half what it was a year ago— $72,000,000 compared with $153,000,000.

France has made no definite decision about her war-debt payment to the United States which she deferred last December. The matter has been discussed but she is leaving the next move up to the United States.

—MC—

Farm foreclosure riots broke out in Iowa last week and martial law was declared. 147 rioters were arrested. The situation is now under control and martial law will end as soon as the trials begin.

Freshmen Tracksters Amass Crack Aggregation To Cop Intramural Cinder Meet On Thursday

Yearlings Pile Up 50 Points While Juniors Are Second With 41; Seniors Take 25, Sophs 11

Pulling ahead in the closing events of the day, the freshman class piled up fifty points to take the championship honors in the intra-mural track meet held yesterday on the college cinder circle. With each class supplied with individual stars, the fate of the decision between the frosh and the juniors, who trailed second with 41 points, rested entirely with the boys who came out and plugged in for seconds and thirds. Four men, two juniors, one freshman and one senior took two first places. Peery, of the seniors, was individual high-pointer of the day, capturing two first places in the mile and half-mile, and a third in the low hurdles. Springer, junior, took a monopoly on the hurdles, winning both high and low timber-topping, while Gamble, husky freshman, heaved his way to firsts in both the discus and the shot put. Hugh Powel, of the junior team, sped for firsts in the 220-yard dash and the quarter. Perhaps the best individual performance of the day was that of Kipp, junior centurion, who sprinted the hundred in the crack time of 10:6.

The summar:

Mile Run—Peery (S), Badgett (F) Hogland (S); 5:15:08.
440 Yard Dash—Powtl (J), Saint (F), Slawson (J); 57:6
100 Yard Dash—Kipp (J), Stone (So), Waldrop (F); 10:6
Shot Put—Gamble (F), Haub (J); 35:6
Pole Vault—Waldrop (F), Wright (J), Stevenson (F); 9:3.
120 Yard High Hurdles—Springer (J), Stevenson (S), Jess (So; 20:00
880 Yard Run—Peery, Lodwick, (Slawson and Adams) 2:12:02.
High Jump—Barras (J), Stakely (F), Keeton (F); 5:5
220 Yard Dash—Powell (J), Stone (So), McCormick (F); 25:00
Discus—Gamble (F), Wright (J), Ramsey (So); 98:10
2 Mile Run—Gillis (F), Stevenson (S), Lockerby (F); 11:32:02
220 Yard Low Hurdles—Springer (J), Saint (F), Peery (S; 30:00
Broad Jump—Fischbach (S), Hardy (F), Obert (F); 19:3.
Javelin—Lehr (F), Fischbach (S), Tripp (J); 144 feet.

Black calls to the attention of the male students their unconscious encouraging of a "Butt Place" Younger boys, around Union College, following the example of the college men, are fast developing the habit of smoking.

COLLEGIATE SWAPS

We aren't the only people who have "goin' home" on our minds it seems. Judging by the number of commencement programs occupying the front pages, and the number of farewell editorials everybody else is anticipatin' a little aussi. Which will go the same next fall on the reverse trip, y' know.

—:—

The library of the Polytech Institute is not to be opened at night during the spring, short term. Evidently the students plan to make hay while the sun shines.

—:—

Lenoir Rhyne is up and coming for the college has been admitted to the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States.

—:—

"The Future of women in public speaking promises much" says the Asheville Normal and Teachers College. We always knew the women could speak but why has it taken the college so long to discover this fact too.

—:—

A course in courtship and marriage is to be given at the Asheville Normal and Teachers College. Wonder how many of the girls will remain old maids now.

—:—

200 of the 278 students of the University of South Carolina who withdrew or were dismissed were discharged because they were unable to meet the standard of the course of study.

—:—

U. of S. C. has changed its cut system entirely, the most interesting fact being that seniors with a B average are granted voluntary attendance to classes.

—:—

An editorial of the Orange and

SELECT YOUR MOTHER'S DAY CANDY
.. At ..
BYRNE DRUG COMPANY

BEST WISHES
To Faculty and Students of Maryville College. Hurry back.
WALKER'S DRUG STORE AND TEA ROOM

Trust your children and friends in our care
We Do Not Sell Beer
ECONOMY CAFE

"Always at Your Service"
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

Have You Seen Coach Thrower's New Car?
McNUTT MOTOR CO.
CHRYSLER—PLYMOUTH
SALES AND SERVICE

Freight Rates Are Cheapest
let us crate your Trunk for shipment
A. E. ANDERSON & SON
Lumber and Mill Work
SEE "SLIM" MAXWELL

WRIGHT'S 5C AND 10C STORE
"Where A Little Money Goes A Long Way"

Office Announces Registration Plans

New Ruling Made Regarding Reservation Fees

The following anouncements concerning registration and reservatios for the coming year have come from the registrar's office:

Registration will be as follows:
Juniors, May 17, 18, 19
Sophomores, May 22, 23, 24
Freshmen, May 25, 26, 27

These will be the only dates for registration. Those who do not register with their classes on dates arranged for cannot be registered until September.

Unless the fee of $15.00 required of all students, is sent to the Registrar by September 1, a student is not assured of places in the classes for which he may have registered.

As to room reservations, beginning with this year, no separate room deposit fee will be required. The advance payment of fifteen dollars, required of both old and new students, will include a room reservation fee. Until July 15, old students will be given preference over new applicants. After July 15, rooms will be assigned in the order of application.

Y. W. C. A. Cabinet To Form New Protective Rulings For Y Rooms

Conditions Require More Strict Regulations Regarding Their Use

In the near future the Y. W. C. A. cabinet expects to draw up some regulations in regard to the use of the reading room. Since all girls are members of the Y. W. C. A. this room is open to the women of the college, provided that the proper use is made of it. To make clearer to those who have forgotten for what purpose the room was intended the cabinet will formulate these rules, and post them.

The attention of those who use the room is called to the fact that only the furnishings are the property of the Y. W. The room itself belongs to the college.

Many enjoyable afternoons and evenings have been experienced in the Y. W. rooms by various groups, and it is hoped that this may continue. Present conditions, however, demand a more rigid ruling. Unfair advantage has been taken of the fact that the Y. rooms are not carefully supervised. At present protection of the property is the apparamount issue.

CAMPUS CARNIVAL
(Continued From Page One)

pretation to a group of delightful songs. Thornhill, Clopton, and Courteney, the Drinkham Harpists, played several good numbers. The singing of The Dixie Vagabonds, in the role of the Drinkham Harmony Harmony Boys, was very well received. William McCormick, playing the part of Tooter Drinkham, presented several pleasing numbers on his saxophone. Last, came the whirl wind tap dancing by the versatile Carrie Lou Tweed and Vi Webb. Interspersed throughout the entire program was the scintillating music of the Alpha Sigma orchestra. A moon, almost full, added that extra touch which made the whole program delightfully entertaining, and altogether the first campus carnival was a decided success.

The Social Committee wishes to thank the Student Body and those who took part in the program for their wholehearted support.

Former Music Teacher Returns To Fill Vacancy

Mrs. Earl McCall of Loudon, Tennessee is now filling the position recently left vacant by the resignation of Miss Susan Logan Howard.

A graduate of the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, Mrs. McCall, as Miss Ethel Adkins taught music at the College until her marriage two years ago. She was one of the most popular teachers on Maryville campus, and her return is heralded with enthusiasm. Old and new students join in extending to Mrs. McCall a welcome back to campus activities.

Premier Azana of Spain in a sudden and unexpected move caused the arrest of army officers who opposed the passing of a gag bill which would establish a virtual dictatorship dominated by the Socialists. Spain seems to be headed for a dictatorship.

New Editor Appointed To Take Neff's Place World News Bulletin

Freshman Apprentice To Fulfill Position As Chief

Mr. Alex Christie has received appointment by the president of the Student Volunteers to act as editor in chief of the Student Volunteer World News Bulletin for the remainder of this year and during next. Mr. Christie, a freshman this year, has been in active engagement with the work of this bulletin since the beginning of school, holding the positions of reporter, assistant managing editor, managing editor, and now editor-in-chief from the date of appointment, April 23rd. He displaces Frank R .Neff, Jr., who has edited the bulletin since it was founded on March 23, 1931, by Miss Alma J. Schoeller, of the class of 1932.

Mr. Neff is the last of the present seniors to leave the staff of the bulletin. At present, after a gradual process of supervised elimination of seniors, the staff is composed mostly of ophomores and freshmen.

The work of the reporters on the staff of the bulletin is to cover the world news and report weekly incidents of general world interest. Each reporter has a specific and limited field to cover. The news is divided into the fields of religious, economic, general sociological, scientific, educational, and political interest.

Highland Echo Staff Enjoys Fourth Annual Banquet Sat., May 6

The Fourth Annual Banquet of the Highland Echo Staff was held in the New Providence Church last Saturday evening with Dr. Hunter as toastmaster.

Most of the program was given over to short speeches. Four former editors, Prof. Queener, Mrs. Traylor, Mr. Hina, and Mrs. Allison were present and recalled many pleasant and humorous incidents which happened during their editorship. Then next year's senior staff members spoke in both light and serious vein of the work of the coming year. The graduating members of the staff each had a few words to say and enlivened the evening with humorous anecdotes of the past year's issues. Between these speeches tap dancing by Violet Webb, and piano selections by Charlotte Upp were given. The program also included toasts from the old to the new editor, from the new editor to the staff, from the staff to the faculty committee, and also to the departing seniors.

Unique Theme Runs Thru Men's Glee Singers Banquet

The Men's Glee Singers of Maryville College had their annual banquet Thursday evening, May 11. The theme throughout the program, "Rhapsody in Blue", dominated the music, speeches, and menu. The courses of the dinner were "movements", in keeping with the musical mood. Dr. Ralph W. Lloyd, president of the college, was toastmaster.

During Movemen t I. Donald Briggs gave a toast to the ladies, to which Mary Katherine Mize responded.

In Movement II, Garnet Manges played "Rhapsody in Blue" as a piano solo, and Wesley Culver gave a vocal solo.

Movement III was featured by a toast to Song, by Gordon Grooms, after which the Dixie Vagabond Quartet sang.

In Movement IV speches were made by the retiring president, Robert Overly, and the incoming president, Arthur Courtenay.

During Movement V, William Hannah offered a toast to the Future, and all of the members and their guests sang "Auld Lang Syne".

The dinner was prepared and served by members of the Home Economics Club.

TRIANGLE CLUB

On Thursday, May 4, the Triangle Club held its monthly meeting in the Y. W. reading rooms. A varied program was given, Opal Johnson played popular music on the piano. A reading "Gretna Green", was given by Roberta Howie. Professor Crothers sang "Invincible", "Sylvia", and "A Perfect Day". Eleanor Denslow closed the program with a reading, "A Matter of Discretion".

Organ Recital In Voorhees Chapel

By Frank R. Neff, Jr., '33

PROGRAM FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 4, 1933, 4:00 P. M.

Hymn Tune: Maryville ---------- Neff

Praeludium Pastorale et Choricum ---------- Neff
Symphony No. 5, in B-Flat Major ---------- Schubert
I. Allegro
II. Andante
III. Menuetto
IV. Allegro vivace

El Capitan March ---------- Sousa
Country Gardens ---------- Grainger
Two Numbers from The Messiah ---------- Handel
I. Recitative: Comfort Ye My People
II. Aria: Ev'ry Valley Shall Be Exalted
Wesley Y. Culver, '33, Tenor
Toccata and Fugue in D Minor ---------- Bach

Maryville Men Meet Cumberland In Last Debate For This Year

The closing debate of this school year was held on Friday night, May 5. The visiting team, from Cumberland University, upheld the affirmative side of the intercollegiate question on the war debts, and were represented by Harold Stephens and LeRoy Slinker. Maryville, debating the negative side, was represented by Jesse Carter and Earle Crawford. Benjamin Groves presided.

The debate was well attended and proved to be one of the most interesting of the season. The question was debated without judges and no decision was given.

MINISTERIAL BANQUET SATURDAY EVENING

On Saturday, May 13th the Annual Banquet of the Ministerial Association will be held at the New Providence Presbyterian Church. Dr. Stevenson, popular college pastor, will act as toastmaster. The speaker of the evening will be the Reverend O. R. Tarwater, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church. James Smith and Marie Carlson, college students, will also appear on the program. From sixty to seventy students are expected to attend.

THETA ALPHA PHI ELECTS NEW OFFICERS

Michael Testa was elected president, and Lois Wallace secretary, of Tennessee Delta Chapter of Theta Alpha Phi, at a meeting of the chapter held Tuesday afternoon in Mrs. West's classroom.

This election was the last official action of the fraternity this year, since it was not deemed wise to attempt a paly.

Members of the chapter who will remain in and near the college next year include Michael Testa, Lois Wallace, Harry Matthias, Mrs. West, Dean Hunter, Mrs. Sara Moore Traylor, Harry Gauding, and Dorothy McCulloch.

ALUMNI BANQUET AT PRINCETON, NEW YORK

Thirty-one Maryville Alumni met in Princeton, April 29, for the Fifth Annual Banquet of the Atlantic Highlander. Dinner was served at the Peacock Inn with Luther Hammond '28 acting as master of ceremonies. Dr. J. Ross Stevenson, President of Princeton Seminary and a director of Maryville College, extended a welcome to the group; J. Gordon Jeffries '28 responded.

The program consisted of music and stories presented by Percy Buchanan, '22, Naomi Willingham, '32 Robert Jones, Billy Mayer, Willie N. (Harold) Laster '30; Ralph Teffeteller and George Osborne '32; Dr. E. E. McCulloch '06; Mrs. Charlotte Messler Carr '21, and by L. Clouser.

The officers elected for the ensuing year were:
H. Gordon Harold '27—President
Mrs. Phyllis Anderson Hammond '27—Vice Presiednt
Lynn B. Rankin, '31—Secretary and Treasurer

LA CERCLE FRANCAISE

La Cercle Francaise at its meeting on May 3, elected the following officers:
President—George Stanley
Vice President—Dorothy Nethery
Secretary—Marie Bailey
Treasurer—Walter Cloud
Program Secretaries—Violet Webb, Phyllis Dexter, James Stevenson, Lowell Busler.

The feature of the program was a play entitled "Cupidon, Dentiste". The characters were George Stanley, Marie Bailey, Walter Cloud, Dorothy Nethery, Jeanne Warren, James Stevenson.

Alumni Association Plans Banquet For June 7 at Pearson's

The Alumni Association of the College is planning an interesting program for the annual banquet which is to be held on the evening of June 7 in Pearsons Hall.

In addition to the visitors and alumni who will attend commencement on account of their interest in this year's graduating class, several classes are planning reunions.

The class of '08 will celebrate its twenty-fifth anniversary; the class of '13 will observe its twentieth and that of '23 exepcts a large attendance at its tenth reunion.

All alumni, the members of the senior class, the faculty and the parents of seniors are eligible to attend the banquet, which is always a high point in the events of commencement week.

MISS JONES RETURNS

Miss Anna J. Jones, registrar, has returned to her office after a month's absence. Miss Jones was out because of an attack of influenza. Because of her illness, it was necessary to postpone registration.

TRUTH ESSAYS DUE

All essays written by freshmen on "The Value of Truth" are due this week, so that they may be judged before Commencement. The prize to be given to the person writing the best essay is a gold medal, which is valued at not less than fifteen dollars and not more than twenty-five dollars. The prize was provided for in the will of Mr. Benjamin Rush Strong of Knoxville, Tennessee, and is called the Ruth Strong Medal. The medal was won in 1932 by John Robert Hollway.

FEATURE—By K. Carpenter
(Continued From Page One)

ence teach us—

At that point we paused to analyze. Something was wrong. Could it be Euphues? We decided for the good of our reputation and our readers we had best make a second attempt.

No, no, let us consider with thought, and think with acknowledging, and acknowledge with hope, and hope with desire, and desire with expectation, and expect without optimism a revolutionary change in our diet. Let us in sort realize, I say, that our poor hopes were so futile as to be impossible and our longings so far-fetched as to bring us no anticipation of an immediate release from beans and beans, and then, of course, beans.

You see what we were up against? But we're ordinarily both determined and optimistic, so we endeavored to pull our minds out of the atmosphere of the "Countess of Pembroke's Arcadia" and write a Maryville College feature. We tried once more.

Thereupon Hopeful began to answer that he had only wished for himself a little, that that little of which he doth dream was but a piece of cherry pie or a shrimp cocktail. And, said he, as for pleas, I make none, being myself a man of peace; the parties who sent us here withal, were interested in the welfare of our minds, not our bodies, and wherefor should I complain.

So we gave up. If even John Bunyan had his effect upon us, we are henceforth and forevermore branded as a novel reader, not writer, and consequently must limit ourselves to certain fields of action—among which feature writing is the "scaredest" thing we is of.

On looking over our thought (?) we find there was at least consistency in that. Perhaps, after all, we were merly hungry, and as such were more or less irresponsible.

M. Club Closes Year's Program with Week-end Outing Near Walland

On Saturday, May 6, members of the girl's "M" Club went to the Gamble's Cabin near Walland for a week-end trip, and returned early Monday morning. Members going on the trip were: Mary Gillingham, Cecelia Conover, Mildred Schoeller, Mary Hollis Carter, Katherine Wayland, Sarah Dick, Grace Hast, Mary Gamble, and Mrs. Queener. The girls spent most of the time in hiking and hunting for wild flowers.

The "M" Club has been very active during the past year. A business meeting is held once every month. At the special meetings, a program of swimming, hiking, aerial dart, or some other sport is enjoyed by the girls.

Piano, Voice Recital Very Well Received

National Music Week on Maryville campus was ushered in by the attractive joint recital of Miss Ruth Henry and Miss Norma Spilatore on Monday night. The recital was a pleasing combination of well-chosen piano and voice numbers. Among the selections played by Miss Henry were "Waltz A Flat Major" by Brahms, three Etudes by Chopin, and "Dedication" by Schumann-Listz. The "Second Concerto in G Minor" by Saint-Saens, with orchestral accompaniment by Miss Manges was also well received. Miss Henry's interpretation is particularly worthy of comment.

Miss Spilatore's eight numbers were varied and attractive, ranging from an operatic aria to a German folk song and an Armenian lullaby. Her choice of songs required that she sing in three languages, Italian, French, and German. In "Als die Alte Mutter" Miss Spilatore's tones were especially clear and full. Miss Carrie Pearson was her very excellent accompanist.

SORCE WINS ATHENIAN ORATORICAL CONTEST

Seven contestants participated in the oratorical contest held by the Athenian Literary Society last Saturday night. The contest proved an interesting and instructive one. Phil Sorce, whose subject was "Andrew Johnson, the Product of Democracy", was awarded the decision. His oration was well prepared and delivered in a pleasing manner. The prize, which was a gold piece, was awarded him by the society president, Leslie Webb.

Acting as judges were Professor Davis, Dr. Knapp, and Dr. McMurray.

FEATURE—By K. Orr
(Continued from page one)

ing marathon. That, at least, would give chronic sleepers a legitimate excuse to indulge in their favorite avocation. There may be other cures for this particular epidemic that has spread about over our campus but we can't think of them at present—we're sleepy.

Pearson's Series
KERN'S
Good Bread and Cakes
KERN'S BAKERY
South Henley St.
KNOXVILLE, TENNESSEE

Cleaning and Prices Are Going Up!
Let us do your Cleaning before you leave
COLLEGE CLEANERS

THE WEBB STUDIO
Take this opportunity of thanking the students for their patronage during the year, and of wishing them a happy and prosperous vacation
COLLEGE STREET

You don't need a college education . . . but you've got to be young to like brev for co-eds

And we don't mean just young in years...but young in spirit. For brev-co-ed is the youthful, slim belle-sharmeer stocking designed exclusively for the younger generation and sold exclusively by us. And it's perfectly swell! Looks like a million and costs practically nothing. In the swankiest new shades, 75c, $1.00 and $1.35 the pair.

belle-sharmeer
STOCKINGS
designed for the individual

CHANDLER-SINGLETON CO.
DEPARTMENT STORE

1933 - 1934

THE LAMAR MEMORIAL LIBRARY OF MARYVILLE COLLEGE

The Highland Echo

VOLUME ~~10~~ 19 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE SEPTEMBER 16, 1933 NUMBER ONE

Plans For Big Year Made By Y at Tallassee

Cabinet Vacancies Filled And New Rules Drawn Up

The annual Rerteat, a joint conclave of the Y. organigations was held, previous to the opening of the College, at Tallassee, on September 9, 10 and 11.

"The Master's Mind—Our Mind's Master" was the theme around which the program centered. The main speaker, Dr. Lloyd, conducted the Sunday afternoon service. In bringing out the point, "The Master's Mind—Our Mind's Master", Dr. Lloyd included some of the very interesting background history of Maryville College.

In the morning Miss Jessie Johnson addressed the Cabinet on "Our Future Y. W." and Miss Clemmie Henry addressed the Nu Gamma Leaders on "A True Maryville Girl."

Plans for the welcoming of the new students were almost as important topics in the joint meetings as the plans for the future Y. M. and Y. W. work.

The distribution after supper of the "M" Handbooks to the (officers and cabinet) of both organizations was followed by a social hour of games and singing. A brief meditation period, "Jesus in My Thought Life", was conducted by Tess Frey, the Y. W. President. After the Sunday sunrise service with Warren Warman as the leader, conference periods were held from 9 until 11. The Y. M. discussed Fellowship work while the Y. W., before dividing into groups to be addressed by Miss Johnson and Miss Henry, listened to a report by Phyllis Dexter who had attended the Blue Ridge Convention during the summer. The evening conference periods consisted of Worship and Music for the Y. M. and Nu Gamma Groups and Cabinet Meeting for the Y. W.

Meetings, separately and jointly, were the main occupation of Monday morning. The Y. W. as well as the Y. M. discussed in its business metings not only the subject of the organization's scores but also the subject of the constitution. Following the separate business meetings a joint meeting to effect the arrangements for the welcoming of the new students was held. "Red" Courtenay, Chairman of the Welcome Committee, assigned definite tasks to the members present, while Marie Wynn and Erceile Hunter reported plans for the Tuesday and Wednesday evening programs. At this meeting announcement was made of

(Continued on page four)

The President's Greetings

The Opening of College! Greeting old friends, welcoming new ones! The experience never grows old or uninteresting. When Commencement Day is over in June the vacation months ahead are likely to seem pleasant to faculty and students alike; but when the Fall opening arrives there is a joyous eagerness to be back on the Hill. And the few of us who have spent a considerable part of the Summer here are happy to see the others come.

I am glad to speak this word of welcome through the pages of the Echo, and to wish for each student, old and new, a delightful and profitable year.

Ralph Waldo Lloyd.

All Students, Old, New, Urged Attend Pow-Wow College Woods Tonight

The big opening event of the year for the Y M C A will be held this evening in the College Woods. All men are asked to meet in front of Bartlett Hall at 7:30.

In the words of the YM Administration "Fellows, this is for you, old and new. We want you. Come out and get into the Maryville Spirit. We wanna get acquainted. Everyone who enjoys a good snappy program and plenty of watermelon will be with us. Let's go!"

The new men are especially urged to come. Old students will be there without a second invitation.

Y. W. C. A.

To You, New Students—

Since there is no Land of Beginning Again we want the opening days of your college life to be alive with that intangible Maryville spirit which contributes to the growth of contentment and of joy, and of friendships.

A wise man once said that we are interested in other people when they are interested in us. That is the keynote of Maryville spirit. You will find, as we all did, that faculty members and students alike are vitally interested in your happiness and success here. When you realize this your interest in us will grow and you will be imbued with the spirit of the campus.

As we welcome you here, our wishes are many, but, above, all we want you to feel that you are a necessary part of Maryville.

Sincerely,
Theresa Frey,
President of Y. W. C. A.

Number Of Changes Made On The Faculty

Fields Takes Howell's Place As Dean of Men

The College officers, faculty, and staff for this year is the same as during last year with a few exceptions.

Dr. Paul E. Fields, Head of the Department of Psychology and Education, has been appointed Dean of Men also.

He will serve as a counsellor of men students and will have supervision of their general and social life and work. Dr. Fields came to Maryville a year ago from Leland Stanford University where he had been for two years as a Fellow of the National Research Council. His A. B. and A. M. degrees are from Ohio Wesleyan University, and his Ph. D. degree from Ohio State University. He has taught at the latter institution and at Iowa State University, and has had considerable interest and experience in the things which usually pertain to the Dean of Men's office.

Miss Josephine R. Hunter, who Head of Baldwin Hall last year, has not yet recovered sufficiently from her serious illness of the Spring to resume her duties. She is at her home in Pittsburgh, Pa., and we are glad to learn is gradually regaining her normal health. Because of her illness some changes in the dormitories have been necessary.

Mrs. Worley is head of Baldwin Hall with Miss McCampbell and Miss Holland as assistants. Mrs. Proffitt is head of Memorial Hall with Miss Beebe assisting.

Because the requirement in foreign languages is less stringent than formerly Mrs. Newberry will not return to teach French. Mr. Crothers accepted a position at Western College in Oxford, Ohio. Mr. George Fischbach, 1933 graduate, will teach the swimming classes formerly taught by Mr. Crothers, and also tennis.

Miss Meiselwitz To Offer New Art Course

May Include Training For Commercial Decorating

A new course, Applied Art and Handcrafts, is being offered by the Home Economics Department. The course will include block printing batik, tied-and-dyed work, leather and metal work, textile decorations, wall decorations, and also the decorating of house-hold and personal articles.

The course is to be taught by Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz, and will be planned entirely according to the wishes of those taking it. No prerequisites in either Art or Home Economics are required.

Applied Art and Handcrafts will be made practical for both men and women. There is a possibility that it will include commercial decorating, show card art, and window trimming.

The hours of the course have not yet been fixed and will be adaptable to all schedules. The course includes four hours of laboratory, no lectures, and gives two credits. It is listed as 316X.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION TO MEET NEXT THURSDAY

The first meeting of the Ministerial Association will be held next Thursday night, immediatley after supper, in Athenian Hall. All new men interested in the work of this association are invited to attend the meeting.

The program for the year will be presented, the new constitution will be explained, and plans for the furthering of the work of the Ministerial Association will be discussed. It is expected that all former members will be present to renew membership.

ERRATUM

"I thought I gave my heart to you;
There must be some mistake,
For if you really had the thing,
I wouldn't feel it ache."

Y Opening Programs Prove Very Successful

Week Filled With Activities To Welcome Newcomers

This year, as in other years, both the Y. M. and Y. W. C. A. entered prominently into the events of the opening week of the college year. Tess Frey and Warren Warman, presidents of the two organizations, with the help of the members of their cabinets and Nu Gamma leaders have been responsible for meeting new students and assisting them iin every possible way when they arrive. All trains and buses were met and information desks were located at various places on the campus for handling trunk checks and directing students to their dormitories. A committee located in the Knoxville bus station directed students on to Maryville and assisted with luggage problems. Upon arriving there, the new students were met by yet other Y. members and conductd to their rooms.

On Tuesday evening the Y. W., following the "sing" on Pearsons steps, sponsored dormitory parties for both new and old girls. Three groups were entertained successively at Baldwin, Memorial, and on the lawn near the Y. rooms. A program of music and readings was provided at Baldwin, a contest in chewing gum modeling at Memorial, while numerous games brought activities to a close on the lawn.

The following night, a program on Baldwin lawn took the place of the usual Snap. Songs and tap dances were the main features with Bob Tripp officiating as master of ceremonies. The presidents of the four literary societies gave a hearty greeting to newcomers. Light refreshments were served.

Tonight the Y.'s will bring the week to a climax with a Pow-Wow in the college woods for the boys, and a Kid Party for girls in the gym. The girls are asked to come atired as children to meet the Old Woman in the Shoe, Tess Frey. Refreshments are one of the chief attractions of the evening at both Y. gatherings.

Tomorrow afternoon the first Sunday meetings of the year for these organizations will be held. A most cordial welcome is offered to all students to join in this part o the Y. program.

College Faculty Spent Interesting Vacations

The members of the faculty have been almost as widely scattered as the student body during the vacation months.

Miss Jessie Heron spent most of the summer at her cabin in the mountains near here, closing her vacation with a trip to Chicago and Diamond Lake, Michigan. She visited friends in Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

Professor V. M. Queener attended summer school at the University of Indiana, visited the Chicago fair, and then spent three weeks at Montvale.

Professor J. H. McMurray took several trips north, and visited in Ohio and Indiana.

Miss Gertrude Meiselwitz stayed at her home near Cedar Lake, Wisconisn, spending much time in Chicago.

Miss Frances Henry visited at Chicago, Mt. Sterling, and Cumberland Falls.

Miiss Clara Brown stayed a week in Chicago, and later attended the Home Economics Convention in Milwaukee. During the rest of the summer she was at her home in Kushing, Oklahoma.

Miss Bonnie Hudson stayed at her home in Cookeville, Tennessee, for part of the summer and then went to Dr. Faulke's camp in New Jersey for six weeks.

Miss Susan Green was at her home in Boston, Massachusetts. She motored through the New England States and the White Mountains.

Miiss Mary Ellen Caldwell and Mrs. Emma Lee Worley spent the summer together here at Maryville.

Miss Anna J. Jones and Miss McCampbell took a motor trip through the north. They visited in

(Continued on page four)

Dr. Hunter's Greeting

It looks like the real thing to see you all back and to see so many promising new ones. We hope the promises are made good.

I bespeak for you a particular joy this year in the principal job we're all here for, the job of getting the most out of the prescribed study program of the College.

I hope you have a minimum of dull moments in the classroom; a maximum of the will to master your tasks. Summon a full supply of patient persistence in well doing and in due season you shall make a "B" if not an "A" or a "C-plus". Best of luck for nine months of work together!

Edwin R. Hunter, Dean.
September 14, 1933

Faculty Reception Attended By Many

A pleasant afternoon was enjoyed by all who attended the faculty reception today. Nearly eighty persons stood in the receiving line and about five hundred students attended, including, besides freshmen, many old students. Light refreshments were served.

WELCOME TO MARYVILLE!

Until we can meet all of you individually, may this serve as a medium of expression of personal interest which the Y. has for each student.

When you have become acquainted with the cabinet members you will find a friend in each one of them.

The Y. aims to serve all as effectively as possible. Your cooperation in the work of Christ on the Campus is solicited. You are invited to join the organization as an active member. If you have not received an application card, ask a cabinet member for one or stop at the Y. office on the second floor of Bartlett.

This year the reading room will be open continuously.

Make yourself at home.

Your friend in Christ,
Warren Walton Warman,
President of Y. M. C. A.

The regular Y. W. service will be held in the Y. Rooms at 1:00 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. A fifteen minute song service from 1:00-1:15 will be conducted by Mary Sloan Welsh. Following the welcome by the president, Tess Frey, will be a few talks stressing "Your Part in Y. W." (by Veta May Stephens, Geraldine Smith and Phyllis Dexter).

All new girls are cordially welcomed to this service.

Many Improvements Made About Campus

Terrace Below Carnegie Will Greatly Beautify Campus

When the old students return in the fall there is always a grand tour of the campus to see what improvements have been made during the summer. This fall there are three things of spcial interest to both old and new students.

The Registrar's office has been replastered and new floors have been laid. The partition to Dr. Hunter's office has been moved back and the smaller room is now Miss Jones' private office. A counter has been put into the main office which helps a great deal in accommodating students especially during the rush of opening days.

The conference room and a part of the printing room have been reworked and divided into three smaller offices. One will be occupied by Dr. Fields, dean of men, the other two by Dean Hunter and his secretary, Miss Metzger. All the office floors have been waxed and the hall floors repainted.

During the summer the new varsity courts by Memorial have been kept rolled and watered so that they are now in splendid condition. Because of the well planned drainage system, the courts can be used a short time after a rain.

Work on the bank below Carnegie will not be finished for some time, but when this project is complete it will doubtless be one of the greatest improvements that has been made upon the campus for several years.

Eighteen steps have been put in which lead to the first terrace. Around this terrace will be stone seats and from it twelve steps lead up to the second terrace which is smaller than the first. Above the second terrace there will be nine steps leading to the third terrace and seven more steps on the top of the bank. At the top of the bank there will be a rock garden and all along the bank, shrubs, flowers and vines, will be planted.

A small flight of stone steps will be built up the side of the bank facing Court Street and steps will also be built to the road just back of Carnegie. A path will run from the top of the big flight of steps to the back door of Carnegie and around to the front. As the work progresses some changes may be made in the plans.

This project will be one of the greatest improvements ever made upon the campus and has been made possible by a gift from the class of '30, and by the help of a benevolent friend of the college.

Literary Societies Welcome New Students

Theta Epsilon

Theta Epsilon wishes to etxend a hearty welcome to every new girl on College Hill in the true Maryville spirit.

Theta Epsilon translated from the Greek signifies Happy Sisters. Such a title not only expresses a true Theta girl characteristic, but also our desire to make you, the new girls, happy.

Plans are being made to make all new girls "Happy Sisters" for at least a week. During this week we hope to acquaint you with the high thoughts and ideals for which Theta Epsilon, as a society, stands.

Our wish for you is a happy and successful four years at Maryville.

Theta Epsilon,
Lucille Swafford, President.

Greetings From Alpha Sigma

Felllows! by this time you have received so many welcomes that you probably already know that you are welcome. But the societies on the Hill are not the kind to let anyone get by without a hearty welcome, so once again ALPHA SIGMA invites you to attend its meetings and assures you of an hour of fellowship and fun. We hope that some of you will visit us next Saturday nite at 7:00 o'clock. We will do our best to make you feel at home with us.

Jesse Willis, President.

There are but few who are not experts at weeping when found out.

Athenian

September 15, 1933

To The New Fellows:

Now that you are fairly settled and classes have begun, you have an opportunity to look around and form new friendships. One of the best places to meet your new friends will be in the wholesome atmosphere of Athenian Hall. Interesting enterainment will help you to relax after a week of college classes.

You will find our interests are, good music, dramatics, readings, debate, and unaffected friendships.

We offer you these and a sincere welcome to our midst.

Sincerely,
Fred K. Kirchner, Presiident.

Bainonian

Dear New Girls:

Bainonian Society is certain that you all know now how welcome you are on the Hill, but we want to take this opportunity to tell you how much we wish you happiness and success during your years among us. We hope that you will soon feel at home here and will make many friendships among students and faculty. Bainonian's wish for you is that you will find your first year at Maryville one of your happiest.

Marjorie Salmons.

Organizations wishing announcements in the ECHO must get them to the ECHO office by noon Thursday.

A WORLD BEGINS—N. M. W

According to formula, all letters from alumni in which they refer to their Alma Mater should partake of the sentimental vagaries of "When You and I Were Young, Maggie", and "Backward, Turn Backward O Time in Your Flight". This letter will not be devoted to melodrama, for that does not in the least describe this alumna's emotions as she watches Maryville College open for the first time in four years without her enrolled in one o. its four classes.

Lest someone herein detect a lack of loyalty to yon cedar-crowned hill, let me at this point make mention of the bitter hours following awakening from the dream of commencement which were spent in realization of the fact of alumnihip. The implications of that fact are for me nowhere so aptly expressed as in the title of Countess Kropotkin's book "A World Can End". Shut in a small college community of friends, with certain habits and ways of doing things acquired in company with other students, I had never realized that little world could end. In one stroke the whole was shattered: the companions were scattered beyond hope of recall, and with them went a certain morale, a set of values, distinct though indescribable way of looking at things acquired together. As lost it all is which for four years was the world and all life as the imperial Russian traditions which Countess Kropotkin and her royal associates left behind them when they fled.

And more than that is the fact that so far as our alma mater is concerned, we are forgotten men and women. There is no longer a place for us there; we are forgotten men and women. There is no longer a place for us there; we are no longer needed, and so no longer remembered. A world can end, and every college graduate may face that fact during those months of transition, irresolution, and adjustment after he receives his degree.

But more significant in theme than her first is the Countess' second book, "A World Begins". Here is the process of discovering another and larger realm of reality and of incorporating within it the smaller. It is a world of larger bounds, of more and varied interests, of greater contacts, which opens before the college graduate, and in which he is called upon to absorb his college life. For me this world has already begun. It need not be a strange place, for into it may be transmitted the very essence of Maryville.

Only as a graduate have I been able to recognize what is meant by the Maryville spirit. It is not a [illegible] which rises over the football [illegible] in the fall, nor nothing so [illegible]al as I pictured it when I was a freshman. It is rather a certain [illegible]ce of life, a way of thinking, [illegible]acing values and determining [illegible]onships. It is a process of

(Continued on page four)

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - -
Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors
Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor
Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - - -
Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - -
Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs
Katharine Orr - - - - - -
Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - - -
Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - -
Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - - -
Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Business
Jesse Willis - Business Manager

Subscription Rates - - - -
$1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter. November 11, 1915

Saturday, September 16, 1933

FEATURE—K. ORR

We find it well nigh impossible at present to collect our thoughts enough to write a real honest-to-goodness feature. We discover that our thinking apparatus, such as we have, is somewhat rusty after three months of disuse. Besides that, we've been a scramble almost a week getting off to school ourselves, bounding here and there about the city of Maryville gathering together our numerous impediments, meeting several dozen newcomers to our great institution of learning, racking our brain trying to recall the names of people we knew here last year, and in the end practically forgetting ours. Such being the case, we believe we'll just ramble awhile, addressing our ramblings to everybody in general and to the freshmen in particular.

We asked our room-mate, who is really a very wise person, what we should talk about. She replied promptly, "Feet!" As a matter of fact, we've heard a great deal on that subject lately, almost as much, indeed, as we've heard mention made of the inconsiderate weather. To those people complaining of the former, let us say that Maryvillian feet soon get accustomed to roaming over the rocks and hills, and they learn that feet are made for something other than climbing into cars, a lesson which may be convenient if the NRA should fail completely. As to the weather, all varieties are furnished. There is a reason for that. Maryville is a cosmopolitan school; hence, it is necessary to supply all kinds of weather to meet the demands of all kinds of people.

Some of the freshmen have already begun to receive a vital part of their education. They are learning the meaning of such significant terms as, "moonshining", "old lady" (this follows the rule of many English terms in that it has two entirely different meanings), and "goo". If any of you are still unenlightened, ask some upper classman about these different phases of college life. Especially should you ask a sophomore. He was a freshman just last year and he would like to tell you how much he knows.

We hope you new folks will soon come to feel at home. We, who have been here before, are happy that you are here. We wish for you a very pleasant year, and with the radio announcer we say, "Lots of good luck everybody."

It is commonly supposed that college youth represent the typical, normal, vibrant, modern youth. If that be so it might prove interesting to ask of this normal American youth what he expects from college.

Such a question floods one's mind with possible answers. One of the first things, naturally, is the thought that in the pursuit of knowledge one hopes to become a well-rounded, well-balanced individual. Following that thought comes the question "what must one acquire in the way of knowledge which would lead to the development of that sort of personality.

These are a few of the things suggested by various individuals. The well-rounded person should learn a true appreciation of great literature, and become acquainted with outstanding literary masterpieces. Through the study of well written things he should. It would be well in such a study to include also the masterpieces of oratory and debate.

The well-rounded person must come into an understanding of the fundamentals of science, that he may understand scientific back-grounds and not attribute everything to chance workings of fate. He should know something, also, of sociology, social systems, and social ideals. To ponder over the world's ethical systems often leads to a satisfactory conclusion as to one's own ethical ideals. He should include a certain amount of study of economics and economic stability. A study of psychology and the devious workings of the human mind is a natural inclusion.

If he had any intention of maintaining a spiritual life some Bible study should be upon his program.

These are but a beginning. No college graduate measures up to the standard if he is still ignorant of great history, great literature, great thought, great ideals, and great programs of living. A college graduate who is not well-balanced is lopsided. That is the purpose of college—to reveal the truth which frees from narrowness, prejudice, provincialism, and ignorance of the best things. A college education is not something given, something casually "taken in"; it is something experienced!

An interesting example of the value of persistence in the pursuit of education is found in the case of one, Pauline Downing. When she was graduated from a high school at Middleport, Ohio, thirty years ago she hadn't the money to go to college. But she was so determined to further herself for life that she resolved to work as long as was necessary to earn the required money for her education.

She found a position with a Chicago brokerage firm, which failed after several years. Then she served a long period with a sugar company in Cuba. But there, unfortunately, she took malaria, and her savings for college had to be spent to win back her health.

Finally, in 1924, it was possible for her to enroll in the University of Chicago. But the bank in which she had placed her savings failed, and she dropped out and resumed her working. After more long months of hard labor it became possible for her to remain in school the full four years. Not so long ago she received her bachelor's degree. Incidentally she was a member of the Phi Beta Kappa honor fraternity.

Such persistence is unique. One wonders on thinking over one's own small hindrances, if one is not much better off than he usually feels that he is.

The HIGHLAND ECHO Staff wishes to announce that following this issue the ECHO will appear as a five column rather than a six column paper. By decreasing the size of the paper it will be possible to increase the number of issues. It was thought that the student body would prefer a smaller paper which would appear regularly, to one of the former size which might appear irregularly for financial reasons. The dates for the appearance of the publication are as follows:

September 16, 23, 30
October 7, 14, 28
November 4, 11, 18
December 2, 9, 16
January 6, 13, 20, 27
February 3, 17, 24
March 3, 10, 24
April 7, 14, 21
May 5, 12, 19, 26
June 5.

It will be noticed that in most cases the omissions occur over holidays.

The HIGHLAND ECHO also wishes to explain for the benefit of the new students that it is essentially the purpose of the paper to express student opinion. At any time a Maryvillian who is not on our staff wishes to express himself on some subject concerning campus problems, he may feel free to do so through the ECHO forum. Be it understood, however, that the ECHO emphatically does NOT encourage knockers.

OUR ADVERTISERS

New students—the Merchants of Maryville wish to add their welcome to all the many other welcomes that you have received since coming to this school and town. They are ready and willing to serve you in any way they can and wish for you a very successful year.

Old Students—to you the Merchants wish to say that they are glad you are back and they sincerely wish for you a year more glorious and successful than before.

These same Merchants who send you their greetings will be sending you news all the year through our adds. Yes News! for advertising is news—An advertisement contains something about which the particular merchant wants to tell the readers. If this were not true, what would be the value of advertising at all? Naturally, no advertiser is willing to pay for space that he feels will not yield him a fair return.

In this day of bargains a person must consider very carefully and wisely, if the greatest value is to be obtained from the amount expended. There is but one way to assure yourself that you are getting a real value for your money. READ THE ADVERTISEMENTS! Are you doing this? If you are not, you are depriving yourself of many opportunities to purchase real value at lessened cost. You owe it yourself to read the advertisements.

AND WHEN YOU HAVE DONE THAT DON'T FORGET TO PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS.

EVOLUTION

A New York sculptress excels in carving horses out of cheese. Her horses can be melted into welsh rarebits, later emerging as nightmares.—Chicago Daily News.

Wright's 5&10c Store
"Where a little money goes a long way"

Welcome Students
.. TO THE .
TIP TOP
BARBER SHOP
On College Street
Opposite Presbyterian Church

WELCOME
Both New and Old STUDENTS
.. TO ..
McBRAYER'S
SHOE SHOP
In Basement of Carlisle's 5 & 10c Store
Student Representatives
Merritt Slawson, Ed Lodwick

—TWENTY MILLION WIVES WILL CHEER
When this young bride tells her busbands' mother what she thinks of her kind!
IRENE DUNNE
in a mother-in-law story that is no joke.
"THE SILVER CORD"
.. At the ..
PALACE THEATRE
NEXT WEEK
MON.-TUES.

NRA
WELCOME STUDENTS
Walker's Store has been taken over by Martin's Store
MATIN'S DRUG STORE No. 1
Martin's Store No. 2 is still open in Little Town
The interior has been completely rearranged. We invite your inspection.

WELCOME STUDENTS
For Best Results and Permanent Prints
BRING YOUR FILMS
TO
THE WEBB STUDIO
220 College Street

We Welcome the Students Back to Maryville
And we want to do our part to make your stay a pleasant one. We hope to serve you with Clothing, Dry Goods and Shoes. Quality Merchandise at popular prices.
BADGETT STORE COMPANY
"The Store of Better Values"

Satisfy That Inward Craving
... AT THE ...
Y. M. and Y. W. Stores
First Floor Bartlett Third Floor Pearsons
MANAGERS
Ernest Coldwell Lorena May Dunlap

Welcome Students...
We are glad you are here—Maryville surely is lonesome without Maryville College Students. We want you to make our store your store—feel free to come in at all times—even if you don't want to trade. We are always glad to have you. We will cash your checks, in fact serve you in any way we can. Come in and get your Student Ticket to the Palace Theatre.
CHANDLER-SINGLETON CO.
DEPARTMENT STORE

Echo Sports

GILLESPIE MAY RETURN TO SCOTS

Scot Gridders In First Scrimmage Today; Russell Again At Center

Kiser Fills Gillespie's Shoes. Heavier Line Than Usual.

Wiith the initial encounter of the season only hours better than one week distant, with Kentucky's Wildcats at that, the Maryville College 1933 grid machine went into its first scrimmage of the year this afternoon. Although the ECHO went to press immediatley before the scrimmage, a good time was promised to all, with probable teams unable to be named, although an apt guess might compose at least one, with Captain Russell at his center post, Collins and Atchison at guards, Millsaps and Gamble at tackles, Atkins and Kalman at ends. Boretsky and West at halves, Payne at quarter and Kiser at full. Of course, this team is only a problematical possibility, and substitutions will change it almost beyond recogniton.

But the fact remains that the first scrimmage has been held, and that Captain Russell, once considered lost to his mates, was present; also that Collins, tenacious and aggressive guard, was right in there in the thick of the fight. Martin Gillespie, the tacklingest fullback seen on a Scot team in years, perhaps all years, is on the campus, and is consideirng a return to school and the team; his only hindrance being a mere temporary financial embarrassment. In short, a roseate glow is beginning to dispell the clouds of gloom which have hovered over the practice field in recent days.

Not only the return of veteran performers, but the performance of newcomers who are very, very present, make gridiron prospects for the Honakerites a matter to change weeping and wailing to smiling and laughter. Huskies from the local high schools are numerous and promising, while more distant lands have also been kind to the Scotties.

Ole Kaintuck boasts a team of unknown capabilities this year, but 'tis no secret that her forward wall will average well in excess of two hundred pounds, one tenth of a ton. The next week of practice will tell much in the outcome of the game, as both condition and reserves will be necessaries to the lighter Maryville team. In the former instance it is rarely found wanting. In the latter, things are looking up now, but ? ? ? ?

But no matter what the outcome of the first contest, Maryville fans may safely anticipate an eleven of a much heavier calibre than those of some recent years.

PLANS FOR GIRLS' TANK TEAM BEGUN

George Fischback, director of tennis and swimming, announced this morning that efforts would be made to organize a women's swimming team together with the regular organization of the men's division.

The year is yet too young to publicise swimming teams to a large extent, but all good swimmers, men and women, are urged to get in trim at the "Y" pool, which will be ready next week for open swimming.

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

Well,—a fine starting point for the weekly dish, or cocktail, as it were,—the debacle has arrived, and that, too, is quoted. Debacle is precisely the word. . . . Stone gone, no more Holloway, perhaps no Collins, Gillespie missing; we don't mean to judge their ability, but they are rather meaty, and what is more, the first game is with Kentucky, a very fine starting point. Let's see, we started with Hiwassee last year, didn't we? Yowsa!

Freshmen here, freshmen there, and finally, freshmen everywhere, some toting racquets—one fellow had two—, a few shouldering their golf bags, one fellow carrying a rifle, all apparently "going to college", are swarming over the Maryville grounds for the 115th time, no doubt, to gain eventually the lofty status of a senior. To those freshmen whose uncles were at one time among the "four hundred" of college sports, or anything else, we might say that there is, probably, a difference between a big senior and a little senior.

Speaking of golf bags, we are reminded that golf is an increasingly popular sport in several schools, and from the looks of things there might be a possibility of ye jolly ol' golf team making its debut sometime in the spring, providing that someone beside the sporting editor gets behind and shoves. Greens, having been located again after the summer's growth of weeds has been fed to the college cows, would have to be improved, and Mr. Lagerstedt's German classes could no more meet on green number six, but those are minor obstacles.

It's anybody's world series yet, but we're still betting on the high and mighty Giants. Satisfaction becomes ours when we know that at least the baseball title stays in the United States.

Among the components of the new "Y" regime is John Waldrop, newly appointed director of Y. M. C. A. athletics, featuring mainly interclass competitive sports, who fills, admirably, we think, the proverbial shoes vacated last year by Spec Moore. The program for the year is not complete, pending the appointment of a co-director to work with Waldrop, but we heard a little ear-full of it this morning. . .ping-pong, boxing, wrestling, interclass tennis. . . . sounds good, doesn't it.

When there is no sporting there is no sporting, excepting a group of freshman girls studying its first chemistry lesson, and when there is no sporting it becomes second nature to us to steal the Observer's fire. But we just have to laugh and pass the story on about the freshman who, upon asking Magee where the men's dormitory is, was told to go down to Baldwin. "Yehh, just go on down there to Baldwin," said Magee. "You'll find a bunch of girls hangin' around the first floor, but don't pay any attention to 'em," he said, "just go on up to second."

It was with no little satisfaction and a lot of admiration of our dear ol' Alma that we walked out upon the varsity courts the other day. Instead of the fine collection of dust, so prevalent last year, were hard, firm surfaces on which a ball does not resound with a "splat!" It is evident that excellent care has been given them during the summer, and it is the hope of this department that such care will continue.

PERFECTLY SPLENDID

John: "I suppose you think I'm a perfect idiot?"

Molly (sweetly): "O no; none of us is perefct!"—Tit-Bits.

Frosh May Upset Old Favorites In Fall Tennis Scrap

Tourney Will Be Called In Two Weeks. Karnell Has New Top-Flite

With the inflow of some two hundred freshmen from over the hills of nearly nowhere, fully two-thirds of which came(trudging up to the Hill with tennis racquets draped over their shoulders, the chances for any one of the old favorites to win the annual Fall tennis classic grow slimmer and slimmer.

The committee in charge is not yet ready to receive entries, according to George Fischbach, director of tennis, but ures that everyone plan to take part, especially the freshmen.

All of last year's team is back ecept Haub and Fischbach, the latter having been graduated, Karnell, who finished last season in second position, is strengthened by a new Top-Flite racquet, and will doubtless prove a stumbling block to several aspirants.

VETERAN FULL-BACK NOT YET CERTAIN; STONE, HOLLOWAY OUT

Others Missing Forgotten In Return of "Lost Sinner"

Summer over and King Football again on his throne, a check-up of the roster of Charlie Lewis, bustling manager of the '33 Scots, shows four gaping holes, left by the withdrawal of the names of a like number of formidable stars of the porcine oval. Martin Gillespie, Cecil Stone, Jim Holloway and Coon Creed are the missing members.

But Gillespie, captain of last year's crew, and a terror in the backfield, is in town, on the campus, and is making a valiant endeavor to perfect plans which will enable him to return to his classes and his last year at the yard-saving occupation. Little iis known of the possibilities of his return, but the wish sires the thought that ere long, he will be back in uniform and up and at 'em. Seemingly in excellent condition, he would be a most welcome aid in the hamburgering of Kentucky's beef.

Stone, demon end, cage guard and diamond slugger, is enrolled at Carson-Newman and is therefore definitely lost to the team. So with Jim Holloway, although no rival institution claimed him, unless the Depression has been with us long enough to bear the name of institution. Ditto Creed, who was also a star on the three major ball sports.

The loss of these men will be acutely felt, but if Gillespie can manage to find his way into a Garnet sweatshirt, happy days will indeed be here again, and the loss of the other three will be forgotten in th gain of "one lost sinner."

SAVE THIS COUPON

Good for 5 Cents in trade at our Soda Fountain

CITY DRUG CO.

SEE the new PARKER PENS

Holds 10 per cent more ink

$5.00—$7.50

Napolean Was Right

—when he said:

"An army travels on its stomach." We don't know much about military science, but we do know that we make and serve at our Soda Fountain the best SANDWICHES you ever ate. Crisp and delicious—plenty of filling—no skimping on lettuce, mayonnaise, etc. Try one today. We employ only girls as fountain attendants and they really know how to make sandwiches.

YUM! YUM!

IT'S PLENTY GOOD—

That luscious fruit salad made and served by the girls at City Drug Company Fountain.

Large Serving ----------10c

WE ARE...

Mighty glad to see you and to welcome you back to Maryville for another school year. You are always welcome in our store. You are our personal guest every time you enter our door—to be treated with every consideration.

We operate a modern drug store in every sense of the word and our stocks are complete. We solicit your patronage on a basis of first class merchandise, courteous treatment, fair prices and prompt service.

We are agents for PARKER PENS—NUNNALLY'S CANDIES— MAX FACTOR MAKE-UP—ANSCO KODAKS and FILMS —PENSLAR REMEDIES and many other products. We also stock a complete line of all NATIONALLY ADVERTISED DRUG STORE merchandise.

Visit us when you can—you will find us good folks to deal with and we assure you that we appreciate your business.

Thank You—

City Drug Co.

66—Telephone—66

H. M. Bird O. D. Lowe

Penslar Mouth Wash . 50c
Penslar Tooth Paste . 25c
75c

A NEW PEN— THE PARKETTE

SPECIAL Both for 49c

Made by Parker

$1.25 each

1 bottle Parker fine ink FREE with each pen

Individualize Your Make-up

MAX FACTOR MAKE-UP

is designed for this purpose. Let us show you our complete line of these nationally known beauty aids. Ask for the Courtesy Card, which entitles you to individual analysis of your complexion and free book "The New Art of Society Make-up".

Our Prescription Department

Is the pride of our store—and is in charge of Dr. O. D. Lowe. We hope you won't need any prescription work, but in case you do, bear in mind that we are Prescription Specialists.

We are members of the N.R.A.—cooperating with our government 100 percent.

OBSERVATIONS

And now little girlsies and boysies, this is the way we go to school. THIS being the experience that has been yours during the last few days . . . all except for one thing. We do study some as the season progresses toward semester examination time, and the amount of studying is added to as time goes on. But the point of all this is simply to remind you that we are here. . . . and it's not because we're here, but because we have (most of us with some worthy augmentation of Miss Henry's bank roll) the necessary spondulix, wherewithal, (and in fourth floor Carnegie parlance-jack) to come to school.

FORGOTTEN MEN

And this very naturally reminds us of the fact that after you get the money to come to school, the next job, which becomes increasingly harder each year, is to get the money back after the going to school has had its four year fling. This makes us think of graduating, an act which we hope might be that of our little old selves sooner or later, and in turn, we think of graduates and weep veritable rhinoceros tears over the loss of last years pals who went, never to return without visiting cards. It's just simply a cruel, cool world we live in when we think of the way the college sends us out into the wilds after treating us so kindly during the days of our "getting hold of ourselves."

RRRRRRRRRBA

The predominating tendency of the present student body seems to be relative to frigid air conditions. We were running down through the names of our school mates t'other day and ran across such names as Frost (Earl Lewis) which was followed in a few days by Blizzard. That brought about the need for activity, and at that point we struck the name "Hunter" and of course that fairly demanded that we have the fox, and sure enough, we found the Fox, in the person of Paul, by first name. After the Hunter and the Fox came the Furr (who very appropriately, we should say, carries the first name of "Western"). Along with the Furr, or possibly on the other side of the page, we discovered the name Hyde. That completed the entire plot in a very much rounded out manner and we were really sunk for a setting until along came little E. Jane Northwood, and the story was made complete.

We proceeded to notice that there was a predominance of certain names such as Alexander, Allen, Brown, along with the omnipresent name of Smith, which appears in the name list no less than ten times. Some names just have an attaching way, . . . that way. Others don't. For example, we discovered, after a long search, that there is only one Reichelderfer in the entire layout. Wonder why?

The Freshman English Examinations always have their bit to contribute to our cause. After a very dignified beginning at the ... correcting the papers, the ... English majors (the adjective applies, we believe, to the ... members also) soon lapse ... extreme informality.

Any number of our yearlings ... as their age on the last ... "June 30, 1916" or some ... date. A condition of hilarity ... came the crowd on one occasion when a student discovered the old familiar word, "familiar", pictured thus: "Ferniliar". The student ... a graduate of the Maryville H. ... School.

A bird told us (one of those birds who goes about wearing a ... or NRA badge, and who also ... huge picture of the former ... cent, Mr. Woodrow Wilson, on ... coats) that Mr. Griffitts fairly ... oil with tears (of laughter) ... eyes this year when wheat ... went from $1.03 1-2 to seventy five cents in a very unreasonably short length of time. That saved the day for the only honest republican in existence. It was a long hard grind there for a spell with things getting better from the time of Mr. Roosevelt's inauguration to. . . well, to the present time, for that matter. The fact is, this country does not seem to be a place for the best health of ebullient republicans.

We're down to faculty members now and we begin at the top (the rank being according to prominence) with Professors Griffitts and Queener, and we don't want you to think that political identification has anything to do with placing the chemistry professor ahead of the history line thrower. But just the same we understand that Griffitts and Queener were in Indiana U. this year throwing it right back at the perfessors and that Mr. Griffitts kept up the reputation of hailing for A's on his report card. We don't know whether Mr. Queener kept up his rep or not. The fact is, we're not sure he has one.

It was suggested to us that we make mention of the length of time it took Mr. Griffitts to drive to Bloomington, Indiana, from Knoxville, Tennessee, on his honeymoon trip, but you see, we're just like the New York Times. . . we publish "all the news that's fit to print."

The president of a brother college at which place the tobacco habit meets with discouragement, tells this story on himself. In his varied wanderings one day he happened on to a fellow with a mouth full of plug, chewing away, and he reproved him thus: "Now, boy, that's all right for you to chew; I have no objection to your chewing; you go ahead and chew as much as you want to. . . . . but don't spit!"

A WORLD BEGINS

(Continued from page one)

learning how to live gracefully and easily. It embodies a purpose which I heard best expressed by Dr. Charles R. Dawson: "To be, to do, to do without, and to depart." It stands for a fact of fineness which exists in complete security from the clamour of the world and to which one can call the heart as to its home.

In the world which is beginning for us ex-Maryvillians are thousands of other graduates who recognize this essential. Some of them may call it the "Duke spirit", some the "Harvard spirit", some the "Vassar spirit", but they all mean a principal for the integration of life which increases in significance from freshman to senior year.

In another sense a world is beginning for some three hundred freshmen at Maryville College this week. They, too, are finding themselves this year in a new environment which has a different set of values. In a certain sense the members of the class of '33 should feel a kindred spirit with the members of the class of '37. For one the influence of Maryville is beginning, for the other it is being carried on. For one life on College Hill commences, for the other is ended; for both a world begins.

THIS IS RELATIVITY

One explanation of Einstein's relativity theory: When you sit with a pretty girl for two hours, you think it's only a minute, but when you sit on a hot stove for a minute you think it's two hours. That's relativity.

Scores of the enormously rich are dying of capital punishment.

ANOTHER VERSION

Absent-Minded Dentist (to his car, as filling-station employee inserts the hose into the gas tank): "Now breathe deeply."— Louisville Times.

BETTY JANE PHOTOS

10 for 10 Cents

These little Photos are just the thing for exchange and memory books

Studio over Walker's Store

Y. W. Cabinet Makes Reading Room Rules

The following rules concerning the use of the Y. W. C. A. reading rooms have been drawn up and approved by the Y. W. Cabinet. All those who are willing to comply with these rules are welcome to the use of the rooms. The Y. particularly wishes to encourage new girls to make themselves at home in these quarters.

Hours:

Week Days 8:30 a. m.-10:00 p. m.
Sundays 1:00 p. m.- 7:00 p. m.

Radio:

1. Always turn off the radio before leaving.
2. Keep the radio turned low.

Magazines:

1. Do not remove from the room.
2. Return to the rack and keep in good condition.

Furnishings:

1. Do not remove light bulbs.
2. Arrange furniture neatly before leaving.

Lights and Windows:

1. Turn off all lights upon leaving.
2. Close all windows upon leaving.

Electrical Appliances:

1. Flat irons, curling irons, and other electrical appliances must not be used in this room.

Kitchen:

1. The president gives permission for the use of the kitchen which is available to all girls. Keys must be returned promptly to the president.
2. The kitchen is not to be used on Sundays.
3. After use it must be left clean and in good condition.

Miscellaneous:

1. The room may be used by young women only with the premission of the Dean of Women.
2. For other than Y. W. functions permission must be secured from the president of Y.W.C.A.
3. Dancing and smoking are not permitted at anytime in this room.

EQUITY

After terrific struggles, the freshman finally finished his examination paper, and then, at the end, wrote: "Dear Professor: If you sell any of my answers to the funny papers, I expect you to split fifty-fifty with me."—Life.

CARLISLE'S

5c AND 10c STORE

We appreciate your patronage

Students your are Welcome to the

EMERY

5c, 10c and 25c Store

Where courtesy always prevails

PINYAN & SULLIVAN BARBER SHOP

Under Carlisle's 5c and 10c Store

Student Representative: George Adams, 406 Carnegie

FACULTY VACATIONS

(Continued From Page One)

Charleston and Gary, Indiana, spent some time at Chicago, then traveled around lake Michigan, stopping at Glen Lake, Bay View, Mackinack Island, and the locks at Sault St. Marie. Coming home they visited Mammouth Cave, Kentucky

Miss Jessie Johnson spent some time at the World's Fair.

Dr. Hunter taught a number of weeks at the Duke University summer school.

Professor Lagerstedt spent the greater part of the summer at his home in Massachusetts.

Professor H. L. Ellis spent the summer at his cabin in Morgan County on the Cumberland Plateau.

Miss Virginia Kennedy was in Tuscaloosa, Alabama during the entire summer.

Mr. L. A. Black took a trip to the Century of Progress Fair and spent the remainder of the summer at Maryville.

Mrs. Addie Proffitt spent the summer at Maryville.

Dr. G. A. Knapp went to the mountains to fish and hike. He also atended the Chicago Fair.

Mr. E. E. McCurry attended the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.

Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland

*Direct connections to Townsend

Clothing..

Distinctively Tailored for Discriminating Men

BOB WELLS, JR.

Y. RETREAT

(Continued From Page One)

the election by the Cabinet, according to the Y. M. Constitution, of Warren Warman as the new Y. M. President and of Michael Testa as the new Y. M. Secretary.

Hiking and swimming occupied the time between the close of the final joint business meeting and the time for lunch. Immediatley after lunch a short devotional service, with "Friendship" as the theme, concluded the very successful and enjoyable Retreat.

AND HELPED BY TWO BANKS

First Student: "I wish I could be like the river!"

Second Student: "Like the river? In what way?"

First Student: "Stay in my bed, and yet follow my course!"—Christian Science Monitor.

Many a fellow has found out that when a girl's love settles upon him it is already a shopworn article.

WELCOME STUDENTS

Send your Clothes to

RUSSELL'S

—FOR—

Cleaning & Pressing

Student Representative Ernest Lowe, 213 Carnegie

WELCOME STUDENTS

NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

Always at your service

T. C. DRAKE

GROCERIES

Standard Oil Co. Service Station

Atlas Tires and Tubes

Atlas Batteries and Cables

Batteries Recharged $1.00

Drive in and See Us

L. F. REAMS
EARL BUCHANAN
Attendants

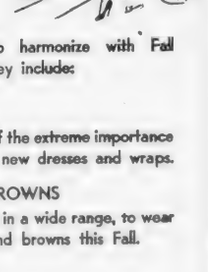
WELCOME STUDENTS

... TO ...

BYRNE DRUG CO.

The Student's Store

... FOR ...



DRUG SUPPLIES

•

Try Our Toasted Sandwiches

We Can Hardly Wait To Show You

The New Fall Shades in GOLD STRIPE Stockings

DEEPER in tone, to harmonize with Fall costume colors, they include:

TAUPE BROWNS
Created because of the extreme importance of taupe tones in new dresses and wraps.

BEIGE TANS AND BROWNS
Naturally included, in a wide range, to wear with warm tans and browns this Fall.

SMOKY TAUPES
Soft, flattering shades, to wear with the new deep colors including taupes and black.

They are decidedly Fall 1933!

85c, $1.00, $1.35, $1.65

Proffitt's DEPARTMENT STORE

THE STUDENT'S STORE

The Highland Echo

VOLUME ~~18~~ 19 | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE SEPTEMBER 23, 1933 | NUMBER TWO

News Squints

At Campus Organizations

JUNIOR CLASS MEETING

At a meeting of the Junior Class Wednesday morning, Earl Crawford was chosen Editor-in-Chief, and Jimmy Smith, Business Manager, of the Chilhowean. The Chilhowean, the college year book, is published each year by the Junior Class.

ATHENIAN MEETING

Athenian Literary Society will hold its first meeting for the year in Athenian Hall Saturday night. A special program has been arranged. Calvin Schmidt and Clark Lathan will appear in the role of musicians and Douglas Carhart is to give a reading.

ALPHA SIGMA MEETING

The first meeting of the year of Alpha Sigma Literary Society will be held Saturday night in Alpha Sigma Hall. Jess Willis, the president, Glover Leitch, and Robert Downs will make short talks, which will be of interest both to old and to new men. The Dixie Vagabonds will add further interest to the program.

Y. W. SUNDAY MEETING

All girls are welcomed to the second Sunday meeting of the Y. W. C. A. to be held at 1:15 in the reading rooms. An attractive student program will be presented on the theme of "Full and Creative Life", in which every girl will be given an opportunity to share her thoughts with the group. Come at one o'clock and enjoy a short song service with us if you can. There will be a place for you.

MINISTERIAL CLUB

The first meeting of the Ministerial Association was held on September 19. About thirty-five men were present. After the singing of some hymns, Winn Barr led the group in the devotional exercises. He chose for

(Continued on page four)

New Piano Assistant Appointed Music Dept.

Mrs. Lois Davis Huber has been appointed as Teacher of Piano in the College Music Department.

For the past three yars Mrs. Huber has been teacher and supervisor of music in the State Normal School, Glassboro, New Jersey. Prior to that she was for four years a teacher and head of the Public School Music Department in Kwassui Woman's College, Nagasaki, Japan.

She holds the degrees of Bachelor of Arts in Music from the University of Washington, and Master of Arts in Education from Columbia University. While in Japan she studied with a Russian teacher, Madame Kusnetzova from the Petrograd Conservatory of Music. Mrs. Huber has extensive training and experience in directing public school music and is accomplished both as a pianist and a vocalist.

Y. M. C. A. Plans To Have Pow-wows Often

Y. W. and Y. M. May Stage Joint Banquet

At the "Y" Pow-Wow in the College Woods last Saturday night, "Red" Courtenay, Fellowship Chairman, made the announcement of a new change of policy of his department. Instead of the pow-wow being the annual pow-wow, it now assumes the proportions of the first of a series of pow-wows, probably monthly.

Further, the Fellowship Club will extend its activities to include banquets in one of the Maryville eating houses; the two "Y's" will endeavor to stage a joint banquet; and the Maryville and University of Tennessee "Y's" will also hold joint fetes.

At the Y. M. meeting Sunday afternoon, President Lloyd will address the members on the general topic chosen for the theme of the year: "The Master's Mind, Our Mind's Master". Men interested in

(Continued on page four)

Theta Epsilon Rush Week Closes Tonight

Tea, Informal Party, And Opening Night Make Full Theta Week

Theta Epsilon has had a full rush week. Besides the individual rushing of new girls by old girls there have been two interesting afternoons of entertainment, an informal party on Tuesday, and a tea on Thursday. The week's activities will come to a climax tonight in the opening night program.

The informal party on Tuesday was held at the home of Miss Nathalia Wright, '33 graduate, and former Theta president. It was attended by more than two hundred girls, Geraldine Smith was in charge of the games which gave everybody a lively hour or two. Perhaps the most interesting of these was the game "Scavenger."

The program was given by the music pupils of Garnet Manges, also a Theta, who presented a flower operetta, as well as various musical numbers.

Refreshments carried out the rush week theme, "Say it with flowers and a sweet", being tiny flowerpots filled with ice cream. Proffitt's Department Store provided many of the prizes, and also theater tickets.

A large number of girls attended the tea on Thursday. Theta officers and Bainonian representatives formed the receiving line. The program consisted of flower songs by Miss Jessie Johnson, former Theta, and a trio, Mimi Baez, Leone Ann Brown, and Geraldine Smith, and a fashion show. Miss Jean Campbell, '33 graduate was in charge and presented the models which were from Chandler-Singleton's Department Store. Those participating were Marian Alice Faulkner, Rena Forrest, Ernestine Tipton, Roberta Harvey, Bobbie Revely, Opal Johnson, Louise Reichelderfer, Martha Copoer, and Ruth Doty.

Two groups of girls were entertained, one at 3:15, the other at 4:30.

Vesper Choir Tryouts Attract Many Students

Miss Henry Especially Beseiged By Ambitious Sopranos

The try-outs for places in the Vesper Choir have resulted in the following selections:

Sopranos—Marie Carlson, Mary Sloane Welsh, Kay Carpenter, Leone Ann Brown, Mimi Baez, Helen Chambers, Colesta Palmer, Lucile Nelson, Lola Maye Hayes, Violet Webb.

Tenors—Andrew Alexander, Sam Waid, Jesse Willis, Calvin Schmidt, Charles Orner, Gordon Grooms, Floyd Wells.

Contraltos— Marjorie Salmons, Lucille Swafford, Katherine Wayland, Bernice Gaines, Sylvia Epright, Virginia Worth, Jane Irwin, Mary Wilson, Charlotte Upp, Mary Ellen Himmelright.

Basses—Kenneth Von Hee, Randolf Snider, Gordon Courtenay, Roland Beck, Carl Fisher, Rey Burkhalter, Francis Huber, William Quigley, James Laing, Clifford Williams, Harry Paul.

The number of applicants, according to Miss Henry, was exceedingly surprising, especially those desirous of obtaining a place in the soprano section.

College Maid, Offices Busy During Summer

A Number of Students Employed Through Vacation Months

During the summer months, work on the campus in the College Maid Shop and offices engaged quite a number of students.

In spite of "Old Man Depression" the College Maid Shop was kept open most of the summer, and gave work to between forty and fifty girls. Most of those employed were local or from this county, but some students from other states, spent the summer in Maryville, making part or full time in the shop. Large orders for dresses, pajamas, gymn suits, nurse's uniforms, and carpenter's aprons were filled, as well as small orders for special size dresses and children's clothes. The College Maid Shop is now working under the NRA and finds this plan satisfactory in every way.

A large number of boys were hired to clean and repair the buildings and work upon the lawns and the farm. During the latter part of the summer, work was done on the bank back of Carnegie and upon the offices in Anderson. The offices also employed four college girls. Mrs. James Smith of Meridian, Mississippi, arrived the first of September to fill the position held by Mrs. David Marston (Miss Ruth Weese).

The swimming pool was kept open for the benefit of the student workers during two months of the summer. In July two conferences were held on the Hill, one under the direction of the Southern Presbyterian Church and the other under the Northern Presbyterian Church. These brought a number of people to the campus for short periods.

Theta Opening Tonight

All girls, old and new, Theta and Bainonian, and all faculty members are cordially urged to be present at the Theta opening night program. The program will be held in the big gym at 7:00 tonight. Features of the program are many musical numbers, solos and choruses, tapping, tableaus, and a play. Come and hear the program over the "Theta Night Club of the Air". This means you!

Debate Season Opens Early This Winter

The public speaking class met in Professor Queener's classroom on Tuesday evening for a brief organization meeting with about thirty-five students present. The group decided to meet on Thursdays at the D period and on Tuesday nights at seven o'clock. A second section may meet at the F period on Thursdays if the need warrants it.

The question for the year has not been selected, but it was definitely announced that the debate season would be earlier this year with some of the varsity debates taking place before the Christmas vacation.

There is still room in the class for any former debaters and others interested in debating activities.

Girl's Point System Begins October First

Open Only To Girls Of Freshman, Sophomore Standing

Mrs. Evelyn Queener, Physical Instructor for women, announces that the Point System of Athletic Awards will start October first. This year the contest will be open only to girls of Freshman or Sophomore standing.

The honors to be awarded are as follows: for three-hundred points, a Maryville monogram, M, C.; for four hundred points, a Maryville letter, M; for five hundred points, a Maryville M with a sweater.

Points will be awarded for participation in class teams, such as basketball, soccer, volley ball, indoor baseball, and tennis. Points may also be won by passing tests in swimming, stunts, archery, aerial dart, track and field sports, and hiking.

Scholarship also affords an opportunity for scoring which is often overlooked. Extra points will be awarded for A and B averages in any subject. To compete in the point system, students must be taking a minimum of twelve semester hours a week.

In addition to the above requirements, the general health of the student must be good throughout the whole semester. A number of health rules which must be observed by contestants have been drawn up by Mrs. Queener.

THIS COLLEGE SPIRIT—

Honaker was right! For the past two years the student body, and the faculty, have for the most part looked on the football team in the same light as the group of small boys who entertain us at times in somebody's back yard. And the result has fitted the cause.

But Honaker did NOT state what must have been obvious to him, that we are well on the way to another season of ATHLETIC LETHARGY, if we judge from the support given the team thus far. True, a goodly crowd attended the pep meeting in the chapel Thursday night, but it was composed mainly of curious but disinterested freshmen and ardent moon shiners. And the moonshiners could not even have the grace to be there on time. Add to this the sad spectacle of the handful of "Boy Scouts" who made the customary disgraceful show of themselves at the door and we have a pep meeting, all but the pep.

There is no need to point fingers, to attempt to lay blame; what is paramount at this time is ACTION. Upperclassmen, take another look at the men who make our teams! Realize that they are not merely classmates, although they are classmates and are our friends. But beside that, they are our TEAM; and as our team, they carry an integral part of each individual reputation on the Hill into athletic contests. They represent each student and faculty member in engagements with fellow institutions. Take interest in them and in yourselves!

Freshmen, show the upperclassmen that you have come to Maryville with a purpose, and that that purpose is to make yourselves FIT into the scheme of affairs in Maryville college life. One of the first moves you must make is to prove to yourselves and to others that a deep-seated loyalty to school and team rests in your heart.

All, let's pull together! At the games and pep meetings, try and forget your moonshining when the time comes to yell. And when the cheer leaders call for yells, give them YELLS, not the feeble squawks heard so frequently at past engagements. Remember, too, that

(Continued on page four)

FEATURE By BEALE

Bye wille of the supervisorre of thys sheet, and in goode fayth and hope that suche intentions may be received courteously by the pupilles of thys institutionne, the wryter takes hys quyll in hand and makes a valyant endeavorre to recounte one of hys favoryte ancdottes entytled, "The Strangge Adventurres of Charitye, or A Mayde Wythe Hyghe Purpose". Be it stayted here all soe that sayde tayle hath been recounted at varyous tymes at the localle taverns and coffee-houses and hath been ryght merrily received bye the vylladge swayns there. Especiially bye those of the grouppe whych hath a romantik turn. But the tayle:

Charitye was a wondrouslye fayre childe. Even in hyr more tender years, those aboutte hyr foresaw an exceeding bryghte future for hyr. Somme sayde, "Surely, hyr fayrnesse must needs catch the eyne of the manorlordde hym selffe." Otheres wyr confidante that hys Honor the Lordde Mayorre's sonne coulde not but chuse the fayre mayde above all otheres in the village. But notte soe. When Charitye attayned the ayge of one-scorre but three, in spyte of the ardente protestes of her kith, noe thyngge woulde avayle but that she joyne hyr selffe to the systers of the convente hardde bye. And soe she wente.

Monthes wente bye; and stylle Charitye continued to bloome in beautye, even in the cloystered barrenne of the convente. She faste becayme there the favoryte of the goode systeres, and even of the pryoresse hyr selffe; and fulle three yeares dyde she engayge faythfully and goode in the dutyes assygned hyr. And the systeres wyre gladde. But on the dawne of the fourthe yeare of hyr styye at the convente, there cayme in to the hearte of Charitye a grayte unreste. The bloome fayded from her cheeke, and the vittles of the convente halle would she notte touche. And hyr soule was sore dystressed.

But the goode systeres and the pryoresse soone knew in onne tryce

(Continued on page four)

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - -
Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors
Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor
Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - -
Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - -
Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs
Katharine Orr - - - - -
Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - -
Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - -
Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - -
Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Business
Jesse Willis - Business Manager

Subscription Rates - - - -
$1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, September 23, 1933

The sputtering we have heard the past few days about the required church attendance reminds us of a story of one youth at least who found church attendance profitable.

A Georgia boy hitchhiiked to Chicago, and his first Sunday there attended the well-known Episcopal cathedral of Evanston, having heard of the beauty of the edifice.

The dean invited him home to lunch. There, he met a titled Englishwoman and a rich Chicago bachelor. When asked by the Englishwoman how he traveled he had to explain at great length that by "air way" he did mean plane, but "air ye going' my way", or the proverbial thumb-hooking. The bachelor comprehended; the English lady did not.

Dinner over, the bachelor insisted on taking the young man to his own Chicago apartment for dinner and the night. The next day he "did" Chicago in an expensive motor behind a liveried chauffeur.

But the Georgian had to leave; he planned to visit friends in Nashville. "Don't worry", said the host, "I will get you a ticket that will take you where you want to go", and presently the boy found himself on the bus, armed with a ticket to his destination. In a near faint (so he was described) he lay back against his seat resolving that no matter where he was he was always going to church on Sunday.

A unique experience, you say, and quite irrelevant from the fact that church attendance is a Maryville requirement. However, we can think of two or three things which it is reasonable to assume most average young people get in a church service. Briefly they are: Contact with the ideas and ideals of a more experienced person than oneself, fellowship in an ideal setting, and satisfaction of the innate cosmic urge which prompts all of us to worship in same manner.

Mahatma Gandhi has declared a year's truce with the British Government promising not to engage in civil disobedience or otherwise defy the authorities until August 3, 1934. Instead he will devote the year to work on behalf of the Untouchables.

—MC—

During August, 750,000 men and women have regained employment. Factory employment rose 6.4 percent and payrolls 11.6 percent.

Book Browsing

Papa La Fleur by Zona Gale (Mrs. W. L. Breese) 155p. Appleton

This latest book of Zona Gale's shows us her poetic, mystical, and symbolic side. She presents to us the foolish and wise struggles of youth for independence as well as a picture of life on an island in simple and heroic terms. In the end, however, she unfortunately gives way to her sentimental side. At first, the author shows us a picture of peaceful, tranquil atmosphere which finally turns to sadness.

Papa La Fleur and his two daughters, Dolly and Linnie, live on an island near Portage, Wisconsin. They succeed in making their living by the raising of bees. Dolly returning after a year's absence, in Chicago, remains aloof from her family as the result of her experiences. Linnie also wants a chance to go to the city. Finally, an opportunity arrives to sell the island to a power company. The father refuses to part with the property, so Linnie takes the matter in her own hands and goes to Chicago anyway. Her chance for freedom has arrived, but Papa La Fleur kills himself and Linnie returns home a disillusioned woman.

The style of the book is brilliant, and unusually good, although at times, the story is a trifle too intricate for one's intelligence, and it becomes difficult to follow the author's train of thought.

On the whole, however, the book is very well written and makes enjoyable entertainment for a few hours.

Alumni News

Dr. and Mrs. Fred Hope were in Maryville for a few days this week, leaving Tuesday for their home at Winona Lake, Indiana. On October 12 they will sail from New York for Africa where they will resume their mission work in Elat. They plan to drive to New York in their new Chevrolet and it will go on the ship with them to Africa. Misses Arta Grace and Elizabeth Hope are iin college here; their three younger sisters are in school in Columbia, South Carolina.

Miss Mildred Campbell '20 of Poughkeepsie, New York spent Monday and Tuesday visiting friends at the college. Miss Campbell was granted her Ph. D. in History at Yale in 1932 and is now a professor in the history department of Vassar College.

Miss Campbell and Mrs. Dorothy Wiust Brown of Honolulu, Hawaii have the distinction of being the only women graduates of Maryville who have received the degree of Doctor of Philosophy.

Dr. and Mrs. George T. Tootell of Chagteh, China are in America on furlough, and have located at Wooster, Ohio for the year. Their son, Jack, who was in college here last year, is with his parents and has entered the Sophomore class in Wooster.

During the summer the following marriages occurred among the members of the Alumni Association:

Harold Bird '29 to Miss Lillian McReynolds, June 1933. At home, Maryville.

Miss Ellen Cowan '28 to Rev. Albert Tull '29. At home, Cow Creek, Kentucky.

Dr. William Crowder '28 to Miss Grace Wilson, July 1933. At home, Maryville.

Prof. Wendell W. Cruze '28 to Miss Jean Kerr, June 1933. At home, L. M. U., Harrogate, Tenn.

Miss Mary McArthur '31 to Rev. James Beard, June 22, 1933. At home, Leeds, Alabama.

Miss Edna McCamy '29 to Edward Lyle, June 10, 1933. At home, Maryville.

Miss Ruby Miller '32 to Prof. F. A. Griffitts, June 1933. At home, Maryville.

Piscatorial Prattlings

Why should we write about fish? It was this way; a little bird whispered to us, suggesting fish. That isn't so strange after all, for fish and birds go well together—God created them on the same day. As we say, fish and birds go well together, but fish and ketchup. . . . . (catch it?)

The dictionary is a useful thing (see Miss Heron on transition). It says that fish are adapted for life under water. It doesn't say how much water, though, but maybe Griffitts could calculate it for us. All that leads us to remark that this Maryville campus is an ideal place for fish. The new students will appreciate that later.

The rommate says that this article leaks. We agree with him.

Fish are of many kinds. There's shad, flounder, haddock, whitefish, weakfish, and, of course, poor fish. Among fish, Haddock, and poor fish are most prominent on the campus at present, with the poor fish giving Haddock a good run for first place. See the poor fish all over the campus, mourning the loss of a good home, or maybe the weekly date to the home town movie. Let them cheer up; they'll soon be at home here in Maryville water even if it is hot water at times.

What are fish god for anyway? They're made into glue and fertiliser. They provide a lot of men with excuses for staying away from home, and that's enough to justify the existence of almost anything. It was a fish that saved Jonah. And we mustn't forget that fish are sometimes good to eat. Pearson's doesn't know that, however. Wasn't it the Romans who first ate fish? No, it couldn't have been, for a fish diet forms brains. When we think of that maybe that's why we don't get fish at Pearson's.

Fish, too, come or grow or happen or whatever it is they do, in different hues and sizes and shapes. (When in Philadelphia be sure to visit the aquarium.) You'll be impressed with the differences in fish in the next few days, particularly the differences in shape. Yes, there's big fish and little fish, whales and guppies, and mackerel and MacElree.

One thing we don't like about fish is the bones. Now, why can't they grow boneless fish, just as they have seedless oranges, squirtless grapefruit, and leakless sieves. Of course, when we reflect (!) we realise that there is a boneless fish, the jelly-fish, but who'd want a jelly-fish?

And always remember there's as good fish in the sea as ever came out of it and girls are just like trolley cars—there'll be another one along in a minute.

Much Excitement Over Small Laundry Fire

The campus was the scene of much excitement Wdnesday evening when it was discovered that there was a fire in the laundry back of Baldwin. In a few moments scores of people arrived on the scene, coming from all the dormitories and the library. The fire department appeared shortly, and the conflagration was soon extinguished. Many town cars had followed the fire engine, and for a time traffic was congested. Only minor damage was done.

The most interesting part of the flurry was the reaction of the numerous excitement-seekers. One sleepy and dishevelled senior was heard to remark in thick tones "now the moral of this is never go to bed before 8:30."

World Today

In Liverpool, England, has recently been dedicated the site of a Roman Catholic cathedral which will be the second largest church building in the world.

—MC—

Latest reports from St. Louis indicate that the outbreak of sleeping sickness has reached its peak. Since mid-July over 800 cases have been reported. 145 deaths have resulted.

—MC—

There is at present a strong movement afoot to elect Austria to a seat in the League of Nations Council.

—MC—

Employment of 5,000 war veterans by the Ford Motor Company was authorized last week. Beginning on Monday 300 veterans a day will be hired until the quota is reached.

—MC—

Cuba is still, politically unsettled. Three factions are in the field, the Student's Directorate, the Army, the Opposition Parties composed mainly of the ABC secret society. An army dictatorship is anticipated. Conditions were complicated in the east by outbreaks of malaria in many towns.

COLLEGE CLEANERS

STUDENT REPRESENTATIVES

Leland Shannon, 323 Carnegie
Elvira L. Ressler, 9 Pearsons

SUBSCRIPTION BLANK

SPECIAL RATE $1.00

Good Only Till October 1

Students subscribe to the HIGHLAND ECHO for your parents or sweethearts; have the paper sent to them so they can keep up with your Campus News.

Your Name_____

Address_____

SEND PAPER TO

Their Name_____

Street_____

City_____

Give Subscription to Jess Willis

RUTH WEESE MARRIES DURING SUMMER MONTHS

House In The Woods The Scene of Very Pretty Wedding

Of interest to old students is the announcement of the marriage of Ruth Weese, former assistant to the registrar, to David S. Marston of Columbus, Ohio. The marriage took place August 17 with Reverend Charles Marston of Loveland, Ohio, father of the groom, fficiating.

The wedding, which was a very prety one, was at the House in the Woods. Carrie Pearson and Grace Proffitt provided music. Other Maryville students assisted at the reception held after the ceremony.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Marston graduated from Maryville in the class of 1929. Since that time Mrs. Marston has been assistant registrar here, while Mr. Marston has been a professor at the Y. M. C. A. College at Columbus, where they will make their home.

Discussion of the intergovernmental debts owed to this country by Great Britain will start in Washington early in October. The first meeting will probably be held on October 5.

LITERARY NIGHTS

"If any member of my audience," said the man on the stage, "will call out the name of some female character in Shakespeare, I will portray that character."

"Florence Nightingale", came a shout.

"I said Shakespeare, sir, not Dickens."

Palace Theatre

NEXT WEEK
MON.-TUES.

WEDNESDAY
"AS THE DEVIL COMMANDS"
With
Neil Hamilton, Mae Clark
Also Comedies

THURS.-FRI.
Lionel Barrymore
In
"Strangers Return"

Echo Sports

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

When the Highlanders march out upon the field this afternoon to grapple with the hard-driving, wild-cat eleven of Kentucky University, they will face a line averaging over two-hundred pounds, they will meet with players who have had more experience in big-time football than they, and they will play a game not habitually their own, the game of football as it is played in the land of the big universities. There will be no cheering section to add that extra bit of fight, color, college spirit, or what have you, to the play as it moves up and down the field. But whatever the odds, Highlander is just another name for a hard-fighting, ne'er-give-up die-hard, who knows when he's licked, and who never succumbs to press dope, skeptics, or what-nots. Gentlemen, we will be satisfied with nothing less than the Hon. Cat's beard.

—S—

"Walking up Jefferson", our pet name for roving hither and yon over the campus, we sometimes run across some very interesting avocations in the doing, such as Robert Toms, high-jump expert, keeping his long nether extremities in trim by riding up and down Court Street on his bicycle, or Phil Cory, Editor of Athenian, whetting his talent on the old nag-and-shovel combination down at the site of the new steps, but that doesn't quite tie the sight of ol' Gillespie grabbing that ball and slipping, dodging, turning through the line as if it were made up of so many eighth-graders. We reckon it's a habit. . . but it's a dern goodern.

—S—

It is seldom that college folk during their short educational careers get to witness anything like a grudge match of any type between two persons prominent in their class, but those who care to trouble themselves may see the run-off of a half-mile "grudge" next Friday at the local track. Two freshmen by the names of Allan and Dowell, "Wacky" Dowell they call him, are the "grudgees", "Wacky", we believe, being the more notorious by virtue of his thirteen-dollar handkerchief, his jewel-rimmed glasses, and his fiendish love for "kidding the other guys along". The "grudge" will probably be the loss of two or three simoleans, on one's or the other's part, but it'll be a great race.

—S—

We hear they're making it a sin to come to pep sessions with a date now. And how did the students take that sentence about getting after the faculty. . . wowie! But who has the nerve to do it beside the "Man of Destiny"?

—S—

Down at Tennessee Wesleyan Coach Rube M'Cray is giving plenty of publicity to the several players of his who are nursing injuries as the result of a few "bruising scrimmages" held there last week, which "not only bruised but felled a couple of the lads". "Just so", said one commentator, "we couldn't say we did it, after the game here next Friday night."

The thirtieth and thirty-first states to vote on ending national prohibition recorded their votes on Tuesday. Both Idaho and New Mexico cast a majority for repeal.

Wright's 5&10c Store
"Where a little money goes a long way"

SCOTS OPEN SEASON TODAY WITH KENTUCKY. GILLESPIE IN

Spirits Are High As Well-Balanced Machine Entrains For Lexington

Riding on one of the highest waves of enthusiasm developed for an opening game in the past several years, the Maryville Highlander grid machine entrained for Lexington yesterday morning. They tackle the behemoth Wildcats of the University of Kentucky tonight on Stoll Field, back yard of Gamage's crew. And although, to all appearances, Maryville is just another warm-up, both teams have a real and true reason to be showing their mettle to its best advantage.

For Coach Honaker, there is the opportunity to again startle the Southern football circles with a close scrap with the 'Cats. For Coach Gamage, well the Kaintuck mentor is wasting no chances to show the old grads that he is just as good as he ever was. That, coupled with the mammoth line he has drawn together, will give the Scots a very, very busy evening.

But they are prepared; the entire varsity line-up is composed of men tried and true under the fire of battle; a wealth of reserves will simply punch usually lacking in previous contests with larger teams; and an indomitable fighting spirit prevails in the squad, which bids fair to give the 'Tucky lads a run for the old game no matter what the final score may indicate.

Five ends, Atkins, Kalman, Gwynn, Slawson and Kosloski, assure the wing position of receiving competent attention. At tackle Mose Gamble and Buck Millsaps will open the encounter, with Cochran aching to fill the boots of the first one who flags. Atchison and Pieper have the edge as starters at guard, while Klink and Holaday will furnish plenty of reserve power at that position. Captain Russell begins his last year at center tonight, with Bailey, scrappy sophomore, ready and waiting.

Three of the backfield starters are certain. Tom West will be the opening choice for quarter, with Martin Gillispie again plugging holes at full. At one half Steve Boretsky is sure to begin the affray, while the other half position will probably be taken by Loessberg, although Johnny Kiser may open there. Gray, Blazer, Colins, and Payne will also probably see service during the evening.

The Scots will probably be outweighed twenty-five or thirty pounds to the man, and none of the experts or even the fans, are predicting or expecting a victory. But all are predicting and expecting that, when the final whistle echoes over Stoll Field this evening, Coach Gamage and his charges will be well aware of the fact that a football game has been played, and played hard and well.

PHAY OUT OF FALL TOURNEY

Karnell Heavy Favorite

Attacked by typhoid fever during the summer, Johnnie Phay, last year's tennis team captain and one of the favorites to win this season's sachet, will be unable to compete for the Fall crown. It is said that Karnell's slashing attack may prove strong enough to carry off honors in the coming tourney.

Because Haub and Fischbach will not be in the lists this Autumn, indications point even more strongly to the blasting Pennsylvanian.

The list of entries is growing hourly. Among the new stock are Esbach, Campbell, and Donald, freshmen, and Horn, sophomore, who have great possibilities. Other contenders for the title will do well to keep an eye on all four, and especially when the varsity season rolls around.

More than 100 persons have been killed in the hurricane which struck Mexico last week.

M. M. ELDER'S
Cash Carry Stores
The Best Place to Buy Your Picnic Supplies

STUDENTS!
READ THE ADS
• •
The merchants who advertise with us are interested in you, your college and its publications. Repay their interest by
PATRONIZING OUR ADVERTISERS

"Y" Announces Ping-Pong Tourney

Athletic Board Plans Long Program of Interclass Sports

Commencing the year's round of interclass competition in sports, the Y.M.C.A. athletic board under the direction of John Waldrop and Rex Allen will sponsor a ping-pong tournament to be held in Bartlett, the entries and pairings for which will be made early next week.

With the new administration at the "Y" installed, plans are going forward rapidly for an entirely new program of interclass sports. In addition to the ping-pong, Allen and Waldrop have announced plans for handball, basketball, boxing, swimming, and wrestling, each to be announced more fully when the season arrives. Interclass boxing is something new here and is expected to create great interest.

Aside from the regularly scheduled cross-country run, the "Y" will sponsor a run to be held sometime in November for those not on the team. All those interested in running in either cross-country are notified to get in training. Already Snedeker and Paul have been working out around the athletic field, and two or three freshmen have been doing the same. With Spec Moore not in the race this year Snedeker and Paul loom as the favorites, Snedeker a little more, perhaps, because he unofficially took second place last year.

Chief Tshekedi, who ordered the flogging of a British subject in violation of a law prohibiting native court trials of any European, was deposed as ruler of his tribe by order of the British Acting High Commissioner for the Protectorate.

"We Must All Get Behind The Team," Declares Honaker

"Man of Destiny" Lays Students Low In Pep Session

"Get after the faculty" was the theme of a spirited talk given by Coach Honaker at the first pep session of the year Thursday night. "What we need is a faculty that will get behind college athletics in a body, but what we have is gone, some of which are red-hot for the fray, others luke-warm, and others . . . . just plain cold", stormed the coach.

"But regardless of where the student spirit wanders to," said he, "it still remains on the squad, and so long as I can help it, it will stay there."

Joe Gamble and Lee Callaway, past noble-grands of other Kentucky frays, were present and gave enthusiastic talks about the team and its possibilities, Callaway stressing the importance of student and faculty backing, and Gamble speaking of the grace with which a team can win or lose.

Theta Epsilon concluded the pep meeting with songs and a skit.

1933 FOOTBALL SCHEDULE

Sept. 23—Kentucky—There
*Sept. 29—Tennessee Wesleyan—Here
*Oct. 6—Tusculum—Here
*Oct. 14—King—There
Oct. 21—Murfreesboro Teachers—There
*Oct. 27—Lenoir-Rhyne—Here
Nov. 3—E. Tenn. Teachers—There
Nov. 11—W. N. C. Teachers—There
Nov. 18—Milligan—Here
Nov. 30—Carson Newman—There
*Night Games

To Look Your Best Send Your Clothes To RAULSTON'S
"ODORLESS CLEANING"
STUDENT REPRESENTATIVES
John Chenault, 322 Carnegie O. T. Holder, 122 Carnegie

BYRNE DRUG CO.
The Student's Store
... FOR ...
DRUG SUPPLIES
•
We will give Quarterly Reports of the Maryville-Ky. Game

NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY
Always at your service

OBSERVATIONS

HOTCHA

We're just bubbling over with news this week, some of it being publishable and other being relative to Kangaroo courts. The first thing of course, and that which Mr. Kipp thinks is the correct thing to mention first, is the "Firemen Save My Petticoat" act that one Howard pulled the other evening when the Baldwin laundress became overly absorbed in reading the letter from home that day and forgot her iron. It wasn't a matter of too many irons in the fire, but possibly a little too much fire in the irons.

CINCINNATI!

Now, as we were saying, Mr. Kipp, with the help of four or fifteen firemen was the hero beyond all shade of doubt. Mr. Kipp just left the library on all fours and got a fire extinguisher and fairly squelched the fire before the men intended for that profession could say "Boo". Of course, they came and ripped off some boards to leave their mark on the campus. We hear that Miss Kennedy, the librarian's assistant barely missed being a heroine. . . . failing only because she couldn't find an extinguisher after Kipp took the only one available.

WE LOVE A PARADE

The most revealing treat of the entire occasion was the turnout of Carnegie which rivaled a beach parade at Atlantic City, except some of the fellows didn't have time to dress quite enough for the occasion. One might suppose, if his observant powers hadn't functioned up to par, that the fire was in Carnegie, and that it was a retreat instead of an attack.

MR. HONAKER SPEAKS

And now, for the fourth successive year of which we know, Mr. L. S. Honaker puts the faculty on the bandwagon for not whooping it up at our fotball games. The fact is, we learn that the faculty doesn't even have a yell leader. Why, the unfaithful old meanies!

WE DO

We propose, gentmens, a faculty cheering section situated on the fur side from the student's section on the football field with a yell leader chosen by competitive try-outs. . . . no, three cheer leaders, and we'd like to have Miss Heron's dog as mascot. Now don't feel that this would spoil the prestige connected with our dignitaries, for it's being done in all colleges everywhere. . . . and in all the universities as well. Yeh.

SMERuNAK FOR SECRETARY

We forgot to place our vote in. We want Professor Ellis for big chief leader, with Dr. Hill Shine and Professor Lagerstedt as assistants, whose duty it will be to lead while Professor Ellis is getting his breath. Mr. Lagerstedt will turn somersaults, and do other antics for the crowd in spare moments. Dr. Shine won't.

BEALE AGAIN

We talk so much in terms of "types" these days, and become conscious of those students of extreme opposite types. We have in mind two. . . . both of whom, we're told were winners in baby contests in their more extreme infancy. The one, Charley Beale, is reputed to have been the prize sleeper, even in South Georgia, and the other, while many thought she was also the prettiest baby, really won the prize on being the most wide awake little savage. One time she chewed the wood on hr crib to bits and crawled over to the pantry to get something to eat. The wide awake person still retains the particular physical identification—and incidentally, answers when the name "Mildred Harris" is spoken.

THE PINCH HITTER

Observation material fairly thrust itself at us last week when we saw the little black dog of Miss Heron's leading her all over the campus. If you haven't seen that, you're not at all in the money. It's the first time we've ever seen Miss Heron led anywhere by anything and it was quite a treat to us. We just hope and pray that the English authority of Maryville College (well, that is, after Dr. E. R. Hunter she comes first) never gets a man who does that way, or someone might have to seek the easiest way out!

ARF

They say the dog likes football. He's made several passes at the neighbor's children in recent days, but none of them have been completed.

RED SOX

We hope that what we said about women's hose last year hasn't had anything to do with affecting the change which has come over our little and big sisters. The feminine lot has actually been seen going around stockingless! Most of them have been freshmen, and from all appearance the ireshmen have been setting an example for the rest of hte outfit.

NEWS SQUINTS

(Continued From Page One)

his scripture reading the second chapter of 2 Corinthians, the greatest glory chapter in the Bible.

The president, Mr. John Talmadge, gave a short welcoming address to both old and new students. During the meeting twelve new men had their names presented for prospective membership. The members of the association have been assigned to committees, which have already begun to function.

It is the wish of the association that all new men interested in Christian service make it a point to attend the next meeting, and have their names presented by some old member of the Ministerial group.

S.V.W.N. BULLETIN BOARD

The staff of the Student Volunteer World News Bulletin met in Bainonian Hall on Wednesday. The work of the year was discussed and plans made for adding some new features.

Several new students have showed an interest in the Board and they be added to the staff in the near future.

The Board seeks to serve the entire student body by presenting to them each week a concise summary of the News of the World and by means of its editorial columns to guide them into a Christian interpretation of that news. The Open Forum of the Board is open to everyone.

Y. M. C. A. PROGRAM

Dr. Lloyd will be the speaker at the regular Y. M. program on Sunday afternoon at 1:00 o'clock. His subject will be "Our Master's Mind —The Mind's Master". The initiation of new members will take place at this meeting.

The program follows:
Prelude—Ensemble
Invocation—Michael P. Testa
Song No. 232—Open My Eyes
Initiation of New Members
"Boy O' Mine"—Carl Fisher
Prayer—Robert Lodwick
Special Music
Phil. 2:1-16—Samuel Waid
Song No. 229—Take My Life
Our Master's Mind—Our Mind's Master—Dr. Lloyd
Benediction—Dr. Lloyd

POW-WOW

(Continued From Page One)

the work of the Y, and wishing to actively co-operate with that work are urged to be present Sunday for the dual purpose of hearing Dr. Lloyd's talk, and of signing and completing membership cards.

The Persian Government resigned on September 13 for reasons that were not made public. The Anglo-Persian dispute over oil concessions has been the cause of governmental uncertainties in the past.

FEATURE—By Beale

(Continued from page one)

the source of Charity's unresstte; and they gathered thym selves in a solemine councille to ponderre. And it cayme to pass that on a day layte in Aprille, Charitye found hyr selffe, wonce more on the outer syde of the convente, free with credditte from the vowes whych had before held her prysoner there. And hyr hearte was gladde wythin hyr. Monthes conynued to goe bye.

Ande on a certyn Easter morn, it cayme to passe that the goode systeres of the convente made a pilgrimadge to the chathedral hard bye on the opposite syde of the villadge. Soe the systeres had neede to passe thru the villadge and, in passing, bye the villadge tavernne, called the Blewe Slyppere. Nowe the systeres had agreed amongge them selvves that, in spyte of theyr vowes of chastytye and innocence, eyne shoulde be openne, and soe with ear, in searche of tydings of the fayre mayde Charitye, of whom theye were exceeding fonde yette.

Soe it dyd happene that the eyne of Syster Faythe dyd alyght on an exceeding familliare fayce behynd the hyghe barre of the Blewe Slyppere. It was the Fayre Mayde Charitye; and she was full well engayged at hyr dutyes, so that she coulde notte bye anyye waye knowe that the goode systeres perceived hyr; and soe she dyd notte in anyye way leave off hyr barremayde's lowe banterre wyth the valladge swaynes gathered rounde aboute hyr. And soe the goode systeres were sore amazed, to see howe the fullnesse of theyr heartes hadde comme to naught. And theye passed on to masse with fulle heavye heartes.

And soe endes thys tale; but notte wyth oute the byrth of a moralle there of. Which is, THE NYGHTINGAYLE SINGGES FULLE SWEETELY, BUT AFTER ALL, WE MUST HAVVE EGGS FOR TO BREAK THE FASTE.

Nu Gamma Breakfast Hike Well Attended

Many new girls attended the Nu Gamma breakfast hike last Monday morning. Leaving Pearsons Hall at six o'clock they hiked into the woods beyond the amphitheatre, and cooked their breakfast over fires which had been prepared by members of the Y. M. C. A. Much good companionship as well as an excellent breakfast were enjoyed. The hikers returned to the campus in time for A classes.

This College Spirit

(Continued from page one)

enthusiasm and loyalty can be shown in other places beside the game. Give the players a hand wherever you may see them. Make them see that the students are behind them. Learn what it is to take pride in, to be a part of, a TEAM!

Fifteen French students arrived in this country last week and are now attending various colleges and universities here. They have been granted scholarships in this country by the Institute of International Education.

During the next few days discussion of the disarmament problem will be reached so as to prevent complete failure next month at Geneva.

DR. S. D. MOUNT
Dentist
First National Bank Building
Phone 323

Compliments of
SERVICE BEAUTY SHOP
Located on Balcony of
First National Bank Building

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*Direct connections to Townsend

Monroe's Confectionery and Lunch
On College Street
Your patronage is appreciated

CARLISLE'S
5c AND 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

KODAK FINISHING
For Best Results and Permanent Prints
BRING YOUR FILMS
TO
THE WEBB STUDIO
220 College Street

Frantic Freshmen
Serious Sophomores
Jolly Juniors
Seasoned Seniors

are all set for school
if they have plenty of

GOLD STRIPE
STOCKINGS

Service for daytime
Chiffon for "dress-up"

85c $1.00

Proffitt's
"The Students' Store"

When You Are Hungry
... COME TO THE ...
Y. M. and Y. W. Stores
Stores by the Students—For the Students
MANAGERS
Ernest Coldwell Lorena May Dunlap

College Street Shoe Shop

Men's Heels and Soles	$1.25	Ladies' Half Soles	$ .50
Men's Rubber Heels	.35	Ladies' Taps	.15
Men's Leather Heels	.40	Shoes Dyed Back	.35
Men's Steel Plates	.10

F. J. MARSH, Manager
Student Representative, George Adams

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 /9 | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE SEPTEMBER 30, 1933 | NUMBER THREE

News Squints

Fellowship Club Meeting

At a meeting of the Fellowship Club held in Bartlett Hall on Monday evening, September 24, at 6:30 the following officers were elected:
President, Robert D. Bower
Vice President, William Downes
Secretary, Richard L. Schlafer
Treasurer, Norman H. Beamer
Program Secretaries, George C. Kent, Jr., J. Robert Watt

"Red" Courtenay and George Greiner were in charge of the meeting. The usual fellowship pamphlets were distributed in order to determine the amount of talent in the class.

The program for Wednesday evening, October 4, will be in the order of a musical entertainment. Bill Downes will be in charge of the orchestra to perform that evening. A specialty of the evening will be a harmonica solo by Arnold Snyder. The singing of the program will be led by "Red" Kent. All those fellows who have not joined the club are cordially invited to attend the next meeting.

Joint Meeting Y.W.—Y.M.C.A.

Sunday, October 1, 1933, 1:15 p. m., Bartlett Hall
Call to Worship—Miss Tess Frey
Special Music—Mr. John Phay
Song No. 173—"Keep Thyself Pure"
Reading—Miss Wynn
Prayers—Randolph Snyder
Frances Massey
Scripture—Matt. 7:1-12—
Mr. Robert Downes
Song No. 57—"Lead On, O King Eternal"
Speaker—Dr. Tarwater—"Finding God's Will"
Special Music—Y.W.C.A.
Benediction—Dr. Tarwater

Sophomore Class

Under the leadership of Robert Lodwick, president, the sophomore class got well into the business of the year at their first meeting Wednesday mrning. The treasurer, Edward Friar, in his financial re-

(Continued on page four)

Bainonian Announces Opening Night Tonight

Swimming Pool To Be Scene Of Festivities

Bainonian Society invites all girls and faculty members to join in the fun at a Bermuda Beach Party to be held in the Swimming Pool tonight at 8:00 p. m. A varied program of singing, dancing, and swimming will be presented. Prizes will be awarded to the fishermen who made the largest catch in the North Sea last Tuesday. Sports dresses are the fashion. Let's go!

Big Brothers Organize; Make Plans For Year

Select Proteges From Children's Orphanage

The Big Brothers and Sister Organizations of the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A. met recently and laid plans for the coming year.

Barbara Whitmore and Hugh Powell are the heads of the movement in which sixteen college men and fifteen college women are to serve as buddies to that many children at the Orphanage. Besides the usual Christmas party this year, there is to be a Hallowe'en Festival and other events in their season. The new leaders intend to make the movement this year a big one.

Large Honor Roll For Second Semester '32-33

One Hundred and Ten People Make B Averages

The following list of people made the honor roll the second semester of the year 1932-33. For the benefit of new students will we state that to be placed on this list a student must have made a B average.

SENIORS

Baldwin, Eunice 20-43; Bradshaw, Aubrey 16-34; Dickens, Amelia 14-29; DuPre, Frances 15-37; Groves, Benjamin 15-42; Hamrick, Inez 18-36; Hannah, Hugh 15-33; Lowry, Harvey 17-34; Macrae, Ellen 16-41; Neff, Frank R. 18-36; Otto, Henry 17-35; Overly, Robert 21-45; Putnam, Dollie 19-41; Quenelle, Conrad 16-32; Rummel, Robert 17-37; Sorce Philip 15-30; Stevenson, Robert 15-34; Walker, Ralph 20-43; Webb, Leslie 16-39; Williams, Ada 15-34; Wright, Nathalia 17-48.

JUNIORS

Beyer, Robert 18-42; Carpenter, Kathaleen 18-40; Dunning, Robert 18-42; Hunter, Ercelle 16-35; Iles, Thelma 18-42; Jones, Marjorie 15-30; Kelley, Vivian 18-36; Kidd, Kenneth 19-41; Kipp, Howard, 17-40; Kirchner, Fred 14-35; Lightfoot, Viola 17-37; Massey, Frances 16-35; Quandt, Wilhelmina 17-43; Schoeller, Mildred 18-42; Tarwater, Oliver 18-38; Thomas, Maisie 18-36; Throne, Pauline 17-34; Toms, Burton 16-41; Vanaman, Edith 15-33; Walrond, Harry 18-49; Warren, Janet 18-45; Welsh, Mary Sloane 17-37; Willocks, Maurine 16-36.

SOPHOMORES

Bailey, Fern 16-35; Beard, Helen 18-36; Brewer, Betty 15-39; Brown, Robert L. 19-51; Cherry, Robert 16-39; Coates, Dorothy 19-41; Craw-

(Continued on page four)

Fish Theme Used For Bainonian Rush Week

New Girls Guppies, Old Girls Larger Fish In Carrying Out Motif

Bainonian will conclude her Rush Week tonight with a Bermuda Beach Party at the Swimming Pool. A Travel Tea, on Tuesday afternoon, and a Fishing Trip, on Thursday afternoon, have added to the individual rushing of freshmen guppies by Bainonian fish.

On Tuesday afternoon at Baldwin Hall, which represented a San Francisco ticket office, the three groups of travelers were presented with tickets by the agents Madge McQuagge and Lucy Houser. The first stop in the journey was at the Pacific Islands at the home of Mrs. Joe Gamble, with Jean Campbell as assistant hostess. A short program of the readings and songs of the countries Japan, Hawaii, and the Phillipine Islands, was given by Janet Warren, Elizabeth Gillis, and Lorena May Dunlap. Tiny paper kites were the very original souvenirs.

The North Sea Fishing Grounds, located at Science Hall Lily Pond, was the next stop. Fishermen Mildred Schoeller, Dorothy Hassall and Cecelia Conover superintended the catching of wax paper fish. Next the travelers spent a little time under the Atlantic Ocean at Bainonian Hall waching Neptune's disapproval of Aphrodite's love affair with a fisherboy, and his approval of a sea nymph's dance. The journey ended at the Y. W. rooms New York Hotel) where guests were refreshed with a menu planned

(Continued on page four)

Professors Of Science Notified Of Election American Association

Maryville Faculty Members Honored For Their Accomplishments

Two members of the Science Department, Professors Susan A. Green and George D. Howell, received notice recently of a particular honor when they were notified of their election as Fellows of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

"Members of the Association who are professionally engaged in scientific work, or who may have advanced science by research, may be elected by the Council to be fellows on nomination. This honor comes to members who have contributed to the advancement of science, usually by the publication of scientific research ,or in their significant manner, such as teaching or directing research in an institution of repute."

Miss Green received her Master of Arts. degree from the University of Chicago, having chosen as the title of her thesis, "Sleep Movements in the Leaves of Marsilea, a Water Fern". She also holds an honorary degree, Doctor of Humanities, from Maryville College. She is a member of Pi Gamma Mu, national honorary social science fraternity; the Tennessee Academy of Science; and the National Geographical Society. A paper, which she wrote in collaboration with Dr. Norman W. Greer, dealing in general with the relationship between temperature and seasonal blooming of cold spring Ivy has been published.

Mr. Howell received his Master of Science degree from Vanderbilt University where he was especially interested in chemical research. A resume of his thesis, "Temperature Coefficients of Reference Electrodes" was published in the Journal of the American Chemical Society, and parts of his thesis were referred to in Clark's book, "Hydrogen Ion Determination". Mr. Howell has about completed his work for a Ph. D. degree at the University of Chicago where he has centered his attention largely upon physiological chemistry. He will do research work this year in protein analysis.

Miss Green and Mr. Howell are popular members of the faculty, and this honor which comes to them reflects credit both to them and to the college which they represent.

Mountain Hike Planned By Y Cabinet for Oct. 8

Outing To Take Form of Week End Trip

Red Courtenay announced today that the fall Y mountain hike will be held the 7th and 8th of October. The arrangements will be the same as usual for Y. mountain hikes. The leaders this year will be Hugh Powell, Ernest Lowe, Mike Testa, John Daldrop, George Greiner, and Red Courtenay. These names will be posted in Carnegie and men who wish to go on the hike may sign their names in any of the six groups. No one group is to have more than ten men in it.

The hike will start at 2:15 Saturday afternoon, the 7th of October, groups returning late Sunday afternoon. Trucks will take the hikers out to the mountains with their food and provisions. Fellows are

(Continued on page four)

Scots Held To Scoreless Tie By Tennessee-Wesleyan Bulldogs

Collins Shines In Backfield. Boretsky Outpunts Gregory.

FROSH STAR IN LINE

Led by an irrepressible young gentleman named Gregory, ably aided and abetted by another competent grid murderer called Eblen, the Tennessee-Wesleyan Bulldogs invaded the Highlander back yard and battled the home team to a standstill for a scoreless tie. Highly touted by the local dopesters, Rube McCray's men fully live up to expectations and then threw in an extra pound or so.

For, presenting as well-balanced and smoothly geared machine as has been seen in these parts in some time, the Athenians squirmed and twisted their way into dangerous territory several times, only to be held at the last moment. Both lines were able to hold in a pinch, and no breaks came either way to give a score.

The very opening of the game saw Gregory receive the kick-off on his own twenty-five yard line and sift through Scot after Scot until Blazer, his last obstacle, brought him down. In scoring position at the very outset, the Bulldogs pushed on until they were inside the ten-yard line, where a fumble cost them the ball, probably a touchdown. The oncounter then took on the aspect of a punting duel between Gregory and Steve Boretsky; neither was able to gain a decided advantage.

In the second quarter, Honaker sent in two of his backfield luminaries, West and Collins. Witih West directing, the team began its first real attempt at a drive. Collins ripped off consistent gains through the middle of the line, Boretsky scouted the ends, and a general hullabaloo was raised until the shadow of the enemy goal threw the customary jinx on the home team. Several times a score seemed inevitable, with the Highlander offense clicking off consistent gains. But the Bulldog line, led by Constantine, Harris, and Sweeney, stood fast once a touchdown was threatened.

The third quarter opened with a Wesleyan drive. Nothing, it seemed, could stop Gregory and Eblen; practically alternaitng in carrying the ball, they marched away, only to be repeatedly repulsed by Maryville's superior forward wall. More punts and passes by Maryville almost took on the aspect of a scoring drive,

(Continued on page three)

Athletic Director And Student Council Are Selected By Seniors

The Senior Class held its first class meeting in the philosophy classroom in Thaw Hall on Wednesday, September 27, at 6:30 with the president, Robert Tripp, presiding. Much business was discussed, the most important being the election of members to the Student Council, and the purchase of jackets and caps.

Those elected to represent the class on the student council were: Frances Biddle, Janet Warren, Opal Johnson, and Thelma Isles, Gordon Grooms, Frederick Kirchner, and John McQueen. The president, Robert Tripp, is a member of the Council pro tempore.

Since Don Fortune did not return to school it was necessary to elect a new athletic director. Willard Lampe was elected to this office.

Miss Biddle, chairman of the Jacket Committee, displayed one of the new jackets while Warren Warman quoted prices. Further details about jackets will be given out later. Samples may be seen at Proffitt's Store.

Miss Withers, who has been appointed chairman of the Social Committee, announced that her committee will soon make plans for a social to be held in the near future.

College Maid Looks For Successful Season

At present the College Maid Shop is receiving large orders without solicitation, according to Mrs. Kathryn R. McMurray, manager. The girls are making gym suits for the University of Tennessee, having satisfactorily filled an order there last year.

Choir vestments have just been delivered to the A Capella Choir of the Glens Falls High School at Glens Falls, New York.

Fifteen new machines, which retail for $175.00, have recently been bought, replacing older ones.

During the summer the shop operated at full time until the first of August, at which ime the textile manufacturers refused to quote prices on their materials because of the unusual economic conditions. The Maid Shop was forced to use only those materials on hand.

SENIOR ENGLISH EXAM TO BE DISCONTINUED

Committee Replaces Old Method Of Checking With New System

The Faculty, which has for four years been conducting an English examinotion for seniors, announces a change in the program for this year. It is the opinion of those who have had it in charge that this examination has not been a sufficient check on the student's English composition habits, and not an adequate incentive to the consistent practice of good form in writing and speaking.

To take the place of the old test plan a new system has been devised. In charge there is to be a Committee on Student's Use of English. The committee at present consists of Miss Bassett, Miss Carroll Dr. Rodgers, and Dr. Hunter, chairman. The following plans have been evolved:

Whenever, between the freshman year, and the second semester of his senior year any student is observed to be using English habitually either in writing or speaking in a careless or unauthorized way or to be neglecting or violating the fundamental rules of form in writing, he should be reported to the Committee on Student's Use of English who will thereupon investigate his record in this regard. If the case appears to be such a one as can be reached by warning from the Committe e the student is to be warned that he is under observation regarding his use of English. Such cases as appear to be due to insufficient ground work in the use of English are to be dealt with by requiring the student to repeat English 101. If this is impossible to a Senior because of an overcrowded schedule, other means will

(Continued on page four)

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - - Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors

Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor

Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - - - Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs

Katharine Orr - - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - - - Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - - - Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Business

Jesse Willis - Business Manager

Subscription Rates - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, September 30, 1933

The discussion in chapel the other morning brought to mind various questions in connection with the eighteenth amendment, the paramount of these being concerned with this matter of personal liberty.

It seems to be customary at the present time to think in this vein: "We are new era people; we will have personal liberty. We refuse to be morally or socially congested. In our social relationships we will seek satisfaction irrespective of cusaom and convention."

That brings us to the point of asking what personal liberty is. Is it a thing to be achieved or a thing to be assumed? Is it a state of mind only, resulting in the demand for freedom, the power of indiscriminate choice— satisfaction and self-epression? Then, along the same line of thought, iif society were made up of individuals who demanded all these to the utmost, and succeeded in attaining them, would there be personal liberty.

The idea that if all men were set free from all restraint and from the fetters of convention they will become naturally moderate and decent people has litle real evidence to rest upon. On the contrary what history shows of progress in the development of human nature and the achievements of mankind is against it.

There is no sense in which man is really free in the sense the moderns desire freedom. In his physical life he must obey health rules if he expects to live comfortably and happily, in his social life he must recognize certain conventions to be well thought of by his fellows. In his very profession he is bound, for in order to achieve in any field, literature, art, music, medicine, athletics, and others, he must pay the price of discipline. The great artist, the great musician, the great doctor are guided by iron laws. True they may add variety to these by their individual genius, but even genius must rest upon a foundation of law.

The great amount of time expended upon a riotous demand for personal liberty in its extreme form is a waste. To accomplish the greatest things it is necessary that one sacrifice personal liberty and submit to a severe adherence to the law. To the man who thinks he has this all desirable commodity, and who says "I will not be bound, for I am a free man", we submit the question "What is personal liberty, in what sense do you think you have it, and is the thing as you desire it really worth while?"

Collegiate Swaps

De Pauw University in the Hoosier State is trying to encourage all would-be song writers by staging a contest for the best marching song. Only words are to be submitted. Perhaps the music will take care of iitself.

The Lenoir Rhynean of Hickory, North Carolina, devotes considerable space in one of its recent issues to the proper use of the library.

Located in one of the frat houses at the University of Kentucky is an amateur radio station, operated by licensed amateurs. By erecting a higher tower the power of the station is to be increased. Communications have been received not only from Canadian provinces, but also from as remote a spot as Shanghai.

One way of meeting the problem of campus traffic conjestion is the method to be put into practice at the University of Kentucky. All cars including faculty cars, must be registered at the office of the Dean of Men. Then parking space will be assigned to each car. Incidentally, a registration fee of twenty-five cents is charged.

Maryville's fighting spirit is acknowledged even by the Kentucky Wildcats. The two schools have played each other nearly every year since 1907, with Maryville scoring a total of 17 points throughout those years. Six points is the highest score we have made in one game playede with Kentucky.

Clemson College in South Carolina had a grand pep meeting, especially ior freshmen, mainly to introduce prominent campus personages such as the president, registrar, foodball coach, and business manager. The climax was the presentation of the football boys.

Y. M. C. A. NOTICE

We, the officers of the Maryville College Young Men's Christian Association, hereby notiiy all concerned that no one will have the authority to charge goods, service rendered, or the like to the organization without a written order which must be signed by at least three of the four executive officers; namely, W. W. Warman, President; Louis F. Krainock, Vice President; Michael P. Testa, Secretary; and Ernest B. Lowe, Treasurer.

MY WILL

Let me be king when I care to,
Or play the fool when I will;
Let me drink when I'm thirsty,
When hungry, eat of my fill.

Let me love in the evening,
And watch the stars at night,
Seeing the changes in nature
Under the pale moon's light.

Give me sleep when I'm tired
And let me loll through the day,
Working whenever I feel like,
Or watching the willows sway.

Wearing the clothes that suit me,
No stupid old collar or tie,
Just a comfortable shirt and trousers
And a hat cocked over my eye.

Let me lie by the brookside,
Taking my well loved ease;
Get out of my sight, Convention;
I want to do as I please.

—G. F. Greiner.

The German Government has just formulated a plan to help to care for the poor during the winter months. The plan is to have the more fortunate citizens curtail his habitual meal on the first Sunday of each month. The amount saved will be donated to the general relief fund.

Sermonette

THE ART OF FINDING
(Luke 11-9)

The world contains arts too numerous to mention. Among these many arts we may mention the art of seeking or finding. Finding what? Finding whom? Any good thing in existence must be sought for diiligently. Any worthy thing must be sought for diligently. To seek otherwise means a result in the wrong direction. Truly, seeking is an art.

Not infrequently most of us have asked ourselves, or have been asked by others, as to where He who controls the cosmos—the universe—may be found. Where is He? Where may one search for the Son of God? To many He is merely a Divine apparition found only inside the doors of a church building. What fallacy!

The sense of aesthetic appreciation is sadly lacking in the lives of many. The wonders of nature are either taken for granted, or are passed by unobserved or are not noticed. The majestic mountains remind us of His strength! The grey hills may teach us His patience. The ever-flowing stream of water is truly significantly symbolical of a stream of life, of love, of mercy, gushing from the person of Jesus, and imparting into our own lives His personality. Sunshine and rain portray the abundant love and kindness, not of the human but of the Superhuman. Find Him there!

Place before me the man who cannot find Him—he who claims the honor of being an atheist, and let him behold for a season the western sky at eventide, with its colors and unsurpassed splendor! Again, it is not the workmanship of a human mind or hand. It is the handiwork of an Almighty and all-powerful hand! We cannot see or understand the disbelief of such a one, standing in awe before something he cannot explain, but so it has been from time immemorial. Yet we say, "Find Him there."

A prominent writer once stated that with good books and God, there is no necessity for anyone being alone in this world. Delving into this world of books and literature we are constantly lead towards an increasing and growing appreciation of the Supreme. Find Him there!

Even the humble child, piucking the fragrant roses and flowers is enough to lead us to believe in the presence of Jesus—of someone higher than man and beyond his poor power of comprehension. The natural sciences have taught us much—and may they keep on increasing our knowledge of the natural world—until we are almost prone to admit that we are able to explain all. But our research ceases at that point. The more we learn about these life processes the more we come to realize how little we know, and how much more is to be known. Finally, our scientific friends must admit the reality of the living Christ. Find Him there—in all of life's processes.

Nevertheless, the fact still remains that multitudes are groping blindly in the darkness for a way out of the quagmire of despair. They are seeking vainly for that something which they will never find—happiness and contentment. Why? Perhaps they have become obsessed with materialistic abundance or the incessant desire for such, that seeking they will not find. It is a case of seeking in the wrong way and in the wrong direction, and finally giving up in despair.

The woman in search of the lost coin, sought diligently. Nothing was left undone. No pains were spared. If we so seek after righteousness it is evident we will find a fullness in life perhaps never before known to us.

"Seek and ye shall find."

Dr. Lloyd To Preach Sunday

President Lloyd is to preach Sunday morning at 10:30 in the New Providence Presbyterian Church on the subject, "Living as in the Presence of God."

World Today

The Mexican Department of the Interior estimates the dead in Tampico as 5,000 as a result of the hurricane which struck there last Sunday, and devastated three-fourths of the city. No official estimates are available but all reports agree that there was a tremendous loss of life.

—MC—

Negotiations for a new Anglo-Soviet trade agreement are being resumed after the Soviet representatives have completed consultations with Moscow.

—MC—

A striking similarity between two mystery novels, one by an American and the other by a Briton has been revealed and is expected to result in a plagiarism suit. The "Maltese Falcon" by Dashiell and Hammett published both in the United States and in Britain and "Death in the Dark" by Cecil Henderson recently published in London have almost identical plots frequently and the language is similar.

—MC—

Approved by President Roosevelt and Secretary Hull, a sugar stabilization agreement has been laid before Secretary Wallace with the expectation that his signature would put the pact into effect soon. A cardinal feature of the agreement was a provision giving the President the right to raise or lower the tentative Cuban quota of 2,000,000 tons a year.

—MC—

Colombia wants to admit Ecuador to the forthcoming Peruvian-Colombian conference at Rio de Janeiro and make it a general conference for definite settlement of all Upper Amazon territorial conflicts.

—MC—

Experiments showing pure motion apaprently changing into solid matter are described in recent reports from the California Institute of Technology, and from Cambridge, England.

—MC—

Just after breaking the British sea-mile record with a run of 95.08 miles per hour, Hubert Scott-Paine's speedboat Miss Britain III burst into flames in Poole Harbor, Dorset. The damage was estimated at $125,000.

—MC—

President Roosevelt has authorized the Agriculture Adjustment Administration to buy $75,000,000,000 worth of surplus food and clothing materials for distribution among the destitute unemployed.

Indications of a steady improvement in trade are accumulating almost daily in Britain.

Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Black left on Wednesday for their home in Chicago, after a visit with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Black. While here, Mr. and Mrs. Black were shown many social courtesies.

WITH OUR ADVERTISERS

Maryville's Largest Store Is Managed by Alumni of Maryville

Back in nineteen nineteen when the class of 1933 was still toddling up the steps to the third grade in grammar school, a young man who had graduated from this college three years before, returned to Maryville, and after much planning and reorganizing brought together the stocks of Maryville's two largest stores and formed Maryville's greatest department store. This young man was D. W. Proffitt.

For this store, the past fourteen years have been years of growth, expansion, and rapid developoment; fourteen years of successful merchandising in which time it has deservingly earned the name, "EAST TENNESSEE'S LEADING SMALL CITY STORE".

PROFFITT'S have also earned another name of which they are very proud, which is, "The Student's Store". This has been a great source of pride and satisfaction to the management because they are alumni and former students of the college and are intensely interested in Maryville College and in every activity of the Hill.

Mr. D. W. Proffitt, president of the store, graduated from this college with the class of nineteen sixteen. Mr. Proffitt is an owner of the varsity "M", having played several years of varsity basketball. He was, at the same time, prominent in all other college activities. Since graduation he has been very much interested in the work of the alumni associaition, and has served as its president.

Mr. Smith, much better known as "Turkey", who has charge of the men's department, says that he counts among the happiest hours of his life the years when he played fullback with the Orange and Garnet eleben, and earned several M's..

Mr. E. A. Storey (known to the students as Shorty) who takes care of the advertising and has charge of the hosiery and yard goods department, is a graduate of the class of nineteen twenty-seven.

Mr. J. M. Nicely, who has charge of the Bargain Basement attended Maryville College and was a varsity baseball pitcher for several years.

One of the latest additions to the Proffitt's staff is Mr. Carl McKinly Storey. Mr. Storey was a member of the class of nineteen thirty-one. He was very active in athletics, playing four years of varsity football. He was captain of the football team in nineteen thirty one.

Mr. James W. King, Office and Credit Manager graduated with the class of 1925.

In addition to these several other employees are either graduates or former students of the College.

With this organization o men behind it, Proffitt's slogan becomes a reality, for it is in truth "The Student's Sore".

Proffitt's is one of the ECHO'S largest and most faithful advertisers.

NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY
Always at your service

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

Monroe's Confectionery and Lunch
On College Street
Your patronage is appreciated

Echo Sports

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

As interest in tennis draws rapidly to a climax with the main favorites seated comfortably in their quarter-final boxes awaiting the impending fray, we feel that we shouldn't let the season slip past without telling this story while it is ye ripe. The main characters are Kipp, McQueen, Karnell, and Talmadge. The setting is at the rustic old varsity tennis courts beyond the football field, on a mid-spring day when the honeysuckle vines are greening and the tall maples are shedding the first crop of pale-green seeds. And incidentally, the first round of a hastily arranged doubles tournament is in progress, the four characters mentioned above taking part in the following order: Kipp and McQueen vs. Karnell and Talmadge.

Now the story breaks for a small interval occupied by the first set, which goes to Karnell and Talmadge without any serious quaking of he dope bucket. But wait a minute! What have we here? Said bucket wobbles terrifically as Kipp and McQueen crash the stands with a 6-3 set victory over the question.

The smiling Kipp and Mac continue to give tit for tat in a manner very exasperating to the other side, running the score up to six—all in the third set, when darkness descends to cover the tie and call it a day. But on the next day the set is not finished, nor on the next or the next. That is the end of the story, but there is still a question. Why hasn't a doubles tourney been mentioned this Fall?

FOOTBALL GAME

(Continued from page one)

but failure came again.

In the final period, Maryville drove to the Bulldog thirty-yard ribbon, from whence the last-quarter passing attack netted the usual nil. Wesleyan took possession of the ball and kicked deep into Maryville territory, where the game ended.

Constantine and Harris, at tackle and guard respectively, bore the brunt of the canine's defense, with Sweeney playing a magnificent game at end. Gregory and Eblen shone in the backfield.

For the Highlanders, one can but mention first the scintillaitng play of Batty Collins, appearing for the first time here as a back. Straight through the center of Wesleyan's highly touted line was his path for repeated gains of from five to twelve yards. Steve Boretsky's punting was a salvation to the Scot's as he more than held his own with Gregory, who is no mean kicker considered in any light. The West-to-Kiser passing combination was good for four of the Scot's seven completed passes and three first downs. Gillespie and Russell were pillars of strength on defensive, with Kalman, veteran flankman, and Koslosski, freshman, showing the boys a few things in the way of first-class end play.

Next Friday night brings Tusculum here. Maryville will be out to avenge the trimming administered her at Greeneville last season when the Pioneers defeated the Scots 7-0.

George Vick, '33 was a recent visitor on the Hill. He will enter Louisville Seminary this year.

Wright's 5&10c Store
"Where a little money goes a long way"

INTRODUCING—OUR TEAM!

Know The Men Who Wear The Orange And Garnet For You

PICK YOUR MAN AND WATCH HIM

The old, old question, lisped by sweet little co-eds and answered indefinitely by big bold frosh (and sophs and juniors and seniors), was heard last night in the stands. It is, "Oh, who is he?" In answer, the sports department presents an introduction, between each member of the football squad and each reader of this sport page. And, gentle reader, once you know them, get behind them, they need you!

Captain Russell

Senior; center; 179 pounds; Loudon, Tennessee. As understudy to two of the toughest pivot-men Maryville has produced, Russell spent his first two years at Maryville scrimmaging with the scrubs and warming the bench. But he was one sweet center, even then; he proved this fact by lettering at center as understudy to Blundon Ferguson, in his sophomore year. Last year, nothing could stop him. His work in the first two games this year show that nothing is going to stop him now. Lead on, Russell!

Jack Atkins

Senior; end; 169 pounds; Kentucky. Since his freshman days, Atkins has been in there boxing and smearing play after play. Offensively, defensively, all around, he is a joy to any coach's heart, providing said Coach is not a Scot opponent.

Louie Kalman

Junior; end; 165 pounds; Ohio. When the talk turns to plugging and heads-up end play, the Highlander follower, if he is well-informed, turns his thoughts to Kalman. Seldom brilliant, always dependable, Kalman is always in the thick of the fight.

Mose Gamble

Soph; tackle; 197 pounds; Maryville, Tennessee. Duped by the cherubic expression Mose frequently assumes, unintentionally, in battle, enemy linesmen have been amazed and chagrinned to behold the destruction he leaves in his wake. Power bulging from every ounce of his near two hundred pounds, he is a very real asset to the Hiighlander concern.

Buck Millsaps

Soph; tackle; 174 pounds; Alcoa, Tennessee. Lighter than the average tackle, Millsaps overcomes his weight handicap by unceasing aggression. Unusually strong and agile, the few pounds in difference of weight are never noticed by opponents, the reason being that they are too busy trying to keep him off.

Butter Atchison

Soph; guard; 181 pounds; Alcoa, Tennessee. No need to ask the origin of the nickname. But does he make its donor look silly? Don't accept our word. Ask any of the boys in the middle of Rube McCray's line. For pure old fight, Butter has more to the square inch than the average man to the cubic foot.

Batty Collins

Soph; guard; 195 pounds; Evansville, Indiana. No one is quite sure whether Batty will be a linesman or a back this year. It makes no difference. He is a valued addition to the team at any position. He has speed, weight, a level head, and the will to do. What more could any grid player need? Collins is one of the most valuable members of the 1933 team.

Tom West

Senior; quarterback; 164 pounds; Winston-Salem, North Carolina. A triple-threat and a real field-general, West is playing his last season of football in great form. Handsome though he may be off the field, he is plain murder to the victory hopes of opponents. Cool to the last, his management of the team is superb.

Steve Boretsky

Senior; halfback; 152 pounds; Pennsylvania. Another triple-threat, and a real menace to any man's team. Steve's twinkling toes are responsible for a goodly part of the Scot yardage in every game. A dependable punter, an accurate passer and an elusive ball-carrier, he is an all-important cog in the Scot backfield.

Wilbur Loessberg

Soph; halfback; 158 pounds; Texas. A product of Coach Thrower's home town, Loessberg has improved rapidly since he entered Maryville. His work this year has shown him to be an elusive, hard-driving ball-carriier. He is worth watching.

Martin Gillispie

Senior; fullback; 160 pounds; Walland, Tennessee. As captain of the 1932 Highlanders, Gillispie set a pace which was well-nigh impossible to follow. A bundle of concentrated power, he has probably saved the Scots more yardage as defensive full than any other one man in the history of the College. Roaming the field, diagnosing the plays with uncanny accuracy, he is considered by most Maryville followers as the best defensive full ever to wear the Garnet jersey.

Shady Payne

Senior; quarterback; 148 pounds; Maryville, Tennessee. Little but loud—an epitome of Payne's football ability. Four years with the Scotties have found Payne a valuable performer every time. A thorough knowledge of the game and how to play it are his. Well-versed in all departments, he can be counted on to supply much of the energy for the current campaign.

O'Neil Gray

Soph; halfback; 156 pounds; Texas. Another westerner, Gray has proved himself to be of the sterner stuff. Although not as heavy as a collegiate half should be, hard work does much to offset this handicap. An excellent blocker and efficient runner, his work has been of the most satisfactory sort.

Stroud Gwynn

Senior; end; 184 pounds; Tennessee. Only one year with the team, Gwynn is a veteran. A plugger, he seldom performs with the fire of dashing ends; but he seldom is fooled or evaded like the same dashing ends. Always dependable, Gwynn's play at end is a thing of beauty.

The Rest of The Team

Because of lack of space, the remainder of the squad will be discussed in the next issue of the ECHO.

Mr. Pep Returns

The Dean Reminisces

Ol' man Pep put in a more spectacular appearance Thursday night at a spirited student session than he has exhibited in many another season. Assisted this time by not only freshmen but moonshiners as well he succeeded in turning what might have resembled a Dunkard burial service into an old fashioned "holy-roller" social, his spirit hitting row on row of students with telling results.

John Crawford, one time popular hero of the gridiron, gave an enthusiastic talk, which reflected a bit of that Maryville Spirit which never quite gets away from one. The dean's uproarious description of how the ball carrier during his (the dean's) first football game failed to come his way (again the dean's) split the well known sides, and explained somewhat the difference between an English prof and a football coach.

Intramural Football Is Played Next Week

Ping-Pong Awaits Winter. Cross Country Nov. 18

Because of the interest the tennis tournament holds at this time of the year the Y. M. C. A. athletic board is making a change in the interclass schedule with regard to the ping-pong tourney, which was announced last week. Ping-pong has been relegated to the winter months when our other outdoor sports are hibernating, and in its place has been substituted the annual touch-football scramble. Class athletic managers should get their teams picked and start practice at once. The ex-sophomores, who carried honors last year, are out to win, and incidentally, defend the trophy, which is a loving cup presented each year to the winner of this fray by the "Y".

The cross-country will be run November 18, the afternoon of the Milligan game. Again all prospective cross-countrymen are warned to start training.

KODAK FINISHING
For Best Results and Permanent Prints
BRING YOUR FILMS
TO
THE WEBB STUDIO
220 College Street

WHEN IT'S
Ice Cream, Candies, Drinks, Gum and College Necessities
... TRY THE ...
Y. M. and Y. W. Stores
These Stores are What the Students Make Them
MANAGERS
Ernest Coldwell Lorena May Dunlap

Try Our Soda Fountain
... FOR ...
Sodas, Thirst Quenchers, Floats
Sundaes and Fancy Dishes
BYRNE DRUG CO.
Every Glass Thoroughly
STERILIZED

OBSERVATIONS

Well, last week the fire, and this week Dr. Stevenson's little kitty. We should say that there was a pretty hot time at the vesper service, paradoxical though that might sound, due to the efforts of Dean Edwin R. Hunter, Charles Gillander, Carl Fisher, and Willard Lampe, not to mention the stealthy maneuvers of Dr. Stevenson in his efforts to be fisrt to lay hands upon the intruder.

—0—

We might suggest "Catabolism" as the subject for that part of the service, insofar as it did "tear down" the church atmosphere, and insofar is pretty far in this case. We voted Mr. Howard Kipp the winner of last week's turn out, but this week the mounted maltese goes to the home of the Dean for his timely response to the minister's behest—that some big husky football man would fall on that kitten. Of course, the Dean did not fall. . . . . but he did stumble pretty badly.

—0—

We might add, for the sake of a third observation, and as a word to Dr. Stevenson, that the proverbial saying "be kind to dumb animals" has no supplementary suggestion regarding those animals of the smarter part.

—0—

One might have supposed that the rules of the college had undergone a complete transformation to hear the static from the room above the library one evening last week while the seniors were having a class meeting, and incidentally, while little Lucille Swafford was polishing the keys on "Laizzez Bones". We should say, in this respect, of the seniors, (and we don't include our good old selves) that their foot work is nigh as good as their headwork.

—0—

It proves of interest to the students in general to know that the seniors elected seven council members on that evening. We have in mind only the four boys: Mr. Fred Kirchner of few jobs and many positions, Mr. Bob Tripp of many jobs and many positions; Mr. Gordon Grooms of many. . . wives, and John McQueen of . . . Mississippi. But we can't help it. McQueen was our idea. Just the same, little girls and boys, it is highly probable that one of these fine young gentlemen will hold in his hand (the right hand; the one he shakes with) the very destiny of this old school as soon as he becomes president of our council. We should say to you council members that you should write with pencil and believe everything you hear. But don't forget to vote, even if you're not twenty-one.

—0—

The kind of pep we like to see was manifested by one of our roommates on 5:30 the morning after the Kentucky game. Mr. Lockerby came in with the customary, stealthy walk, but with the voice going at the usual volume to say that "We lost by a socre of 46-2, but Gee, we sure do have a great team." We always figured that it's a great team that can take defeat without flinching, but our experience has been that it's only once in a long time that one finds the spectators taking it wih a grin.

—0—

We might add that that grin of Lockerby's is really worth observing. We never made any mention of the haircut.

—0—

The "rose between thorns" attained reality during one of last week's evening library sessions when it became more than that. That is, more thorns. It became "a rose among thorns" as a good looking gentleman of the freshman class got himself classed wrong physiologically, found himself (a few moments after Mr. Kipp found him) on the forbidden side of the library reading room. He consented to move, with the verbal encouragement of said Kipp (after Kipp said what Kipp said) and incidentally among the snickers of many women and as many men, accompanied, of course, by an increasing reddening of his fair, very fair coutenance.

—0—

We're not going to give any more prizes this issue, but we insist upon making mention of the freshman girl, also first aid to the registrar, who told a senior Ethics student that there was just one thing about it. . . . he'd have to remain on the waiting list for a time in that course. . . . . the class was too full already.

—0—

And now, when we thought we were about Bealeless; that is, we'd become Bealeless in one more year, our inferences were suddenly found to be groundless, for just as Beale opens the strains of his Swan song, along comes his complement, little Marcella Bealess. She is a member of our freshman class, and promises to be on the scene for three more years. This thing can't go on forever. . . . . can it?

—0—

And in the same breath, we mention that when J. Arthur Lazell went out, along came his little sister to remind us of J. A. L. the debater, journalist, English major, and line slinger in general. We hope that the Lazell tradition remains a part of Maryville College. . . . . or might we say "apart from Maryville College". . . but we won't do that.

NEWS SQUINTS

(Continued from page one)

port, anounced that the class dues had been reduced from $3.00 to $2.00 for the year, payable in full, or by the semester.

Committees have been appointed and plans are being made for the annual Hallowe'en party.

In accordance with a plan suggested by the Chilhowean staff, six representatives were selected to serve as apprentices on the yearbook. The six chosen were, Alex Christie, Leroy Obert, Bryan Payne, Elizabeth Kunkel, Helen Rusk, and Mary Gladys Brown. One of these will serve as editor next year.

Student council members elected were: Arthur Herries, Frank Atchison, Lucy Jane Houser, and Eleanor Pflanze.

Junior Class

At a meeting of the Junior class on Wednesday morning the following members were elected to the Student Council:

Lorena May Dunlap, Dorothy Nethery, Betty Woodwell, Earnest Lowe, Herman Magee, Leland Shanor.

Charles Lewis and Mary Gillingham were elected to have charge of Atlethics for the Junior class.

Chemistry Club Meeting

At a meeting of the Chemistry Club held in the chemistry lecture room in Science Hall on Tuesday, September 26, at 7 o'clock the following officers were elected for this semester:

Prsident—"Doc" Smerznak
Vice President—Fred Kircheher
Recording Secretary—Betty Brewer
Treasurer—Willard Lampe
Program Secretary—Ernest Coldwell
Editor—Bud Mattingly

The new president urged all the old members to create interest in the club so that the organization would have a successful year. All those who are interested in chemistry are invited to attend the next meeing which will be hled on Tuesday, October 10th.

George Brown '33 and Hubert Duncan '32 have begun their theological training at Chicago Presbyterian Seminary.

FALL LECTURES FOR FRESHMEN

Lectures for freshman orientation will be held in the Chapel each Wednesday morning immediately after the Chapel service during the period ending at 9:25 a. m. They will begin on Wednesday, September 24, and continue on succeeding Wednesdays until completed.

Attendance by all Freshmen is required.

"The Use of the Library"—
Mr. Ellis, College Librarian

"The Use of One's Time"—
Dr. Hunter, Dean of the College and Head of the Department of English

"Managing One's Finances"—
Miss Clemmie Heary, Secretary of Student-Help

"How to Study"—Dr. Fields, Dean of Men and Head of the Department of Psychology and Education

Note: Students are invited to arrange conferences with the speakers and with other faculty members concerning the subjects discussed or other matters of importance to the student.

Special opportunities for conferences on "How to Study" will be offered.

HONOR ROLL FOR SECOND SEMESTER 1932-1933

(Continued from page one)

ford, Earle 16-36; Crawford, Hugh 16-39; Crothers, James 16-38; Davenport, Virginia 18-42; Donnell, Annie M. 16-35; Dunlap, Lorena Mae 19-50; Gillingham, Jonathan 19-39; Gillingham, Mary 15-36; Graham, Burton 16-35; Hogan, Avaleen 18-39; Irwin, Ruth 18-48; Joyner, Rena 15-30; Kendall, Florence 18-39; Krainock, Louis 18-48; Metzger, Fern 17-34; Nethery, Dorothy 18-51; Proffitt, Grace 16-34; Reichelderfer, Louise 19-38; Reveley, Roberta 16-41; Sibcy, Eula 18-39; Stanbro, William 16-32; Stanley, George 15-36; Talmage, William 20-40; Walker, Mary Earl 18-37; Woodwell, Betty 15-36; Wynn, Maria 16-33.

FRESHMAN

Andrews, Joseph 16-32; Barron, Sara Lou 15-30; Best, Edwin 14-34; Birchard, Wilson 15-33; Chittick, James 15-35; Christie, Aleander 16-41; Fogaris, Michael 15-33; Greiner, George 15-30; Hitt, Edward 15-33; Hunt, Herbert 15-30; Johnson, Robert 16-32; Jones, Harold 15-30; Keeble, Nita Jane 15-34; Kent, Elizabeth 16-41; Kunkel, Elizabeth 14-34; Lehr, George 15-31; Leitch, Glover 15-31; Llewellyn, Ralph 14-33; Lodwick, Robert 15-37; O'Neil, Wimberley 16-35; Osborne, Jean 15-40; Pflanze, Eleanor 16-32; Quigley, William 16-34; Reimer, Elizabeth 15-42; Ressler, Mary Frances 15-30; Ritchie, Elizabeth 16-33; Salsberry, Samuel 15-32; Sheddan, Chase 15-30; Smith, Cathryn 16-36; Snedeker, Stuart 15-31; Tootell, John 15-39; Wiitherspoon, Justa 15-31.

SPECIALS

Boram, Margaret Rodgers 18-39; Godfrey, Robert 15-31; Hast, C. Grace 18-36; Huber, Francis 17-45; Webb, Violet 18-39.

SENIOR ENGLISH EXAM

(Continued from page one)

be taken to check upon his improvement.

In repeating this course he is subject to all the regular requirements of class attendance and the like

He will not receive credit for the repeating of the course but the raising of his grade will entitle him to the additional grade points.

The course must be repeated in the next semester following the notification from the Committee that it is to be repeated. The recurrence of conditions similar to those which called for the first repetition of English 101 may call for another repetition of the course.

A deadly outbreak of pneumonia and bubonic plague is raging in Manchuria. In the affected area all traffic has been halted.

BAINONIAN RUSH WEEK

(Continued From Page One)

under the direction of Pauline Throne consisting of Spiced Sea Sips, Salmon Salad Sandwiches, Silvery Spray Sandwiches, Sunshine Sponges, Seafoam Sweets. Miss Susan Green and Miss Merle Beebe, Bainonian faculty members, poured tea. Music was played by Harriet Clark and Ruth Flint. About two hundred girls attended. Miss Marjorie Salmons, the president, was the chief hostess.

On Thursday afternoon a Fishing Party, under the direction of Christine Hammett, followed fish signs to the College Woods-trout stream. Lucky Isaac Newtons shared with less fortunate fishermen the catch of the afternoon—watermelons. A program planned by Katherine Wayland and Grace Hast provided entertainment. The fishing rods and hooks given to the guppies carried the slogan, "Bainonian's fishin' for you."

Y. MOUNTAIN HIKE

(Continued From Page One)

asked to wear warm clothes, and to provide their own blankets and other camping equipment. Leaders will collect the food money from the members in their group. According to Red Courtenay the cost is to be very small.

The fellowship committee of the Y. believes this is one event neither new or old men can afford to miss. Anyone wishing additional information will please see George Greiner or Red Courtenay.

Wesley Culver, '33 spent a few days in Maryville, enroute to Nashville where he will enter the Medical School of Vanderbilt University. Kemp Davis, Richard Strain and Callaway. '32 are also medical students at Vanderbilt.

CARLISLE'S
5c AND 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

DR. S. D. MOUNT
Dentist
First National Bank Bldg.
Phone 323

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*Direct connections to Townsend

Select your size from these $5.00 and $6.00 Shoes For
$1.99

Patent Pump as pictured, patent straps, satin straps and brown kid Pumps.

Buy Your Gym Shoes At Proffitt's
We have all styles for Men and Women

Women's Keds

95c to $1.25

Black upper with white sole and lace, and white upper with black trim. Also Hood's all white lace to toe. Hygeen insole

Men's Keds
$1.45 to $1.95

Men's Black Upper Crepe Rubber Sole. Hygeen insole and Brown Upper hard rubber Non-skid sole.

Proffitt's DEPARTMENT STORE
THE STUDENTS' STORE

THE LAMAR MEMORIAL LIBRARY OF MARYVILLE COLLEGE
Source
Date

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18/9 MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE OCTOBER 7, 1933 NUMBER FOUR

Handel's "Messiah" To Be Presented Dec. 17

Great Oratorio a Singular Event In Annals of Maryville Music

The anouncement concerning the rendition of Handel's "Messiah" on the Sunday before Christmas has been received with great enthusiasm and interest. Such an afternoon of music will be a real event in the history of Maryville.

The oratorio will be given by a choir, the personnel of which will be made up of the united church choirs of Alcoa and Maryville, members of the Chilhowee Club and other women's organizations, and members of all the college musical organizations. At present membership is also open to all students who may be interested. It may be necessary to have try-outs in some sections, but it is expected that there will be places for two hundred voices, and those interested are urged to apply for places. Membership will be definitely closed October 22nd.

Practices are to be held Sunday afternoons in the college chapel from two to five. The only requirement will be the purchase of the music score, the price of which will range from fifty cents to a dollar.

The oratorio will be under the very able direction of Mr. Alvin Keene, a graduate of Westminster Choir School, and the present director of the choir of the New Providence Presbyterian Church. Mr. Keene is a well known and accomplished choir director.

It will be a privilege to sing under his direction. Mr. Keene hopes that the presentation of the "Messiah" will be but the beginning of a thing which will become a tradition in the musical annals of Maryville.

THETA GIRLS FILL VACANT OFFICES

As a number of Theta officers did not return this year a meeting was held Wednesday evening for the purpose of electing new officers to fill vacant positions. Those elected were: Roberta Revely, secretary; Thelma Iles and Clifford Withers, program secretaries; Mary Gillingham and Kitty Earnest, house chairmen.

In closing the president thanked all members for their cooperation during rush week.

Examinations Under the New Schedule Begin 9

Six Exam Periods Outlined For Semester

A new examination schedule, which is intended to relieve the congestion of examination periods, has been planned for this year by the administration. This scheme has divided all courses in the curriculum into three groups.

The first group includes Bible, Biology, Chemistry, Philosophy, Political Science and Public Speaking. Hour examinations in these courses will be given October 9-12.

In the second group are Education, English, History, Physics, and Sociology. Tests in these classes will come October 13-17.

The third group, including Economics, Foreign Languages, Mathematics, and Psychology, will have examinations October 18-21.

(Continued on page four)

New Shipment Of Books Promise Good Reading

Books For All Departments, To Suit All Tastes, Included in New Lists

According to Horace L. Ellis, Librarian, the shipments of books received by the library for the current year have been somewhat smaller than those received in former years. The collection includes more than 150 books, however, and another shipment is expected within a few days. The subjects in the list are varied, ranging from Helen Ufford's "Weddings", a book bought especially for the Home Economics department, to a Student Houghton Cambridge edition of the Complete Works of Chaucer, by F. N. Robison. The English and Psychology departments were especially fortunate, more than thirty books having been assigned to each department.

One of the outstanding books of the collection is "Out of My Life and Thought", a recent work of Albert Schweitzer, who is equally famous as a missionary, theologian, lecturer, and musician. This book, much discussed in certain intellectual circles, should prove of general interest to students, portraying as it does, the life of a contemporary master mind.

Another book which will be interesting to Maryvillians, since they live in the vicinity of the Appalachian Mountians, is C. J. Sharp's "English Folk Songs from the Southern Appalachians". It is a collection of folk songs and ballads, common in England two and three centuries ago, and sung today by the mountain folk of the southern states.

Books included in the generally readable list are:

Zona Gale—"Papa la Fleur"
Grenfel—"Forty Years for Labrador"
Chapman—"Handbooks of Birds of Northeast America"
Thompson—"Lure and Romance of Alchemy"
Baum—"Grand Hotel" (German Edi-

(Continued on page four)

Chilhowean Plans Are Rapidly Going Forward

Photographing of Seniors To Begin Immediately

The signed contract for the printing of The Chilhowean, the annual yearbook published by the Junior Class, is in the hands of Earle Crawford, editor, and James Smith, business manager. The contract for the engraving, however, has not yet been signed.

Photographing of the members of the senior class is hoped to be completed within two weeks. Such a procedure as this can be accomplished only through the cooperation of the senior class. Announcement regarding the photographing of junior, sophomore, and freshman class members will be made at a later date.

Mr. Crawford and Mr. Smith spoke most enthusiastically of their plans to the new staff, which met for the first time on Wednesday afternoon. The six representatives of the sophomore class attended the meeting.

The new staff consists of the following:

Associate Editor—Phyllis Dexter
Literary Editor—Grace Proffitt
Photographic Editor—
Douglas Carhart
Assistant Business Manager—
George Deeble

Varied Subjects Chosen Study In Honors Work

Six Students Engaged In Intensive Work In Major Departments

The Honors Work Committee has announced that six students will do special research study this year in their major departments.

Mildred Brooks will do honors work in English. Under the supervision of Dr. Edwin R. Hunter, head of the English department, she has chosen to make "A Study and Evaluation of Several Phases of Shakespearean Criticism."

Dana Hanby is the honors worker in chemistry. His subject is "Course Work in Organic Qualitative Analysis and Selected Methods and Procedure in Organic Quantitative Analysis." Professor George D. Howell will supervise Mr. Hanby's study.

Howard Kipp, supervised by Dr. J. H. McMurray of the social science division, will do "Extensive Reading in the Field of Sociology with the Preparation of a Paper on Maryville College Traditions."

Frances Massey and Maurine Willocks are doing honors work in the biology department. Under the supervision of Miss Susan A. Green, head of the biology department. Miss Massey will study "The Embryology of the Frog". Under the supervision of Miss Zoe Carroll, Miss Willocks will study "Bacterial Infections of Guinea Pigs in Relation to Diet."

Janet Warren who is doing honors work in German under the supervision of Professor Kenneth R. Lagerstedt, will take a "Reading Course in Nineteenth Century German Literature."

The chairman of the honors work committee is Dean Hunter. He is assisted by Dr. H. E. Orr, Dr. J. H. McMurray, Professor G. D. Howell, and Professor E. W. Davis.

Rare Lyceum Program Will Attract Students

Famous Don Cossack Chorus Peak of Year's Programs

The Don Cossack Russian male chorus, appearing here on November nineteenth, will be the first number of the Lyceum course, as announced by Professor George D. Howell, chairman. Professor Howell believes that the Cossacks will give one of the most unusual and artistic concerts of the year. He is anxious that all students hear these "Singing Horsemen of the Steppes."

Their performance is of a superior quality. Carnegie Hall in New York engaged them five times, and Boston and Chicago heard them twice. Before coming to this country, they traveled throughout Europe, England and Australia. Since 1923 they have acclaimed in several countries as artists.

The second program of the series will be given by Ethel Bartlett and Rae Robertson, concert pianists. Miss Bartlett studied in the Royal Academy of Music at London, at the same time that Mr. Robertson was studying at London. Later they were married. Since they have gained fame as piano duo artists.

The third number of the year will be a return engagement of Katheryn Meisle, American contralto. Her singing here last year was enthusiastically received by the Maryville audience and many will be glad to hear of her return.

SCOTS SHOW GOOD FORM TO DOWN TUSCULUM PIONEERS 26-0

Collins, Boretsky, Blazer, Kizer Star in Backfield

GOOD BLOCKING

By BOB RULE
(Special to The "Echo")

Author's Note; Charles R. Beale, of the Cairo, Georgia Beales, was called to a director's meeting at the First National Bank Friday night. I, being a sport writer of absolutely no ability whatsoever, gladly volunteered my services. Complaints may be registered with the Dean of Men, or Women, it makes absolutely no difference to me.

Playing football with gusto reminiscent of Maryville teams of bygone days, Coach Honaker's Highlanders broke loose last night with an offensive that kept Tusculum College Pioneers on the run for 60 minutes of play and won 26 to 0.

Without so much as exchanging greetings with Tusculum's perfectly adorable cheer leaderess, the Highlanders galloped out of the dressing room, onto the field and swarmed all over the boys from Greeneville in a business-like manner.

Referee Clark borrowed a World's Fair penny from Umpire Campbell and Head Linesman Lovell tossed it skyward. Captain Russell yelled "Heads!" It fell tails and said Russell conceeded Captain Rankin the next dance with his best girl.

Tusculum kicked off and the Highlanders started their itinerary toward the setting sun, which had taken place some few hours before by the clock. (The setting of the sun, not the itinerary.) When the Scot offensive had spent its fury on the drive, the ball reclined on Tusculum's one-yard stripe. The referee raised his right arm toward the arc lights and pointed significantly in the opposite direction. That made the ball Tusculum's and

(Continued on page three)

Student Council Elects Kirchner As President

Social Activities Main Theme Of First Night's Discussion

The Student Council met for the first time this year on Monday night, October 2. Bob Tripp, president pro-tem, called the meeting to order. Followed the election of officers. Those elected were:

President—Fred Kirchner
Vice President—Ernest Lowe
Secretary-Treasurer—
Frances Biddle

The remainder of the evening was given over to discussion with Dr. Fields, newly appointed Dean of Men, of Maryville's peculiar smaller conditions and their betterment. It was Dr. Fields' suggestion that the Student Council make its project for the year the improvement of our social life. He recommended having organized social functions at scheduled intervals, but suggested that an attempt be made to eliminate the "moonshining" element. The aim would be to make all social activities college affairs for the enjoyment of everyone and with more opportunities for mixing the groups.

In connection with social gatherings, a new procedure for scheduling has been introduced by Dr. Fields to go into effect at once. After the party has been scheduled in Dr. Hunter's office, an activities permit card must be secured from Dr. Fields and filed with the Dean of Women eight days before any mixed party, with the exception of club meetings. Two chaperones will be appointed from the list of faculty members. The card is to be signed by both chaperones and Miss Caldwell. The purpose of this permit is to assure definite arrangements for chaperones at all mixed parties and for better general organization of social functions.

The council was reminded that Maryville has distinctive qualities which make her unique among colleges which lack our advantages. Some of those Dr. Fields mentioned were the unusual friendly spirit existing among students, as well as the schohlarship rating and low expenses. The religiouss emphasi that has been maintained is a part of our school life that many college presidents envy for their students. Dr. Fields commented, too, on the earnestness of Maryville students in their work toward a degree.

The Student Council will meet regularly every two weeks on Monday. The next meeting will be October 16th.

First Senior Party To Be On October 16

The first Senior party of the year will be held Monday evening, October 16, at 8:00 p. m. The party is to be formal and open. Bartlett Hall will be the scene of the festivities. All Seniors, who have paid one semester's dues are eligible to attend. All reservations, however, must be in to Clifford Withers or Bob Tripp by October 12.

Committees have been appointed, and plans for the party are rapidly going forward. Those in charge are: Juanita Law, refreshments; Charles Beale, program; and John Eyster, decorating.

Miss Hudson Lectures First Faculty Dinner

Fungi Proves Interesting Subject to Listeners

The first Faculty Banquet of the college year was held last Tuesday evening in the Home Economic rooms. The speaker was Miss Bonnie Hudson. Her lecture was on Fungi, and was illustrated by slides which were prepared at the University of Tennessee. Some of them Miss Hudson helped to prepare. Most of the specimens were collected in this region. Mushrooms, morels, and puff balls were some of the species that were especially interesting. Miss Hudson gave sidelights on the value of fungi as food and medicine, as well as their harmful properties. The subject of Fungi is associated with many quaint superstitions and old folklore that appeal to the imagination.

The speakers for the monthly meetings of the Faculty Club for the year 1933-34 are scheduled as follows:

November 6—Dr. Fields
December 4—Professor Davis
January 8—Professor Griffitts
March 5—Dr. McMurray
April 2—Dr. Shine
May 7—Miss Carroll

The meetings this year will be held the first Monday evening of each month at seven o'clock instead of Tuesday evenings as formerly.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - -
Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors

Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor

Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - - -
Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - - -
Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs

Katharine Orr - - - - -
Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - - -
Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - -
Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - -
Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Business

Jesse Willis - Business Manager
Sam Waid - - - Asst. Bus. Mgr.
G. Edward Friar - Asst. Bus. Mgr.

Subscription Rates - - - -
$1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, October 7, 1933

In a story of his H. G. Wells has one of his characters say "I perceive I have been meanwhiling all my life. Meanwhiling—have I been living? No, I have been meanwhiling away my time."

It struck us that college was an extraordinarily good place to fall into that very habit. Too many extra-curricular activities, too much emphasis on the less important phases of college life, can soon lead one into a state which results in no accomplishments whatever. Often this can be true of the very busiest person. He suddenly discovers that in spite of his rushing and hurrying he has really accomplished nothing which matters.

Even more unfortunate than such a person, thuogh, is the one who does nothing at all with his spare time. Odd moments find him gazing into space, moping because he has a twinge of homesickness, grumbling because college life is dead. He forgets that his college has provided him innumerable ways of spending his spare time to the best advantage.

Those who look about them and find nothing to do are "meanwhiling" their lives away. Meanwhiles! Odd things—precious, really! The successful person is one who sometime has thought "I have two hours until my next work period—meanwhile I can find what I wanted to know about the subject I heard discussed yesterday, and with which I was unfamiliar." Or "I have to stay out of school this year for financial reasons, but meanwhile I can devote my time to an intensive study of my favorite subject which the broader curriculum of college prevented me from doing."

A young man hoped to secure a position in a great university. He failed, and obtained instead a place in a high school. Meanwhile he spent his spare moments doing a research work in his field which attracted so much attention that eventually he secured a position which exceeded all his hopes. To him there was no void between the dreams and realities of life.

The person who fills his "meanwhile" with the worthwhile may discover that he has meanwhiled himself into some unexpected happiness or success.

OBSERVATIONS

AND WE ASK YOU

Podners, the season is on officially at this point, and we don't mean because Maryville has won her first football game, but because Dr. Orr has cracked his first pop quiz. And he isn't the only one who did.

IS IT ETHICAL

We've always liked the way Mrs. Orr's husband (this avoids the use of the complimentary term "D.") directs his classes to put away the notes and notebooks for just a little pop quiz which, in all cases, is just to give us a sample of what the real thing is. Many's the time we've felt like we'd prefer the real thing.

SHOVELS GENTLEMEN

We're here to say that the really big stories around this little old college aren't heard in some forbidden corner of a dark room infested by Carnegie badmen. . . and after 10:30. . . . but they come, believe us, from the pulpit of this yer college chapel.

AND OTHER UTENSILS

They may come a bit more embellished with sweet sounding words, and more appropriate expression, but it's the same sugar coated. . . . well, you furnish the name. But we like it! Yes sir!

We like it because we like to try to mental telepathize (you look it up; we didn't have time) the college pastor, and try to determine whether the next story is going to be bigger or much bigger. Usually we give up trying to guess and take the latter for granted.

EYEBROW ARCHER

And too, we like to sit up near the front and watch that smile that gambles around on Dr. Lloyd's face trying to gain admission (and it usually does), and of course, we like to see the would-be solemn dean of the college try to keep his face straight. He seems to delight in arching eyebrows at the president. . . . and the president . . . . well, he hasn't cultivated that art. . . . . but he smiles back. It's all really quite worthwhile, and we're sorry as the deuce that you can't all be seniors and get a ringside seat.

SCRAM GUYS!

We'd like to announce in this column that this column refuses from this point west to print anything that has relative to it the name of Kipp and Beale. They've just been hogging the paper too much lately. We won't even mention it if Kipp refalls for his Spanish senor eeta (mucha)—or if Beale decided to take a shower sometime except Saturday night!

HERE SHE IS

One person who might take their place is little Marjorie Salomns who is president of Bainonian, but pretty sound otherwise. Miss Salmons fairly bawled us out for not mentioning her sooner in a column that attempts to write of the doings of the collegiate big shots. The only time we've felt constrained to look the second time at Miss Salmons was when we saw little Marjorie wearing a sweater with wings on. That usually indicates that the wearer has gained a track letter. . . . or that the manfren has gone south. . and neither is true in this case.

FOR THE CAUSE

Oh yes; others whom we'll refrain from mentioning further, for our sakes as well as for theirs you understand, are Dr. Hunter, Professor Queener, Dr. Lloyd, The Nightwatchman, and Dr. Hill Shine who has devised, or devolved, the plan of carrying his class lecture notes bound in a clothespin. He no doubt plans to keep clothes watch on them.

OH ME, OH US!

This columnist is strictly opposed to telling jokes on himself, but when he's really fooled. . . . he's really fooled. We were about the dining hall on a certain day doing certain specified duties when we saw a huge dish of ice cream covered smoothly with old lady and bound for (said the verbal directions) Jesse Willis, and since we didn't want Jesse to get all the good eats, we reached rather "long-armedly" for a spoon to capture a bite for ourselves. Well, we did. . . a big bite. . . . but the ice cream was mashed potatoes. Picture our woe. The potatoes were potatoes that had been on the table for, oh say twenty minutes.

YES!

As we were saying. . . the joke was on us. But our real concern over the matter after it was all over was our chagrin in realizing that any person in this college should want to play such a trick on our senior treasurer!

THERE'S A REASON

Not until this year did we learn the real reason for little Theron Alexander's constant cocky attitude. But just now we've found reason a-plenty. It's all a matter of brotherly love with little Theron if he gets in any trouble over his failing, shall we say? You know—my brother (Bruce) can whip your brother.

THKIPPIE

The post card written by our friend Skippy created quite a sensation in the old post office this week. Seems Skippy has had a career all in a few weeks at our little old college—and we didn't know a career was to be had for the asking. Skippy, we take it, will soon be May Queen—but we could judge better knowing who Skippy is.

RELECTIONS ON THE WATER

Mr. Bryan Payne thinks that moonlight over water is much more alluring than moonlight over mountains. The effect it has on him is quite astounding as evidenced by his response in crossing the Pistol Creek bridge one evening last week. Bryan walked over the bridge; the reflection of the moon in the water caught his eye—and his immediate response was to open a solo of "Love is the Sweetest Thing."

World Today

Governor Judd has anounced that the territory of Hawaii has no funds to meet its payment of 5,000 employees, and other obligations incurred since October 1. A special session of the legislature will likely be called soon to remedy the critical financial situation.

—MC—

An earthquake of minor intensity shook buildings in Southern California on Tuesday morning, causing one death.

—MC—

119 persons are known to have been killed in Havanna on Monday as a result of fighting at the Hotel National. 500 army and nacy officers, opponents of the Grau San Martin regime, have been barricaded and beseiged there for weeks.

—MC—

By direction of President Roosevelt, an intensive canvass will be started almost at once to ascertain from employers what progress has actually been made in the recovery drive. 3,000,000 questionnaires will be sent out.

—MC—

World-wide improvement in industry, production, trade, and employment was reported by the director of the League of Nation's finance section. The value of world exports has risen 10 percent between April and July.

—MC—

German labor camps, which are said to be military training camps under direction of Nazi officers, are being established near the German frontiers. Along the Dutch frontier nine of them have been set up.

With Our Advertisers

BYRNE'S —THE STUDENT'S DRUG STORE

The good old year of 1928 was a decidedly good year and with it came many good things. At present most of these things are just a matter of history and are gone. However, one of the occurences of 1928 still remains as a symbol of the happy days past but fast returning.

On May 1, 1928 Dr. Wm. Byrne purchased his present business from Birchfiel and McMahan. Being so late in the college year it was almost impossible for Dr. Byrne to become acquainted with more than a handful of college students.

The following fall when the students began to return to the Hill they naturally went to town to shop. Causually they dropped in at the Byrne Drug Store more from curiosity than intent to purchase. The passing of the beloved Dr. J. H. Mitchell had seemed to take with it the pep, enthusiasm and vivacity characteristic of the Doctor.

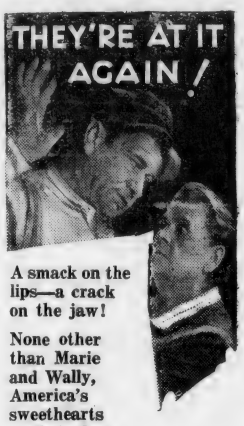
To the students happy surprise they found a man who was capable and willing to greet them in a manner they had missed for a few years. Willing and eager to give his support to any and all functions pertaining to the College. Not only was and is this true of Dr. Byrne but he had also built up an organization which functioned as a unit towards courteous, prompt and cheerful service. Who has been in school one term that does not know Dr. Pendleton, Dr. Stuart, Rabbit Smith, Shorty and Miss Chandler? All this took place in 1928 but this is the sixth year since, so what?

The same hearty welcome still awaits one and all and the same courteous, prompt, and cheerful service remains. The same willingness, to support the Hill in any and all ventures continues, so let's try to show our appreciation and reciprocate in any way we poossibly can.

Byrne's is one of the ECHO'S best and most faithful advertisers.

The Home Economics Club held a short meeting Wednesday evening to make plans for the year's work. Miss Charlotte Ferris was elected to fill the vacancy of Vice President.

The French Club met Wednesday evening. During the business session, Michael Testa and Theron Alexander were elected program secretaries. On the program was a cornet solo by Ruth Flint and a vocal solo by Dorothy Nethery.



The Fellowship Club met Wednesday evening in Athenian Hall. A talk was given by George Greiner about the Y. M. C. A. mountain hike. The meeting closed with group singing.

For the next four Sundays the Y. W. C. A. meetings will center about the theme, "Full and Creatiive Life", touching on different interests at each meeting. Elinor Denslow will be in charge of the meeting tomorrow which will deal with practical living. All meetings are conducted by students, for students.

Palace Theatre

NEXT WEEK MON.-TUES.

POPULAR PRICES

A smack on the lips—a crack on the jaw!

None other than Marie and Wally, America's sweethearts in their first joyous reunion since "Min and Bill"!

marie DRESSLER
Wallace BEERY
TUGBOAT ANNIE

with

ROBERT YOUNG, MAUREEN O'SULLIVAN

Directed by MERVYN LE ROY

Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer

NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY

Always at your service

Monroe's Confectionery and Lunch

On College Street

Your patronage is appreciated

PRESIDENTS AND DEPARTMENT HEADS OF THE LEADING UNIVERSITIES RECOMMEND

WEBSTER'S COLLEGIATE

"The best American dictionary that has yet appeared for a college student to keep within arm's reach. What he does not find between its covers in relation to the general use of words in speech or on printed pages will not be necessary to a liberal arts degree."—Orton Lowe, Director, Winter Institute of Literature, University of Miami.

The best abridged dictionary because it is based on the "Supreme Authority"—Webster's New International Dictionary.

106,000 entries including hundreds of new words, with definitions, spellings, and correct use; a dictionary of Biography; a Gazetteer; rules of punctuation; use of capitals, abbreviations, etc.; a dictionary of foreign words and phrases. Many other features of practical value. 1,268 pages. 1,700 illustrations.

See It At Your College Bookstore or Write for Information to the Publishers.

G. & C. MERRIAM CO. SPRINGFIELD, MASS.

Echo Sports

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

Oh you Collins! Oh you Boretsky! Who said we didn't have a ball team? And if you ask us, that's regular Tennessee blocking for you, or we miss our guess. We're on the bandwagon now, and headed straight for that Smoky Mountain Conference championship. With a backfield playing that ol' Collins, Boretsky, Kizer, Blazer combination there is mighty slim pickin's for anybody else so far as we can see now.

—S—

Pep ran a little higher in the crowd than usual last night, but the thing which was good to see was the spirit of the team. Not satisfied to sit back on a 6-0 score, the boys got their heads together and didn't let up till the final gun.

—S—

Altho Tusculum was well supplied with last year's men, they made little headway, and it was only after the cat was bagged that they succeeded in making more than one first down. But you've got to hand it to those two ends of theirs. They were plenty fast on their feet, and more than once caught the home boys unawares in backfield territory.

—S—

And then Steve, you all know whom we're talking about, took a beautifully intercepted pass down the side for eighty yards and a touchdown. That's the kind of run that adds the golden egg to Uncle Remus' collection, and otherwise closes a perfect eventide for the home boys. Nice work, Steve, and . . . . you might do it again sometime if you are so disposed.

—S—

Game! Set! Match! And Talmadge bit the dust at the hands of Karnell, thus closing another episode in the dramatic feud between Maryville's two foremost netmen. It was a great match. The breaks were even, and it was only after the superb comeback staged by Karnell when he was down 5-1 in the fifth and final set that the winner was assured his victory.

—S—

So far as college men are concerned the tournament is over, with Karnell wearing the crown. Fischback, ex-college man, reached the finals after defeating Horne, darkhorse of the tourney, and will play Karnell for the championship Monday. With Karnell's game improved one hundred percent over last year's game, the question of number one position next spring seems to be settled.

—S—

Karnell's victory over Talmadge displayed a brand of tennis seldom seen on the Hill. When a man comes from behind to win five straight games he shows a mental control that is plenty hard to beat, and if you don't believe it, ask Talmadge. That's the kind of stuff we need on the varsity squad, so let's keep it up, Karnell!

—S—

Somebody told us that Coach Smith was doped to win the women's tennis tourney, and it was only after he accused us, right to our very physiognomy, too, of spreading the bull that we forgot our scruples about razzing the faculty and decided to print this. But in spite of sideline gossip we'd pick Johnson, Eleanor to most of us, over the whole field . . . . and Smith.

KNOW YOUR MAN DOWN TO THE LAST. A BACKED TEAM WINS!

READ FIRST, THEN SEE THEM AT PEP MEET

The sports department collaborating with the yell leaders this week completes the "know your man" campaign and the personal introduction of each one, a plan which was so successfully inaugurated in the last edition. Here they are, gem'ens, read 'em an' marvel.

Toots Blazer

Soph; quarterback; 155 pounds; Maryville, Tennessee. A local product and idol of the kids, Blazer's fire infects the entire team. His play last year and until now has been exceptionally good.

Johnny Kizer

Senior; halfback; 173 pounds; Maryville, Tennessee. For pass receiving and plenty of drive he's hard to tie. This is Johnny's fourth year on the squad, and he will have lettered in three of them at the close of this season. Strangely enough his married life doesn't seem to interfere with his game, for it's always drive, slam, bang on offense and defense both. But Kizer doesn't specialize in football alone, for he's basketball captain besides, and right now he looks good to finish his college days in the proverbial blaze of glory.

Merrit Slawson

Senior; end; 153 pounds; Maryville, Tennessee. This is Merrit's fourth year on the squad, and although he hasn't been in the game as much as some of them have, there has never been a man more faithful to the team than he. He rarely cuts practice, and that is enough to cheer the heart of any coach. We'd like to see Slawson letter this year.

Louie Krainock

Junior; halfback; 145 pounds; Georgetown, Illinois. Every pound of Louie's 145 is full of scrap, pep, and vigor. Although his weight is against him somewhat he makes his part in the game stand up to par with the rest of them. His second year out, Louie has developed a great blocking ability, and has made Coach sit up and take notice.

Morris Bailey

Sophomore; center; 172 pounds; Paintsville, Kentucky. As understudy of Captain Russell, Bailey has developed a good defensive game and promises to capably fill the big gap which will be made by Russell's departure. Although Russell keeps him from getting in the game a whole lot, we predict that he'll be out there next year at center, with Russell's grin and all.

Stanley Shields

Sophomore; quarterback; 153 pounds; Walland, Tennessee. The difference between Shields and a triple threat man is so little that it's hardly worth consideration. He is the smallest man on the field but by no means is the least to handle, and is a welcome comer to anyone's team.

Archie Pieper

Sophomore; guard; 172 pounds; Lytle, Texas. When Coach Thrower picks the men in his home town to bring to college he picks with one eye on a football-field and how his protege will look on it. This year Pieper was shifted from center to guard and is playing a promising game. Thrower didn't err when he brought Pieper to college, for he not only plays football, but wrestles as well.

Jimmie Cochrane

Freshhman; tackle; 220 pounds; Alcoa, Tennessee. Jimmie comes to us fresh from Alcoa with what it takes to make the squad. The heaviest man on the team he has a mania for tackling which makes him look plenty good on the field. His play in the Kentucky game is proof of his ability. Cochrane can also hold his own in kicking, especially on the kick-off.

Bill Holiday

Freshhman; guard; 192 pounds; Georgetown, Ill. With a little more experience and coaching under the mentor's wing, Holliday ought to make a good guard before the season is over.

Paul Klink

Freshman; guard; 175 pounds; Georgetown, Ill. They must make 'em tough up in Georgetown, for we have no less than three men on the squad from that town. Klink promises to be another good guard, and believe it or not, we're going to need him before many years are up.

Walter Coker

Sophomore; halfback; 157 pounds; Maryville. Coker's story is that of Just another freshman who made good for ol' Alma. On the reserve last year, his consistent show of pep in scrimmage has put him out in front as a man who is raring to hit and ready to do or die.

John Henry

Freshman; end; 163 pounds; Friendsville, Tennessee. John didn't play much football till he came to Maryville, but he's learning fast. Give him time to learn the fundamentals and he promises to make a real end.

Peter Kosloski

Freshman; end; 145 pounds; One hundred pounds of dynamite is packed in this man Peter, to say nothing of forty-five more of the same stuff. He hurt his shoulder in the Tennessee-Wesleyan game, but he plans to be out there again in the King game.

Lynn Crawford

Freshman; halfback; 162 pounds; Maryville, Tenn. Lynn comes from a family of football players, his brothers John and George having starred in years past for Maryville. Lynn has plenty of push, and promises to outdo even the great John, who made a name for himself on the Maryville gridiron.

Bob Chambers

Freshman; 133 pounds; end; Florida. So far Chambers has showed a good offensive game, and is also a good blocker. His 133 pounds will undoubtably make the mentor happy in the next few years.

THE REST OF THE TEAM

The following fellows are on the squad, but have not had a chance to cause comment so far.

James Renfro, Bruce Alexander, Hampton Smith, Richard Corn, John Guigou, Tollton Coulter, Stanley Hall, Albert Todd, Louis Marinaro, James Rich, Dick Schlafer, John Feezell.

FOOTBALL

(Continued from page one)

Cheer Leader Lang an Irishman.

But not for long were Honaker's merry men to be denied possession of the coveted covering of the swine. Captain Rankin arrived on the scene from the dance with Russell's girl in the nick of time. He dropped slightly to the rear of his mates and, standing on his left foot, plied his right one to the ball with such force that it soared some 34 1-2 yards into the waiting arms of Mrs. Blazer's little boy "Toots".

Blazer tucked the ball under his arm, first the right one then the left, and hurried to return it from whence it came. Stephen Boretsky, of the Pensy Boretskys, aided and abetted by Delmarus Collins, called Batty for convenience, took the matter in their hands and escorted the white-painted pigskin safely

(Continued on page four)

Karnell, Fischbach To Play For Title

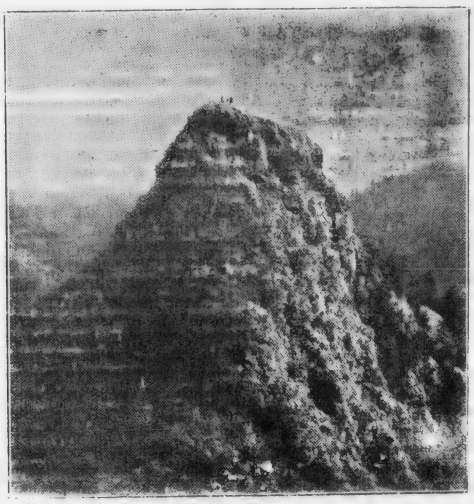
Talmadge Overcome By Karnell's Improved Game

Coming froom behind, the score five-one in the final set of a five set match, Karnell swept his opponent Talmadge off the court in crushing defeat to gain the finals of the tennis tourney. The score by sets was 4-6, 6-3, 6-2, 5-7, 8-6. Karnell will meet Fischback, ex-college star, in the finals, which will be played Monday. Fischback reached the finals by defeating Horne, sophomore dark horse in straight sets: 6-4, 6-3, 1-5.

Talmadge led off by winning the first set 6-4 after losing the first two games and the fifth and seventh. Neither opponent showed any startling game, although Talmadge was surer of his shots and scored more placements than Karnell. In the second and third sets Karnell settled down to a chop game, which was punctuated here and there with hard drives to Talmadge's backhand court.

Both players opened up in the fourth set, Karnell driving more frequently, and Talmadge making some superb placements at the net. Karnell's net game didn't begin to function until the final set, when he made some hard smashes down the center of the court. With a burst of renewed energy in the fifth set Talmadge loomed as a sure winner as the score was five-one in his favor, but evidently he didn't count on Karnell's flashy comeback, which gained momentum at every stroking of the ball. With the score at five-all Talmadge broke through with his service making the score six-five, but was too far spent to keep Karnell from taking three straight and match.

The final looms as a hotly contested affair, and because of the rivalry existing between the two, there is promise of plenty of color and a well deserved match to him who wins.



KODAK FINISHING
For Best Results and Permanent Prints
BRING YOUR FILMS
TO
THE WEBB STUDIO
220 College Street

Wright's 5&10c Store
"Where a little money goes a long way"

The Students seem to have recovered appetites along with the Rest of the Recovery Acts
That's because they buy at the
Y. M. and Y. W. Stores
MANAGERS
Ernest Coldwell Lorena May Dunlap

SPECIAL...
Monday, October 9th
... AT ...
BYRNE DRUG CO.
FREE
One Chocolate Milk with Every Sandwich
•
Good Only on This One Day

SMOKY CHIMNEY TOPS

A Glance at the Garden Spot of America, the Great Smokies

(By B. PAYNE)

We have handed to us the fact that many millions of years ago the earth was a molten mass. The physical features of the earth, the aloof and precipitous mountains whose peaks ever reach skyward in vain efforts to rest side by side with their Creator, the low, rolling plains, and the cavernous depths of natural caves and rifts, all bear out this statement to its fullest and most profound meaning.

But Time cooled this molten, swirling mass. Time left to us great mountain ranges, which surpass all symbols of beauty and majesty. Time started small rivulets from their summits and precipitated them down, down, down, over jutting cliffs and rotting trees to the thirsty plains below. Time allowed these small rivulets to become streams in order that they might wear deep gorges and huge niches into the solid rock. Time covered some of these bare mountain caps with green cedars and pines, and adorned them with beautiful sunrises and glowing sunsets. And then, Time allowed us to survey them, criticize them, explore them, and marvel at them.

While there are many mountains in the United States and other countries, there are none more picturesque, more fascinating, more alluring than the Great Smokies. Their general trend is from east to west. At a glance, one might suspect that the Smokies form one continuous, unbroken mountain range, but not so. The apparent continuity breaks up into greater or lesser hills, crags, and gorges. Some of the ledges running north and south from the general trend are approximately eighteen miles in length, with rich valleys blanketing either side. Some of the purest, coldest springs from which man ever drank gush from the thickly shadowed clefts in the sides of these mountains.

There are places in the Great Smokies on which the sun never shines. The shadows of the mountains have met, clutching each other in tight embrace, and have left the drifting, searching rays of the sun to sift down through the crowning treetops and luxuriant vegetation. Indirectly these deep coves receive the sun, and consequently harbor moist, rich soil and undergrowth. These silent nooks are overrun with wild plant growth, and the snow, which often lies there until May or June, melting, penetartes deeply into the dark earth.

No one knows how many undiscovered tombs and mounds there are within the shadows of the Great Smokies. No one knows how many hidden treasures are buried beneath the unexplored mounds. There is ground upon which man has never set foot. There are sheer rock precipices which no one has ever climbed. The Great Smokies are as wonderful and mysterious as science itself. They afford a wider field for the study of nature than do the many botanical gardens, greenhouses, and zoees scattered throughout the world. They have become the home of the naturalist, the geologist, and the student of Indian lore. They surpass the most vivid imagination of the artist; the poet revels in their quiet, calm shadows and in their unruffled, eternal beauty. Truly they have been imbued with the power to enchant all who linger in their superb presence.

The season of the year is not far away when the Great Smokies will be clothed in their greatest finery. From a distance they will look like huge piles of gold, copper and bronze, intermingled with a subdued, Fall green, duly reflecting the slanting rays of the Autumn sun. And the hazy, mysterious smoke, which is the forever unsolved riddle of the "old man of the mountains", will continue to drift lazily across the valley and up into the hills, where no man sees and no man goes.

FOOT BALL

(Continued from page three)

across the last white line and into the land of I-Will-Arise.

Smarting to no little extent under his humiliation, Captain Rankin, angry like, yelled "Come on, follow me!" It was possibly an attempt to throw the Maryville ranks into a state of disorder but Captain Russell strode forward and announced to the cock-eyed world and the litle girl in the blue dress, Row 7, Seat 84, Telephone number, (in the directory), that the Highlanders, for the night at least, were following him.

There wasn't a doubt in anyone's mind that Rankin had malice in his heart and fully intended to score a touchdown, to say nothing of the extra point. But the best laid plans of men or football captains gang aft agley, (with apologies to the guy who once said something that sounded like that, only not as bad).

Needless to say, (and I wonder just what I have said thus far) Tusculum didn't score a touchdown. Try for extra point was also wide by inches. The half ended with the Scots still commanding that six-point lead and a couple of dumb eggs did flip-flaps in the middle of the field during intermission, which brought "oh's" and "ah's" from more than one co-ed, by actual count.

Thanks to the insistence of the referee, the acrobats were chased from the greenward and the second half started. The same Batty Collins, after being substituted for Gillespie, of the Walland Gillespies, wrought havoc to the Tusculum ranks.

Boretsky, in that typical Boretsky manner, edged his way thru the Pioneer line and ran for 60 yards, with much hip-shaking and pace-changing, before being halted abruptly by Hauner, who, by the way, did his best all night to keep the Maryville ball carriers from performing their duties as set down by Mr. Honaker.

Collins scored the touchdown. (Now, I'm getting somewhere, but so did Mr. Collins). Boretsky, complying to the fullest extent with F. D. R.'s wishes, did his part and kicked the extra point. Later in the same quarter, or period, session or frame, as the case may be, Collins took the ball on a cute little short pass from Russell, did a full turn and scampered 18 yards for another touchdown.

With matters in this state of affairs, or Tennessee, there was absolutely no joy left in life for the boys from Greeneville. Even that adorable little cheer leaderess quit making her associates yell "Tuss-CULUM". Maryvillians yelled for another score and got it.

With the gun half-cocked in the time-keeper's hand and the moon-shiners starting their trek back toward the dorms, Boretsky grabbed a pass out of thin air and ran 75 yards, think of it, for the last touchdown. Steve ended a perfect night by place kicking the extra point. The game ended, just as this periodical is doing.

Personnel of Women's Glee Club Announced

New Girls To Be Initiated Monday Night

Miss Frances Henry has announced the members of the Women's Glee Club for the coming year. The list is as follows: First Sopranos—Mary Sloane Welsh, Lynn Ann Brown, Elizabeth Kunkel, Violet Webb, Lucille Nelson, Calista Palmer. Second Sopranos—Kay Carpenter, Marie Carlson, Helen Chambers, Mimi Baez, Lola Maye Hayes, Dorothy Nethery. First Altos—Lucille Swafford, Sylvia Epright, Mary Wilson, Ruth Romig, Margaret Law, Pauline Throne. Second Altos—Bernice Garner, Katherine Wayland, Jerry Smith, Jane Irwin, Mildred Broks, Virginia Worth. Accompanist, Mrs. Francis Huber.

An interesting initiation for the new girls will be held Monday night.

Plans will soon be under way for the annual Women's Glee Club Concert. As yet the date is undetermined.

Turn-Out Excellent Girls' Point System

Coach Queener was pleased at the number of girls reporting for the point system on Tuesday, October 3. Numbers of girls of all classes signified their intention of participating in all sports during the year.

Former announcement had been made that the point system would not be open to junior or senior girls, but so many reported, that the juniors and seniors will have teams as in former years.

The point system is familiar to all old students, but for the benefit of the new we explain that Maryville girls take part in a point system in which classes compete against each other. This takes the place of intercollegiate athletics. Points are given for passing tests in stunts and swimming, making teams in soccer, basketball, volley ball, baseball, and for competing in the aerial dart and tennis tournaments. A certain number of points are given for hiking, keeping a health chart, and excellency in scholarship.

The faithful may look forward to being awarded a monogram, M, or sweater at the close of the year.

Chilhowee Club Enjoys Flower Show In Woods

The Chilhowee Club met Tuesday afternoon at the home of Dr. and Mrs. W. P. Stevenson in the College Woods. The meeting was planned by the Garden Club, which conducted a flower exhibit. Mrs. E. R. Walker's flowers won first prize in the exhibit.

Miss Susan Green gave an illustrated lecture on "Flowers of Smoky Mountain Park". The colored slides which she used added a vivid note of interest to her talk.

Following the afternoon session, a picnic supper was spread at the picnic grounds in the college woods.

NEW STUDENTS

Tonight is the night in which all societies formally open their doors to newcomers on our campus. We would not presume to influence you in the matter of your choice, but we do wish to urge you to join one of the societies. The societies need you! College life is not complete for you without the fellowship which all of our societies offer. Join a society!

Student workers have been rushing the completion of the new fence around the football field. The fence extends about ten feet further on the east side of the field than formerly in order to give full regulation size for the gridiron. This change will necessitate a new road leading into the College woods. It is planned to close the old road entirely and build another at the west end of the gridiron.

LIBRARY BOOKS

(Continued from page one)

tion)

Miltoun—"Cathedrals of Southern France"

Cathedrals of Northern France"

New books in the English Literature group include:

Bernbaum—"English Poets of the Eighteenth Century"

R. P. Bond—"English Burlesque Poetry 1700-1750"

Harrison—"Shakespeare under Elizabeth"

Hammond—"Chaucer"

A partial list of the volumes assigned to the Bible department follows:

Shailer Mathews—"New Testament Times in Palestine"

W. D. McKenzie—"Christ in the Christian Faith"

Garrison—"March of Faith"

Cabot—"Meaning of Right and Wrong"

Booth—"World of Jesus' Day"

EXAMINATIONS

(Continued From Page One)

Five other periods throughout the semester have been outlined in a similar manner. Hour examinatioos are to be strictly confined to the assigned dates. This, however, does not include regular scheduled quizzes in Science courses.

No examinations may be given around the holidays except in periods, designated by this schedule. Tests given in the later part of the semester will probably include all the material covered in the course.

It is hoped that this plan will prove more satisfactory than the system used last semester.

Clothing....
Distinctively Tailored

BOB WELLS, JR.

Try... Turner's
New Lunch Room
For Good 5c Sandwiches

CARLISLE'S
5c AND 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

DR. S. D. MOUNT
Dentist
First National Bank Bldg.
Phone 323

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.

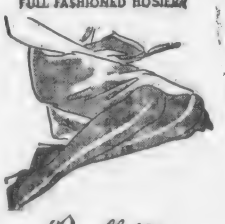
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*Direct connections to Townsend



"IT'S FUN TO BE FOOLED"
It's more fun to
FOOL THEM

This represents the ankles of two legs. Which ankle looks thickest? Which ankle is thickest?

You are right. The right hand ankle looks thickest, but the left hand ankle, while appearing slenderer, is actually the same size! It is covered with a full-fashioned Humming Bird stocking—French Heel.

It's no crime to have thick ankles, the crime is in letting them look thick. The Humming Bird Hosiery that accomplishes this optical illusion is on sale in our Hosiery Department—in New Fall Colors.

Humming Bird
FULL FASHIONED HOSIERY

Proffitt's
"THE STUDENTS' STORE"

The Highland Echo

VOLUME ~~18~~ 19 | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE OCTOBER 14, 1933 | NUMBER FIVE

News Squints

The Freshman class, at a meeting in the chapel at eight o'clock Monday morning, elected the following officers:

Bruce McCampbell, President; Lillian Crawford, vice president; Sam Ross Parker, secretary; Robert Watt, treasurer.

The meeting was presided over by Fred Cushner.

Professor Griffitts spoke on "Storage Batteries" at a meeting of the Chemistry Club, on Tuesday, October 11, at 6:30. The talk was interesting as well as instructive.

Practical living, discussed in the Y. W. C. A. last Sunday, is only one of the elements of a Full and Creative Life. There is also the esthetic, and to present this factor, a program has been designed for tomorrow, led by Fern Metzger. We invite you to come and enjoy it with us.

Y. M. C. A. PROGRAM
Sunday, October 15, 1933
Invocation—Leland Shanor
Song No. 166—Fairest Lord Jesus
Scripture—Psalm 19,
Gordon Grooms
Prayer—Mr. John Waldrope
Speaers— (5 minutes each) "My Ideal Man"—Miss Carrie Lou Tweed, Miss Marjorie Salmons,
Special Music—Y.W.C.A.
Speakers—Miss Lucille Swafford
Song No. 184—O Master Let Me Walk With Thee
Speaker—Miss Lillian Steed
Benediction—Mispah

Alpha Sigma Society has planned an entertaining program for their meeting tonight. A resume of the football scores will be given by John Gillingham. John McQueen will also speak.

During the rest of the hour, the men will be entertained by Clarence Ludie, the well-known colored pianist of Maryville Drug Stores. He has promised to play some of his most popular numbers.

Athenian Society is offering on their program tonight, vocal music by Mrs. Francis Huber, and a reading by Herr Wissler.

The names of new men desiring

(Continued on page four)

Interracial Commission Holds First Meeting

Morristown And Knoxville Representatives Present

The East Tennessee Interracial Commission held a meeting in the Y. W. C. A. rooms Saturday, October 7th, at three o'clock. Representatives were here from Morristown and Knoxville colleges.

Lillian Steed conducted the devotional service, which included special music by Ruth Flint and Harriet Clark. A talk was given by Professor Herman J. Kloepfer, of Morristown. Professor Kloepfer outlined the history and purpose of the organization. He urged thhe commission to spend its time working with realities, in solving specific, practical problems, instead of dealing in "fantastic theories."

Temporary officers were elected to fill vacant positions on the exceutive staff. Mary Hoard, of Morristown, was elected president; Martina Robieson, vice president, and Ada Mattieson of Morristown, secretary. These officers, together with Mr. Eugene Bryce, of Knoxville, form an executive committee.

Writer's Workshop Elects Committees

First Papers To Be Submitted On The 19th

At the first meeting of the Writer's Workshop on Wednesday, October 11, officers were elected and plans made for the coming year. A governing board consisting of Miss Johnson, Fern Metzgar, Kay Carpenter, and Richard Orr, was elected. This board will in charge of the programs and business for this semester.

Violet Webb, Geraldine Smith, Dr. Hunter, and Dr. Shine were elected on the membership committee.

It was voted that the time of meeting of the organization be changed from Wednesday afternoons to Tuesday afternoons at 4:30.

Miss Johnson and Nathalia Wright will present papers at the next meeting on October 17.

Colonial Guest House To Be Built In Woods

House To Be Ready For Occupancy by November

Work has already begun on the bungalow in the College Woods which is being erected by Mrs. John Walker for the accommodation of her guests. The house is expected to be ready for occupancy sometime in November. It will be situated at a short distance from the Walker residence in the vicinity of Court Street.

It is to be colonial in design, constructed of brick, painted white, and ornamented with green blinds. The floor plan is simple, consisting of a living room, two bedrooms, bath, and kitchenette. Special attention will be given to the fireplace in the living room. It is to be constructed of yellow stone and trimmed in white, following the general scheme of the house, colonial simplicity. The furnishings, which will come mainly from collections Mrs. Walker made when she lived in Pittsburg, will be chosen to harmonize with the general plan of house.

Mountain Outing Was Greatly Enjoyed By Y

Forty study-plagued students took refuge from their books last weekend and fled to Look Rock for a taste of the hills before the cold weather sets in. Ideal weather helped to make it an ideal trip.

Transportation was provided to the foot of the mountain. Camp was pitched about half way up. After supper an impromptu entertainment and general bull session took place.

The next morning after a delicious breakfast of bacon and eggs, Frank Mease led a short devotional service, after which the boys climbed the mountain. Ravenous outdoor appetites soon called the men back to camp, however, and Red Courtenay's dextrous fingers dealt out generous portions of slumgullion. Late in the afternoon the group rode back to the college with much singing and hilarity.

The hike was sponsored by the "Y" cabinet who also furnished the group leaders, Testa, Lowe, Courtenay, and Greiner. More trips are being planned.

DR. LLOYD IN MEMPHIS DURING PAST WEEK

President Lloyd spent part of the past week in Memphis where he attended the annual meeting of the Synod of Tennessee of the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Maryville College was founded by the Synod of Tennessee and is now organically related to it. President Lloyd presented his annual report and the Synod expressed approval of and gratification for the work being done at the College. Several Directors of the College were present also.

On Wednesday morning President Lloyd conducted the chapel service of Southwestern College which is located in Memphis.

Mr. Weldon Hina, editor of the Echoh for the year 1931-1932, has obtained a splendid position as chief chemist in the Lafayette Flouristspar Co., at Mexico, Kentucky.

Anna Mae Bass, student at Maryville in 1929-31, was graduated from Virginia State Teachers College in August.

Annual Y Conference At Tusculum Oct. 21

State Secretary Visits M. C. Campus During Week

Mr. Howard Hubbell, State Y. M. M. C. A. secretary, was a guest on the campus last Wednesday morning. He was visiting colleges in this part of the state for the purpose of creating and boosting interest in the Annual East Tennessee Student Conference.

It will be remembered that last year the conference was held here at Maryville. This year it is to be held in Tusculum College on Saturday and Sunday, October 21 and 22. A student at Tusculum is in charge of the arrangements for the program which will consist largely of small group conferences and addresses, mostly by members of Tusculum faculty. It is hoped that Dr. Elliott of Knoxville will be able to attend.

The East Tennessee Student Conference is composed of ten colleges in the eastern part of the state. While the annual conference is sponsored by the State YMCA it is open to all students and is supported by all Christian associations. It purposes to promote Christian fellowship among the students of the colleges.

Mr. W. Tuthill Barr, Maryville senior, is president of the Conference. The Maryville YMCA expects to send a large delegation to Tusculum for this year's conference.

Maryville Band Plans Broad Music Program

Group Consists Mostly of New Talent

The band which has been furnishing music at the foot ball games consists this year of 30 members, 21 of whom are new students.

The personnel is as follows:

Cornets— James Alexander, John Elliott, Bill Frish, A. G. Karnell, Robert McKibben, William Morgan, William Paterson, John Phay, A. Mowatt, Tully Williams, Harold Twehger.

Clarinet—Norman Beamer, Frank Mease, Lame Staley.

Flue—Boyce Jarmen

Saxophone—Ralph Llewelyn, Sidney Poortrum.

Mellophone—Howard George.

Sousaphone—Don Lockerby

Baritone—O. M. Teague, Leland

(Continued on page four)

Tennessee Represented Century Of Progress

Miss Bewley To Present "Tales of Tennessee" to Fair Throngs

Irene Bewley, nationally known character artist of Greene County, Tennessee has just been engaged as one of the attractions at The Century of Progress, Chicago.

The artist is nationally known for her skill in writing and portraying mountain types. An interesting program of hers was sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. at Voorhees Chapel last year.

On the evening of October twenty second visitors at The World's Fair will have opportunity to see portrayed quaint, old women of The Great Smokies, gay young lassies from the tall Cumberlands, and midde-aged makers of homely philosophy from the slopes of the Unakas. Fifteen such types, Irene Bewley, herself a product of the Tennessee Hills, will portray at The World's Fair in her original mountain sketches "Tales of Tennessee Hills."

Tennessee may be justly proud to be so uniquely represented at The Century of Progress.

Miss Bewley will leave Tennessee early next week for a brief tour of Kentucky before arriving in Chicago for The World's Fair appearance.

Botany Field Trip Proves Instructive

Group Gathers Many Plants For Winter Gardens

Twenty members of the Botany class with Miss Bonnie Hudson took their first field trip of the year to Gold Creek Falls last Wednesday. The object was to observe plant life in its preparation for winter. The varieties of trees already affected by frost were noted as well as the genera of flowers which bloom in this season. Persimmons and wild grapes were quite abundant.

An incidental interest was the collecting of mosses, lichens, and ferns for a winter garden. One of the more choice specimens was a chester of Jack-o-Lantern mushrooms. After comparing collections the party enjoyed a picnic supper at the foot of the mountains.

Truth, in the hands of some, seems to be an elastic substance.

A Glance at the Garden Spot of America, the Great Smokies

(By B. Payne)

In the shadows of the Great Smokies lie several garden spots which are outstanding in their portrayal of pleasing tranquility, as sharply contrasted with the general ruggedness of the mountain ranges. Here and there thru the hills are rich, fertile valleys, which make farming prosper, and the hill billies are prone to flock hither to make their homes.

As one peers down over the heavy wood on the slopes of Rich Mountain, he sees a long, sweeping bed of golden grain fields, bounded by low, green shrubs and trees. Cades Cove, as the valley is called, is approximately four square miles without its surrounding woodland.

Another of the garden spots is the picturesque bit of lowland called Happy Valley. It is surrounded by mountains—the Cades Cove mountain on the east, Chilhowee mountain on the north and west, and the Great Smokies on the South. The valley is very irregular in shape and comprises from four to six square miles. A rippling creek runs the entire course of the lowland—Abram's creek it is called—and its shimmering waters make one thirsty . . . unless he is a "Dryland Pipper", or afraid that the water is spiked from the countless stills located higher up in the mountains.

Although Happy Valley is an excellent health retreat, it is not densely populated. The water is pure and cold, the soil is productive, and the people who inhabit the cove are prosperous and very generous. There is one thing which might be said of it and that is when it rains it pours, and when it thunders it roars. When one is standing on top of the mountain nearby, he is reminded of the words of another which say:

"Let earthquakes come and thunders roll
"And shake the earth from pole to pole."

The sharp lightning plays about one's feet, and mammoth trees are often reduced to splinters before one's eyes. It is then that the top

(Continued on page four)

What I Think Of Sophs—E. Thom

Let no student read this in other than a thoughtful mood; for it is written not so much for his delectation as for his instruction, although we admit that it is entertaining. If the moral is too elusive he has, probably, several teachers who will be glad to point it out.

There is to every discussion an obverse and reverse side, but some are faceted like a diamond. If we leave anything undone it is not from negligence but because of the complexity of our topic, the sophomore character. Freshmen are easily described, and seniors only less so; but the junior and the sophomore, especially the sophomore, yield hardly to the expert delineator.

While the senior is usually serious and the freshman frivolous, the sophomore is inconstant. He is sober when he has a toothache, and when he remembers that he is not a freshman; but he is irrespressible when he forgets that he is a sophomore. It is as well that he loses his dignity at times, for there is no stronger incentive to suicide than the sight of a serious sophomore.

In the matter of going places, also, he vacillates. The senior proceeds unhurriedly to a definite place, the freshman goes hurriedly to an indefinite place. The sophomore follows one example in the morning and another in the afternoon. Sometimes he becomes confused, hurrying to a definite place and proceeding to an indefinite place, but, fortunately, he always regains his balance.

Wherever he goes, he gives a greeting to whomever he meets. He knows everyone, from the president of the college to the littlest of the freshmen. He knows their names; their abilities and failings, their wives, or sweethearts, or desires; their favorite candy bars, their favorite enemies. He can usually spell their names backwards. He is acquainted with everything on the campus and in its
of course, his

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - - Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors

Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor

Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - - Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - - Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs

Katharine Orr - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - - Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - - Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - - Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Business

Jesse Willis - Business Manager
Sam Waid - - - Asst. Bus. Mgr.
G. Edward Friar - Asst. Bus. Mgr.

Subscription Rates - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, October 14, 1933

'No Echo Next Week

The HIGHLAND ECHO, as previously announced will not appear October 21st. The next issue will be on the 28th.

The Staff also wishes to announce that by that date twelve freshman apprentices will have been appointed to serve on the ECHO. During the past week all members of the Freshman Class have submitted themes to the English Department. About forty people showing the most ability have been selected for further tryouts.

From twelve to sixteen freshmen are appointed yearly as apprentices. Six of these are retained as sophomore cubs.

World Today

Ellsworth Vines has turned professional and joined Bill Tilden's tennis troupe.

—MC—

Gun battles between miners and pickets in Sullivan County, Indiana, brought that section of the country under military rule early this week. Two companies of National Guards were sent to the scene. At the same time about 40,000 striking miners in Pennsylvania returned to work.

—MC—

With a simple ritual, disregarding all the ceremony which has marked recent inaugurations, James Bryant Conant was formally installed as Harvard University's twenty-third president.

—MC—

Reports indicate that Poland is prospering. Figures show that with a population of 32,00,000 she has less than 300,000 unemployed. The Polish are busy making munitions and machinery for Soviet Russia.

—MC—

Oppositionists continue to make trouble in Cuba. Sniping at soldiers has been occurring in various parts of Havana.

—MC—

The Hitler government has passed a National Press Law bringing every working newspaper man under the direct control of the government. This virtually does away with the freedom of the press. The death penalty had already been established for the publication of treasonable articles.

—MC—

The sugar stabilization agreement which was prepared a few weeks ago has been scrapped by the Roosevelt administration. Developments in Cuba have probably had much to do with the decision.

Book Browsing

WHITE APRIL by Lizette Woodworth Reese (1930) Farrar and Rinehart

For those who prefer poetry that can be read at odd moments, "White April" is a charming book. None of the poems within its pages are long or involved.

The title, "White April", is quite indicative of the nature of the contents. The unobtrusive beauty of a hillside finds its way into Miss Reese's verses more than sympathy with humanity. One might say that this volume has a pastoral tone with the flavor of an English countryside. However, the author insists that her settings are really Maryland, although shepherds and sheep, cowslips and hedges are not typical American scenery.

Miss Reese was nearly seventy-five when she wrote "White April", her tenth volume of verse, but she has the exuberance of Millay in her raptures over the too great loveliness of spring. Other poems are so unmistakably a woman's that they are reminiscent of the love lyrics of a better known woman poet, Sara Teasdale, as in these lines:

"Could I shake you out of my heart,
As water out of a cup,
A little silver on the grass
The sun would soon dry up. . ."

The serious touch is not lacking. Odors, colors, and sounds are carefully translated into verse. In "Apples Dropping" we find these lines

"A close, thick, unescapable sound,
That splits along the ground".

But not all the verse is as remote and withdrawn from human life as the above fragment. There are occasional touches of pathos, one of the best being "The Second Wife". Love poetry has its place, but it is the poetry of mature love, not youth.

Even though Miss Reese began writing peotry before the twentieth century, she has acquired the terse strife of the younger poets. One of the best evidences is found in these three lines from "Scarcity":

"And life as well as art,
By scareness grows,
Not surfeit. . . ."

Miss Reese taught English literature in a school for negroes in Baltimore at one time. Much of her verse has appeared in magazines, the most famous sonnet being "Tears".

Alumni News

On Saturday, September 30, Mrs. H. L. Ellis and daughter, Mrs. R. R. Thompson, entertained with a tea at which announcement was made of the marriage of her daughter, Ruth, to Mr. John Thomas Stone. The marriage took place on January 11, but had not previously been made known outside the family.

Mrs. Stone is the older daughter of Prof. and Mrs. Ellis, and a graduate of Maryville College in the class of 1926. She has taught Science since her graduation, and has done graduate work in the University of Louisville. Mr. Stone, of the class of 1928, was an all-round athlete during his college days, and is now a star of the Detroit Tigers base ball club.

Mr. and Mrs. Stone are now in Chicago attending the Century of Progress, after which they will go to Wisconsin for a vacation of several weeks. They will be at home during the winter months near Nashville.

Julia Terry, '32 is studying toward her Master's degree at Wittenberg College and teaching at Fairview High School in Dayton.

Mildred Purviance, '33, has organized and is directing an orchestra in Dayton.

Benjamin Grooves, '33, is attending the graduate school of Public Welfare Training of the University of Cincinnati as a candidate for the degree of Master of Arts.

Hallowe'en Parties Planned By Classes

Preliminary arrangements have been made for the freshman and sophomore Hallowe'en parties. The Freshman party will be in the Alumni Gymnasium on October 30.

The Sophomores plan to hold their party in the basement of the Baptist Church on the evening of the 31st. A short program and refreshments will provide for the first half of the evening; a theater party will follow. Tickets for this are on sale and may be purchased from Edward Friar.

Glee Club Members Chosen For Year

The Glee Singers for the coming year are as follows:

First Tenors—Andrew Alexander, Charles Orner, Sam Waid, Paul McCandless, Dean Mack, George Lehr.

Second Tenors—Jesse Willis, Gordon Grooms, Lloyd Wells, Taylor Farrar, Robert Lodwick.

First Base—Francis Huber, Randolf Snider, Rey Burkhalter, Harry K. Paul, Douglas Woods.

Second Base—Roland Beck, Gordon Courtenay, Kenneth Van Hee, James Laing, Carl Fisher.

No definite plans have been made as yet, nor no definite date set for the annual concert.

Home Economics Club

The Home Economics Club met Wednesday evening with Pauline Throne presiding. Charlotte Ferris was elected vice-president. Ruby Smith and Marjorie Jones presented a skit, and Ruth Flint gave a musical number. After a contest, tea and sandwiches were served.

Spanish Club

Officers elected at the meeting of the Spanish Club Tuesday evening are: Mimi Baez, president; Frank Thornbill, vice president; Louis Krainock, secretary-treasurer; Lorena May Dunlap and Theron Alexander, program secretaries. The next meeting will be held Tuesday evening, October 24.

"MELODY CRUISE" MUSICAL CONTINUITY

"Melody Cruise" is not a musical comedy in the accepted sense of the word, but the first musical movie conforming to screen rather than stage standards, it is said of the RKO-Radio Picture which opens at the Palace Theatre next Monday and Tuesday with Charlie Ruggles, Phil Harris, Greta Nissen and Helen Mack in the leading featured roles.

The picture marks an innovation in motion picture musical productions, according to director Mark Sandrich. Parading chorines, wailing sopranos, and lugrubious crooners, believed the bane of the former musical films, are absent in "Melody Cruise". In their stead are assembled rhythms and incidental songs which weave easily into the continuity. The thirty-six girls who provide the brilliant background of feminine pulchritude actually have bit roles in the picture, and are not introduced as an interruption. By clever devices the songs are made part of the story; musical dialogue supplants spoken dialogue.

Trick photographic effects were created to achieve harmonic novelties in "Melody Cruise". Fish are shown dancing on the waves. Stars form music bars and shimmering notes in the skies. Steamship whistles of varied tones unite in a symphony. An ocean liner waltzes on its stern in the harbor.

A cast of comedy favorites was selected to enact the sophisticated frivolity of the story. Charlie Ruggles heads the group, which includes Phil Harris, celebrated radio crooner and orchestra leader at the Cocoanut Grove in Los Angeles; Greta Nissen, Helen Mack, June Brewster, Shirley Chambers, Chick Chandler, Florence Roberts and Marjorie Gateson.

Collegiate Swaps

The DePauw University newspaper, The DePauw, has added an eight-page rotogravure supplement to its Monday edition. The new section is the Collegiate Digest, a publication of the National Scholastic Press Association and available to all its members.

Results of tests made at Clemson College in South Carolina proved that only 17 out of 315 freshman men were non-swimmers. Classes have already been organized to teach the uninitiated the first principles of the sport. It would seem that a boy who doesn't swim just isn't in it at Clemson, that's all!

The Lenoir Rhynean, of Hickory, North Carolina, devoted considerable space in a recent issue to a psycho-analysis of the average Lenoir Rhyne freshman. The article ends with an admonition to the upper classman to test his own character by his efforts to be diplomatic in situations involving freshmen, an admonition, which after all puts the responsibility on other shoulders than those of the freshman.

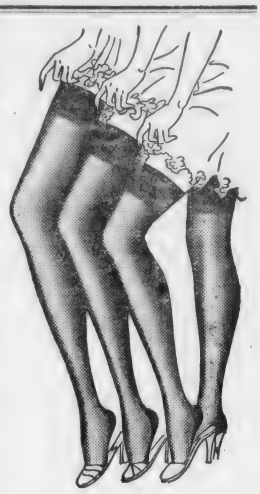
An editorial in The Kentucky Kernel suggests the possibility of a polo team at the University of Kentucky. Coming from a university located in the heart of the Bluegrass country world famous for its fine horses, that is not an unlikely suggestion.

Miss Ruth Eshelman, of Dayton, Ohio, a student at Maryville College in 1929, announced her marriage to Leland Schlitz, of Dayton, on September 7th.

German Club

The German Club met for the first time in Theta Hall Thursday after supper. Since the club had not been organized, the program consisted mainly of German folk songs sung in unison.

CARLISLE'S
5c AND 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage



WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

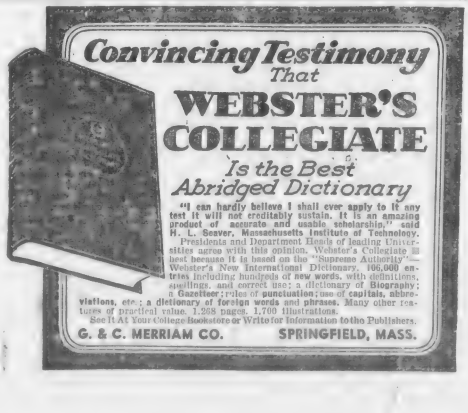
Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*Direct connections to Townsend

All three are size 9½!



These stockings are proportioned to fit every type of leg exactly, in width and length as well as footsize

Remember, even expensive stockings often fit poorly. But you need never again have trouble finding a stocking to fit you perfectly. Our exquisite belle-sharmeer stockings are made in different proportions to fit every type of woman... small, tall, and medium... in width, length and footsize. Sold here exclusively in chiffons, service chiffons and service weights, in all the smartest shades.

brev... for small women
modite... for medium sizes
duchess... for tall types classic... for larger legs

belle-sharmeer
STOCKINGS
designed for the individual
Price
$1.00, $1.35, $1.65
Chandler-Singleton Co.
DEPARTMENT STORE

Monroe's Confectionery and Lunch
On College Street
Your patronage is appreciated

Echo Sports

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

As tonight's all-important tilt with King College remains but a few hours away, there are still some items concerning the line-up, which, when settled, will tend either to raise or lower the Highlanders' spirits. The possibility of Collins having to warm the bench with an infected foot, and that Kalman and Atkins will not be in top shape because of injury and a cold, bode no good for the home gridders. This means that the Scotties will have to call out that extra bit of reserve fight to make up for the possible loss of either of these men, for King is out for blood, and incidentally, the Smoky Mountain conference.

—S—

King will be toting that same backfield combination which tore through the Scotties last year, but their line will be weak. With our line somewhat heavier than previously we should be able to stop any attack through that part. The most we can concede King College is a tie game, but on the other hand we can't conscientiously predict a difference of more than one touchdown. Knowing full well that we need this game to win the conference championship, the Scots will put all they have, regardless of the handicap of three stellar players.

—S—

One woman on this campus, and the only one we've ever known quite like her, can talk football till the cows come home, and feel perfectly at ease in doing it. She can talk the average sports writer, who is supposed to know a thing or two about it, to the floor with very little effort, for she knows the good book "Football" from kivver to kivver. Far into the dusk of a chilly afternoon, when most college profs are nestled comfortably behind a warm stove reading a newspaper, Miss Heron can be seen sitting in her car on the field watching the scrimmage as it moves up and down the gridiron. She can tell you the best men on the squad, and the weaknesses of the poorer ones. She's a backer of the team, and if you don't believe it, ask her about our chances in the Smoky Mountain Conference.

—S—

And so saith Captain Russell, who with that ol' familiar grin of his gave the boys a jolt as he started to the stage for yell-leader tryouts at the pep session. Russell reflected the spirit of the whole team when he said, "Aw, we'll beat 'em by two or three touchdowns, but it won't be easy."

—S—

Word comes that Ellsworth Vines has turned pro on the boys.

Well, well, Ellsworth!

ARTISTIC APPRECIATION

Tramp: "Will you give a poor, old broken college graduate a few morsels to stay his gnawing hunger?"

Lady (after giving tramp a hot meal): "The wood pile is in the back yard."

Tramp (showing interest): "My, what a splendid place for a wood pile."—Aggievator.

A man in the dumps has no business making a speech on deformities

Wright's 5&10c Store
"Where a little money goes a long way"

SCOTS MEET KING TONIGHT

Tussle May Decide Smoky Mountain Conference Champ

Highlanders Enthusiastic As Squad Pulls Out Amid Student Cheers. Coaches Confident of Victory.

COLLINS MAY SEE ACTION

Riding a wave of high enthusiasm, Coach Honaker and his Highlanders left here this morning for Bristol, where they will meet King College tonight in what might possibly be the decision of the 1933 Smoky Mountain Conference championship. This since King is recognized to have one of the most potent teams in the conference and because Coach Honaker has in his 1933 Scots an aggregation on par or better than any in the past several years. He has power and speed in his line, power, speed and deception in his backs, and a well-oiled whole which should be able to take King's measure.

The starting line-up given out by Coach Honaker boasts Atkins and Kalman at ends, two flankmen totally capable of coping with anything King or any other conference foe might have to offer. In reserve, he has such luminaries as Gwynn, Kosloski and Chambers, all fighters. At tackles, Mose Gamble and Cochrane are slated to receive the call, both two hundred pounders with plenty of power. Buck Millsaps will be ready and waiting to relieve either. At guards Klink and Atchison will begin the affray, both of whom have shown piles of aggression in previous contests. Pieper and Holladay are in reserve. At center, Captain "Finklestein" Russell will hold the fort; about whom nothing need be said. Bailey, sophomore, will relieve him. Toots Blazer will direct the destinies of the group to start, with Boretsky and Johnny Kiser at halves. Martin Gillespie will open at full.

Previous information to the contrary, Batty Collins will make the trip, and will probably see action. He is troubled with an infection on his foot, but has been fitted with special shoes, and will most likely make his thrice-welcome (to the Scots) appearance on the King field tonight. With West waiting to take his turn at quarter, Collins itching to relieve Gillespie and Loessberg, Payne, Ladd, and Crawford in reserve, the backfield should be well supplied with material.

King will begin an outfit practically intact from last season, the outfit which smoothly marched its way to a three touchdown victory over Maryville here last year. In spite of this the ECHO is picking the Highlanders improved machinery to take the Tornado's measure.

Seeded Players Advance To Third Round In Women's Tennis Tourney

The Girls Tennis Tournament, though there were comparatively few entries, is progressing finely.

The third round has just been completed. The seeded players are: Eleanor Johnson, Margaret Cooley, Lucille Swafford, Mary Gillingham, Ruth Doty.

No outstanding new player was discovered in the tournament, and all the new girls were eliminated in the first rounds.

Practice this week has been devoted largely to a polisihng off of a pass attack, a weapon which has proved very effective in the last pair of encounters and which should be aired considerably this evening in Bristol, very probably to the discomfiture of the Tornado. With West and Boretsky tossing them, and Atkins and Kiser in there to receive, forward passing business should look up considerably.

But life is not all chicken and gravy. For, on Wednesday, the Bulldog reserves, using the King plays, practically stopped the Highlander varsity cold. More attention has been given to this matter but it still lingers in the minds of all who saw.

Those same Bulldogs were scheduled to an encounter with Knoxville High Schools "B" outfit, but the match was cancelled by the coaches due to injuries and lack of men on the reserve squad.

The Scots are in Bristol. In a few hours they will tackle King College. In a few more hours they will return home, we predict, victors.

It is very likely that Great Brittin will offer a token payment similar to that of last June when the next installment of her debt falls due on December 15.

Faculty Tie Varsity In First Tennis Meet

Pre-season Tilt Catches Varsity Squad Off Balance

Behind three matches to two at a time when all respectable tennis meets should be at an end, the faculty doubles team of Fischbach and Queener played into the twilight to tie the varsity-faculty meet at three-all last Saturday afternoon, defeating Horne and Van Hee in two sets.

Gillingham defeated Queener, Horne defeated Smith, and Talmadge downed Fischbach to score for the varsity, while Dr. Lloyd beat Karnell, Smith and Lloyd defeated Karnell and Gillingham, and Fischbach and Queener won to the credit of the faculty.

After losing the first set, Talmadge settled down to a slow, sure game to upset Fischbach in the next two sets. Karnell was unable to cope with the low chops of Dr. Lloyd. The other matches were pretty much in the bag.

THE LATEST METHOD

These sophomores are really instituting things into this collge. The latest accomplishment is one that in its entirety doesn't particularly harm us. . . . and that is the plan of having the yearlings do clean up work for the upperclassmen. . which includes the sophomores. . . according to the sophomores. The latest plan is that used by the residents of a third floor room who had three freshmen cleaning the room, which meant scrubbing (after sweeping), making the beds, and waxing and polisihng the floor. They had one other freshman on the scene also who didn't have to work. He was supposed to look on in order that he'd know how to do it next week.

Because a man happens to be extravagant with his love is no sign that he will ever come to want.

Frosh, Sophs Vie For Athletic Cup

Frosh Outdistance Older Foes In One-sided Tilt To Win 14-6

Led by a rising spirit of revenge for all the affronts suffered at the hands of the upperclassmen, a disorganized, green frosh football squad Wednesday tore through a weak junior eleven to score two touchdowns with extra points, as against one down for the juniors.

Freshmen took a good lead early in the second quarter when McGuire galloped sixty yards to score on a pass from Hewlitt. From then on they were never threatened until the last quarter as the juniors drove down the field to the two yard stripe, pushing the pig thru a ragged line for a score. Try for point failed, and with only minutes of play left, the juniors contented themselves with holding the frosh.

Sophomores Score Touchdown In Last Minute Pass Over Goal Line

In the last fifty seconds of a hard fought game the sophomore gridders scored an only touchdown on a pass over the goal line from Horne to Snedecker to down the seniors 6-0 last Tuesday afternoon. The game was characterized by ragged play on both sides, altho the sophs were deep in senior territory most of the time. The breaks were about even, altho the seniors had no chance to do much but punt up and down the field.

Triangle Club

The Triangle Club, composed of students from Pennsylvania, New York and New Jersey, met Wednesday night, with John Eyster in charge. Harry Walrond made a welcoming speech, and Douglas Carhart gave a reading.

KODAK FINISHING
For Best Results and Permanent Prints
BRING YOUR FILMS
TO
THE WEBB STUDIO
220 College Street

57 VARIETIES PLUS
— AT THE —
Y. M. and Y. W. Stores
MANAGERS
Ernest Coldwell Lorena May Dunlap

STUDENTS...
FOR YOUR CONVENIENCE
... THE ...
BYRNE DRUG CO.
Will give Quarterly Reports of the Maryville-King Football Game

OBSERVATIONS

ONE

Speak of the man of the hour and he'll appear. We didn't believe that very strongly up until today, but now we do; and we do because no sooner had we made a couple cracks about the one great Arthur Lazell until here did he come with bells on and glad tidings from Elizabethton. We understand that Art got a ride from New York to Washington, and one from Washington to Knoxville, but he had a flat tire to fix in Elizabethton on the way and had to cancel the rest of the ride.

TWO

If things don't continue at too much of a pace, we think we're also enjoying the duel going on in the uncalled-for-mail box in the post office between brothers Walrond and Gillander respectively. . . respectively, probably, because Walrond wrote the first card. Mr. Gillander had to go and get too informative in his little note, in the things he told and the way he told them. By "the way", we mean that he wrote it in that Gillander handwriting, and that's enough to give any person away.

THREE

We've made and heard made a number of cracks about our freshman class, usually relative to the fact that they don't possess either the brains or the looks of our last year's freshman class. At least that's our very humble opinion, and we haven't had much trouble finding people to agree with us. The "looks" part applies, of course, only to the girlies. We do see one thing blossoming out rather early, however, if you permit us to say it, and that is the future intelligentsia clique, or the clique that would call itself that, in the persons of the three town damsels, namely, Miss Ruth Proffitt (daughter of Mr. F. L. Proffitt), Miss Sarah Lois Brown (daughter of Mr. Brownie Engineer Brown), and Miss Mary Lillian Crawford (of the Maryville Crawfords and the Mississippi McQueens) We're not kicking you understand. . . . just predicting.

FROM FOUR TO SIX

There are three things that we think of just now (that is, in the realm of publishable material) that we don't like, and they are all relative to the general situation in Carnegie Hall. We don't like to hear brother Chittick making more noise than all of his competitors (not excluding Mr. Chenault) all of the time. We think someone else should make noise, or possibly that Mr. Chittick would make less noise, maybe? And then we'd like a little rest from the established habit on practically everyone's part of trying to talk like Mr. McCurry. This little old tendency has grown so strong that we feel we'd like to wring the neck of any of the following three men, Mr. Reeder Carson, Mr. Clifton Moore, and Mr. Donald Briggs, who are according to alumni accounts, the originators of this practice.

THEN THESE FELLERS

There's little need of saying that we'd like to do away with cleaners and pressers entirely. We can't do that, it has been found after investigation along that line, so as one alternative we'd like for them to be limited in the time during which they roam up and down the board walks of our hallways. We'd suggest only three days, at the most, during the week, and from 6:25 until 6:50 during these three days. If our pal, Mr. McCurry, should happen to read this and regard it as a petition, it would be much pleasing to us.

WE WANT BEER

We ventured from the hill in the usual way to call on Mr. Judkins long enough to see our quarter's worth of "Voltaire" last week, and managed in the course of the picture to get one laugh, and that wasn't Mr. Arliss' fault. Mr. Arliss may be excused in that he wasn't out to make us bray or anything of the sort. We suggested to our rear man, Mr. Fred Kirchner, who only happened to be there, that the movie tone transmutation of the sound "Vive Voltaire" sounded to us like "We want beer". Mr. Kirchner countered with the suggestion that there was nothing the matter with that since "Voltaire" sounds so much like "Volstead".

KIRCHNER REPLACES BEALE

And later in the week while we were trying to locate, in the routine matter of moonshining, Mr. Kirchner was again at our right hand, being, however, under changed conditions. You know Veta Mae. We were trying to retain, or at least attain, our position on one particular patch of ground covered well with green grass, but Mr. Kirchner held right in there and he had only one justification for such procedure. He claimed to have "squatter's sovereignty" over that patch of ground. After that statement we went away. . . . . to the other side of the campus.

SHE BECAME VIOLENT

To the senior class we go, and to the botany laboratory to report a recent discovery of Miss Viola Lightfoot, one of the more erudite seniors. Vola was playing around with a microscope in the usual fashion recently and discovered on the end on which her eye wasn't, a very unusual spectacle, marvelous to behold. It had all sorts of colors, it did all sorts of stunts, maneuvers, etc. (except to move) and she was about to report it to Miss (whoever teaches Botany) when she looked at it with the naked eye and discovered her phenomenal sight to be only the label on the glass slide. Viola reports that she has ceased to believe what she sees on the label.

Two seamen were killed and fourteen seriously hurt last Sunday by a terrific explosion, followed by fire, aboard a British submarine.

BAND

(Continued from page one)

Waggoner, Gordon Grooms.

Trombone—James Ferger, Horace Brown, Joe Montgomery.

Drum—John Cherault, Joe Wilkerson.

Cymbals—William Dorons.

The band has no definite plans for the coming year but they are consideirng a program which would include classical as well as marching music and which would be given some afternoon or evening.

NEWS SQUINTS

(Continued From Page One)

to join the society will be received tonight.

Both women's societies received many new girls last Saturday night. To any girl, however, who still wishes to join either society, the opportunity is still open.

Tonight Bainonian's program will present, "The History of Bainonian".

At a meeting of the Pre-Medical Club held Tuesday, October 3, in the philosophy classroom the following officers were elected:

President—Randolf Shields

Vice President—Cecilia Conover

Secy.-Treas.—Mary E. Himmelright

As all the members of the club were not present it was decided to elect the program secretary at the next meeting.

Dr. Crowder gave a very interesting talk on the "Seriousness of the Medical Professsion". After his talk he answered many questions about various phases of the profession.

SMOKY MOUNTAINS

(Continued from page one)

o' the mountain no longer holds so much interest for the visitor, and he has lost sight, temporarily, of the beauties of the hills.

Looking down to the north from the height of Indian Gap on any spring or summer day, one is aware that he is above the clouds, for he sees them as great ships floating toward their destined harbor. The raindrops falling beneath the sun are like globules of gold, and above them the white clouds chase each other like piratical vessels on some great ocean. Soon they become exhausted, and the river-tide becomes great and flows with rapidity.

There are but few days in the year that the rain doesn't fall, or, in winter time, the snow. The snow is driven haphazardly up the valleys, and drifts, often to the depth of ten or fifteen feet. In the springtime herders often lose sheep in these drifts, and men, too, have been known to perish in the severe snow and cold of the higher mountains. As the snow melts it seeps down through the ground, forming the springs of cold, clear mountain water we talk so much about.

The red man found the sparkling water from these mountain springs to be healthful and refreshing; little wonder that he was here content to rest in his search for territory which he could call his home. The deep, unexplored fastnesses urged him on in his quest for game. The wild, elusive deer excited his passion for the hunt. The stocky thigh of the bear fed him, and the soft fur dressed him warmly.

But the wildness of those times has nearly vanished, and many secrets of the red man's history lie sleeping beneath the bulging rocks, never to be brought to light. His treasures lie beside him buried forever. We can only look out over the ashes of his fires and wonder, for his god protects him from our inquisitive and snatching fingers.

In place of the treasured Indian lore, which the mountains have hidden from us, we find, undoubtedly, the finest growth of shrubs of known area in the world. Perhaps the most famous shrub of the Great Smokies is the rhododendron. The mountain streams are bordered with rhododendrons and laurel, and the slopes are thick with flame azalea and wild honeysuckle beneath the dense stand of trees.

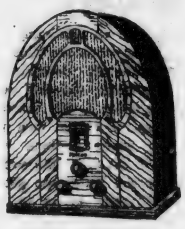
Since the changing of the Great Smokies into a national park, they have only begun to revel in the glory which has been always theirs. As the coolness of their shadows steals out over the valleys at sundown, the watcher is overcome with a vague, simple awe which no words can explain. Those who visit these wonder mountains find them to be indeed, as they are called by those who know them well, "the friendliest mountains in the world".

DR. S. D. MOUNT
Dentist
First National Bank Bldg.
Phone 323

Delicious
Home Made Candies
.. At ..
Reagan's Cafe
We appreciate your patronage

NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY
Always at your service

PALACE THEATRE
NEXT WEEK
MON.-TUES.



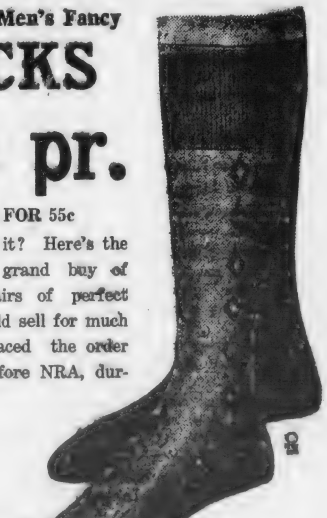
MELODY CRUISE
With
CHARLIE RUGGLES
PHIL HARRIS
GRETA NISSEN, MARJORIE GATESON, VIRGINIA MACK, Chick Chandler, Jane Growster, Shirley Chambers
Music and lyrics by Will Jason and Val Burton
Directed by Mark Sandrich
Marian C. Cooper, executive producer. Associate producer Louis Brock
An RKO-RADIO Picture of course!

WEDNESDAY
Edward G. Robinson
.. In ..
"Tiger Shark"
Also Comedy

THURS.-FRI.
Kay Francis
.. In ..
Mary Stevens, M. D.

SATURDAY
"Lone Defender"
Comedy and Serial

NEW 1934
PHILCO
MODEL 60 B
A genuine PHILCO superheterdoyne with amazing new features. Glorious tone and remarkable performance. Also has Police and Aeroplane calls.



2750
Complete

All 1934 PHILCOS have Police and Aeroplane calls; in addition to regular Broadcasts.

STERCHI BROTHERS
"A SAFE PLACE TO TRADE"

SPECIAL SALE
1200 Pairs Men's Fancy
SOCKS
10c pr.
6 PAIRS FOR 55c

How can we do it? Here's the story of this grand buy of these 1200 pairs of perfect socks that should sell for much more. We placed the order months ago, before NRA, during the slow season. Buy several pairs at this low price.
Men's Dept.
Main Floor

Proffitt's The Students' Store Proffitt's

The Highland Echo

VOLUME ~~18~~ 19 | MARYVILLE. TENNESSEE OCTOBER 28, 1933 | NUMBER SIX

News Squints

Y. W. MEETING

The final meeting in the Y. W. C. A. series on "Full and Creative Life" comes tomorrow afternoon. The particular phase to be suggested is the "Christian Thought Life". Leola Halsey is conducting the meeting.

On November 5' Miss Merle Beebe will be the guest speaker.

Y. M. PROGRAM

Sunday, Oct. 29—1:15 p. m.
Prelude—Ensemble
Ecclesiastes 12—Clifford Williams
Song No. 232—Open My Eyes
Prayer—Ralph W. Hand, Jr.
The "C" in Y. M. C. A.—
Robert Godfrey, Arthur Herries
Special Music
Song No. 74—Break Thou The Bread of Life
Benediction—Wm. Paterson
Postlude

SPANISH CLUB

At their meeting Tuesday, October 24, the Spanish Club learned a number of Spanish games under the direction of Lorena May Dunlap. A Spanish song "El Periquito" was sung by the group. An effort was made to improve pronunciation on the part of the members by reading portions of Spanish books.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB

The Home Economics Club met Wednesday, October 25 in the Home Economics rooms. The first part of the meeting was given over to a business discussion. Later in the evening, Lorena May Dunlap related the history of Hallowe'en, and Pat Perry recited a Hallowe'en story.

BUCKEYE BRIEFS

Approximately twenty-five students from all parts of Ohio assembled in Bainonian Hall Wednesday evening for a short and snappy business meeting. The following officers were elected for the first semester:

President—Gordon Grooms
Vice-President—Blee Carpenter
Secretary-Treasurer— Herbert Hunt
Program Secy.—Mary Himmelright
Eleanor Craebing
Sergeant-at-Arms—Louis Kalman

The activity of the Sergeant-at-Arms was an outstanding contribution to the evening's enjoyment.

GEORGIA CLUB

At a meeting of the Georgia Club, held in Theta Hall on Thursday, October 19, at 6:30, the following officers were elected:

President—Helen Rusk
Vice President—Phil Cory
Secretary—Mary Rink
Treasurer—Julia Rink
Program Secretaries—Sara Lou Barron, Helen Woodward

CHEMISTRY CLUB

On Tuesday evening, October 23, at 6:30, the Chemistry Club met in the chemistry lecture room in Science Hall. After old and new business had been discussed, the speaker of the evening was presented. The speaker, Mr. Charles "Buck" Ellis, a former student of the college, gave a very interesting talk on the subject, "Portland Cement". His talk was enjoyed by all those who were present. All students who are interested in chemistry are invited to attend the meetings.

There is a very serious question as to whether our free education system can continue.—Belmont Farley.

"The Gentle Rogue" Alpha Sigma Choice

Cast Includes Many Old Favorites From Last Year

Alpha Sigma's play committee has selected "The Gentle Rogue" by John C. Brownell for their annual midwinter production.

The cast, which was chosen this week, is as follows:

David West—Michael Testa
Ruth Conklin—Edwina Lowe
Peter West—Newman Smith
Dick West—Glover Leitch
Henry West—Carl Fisher
Abby Gates—Mary E. Harrison
Tom West—J. Ferger
Duncan MacInness MacFarlane MacGregor—Alex Christie
Nick Thompson—Reuben Alford
Oscar Haviland—James Gibbs
Steve Bulger—Eccles Huff
Sam Hoyt—Erving Hardy
C. J. Henderson—Roland Beck
Susie—Mary Gladys Brown
Lucy West—Blanche Webb
Society Women—Florence Hyde, Nell Jo Knight, Mary Gillingham

The stage manager of "The Gentle Rogue" will be Ernest Lowe, who showed his ability in last year's production, "The Bat". His assistant will be Malvern Clopton, also a member of last year's stage crew. Jesse Willis and John McQueen will share responsibility of the business and publicity of the play. The property manager will be John Eyster.

Maryville Debaters Commence Activities

Question Is Chosen. Evenings Open For All Who Are Interested

With the formation of a debate class for the second successive year, Maryville College's debaters, orators, and extempore speakers are being appointed for the national convention of Pi Kappa Delta, honorary forensic fraternity, at Lexington, Kentucky, next spring.

Earle W. Crawford is president of the class, Ercelle Hunter is vice-president, and Maria Wynn is secretary. The thirty-four students in the group meet every Tuesday night from 7 to 8, and on Thursday morning for criticism of the speakers at the Tuesday meeting. Orations, extempore speaking, and debates constitute the evening programs.

The intercollegiate question this year is, "Resolved, That the powers of the President of the U. S. should be substantially increased as a settled policy." Representatives of Maryville in any forensic contest will be chosen from this class. Evening sessions will be open to any persons who may wish to attend.

Candle Service In Chapel Sunday Night

New Officers Will Replace Old In Impressive Ceremony

An active membership list for the Y.W.C.A. has been completed during the week, made up of all girls who wish to be bona fide members of the Association. A surprisingly large number of new girls have signed the purpose cards and all old girls have been invited to do the same if they had not already done so.

Active membership entitles one to vote and to hold office on the Y. W. Cabinet. The Y. rooms themselves are for the use of every girl in the college if she observes the regulations that are posted.

Tomorrow night, following vespers, there will be a candle-light service in recognition of the new members. A rehearsal in the chapel wil take place in the afternoon immediately after the Sunday Y. W. meeting. Every girl expecting to take part, both new and old members, should be at the rehearsal. White dresses are to be worn in the candle-light ceremony.

It is expected that many town people will be present at what promises to be an impressive service. Clark Lathan and Glover Leitch will provide the musical background in a violin duet. In the tradition of candle-light, the light will be passed on from the old members to the new with all the girls uniting in "Follow The Gleam" at the close.

Barr Will Lecture At Ministerial Open Meet

Interesting Program Will Feature "Open House" Conference

Something new! An "open-house" program by the Ministerial Association.

The Association invites every student and faculty member to attend this program on Friday, November 3 at 7 p. m. in the Philosophy classroom, Thaw Hall.

The main part of the program will be an illustrated lecture by Winn T. Barr on "Fulfilled Prophecies that Prove the Bible". It is said that no one can see with an unbiased mind the actual photographs of fulfilled prophecy that will be shown and go away from the lecture doubting the inspiration and infallibility of the Scriptures.

The program will be short and contain other features, including selections by the Association quartet.

Student Conference Held At Tusculum

Delegates From Maryville Will Attend Three Day Session

The East Tennessee Student Conference is being held at Tusculum College, Greenville, Tennessee, October 28-29.

Delegates from Maryville are: Winn T. Barr, President of the Conference; Robert W. Tripp, Carl S. Fisher, Ernest B. Lowe, Michael P. Testa, and Warren W. Warman.

The following is the tentative program for the conference:—

SATURDAY

5:00 to 6:00 p. m.—Registration
6:00 to 7:00 p. m.—Supper and Social Hour
7:00 to 8:30 p. m.—Address on the Conference Theme—Dr. Foster, Dean of Tusculum
Discussion Period

SUNDAY

8:30 a. m.—Breakfast
9:30 a. m.—Address on "Implications of Conference Theme"
Discussion Period
10:45 a. m.—Dr. W. A. Crozier
12:00 Noon to 1:30 p. m.—Dinner and Social Hour
1:30 p. m. to 2:00 p. m.—Business Session
2:00 p. m. to 3:00 p. m.—"Evaluation of Theme"—Dr. Guerrant of L. M. U.

Nine Freshmen Get Places With Echo

Further Tryouts Will Be Given Later

Nine freshmen were given positions as apprentices on the HIGHLAND ECHO staff this week by the action of the committee on Student Publications. This is less than the usual number, due to the fact that there seemed to be a dearth of writing ability in this year's class. Fifty pepole were chosen from the class of three hundred and given opportunity for a further try-out. Many of these submitted papers and from them the ECHO picked its new material. Tryouts for those interested will be continued, however, and three more apprentices added if possible.

Those who will serve as apprentices are Helen Chambers, Ann McCambridge, Frances Henson, Mary Porter Hatch, Bernice Gaines, Edward Thorn, Douglass Woods, Richard Meadows, and Boyce Jarman.

At a picnic in the woods, Friday, November 3, initiation of the new members will take place.

Miss Holland and Hugh Powell have been in the hospital this past week suffering from influenza.

Lenoir-Rhyne Defeats Scots Machine, 7-0

Highly Strung Bears Take Honaker's Measure In Ragged Tilt

BORETSKY, COLLINS, STAR

Pat Shores brought a fighting passel of Bears across the hills from Lenoir-Rhyne and turned them on his ex-coach Friday night to take said coach's number for a 7-0 whitewash. Although the Scots were in the best of form, the Carolinians proved themselves masters of the situation at all times and made their lone touchdown the margin of victory.

The Bear score came early in the first period, when a blocked Maryville punt rolled out of bounds on the ten-yard stripe. Three line smashes took the ball to the one yard line, and Newton slipped off left guard for the score. Mauney passed to Newton for the extra point.

The second period saw the Highlanders in scoring position, with a first down on Lenoir-Rhyne's eleven. Three plays, however, only netted four yards and a pass on fourth down fell ineffectual in the end zone. The visitors kicked out and Maryville began another drive with a pass, West to Atkins which took the oval to the thirty yard line. The Bear line stiffened here, however, and the half ended with the Scotties in possession of the ball on the Bear twenty-five.

The third period opened with another Lenoir drive, which seemed headed for another touchdown, after a pass which carried the ball to Maryville ten. Three plays advanced three yards and a pass into the end zone fell to the earth from the apparently lackadaisical hands of an enemy receiver. The Scots failed to make first down from the twenty and kicked safely out of danger.

The fourth quarter was the slowest of the four, punctuated profusely with the customary last minute passes, all to no avail.

By far the shining star of the evening was Newton, at half for the visitors. Slashing, dashing, and smashing his way, he made himself exceedingly unpopular with Scots, both players and fans. This because of his almost unerring ability to pick up yardage on his jaunt around the ends. His running mate, Mills, also showed up well, as did Captain Hemphill at center and Bumgartner at end.

For Maryville, Boretsky and West were the offensive luminaries. Although Boretsky had more trouble in puncturing the Bear line than usual, he was the most consistent ground-gainer for the Scots. On the defensive, Gillespie showed great form, as did Collins, who took the center position on defense. Chambers looked great at defensive end play, while Atchison showed more in the line.

Gene McMurray, another of Honaker's ex-proteges, entertains the Highlanders in Johnson City as the Scots play another conference foe, East Tennessee Teachers.

The line-ups:

Maryville 0		Lenoir-Rhyne 7
Chambers	l.e.	Padgett
Cochrane	l.t.	Geitner
Pieper	l.g.	Reynolds
Russell	c.	Hepmhill
Atchison	r.g.	Poovey
Gamble	r.t.	Icard
Kalman	r. e.	Bumgartner

(Continued on page three)

A BOOMERANG BOOMERANGS—A LA CHRISTIE

Once upon a time there was a worm who disliked the wealth, and power, and influence of a certain king. The worm, so Aesop tells us, tried to belittle the king in the eyes of the world by burrowing at the foundations of his palace, in hope of bringing it down in ruins. The worm burrowed for months and months, but still the palace stood. Finally the pesky animal came up for a look at the sunlight and finding itself far removed from its mama worm died, homesick and lonely. Moral: freshmen should not.

The last issue of the ECHO carried some thoughts of a freshman about the soph-o-mores. (Who gave the freshman the right to think anyway?) While we do not wish to lower the dignity of this August (Septmeber and October) publication, we cannot let these freshman aspersions go unchallenged, and so we counter with some remarks of our own. Because articles in this paper are censored and because there are libel laws, we cannot express all our thoughts, but we'll do what we can.

The biggest kick we have against the freshmen is the way they assail tradition. Take the matter of manners in Pearsons. By what right does a freshman insist on calling the Old Lady (bless her!) "Syrup", and to say "please" when asking for it?

Not content with an attempt to elevate manners in the dining hall, they must seek to uplift our musical taste in Carnegie by rendering Max Romaninoff's Prelude in B sharp and other such piffle. Let them understand once and for all that the pie-anna in Carnegie Parlors (there largely through the instrumentality of A. Peru Duff) is for such melodies as "East Side, West Side", "Marching through Georgia", or "Peeling Potatoes". Of course it may be used also for a Sunday morning hymn sing, but with no-

(Continued on page four)

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors
Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor
Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - - Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - - Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs
Katharine Orr - - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - - Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - - Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - - Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Business
Jesse Willis - Business Manager
Sam Waid - - - Asst. Bus. Mgr.
G. Edward Friar - Asst. Bus. Mgr.

Subscription Rates - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, October 28, 1933

Out of the national confusion of the past few months has arisen a veritable host of new organizations, movements, and plans, all with a single purpose—the economics recovery of the United States. Most of these recent innovations acknowledge as their source President Franklin D. Roosevelt, whose power is almost dictatorial, and upon whose plans depends the economic and governmental outcome of the country.

Without a doubt, the greatest of the aforesaid movement is the N. R. A., the code by provision of which everybody works less, everybody works, and everybody receives greater remuneration. The blue eagle, symbolic of national recovery through increased employment, improved industrial conditions, and consequently better living conditions, has flown from ocean to ocean, from the Mexican Gulf to the Canadian Dominion, and the man who refuses to display the N.R.A. insignia in the window of his place of business is branded a slacker.

Second only to the N.R.A. is the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, whose duty is to pour into the yawning coffers of yawning little cities enough lucre to arouse them from economic lethargy. Millions of dollars are being spent in the rehabilitation of towns, the refinancing of banks, and the etxension of public works programs. Loans, extending over a period of ten to twenty-five years, with low rates of interest, are the most frequent forms of R. F. C. aid.

Speaking in local terms, there is the Tennessee Valley Authority, the medium through which the people in the vicinity of Coal Creek are being saved—by a dam site. It is through the T.V.A. that all the little streamlets and all the little pondlets of East Tennessee would fain become electric current with which to run the state's machines, give voices to the state's radios and illumine the state's homes. One of its chief functions is to provide employment for job-hungry men.

Also important, in regard to the unemployment situation is the Civilian Conservation Corps. By the thousands young recruits from all parts of the country are carrying on the work of conservation of government timber tracts, reforestation, and development of national sylvan resources.

So, despite pessimistic ultimata, which would consign our country to the canines, there is yet hope, for, with F. D. R. at the helm, N.R.A. sweeping the decks, R.F.C. filling deflated soils, and the C.C.C. replacing broken masts, our ship of state cannot be incarceratad by Davy Jones.

With the Volunteers

One of the most active groups on the Hill is the Student Volunteer Group. Meetings are held every Sunday night in Bainonian Hall immediately after Vespers. These meetings are open to all and a cordial invitation is extended to the entire student body to attend. For the five meetings which have been held this year, the attendance has averaged 110.

The Student Volunteer Movement is a student Christian missionary fellowship devoted to extending and deepening missionary interest among college students. To promote that missionary interest programs are presented at the Sunday evening meetings of decidedly practical worth. Missionaries on furlough have addressed the group in recent weeks, and in the next three weeks will be given programs dealing with National Missions and with conditions in Korea or India.

The activities of the group are not confined to the Sunday evening meetings. Last Saturday thirty-five attended the Annual Fall Picnic in the wood and are looking forward eagerly to the next social event of the year.

Further activities are the sponsoring of the World News Bulletin issued each Tuesday morning, and the maintaining of a missionary library. Additional details of the Student Volunteer library will be forthcoming shortly.

The Annual Fall Retreat of the Tennessee Student Volunteer Union is being held in Nashville this week end. Six Maryville students are attending the Retreat. The president of the Union is Elizabeth Gillis, a Maryville senior.

Tomorrow night the meeting of the Maryville group will be shorter than usual and will be held after the Y. W. installation service. The officers are anxious that every Maryville student know of the Student Volunteer Group on the campus, and they urge them to attend the meetings.

The Student Volunteer Band had its semi-annual picnic last Saturday afternoon in the college woods. One of the features of the entertainment was a hunt through the woods for particular leaves and flowers. The participants reassembled for other games and refreshments, which consisted of hot-dogs, doughnuts, marshmallows, and hot chocolate. The outing was planned by Hazel White and was chaperoned by Mr. L. A. Black.

Freshmen Elect Two Council Members

The Freshman class met Wednesday, October 16, for the purpose of electing Student Council representatives and athletic directors. The following members were chosen: Student Council representatives, Frank Smith, and Madeline Hennessee; athletic directors, Stanley Shields and Peter Kosloski.

At a meeting October 23, plans for a Hallowe'en party were discussed and reports were given from the various committees assigned to work out plans for the party. It was decided also that dues for the Freshman class this year will be seventy-five cents the first semester, fifty cents, the second. No freshman is entitled to go to the party who has not paid his dues.

New Method Provides For Social Calendar

In order to avoid confusion of dates, and to provide for a more satisfactory method of arranging social activities on "the Hill", the following steps are necessary. One must:

1. Secure an activities permit card from the Dean of Women who will enter the date of the proposed activity, add her signature and date.

2. Take this card to the Dean of Men who will reserve the date on his calendar and assign chaperones.

3. After the signature of the chaperones has been obtained on the card, return it to the Dean of Men's office, eight days before the proposed date, and the event will be officially entered on the social calendar.

Regular club metings or parties held in Pearsons Hall are not required to have chaperones. Departmental organizations (Home Economics Club, Pre-Medical Club, etc.) meeting in other buildings on the campus are to be under the direct supervision of departments. All mixed parties held off the campus are to be scheduled in the manner outlined above. General events such as society plays, musical programs, athletic games, and debates are to be arranged in the Dean's office eight days before the event takes place.

Bainonian Welcomes Many New Members

The Bainonian Literary Society at its first regular meeting on October 14 officially welcomed about eighty new members who pledged their support to the society and its activities. Marjorie Salmons, President of Bainonian, spoke first, greeting the new girls, and then turned the program over to the Program Secretary.

Miss Nellie Lord, one of Bainonian's charter members, read a paper she had written in 1913 concerning the organization of the association and the first few years of its career. Her word picture of the girls who originated the society in 1875, their clubroom, and their first activities was most vivid and amusing.

Following Miss Lord's talk a series of tableaux depicting costumes and customs of the various periods of Bainonian's life was presented by Mary Ellen Cramer, Ruth Farlee, Frances Biddle, Lorena May Dunlap, Grace Proffitt, Elizabeth Gillis, Theresa Frey, and Dorothy Nethery.

Home Ec Girls Take Trip To Mountains

On Saturday, October 21st, twenty girls went on the Home Ec week-end trip to Edith Burns' cabin, 3 miles beyond Townsend. The most noteworthy events of the week-end were the eats, the heat, and the fallen cot.

Upon arrival at the cabin, after a dusty hayride, those girls not engaged as cooks for the evening meal wandered off to explore the surrounding country. After a most memorable supper, consisting mainly of ecellent oyster chowder, games were played. "Ugly Wugly" and "Campus Scandal" were the favorites.

Expecting an intensely cold night the week-enders unrolled the numerous camphor smelling blankets. The night, however, was warm, and few blankets were needed. Miss Brown, whose cot as unintentionally improperly set up, found herself, sometime during the night, in contact with the cold floor. Miss Meiselwitz, the other chaperone was more fortunate.

The group returned to the college on Sunday evening about 5:30.

Campus Improvements Develop Rapidly

Each day brings some added improvement on the work being done on the bank and lawn around Carnegie. This week hundreds of shrubs are being planted around Carnegie and work on a pool for birds has been begun. As soon as the old vines have been removed from the rest of the bank, shrubs will also be planted along the Court Street front.

Most of the walks running from Carnegie and Memorial to the different flights of steps have been completed, and the new macadam road running behind the campus has recently been finished.

The faculty and student body feel very grateful for the gifts making these improvements possible; perhaps the only way we can show this appreciation is by using the new paths instead of walking over the grass. Our slogan must be: "Walk on the walks!"

AFTERNOON TEA GIVEN IN HONOR OF FACULTY

Y. W. C. A. Rooms Attractively Decorated

The Y. W. C. A. Rooms, decorated with the red and brown and yellow leaves of autumn, made an attractive background for the tea which was given by the Y. W. C. A. on the afternoon of October 20th in honor of the faculty. Members of the Advisory Board who were present were Miss Johnson, Miss Beebe, Mrs. Wright, Mrs. Lloyd, and Professor Lagerstedt.

A musical program was given by Joan Dexter, Opal Johnson, Marie Carlson, Charlotte Upp, Harriet Clark, and Ruth Flint.

Refreshments followed.

Mr. J. Alvin Keen, former director of the Presbyterian Choir, has secured a position at the University of Iowa, Iowa City. Mr. Keen, a graduate of the Westminster Choir School was also director of the newly formed Oratorio Society of Maryville which will give Handel's Messiah sometime in December. This group, consisting of 200 people, will continue its work under the direction of Miss Frances Henry.

Mountain Lovers Leave For Montvale Today

Twenty-five nature lovers left early this afternoon bound for Montvale Springs to see the mountains in their colorful autumn dress, to observe and to collect specimens, and to have a good time. Two important events of the afternoon will be a hike to Montvale Lake and a supper cooked over a campfire. Miss Bonnie Hudson will accompany the group, acting as chaperon and instructor. The party will return to Maryville sometime this evening.

STUDENT BODY ELECTS FOUR YELL LEADERS

Four men were elected as cheer leaders at a pep meeting in Voorhees Chapel last Friday night. The new pep pushers are Laing, Skidmore, Walrond and Kauffman. There is to be no head yell leader this year, all four men being of equal rank. Several new yells are being inaugurated and Joe Truxton's new fight song is being practiced for its debut. Laing and Skidmore have been working the new men into form for the past week in preparation for their initial appearance.

CARLISLE'S
5c AND 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*Direct connections to Townsend

NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY
Always at your service

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

H. T. HACKNEY
WHOLESALE
GROCERIES
KNOXVILLE, :-: TENNESSEE

NYAL
2 FOR 1 SALE
November 1st
Thru 4th
HOME REMEDIES
Toiletries and Everyday
Drug Necessities
MARTIN'S DRUG STORE No. 1
128 W. BROADWAY

Echo Sports

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

Oooooh! And that's about all we have to say about last night's massacre. Ragged! Ragged! No line! Too many hands which were all feet! How long does it take a squad of huskies to learn that Collins is the only man among 'em who can buck the line and get by with it? Where was Honaker and his bag of tricks we heard so very much about ere the kick-off?

—S—

But it isn't so bitter to be beaten by a team functioning as smoothly as the big red and black machine from over the Blue Ridge was last night. They were fast and snappy, marching steadily to the tune of "Touchdown Parade" each time they got the ball, and there was little, of ours, could stop them. Ragged as it was, it was a hard fought affray, and the Scotties more than once held for downs, showing a fighting spirit inborn into Highlander machines by tradition. Bet you Pat Shores had his mind on that tradition while he was crossing the mountains.

—S—

Get out the plumes and the black hatbands, the black silk gloves and a hangman's cloak, and whatever else you have that's black, for we've been licked, or rather, we donated somebody a fine mess of porridge and a bucket of fish. We weren't licked like Tennessee was licked, tho, an' of course we mean by that that your scribe refuses to crow like Bob Wilson and Bob Murphy crow for Tennessee, but—ho hum—pawdon the allusion. The simple truth about it is that our own little dope container got knocked for a loop when Murfreesboro squeezed the whey for 25 points' worth from the Scotties down there last week.

—S—

There's not a whole lot to be said. The defeat might be masked under the term "over-confidence", but we have it straight from the inner sanctuary that it was plain cockiness. And then all the little items such as it being the first game little Murfreesboro has won this season, or, to go one better, the first time they have so much as scored against their opponent,—tsk. . . .tsk—make the bitter very bitter . . etc. . . But all this denunciation does not come under the category of school spirit, or what have you, and so we are moved once more to say LET'S BACK THE TEAM! (and thank heaven that wasn't a conference game.)

—S—

The current regime of the Y. M. C. A. merits the attention and commendation of both student body and faculty for the way in which it has aroused and guided the spirit of interclass sports this Fall. Led by their very capable president, Warren Warman, the two athletic directors, John Waldrop and Rex Allen, have mapped out and proceeded with partially a very complete program of activities. Already the singles tennis tourney is finished, together with a doubles tournament and interclass football. Interclass tennis is now underway, and after that, the promise of basketball, wrestling, boxing, handball, and ping-pong, timely recreations for the winter months.

—S—

As a suggestion, chess and checkers might be made competitive, particularly chess, which is the original "gentleman's game". Chess hails neither from Hindustan or Singapore, but is mellowed and steeped in the good ol' lore of king and nation against king and nation,

(Continued on page four)

Scot Reserves Trounce Knox 'B' Team, 13-0

Krainock, Gray, Star For Home Team. Carty Punts Seventy Yards

In a grid battle featured by Krainock's running and Gray's passing for Maryville, and Carty's 70 yard punt for Knoxville, the Scottie "B" team defeated the Knoxville High "B" team 13-0 Thursday afternoon on Wilson Field.

Krainock got away for several pretty runs and when Maryville needed a first down he was given the ball. Gray and Crawford did their share of gaining also, a long pass from Gray to Crawford leading up to the second touchdown. The Maryville line was impregnable, holding Knoxville to two first downs. Carty's punting was Knoxville's most effective weapon. In the fourth quarter, standing on his own ten yard line, Carty booted the ball 70 yards, to the Maryville twenty yard line. It was a perfect kick, and one of the prettiest seen on Wilson Field this season. Wells played a good defensive game for Knoxville as did Renfroe of Maryville.

In the third quarter Crawford intercepted a Knoxville pass and Maryville reached the three yard line before being held for downs. After the punt out Maryville began another drive from the Knoxville thirty. A pass from Gray to Crawford placed the ball on the twelve yard line and Krainock and Gray picked up 11 yards between them for first down on the one yard line. Krainock then drove through right guard for a touchdown. The extra point was not added.

Toward the close of the last quarter Gray passed 35 yards to Crawford, who was downed on the Knoxville seven yard line. Krainock made six more and Gray bucked center for the second Maryville score. The extra point was made when Krainock went off left tackle and crossed the line standing up.

FOOTBALL

(Continued From Page One)

Payne	q.b.	B. Mauney
Boretsky	l.h.	Newton
Collins	r.h.	Hills
Gillespie	f.b.	B. Poovey

Subs: Maryville—Feezell, Kizer, West, Atkins, Blazer, Holliday, Gywnn, Alexander, Loessburg, Millsaps, Dailey.

Lenoir-Rhyne: R. Campbell, Overcash, Poovey, Ritchie, Whitner.

Sophs Top Frosh, 6-0 To Win Athletic Cup

Sophomores Steady In Last Quarter To Break Tie

Climaxing a series of wild punts and hastily thrown forward passes, Snedecker, sophomore back, intercepted a pass from Hewlitt in the fourth period and ran forty yards to set the pig on the ten yard stripe, this starting the touchdown parade, which won the annual interclass football classic for the sophomores, 6-0. The marker came on the fourth down when Horne passed over the goal line to Waldrop. Try for point failed.

As the half ended neither team had shown startling power, although the frosh were in sophomore territory most of the time. Going into the third quarter the sophomore squad started a concentrated passing attack, which netted yardage up to the line, only to be repulsed at the critical moment.

The last quarter saw both squads punting and passing wildly in an effort to break the tie. Nine interceptions of passes featured the wild scramble. Following Snedecker's long run, which was thought to have carried the ball over the line, an argument arose over whether or not Snedecker had been tagged on the ten yard line, but the sophomores settled it when they took a first down on the ten yard with goal to go. On the fourth play the tie was broken.

By winning the play-off the sophomores were awarded the athletic cup, which is given each year by the Y. M. C. A. Athletic Association. "Sophomore" and "trophy" become synonymous, since last year's soph crew won the cup.

Swimming Workout To Begin Next Week

George Fischbach, director of swimming, has announced that preliminary workouts with regard to the approaching swimming season will begin next week. A definite announcement will be made in chapel.

All men who are interested in trying out for the team are urged to be present next week. No schedule has yet been made, but it is understood that Knoxville "Y", who trimmed us last year, will be on it. Nothing is known definitely concerning the proposed women's team.

Officials: Wilson (Miami), Referee; Richardson (Bucknell), Umpire; Poage, (Ohio Wes.), head linesman; Harper, (Maryville) field judge.

Light Workouts Begin As 27 Cagemen Report

Team Depleted By Loss Of Haub, Lewis, Stone

This season's cage recruiting got underway last Wednesday as twenty seven men, only six of whom are last year material, reported to Honaker's first practice session. Drilling on fundamentals was started immediately, as Coach hopes to unearth some "diamonds in the rough" from the new material.

Johnny Kizer and several other good men are kept busy by football practice and other avocations, but will report before long. The new men look promising for future varsity material, altho the ranks are greatly depleted by the loss of Lewis, Haub, and Stone.

Kenneth VanHee, who played with the national championship Y. M. C. A. cage squad in 1924, will take charge while Honaker is drilling the boys on the gridiron. In order to get the college "basketball conscious", VanHee is urging all who have the time to report for practice, which is held from 3:30 till 5:00 on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday afternoons.

Since negotiations are still being carried on for contests, no schedule has been made out.

Fischbach Retains Crown Over Karnell

Fischbach Defeats Horne, Karnell Downs Talmadge, To Reach Finals

Without much ado George Fischbach, ex-highlander tennis ace, trounced Gordon Karnell in straight sets to win the belated final of the singles tournament 7-5, 7-5, 6-1, here last Saturday afternoon. The match was uninteresting, since neither finalist reached his peak of performance.

The only scrap came in the first set when Karnell led Fischback, 5-3, with his own service coming up. After losing his service because of inferior net play, he fell before Fischbach's deep-court drives, and then lost two games and set.

Fischbach won his way to the final by defeating Horne in the semi-finals. Karnell topped Esbach, Cacy, Coach Smith, and Talmage to reach the final. By defeating Talmadge, Karnell becomes college champ, while Fischbach retains, as previously, the Maryville College tennis crown.

Girls' Soccer Tourney Scheduled Nov. 7, 9, 19

Tennis Tourney Lags Behind Schedule. Two Teams In Point System

The final schedule for the point system Soccer tournament has been arranged. Games have been set for November seventh and ninth in the afternoons, and Saturday, November nineteenth, at night.

Because of conflicts between soccer practice and regular gym classes in tennis and swimming, the enrollment in the point system was only large enough for two teams to be formed. Juniors and Seniors have united against Freshmen and Sophomores. The team winning two out of three games wins the contest.

The girls tennis tournament, because of the illness of Margaret Cooley, a participant, has not progressed as rapidly as was expected.

The outstanding match of last week was the one which put Dorothy Coates in the semi-finals by a decided victory over Lucille Swafford. Her later defeat by Mary Gillingham, however, kept Coates from the finals.

The final line-up is Eleanor Johnson, Margaret Cooley, Mary Gillingham, and Ruth Doty. It is hoped that these last games will be played off in the near future.

Frosh, Sophomores Vie For Class Net Honors

Older Foes Retire Before Young Netmen

With freshman and sophomore teams again bidding for interclass honors, the Fall tennis season will come to a close next week after the final play-off. It is presumed by this time that upperclass teams either know their places, or are lying in wait for the milder, brainier competition of the winter months, since they have not figured in interclass sports much thus far.

Sophomore-Senior

Horne defeated Kipp (Sr.), Woodling defeated McQueen (Sr.), Horne and Waldrop defeated Kipp and Warman (Sr.s), Horne and Waldrop defeated Warman and Orr (Sr.s'), Orr (Sr.) defeated Payne, Warman defeated Bristow, and McQueen and Orr defeated Williams and Woodling.

Frosh-Junior

Allen (Jr.), defeated Esback; Esback and Cacy defeated Allen and Alexander; Campbell defeated Cloud. Cacy won from Alexander by default.

Why Get Up for Breakfast on Sundays When You Can Get

A REGULAR BREAKFAST FOR 25c

.. At ..

REAGAN'S CAFE

HOME-MADE SOUPS HOME-MADE PIES

HOME-MADE CANDIES

... TRY ...

TURNER'S NEW LUNCH ROOM

FOR GOOD 5 CENT HAMBURGERS

Buy Your Hallowe'en Candies

.. AT THE ..

Byrne Drug Co.

WE SELL THE BEST

Hollingworth's—Whitman's—Martha Washington

SENIORS...

Have your Annual Sittings made now and your 'Xmas Problem will be solved. No gift is more appreciated than a Personal Gift

YOUR PHOTO

THE WEBB STUDIO

OBSERVATIONS

OBSERVATION

We're in the jungle now. Just look at Carnegie, or try to take a look at it, situated over here among the Magnolias and try to figure out how Mr. Lee Johnson can get his flashlight messages to Memorial this year. He might have to revert to the method employed by the neighbor freshman, Mr. Al Cacy who plays the safe way. . . . he lets Dan McConnell carry the messages. . . . all for the benefit of the Federal Postal Service.

PUNY

Mr. Reader will understand that with the innovation of a forest just between here and there, there will be caused quite a strain on the "Observation" column. We might not be nearly up to standard. We feel cut off from the campus, sort of, not exactly isolated; and not exactly left out. . . just leafed out.

DOGS; NOT MICE

Mr. McCurry took a little jaunt last Sunday and Mr. Kinser took no pains to keep it a secret, and no one took particular pains to behave himself, the result of which was a general good all around Hades Lifting in the house of Carnegie. . . . all of which is only one more indication that the people of this college are not yet, and irom almost every indication won't be for a long time, capable of governing themselves.

BY HOLDER

Another little stunt relative to the same day was performed by Mr. Holder and his cohorts in roughing up some neighboring U. T. boys. Everyone's heard of this, and has witnessed the blanket attitude of the student body toward such action which hasn't been particularly beneficial to Holder. The thing which we did like to see, and this we have it, wasn't at the behest of the aforementioned freshman, was the subsequent repentance on the part of the freshman accomplices who very nobly and graciously went to Tennessee to apologize to the maltreated neighbors.

UH, UH, UH

We abhor mentioning the name of Mr. Mac junior twice in the same issue (you people of Memorial, Baldwin, and Pearsons may know that we refer to Mr. Kinser in so doing), but Mr. Kinser is the senior who went to Miss Kennedy, the assistant librarian of Maryville to learn the ethics lesson! For the 467th time Miss Kennedy informed a student that she is of the faculty and not of the Student body; but this was for the first time that she's had to inform a senior of that general knowledge.

CLEANSER

Following in natural sequence in this line is the window washing performance acted out recently by the boys of Black for the library. A great deal of interest in the procedure was manifested as it progressed with students of the library trying to determine which end the boys had cleaned, and, of course. . . which end they hadn't cleaned. Another interesting point was to observe the ultracleanliness of the center of the glass, and the hazy nature of the border. This reminded us (more personally) of the time we (generally speaking; because it included Charley Beale) as freshmen, "cleaned" the windows of the Highland Echo office with Octagon soap. Would that we had not started.

THE LIBE RAREY

And what is so rare as a good pencil sharpener on our cowmpus. . gosh, we hadn't done that since the last time we heard Owl Duff say a word or two to the boys. But, what is so rare? We've been here four years; the library pencil sharpener in the library was worn out when we came. . . . and the pencil sharpener in the library is worn out now. We just mention this to be mentioning it. But we should like to include the statement that we like the new sharpener in Dr. Fields' laboratory, by way of brand, in case any person should decide to donate one to Mr. Ellis and company.

BY WAY OF REQUEST

We were going to mention the names of Bernice Gaines, the star English student, and Lyndell Bond, the star. . . . . but we felt that the first had done nothing spectacular, except, of course, to get along; and the latter; well, the latter had done nothing that isn't spectacular, and that doesn't leave much to say.

THE A.M.P.

We refer to Dr. Orr's latest (not child; story) which goes like this. Dr. Orr recently had his History of Religion students write an important theme covering the work of the year. This group of papers, just completed, was resting alongside some Ethics quiz papers and the A. M. P. decided to burn the ethics papers. He tossed the ethics papers non-chalantly in the fire and went back to correct the themes, but the ethics papers were still there. . . . . still there! The answer, which is for you to furnish, has to do with what became of the History of Religion themes. Dr. Orr had one guess. . . .and that was enough.

A BOOMERANG

(Continued from page one)

thing high class, only simple things like "Jesus Love Me".

Another serious defect (besides bald-headedness and giggling in church) is their usurpation of the post vacated by our dear brother Paxton. Now, you all know that Paxton loved to create noise. In honor of the dear departed brother—we should have peace—that we may remember him better. However, if there must be noise, let it be made by others than freshmen. Two such parasites inhabit the cubicle next door, and how they disturb our Eden! If they must make a noise, let them make it quietly.

Futhermore (while we think of the denizens through the wall) we object to the lack of co-operation on the part of certain freshmen. When an article, such as a fountain pen, is mislaid it behooves the freshmen to assist in its recovery. N.B.

And this is hyperserious. What do they think of Maryville's Great Name in the Debating World? Shades of Lazell and P. B. Groves! When freshmen have to be drafted to make up a debate class something serious is amiss. Dear class of '37, we mourn for you. Shall we serve pansies or lilacs at the funeral?

We had to take time out here to recover from shock. The news has just come in that Carnegie Hall, the Great Abode of the Mighty, is being turned into a Barber Shop. Yes, a barber shop and by a freshman! Not only do they violate the sanctity of this Noble Pile by turning it into a Common Barber Shop, but they violate the National Barber's Code by underselling the NRA code-price haircut.

What a class, what a future they have, but there's hope even for them. They're at Maryville.

ATHLETIC BOARD OF CONTROL IS CHOSEN

The following athletic managers were chosen at a meeting of the Athletic Board of Control, October 18: football, Charles Lewis; basketball, Henry Lampe; swimming, Dean Mack; tennis, Roland Beck.

The Maryville-Lenior Rhyne football game was decided upon as the home coming game. Plans were discussed for continuing the injury fund which provides for most of the expenses of injuries received in the different sports.

Classes Complete Plans For Parties

The freshmen are completing plans for their Hallowe'en party, which is to be held in the Alumni Gym, October thirty-first.

The committees on decorations and refreshments have promised an attractive party. The program committee has arranged for a variety of dances, tumbling acts, piano and vocal music. The feature of the evening's entertainment will be a play by Alpha Sigma's freshmen. As side attractions there will be provided ping-pong tables and a fortune-telling booth.

The sophomore class invites the seniors to its party on October thirty-first at seven thirty p. m.

A program will be presented in the Baptist Church basement. It will include Hallowe'en readings and stunts, tap dancing, vocal and instrumental music. Ghosts and witches will be the guests of honor. Clarence Ludie, colored pianist of Maryville, will furnish musical interludes.

Tickets will be on sale Monday and Tuesday, and may be bought from Edward Friar.

Juniors Will Have Theatre Party Soon

On Tuesday night, October 31, the Juniors will have their annual Hallowe'en party. From 7:00 to 9:00 they will see the picture, "Masquerade", and later will go to the gym of the Southern Methodist Church for entertainment and refreshments. A program of music, readings, and dancing has been planned and also a short skit to take place in a very spooky graveyard.

The chairmen of commttees working on the party are as follows: Grace Proffitt, vice president; Elizabeth Peterson, prograam committee; Ruby Smith, refreshments committee; Eleanor Johnson and Cecelia Conover, decorations; Jonathan Gillingham, business; Annie Glenn Lowry, waitress; Eula Sibsy and George Stanley, clean-up.

Today many girls took advantage of the opportunity for seeing the mountains and woods near Cherokee Forest and other parts of the Smokies which was offered by Miss Clemmie Henry and Prof. Lagerstedt with the help of the Y. W. C. A. Ten cars belonging to faculty members, were provided for the transportation.

The church has a right to have the final say about education in this country because it is the mother of it.—Rev. Russel S. Brown.

SPORT TALK

(Continued from page three)

and so brings back fond recollections of King Arthurs and Round Tables and knights and dragons. Some say a queen invented the game to entertain her husband while his castle was being besieged, but be that as it may, it's still a good game. Because many of the leading "Y" organizations sponsor chess clubs and find them attractive and beneficial, perhaps the athletic board would consider this suggestion.

—S—

"So here's the way we bat the ball, bat the ball. . . . so early in the morning." And if you don't like the way we bat the ball in the morning, we'll bat it some fine Fallish afternooon. . . . .but WHEN? And that brings us around to the question— WHEN is the girls' singles tourney going to be run off? With so small an entry list there should be no trouble in getting down to the final business, but it seems that there is no interest, or whatyou macallit, which is very shameful. Tut! Tut! Let's get it over.

Bartlett Hall Scene Of Senior Festivity

The first Senior party of the season was held on Monday evening, October 16, at 8:00 p. m. The party was formal and open.

Maryville blankets draped over basket ball baskets and over the edge of the balcony contributed to the festive appearance. Soft orange and garnet lighting was another effective feature. Orange curtains completed the colorful decorations.

After the guests had arrived and checked their wraps, the girls went up on the balcony. Then the grand march began. The girls walked down in line meeting the boys. During the march prom programs were given out.

Parts of the program were presented between and during the proms. The program was as follows:

Grand March
Music by the Quartette
Grooms, Alexander, Wells, Courtenay
Dance by Dan Hicks
Music by Opal Johnson
Sermon by Harry Waldron
Duet—Andy Alexander, Gordon Grooms
Music by Lucille Swafford
Accompanist—Bill Frish
Master of Ceremonies—
Charles Beale

All the numbers on the program were received enthusiastically by the audience. Harry Walrond's sermon, which was a satire on Maryville College, was especially good. He took as his text the poem, "The Old Woman Who Lived in a Shoe". His many subtle remarks caused a great deal of merriment on the part of the audience.

Later in the evening delicious refreshments were served.

The committee chairmen were: Juanita Law, refreshments; Charles Beale, program; and John Eyster, decorations.

College Players Pick Officers For Year

At a meeting of the College Players on Thursday afternoon, October 26, new officers for the year were elected.

Frances Massey was elected president and Nina Gamble was elected secretary.

The College Players are members of the Expression Department who have completed two years of work including a course in dramatization. The players plan to present Berkley Square sometime in November.

DR. S. D. MOUNT
Dentist
First National Bank Bldg.
Phone 323

Wright's 5&10c Store
"Where a little money goes a long way"

College Men Prefer

HART SCHAFFNER & MARX CLOTHES
$19.50, $23.50, $27.50

They have it—style, workmanship and quality at reasonable prices—Both Suits and Topcoats.

Proffitt's The Student's Store Proffitt's

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 19 | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE | NOVEMBER 4, 1933 | NUMBER SEVEN

Annual Observance Of Founder's Day Begun With Today's Program

Program Centered Around Life Of Dr. Anderson

As the ECHO goes to press there is being held in the College Chapel and at the College Cemetery what has been designated as the first annual observance of Founder's Day. The program today centers especially around the life and work of Dr. Isaac Anderson who was the founder and first president of Maryville College. It is planned that henceforth there will be set aside each Fall a day which will be known as Founders' and Homecoming Day in which at least part of the program will have to do with the different persons who through more than a century have contributed to the foundations of Maryville College at it exists today.

When Dr. Isaac Anderson died in 1857 he was buried in the cemetery of the New Providence Presbyterian Church which he had served as pastor for forty-five years. His body has been there until this week when it, with the remains of his wife, his son, his grandson, and his foster grandson, was removed to the Maryville College Cemetery at the edge of the Woods.

Many years ago it was suggested that it would be an appropriate thing to have on the college campus the tomb of the founder of the institution and now at length with the cooperation of the family descendants of Dr. Anderson, and of the New Providence Presbyterian Church this removal has been accomplished. Three friends have established an endowment fund for the cemetery and it has been greatly beautified. The Anderson memorial stones have been brought with the remains and placed there, and so this spot on the campus becomes in a new way a hallowed place.

There are a number of former professors and students of the College who have for many years been buried there.

The College is placing a new memorial stone near the grave of Dr. Anderson in the College Cemetery and will later place one in the former burial place in the Church Cemetery.

Dr. Anderson founded Maryville College in 1819 and in addition to serving as pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church, which even in those days was one of the strong Presbyterian churches of the country, was for thirty-eight years president and ful-time professor of the College. He was one of the outstanding leaders in the field of religion and education in the Great Southwest during the first half of the ninetenth century. He was born in Virginia, came to Knox County at the age of twenty-one, and for ten years was pastor of the Washington Presbyterian Church beyond Knoxville before coming to Maryville. He was also the first pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville going there from Maryville every other Sunday for ten years.

Those participating on the program represent Maryville College and the three churches with which Dr. Anderson was principally connected. Dr. Wilson will be one of the chief speakers on this occasion.

While the wicked flee when no man pursueth, they make much better time if some one is after them. —Dr. Parkhurst.

"Berkeley Square" to be Given College Players

Play Slated For Latter Part of November

The College Players have announced the cast for their production of "Berkeley Square" which will be given in the latter part of November. The characters will be played by the following:

Maid—Josephine Woodward
Love Pettigrew—Herr Wissler
Kate Pettigrew—Nina Gamble
The Lady Anne Pettigrew—Frances Massey
Mr. Throstle—Arthur G. Courtenay
Helen Pettigrew—Lorena M. Dunlap
The Ambassador—Andrew Alexander
Mrs. Barwick—Ruth Proffitt
Marjorie Frant—Veta May Stephens
Major Clinton—Calvin Schmidt
Miss Barrymore—Mary F. Dunlap
The Duchess of Devonshire—Lynn Ann Brown
Lord Stanley—Willis Garrett

"Berkeley Square", a play by the American author, John L. Baalderston, had a run of four seasons in New York and of two seasons in London.

The plot deals with the story of a young American architect, Peter Standish, who has inherited an old English house in which one of his ancestors had played an important role. Taking up his residence there, he discovers that he can walk back and forth through time, that he can step into the shoes of his ancestor and live the life that man lived in the Eighteenth century. He accepts the challenge of adventure and finds himself entering the old drawing-room dressed in the costume of former times but still essentially himself. He plays the game as well as he can, although his knowledge of the future sometimes trips him. Despite his success, howevr, he is not really at home. Ghosts find something terrifying in him just as he finds an unreal quality in them, and at last he returns to the present carrying with him nothing except the memory of a girl whom he had loved.

Fall Music Concert Scheduled For Nov. 24

Piano, Voice, Violin Departments Offer Varied Program

It has been the custom of the Music Department to open the year's musical activities with a concert which brings to the front, leading musicians of the College in a program of wide musical interest.

The event, always an important one on the College calendar, is the first affair to be given on the Hill by college talent, and enthusiastic preparations are being made for its successful presentation.

The date has been set for the evening of November 24, at which time the departments of piano, voice and violin will unite to present the program.

Among those who will represent the piano department are Opal Johnson, Charlotte Upp, Evelyn Blankenship and Garnet Manges. Mrs. Huber will sing a group of songs, and the Vesper Choir will contribute several numbers. The violin department will present an ensemble group for violins, cello and piano.

Modern guards are the key men of offensive.—Harry Kipke, University of Michigan football coach.

President General Of National D.A.R. Speaks To Maryville Students

Patriotism Theme of Speech

It was with a feeling of great honor that Maryville students welcomed Mrs. Russell William Magna, President General of the National Society of the D. A. R., to the chapel service on Friday morning. Mrs. Magna is the leader of an organization which has shown a deep interest in the work of Maryville College, and which has done much to help young people throughout the entire nation to realize the benefits of a higher education.

In her address, Mrs. Magna emphasized the need for Practical Patriotism. "Patriotism", said Mrs. Magna, "is not merely the gesture used in saluting the flag, nor is it the words repeated in giving the pledge. It is a deep understanding of the meaning behind the words. To help our country, we must be the kind of citizen that adheres to the teaching which has prepared our foundation for patriotism, and which has taught us to be honest in convictions.

"We need religion. The growth of science and the dependence of industry on research serve to emphasize the permanence of the universal truths and their endurance down through the years of faith—faith in the eternal veritus and the need of religion to the soul.

"We need a definite preparedness, not aggression. We want peace, we are not militaristic. But we believe the United States should always be able to protect herself against external and internal ene-

(Continued on page four)

Hikers Explore Places Of Interest Near Here

Trips Successful Through Cooperation of Faculty

On Saturday, October 28, about fifty members of Y.W.C.A. went on a hiking and automobile trip. Some of the group went to Cherokee Forest, others to Indian Gap.

Miss Heron, Dr. Hunter, Dr. Fields, and Professor E. W. Davis furnished transportation for the group which went to Cherokee Forest, a national forest preserve. Carloads left at about 11:30 a. m., stopping for a picnic lunch, after which they completed the fifty mile trip. A delicious supper was cooked over a big bonfire. Meanwhile the hikers explored Bald river falls and other places of interest. The group returned home at 8:00 p. m.

Mrs. J. Walker of College Woods very generously offered her car for the outing. Miss Clemmie Henry, Miss Nina Gamble, Professor K. R. Lagerstedt, and Professor G. Howell took the hikers who went to Indian Gap. They left after lunch and had a very enjoyable trip, driving around the hundred mile loop and through the Virgin Forest. After some mountain hiking, a picnic supper was prepared, after which they returned to the College early in the evening.

It was through the cooperation of the faculty that these delightful trips were possible.

Y. W. C. A. PROGRAM

This Sunday the Y. W. C. A. program will center about the college girl and her education. A faculty member and former Maryville student will speak on what she would do if she had her college years to relive. Everyone is invited.

"Little Women" Chosen As Theta Mid-winter

Characters Selected For Play Long a Favorite

"Little Women" by Louisa M. Alcott is to be presented as the Theta Epsilon midwinter production this year. The original story is much loved and often reread by young and old, and the play version offers moments of the most intense drama, and pure enjoyment.

The role of "Jo" has been played by Katherine Cornell, one of our most noted actresses. In the moving picture production of the story Katherine Hepburn is to portray this character.

The story of "Little Women" has a real life background, being the author's own story. Today in a small town in Massachusetts the "little brown house" of the narrative remains just as it was then. Many men, women and young people visit it every year.

Following competitive try-outs this cast was selected:

Mrs. March—Lucille Swafford
Meg—Maria Wynn
Jo—Eleanor Denslow
Beth—Marian Falkner
Amy—Roberta Howe
Aunt March—Louise Reichelderfer
Hannah—Edith Nicolai
Mr. March—Jonathan Gillingham
Mr. Laurence—Robert Byer
Laury—Eccles Huff
Prof. Bhaer—Malvern Clopton
John Brook—Robert Borcer

Clifford Withers will be stage manager, with a committee of Lynn Ann Brown, Thelma Iles, Hazel White. Marjorie Steffner is the costumer and Ercell Hunter business manager.

One of the developments helpful to the College is the growth of Maryville Alumni Clubs. There are now organized clubs in various parts of the country.

On next Tuesday night, Dr. Lloyd and Miss Henry are to meet with the Maryville College Club of Knoxville and talk over objectives for alumni during the coming year.

New Grading System Now Fully Effective

Promotion Scales Remain About The Same

The following explanation of a new system of grading, adopted by the Executive Council of the Faculty comes from the office of the Registrar:

"Upon the recommendation of the Special Committee on the Study of Grades, appointed last year by Dr. Lloyd, and composed of Miss Jones, Dr. Hunter, Dr. Fields, and Miss Johnson, the Executive Council of the Faculty has adopted the following grading system:

EXCELLENT: A-plus, 10 grade points for each semester hour of the course; A, 9 grade points; A minus, 8 grade points.

GOOD: B-plus, 7 grade points; B, 6 grade points; B-minus, 5 grade points.

MEDIUM: C-plus. 4 grade points; C, 3 grade points; C-minus, 2 grade points.

PASSING: D, 1 grade point.

INCOMPLETE: I, which will be changed to F if the work is not completed within one semester.

FAILURE: F.

An average of C will be required for graduation. The requirements for graduation honors will remain

(Continued on page four)

Russian Male Chorus Is Highly Praised In Many American Cities

History of Musicians Dates Back To Imperial Army Days

The thirty-six Singing Horsemen of the Steppes—the Don Cossack Russian Male Chorus, will give one of their stirring programs of Russian music on Monday, November 13 at 8:15 o'clock.

Dressed in uniforms of dark blue, their knee-high riding boots polished to regimental brilliancy, they make an impressive picture as they march on the stage and stand at attention in a semi-circle, awaiting the command of their leader.

Serge Jaroff, the conductor, has a dynamic quality that stirs these men to thrilling achievements. With most expressive hands he directs his chorus. Although he is small enough to be picked up in one hand by any one of his men, he controls them by a power that is compelling.

The men of the Don Cossack Chorus come from that part of South-western Russia called the Steppes, and that particular part where the Don River moves to the Sea of Azov. During the Czarist regime, they formed a redoubtable element among the troops, in time of war they numbered nearly two thousand men. Astride their sturdy Russian ponies, and armed with lance, sabre, and rifle, they were a picturesque part of the Imperial Army. At that time they were divided into corps, and called after the region they inhabited; for instance, there were the Cossacks of the Don, Tereck, Oural and Siberia.

Now all that is passed. The regiments are dispersed. There is no longer a distinctive Don region, though the Don River still flows southward to the sea. The men who comprise the Don Cosack Chorus today are refugees, with small hope of seeing their native land again. But they carry its melody with them. Into their native folk-melodies they pour all the intensity of their longing.

The amazing technical perfection of their performances has made them the sensational drawing-card of Europe. One of the costliest attractions ever imported, they are returning this season for their second American tour, which will extend from Coast to Coast.

Reports from their first tour show how they were received in America. Irving Weil, in the New York Evening Journal, said their singing was "the most sensationally striking ensemble singing New York has ever heard". And it proved to be as great as he predicted, for New York received the chorus with unbounded enthusiasm.

"Not within memory has a male chorus so swayed a Pittsburgh audience as these former officers of the Imperial Russian Army", writes Ralph Lewando in the Pittsburgh Press. The Cincinnati Enquirer says, "Nothing quite as remarkable as the Don Cossacks has visited Cincinnati." Boston and Chicago heard them twice. Reviews from many other cities show that in every city where they have appeared the chorus has been greatly acclaimed because of their masterful and unique program.

Samuel Brenan Bossard, 21, student from Media, Pa., was beaten by four Nazi brown shirts recently because he failed to salute the German flag as it passed in a parade in Berlin.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - - Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors
Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor
Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - - Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - - Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs
Katharine Orr - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - - Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - - Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - - Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Business
Jesse Willis - Business Manager
Sam Waid - - - Asst. Bus. Mgr.
G. Edward Friar - Asst. Bus. Mgr.

Subscription Rates - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, November 4, 1933

A highly commendable attitude is that which has prompted hundreds of college graduates in our country to join in the service of the national relief organizations. Involuntarily idle, yet they have given gladly of their abilities and talents to various programs carried on by relief committees to keep up the morale of the unemployed. Manay fields were open to them. Recreation was one of the largest of these; teaching was a close second. Classes in manual training, domestic science, languages, and other things have proved invaluable to numerous people in the past year or two. Not only physical necessities of life have been supplied to those in need, but intangible values unestimable in their revitalizing power.

The Red Cross has offered a particularly wide scope of opportunities for service. This organization has invited the youth of the college to participate in its function of bringing relief, new morale, and spiritual optimism to the masses who despair of finding themselves again. Graduates with social service equipment are especially in demand. If college youths are not able to immediately step into the position of their dreams they can at least find ample use for the education they have acquired.

As certain leaders in relief movements in our country have said, 'today, as never before, the nation needs the enlightenment and direction that the college-trained man and woman can give. Leadership is the legitimate heritage of education; the power of knowledge is incalcuable. Bnt knowledge, unillumined by idealism, may be only the means of freeing the dreary vacuum of self with materialistic and trivial absorptions. Hope of solution of world-wide problems must come through spiritual awareness and ardor. And in the bright realms of youth these qualities are spontaneous and abundant."

The HIGHLAND ECHO will not publish any letter sent to the staff or any member of the staff if that letter is unsignedd. We assume that if a person has an opinion he considers worth expressing he should not be afraid to write his name under it. In no circumstances will we publish an opinion couched in coarse language, however just the criticism embodied therein may be.

Book Browsing

"The Store", T. S. Stribling, 571 pp. New York. Doubleday, Doran and Co. $2.50.

Mr. T. S. Stribling's book "The Store", the winner of the Pulitzer Prize for the best novel in 1932, is the author's second volume of a projected trilogy dealing with the south from Pre-Civil days until the present time. Mr. Stribling presents realistically the decadence of the southern aristocracy and the position of the negro trying to become adjusted to his new freedom. The plot is based on the struggle for revenge of Colonial Miltiades Vaiden, the respected and unfortunate citizen of Florence, Alabama, for the defrauding of the Vaiden family of a cotton crop twenty years before.

"The Forge", the first book of the group, presents the Vaiden family in Florence, Alabama and depicts intersectional conflict and the rise of the Ku Klux Klan movement. The biggest criticism of "The Forge" is the seeming lack of motivation of the characters. In "The Store" these flaws are overcome and the south of the early 90's is brilliantly portrayed.

In the latter part of "The Forge" we see Milt Vaiden lose his overseer's job on the Lacefield Manor. The negro is the problem of the book. As the author says: "the war ushered in a new mode of accumulating money. This was the method of working the negroes under mortgages instead of under simple chattel slavery." Many merchants used this method and finally the proprietorship in land was shifted from the manor to the store.

There are many deviations in the plot of "The Store". The manner in which Colonel Vaiden finally gets revenge on J. Handback, the storekeeper, provides action for the story, but through the whole story the author is presenting the real condition of the social state of the south after the Civil War, and the reaction of the south to the culmination of the "carpetbag" regime.

Both of the books show the fate of the southern planters after their loss of control of the negroes. "The Store" is a much greater book than "The Forge". In part this is due to the better character portrayal and because Mr. Stribling seems to have understood the real psychology o. the south better. Is is an excellent book to show us the real social status of the south in the early 90's.

Collegiate Swaps

The freshmen in the school of Agriculture at N. C. State were given a lecture on "Methods of Study" in which they were told that those who do not learn the principles of study in the first or second year of college will remain "mental drifters" for life. Maryville freshmen are not the only ones who are recieving lectures, it seems.

* * *

Delegates from approximately two hundred colleges visted Dickinson College last week as the Dickinsonians held their Sequi-Centennial celebration. For the first time in many years a collection of valuable relics is on display in the college museum. An outstanding feature of the week was a pageant which adhered to the college history. Nine portraits of distinguished Dickinsonians were presnted to the school.

* * *

Interest in the legends and folk songs of the South has been aroused at Duke University by an exhibit in the college library. Poetry and music of the American negro are the outstanding features of the exhibit.

* * *

Enthusiasm in the Kentucky cheering section is being aroused. The Men's Glee Club is planning to sing and also sponsor short stunts at football games. Another interesting feature is the forming of a block K by the freshmen boys who wear for the occasion light blue sweaters and caps. The problem now is to get the boys to leav their girls at the gate.

World Today

President Roosevelt has requested that Russia send representatives to confer with him concerning American-Russian relations. The U. S. S. R. will send Litvinov, the Commissar for Foreign Affairs, to Washington at a time to be mutually agreed upon.

—MC—

Since the beginning of Roosevelt's administration 4,000,000 people of the 10,000,000 previously unemployed have returned to work, according to the administration.

—MC—

Floods of the Yellow River of China in July and August caused deaths of 50,000 Chinese and reduced 1,000,000 others to starvation. Part of the blame for the disaster was attributed to brigands and troops who broke dikes for purposes of warfare.

—MC—

Prizes have been awarded in the 31st International Exhibition of Paintings held in Pittsburgh. First prize was awarded to Segonzas of France, and second and third prizes to Curry and Poor, American painters.

—MC—

Doctor Thomas Morgan of California Tech has been awarded the 1933 Nobel Prize for Medicine. His discoveries concern the physical and mental characteristics of ancestors aas transmitted to offspring. He is a materialist; life to him is nothing more than a sunbeam jiggling on an atom of carbon.

—MC—

Auguste Piccard, Swiss stratosphere balloonist, has removed his hurricane of hair. He now owns a standard American haircut.

—MC—

They are still shooting at each other in Cuba. . . There has been a minor and unsuccessful revolution in Siam. . . The little man in Germany, according to Current History, is growing tired of Hitler bombast.

Superior Scotties

John Talmadge may not be the best known Senior on the Hill, but e is certainly among the best liked.

He comes from a family of missionaries, his great grandfather being one of China's pioneer missionaries. John was born, second of a family of seven, at Mokpo, Korea, and received his earlier training in that country. His high school work was taken at the Foreign School in Pyeng Yang. While there he began his tennis career and was a mainstay on the school team. His scholastic ability was early apparent as he made the Honor Roll consistently.

He attended Maryville in 1930-31 and in 1932-33. During 1931-32 he was enrolled at Columbia Seminary, Decatur, Georgia, and in the summer of 1932 he took some work at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

Possibly he is best known for his tennis activities on the campus. He played most of last year as number two man the squad, and during the entire season he lost only one singles match. He is also noted for his racket stringing abilities, and the Talmage Racket Shop in Carnegie basement is known far and wide.

This semester he is president of the Ministerial Association, one of the most active organization on the hill. Under his leadership the Association is enjoying the fullest service program it has had for many years, and many country churches in this neighborhood are indebted to him for their ability to carry on.

He is liked on the tennis courts and as a leader in Ministerial activities, but best of all is he liked for his depth of Christian character.

Sermonette

Following The Galilean

Throughout the history of mankind there have arisen many who acclaimed themselves the founders of a faith which to them was the only true religion. Many of them, in substance, said what Jesus spoke as He sought out His followers, "Come ye after me." Thousands have folowed them; thousands have believed in them; thousands are yet rallying under the banners of Mohammedanism, Buddhism, and other religious cults. For them they were following their leader, their savior, their God. Some blindly, some earnestly; some indifferently.

It is significant to note that the seeds of Christianity were sown in a most humble manner, through the instrumentality of the Founder of the greatest and lasting of all religions—the Son of God. Walking one day by the blue waters of Galilee our Master selected the most despised class of individuals known to men. A meek but terse command, the words of Jesus rang true to the ears of the lowly fisherman, "Follow me." Again, journeying through the city streets the same summons went forth to another of the despised and hated class of people—a gatherer of the taxes, "Follow me."

It was not done by the clashing of swords. It was not done under the cry of battle. It was not done with the tramp, tramp, tramp of warriors setting out on a bloodthirsty quest for world power. In truth it was not done for the mere sake of doing. It was done for the peaceful fulfillment of Christ's mission. Thus the greatest of all religions, Christianity, gained its first followers in the most simple and unostentatious manner by One who sought not for personal glory. "Come and follow me."

This implies a submission of our will unto His. If we would truly follow in His train we must realize the necessity of bringing our minds into harmony with the mind of Christ. We cannot follow our own will and selfish desires and hope to follow the will of God. It means the denial of self-will and the rallying under the banner of Christ's will. It is not an easy matter oftimes to deny self to that extent but by humble submission unto Him the seemingly impossible may be overcome. Let Him take our minds and will for use in His servile. "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus."

To follow the Master means to become obedient unto Him. What a fallacy it is to dedicate our lives to a great cause and then be reluctant in obeying the principles and precepts in harmony with that cause. How true that is today! Obedience in the minds of many, goes no further than saying so, and when it comes to the actual doing the former zeal and enthusiasm for obeying fades into this air. The unworthy fisherman seemed to have realized the fact that to follow their Master they must obey Him. So must we! Those unknown Galilean fishermen may have been despised and unknown, but the world since has learned, and is still learning, many valuable truths from their obedience.

Finally, if we are to claim discipleship with Jesus, it implies the giving of living service, the offering of the very best that is in us to carry forth the banner of righteousness and to claim other followers. Doing that, we may rightfully call ourselves true followers of Him in the correct sense of the word. We fail if our only ambition is to do as little as possible in this world to promote the greatest good. Halfhearted endeavors never accomplish much.

May we be up and doing, submitting our wills unto Him, obeying the Galilean to the fullest possible extent, and offering our best service unto Him, and humanity for the advancement of the kingdom of righteousness among us. Then will we be true followers of Christ! "Come ye after me!"

FRENCH CLUB

The French Club met Wednesday, November 1st, in Bainonian Hall. Entertainment was presented under the chairmanship of Vi Webb. Michael Fagaris spoke briefly about the French flag, Edward Friar gave a resume of the French Government and Florine Stephens furnished a piano solo. A short business meeting followed, with George Stanley presiding. The new members who were voted in are Florine Stephens, Edward Hitt, Frances Henson, Edith Vannaman, Ruth McCampbell, Fern Bailey, Miriam King, Emily Watson, Joan Dexter, Mildred Scholler, and Eleanor Denslow.

The "Great Divide", by William Vaugh Moody, is to be presented by the Lenoir Rhyne Playmakers. A double cast is to be selected and tryout rehearsals have been going on for the past week.

All human government in the last analysis is experimental—Prof. Raymond Moley.

Palace Theatre
THIS WEEK
THURS.-FRI.
SOUNDING THE BATTLE CRY OF EVERY BRIDE!
HELEN HAYES
ROBERT MONTGOMERY
in "Another Language"
Puppy Love—Mickey Mouse

—SATURDAY—
Tom Keene in
"Son Of The Border"
Also Comedy and LOST special

MONDAY & TUESDAY
WHAT WOULD YOU DO...
If you could live your life all over again?

Imagine a chap in 1933 who finds himself back with the folks of 1910! His 1933 love-technique is so advanced that the girls scream for help. More laughs than your family has ever laughed—with Lee Tracy at his funniest!
Comedy—Gribbon and Kennedy in
"THROWN OUT OF JOINT"
Universal News

Echo Sports

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

This column wishes to apologize to whom it may concern, and particularlo to the entire Highlander football squad, for the lack of good judgment, and utter lack of discretion and college spirit, it exercised in the column of last issue while commenting on the Lenoir-Rhyne game. May it be clear that this acknowledgement is not prompted by the abundance of severe adverse criticism which has developed during the past week, since there is both pro and con. Out of the realization that bad judgment mingled with almost bitter disappointment dominated when such an attitude was out of the question, and that we are in a poor position to criticize the performance of others when we do not perform ourselves, we are moved to regret our former statements, and to assure all that hereafter this column will be a booster, and not a knocker.

—S—

This afternoon the Highlanders tangle with East Tennessee Teachers as the guests of Coach Gene McMurray, former Honakerite and all-around letter man of Maryville college, in their third conference game of the season. With Carson-Newman college leading the conference, having suffered only one defeat this year at the hands of the powerful Emory-Henry eleven, a non-conference foe, Maryville boasts a clean slate in the league, and judging from the increasingly heavy haze of enthusiasm and spirit which has been hovering over Wilson field during the past week, she intends to keep it clean, and that bodes little happiness for Gene and the boys.

—S—

But rejuvenation of spirits does not mean that all is a bag of candy up the primrose path for the Scotties. Rumor hath it that Coach Gene will turn out the best set of backs in the history of the school on the Maryvillians, and not only that but chants of "Beat Maryville" have prevaded the Johnson City atmosphere for the entire week, since this is their homecoming game. But regardless of all this ballyhoo the Scot camp sits tight, as a wise ol' bird who knows a thing or two, and silently chants, "Woe to the Teachers when we get started."

—S—

By far the most outstanding game of the Smoky Mountain Conference this week, it has another interesting feature, since it brings together for the second consecutive time teacher and pupil in what may prove to be a harder fought game than last week's tilt. Before being graduated in 1925, Coach McMurray played quarterback on the Highlander squad, being one of the best backfield men in Honaker's coaching history. In addition to that he played forward on the basketball team, and held first base during baseball seasons.

—S—

Coach Honaker struck another pleasing note in his short talk at the pep session the other night when he expressed his belief that college spirit at Maryville is at last on the homeward trip after having been latent these past two or three years. Games have been won and lost because of spirit. Teams have lost, only to be greeted back home by enthusiasm "which distinguishes a good college from a country college", and again, teams have won only to face a student lethargy, which is like a smack in the face. Neither situation is desirable. "Spirit is a living thing that must have good food and air every day of the year". Let's make sure that spirit returns

(Continued on page four)

Highlanders Move Powerful Team To Battle Teachers In Important Conference Scrap

MARYVILLE'S LEAGUE RECORD UNSPOTTED

Changes In The Line And Backfield Make For The Best Balanced Team This Season, Thinks Honaker.

This afternoon finds the Highlander grid machine swarming twenty-six strong into the fold of East Tennessee Teachers at Johnson City to do battle in what is undoubtedly the outstanding game of the Smoky Mountain Loop this week.

Maryville enters the all-important conference tilt with a clean slate so far as the league is concerned, while the Teachers battle against a nearly lost cause, having tasted defeat at the hands of the powerful Carson-Newman college outfit earlier in the season. But in spite of their past record they will be out to bring the Highlanders down to their level, and Coaches Honaker and Thrower have groomed their men in two stiff scrimmages and light daily workouts in fundamentals the past week with a keen eye trained on the McMurray-coached Johnson Citians.

Although the Teachers are riding the season with a comparatively new team, word comes down to the Scot camp that Coach McMurray is counting on great things from his squad, and since it is the homecoming for them he harbors a double motive for handing the Scots their first defeat in the loop. He boasts the mighty Dean Bailey, considered the most versatile and hardest running back in the Smoky Conference and "calculated" to stop the elusive Boretsky, but that remains to be seen.

Some important changes in both the line and backfield this week conspire to give the local troopers perhaps the best balanced and hardest driving combination yet found this season. "Batty" Collins, who took his undisputed place in the ranks last year at guard, and who has been a mainstay in the backfield this year, has been changed back to his old position, formerly filled by Klink, and Gillespie, yet to be outdone in his work at full, will occupy that position in the starting lineup.

Fate hath said that Kalmon will not be in condition to hold down his position at right end, but his shoes will be very ably filled by Chambers, who played a great defensive game against Lenoir-Rhyne last week.

The probable starting line-up for the Scotties boasts Atkins and Chambers at ends, Cochrane and Gamble at tackles, Atchison and Collins at guards, Captain "Finklestein" Russell at center, with Blazer at quarter, Gillespie at full, and Boretsky and Kizer at halves, while that for Teachers extends a threat to the Scot ranks with Bailey, Anderson, Hunt, and Burleson in the backfield.

Others who made the trip are Gwynn, Bailey, West, Payne, Loessburg, Shields, Coker, Millsaps, Klink, Pieper, Alexander, Holliday, Feezell and Krainock, who has been showing up well in practice this week, and who will probably see plenty of action as the game wears away.

In comparing the two teams it is very probable that the winner will be such by virtue of its defense, since both boast an equally brilliant and capable offense. If the style of defensive play the Scotties exhibited last week against Lenoir-Rhyne is any example, we have nothing to fear and will come home dripping the sweets of victory.

Sophomores Trounce Frosh In Tennis Go

Win Four Singles Matches To Cop Second Championship

A band of steady sophomores cinched the final play-off of the interclass tennis tournament after defeating the less versatile freshmen in four singles matches Tuesday. This victory becomes the sophomores' second consecutive championship of the year, having squelched the frosh for class grid honors.

Cacy of the frosh furnished the only real opposition when he forced Horne to earn his points. Waldrop, Woodling, and Bristow found little trouble in defeating Esbach, Beamer and Campbell by decisive scores.

Since this closes the outdoor season of Y.M.C.A. athletics, attention will soon be focused on basketball, which will probably not be held until the varsity season is well underway. In the meantime minor sports, such as handball and ping-pong will hold the spotlight.

Johnson Captures Women's Net Title

Victory Marks First Turnover of Title Since Hamrick Regime

Playing a brand of tennis seldom seen on the Hill in feminine competition, Eleanor Johnson, seeded number two, defeated Mary Gillingham, a heavy favorite, in straight sets, 6-2, 6-3, to win the final of the women's tennis tournament here Friday morning.

Johnson defeated Cooley, and Gillingham downed Ruth Doty, another favorite, to reach the final berths. This is the first new women's champ for several years, since Inez Hamrick, who was graduated last year, was able to ward off all her opponents successfully.

Cross-Country Will Be Run Nov. 18

Annual Race Will Feature Last Home Game With Milligan

One of the individual events sponsored by the "Y" in its athletic program for this year is a five mile cross country run to be held on Saturday, November 18.

The run will begin just before the Milligan football game and the runners should return during the half. The course leads out through the college wood from the football field, comes back by way of Court Street, to finish at the fifty yard line. If the game is in session when the runners return, the territory between the side-lines and the fence in front of the bleachers will furnish ample space for the home stretch.

All entries must be in the hands of the "Y" athletic directors not later than November 11. Everyone interested in cross-country running is expected to enter this meet and try to win one of the awards, which are as follows: for first place, a new statuette trophy of runner, 8 1-4 inches high, silver plated, value $5.00; for second place, a silver medal, value $2.75; for third place, a bronze medal, value $1.50, on a sterling silver track shoe.

Willimae Renegar, '33 is teaching in the grammar school of Fern Creek, Kentucky.

Talmadge, Van Hee Win Tennis Crown

Newly Paired Team Shows Good Form To Win In Straight Sets

In a match featured by Talmadge's hard drives at the net and Van Hee's uncanny accuracy for niching the baselines and corners, the doubles team of Talmadge and Van Hee defeated the Hurst-Waldrop combination in straight sets, 6-2, 7-5, 6-1, to win the last tennis tourney of the season.

The much vaunted team of Kipp and McQueen was unable to keep the victors out of the finals, while Hurst and Waldrop upset two favorites, Gillingham and Alexander, to reach the final berth.

VARSITY SWIMMING GETS UNDERWAY AS 25 REPORT

Schedule Shows Four Meets With More Pending

The competitive swimming season at Maryville began last Wednesday night with 25 men out for practice. Shields, Obert, Herries, and Greiner, four members of last year's team, were present.

On Tuesday and Thursday nights at 7:30 regular practice will be held. All new men with fins come out! Coach Fischbach has been promised two meets with Tusculum and two with the Knoxville "Y".

Elizabeth Thomson, student at Maryville in 1930, announces her marriage to Ralph D. Hoghland of New York City early in September.

CARLISLE'S
5c AND 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*Direct connections to Townsend

THE J & K STORES
WE ARE NEVER UNDERSOLD

NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY
Always at your service

The
Byrne Drug Co.
Will Get the final score of the Maryville E.T.T.C.
Football Game

H. T. HACKNEY
WHOLESALE
GROCERIES
KNOXVILLE, :-: TENNESSEE

SENIORS...
Have your Annual Sittings made now and your 'Xmas Problem will be solved. No gift is more appreciated than a Personal Gift
YOUR PHOTO
THE WEBB STUDIO

OBSERVATIONS

VERY BAD!

And did we have a good time yesterday training our voices? Besides so many things which we don't like, there are a few things made to meet our approval, and one of these things is the way the forty-five minutes were utilized while we waited for the speaker yesterday. We insist that there were two things neccessary for the chapel service to succeed. Dr. Lloyd very cleverly executed his part, which we believe could never have been handled without a cooperating student body. Well, we were a bit disappointed in a few of our fellow seniors who refused to obey Miss Henry's suggestion—to hum the first verse of "To The Knights in the Days of Old". Several of them became obstinate and hummed the second verse!

X IS TO KIPP AS KIPP IS TO X

X attended the sophomore hallowe'en party like all good seniors should, last week and succeeded in proving himself a hero again. A candle started to make away with it's foundation, which would have meant ultimately the piano top and when everyone else was at a loss to know what to do, brther X came to the rescue in the same old "Fireman Save My Child" act which has made him so popular all season. Rumor has it that two other seniors, whose names are not mentioned here for the sake of our own skin, were on the way over to the piano to beat X's time, but they fell by the wayside. The cider was hard that night.

WERE YOU SURPRISED?

And about that time, except for a differnce of ten hours, the Dean informed the freshmen that a test was in order. And were we glad that we got our freshman year off sooner? In other words, we're glad we took our lectures when Dr. Fields wasn't here to think of such delicious little pastimes. From what we could gather, the freshmen thought they were getting a little gypping. But the professors were all kind to the yearlings, judging by the grades. . . . or maybe the tests were hard and the students did listen to the lectures. . . .maybe.

WE SED RUMOR

Rumor has it that this forerunner to a coming sytem where the freshmen will be asked to take a test over the material covered in Dr. Stevenson's Wednesday morning sermons. We don't know what the theology might include in such an examination, but we do know that the geography would include about all the land within a certain circular 25,000 mile limit. The vocabulary test. . . . well. . .

ELLIS PASTIME

This freshman test included one question which we deemed rather characteristic of the person who made up the layout for the library section. This was the twentieth question in Professor Ellis' list which read something like this: Is it as disrupting to talk to your neighbor about your lessons as it is to moonshine or talk about the weather". The question should have been answered with a plus sign, according to Professor Ellis. Nothing was said about disrupting by the librarian, of the well laid plans of the moonshiner.

NEW TRICKS

Our past and present observations had been that Mr. Ellis has paid particular attention to the activities of moonshiners, being less compelling toward those who were interested in the curricula, but maybe he is becoming changed this year. One can't keep an old dog from learning new tricks, y'know.

FOURTEEN PEOPLE WON'T AGREE

A practice which has become more in vogue this year is that of giving a yell for everything from kerosene to the football team in the dining hall. We don't do it you see, but we don't mind hearing it except insofar as it reminds us of two very common words of four and six letters respectively and which begin with the letters h. and s., also respectively.

OUR TURN

We should like to utter a little yell of our own about something or ther relative to the fact that we get run out of the dining hall entirely too soon by Miss Darby's bell. Our meal is not always finished, and has never become sufficiently settled before we vacate the premises. Of course, we remain until our system devises that we should go, but we don't even like the like of being expected to obey such a request (or should we say command).

NO RANK ANSWER

And then there are those young gentlemen in the hall who are at present considering a "no shape" plan which will be under the NRA code as suggested by our friend Mr. Bob Downes. . . . . No Razors Allowed.

THIS IS GOOD

One of the pleasing things to see on the hill this week (and we're writing this after the pep meeting Thursday evening) is the renewal of friendly relations among our cheer leaders. This is so, just as it was distasteful to see the dissension arise last week over Walrond's ebullient nature in leading the boys and girls in a few yells. We're of the opinion that one group is no more at fault than the other could be, but that isn't our theme. Our theme is that we're glad to see four MEN as our cheer leaders.

NO. THIRTY-FOUR IN THE RED BOOK

While we're on the subject of yell leaders we'll branch to the fellow subject and mention that we think five new pep songs and six new fight yells with the accompanying two alma maters should prove sufficient for this college of 800 students. We might even suggest a number less than that. In fact, if we did, seriously, we should ask for one pep song, one fight yell, and one alma mater, all student composers to the contrary notwithstanding.

AND FURTHER MORE

We could add that although we might not have many more pep meetings this year we'd like for a correction of the procedure of getting up and sitting down (in order to get up again) as many times as custom has deemed we should.

AND WHO ARE YOU?

Arta Grace Hope went to the city last week to see her Pop off for the promised land (our faculty advisor will read the 13th and 14th words as "Popoff") and got back to the colony too late to make way into the stronghold. This necessitated a search for the nightwatchman (at Miss Mollie's behest) and she ran across a big burly gent'men with a hat pulled over his eyes, kinda tough like, you know, and instead of saying, "Hey guy, what's the chance of getting in", she said very nonchalantly and innocently, "Are you the nightwatchman?" Fancy a senior asking who the Nightwatchman is. . . . . even in the dark.

MEN OF BLACK

One observation gives rise to another, and so the one last week about the library windows makes us say something of counteractive nature concerning the men of Black. It has been our experience to see a gradual improvement in the working staff of the college in four years here. Mr. Black wasn't here four years ago, but he's done plenty during his holding of the Business Managership of the college, and we don't think we're wrong. The chief attribute about the men of Black (and when we say that, we're indicating the worthy personnel backed up by intelligent direction) is that they can follow directions. . . . and that they can do things on time. Ring a bell. . . .and. . . . there's the man, waiting to work, and almost wanting to work.

FEATURE E. THOM

The time is ten o'clock in the evening. The setting is a room on the third floor of Carnegie. A slow wind is brushing faltering drops of rain against the window.

In the middle of the room is a desk. On the usually bare desk top lie several open books. Leaning over it, facing each other, are two manlike figures. They are of average height. One is broad, with blue eyes; the other is thin and brown-eyed.

They are regarding each other with the fixity that a fisherman regards his cork. The skin of their foreheads is wrinkled, and perspiration sparkles in the wrinkles. Their chins are as tight and motionless as the jaws of granite lions.

The wind slips around the edges of the window and investigates the room. It places frigid fingers on the exposed necks and hands of the pair. They quiver a little, but in a moment are as tense as before.

Somewhere between Alcoa and Maryville a dog howls. He awakens the usual response, and the towns, for a while, shake with barking. A student in the dormitory takes the cue. He imitates a pack of wolves; and his neighbors, with a fraternal spirit, become roostess or cats. One room remains silent.

On the floor above a trunk is dropped. On the floor below a bed is overturned. From the rooms on every side come sounds of hilarity. In the east wing an ocarina calls; from the west wing a saxophone answers. Between the two wings a violin and three radios are being used. All of the instruments are playing differnt tunes; but Brown Eyes and Blue Eyes pay no heed to the discordant effect.

The wind still creeps around the room. It is becoming colder, touched more and more with the chill of the growing evening. Brown Eyes shows signs of life; he shivers violently. Blue Eyes begins to grin, and the other resumes his statuesque position.

The lights go out, and the game is done.

Reader, solve us a riddle. Are these two figures football heroes practicing foeman-quelling stares; are they future hypnotists endeavoring to force each other into a trance; or are they mechanized mummies?

No, you are wrong. They are not mechanized mummies. They are. . . two psychology sutdents. . . . relaxing.

Fred Hope Speaker At Last Vesper Service

Former Maryvillian Provides Organ Music

Dr. Fred Hpe was the speaker at Vespers last Sunday night. Always an interesting speaker Dr. Hope told of many of the unusual incidents of his work in Bululand, and of the remarkable characteristics of the natives. His long years of experience in far countries have supplied him with a store of fascinating tales.

Frank Neff, Maryville graduate of 1933, provided some very lovely organ music.

Following the Vesper service an impressive candlelight ceremony was held for the initiation of new Y. W. C. A. members.

DEBATE CLASS WORKING

A class of thirty freshmen have been meeting during the past three weeks for the purpose of studying debate. From this class six men and women will be chosen at the end of the semester to make up the freshman debate team.

Under Professor Queener's direction the class studies the various fundamentals of debating. A debate for the men's team has already been scheduled with the University of Tennessee.

Y. M. C. A. PROGRAM

Sunday, November 5, 1933 1:15
Prelude—Ensemble
Invocation—Frank Thornbill
Speaker (5 min.)—Hymnology—William Quigley
Song No. 375—"O Love That Will Not Let Me Go"
Scripture—Psalm 33—James Shaw
Instrumental Solo—B. Jarman
Speaker (5 min.)—Hymnology—LeRoy Obert
Song No. 22—"Jesus Lover of My Soul"
Reading—Michael P. Testa
Piano Solo—Burton Toms
Vocal Solo—Jesse Willis
Speaker (5 min.)—Hymnology—Stuart Snedeker
Song No. 140—"When I Survey The Wondrous Cross"
Ensemble Music
Song No. 177—"O For a Thousand Tongues to Sing"
Benediction—W. W. Warman
Postlude—Ensemble

LEPER DONATION BEGUN

This year, as last year, the Y. W. C. A. is raising money for the urgent cause of helping maintain Leper Colonies. Small banks in the shape of pigs are being placed in the dormitories. Each active member of the Y. W. is asked to donate toward this worthy purpose. At the beginning of the first month one cent is placed in the pig; the second month, two cents; the third month, three cents; etc. When the banks have been filled the money will be sent to the American Mission for Lepers. $25.00 will keep a Leper for one year.

ALUMNI NEWS

Wesley Culver, '33 is attending the Medical College at Vanderbilt University, Nashville.

Louise Cline, '33, is attending business school in Miami, Florida.

Mary Katherine Mize, '33, is teaching expression in the city schools of Loudon, Tennessee.

GRADING SYSTEM

(Continued From Page One)

as they have been. An average of C-plus will be required in the major subject.

The promotion scale will remain as it has been with the exception of the requirement for promotion from sophomore to junior; that requirement will be 58 hours and 144 grade points.

The use of the grade of E (Condition) will be discontinued.

The new system of grading is fully effective for members of the present freshman class, and in so far as it is practical will be applied to upper classmen.

SPORT TALK

(Continued on page three)

to this campus by seeing that it has "the proper diet.

—S—

As preliminary tryouts for the varsity swimming team get underway, and basketball, and any other sport on the Hill for that matter, there keeps running thru our mind the old, old adage—"Now is the time for all good men to come to the aid of their country". Everyone is entitled to his own paraphrasing, but ours would say that everyone who has the ability, the physique, the time, the will to win, and the interests of his Alma Mater at heart, is under an unwritten obligation to come out and give the best that's in him toward the selection of the many teams. After all, "it is better to have tried and failed, than not to have tried at all", and the student body appreciates loyalty and endeavor as much as performance.

MRS. RUSSELL MAGNA

(Continued from page one)

mies. We must be protected against forces within the country. We must stand firm and secure against all types of crime and racketeering. Public sentiment is a strong weapon. When stiffened and ready to act, it can and will demand that crime be put out of business.

"The study of present day economics—and many have had this trust upon them—calls for the management of finance, and the study of the use of money and budgeting in the schools. The American family should learn to balance its budget.

"As a college, a business concern, or a nation, we must have unity to have force and opportunity. Let us work together, and let us raise a standard to which the wise and honest can repair. The event is in the hands of God."

DR. S. D. MOUNT
Dentist
First National Bank Bldg.
Phone 323

Wright's 5&10c Store
"Where a little money goes a long way"

NEW SUEDE
Jackets

$3.95

Nothing quite like one of these smart Suede Jackets for the coolfall and winter days.

They are swagger and up to the minute in style. All the wanted colors—such as red, green, blue, brown and black. Sizes 14 to 20.

FREE
New Plymouth DeLuxe Coach
Proffitt's
The Students' Store

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 /4 MARYVILLE. TENNESSEE NOVEMBER 11, 1933 NUMBER EIGHT

Colorful Program Will Be Presented By The Don Cossack Chorus

Three Distinct Types of Songs Make Up Russian Entertainment

At 8:15 Monday evening, in the chapel, will be given as appealing and quality-laden a musical program as has ever been presented at Maryville. The Don Cossack Russian Male Chorus, under the leadership of the capable Serge Jaroff, will sing the songs that have packed houses in the major cities of most of the important countries of the world.

The performance and the singers are difficult to describe. The chorus, dressed in colorful costumes of a foreign military order, resembles nothing so much as a glorified college glee club. The members are described as tall and stalwart, and have fine features and dark eyes and hair. They have, with no exception, magnificent voices. Their conductor, Serge Jaroff, is a small man who possesses a tremendous power of musical leadership.

At the beginning of the performance the thirty-six cavalrymen march in, jingling spure in a quick single-step. They form a double semi-circle, and sing. The members of the audience invariably forget their surroundings and hear nothing but the singing. The spirits of the Russians seem to move from their bodies, on waves of song. The best critics said that the performance is really superb; it has that oftenmentioned "indefinable something" without which no technically perfect ensemble can be a success.

A thousand papers and magazines have praised the chorus. The New York Times says: "The men sing with a fine, swinging rhythm; the color and quality of the tonal masses, as well as their balance is often beautiful; they can shake the chandeliers with thundering crescendi and produce fine spun threads of sound." The Boston Glove says: "The Cossack's art matures and deepens. No choir yet heard can reel off in quite so compelling a fashion nonsensical folk-tunes, yet be to the mood so whimsically amorous." And the New York American caps these favorable criticisms by saying that they "thrill the audience to a state bordering on hysteria".

The program is divided into three parts, as usually presented. In the first are songs drawn from the liturgy of the Russian Church; in the second are folk melodies; in the last are dramatic soldier and Cossack songs, which are punctuated in the renditions with barbaric yells. This last group is a musical history of the Cossack people. One of its numbers is the swashbuckling tale of Stenka Basin, an ancient hero, who, to appease the jealous affection of his men, threw a kidnapped Persian princess whom he loved, into the Volga.

The Don Cossack Russian Male Chorus was organized in 1923 in a prison camp near Constantinople. It was composed of former officers in the Cossack cavalry of General Wrangel's disseminated White Army. When agreements were concluded between Russia and the surrounding countries as to dispersion of prisoners, the chorus members were sent to Sofia in Bulgaria. There they continued their choral work, laboring in the mines during the day and practicing in the evening. They slowly gained recognition, and finally, under the leadership of Serge Jaroff, have gained world fame.

ARMISTICE DAY TRIBUTE

November 11 has come again, is practically over, very nearly forgotten, and Maryville College students have yet to pay tribute to valiant predecessors who heard and heeded their country's call. We have taken an attitude somewhat akin to that of a Knoxville radio announcer, who remarked this morning that "we are also celebrating today, besides football day, Armistice Day" We have forgotten.

Perhaps it is better to forget—if we could forget completely—but man must remember certain things and war is one of them. The words "Lest we forget" have not been uttered lightly. We must remember the thousands who toss on hospital beds today, fifteen years later. We must remember the countless numbers of empty sleeves, artificial limbs, shattered bodies and shrunken souls which are resultant of that mighty conflict. We must remeber the millions who sleep in military graves—in Flanders and other fields.

Armistice Day is more than a mere holiday, greater than a casual celebration, a day not to be taken lightly. Rather a day in which to pause in brief and silent tribute to those gone, and those broken, giving them an unspoken promise that this thing shall not be again!

First As You Like It Entertainment Proves Enjoyable To Many

Variety of Numbers Included On Program

The first "As You Like It" of the year took place in Thaw Hall on the evening of November fourth. A varied program of songs, skits, and readings, was supplemented with ping-pong and other table games to furnish entertainment for the guests. Harry Walrond served as master of ceremonies during the evening.

A minstrel show sponsored by freshmen members of Bainonian Society opened the program. Bernice Gaines acted as the interlocutor of the minstrels; and Kathryne Lindsey and Ruth Clopton played the parts of the black-face end men. A group of songs sung by Betty Stewart and selections given by Glover Leitch and Clark Lathan, violinists, completed the first half of the program. which was divided from the second half by a long intermission.

Two readings followed the intermission; one, by Herr Wissler, in which a small boy's opinion of edu-

(Continued on page four)

President And Student Help Secretary Leave On An Extended Trip

Miss Henry and Dr. Lloyd To Speak Many Places About College

President Lloyd and Miss Clemmie Henry left on Wednesday night for their annual trip into the northeastern states on behal. of the College. They went directly to Phihladelphia, and from there they will go to New York, New Jersey, and adjoining states. The extent of their trip has not been definitely decided, but they expect to be away about three or four weeks.

President Lloyd and Miss Henry will spend much of their time speaking in various clubs, churches, and other organizations, and in interviewing individuals interested in the work of the College. Although their main purpose is to promote the student-help work o. Maryville, they will meet several alumni groups, and President Lloyd will preach in various churches in which he is known.

For the past two or three years it has been most difficult for the Student-Help Department to meet the demands made upon it by worthy young people who desire a college education and are willing to work to obtain one. Had it not been for organizations interested in the work of this department, this work could not have been carried on in such an effective way. President Lloyd and Miss Henry wish to express personally the gratitude of Maryville College to the societies and individuals who have rendered assistance of this kind to the College.

Bulletins received by the "Echo" from the travellers will be printed from time to time, in order that the student body may be informed of the progress made by President Lloyd and Miss Henry on their mission in the North.

Dining Room Manager Resigns Place Here

On Friday of this week Miss Lula Darby, who has for a number of years been the manager of the dining hall, left for Sarasota, Florida, where she has accepted a position with the Sarasota Hotel. Miss Darby has been taking correspondence work in hotel management with the Lewis Institute of Washington City and because of the excellent work she did with the Institute was recommended for this position.

WORLD WEEK OF PRAYER

The World's Week of Prayer, which is being widely observed, will be recognized in Maryville next week in the Vespers and chapel services. The following program will be carried out:

Nov. 12—Vespers—"A World in Need"—Dr. Stevenson
Nov. 14—Chapel—"He Was Tempted"—Y. M. C. A.
Nov. 15—Chapel—"He Obeyed"—Dr. Stevenson
Nov. 16—Chapel—"He Suffered"—Y. W. C. A.
Nov. 17—Chapel—"He Conquered"—Student Volunteers
Nov. 18—Chapel—"He Lives"—Ministerial Association

There will be special music by each group having charge.

Conference Delegates Give Convention Reports To Student Volunteers

Five Members Attend Nashville Meeting

Delegates from Maryville to the annual fall retreat of the Tennessee Student Volunteer Union held at Nashville October 28 and 29 gave reports of the conference at the Student Volunteer meeting in Bainonian last Sunday evening.

The discussions at the state gathering in Nashville were an echo of those at the eighth General Council last September in Hightstown, New Jersey. The General Council, which is the national center of the Student Volunteer Movement, is composed of delegates from all states. Elizabeth Gillis, president of Tennessee's group and representative from this state at the council, told something of the spirit and significant actions of the S. V. M.

Five significant decisions were reached in determining what an ideal policy and program for the future would be. "The only sharply defined recommendation was that the S.V.M. should take the initiative in exploring the possibility and advisability of bringing into being a United Student Christian Movement". The new organization would include the student division of the Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A., and other youth movements in the United States. It is the Student Volunteer Movement that is taking the initiative in attempting to bring a new, united, comprehensive, and dynamic Student Christian Movement into being.

Another recommendation of the

(Continued on page four)

Gratifying Interest Was Shown At First Annual Founders' Day

Ceremony Fittingly Closed At College Cemetery

Last Saturday, November 4, marked the first observance of what is to be an annual Founders' and Home-coming Day. Considering the fact that the history of Maryville College is one of its most distinctive features, the administration has felt that it would be fitting to commemorate certain phases of it each year.

This year the day was devoted to recognition of Dr. Isaac Anderson, founder of the college. Representatives of the college and of the churches he had served as pastor attended the services. Dr. Wilson, Dr. Lloyd, Dr. Stevenson, and Dr. Hunter represented the college. Dr. Crothers, pastor of the New Providence Presbyterian Church, of which Dr. Anderson was pastor for 45 years, made an address. Dr. Barbour spoke for the Second Presbyterian Church of Knoxville, which Dr. Anderson founded and of which he was the first pastor. Also taking part in the services were Dr. Bartlett, son of the third president of the college, Judge Houston, chairman of the college Board of Directors, and Reverend Gilliam, of the Washington Presbyterian Church near Knoxville, where Dr. Anderson served his first pastorate. At the service in the college cemetery Mr. Gilliam read from the Anderson family Bible.

Perhaps the most memorable address of the morning was the one given by Dr. Wilson at the graves of Dr. Anderson and his family. In his address Dr. Wilson summarized the Anderson family history. Those buried with Dr. Anderson were his wife, Flora McCampbell Anderson, his son, Samuel H. Anderson, his grandson, Isaac F. Anderson, and his foster grandson, Samuel A. Caldwell. It was in memory of "These Five" that Dr. Wilson spoke. The son, Samuel, was the only one of the six Anderson children who escaped death in infancy. He died at the age of 31. Both Samuel and his mother died before Dr. Anderson, whose death came shortly before the Civil War when he was 77. Buried next to him is his foster grandson, who died at the age of 5. The grandson, Isaac, was graduated from Maryville College in 1858, but he died at the age of 20.

Considerable interest in the first Founders' Day was shown by the presence of many friends and former students of the college. Among those present were two women who had heard Dr. Anderson preach when they were children, a graduate of the class of 1885, a playmate of Dr. Anderson's foster grandson, and others.

The Vesper Choir contributed music to the services at the chapel and cemetery. The recommittal service was closed fittingly by the playing of Taps.

FEATURE—BOYCE JARMAN

Among the green and rolling plains of East Tennessee, in this fair and beautiful country of ours, there stands a Hill. And on this Hill, there are a great many buildings, each inhabited by some peculiar being. Outstanding among these, there is a tall, brick structure known as the Castle of Carnegie. This Castle is governed under a system of its own which no other system has ever paralelled.

As for this wonderful system, we have not named it yet, for we can find no name to fit it. The workings of it are, however, easily understood. There is One who is over all. This One hears all, sees all, and, in his gallant way, always goes about to set everything right when he sees, hears, or knows anything that is wrong. This One is supreme, He is worshipped; it is He to whom all inmates of the mighty castle of Carnegie consign their oaths. As to the subjects of this One, they are a wild and woolly bunch. They are always engaged in some nature of civil war; the inhabitants of the Upper Levels invariably win, probably because of the higher position and the fact that gravity acts on a mass in a downward direction.

The civilization within the Castle of Carnegie is at once both barbarous and refined in nature. It is barbarous in that the only elements recognized by the inhabitants are water, air, and shoes. It is, however refined, since each has a very kindly feeling toward the inhabitant directly beneath him in position, and is always making him the recipient of many kinds of useful gifts, such as mops, wash-rags, water, and shoes. It is to be understood, however, that any such transmission of gifts is directly opposed to the sentiments of the administration, and is heartily discouraged by the One in charge.

To illustrate how necessary is the helpful guidance of the One to whom the inhabitants are intrusted, on one memorable and deplorable day, of very recent date, the One was, of necessity, absented from his duties for a very few hours. During those very few hours, chaos reigned. Even the laws of universal gravitation failed to act as usual, if one judged by the amount of matter continually kept in mid-air by some strange force or other. This experience convinced the many inhabitants of the castle that the presence of their One was indispensable. So, in considering the organization and civilization of that place on the Hill called Carnegie Castle, we must realize that much depends on the greatness of the One who guides Carnegie affairs.

Y. W. C. A.

Tomorrow will be the first meeting on World Fellowship, a topic which is to be presented in a variety of ways in the next few weeks. Lillian Steed will conduct this first meeting on "How Wide Is Your World?"

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Ovella Henley to Mr. Morgan Biggs, '30, on November 23, 1932. Mr. and Mrs. Biggs are at home in Maryville.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - - Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors
Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor
Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - - - Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs
Katharine Orr - - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - - - Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - - - Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Freshman Apprentices
Helen Chambers, Ann McCambridge, Bernice Gaines, Frances Henson, Mary Porter Hatch, Boyce Jarman, Edward Thaw, Douglas Woods, Richard Meadows

Business
Jesse Willis - Business Manager
Sam Waid - - - Asst. Bus. Mgr.
G. Edward Friar - Asst. Bus. Mgr.

Subscription Rates - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, November 11, 1933

Armistice Day is a day not only of national, but of international importance. Organizations in this country and other nations are emphasizing at this time the need for a lasting world peace. Many of them have used Armistice week as a period of intensive educational work on all matters pertaining to world justice and peace.

There is an increasing demand that some method be found for the peaceful settlement of the disputes of all nations. New attitudes concerning war with its terrifying carnage are everywhere evident. The old sanctioning is fast disappearing. The time when all institutions, even the Christian church, blessed every war waged within Christendom is over. We are coming to the realization that war cannot be reconciled to a sane and progressive civilization. It is only those who cling to outworn ideas of despotic power who are willing to maintain a defense of the evil. A former chancellor of the University of Tubingen has written "A nation depends, not upon the love of others, but upon the love of self, upon the fostering and development of its own power and prosperity; and if we characterize this by the term 'egoism'—a term, indeed that is scarcely applicable—then egoism certainly is the foundation of all politcis."

It is obvious to the student of history and international relations that this that been the unfortunate policy of many nations. Even Christian nations have made small effort to conduct their relations on cooperative scales. The result is tragically evident, misunderstanding, fear, greedy imperialism, excessive nationalism, enmity—hate—war! There can be only one end to the continuation of such attitudes—destruction and chaos. The relationship of the nations thus far is impracticable and disastrous.

The attitudes and practices which are most desperately needed by the world— good-will, trust, unselfishness, cooperation, unity, and trust in spiritual forces, must soon be inculcated into the national life of a restless, suspicious world. Only by incorporating these characteristics can modern civilization be saved from destruction. Without them her very genius, scientific power, and brain will prove her undoing. Youth, intelligent, directed college youth is the logical motivating power toward these ends.

World Today

Great Britain has decided to make a "token" payment of $7,500,000 on the $117,000,000 due the United States in December. President Roosevelt said that total settlement could not be made because of present economic conditions in the world. This "token payment", however, will only be worth about $5,000,000 in gold, unless the value of the American dollar goes up. This payment will be only a very small part of the $4,300,000,000 that is still owed, but every drop in the bucket counts.

—MC—

It appears that the country has gone for repeal. Tuesday, elections to conventions were held in several states, and the anti-prohibitionists came out ahead. It will probably be the first part of December, however, before actual repeal will take place. The reason for this is that the elections only named the representatives who would be sent to the conventions. Out of the several states voting South Carolina was the only one to vote dry.

—MC—

Russia's foreign commissar Levitinov landed in New York Tuesday to make negotiations in Washington relative to the recognition of Soviet Russia in diplomatic relations by the United States. If this recognition is established, it means that both America, and the Soviet State will send ambassadors to each other, and that trade and commerce can be reestablished with ease.

Collegiate Swaps

Louis Untermeyer, one of the best known of modern American poets, visited Depauw University last week. He is the first of a series of lecturers who will speak on various arts. Mr. Untermeyer's topic was "What Americans Read and Why".

* * *

The tables were turned on the boys at a leap year dance held at the University of South Carolina. The hall became crowded with young demoiselles rushing frantically around hunting for their dates and boys getting mixed up on their "thank yous" and trying not to look self-conscious. For a week before the dance the boys were extremely courteous and friendly to the girls for fear that they would be "stuck without a date. "Take good care of my son; bring him home early" said the fond mothers whose sons were called for by girl escorts.

* * *

At Lenoir-Rhyne statistics show that women outnumber the men at chapel services. We have decided that either there are more women at Lenoir-Rhyne or else they do not have a system of 'cuts as we have.

* * *

The Duke "Blue Devils" have paassed the half-way mark in their football schedule undefeated. They feel confident of a victorious year without a defeat. Luck to you, Duke!

* * *

In the "Yellow Jacket" of Waynesburg College we see that

"Ben be nimble
Ben be quick
Ben faw over a candle stick
Ben Burnie".

* * *

American Education Week at Moorehead State Teachers College will have special significance this year because of the present educational crisis. The program has been designed to carry out the theme "Meeting the Emergency in Education".

Poetry Corner

For Armistice Day, 1933

Singer to toil, I come as one who knows
The worth of work; I, too, have felt the bands
Swell in my arms, have wiped with calloused hands
The sweat from cheeks and upper lip and brows.

Singer to war, I come as one who knows
The joy of strife; the lost, the mazed commands,
The sea of swords where one pale hero stands
With mouth tight-set against a thousand blows.

Singer to truth, I come as one who knows
That work and war and men are drifting sands,
That wind and tide alone abide these strands,
That wind and tide are blind to mortal woes.

Singer to love, why not unite our lands
And bring strong war to these unseeing foes?

—E. Thom

HIS CROSS

For quietness and strength you stand,
Precious cross serene.
Your outstretched, aching arms demand
The sacrifice supreme.
So fearlessly you hold your head,
Most noble cross revered;
Though ruthless men, whose hearts are dead,
Your beauties have besmeared.
The earth shall melt with fervent heat,
You'll stand—Christ's cross sublime.
'Tis in you God and mortals meet,
Through you, men heavenward climb.

—Micheal P. Testa

INDIAN SUMMER

In the crispy tang of autumn
When the geese are flying high,
And the clouds in long battalions
Go marching 'cross the sky.

When the leaves are turning yellow
And the reds and browns appear,
The epitaphs of summer
Tell us winter's drawing near.

Like some fair reluctant maiden
Who hesitates to part,
And stays to give her wooer
The love left in her heart.

So summer turns and smiles once more,
And with a final sigh,
Blows a kiss to all mankind
And turns her head to die.

—G. F. Greiner

On Tuesday evening in the Graystone Church at Knoxville a meeting of the members of the Knoxville group of Maryville Alumni was held. President Lloyd, Miss Clemmie Henry, and Mrs. F. L. Proffitt went to Knoxville to attend. Rev. Theron Alexander, pastor of the Park City Church, is president of the organization and Mr. J. B. Young is secretary.

A number of suggestions were made as to worth while projects which the club might undertake. A supper meeting is to be held in January at which time Dr. Lloyd will speak, and reports of the activities of the club will be given.

Considerable emphasis is being placed on the organization of such groups in different towns and cities, and it is hoped that much may be accomplished for the interest of the college through these clubs.

We must get back to the truth that education is not training, nor is it propaganda.—Dr. Robert E. Inson, president Western Reserve University.

Number of Maryvillians See "Green Pastures"

"Green Pastures", a play which depicts with great power the southern negro's conception of earth and paradise, was received with much enthusiasm at the Knoxville Lyric Theatre, last Monday and Tuesday, November 6th and 7th. About fifty members of the college students and faculty, took advantage of the opportunity to see the play, written, not by a negro but by a white man, Marc Connelly. The play has been received with remarkable enthusiasm in New York, Boston, Philadelphia, and Chicago, and has only recently appeared in the south.

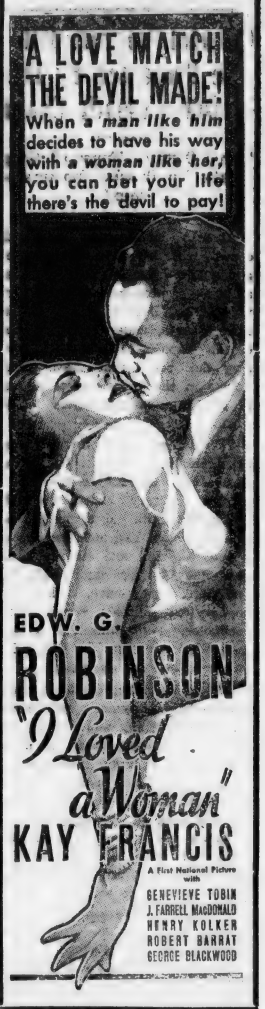
Richard B. Harrison, who played the role no other actor has ever played, played it on Tuesday night for the 1,340th time. Daniel L. Haynes, star of the motion picture Hallelujah attracted much comment by his portrayal of Adam.

CARLISLE'S
5c AND 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

McBRAYER
SHOE SHOP
Under Carlisle's 5c and 10c Store

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.

Effective June 12, 1932



Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*Direct connections to Townsend

PALACE THEATRE
Next Monday and Tuesday
November 13 and 14

NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY
Always at your service

The
Byrne Drug Co.
The Students' Drug Store

H. T. HACKNEY
WHOLESALE
GROCERIES
KNOXVILLE, :-: TENNESSEE

JUNIORS!
Support your Chilhowean Staff by having your Annual Pictures made NOW, and don't forget Photographs solve your Christmas problem.
THE WEBB STUDIO

Echo Sports

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

From all available dope Maryville should hit the victory trail today and stay there thru the two grilling conference games to follow, thus closing what most pressmen would call a respectable season. With Milligan in the shade with a .000 conference rating, Carson-Newman looms as the one to beat if the Highlanders hope to grab off an available front seat. Unless King blasts their iron rule over the conference today, the Eagles will meet the Scots unbeaten on November 31. The battle, not only deciding the league title, will be a memorable one because of the rivalry existing between the two teams, and will probably be the best battle seen in th loop this season. It would be a great thing if Maryvillians could attend in a body, and present a cheering section as tho it were on Wilson field. Since it is only a matter of forty miles, plus a small bus fare, those who can should go and back the Scots.

—S—

One silghtly battered and tottering, yet happy, thought we've been able to salvage from the scrap-heap of last week's defeat at the hands of Tennessee Teachers is that the luckless Highlanders are not so far out of the Smoky Mountain Conference spotlight as many dopesters have prematurely put them. Because Carson-Newman college happens to hold the only ace at the present does not mean that there is not one in the deck for the Scotties, for there is, and we predict that it is slated for the last card. If you please, we cherish a little ol' philosophy—impractical, perhaps, but optimistic—that a luckless team will get the breaks by and by, and that points nowhere but to the Carson-Newman Eagles, who, our philosophy tells us, will interpose little else but forty miles between the Highlanders and a right to the conference championship, when the two teams meet there November 31.

—S—

And that, to be consistent, folds the wings of Brother Milligan, who plays here Saturday in the last home tilt, and tucks him neatly away in the big orange and garnet bag for another season and another conference marker. Agnostics and doubters should be reminded that Brother Milligan's standing in the conference is practically nil, and that Carson-Newman pulled his beard for forty-nine points earlier in the season—hence the aforementioned consistency.

—S—

Of interest to the sporting world is the little intersectional flareup between George Washington university and the University of Tennessee which arose last week over the barring of three stellar G. W. players because of eligibility rulings when the two teams met in Washington, November 4. The three players were declared ineligible after they were found to have completed their full quota of playing years at another college before coming to the capitol university, but authorities at G. W. chose to shade the truth and argue that Tennessee officials had acted unfairly in barring them at "the eleventh hour". Disgusted Washingtonians are only now beginning to "see the light", to the disgrace of G. W. athletics. A Washington sports writer recently exposed that G. W. officials knew of their plight at least two days before the game, but were afraid to announce it to Washington, fearing the probable decrease in gate receipts, on which the university de-

(Continued on page four)

Scotties Face Light Task In Carolina Tilt

Cullhowee Teachers, Defeated All Season, Will Present Little Opposition

CAPTAIN RUSSELL IS OUT

Starting Lineup Shows Many Reserve Men Filling Important Positions

Bristling with that traditional Highlander spirit, twenty three hardy footballers boarded the big, brown bus early this morning and rode over the hills into the valley of the big, bad mountaineers, where they will romp for sixty minutes in the brisk mountain air with the Cullhowee Teachers this afternoon.

Since the Teachers have garnered not a ribbon out of the year's football fishpond the Scotties, who are slightly the worse for the season's wear, are expected to topple the Carolina institution with power to spare. With Captain Russell nursing a chest injury and Chambers called home because of illness, the Highlanders will not place the strongest combination available on the field, yet, we feel, strong enough to capture the well known wreath.

The work of the week has included two lnegthy scrimmages, in which the Maryville line has shown clockwork performance. Collins, hefty bull-wark in both the line and backfield, will continue his position at guard, and is expected to measure up to old time form tomorrow, which is bloody and terrible when he really does it.

With the defensive quarter well taken care of, the squad spent the remaindr of the week in polishing up a snappy aerial offensive, a weapon which is becoming more and more useful to the Scots, and tapering off with light signal drill and charging practice.

Filling Captain Russell's position at center will be his understudy, Bailey, who has given some excellent performances this season, and who will be invaluable to the Scot ranks next year. Russell has refrained from practice this week, and is being brought along slowly so as to be assured of efficiency in the nearing Carson-Newman tilt.

The tentative starting lineup, as given by Coach Honaker, lists Atkins and Gwynn at ends; Cochrane and Millsaps at tackles; Collins and Atchison, guards, with Bailey at center. In the backfield will be an effective combination of Blazer, Kizer, Boretsky, and Gillepsie, lined up as in last week's game. Others making the trip are Kalman, Henry, Gamble, Feezell, Klink, Holliday, Renfro, Krainock, West, Crawford, Blazer and Payne.

The loss of Chambers, freshman end who was called home early in the week, is replaceable for the remainder of the sason, but the graduation of Gwynn and Atkins in June will make his loss felt keenly. Chambers gave no reason for his departure other than that he was called.

CORRECTION

In place of the statement in last week's ECHO that Johnson's victory in the women's singles tourney marked the first turnover of the title since Inez Hamrick attended Maryville College, the sports department wishes to substitute that such is not the case, since Johnson has been the victor previous to this time. Also, she is seeded number one, instead of number two as stated in the ECHO.

Amateur Professionalism

(By DICK MEADOWS)

Athletics, to the large American university means, primarily, football As goes the football team, so goes the remainder of the teams. A winning football team is usually accompanied by winning baseball and basketball teams. To have a winning football team is essential to the welfare of all the other sports.

Why is it that the success of all the other athletics depends upon the success of football? Money. The public does not mind paying the price to see its favorite team win, but it will not pay to see that same team lose. The losing team ceases to be a favorite and some winning team seduces the public, and, consequently the pocket-book.

There are two essentials to a good football team. First, good men; second, a good coach. What happens when a previously consistent winner loses two or three consecutive games? A low whisper may be heard, "Fire the coach." This whisper grows louder, and finally becomes a roar. The team must win, so out goes the coach and in comes a younger man who is supposed to put into the team that fighting spirit which causaes men to carry on to victory.

At Notre Dame the day of Knute Rockne is gone. With the passing of the "old master" has come the gradual passing of the impregnability of the Notre Dame teams. Hunk Anderson took up the coaching task where Rockne left it and has done as well as any other coach would have done under the same circumstances. This year the breaks have gone against Anderson and the Ramblers have lost three successive games. The winning football team is not present and as the public realizes this fact the gate receipts begin to decrease. What happens? The whisper begins, "Fire Anderson."

In the small college there is a different story. Gate receipts are not most important factor. The small college football player goes to college for an education and plays football because he likes the game. He pays his own expenses or gets a job which enables him to earn his expenses. When the team loses several games in one season the old whispr, "Fire the coach", may be heard occasionally, but it is only a whisper, not a roar.

When the small college team gives its best in a game, whether to win, lose, or draw, the student body is proud of it. When the coach gives his best to the team, he is not discharged because the team loses its games. The whisperers may be abroad doing their evil work, but they have no business on a college campus. They are regarded with contempt by the good sportsman, who sees a football game for the game's sake, and not for the sole purpose of seeing his favorite team win.

SPANISH CLUB

A very interesting program was presented at the meeting of the Spanish Club last Tuesday evening. Louis Krainock addressed the meeting on the subject "The Spanish Government", Myrtis Baldwin outlined the life of Cervantes, and Eleanor Denslow entertained the members with a reading entitled "The Golden Bracelet".

The next Spanish Club meeting will be held on November 21st.

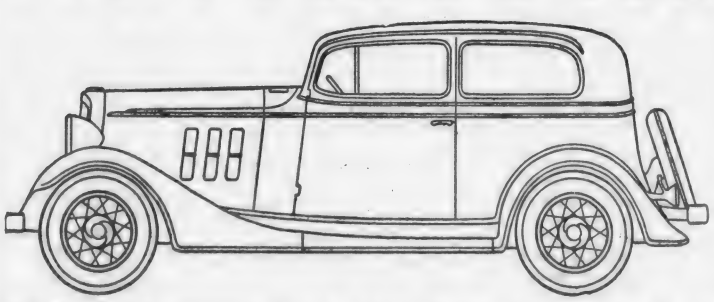
Fans Will See Good Race In Cross Country

Entry List Shows Nine Fast Men; Includes Many Newcomers

The Y. M. C. A. Athletic Board this morning made formal announcement concerning entries received for the annual five-mile cross country race, to be run next Saturday afternoon. The list contains several old favorites, along with many newcomers.

The entries received are: Graydon Paul, Sturat Snedecker, James Saint, Stanley McCleave, Lance Staley, Tully Williams, James Ferger, Edward Thom, and Rom Mears.

Snedecker, who was clocked close on the heels of Moore's new record last year, but who was disqualified because of his late start, has tapered off a long period of intensive training and will be out to carry the event he so narrowly missed before.



Paul, steadfast miler and veteran cross-countryman, will be close on Snedecker's heels, if not ahead of him, when he finishes on the fifty yard line Saturday. Paul crossed the line in second place last year.

A newcomer to the ranks is James Saint, but Saint looks good, and has an almost inexhaustible supply of what it takes to get him around five miles in a hurry. Looming as a dark horse he has a good chance to cop any of the three posiions.

The run will begin at the start of the Milligan game, and will finish at the fifty yard line sometime during the half.

FREE! FREE! FREE!

Chevrolet Automobile

This Beautiful Chevrolet Coach, 1933 Model, fully equipped and four other prizes will be given away. Ask us about it.

ABSOLUTELY FREE

CHANDLER-SINGLETON CO.

KAMPUS KOMMENT

Our little ole Observation writer just would have a vacation this week! And since we can't publish an ECHO with a blank column we find ourselves racking our brains, or whatever it is we rack.

—0—

Not that the said column writer doesn't deserve a vacation, y'know. After observing for more than two years who wouldn't want a chance to go absent-minded? We would! Still,—this finds us chewing our pencil.

—0—

At least two people get a vacation out of this, the other being the much talked of Mr. Kipp with his firing, no, I guess we mean fireman-like qualities. We positively refuse to pass comment on that worthy gentleman.

—0—

We did what most people do when they're minus inspiration, we appealed to our roommates. One suggested a column called Misplaced Halos, the other a series of character sketches under the general heading of Atrocious Awses. Now, with all due respect to our roommates, wouldn't you rather not take a chance, readers? Yeah, so would we—rather not!

—0—

At least we have a good mood to start out with, which is something. Said good mood being due to the fact that for the first time in the history of the new deal we haven't a test of any description in the near future—meaning the next three days.

—0—

Speaking of tests reminds us to wish that all professors would be as nonchalant in these matters as our Herr Hussey. When asked by one of his young nuisances when the next test was to be, Dr. Hussey, with a faintly bewildered expression, took a turn about his desk and replied "er-a-well, that is, not recently."

—0—

And while we're on tests we can't help commenting on the type imposed upon us by the honorable Mr. Griffitts. His plan, you know, is to furnish each student with one sheet of paper upon which all knowledge must be condensed. Even at that one is likely to get a note on the empty other side saying "Leave more space next time, please!" At least one couldn't accuse the chemistry professor of being Marathon-minded.

—0—

We would particularly like to point out the efficacy of such a procedure to one Dr. McMurray, whose pet educational theory, unfortunately, seems to be that quantity is an indispensable quality.

—0—

No doubt that is enough about the faculty. We wander on to something else, the first thing coming to mind being our new steps. We like them. Yessir! Besides improving a drab spot, and being a much more "college-like" entrance than any other approach on our campus they are aa real benefit in the matter of exercise. We account for our recent loss of five pounds by the presence of these steps, and recommend them to—well, anyone of a number of people. And that includes—well, several people.

—0—

There is at least one group of people in these United States who are not included in the N.R.A. code. Matrons, and proctors, heaven help 'em, are simply not in a position to benefit by the code hours.

We don't know, though. Some one must have been off duty when some facetious little freshman girl took occasion to lock seveal gentlemen in a dormitory room recently. We imagine the gentlemen involved determined not to be so obliging about returning tables in the future. People enjoy their jokes, tra-la-la.

Miss Willamara Minton, '31 is doing graduate work in Science in the University of Tennessee.

...instrel Show Amuses Bainonian Members

The freshmen girls of Bainonian presented a minstrel at the meeting of their society on Saturday night. The program was as follows:

Ukulele Selection—Jean Thomson
Reading—Beatrice Harrison
Trio Selections—Calista Palmer, Bernice Gaines, Virginia Worth
Duet—Sylvia Epright, Mary Wilson
Tap Dance—Virginia Worth, Catherine Smith
Reading—Ruth Clopton
Skit—Emma Morgan, Jo Winner, Elizabeth Carlisle, Miriam King, Dorothy Richards, Arlene Fuller, and Elizabeth Brimfield

The program was enjoyed so much by the Bainonian members that the cast was requested to repeat the performance at the "As You Like It" on the same night. The players readily consented to give the program again and were received by an enthusiastic and delightful audience.

DEBATE WAS FEATURE OF THETA EPSILON MEETING

A mock debate was the outstanding number on Theta's program last Saturday evening. Debaters were Clifford Withers, Roberta Howie, Florence Hyde, and Mary Gladys Brown.

Others who took part in the program were Mimi Baez, who sang and played the guitar, Martha Cooper, who played a piano solo, and Marian Aliee Faulkner, who read "In the Royal Garden".

ALPHA SIGMA ELECTS

Alpha Sigma Society met last Saturday evening, November 4, to elect the officers who are to serve during the second quarter of the college year. The following were chosen to hold office:

President—John McQueen
Vice President—Melvin Clopton
Recording Secretary—Ernest Lowe
Assist. Recording Secretary—John Eyster
Program Secretaries—Roland Beck, Carl Fisher
Censors—Robert Brown, Wimberley O'Neil, Louis Krainock
Editor—Edward Hitt

Y. W. CABINET

On Sunday, November 5, the Y. W. C. A. Cabinet selected six members who are to compose what will be known as the Junior Cabinet. Formerly this organization was called the Freshman Cabinet. Although the name has been changed, the objective is the same, its purpose being to affiliate freshmen and other new girls with the Y. W. activities and projects.

This Junior Cabinet will hold office until the term of the present officers expires in March.

The members are: Florence Bruno, Helen Chambers, Joan Dexter, Joyce Fields, Edith Nicolai, Calista Palmer.

The Senior and Junior Cabinets are to meet together on November 19th.

Y. M. C. A. PROGRAM

Sunday, November 12, 1:15 p. m.
Prelude—Ensemble
Call to Worship—Stanley McCleave
Song No. 193—Jesus Shall Reign
Song No. 279—God of Our Fathers
Scripture—Deut. 8:6-18—Willis E. Garrett
Prayer—Paul McCandless
Song No. 280—America the Beautiful
Reading—George Stanley
Speaker—"Christ on the Battlefiel!" Dr. C. E. Barbour, Pastor Second Presbyterian Church, Knoxville
Special Music
Reading—Charles Gillander
Song No. 150—America
Benediction—Dr. C. E. Barbour
Postlude—Ensemble

Mrs. Wagner Newberry, a graduate and former teacher in the college, is studying in the graduate school of the University of Tennessee.

SUPERIOR SCOTTIES

Some people seem to be born with a tremendous capacity to do things, having an ability to engage in many activities with a great deal of success.

One such person on the Hill is Frederick Karl Kirchner of Newark, New Jersey. A listing of the activities in which he is interested is surprising. In addition to carrying a full school schedule, he is president of the local chapter of Phi Kappa Delta, national honorary debate fraternity. He also holds the presidency of the Student Council which, under his guidance, is accomplishing much this year.

During his stay at Maryville he has been identified with Athenian Literary Society. Last year he was business manager of the society's mid-winter production, Dracula, and this semester he is president of the society.

His three-years' work in the YM cabinet have brought him through successive steps to the chairmanship of the Lyceum committee, a post for which he is admirably fitted. The committee has succeeded in bringing to a Maryville audience the world-famed Don Cossack Chorus.

From time to time in the past three years he has been prominent in various clubs, such as the Triangle Club, the German Club, and the Nature Club, and has been elected to office in some of them.

Particularly as a freshman and sophomore was he interested in debate. He was a member of the freshman debate squad, and in his sophomore year he participated in varsity debates for Maryville.

Certainly not the least of the distinctions which have come to Fred is the making of the Honor Roll every one of the six semesters in which he has attended Maryville. His records show in regular curriculum studies nothing under a B.

Such is a glimpse at the record of Fred Kirchner, the Superior Scottie whom the ECHO this week takes pleasure in presenting to the student body.

GERMAN CLUB

The German Club met Friday night, November 4, in Theta Hall under the direction of Professor Lagerstedt. "Little Red Riding Hood" was presented by the second year students. Those taking part were, Betty Kent, Janet Warren, Elizabeth McNamara, G. Greiner, and W. McIntyre. Following the play, a number of German folk songs were sung by the entire group. Nominations for officers were made.

NATURE CLUB

At the last meeting, which has held on Wednesday evening, the Nature Club discussed the requirements for entrance to the society. It was decided that a person desiring admission would be expected to take seventeen tests, twelve of which must be passed in order to become an active member, and all of which must be passed to become a full-fledged member.

Charles Sheddan addressed the meeting on the subject "Skunks", and Dorothy Hassall spoke about "The Dispersion of Seeds".

Mr. Earl Martin, '17, and his family have recently moved into their lovely new home on Willard Avenue in Maryville.

Student Volunteers

(Continued from page one)

council was that those students be allowed to join who will never become missionaries, but who are interested enough in missions to become members of a student missionary fellowship.

With Elizabeth Gillis at the retreat were Florence Hyde, Elizabeth Peterson, Robert Smyrl, and Stuart Gillis. Seven colleges in the state were represented by eighteen delegates.

AS YOU LIKE IT

(Continued from page one)

cation in general was presented, and the other, "The Sequel", by Roberta Howie. Included also in this period were musical numbers offered by George Lehr, Lucille Swafford, Charlotte Upp, and Ruth Flint.

The "As You Like It" programs, inaugurated several years ago, have come to hold a definite place in the social schedule of the college, and this year are under the direction of the Social Committee, consisting of Gordon Groomes, chairman; Robert Tripp, Ruth Farley, Lucy Hauser, Warren Warman, and Harry Walrond.

The next "As You Like It" will be held about the middle of December.

CHEMISTRY CLUB

The Chemistry Club met Tuesday night in Science Hall. Miss Carrol made a very interesting speech on "Heavy Water". An interesting fact about this water is that it costs $150 a gram.

SPORT TALK

(Continued from page three)

pends for the maintenance of its athletic department.

—S—

Although the problem of gate receipts confronts most of the leading universities and colleges in America, it is a shylockish one, and can but be frowned upon by the true sportsman, for it not only involves the importation of brilliant players, and fabulous salaries paid to the coaching staff, but also the ruin of a good coach's career if he fails to produce a winning team. This kind of situation proved embarrassing to George Washington University last week; this kind of situation is causing the downfall of "Hunk" Anderson in his luckless efforts to guide the Notre Dame Ramblers to victories; and there are many others. Perhaps we could call it amateur professionalism. Is it any wonder that many athletic leaders are denouncing intercollegiate football in favor of professional football?

DR. S. D. MOUNT
Dentist
First National Bank Bldg.
Phone 323

Wright's 5&10c Store
"Where a little money goes a long way"

... TRY ...
TURNER'S NEW LUNCH ROOM
FOR GOOD 5 CENT SANDWICHES

WOMEN'S SUEDINE
Jackets
$1.98
$3.49

THEY ARE ALL THE GO!
Marvelous values in suede jackets. Plaid lined and in bright colors such as—Blue, Green, Red, also tan and brown. Sizes 14 to 20.

WOMEN'S JERSEY
DRESSES
$1.98

Very new, unusual neck features, scarf collars—colors Red, Blue, Brown and Green. Sizes 14 to 20.

FREE
Plymouth Coach

Proffitt's Bargain Basement Proffitt's

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18/9 MARYVILLE. TENNESSEE NOVEMBER 18, 1933 NUMBER NINE

Interesting Work On Concept Formation Goes Forward In Laboratories

Experiments and Investigations Of Dr. Fields Point To Unusual Facts

At a recent faculty dinner Dr. Fields, head of the Psychology Department gave a review of the research work on Concept Formation in which he has been engaged since 1926. During two years of this time he was working under a National Research Council Fellowship at Stanford University, and for four months was permitted to visit the research laboratories of other leading schools.

Prior to 1926 it was the general belief that white rats had imperfect vision. Dr. Fields devised a new apparatus which indicated that rats have a fairly accurate sense of sight, and are able to discriminate between various geometrical figures, although they must be very close to an object t see it.

This having been proved, he sought by further experiments, to determine whether white rats' perception o. triangularity is similar to human perception, or whether they merely react to triangles of a certain size and brightness as the result of training.

Dr. Fields also sought to measure the ability of other species in their relation to man by experimenting with raccoons. The racoons learned in two hundred trials what it had taken nearly two thousand trials for the rats to learn in making correct responses.

Gellerman at Yale continued the same problem, experimenting with chimpanzees and with children two years of age, and found the children to be superior in responses.

Apparently the greatest difference between the chimpanzees and the children was the children's attempts toward speech. The fact that the chimpanzees did not learn as rapidly as Dr. Fields' raccoons is probably due to other factors in the experimental situation and not to their lack of innate ability.

The conclusion reached from all these experiments was that animals may, by a period of training, be able to establish simple concepts similar to those of man.

At present there are eighty white rats in the psychology laboratory, The class in Experimental Psychology is to work with these rats or different types of discrimination experiments. Last year a Maryville student found rats that he believed could distinguish between different grades of sand paper with their feet. Further investigations will be made in this field, varieties of experiments being performed to demonstrate the different drives. Additional work is to be done in maze solving, also.

CHEMISTRY LECTURER SPEAKS ON PERFUMES

Dr. M. P. Bogert, well known biological chemist of Columbus University, gave an illustrated lecture on Tuesday, November 14th at the University of Tennessee. His subject "Around the World in Search of Perfumes" was enjoyed by an audience of one hundred and fifty people. Many Maryville College students and faculty members attended.

Theta was entertained Saturday night by their brother society, Alpha Sigma. The entire program was under the direction of John Eyster. The program was as follows:

Orchestra Begins Work On Varied Programs

Personnel Has Recently Been Completed

The College Orchestra, under the direction of Miss Mildred Butcher, has not as yet formed definite plans for their work during the year. However, the personnel of the Orchestra has been determined. Definite programs will be scheduled after the Christmas season.

The members are as follows:

Violin—Mary Hollis Carter, Clark Lathan, Glover Leitch, Lucille Swafford, Lillian Crawford, Frances Deal, Raymond Wilbar, Barbara Whitmore, Emily Watson, Abby Higgins, Jeanne Fenn, Frank Smith, Josephine Winner, Marcella Bealles.

Viola—Martha Martin.

Cello—Julia Hilditch

Bass Viol—Charles Gillander

Flute—Boyce Jarman

Clarinet— Frank Mease, Lance Staley, Norman Beamer

Cornet—John Phay, Ruth Flint, Harold Truebger.

Horns in F—John Ingram

Saxophone—Kathryn Simmons

Drum—Harold Jones

Piano—Harriet Clark

Director—Mildred Butcher

Y. M. C. A. Will Present Minstrel Show on Dec. 1

The first big minstrel that has been given in several years at Maryville College will be sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. in Voorhees Chapel, December 1, at 8 o'clock. The proceeds will go towards various improvements in Bartlett Hall.

Herman Magee, chairman of arrangements, and Michael Testa, director, have arranged for two and a half hours of songs, jokes, tap dancing, orchestral music, and skits. The Dixie Vagabond quartet and the Men's Glee club will present several numbers. Negro parson sermons, and a mock divorce trial are other features of the program. Admission will be twenty-five cents.

Y. W. C. A.

Contributions of other races to our thought and culture will be the second phase of World Fellowship to be presented in Y. W. Katherine Orr is in charge of the meeting.

Full Cast Announced For "Berkeley Square"; Intensive Work Begun

"Berkeley Square", to be given by the College Players on Tuesday, November 28, at 8 o'clock, will undoubtedly prove one of the season's most outstanding plays. The play had a successful run in New York and in London, and promises much interest.

In the theater today the aim is not so much to portray passions but to achieve, through the exercise of ingenuity, sentiment, fancy, and charm. The production of Berkeley Square provokes these reactions for in it we have another stunt play which leaves far behind all major emotions and plays very agreeably with an ingenious fancy. This is done easily and with so little evident machinery that it is as convincing as a fanciful theme could be. Suspense is well puheld, and an interesting sense of mystery pervades the play.

The plot is quite different from the usual run of college plays, concerning itself with the love story of a present day American who is unceremoniously thrust into the bewigged and powered life of Eighteenth century London, and an English girl who has been dead more than one hundred years before his birth.

Miss Wilhelmina Holland is general director of the production. The lead role, Peter Standish, will be taken by Michael Testa, as has lately been announced. Other members of the cast are:

Maid - - Josephine Woodward
Tom Pettigrew - - Herr Wissler
Kate Pettigrew - - Nina Gamble
The Lady Anne Pettigrew - - Frances Massey
Mr. Throstle - Arthur G. Courtenay
Helen Pettigrew - Lorena M. Dunlap
The Ambassador - - - - - Andrew Alexander
Mrs. Barwick - - - Ruth Proffitt
Marjorie Frant - Veta M. Stephens
Major Clinton - - Calvin Schmidt
Miss Barrymore - Mary F. Dunlap
Lord Stanley - - Willis Garrett
The Duchess of Devonshire - - Leone Ann Brown

Members of the producing staff are: Mary Gladys Brown, stage manager and Ruth Proffitt and Josephine Woodward, business managers.

Maryvillians Assisted In Musical Program

College Glee Club And Orchestra Contribute To Town Club

A number of college students took part in a program given at the Maryville Music Club last Thursday evening in the Southern Methodist Church.

The subject was discussed in a paper entitled "Dance Forms and Music" and was read by Mrs. W. C. Winters. The types of dances referred to were the saraband, the minuet, the bourree, the gigue, and the waltz. The program was as follows:

Saraband
Mrs. Merle Hall

Minuet from Don Juan - - Mozart
Minuet from Serenade - - Mozart
Minuet from Sixth Suite - Rameau
College Ensemble

Bourree - - - - - - Bach
Gigue - - - - - - Bach
Garnet Manges

Star of the Night - Forman
Love's Dream After the Ball - Arr. by Houseley
College Girl's Sextet

Hungarian Dance - - Moskowski
Miss Tedford and Mrs. Stubert

The Glee Club members who took part were Calista Palmer, Violet Webb, Sylvia Epright, Bernice Gaines, Virginia Worth, Lucille Swafford, Mimi Baez, and Helen Chambers.

The Orchestra members were Glover Leitch, Clark Lathan, Mary Hollis Carter, Julia Hilditch, and Martha Martin.

There is but one name by which to call dishonesty, whether it be of the crude or the refined sort.

+ + + +

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - - Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors
Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor
Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - - - Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs
Katharine Orr - - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - - Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - - - Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - - Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Freshman Apprentices
Helen Chambers, Ann McCambridge, Bernice Gaines, Frances Henson, Mary Porter Hatch, Boyce Jarman, Edward Thaw, Douglas Woods, Richard Meadows

Business
Jesse Willis - Business Manager
Sam Waid - - - Asst. Bus. Mgr.
G. Edward Friar - Asst. Bus. Mgr.

Subscription Rates - - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, November 18, 1933

An interesting suggestion was recently made by President Alfred Upham of Miami University. In substance it was this: that a college degree of M. C. standing of Master Citizen be conferred upon young college alumni who made good in public life. Dr. Upham believes that there is a deplorable lack of intellectual living on the part of most college graduates.

"Through all this scathing criticism directed toward higher education," said Dr. Upham, there runs an unpleasant thought which must come to all of us. Are we sending out into life young men and women who use their brains in matters of public concern?"

To Dr. Upham's mind the gravest reflection on America is the pitiably small number of graduates who continue to lead anything like an intellectual life. He contends that he does wish college graduates who are highbrows, but merely people who read and appreciate good books, who are able to formulate opinions of their own which go deeper than newspaper headlines, who take a responsibility for the welfare of their community, in short those who can appreciate and enter into a life which has a broad scope. Dr. Upham seemed to lay the blame for lack of such people largely upon the existing college curriculum.

We disagree with him, and lay the blame where it belongs, in the disinterested college student. One has but to notice the small number of people who use the library for purposes other than necessary study, the comparatively small number who make use of the current periodicals and newspapers, the large number who deliberately shun the advantages offered them in splendid lyceum attractions, the indifference attached to intellectual college activities, to know where the blame belongs. Decidedly it is not on the college curriculum, but on the unconcerned, apathetic student who fails to recognize that the valuable life consists in recognition of opportunity not only in the field directly before his eyes, but in other and larger fields as well.

Sermonette

RELIGIOUS PATRIOTISM

There are some who will say that patriotism cannot be mixed with religion. Others will say on the contrary, that it can be and often is. He who is neither patriotic nor religious is perhaps the cynical pessimist that we all abhor. A sad state of affairs is that! Now just where do we stand? Are we going to say that religion should not be bound up with our patriotism, or vice versa? Or are we going to say that both are necessary for real patriotism? Will mixing religion with patriotism degrade either quality?

When the Roman conquerors returned as victors from the ravages of war, they returned amidst gay festivities and celebration. The people were offering sacrifices to their gods! That was their religion. At the same time they were acclaiming their hero as the savior of their homeland, heaping upon him rewards untold, and hailing him as their almighty conqueror. That was their patriotism. In many cases that hero was even deified. That was the result of their patriotic zeal combined with their religious fervor. Patriotism and religion were not here separated. It is almost impossible to think of the Hebrews without combining their religion and national life! The same was true of Greece; of France; of early England, and so on. What about America? Is she an exception? Is the patriotic American a non-religious atheist? Does he refrain from thinking of God in his national life? I here refer to the honest and truly American patriot, not to the critic of doubt and despair.

Our Pilgrim fathers not only brought with them pure English patriotism but they brought their God with them, and followed Him as a guide in national life. It is good to think of that as being carried out today. I doubt very seriously if any of us think very often of our national life without realizing the fact that the affairs of as great a nation as ours cannot be controlled purely by human minds. If that were so, America, long ago, would have crumbled in the dust. Unconsciously we think of "The God of our Fathers" when we sing the chorus of "America" or the national anthem. We often like to break away from tradition, but the old tradition of America being founded for religious freedom is not broken, and may it never be!

It is sad to say that our patriotism very often shows little enthusiasm. Many of us are unaware that a short time ago was Columbus day. Where was our patriotism? After all, the life and spirit of the American people is the substance of our country's patriotism. The minor holidays in our national life should be made more of in the way of showing forth our patriotic spirit. The birthdays of many of our great men pass by almost unnoticed by those of us who claim American citizenship. It is not fair in the sight of our country's honor and virtue. Let us bolster up our patriotism and let it shine.

The God who controlled the destinies of ancient empires, guides the destinies of twentieth century nations. Subtract religion from patriotism, and the latter will be a half-hearted affair. Religion in our national life gives strength and vitality to our patriotic zeal; they go hand in hand. We cannot leave God out! If we do, the doom of America is sealed! May we pray for salvation from apostasy!

America! America!
God shed Hiis grace on thee,
And crown thy good with brotherhood
From sea to shining sea!

—Frank R. Mease

King Prajadhhipok of Siam has a country estate at Towanda, Pennsylvania.

World Today

American composers are getting near and nearer to their sought after goal—which is getting their works played by our major symphony orchestras. Foreign conductors, with a few exceptions, have refused to give American composers a chance. Now Bruno Walter, who has just begun the current New York Philharmonic-Symphony concerts will perform several symphonies by American composers.

—MC—

Dr. Damrosch asked aid for destitute musicians. He said that the N. R. A. is helping everyone but musicians. He concluded his speech by saying that without music this would be an empty world.

—MC—

Fiorella La Guardia was elected mayor of New York City on the Fusion ticket. This is the first time in two decades that Tammany has not elected the mayor.

—MC—

The student revolution group in Cuba finally broke with President Grau. Over one hundred people were killed and more than three hundred were wounded. American ships stood by, but they found that it was unnecessry to intervene because the rebels were soon put down by the Grau soldiers.

—MC—

Our government is seeking jobs for 2,000,000 unemployed. This is an effort to take men who are now on work relief and put them on "regular work at regular wages". This measure will also give relief to thousands of jobless women because jobs are to be created for them.

—MC—

Monday night in a desperate effort to save the tottering world arm. conference Prime Minister J. Ramsey MacDonald invited Germany to return to the parley. He declared that a disarmament agreement without Germany's signature would be futile.

—MC—

Out of an eligible electorate of more than 45,000,000, more than 40,500,000 Germans voted to support the National Socialist attitude in quitting the disarmament conference, and the League of Nations. Hitler, however, must have been disappointed in his hopes for a unanimous vote, because over 2,000,000 voted against the policy.

—MC—

After five years of research the Inter-American commission of women has finished a report on laws governing the legal status of women in countries of the Western Hemisphere. Some of the intersting facts that they found is that in Costa Rica, women cannot hold public office; only a widowed grandmother is permitted to act as tutor or guardian. This prevents a widowed mother from being guardian of her own children.

BAINONIAN PROGRAM

The Bainonian Literary Society met Saturday night in Bainonian Hall, Violet Webb, who was in charge of the program, introduced each one on the program with a verse of poetry. Those participating were Joyce Fields, Dorothy Correll, Jean Thompson, Elouise Bundy, Marie Carlson, and Harriet Clark.

ATHENIAN PROGRAM

An interesting travel talk by Dr. Stevenson was the outstanding feature of the Athenian program last Saturday night. He told of a western trip which he had recently taken.

Others on the program were, Don McConnell, Bob Roberts, and Samuel Blizzard. The meeting was closed with the benediction.

ALPHA SIGMA PROGRAM

Alpha Sigma Society was entertained at its meeting on November 11 by members of its sister society, Theta Epsilon. The program included a violin solo by Betty Proper, a reading by Marian Faulkner, a vocal solo by Lillian Leland, and a playlet given by Eleanor Pflanze, Hazel White and Maisie Thomas.

The introduction of new members and the installation of new officers followed the Theta program.

Book Browsing

"Within This Present", by Margaret Ayer Barnes. Boston. Houghton Mifflin Company. $2.50

In Mrs. Barnes' latest novel, "Within This Present", there is a continuation of the excellent work done in her first novel, "Years of Grace", which was published in 1930. That book became a best seller immediately, and remained one all of that year. In 1931 it won the Pulitzer Prize. Because of its merit the author became well known in a few months after her advent as a novelist.

In Mrs. Barnes' work there is a positive attitude towards life. There is no defeatism in her records of American experience. Though she writes about people who move as centers of confusion and doubt, the reader can see the scheme beyond the chaos. Mrs. Barnes has a strong faith in the sturdiness of human nature in times of difficulty.

The American element in her novels is strong and vital. She succeeds well in giving to each character those qualities which mark the breed. Her Chicagoans could never thrive in Berlin or London. The story element she handles in a leisurely, old-fashioned way. Her long books move slowly in their narrative, and ask the reader for a perusal at some unhurried time.

"Within this Present" carries on the Barnes tradition dealing with the Chicago of the years from 1914 to 1933. Many characters, representing three generations of one family figure in the book. The narrative takes these people from the pre-war days to the present, from sureness to indecision, from a positive success to an uncertain disaster. The Sewalls base their achievement and their pride on the banking business, although the members of the family regard it in various lights. For some it is a mission, for some a way of earning bread, for some a passion, for some a time-taking nuisance. The plot centers about Sally Sewall, concerning itself with her love, her marriage, her separation and other love. Behind the individuals in the story looms the grim and colossal business background.

"Within this Present" is well done, although it is burdened a little with historical comments and disquisitions on the theory and practice of banking.

Don Cossack Chorus Gives Fine Program

As brilliant a music performance as has ever been given at Maryville College was that presented by the famous and highly-lauded Don Cossack chorus. The well balanced, perfectly arranged program displayed the remarkable range of types of music the Cossacks were capable of rendering. Folk songs, religious songs, nonsense songs, songs of war, selections from opera—these constituted a program laden with the spirit of the Russian people.

The tonal quality of the chorus singing was superb, being comparable to the heights and depths of the tonal character in great symphony orchestras. Crescendas and dimimendas could not be more perfectly regulated than they were under the master direction of Serge Jaroff, conductor. The rare beauty of the quiet tones, the intense power of the strong ones, made for a highly colorful rendition of the various numbers.

Most unusual qualities of voice were outstanding in the bass and high tenor sections. The work done by the tenors in the pianissimi passages was notable.

High points on the program were "Have Mercy on us, O Lord", which revealed the excellence of the bass section, "Preserve Us, O Lord" with its minor beauty, the joyous "Kanavka", the exquisite shading in "The Red Sarapan", and the brilliant Cossack choruses which closed the evening's entertainment.

The program was exceedingly well received, and the "Singing Horsemen" were encored many times.

CARLISLE'S
5c AND 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*Direct connections to Townsend

NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY
Always at your service

H. T. HACKNEY
WHOLESALE GROCERIES
KNOXVILLE, :-: TENNESSEE

JUNIORS!
Support your Chilhowean Staff by having your Annual Pictures made NOW, and don't forget Photographs solve your Christmas problem.
THE WEBB STUDIO

Echo Sports

HIGHLANDERS ROUT MILLIGAN, 33-0

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

The smoke left drifting over historic Wilson Field from the well-known glorious blaze created there yesterday, when the seniors staged a six-man football show all their own, is still drifting on toward a footballer's Valhalla, wherein reside the many ghosts of former Maryville football struggles. And in the midst of the jolly hullaballoo stands ol' Tom West, superb field-general that he is, marshalling his sturdy Highlanders into a mighty, immortal machine ready for action. The versatile triple-threater triple-threated up and down the gridiron all afternoon yesterday, and nothing Milligan ever had could have stopped him. It was his day—and how he used it.

—S—

Little less spectacular were the sterling showdowns of the five other seniors who played their last game for Maryville in the home fold. What more could you wish than to see Steve shaking his hips through secondary and safety to cross the line for a score, or Atkins streaking down the field with a nice, long pass from West tucked safely under his arm? And again, things wouldn't have been quite right if Kizer had not galloped a little harder, or Russell fired the boys with a little more spirit, or Gwynn held down end a little better than before. The whole team was bristling with a spirit seldom seen before. What finer attitude could have dominated the closing episode?

—S—

We could go little farther without recognizing how fortunate the Highlanders are that Louie Krainock is a junior. Louie started yesterday at right half, but that didn't keep him there. He was all over that field yesterday, tackling behind the line of scrimmage, breaking away to receive passes, stopping Buffalo aerial attacks, bucking the line, and a half dozen other things to worry the Milligan crew. Undoubtedly he is an outstanding reserve man, and will bear watching when the season rolls around next Fall. Although there's only 145 pounds of him, he makes every pound yield double return in relentless drive.

—S—

And with this, the last boulder between the Scotties and a shot at the Smoky Mountain Conference title, the slate is wiped clean for another week and a half of intensive workouts, with all roads leading to Carson-Newman college at the end of that period. Since the game will have such an important bearing on the loop title, and since it comes on turkey-day, the only human thing to do is to buy two (?) tickets and board the big bus for Jefferson City. Certainly Maryville should not be outdone by "country colleges" in carrying a cheering section. It is possible that arrangements could be made for chartering a special. Let's talk it up!

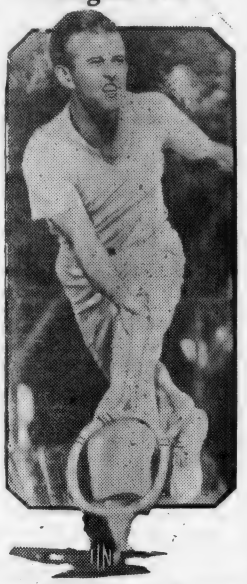
—S—

Carson-Newman college, now boasting five consecutive league victories and no losses, retained her command of the Smoky Mountain Conference last week, taming the King Tornado 15 to 6. This week the Eagles play Cumberland university, for whom this will be the first conference scrap of the season. Should Cumberland, who downed Murfreesboro 12-6, beat the Eagles

(Continued on page four)

SNEDECKER, FIRST IN FAST CROSS COUNTRY

Graydon Paul Is Second, With Saint Third; Moore's Record Of Last Year Untouched



Romping over five miles in little more than record time, as set by Spec Moore last year, Stuart Snedecker, sophomore distance man and half-miler, topped a field of eight men to win the annual cross country which was run here yesterday afternoon. Snedecker's time was 26:52 as against Moore's record run last year of 26:9.

Close on his heels was the veteran miler, Graydon Paul, who was clocked at 27:54:1-5. Paul also finished in second place last year, although Snedecker was clocked unofficially for second. Saint, who competed for the first time, finished third with less than two minutes blocking him out of second.

Rom Mears, freshman newcomer, finished in fourth place, but his time was out of the running in Maryville cross country races. Other positions were: Tully Williams, fifth; McCleave, sixth, Staley, seventh, and Berger, eighth. Berger could have finished in seventh position, but was hampered by a weak ankle.

The run was sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. athletic association. The judges and timers were Dr. McMurray, Dr. Fields, George Hoglan, and Ralph Dowell.

Collegiate No. 1

Jack Tidball, University of California net star, who has been rated as the highest ranking intercollegiate tennis player for 1933. The ruling of the Intercollegiate Tennis Committee must, however, be ratified by the U. S. L. T. A. committee at its annual Spring meet.

When the Republic of Panama took a census in 1930, the Indians in that country were not counted.

Scots Win Over Cullowhee, 13-0

Three-Game Losing Streak Is Stopped As Krainock and Collins Score In Last Quarter On Passes

Inspired by the success of a West to-Atkins pass offense the Highlander grid machine rolled and tossed its way to a 13-0 victory over the Cullowhee Teachers in the last eight minutes of play there last Saturday afternoon.

After the Scots had battled for three quarters and a half against a stubborn Carolina forewall, West sent a forward pass spinning into the open arms of Atkins, who got away for a long run down to Cullowhee's one-foot line. Krainock then drove through the line for the first marker, and West passed to Atkins for the extra point.

The second score came with less than four minutes to go when Collins grabbed a Cullowhee pass and ran twenty-five yards to the goal line. Try for point failed.

Atkin's pass receiving and West's passing were by far the outstanding offensive performances of the day, although Collins came near to stealing the show when he stopped Cullowhee's belated passing attack in the closing minutes of the game. Krainock came through with the same old drive and defensive tactics which have marked him as an outstanding reserve man all year. Gillespie was prominent on defense.

The lineup:

Maryville (13)		Cullowhee (0)
Atkins	l.e.	Ratcliff
Cochrane	l.t.	Lambert
Collins	l.g.	Justice
Bailey	c.	Hudson
Atchison	r.g.	Bailey
Millsaps	r.t.	McElroy
Kalman	r.e.	Barnhill
Shields	q.	Schackner
Boretsky	l.h.	Lyday
Kizer	r.h.	Sutton
Gillespie	f.b.	Simpson

Substitutions; Maryville: Klink, Gamble, Gwynn, Krainock, Blazer, West, Payne, Renfroe, and Holladay.

Gillingham Defeats Conover In Aerial Dart Tournament

An aerial dart tournament was held at the meeting of the M. Club Wednesday night. Mary Gillingham won the championship by defeating Cecelia Conover in the finals.

In the semi-finals Cecelia Conover defeated Eleanor Johnson and Mary Gillingham defeated Katherine Wayland.

JUNIORS, SENIORS WIN SOCCER TOURNAMENT

Point System Girls Prepare For Aerial Dart Tourney Tuesday And Thursday

The Women's Soccer Tournament ended Saturday evening with victory for the Junior-Senior team. The freshmen-sophomore team was given set downs in all the three games of the tournament.

Tuesday afternoon, November 7, the juniors-seniors won with a score of 7-3. The sophomore-freshman team put up a big fight, however, with Smith scoring 2 points. Conover and Cooley were outstanding players on the junior-senior team.

The juniors-seniors defeated the sophomores-freshmen Thursday, November 9, with a score of 9-2. Cooley on the junior-senior team played a good game as forward, scoring 7 points.

The final game was held Saturday night, November 11, with a score of 4-1. The line-up was as follows:

Freshman-Soph.		Junior-Senior
Smith	f.	Monroe
Hauser	f.	Gillingham
Baldwin	f.	Cooley
Watson	w.	Burchett
Jackson	w.	Webb
Dexter	hb.	Johnson
Froneberger	hb.	Schoeller
Brown	hb.	Coates
Hyde	fb.	Proffitt
Pennington	fb.	Hassell
Chambers	gk.	Conover

Subs. for freshmen-sophomores—Worth, Jones, Franklin, Stakleman, Harrison.

Referee—Mary Gamble

Tuesday afternoon the girls participating in the Point System began practicing Aerial Dart in preparation for a tournament to be held Tuesday and Thursday of next week. All girls who were not at practice Tuesday are urged to come out and practice so that they can enter the tournament.

More About Football, Swimming, Sport Talk On Page Four

Seniors Lead In Furious Assault

West, Kizer, Boretsky, Atkins, Russell, Gwynn Give Great Finale on Wilson Field

MILLSAPS, KRAINOCK STAR

Third Conference Win Gives Scotties Great Chance To Share In Smoky Mountain Honors

It was senior day on Wilson Field yesterday, and a half-dozen senior Highlanders made their last home stand and left the field in a blaze of glory, albeit not a thunder of cheers, leaving in their wake a saddened group of Milligan Buffaloes who had just been trimmed to the measure of 33-0. Outstanding in the backfield were West, Kizer and Steve Boretsky, all of whom made their last appearance here as Maryville footballers. Crooning their swan-song in the line were Captain Russell who played a mighty game at center, Jack Atkins who was all over the field from his end position and Stroud Gwynn, who showed the boys from Johnson City a thing or so about flank play in the short time he was in the fray.

The outcome of the day was never doubtful, it being clearly apparent that the Milliganus crew was out of its class from the first play. With the Scot line charging with the ferocity of hungry tigers and the backfield cavorting like wild horses with a purpose, the men of Honaker set in and scored a pair of counters in the first period ere the boys from upstate could decide what was up. West heaved a pass to Atkins in the old time fashion and the first touchdown was a reality, the aerial being good for forty yards. Martin Gillespie bounced one over the bar for the extra point. Later in the period, Louie Krainock recovered Ward's fumble and a Maryville triple pass was good for twenty yards and a position on the Milligan twelve. On the next play, Tom West took a whirling trip off tackle to further embarrass the boys in black for an additional touchdown. West scored another

(Continued on page four)

SAVE ON TIRES

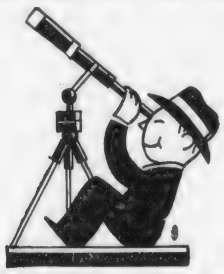
... BUY ...

STERCHI BONDED TIRES NOW

A 29x4.40 STERCHI BONDED TIRE

(6 Plies Under the Tread)

$1.82 Cash and $1.25 Per Week For 4 Weeks



To Those of Approved Credit

STERCHI BROS STORES INC. QUALITY FURNITURE

"A Safe Place to Trade"

NRA WE DO OUR PART

OBSERVATIONS

IN TIME OF PEACE

Jah, we had us a little vacation last week as you were advised by the editor, her highness. We didn't expect her to take our job, however. We recall that the last two (and only two) times we've laid off in nigh on three years was in February 1932 and November 1932. The cause for the first was a quick trip home to scare up the necessary dollars to fill a deficit in the account at school; and the second was another quick trip home through rain, hail, snow, and plenty cold weather to help get two people married. You know now what it meant to us to have a vacation in peace and quiet.

PRINTER'S ERROR, YAH

One of our observations was apparently spoiled in our last writing, but upon second observation, we let it go as 'tis. We meant to say that there was developing in Carnegie a "no shave" club, but the linotypist had to have her weekly fun and make it the "no shape" club. A little nudist observation on our part makes the latter seem every bit as appropriate for the third floor gentlemen.

THE DEAN CHIMES IN

The first rain of the season fell on the date of Dr. Hunter's Sunday School breakfast hike to keep with tradition, and of course, that brought us out as usual. On the return, in the rain, we were in a heated argument with Kipp (oh, there he is again) concerning the complexion, including color of hair of angels. Kipp, of course took the view that ALL angels are brunettes. About then the Dean took part and took our side to the ultimate defeat of Mr. Kipp's suggestions. We just wondered afterwards where the Dean got his authority for feeling so about the angels, especially in view of the fact that his own wife is not exactly a blonde.

SECOND MISSING

And now that Miss Darby's gone, we have only our roommates to quarrel with. Our last contact with Miss Darby was in taking our part against rather incriminating statements made by the former manager of the dining hall. We guess we shouldn't have been so hasty in our derogation of dining hall policy. They ring the bell even sooner now than they did. We're going to have our breakfast in bed if conditions don't pick up, and if we don't get up.

The speaker last week at the Chemical building at U. T., Mr. Bogert, is just another man who has puns with his coffee. . . . and from the report we have of him, he must drink two cups of coffee three times a day. His first effort was to clear his throat strenuously and inform the boys from Tennessee that he'd just come through the corn belt, and his throat was still a little husky. That just shows that Mr. Kirchner's type of humor, and that of J. Arthur Lazell, are used by the better sort as well.

HOW!

We've been listening to "How am I doin'" over the radio (this is a little before seven o'clock mister McCurry) and that makes us check up to see how we are doin'. . .and omy, what a shame. The further we go, the dumber we get; the less we know; the more we don't know. This is relevant only insofar as it expresses the feeling of a great many seniors.

OR MAY BE AN A

We understand that something of a similar feeling might very well be experienced by some of our freshmen friends. Reports (unauthenticated) came to us that, as usual, some of the fresh walked off with high honors of no less than 4 F's. It seems like no matter how good a crowd one gets, he's bound to get a few who just don't get off on the right foot. We're just plenty sure that a student with any incentive in the upper 2-3 of any man's High School graduating class could very handily make at least 5 D's in college.

A LITTLE PREACHING

And, as we've said plenty of times before, and as we've had said to us, if you don't have any incentive, you've not much business here. . . . or anyplace else among college students. We're right sure that college students are going to take themselves seriously before so very long.

JUST IN TIME

We experience considerable satisfaction in being able to get out of college before that condition obsesses all of our collegians, however.

A NATURAL

In case the Sports Slants writer gets the wrong slant again, as he confessed doing once before, we'd like to say that this boy Boretsky is a runner what's a runner. We think that no one had as good a time at the Milligan game as did young Stevedore. He's a man who likes football for the football, and our conception of the game teaches us that that kind of players are not flooding the market.

THE BIG FOUR

Players like Steve, Gillespie, Atkins and Gwynn will be missed next year. We think that this outfit has furnished a lot of real color to Maryville's teams. We don't mention these to the exclusion of any of the others, but because we think of these offhand. The Gwynn fellow probably has less color than any of these others, but he has that other business they yell about. . . .that fight. And incidentally Stroud has a way of making grades which leave the average grade far in the background.

UPON RETURNING

We're expecting to come back in a few years to see quarterback Honaker directing a great team. . .which might include such players as the Lloyd brothers, and er, the Orr boy. No doubt you've watched some of the passes flung between halves by the Philosophy professor's oldest sun . . . . . and they take a mean slant down the field. The quarterback would have to do the punting. He has what is considered in better football circles an accurate toe.

SHINE'S IN HARVARD PREP SCHOOL

We didn't leave the Hunter boy out. We think he'll be there. But he'll be doing the literary work. Just a chip off'n the old Block. He'll be working for the Associated press. . . the Highland Echo. . . . . associated with everything on the campus. That's it. Little George Howell will be. . well, he's a pretty fast man but we've got to have a line so we'll make him a guard playing opposite young Mr. Queener, who will be nicknamed "Butch".

FRENCH CLUB

The French Club met Wednesday night in Bainonian Hall. A play "L'Initiation" was presented by the old members for the new ones. George Stanley presided over a short business meeting in which the club elected Phillip Waechter as the new treasurer.

FELLOWSHIP CLUB

The Fellowship Club met in Bartlett Hall last Wednesday evening for its regular meeting. A short, enjoyable program was presented, and details for a weiner roast discussed.

A committee is working on the details for the roast which will take place next Wednesday evening in the college woods. Those who plan to attend are asked to pay ten cents to any of the officers of the club by Monday night. Definite notice of the time of the roast will be posted on the several bulletin boards.

CLASSES WILL HAVE TANK MEET TONIGHT

Sophomores and Frosh Will Furnish Close Competition In Dashes; Seniors Will Lose Shields

An inter-class swimming meet sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. will be held in the local tank tonight at 7:30. Each class will enter a team but the chief battle is expected to be staged between the sophomores and freshmen.

In Herries, Obert, and Greiner, the sophomores have three of last year's varsity men who will probably carry off a good many of the honors. Obert is almost a certain winner in the dives and Herries will be hard to beat in the breast stroke. The keenest competition probably will be between Ingram, sophomore, and Esbach, freshman, in the backstroke and in the dashes. Since both men are going out for the same position on the varsity team their rivalry will provide plenty of speed and competition. Although Esbach is a slight favorite over Ingram, a close race is assured.

The seniors will be handicapped by the absence of Shields, varsity captain, in the diving and in the distance swims. Shields will be away from the campus on a week-end trip, according to latest reports.

The meet will include 100-yard and 50-yard dashes, 100-yard back stroke, 100-yard breast stroke, 200 or 400-yard distance, 200-yard relay, and probably a 150-yard medley relay. There will be ten dives, five required and five optional.

SPORT TALK

(Continued from page three)

today, the Maryville—Carson Newman game there November 30 will decide the league championship, and should the Highlanders win they will garner an undisputed conference crown. If the Eagles win today, the best Maryville can do is make a draw, and the worst she can do is place second with three wins and two losses. Here is the loop standing as this sheet goes to press:

Team	W	L	T
Carson-Newman	5	0	0
Maryville	3	1	0
Teachers	1	1	0
Tusculum	1	2	1
King	1	3	1
Cumberland	0	0	0
Milligan	0	3	1

—S—

Since the season has been a hectic one for those who feel moved to predict football results, no doubt many a cigar-chewing journalist is biting his fingernails in shame. Even the baseball rodeo was a bit troublesome, as our red-faced friend, Doctuh Muhphy, of the Knoxville Journal, might tell you, since he was stubborn enough to believe in the Nats. But to the tale. After the defeat of the mighty Southern Ca' Trojans by a crew of Stanford sophomores, and the bowing, a week earlier, of Colgate before a lucky Tulane eleven, we come to the logical conclusion that there is no such thing as dope, and if there is, it can't be kept in a bucket. With the buzz at the Rose Bowl growing louder we find sports writers and commentators again picking on Georgia, and when Georgia is picked on, she can't take it. But "dope" has it that the Bulldogs are good for all the way, and so we're moved to swallow the hook once more.

—S—

Mrs. Gardenia Murphy has just begun her annual filibuster over the back fence with old lady Dingleberry about how many skewls and cullijs are swapping their coaching outfits after the season's fun is over. And out of the whole bunch apparently only one shift—not yet definitely settled—will not be the result of the "losing team" or "gate receipt" problem. Rumor hath it that Notre Dame university will extend an offer to Harry Mehre, now coaching the unbeaten, untied Georgia Bulldogs, as head coach of the Irish, to replace the deposed, unfortunate Hunk Anderson. We rather think Georgia would go a long way to prevent that, but the Indiana institution is rich—immensely rich. Another report that Major Ralph Sasse, former West Point mentor, will coach the Kentucky Wildcats is abroad, and so far no one but a Kentucky Athletic Board official has denied it. Yale is also slated for a new coach.

MINISTERIAL ASSOCIATION TAKES IN NEW MEMBERS

At the regular weekly meeting last Monday evening the Ministerial Association welcomed into its membership nine new members, and a few more are completing periods of probationary activities which, under the revised constitution, are necessary for membership.

The association is enjoying a full schedule of activities this year. Many country churches in the vicinity are dependent on the association for Sunday School teachers, preachers, and other workers both for the Sunday services and for week-night meetings. Services are held regularly at the county jail, and at the county almshouse. From time to time special calls are made upon the association. In the past month three services have been held by the organization at the C.C.C. camp at Middle Fork, Tennessee.

All men who are interested in such work are cordially invited to the meetings held every Monday night after supper in Athenian Hall.

FEATURE

(Continued from page one)

some several inches of nonsense (we, I mean I, never could get flattered over editors persistently coming to me for nonsense. Do ya s'pose their intentions are strictly on the up and level?). And so, Freddy, you are the goat. If, by any distant strain on the ole imagination, you have been unable to occupy your time better than to read this, I am very sorry to have troubled you, but Freddy, what else could you expect from such a crass exhibition of inanity as this article has clearly been from the very beginning (no cracks about whether or not it had a beginning)?

And so, Freddy, I bid you a pleasant Good Evening. But, in order to atone in some small manner for the outrageous injustice I have wrought on you, I will leave you a personal postulate, which you will find not only deliriously, depressingly disturbingly difficult but also valiantly, vigorously, veritably valuable. I always did like postulates. Since I was first disappointed by finding at the end of a thrilling adventure by Aesop a postulate set in capitals, I have carried in my head an ambition to write thrilling beginnings only to feloniously, fiendishly and foully frustrate the pinings of my gentle reader by a provoking postulate. But we dilly-daily; Freddy, your postulate: IT DON'T TAKE RINGLING OR BARNUM TO DRAW ALL THE YOKELS TO TOWN BUT, OH HOW THEY DO HELP!

FOOTBALL

(Continued on page three)

touchdown at the beginning of the second quarter but a penalty for offside nullified the effort.

Steve Boretsky came through and gratified the powers that be with a thank offering of six points with an eight-yard tear around end about the middle of the second period. Collins missed a try for extra point. Boretsky and Krainock made additional sensational rips and snorts in the second division, but all for nought. The half ended 20-0.

Maryville took possession of the oval in the second period and ripped her way to the twenty. From here Boretsky tossed a pass to the ever-alert Atkins for the fourth Maryville marker. Gillespie surprised all concerned by missing his easy at extra point. The remainder of the third period saw Milligan make its most concerted effort, making the lone first down of the day for the Bisons.

In the last quarter Maryville threatened to score early, but the visitors stiffened on the one yard ribbon and held for downs. Stephens kicked out and a pass and a pair of line plays placed the pill on the Milligan eighteen, from whence West tucked the pill under his arms and dashed hither and thither until he was stopped by the fence behind the goal posts. Boretsky place-kicked the last point of the game.

Milligan put up a determined fight against stronger forces, being led in the effort by Stephens at quarter and Green at tackle. Millsaps and the senior members of the squad led in the Maryville attack.

The lineups:

Maryville (33)		Milligan (0)
Atkins	l.e.	Sullivan
Gamble	l.t.	Green
Klink	l.g.	McClosky
Russell	c.	Williams
Atchison	r.g.	Saunders
Millsaps	r.t.	Bible
Kalman	r.e.	Irvin
Blazer	q.b.	L. Stevens
West	l.h.	C. Stevens
Krainock	r.h.	Ward
Gillespie	f.b.	Culvahouse

Scoring touchdowns, for Maryville: Atkins 2, West 2, Boretsky. Point after touchdown, for Maryville: Gillespie (placement), Atkins (pass from West), Boretsky (placement).

Substitutions: for Milligan, Woods, Duggins, Morris, Powell, Vogel, Witt, Abbot, Church, Gaffin. For Maryville, Loessburg, Collins, Gray, Payne, Slawson, Gwynn, Shields, Corns, Smith, Kosloskie, Crawford, Henry, Bailey, Pieper, Holladay, Kizer, Boretsky.

DR. S. D. MOUNT
Dentist
First National Bank Bldg.
Phone 323

Wright's 5&10c Store
"Where a little money goes a long way"

T. C. DRAKE
GROCERIES

Students, Don't Forget That Big Rexall 1 Cent Sale
.. At ..
BYRNE DRUG CO.
Next Thursday, Friday and Saturday

The Highland Echo

Thanksgiving Greetings

BEAT CARSON-NEWMAN

Thanksgiving Greetings

VOLUME 18 19 | MARYVILLE, TENNESSEE NOVEMBER 25, 1933 | NUMBER TEN

Widely Varied Program Will Be Presented By The Y. M. C. A. Minstrels

Skits, Jokes, and Music Combine To Make Up Entertainment

Now that "Berkeley Square" must be postponed, the biggest event on th college calandar is the Y. M. C. A. minstrel. The players, the Glee Club, and the male quartette, have been working for three weeks under the direction of Herman Magee, chairman of arrangments, and Michael Testa, director, to stage a program which, they believe will be highly successful. The event is scheduled for 8:00 o'clock Friday night, December 1, and will be held in the chapel.

The purpose of those in charge was to make use of every bit of available talent along the lines of vocal or instrumental music, tap-dancing, acting, and joking. All of this talent has been woven into a program which will be about two hours in length. Jokes and skits will fill the intermissions.

The proceeds of the performance will go toward the upkeep of the Y.M.C.A. building and activities connected with that organization. Since this is the first program of the sort which has been given for several seasons, its novelty is expected to attract large numbers. If the entertainment meets with success, such affairs may be instituted in the regular Y. M. C. A. program.

The master of ceremonies for the minstrel will be Harry Walrond, who will be assisted by four end men, Clifford Williams, Frank Clark, Robert Bryan, and Lewis Jarman. These men will be responsible for most of the jokes of the evening. The stage manager for the performance is Ernie Lowe.

Miss Henry and Dr. Shine have been very helpful in guiding the production.

Part I

"Lazy Bones"—given by the Men's Glee Club
"Dark Town Strutters' Ball and
"Bye Bye Blues"—two selections by the Male Quartette
Courtney, Grooms, Alexander, Wells
Tap Dancing—By Eccles Huff
Accompanied by the orchestra
Beamer, Frish, Nelson, Laing, Jones
"Pickaninny Lullaby"—by Glee Club
"Good-bye Blues" and
"The Chinaman's Song"—two selections by the Male Quartette

PART II

Hired and Fired—a stunt given by two freshmen, William McEnteer and George Kent
"The Last Round-up"—by the male quartette
The Divorce Trial—a skit given by Story, Stanley, Jarman, Williams, Clark, Hoglan, McQueen, Hattock, and others.
"Lonesome Road"
"Old Man River"—two solos by George Lehr
Negro Church Scene
Music furnished by Glee Club; sermon by Herman Magee

The first formal dinner of the college year will be on Thanksgiving evening. The decorations are to be planned by a committee of three, Randolph Shields, Robert Russell, and Jack Scarrbourough. In order that there may be music during the evening, the Y. W. C. A. is loaning the radio from the Y. W. rooms for the occasion.

"Dutch Treats" Will Be Policy At Barnwarming

Novel Program Has Been Planned For Evening

The program which has been assembled for next week's Annual Barnwarming is thoroughly in keeping with Maryville traditions. Talented members from every class and from practically every organization on the Hill will contribute to making a mammoth entertainment program the best presented in recent years. Over twenty numbers are already on the program and more are being arranged for—skits, dances, songs, readings, and instrumental solos. At the close of the program refreshments will be served.

The Barnwarming will be in the Alumni Gym on Thanksgiving night at eight o'clock. The colossal program of the Barnwarming "Dutch treating" will be officially inaugurated at Maryville. It is hoped that the students will heartily support this new policy. With four social events taking place in four days it is expected that "Dutch treating" will get off to a good start on Thanksgiving night. Tickets are now on sale in all the dormitories. The price is fifteen cents each.

College Players Play Postponed Until Later

Injury To One of Cast Makes Postponement Necessary

An unforseen accident has made it necessary that the performance of "Berkeley Square" be postponed until the middle of January. The play, as was originally scheduled, would have been presented Tuesday, November 28. Announcement of the final date will be made later.

Lorena May Dunlap, who has one of the leading parts, broke a bone in her right arm while playing soccer in the gymnasium on Thursday. It will be necessary for her to wear a plaster cast for some time, making a public appearance at this time decidedly inconvenient for her.

This change in plans, needless to say, is a great disappointment to the cast and all concerned.

THETA EPSILON

The main feature of Theta Epsilon's program tonight will be a skit entitled "As Shoe Like It".

Unique Contest To Be Sponsored By Staff Of 1934 Chilhowean

Photographing For Annual Nears Completion

The 1934 Chilhowean staff reports a great deal of progress since their last announcement to the students. Individual photographing of the sophomore class is now under way, and the freshmen pictures will be made in the next week or two. The taking of group pictures has also begun. Organizations which have not yet signed up for space in the Annual are urged to do so without further delay. The business staff has also been working and several pages of advertising have been contracted for. Most of the Annual will be in the hands of the printer before Christmas.

In connection with the advertising the business manager announces a novel contest. Each firm advertising with the Chilhowean will have made for it a number of posters, the number being determined by the amount of space contracted for. These posters will be displayed in prominent places on the Hill. Fastened to each one will be a small picture of some well-known person. A clue to the person's identity will be contained in the wording of the poster. The two students who identify the largest number of national figures will receive prizes, which will be free copies of the 1934 Chilhowean with the winner's name stamped in gold letters on the front cover. The contest is open to all students except members of the Chilhowean staff. More complete details will be posted on the several bulletin boards before the contest starts.

BAINONIAN

The program presented at Bainonian last Saturday evening was in charge of the Athenians and was very well received. Representing the society were Fred Kirchner, George Stanley, and James Smith. The high point of the entertainment was furnished by Dr. Shine's reading of poetry selections. Cornet numbers by John Phay, and vocal solos by Gordon Grooms were also enjoyed.

At the meeting tonight Bainonian's Nominating Committee will present its report. Election is set for next Saturday.

Many Men To Compete For Alexander Prize

More Competitors Than Usual Enter Try-outs

Last Thursday morning the men who desire to compete for the T. T. Alexander prize met in Anderson Hall. About sixteen were present. This is the largest number out in several years.

The prize fund was established by an anonymous friend of the college, and named in honor of one of Maryville's foreign missionaries. The prize, one hundred dollars, is awarded annually to the winner of an oratorical contest conducted under the supervision of the Department of Bible and Religious Education. This contest is open, in alternate years, to young men and young women of Maryville.

The subjects chosen for 1933 and 1934 are: The Deity of Jesus Christ; Christ's Atonement for Sin; The Resurrection and Salvation through Faith.

In the contest the participant prepares a written oration and submits it to the judges, Dr. Orr, Dr. Kiger, and Dr. Rogers. Each of the judges makes his own estimate of the value of the paper. Later, the participant makes a spoken oration, which the judges evaluate in the same manner. The grades are then compared; and the two men who make the highest average deliver their orations in the chapel before the student body. From these two the final selection is made.

THANKSGIVING DAY MEDITATION SERVICE

November 30, 1933—7:45 a. m.
Y.W.C.A. Reading Room
Meditation—accompanied by soft music—Harriet Clark, Mary Hollis Carter, Clark Lathan
Invocation—Frank R. Mease
Responsive Reading—Jean Warren
Song—"Come Ye Thankful People, Come"
Song—"For the Beauty of the Earth"
Reading—Rudolph Wissler
Special Music—Harriett Clark, Mary Hollis Carter, Clark Lathan
Scripture and Prayer—Carl Fisher
Devotional Talk—Miss Green
Benediction Prayer—Tess Fry

Farm tenancy for the United States increased from 25 per cent in 1890 to 38 per cent in 1920.

Alpha Sigma Play To Be Given In Chapel On Friday, Dec. 8th

"The Gentle Rogue" Now Schedule As First Play of Year

When John C. Brownell wrote "The Nut Farm" he displayed a skill in play-writing which won him immediate notice by the public. This skill and cleverness have again produced a play worthy of praise, "The Gentle Rogue". Mr. Brownell has peopled his play with human and interesting characters, and has spiced it with unusually clever humor.

Members of the Alpha Sigma Society and the Theta Epsilon Literary Society will present "The Gentle Rogue" on Friday, December 8th, in Voorhees Chapel. The play revolves around the West family and their friends who become involved in the money-making schemes of one, Henry West, a member of the family. The part of Henry as a business man and a social climber will be played by Carl Fisher. His son, Dick West, who is inclined to be like his father in many respects is played by Robert Brown. Peter West, a lovable, eccentric, and humorous old man, is taken by Newman Smith. The part of David West, another who is involved in Henry's schemes, is taken by Glover Leitch. Ruth Conklin, who because of her love for David and Peter tries to foil Henry in his plans, resulting in the creation of a good deal of the action of the play, will be played by Edwina Lowe. Tom West, an Australian prospector, is portrayed by James Ferger. His fiance, Abbey Gates, a sharp-tongued but very likeable young woman, will be played by Mary Elizabeth Harrison. Blanche West will play the part of Henry's wife. A Scotch friend of Tom West, Duncan MacInness MacFarlane MacGregor, is portrayed by Alex Christie. Reuben Alford plays the part of Nick Thompson, the rural delivery man and taxi driver, Edward Friar, the role of a ne'er-do well friend of David's, Roland Beck. The character of C. J. Henderson, a belligerent business man deeply implicated in Henry's deals, and Ervin Hardy, the part of Sam Hoyt, a sheriff. Another friend of David's, a little, eccentric farmer, Oscar Haviland, will be played by William Gibbs. Susie, a rather sporty type of girl, is played by Mary Gladys Brown. Two typical society women are portrayed by Florence Hyde and Mary Gillingham.

All of these characters enter into the plot of "The Gentle Rogue", combining to make it an unusual, and very interesting play. The Alpha Sigma Society, in presenting it, as the first play of the year, provide an evening of enjoyment for everyone.

Y. W. C. A.

The place of Missions in Promoting World Fellowship will be discussed in Y. W. C. A. meeting tomorrow. The books of Pearl Buck, the Laymen's Report, and Living Missionaries will be among the topics. Elizabeth Gillis is the leader.

An official report from Iceland shows that the national refedendum taken last month revealed that Icelanders favor the repeal of the prohibition law which has been in effect for the past eighteen years.

FEATURE—E. THOM

(We like the way Beale writes.)

In the foothills of the Transparent Mountains, on the northern side of the moon, lives a singular insect. His trunk is silver, his head is gold, and his limbs are slivers of amber. He has four wings of phlogiston, which are necessary for the moving of his great weight. All over his body are inscriptions, apothegms and proverbs, written in a thousand tongues.

Admittedly, the materials named are seldom used in the construction of a sentient body. Nevertheless, they serve the Hcusenon (the name given the creature by zoologists) admirably. In fact, with a body composed of any other substances he could not fulfil the purposes of his existence. In short, they are these: to supply theorists with theories, to supply inventors with ideas, and to supply lovers with dreams.

In the solid part of the night, between the sunset and the moonrise, the Hcusenon performs his work. He leaves his retreat and goes, with the celerity of a Grecian runner, to the houses of humanity. At the beds of the few persons whom he has selected as worthy recipients of his gifts he pauses. With skilled claws, claws like the fingers of a surgeon, he removes a bit of each of the substances that form his body and introduces it into the hearts and minds of the sleepers. The plogiston lightens their hearts; the gold and silver and amber and the inscriptions that are cut thereon fill their minds with new color and new thought.

The foregoing should have been written in the past tense. The Hcusenon is no more.

Sixteen days ago, at ten o'clock in the evening, we were going from Thaw to Carnegie, via the jungle route, when there was a tremendous noise. Startled, we looked up. High above us, his glittering body in clear relief against a dark cloud, was the Hcusenon. Mingling with him. . . shattering him, was an airplane. As we watched we perceived that the Hcusenon was inextricably entangled in the plane's undercarriage, and was being rapidly carried away. The plane, it seemed, had been little hurt by the collision. The Hcusenon was, unmistakably, dead.

A sliver of gold dropped at our feet. It was part of the Hcusenon's body. We picked it up. On it we read:

WHETHER YOU ARE A RACKETEER OR A PHILANTHROPIST, SOONER OR LATER YOU GET TAKEN FOR A RIDE.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - - Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors

Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor

Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - - - Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - - - Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs

Katharine Orr - - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - - Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - - Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - - Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Freshman Apprentices

Helen Chambers, Ann McCambridge, Bernice Gaines, Frances Henson, Mary Porter Hatch, Boyce Jarman, Edward Thom, Douglas Woods, Richard Meadows

Business

Jesse Willis - Business Manager
Sam Waid - - - Asst. Bus. Mgr.
G. Edward Friar - Asst. Bus. Mgr.

Subscription Rates - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, November 25, 1933

Since the advent of "Green Pastures" in the south and the incomparable performance of the Don Cossacks here, we have been turning over in our minds some things we would like to say about art. We came across an article in the "New York Times" book in the library which says so perfectly what we would like to, that we reprint bits of it. The excerpts are from the music notes of Olin Downes.

"There is a greater need than there ever was before in the history of the people for the general cultivation of art. . . . That cultivation may not supply the moral stamina which only a genuine religion confers, but it does attune the individual to finer things and finer sensibilities than develop in the wear and tear disillusions of daily existence.

"And art cannot only represent, but become religion. Here is release and sublimation and unfolding of the spirit. Here is sanctuary and fulfillment in a realm where aggrandizement of self is not destruction of a brother, but indeed the contrary. What does more than art toward the demolishment of the invisible barriers between man and man, those barriers which are hardest of all to level?

"But this is the element which is to be ignored in education! This is the place to economize! We are, if you please, after tangible values. Let us make the world safe for the three R's and business. The rest will be accomplished by the law of the survival of the fittest, and let the best man, who does not waste time in dreams and theories, see to his neighbor. . .

"It seems fairly obvious that the race is today between education and extinction. Applied mathematics will not win. By themselves they only help to work the shovels and the machine guns. The hope is that before weapons of destruction are perfect and before senseless organization for destruction is complete, human society can be taught not to slay, if only for the sake of self-preservation.

"That hope rests largely on the chance of opening the eyes of the people as a whole to the beauty of the world and to the unlimited resources of the spirit. We must provoke a finer fibered man, impractical and far from the three R's as that may appear, who will act with intelligence and intuition, or we will die like civilizations that have preceded us. . . ."

Superior Scotties

She came to Maryville on a shoestring, and the shoestring broke, as shoestrings have a way of doing at a critical moment. The shoestring in this case was a slim, but nevertheless hard earned, bank account which went the way of many good bank accounts in the days following October 1929. Not much was left (for she was here on her own resources) except the determination to hang on until she should become a full-fledged college graduate.

The sequel to that story is this: she is a senior, a Superior Scottie; and an A. B. degree, if not prosperity, is just around the corner. She is a Scottie only by virtue of her Alma Mater. We're inclined to believe she is not so much Scottish as Pennsylvania-Dutchist. She is a red head, and she was christened Geraldine Elizabeth. The last name is Smith, if you please. She, along with other people, however, has almost forgotten her long dignified name and substituted a more characteristic one, Jerry.

Jerry has proved to be a rather capable person. For four years she has been Prof. Queener's secretary and right-hand man. During that time he has placed her in charge of debate programs held at Maryville, work formerly done by teachers. Arrangements for debate programs held here in the absence of Professor Queener on debate trips are left entirely in her hands.

Jerry, moreover, is a good business manager. Perhaps that accounts for the fact that she has stayed in college four years on a broken shoestring. Last winter she was business manager of Theta Epsilon's play, "The Enchanted April", the winner of the Theta Alpha Phi cup. This year she is business manager of the Girls' Glee Club, and treasurer of Theta Epsilon Society.

But Jerry is versatile. She has more talents than being a capable business woman requires. For instance, in the course of her college career, she has shown evidence of literary abilities. Previous to her resignation last year, she had been a member of the HIGHLAND ECHO staff since she was a freshman. She was an associate editor of the 1933-34 handbook, and she is a member of the Writers' Work Shop.

Add to this sizable enumeration of honors that she is a good student upon whom the gods have bestowed likeable personality, and our conclusion that she is a superior sort of Superior Scottie is, we believe, not without reason.

Y. M. C. A.

At the Y. M. C. A meeting Sunday afternoon (November 26, 1933) there will be one-minute talks on the theme "What I have to be Thankful For" by the following: Roland Beck, Philip Cory, Willis Garrett, James Shaw, Harry Walrond, Richard Schlafer, James Battaglia, Hugh Powell, Herbert Hunt, and Hugh Crawford.

For the order of service reference will be made to the Songs for Service worship program on Thanksgiving.

The Y. orchestra composed of Glover Leitch, Clark Lathan, Frank Smith, Norman Beamer, Boyce Jarman, and Norman Sylar will play a prelude and a postlude and accompany the singing which will be led by Jesse Willis. Frank Mease and Carl Fisher will have charge of the program.

Man, woman—alone. Thus they face a sure and certain destiny—extermination. Do you catch the idea?

College Maid Busy Making Choir Vestments

At present the College Maid Shop is engaged in making choir vestments. Special orders of choir robes for Christmas have kept many girls busy this fall. The shop has just delivered twenty-three wine colored velvet and ivory satin robes, to the Westminster Traveling Choir. Now they are working on purple vestments for the Columbia College Glee Club at Columbia, South Carolina. Other orders for vestments are coming in steadily.

The Westminster Choir School at Princeton, New Jersey, recently ordered a large number of studio couch covers for the new dormitory there. Various mills also are still ordering a great many uniforms for their employees.

Seventy-five girls were on the Maid Shop payroll for the month of October. The directors of the shop are gratified at the continual stream of orders which come in, making work possible for so many girls.

ALPHA SIGMA

Alpha Sigma will have as their guest speaker tonight, Miss Mary Ellen Caldwell who will talk on "Famous Campus Friendships" at Maryville". As an added attraction Bob Overly will play some piano numbers. Induction of new members and officers will also take place tonight.

NATURE CLUB

At a meeting of the Nature Club Tuesday night in the Zoology lab, tests were given out for applicants to the club. The requirements for membership to the club are an average of C or above in General Biology, and a class rating above a first semester freshman.

After the business meeting, a talk on Meteors was given by LeRoy Obert.

TRIANGLE CLUB PICNIC

The Triangle Club, the members of which are residents of New Jersey, Pennsylvania and New York, will sponsor a picnic in the college woods this afternoon, leaving Pearson's Hall at 3:00 o'clock and returning about 5:00. Miss Green and Professor Kiger will be chaperones.

The program will consist of games suitable for the occasion, and will include refreshments. The program secretaries, Dorothy Hassell and Frank Mease will be in charge. The refreshment committee consists of Mildred Schoeller, Pauline Throne, and Jessie Kavanagh.

Palace Theatre

NEXT WEEK
MONDAY-TUESDAY

Beat Carson-Newman

BYERLEY'S GROCERY

Is Behind You

CARLISLE'S
5c AND 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.

Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*Direct connections to Townsend

Home-Made Candies and Shelled Nuts of All Kinds for Thanksgiving

REAGAN'S CAFE

We deliver to the Hill from 4 to 8 P. M.

Phone 578

DOWN CARSON-NEWMAN

We're counting on you to beat Carson-Newman

STERCHI BROS.

A Safe Place to Trade

FIGHT SCOTTIES
And Beat Carson-Newman
•
CITY DRUG CO.

HIGHLANDERS
BEAT
CARSON-NEWMAN

We're Backing You

Chandler-Singleton Company
DEPARTMENT STORE

Echo Sports

HIGHLANDERS MEET EAGLES THURSDAY

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

Bob Rule, sports writer for the Knoxville News-Sentinel and at one time sports editor of the ECHO, scooped Knoxville last week with a story stating that Carson-Newman college has already garnered the much sought after Smoky Conference laurels, by defeating the Cumberland Lawyers, 25-0, last week, and that regardless of the outcome of the Thanksgiving Day game she is entitled to keep them, since the winner is determined on a percentage basis. The story is sad, but interesting. It is sad because it is true, that being the logical way in which to select the loop champion. The interest lies in the possibility that the Highlanders will defeat the Eagles in Thursday's game. Those Eagles would certainly strut a pretty mess of soaked feathers if the Scotties threw mud all over their new Smoky Mountain plumage and tipped them off the cupola, wouldn't they?

—S—

Pressmen must have underdogs, and so we are the said undies. . . . in somebody's newspaper, but not in this'n. Anyone who has visited the Scot fold in the last decade surely must have been impressed by the fact that Highlanders are not licked before the game is called In Johnson City where Tennessee Teachers upset Maryville Coach McMurray is giving us a better-than-even chance to cripple the Eagles. Taking you into the inner circle we hear Captain "Finklestein" Russell himself speak'n. He says, "We've been pointin' for those birds all year, and I've got every reason in the world to think we can beat 'em." And if you recall, "Fink" is a sly ole fox. We were underdogs against the King Tornado,—now modified to a zephyr,—but it was Russell who predicted a two-touch-down win, and home it came. Underdogs—if you will. But calling them such is just another effective method in getting the Highlanders to fight harder, and fight they will, for there is more color behind this tilt than appears on the surface.

—S—

Maryvillians will have the opportunity to go by special bus to Jefferson City to see the last, and most important, game of the year on Thanksgiving Day. It is an exceptional privilege because there are few such privileges where that came from, and bcause it will be an off-day for everyone. Played in the middle of the week, it will occupy the undivided attentions of East Tennessee football fans, since there are many who do not think the Eagles are strong enough to stem a rising Highlander tide. Those students who have backed the Highlanders through a tough season will be there for the opening kickoff of that colorful battle. It matters little how you get there; the hing o remember is. . . . BE THERE. Anyon who walks will make the head of this column, and with his picture.

—S—

All it takes to show you who's who in this season's varsity swimming is a good, old-fashioned intramural swimming meet. Although Esbach and Ingram were not raced together as was planned, each of them showed class and speed, which will strengthen greatly the varsity crew for a tough schedule. In the dash Esbach led the field by a good

(Continued on page four)

Princeton's Tigers Headed for Rose Bowl

The East's probable representative in the Rose Bowl game at Pasadena, Calif., New Year's day is the tearing Tiger team of Princeton. For "Fritz" Crisler's great unbeaten and unscored on eleven has set a record that is unlikely to be equalled this season. In his second year at the New Jersey university Crisler has developed a team that will rankat the top in Princeton's gridiron annals. His veterans, Capt. Lane at tackle, Fairman at end, Kadlic, quarterback, and Kalbaugh, center, have come through with honors, while Pauk and LeVan are hailed as new "finds" in the backfield. Crisler apparently not only built a great Tiger eleven for this season but has laid a sound foundation for next year.

Obert's Diving Is Margin Of Victory As Sophomores Capture Tank Meet

New Record For Medley Relay Is Set By Fast Sophomore Crew of Ingram, Herries, Greiner

In an inter-class swimming meet featuring evenly matched sophomore and freshman teams, the sophomores defeated the freshmen and seniors by scoring 35 points to 31 for the freshmen and 8 for the seniors. Good diving by Roy Obert proved to be the margin of victory for the sophomores, who were trailing the freshmen 22-21 before the diving began. In taking first and second places in the diving, Obert and Greiner enabled the sophomores to take the lead 34-26. Oldham, freshman, won third place.

The sophomore team of Ingram, Herries, and Greiner, establishhed a new rcord for the local pool by winning the 150-yard medley relay in 1:48 3-5. This time is about two seconds faster than the former record. The sophomores also took first place in the 200-yard relay.

In the 100-yard dash, Ingram, sophomore, came from behind on the last lap to defeat Mowatt, freshman. Esbach, freshman, won the 50-yard dash in a rather close race, and later he won the 200-yard free style swim by a wide margin. Herries, sophomore, won the 200-yard breast stroke over Meeks, freshman, after Meeks had set the pace for most of the distance. Burckhalter had little trouble in winning the 100-yard back stroke for the freshmen. Lampe gave the seniors their only first place by winning the 400-yard free-style event.

This meet did not count toward the cup, which is to be given to one of the classes by the Y. M. C. A. in its athletic program, since varsity swimmers competed.

Cage Practice Shows Likely Team Strength

Van Hee Discovers Many Promising Men As Initial Drills Continue

With between twenty and twenty-five men reporting regularly for practice three times a week, the prospects for the varsity basketball team of the coming season are encouraging. In addition to several of last year's players, there are a number of flashy looking newcomers out to fill the vacancies left by those members who were graduated last year.

The practices, so far, have been mainly on fundamentals, while the rough edges are being gradually smoothed over. A splendid willingness and interest is being displayed by the candidates, and, with the ability shown by most of them, it is reported that a team of real strength should be forthcoming.

Van Hee has been in charge of the squad since the beginning of practice, but after the last football game of the season Coach Honaker will take charge and begin working on definite defensive and offensive features of play.

DR. S. D. MOUNT
Dentist
First National Bank Bldg.
Phone 323

Wright's 5&10c Store
"Where a little money goes a long way"

Aerial Dart Tourney Is Won By Johnson

Freshmen Women Show Interest and Capability As Two Reach Third Round

The aerial dart tournament was played off Thursday, November 23, when Johnson defeated Conover by a score of 15-8.

Tuesday, November 21, the tournament was played off as far as the finals. Coats, Schoeller, Hassall, Conover, and Johnson participated in the quarter-finals, while Hassall, Conover and Johnson remained for the semi-finals. Conover and Johnson battled for the victory Thursday afternoon with Johnson holding out till the end.

The interest and sportsmanship shown by the freshmen was noteworthy. It is unusual for a freshman to remain in the tournament beyond the first round. Jackson and Stakleman, both freshmen, went as far as the third round.

Thursday afternoon the girls took their tests on stunts for the Point System. Catherine Wayland and Mary Gamble took charge.

Everyone Will Be At C-N Thursday

Prompt Action By Student Council, Faculty Makes Trip Possible

Everybody wants one, and there are plenty for everybody. So, step right up, folks and get your bus ticket to the C.-N. game. Jimmie Laing's holding one for you.

We owe this opportunity for cheap, convenient transportation to the initiative of the student council and the cooperation of the faculty. They have worked, and they have worked well. Everything has been done for us, even to the planning of the meal-times. This is the probable schedule for the day:

11:30—Dinner
12:30—Bus leaves Maryville
1:30—Bus arrives at Carson-Newman
5:00—Bus leaves Carson-Newman
6:00—Bus arrives at Maryville
6:30—Supper

Because those going to the game must be identified as Maryville students, Dr. McMurray will be at the entrance gate. He asks that we bring our treasurer's receipts to aid in our recognition.

A final word: the bus ticket is ON. . ly a dollar, and admission to the game is only forty cents. Don't hesitate to go.

Peppy Squad Is All Set To Trap League Champs

Scotties Show Best Form Of Year As Last Week of Scrimmage Ends

McMURRAY PREDICTS WIN

Starting Lineup Will Find Many Seniors In The Ranks For Last Time

All the color, athletic enmity, and conference antagonism of the two greatest teams in the Smoky Mountain Conference will come to the top when the Highlanders meet the champion Carson-Newman Eagles at Jefferson City next Thursday in the last game of the year.

In addition to the turbulent conditions marking the meeting of the two colleges will be the picturesque sight of varsity gridders in action for the last time dressed in the glorious, battle-torn orange and garnet of Maryville College.

Perhaps the greatest rivalry in the league exists between the two collges as a result of former scraps and recent unsuccessful attempts to schedule games. Several times in the past Carson-Newman has backed down at the suggestion of contests, and last year scheduled no game at all with the Scots. T[illegible], after much bickering, an agreement was made, and it is rumored that the Eagles will play here next year.

Once a Maryville man himself, Gene McMurray, now coaching East Tennessee Teachers, gives the Highlanders a good chance to dethrone the champs in the Thanksgiving Day tilt. And more than that, he reflects the spirit of every true Maryvillian in secretly hoping that they do. During the game in which McMurray's Teachers stopped the Scotties, he expressesd the belief that they were having an off-day, and picked Scot after Scot who, for speed and drive, outclassed any of the orange and blue squad.

Aware that he does not have the well-balanced team he coached last year, Coach Holt attributes his long-string of victories to little else but "the will to win", and boasts no really outstanding man except Childers, the handy-man who has run wild this year in both the back-field and forward wall. The only team to successfully stop him last year has been the unbeaten, untied Emory-Henry outfit.

The presentation of Carson-Newman plays by Scot reserves for varsity concentration during the past week has found Steve Boretsky leading his brilliant backfield through the entire second string with little

(Continued on page four)

OBSERVATIONS

A SUB

We've been troubled a good deal lately by a little freshman girl who seems to think we're about through in the way of usfeulness. She wants to "write the Observations". Perhaps that might be a good idea, in order that we might get a little of a girlish slant on this business of going to school and being looked at. We'll try it. . . . . maybe, and if we do, there'll be a warning.

MORE WORK

We're doing everything we can to push the plan of having a graduate school at Maryville next year in order that we might go on with this. Otherwise, we'll roll over in bed on every Saturday morning next year and write our column in a hurry to have only ourselves to read it. . . .and that would be a shame.

WE WIN

The faculty chimes in with us again this week. We had been indulging in the practice of listening to Ed Wynn's programs over a series of months, and we had a sneaking feeling that we were right smart profiting in so doing, but not until this week were we sure. We have it that the faculty, or at least a part of the faculty, has its ear to the loudspeaker from 7 to 8 on Tuesday night, also.

HE'S FIRST

We do considerable joke reading in our time, and we try to keep up. That's why we're always glad to hear brother Wynn's jokes. They get here first. We've heard a lot of wise cracks emulate from the lips of young Eddie with his cohort Mr. McNamee, but never have we heard a rusty one from that source. Some of them might be a little musty, however.

MRS. BEALE'S

Thinking of men gifted with good sense of humor must bring us to stop on young Chuhlie Beale long enough to make a posie. And we're thinking of the feature in last week's paper which we first read Sunday morning, or thereabouts, and it almost kept us from going to church, all because of loud smiling. With all due respects to our very much superior writer, Miss Julia Terry (who was known very aptly as THE feature writer in Maryville), we'll confess that we got more smirks per square inch from this feature than any previous product in our papeh. Perhaps this was increased by our mental capacity to visualize the Beale as he sat over his typewriter, pipe in mouth, with tousled hair, and being dressed, more or less, as he wrote.

THEM THAR DAYS

And Charlie had to go reminding us of the days when we also thought we were politicians. That was before we knew. Anyhow, Charlie and I very often compliment ourselves on being the boys who died fighting (everybody from the Germans to faculty members) in the cause of the most graceful bull slinger in captivity. . . ye Bobbie West who is just another name for the most of you folks, but the forgotten MAN to us. . . . . and we never could figure just exactly why.

IN THAT TOWN

Well, we do know why he is forgotten just now, but he may come out of that with proper direction. . . he's a resident of the city of Nashville.

WE GET THE BOOKS

We worked in the library long enough Thursday evening to get plenty of enjoyment. 'Tis not all dull for the laboring class as evidenced by the following: There was the freshman lad who came to the desk for the New York Times for "Thursday and Friday". We were supposed to figure out which Thursday, and incidentally, which Friday.

PROFFITT'S SALE

A few minutes later came a sophomore girl looking for the book by Henrik Ibsen entitled "I Had a Gobbler". Well, we knew Ibsen, but we didn't know this book until by a little linguistic process we got our tongue and mind coordinated on "Hedda Gabler".

THE THIRD ONE

And just about that time (we're sorry, but this should interest only the Shakespeare Students and a few faculty members) came a junior girl asking for a book by Mr. Morgan entitled "The Dramatic Character of Falstaff". She asked for "The Romantic character of Falstaff". . . tsk. . . . what would the old rounder think!

THE WOMAN PAYS

Kay Carpenter's on her horse! Ol' T. Byer left the dining hall one meal time last week a whistling like a fire siren, and also, just like T. Madison whistles. Simultaneously Miss Molly's ear caught the sound and caught sight of little Kay blowing silent air through anxious lips—or maybe she had just had a persimmon. You see, Kay can't whistle But that fact didn't keep her from being called to the inner room for a 40-minute curtain lecture on her misconduct in the dining room.

FOOTBALL

(Continued from page three)

trouble. In Thursday night's scrimmage the Scotties showed the highest spirit of the year when, led by the pounding Stevedore, they galloped down the gridiron for no less than ten touchdowns.

Although it is a bit early to announce the starting line-up, a safe guess would find the ranks well filled with seniors who will play their last game for Maryville. Atkins and Gwynn or Kalman will hold the end posts, with the possibility that Alexander, who has been showing up pretty well in practice, will see action as the game wears away. Millsaps, because of his vicious tactics in the Milligan game, will probably start at tackle, with Cochrane on the other side. Atchison and Collins, who hold undisputed claim to their positions, will be at guards.

In the center of the brawny forewall will be none other than his majesty Captain Russell himself who is eager to unleash all the pent-up fury of weeks and weeks of nursing a chest injury for the C.-N. game. The cap'n will be the happiest man on the Hill in event of victory, and right behind him will be the slave who scribbles here.

No Scot scrap could be without Tom at quarter, and so West will be calling signals in the last round up. Kizer and Boretsky will probably start at halves, although it would be a wise coach who would give Krainock a chance to storm the Eagle's line in the pinches. Gillespie, who plays nothing but a sterling game, will take his usual place at fullback.

Through the co-operation of faculty and student council a special bus has been chartered to carry students to the game. Every Maryville backer who can should go. It is not only the last game of the year, but is the best chance the Scotties have this year to step out and place a sticker on the football map. With both teams in top shape it promises to be the best game in the loop his season, and although the Honaker lads can not win the conference they will be out to snip the wings of the Eagles in true Highlander form. Since neither team looks to have any on the injured list at present, it will be the best against the best.

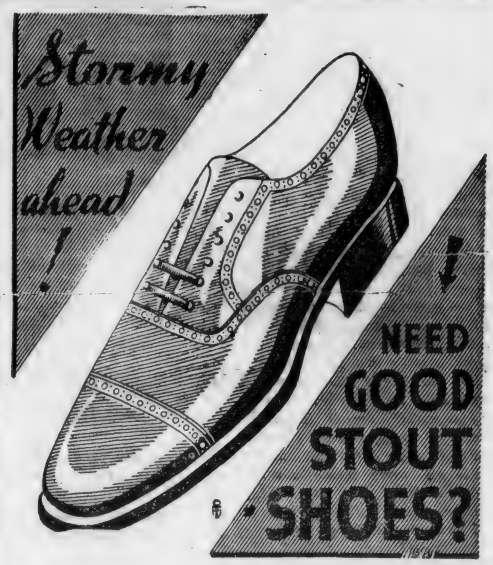
SPORT TALK

(Continued from page three)

lap, and indications are that his par is not yet reached. Together with the freshmen, the old standbys of Herries, Obert, Shields, Greiner, and Mack are slated for a successful season. And if you ask us, this Walrond's a game guy. His grace deserted him and his speed lagged a little, but he cavorted and splashed, and mopped it all off in one big grin, as only Walrond can do it. No need to ask Harry the secret of his puplarity; it's right there on his face where everybody can see it.

—S—

And if we're not careful we'll be having these swimmers and these footballers loving and petting and crying on each other's shoulder as does our sentimental friend "Moon" Murphy of Knoxville in his daily Journal dish-it-out. "Moon" Murphy, formerly "Blue Boy" Murphy, and the Doctuh Muhphy of last week's column, recently has been dubbed queen of the night because he depicted the glory with which a "full, golden moon" shone on Shields Watkins Field in Knoxville last Saturday night, when, in truth, no honest eye detected the charming creature. One of "Moon's" favorite tricks is to have th big, bounding Feathers of Tennessee and All-America fame break down in the gloaming when the game is o'er, crying unashamed because the game was so honstly and cleanly played. Tsk, tsk, Moon. Such imagination.



WE'RE FOR YOU HIGHLANDERS
NORTON HARDWARE COMPANY
Always at your service

Yea! Highlanders we are expecting you to Beat Carson-Newman

•

For that Thanksgiving Picnic Lunch buy at
M. M. ELDER'S CASH CARRY STORE

REMEMBER HIGHLANDERS
You're Out to Win!
and We're Behind You
BYRNE DRUG CO.
DON'T LET THEM SCORE

$4.00
$5.00
$6.00

WEYENBERG SHOES
Weather-Resisting, comfort-giving, smart in appearance—that's the combination you are looking for when it's stormy weather. That's the combination you'll find in these sturdy shoes.

BADGETT STORE CO.
"The Store of Better Values"
BEAT CARSON-NEWMAN

JUNIORS!
Support your Chilhowean Staff by having your Annual Pictures made NOW, and don't forget Photographs solve your Christmas problem.
THE WEBB STUDIO

H. T. HACKNEY
WHOLESALE GROCERIES
KNOXVILLE, :-: TENNESSEE

ANNIVERSARY SAVINGS IN MEN'S SHIRTS
$1.00
Fine count broadcloth shirts in fancies, white and solid colors. We enjoy selling shirts like these that are dependable and you are going to enjoy wearing them.

MEN'S DEPT. Proffitt's MAIN FLOOR

The Highland Echo

VOLUME 18 /4 | MARYVILLE. TENNESSEE DECEMBER 9, 1933 | NUMBER ELEVEN

Davis Reads Paper On "Greek Tragedy" At Faculty Club Dinner

Aspects of Greek Literature Interestingly Set Forth

Professor E. W. Davis of the department of Latin and Greek was the speaker at the regular monthly meeting of the faculty club last Monday evening. The title of his paper was "Some Aspects of Greek Tragedy".

First he raised the question of what is meant by tragedy. In ordinary speech tragedy means a disaster or calamity of the direct nature, but in a more technical sense it is the "form of drama or dramatic composition of which the theme is solemn, lofty, or pathetic, and which generally involves a fatal issue of a hopeless struggle." To the Greek, however, a tragedy did not necessarily imply a fatal issue. As Aristotle said, "tragedy is an imitation in verse of characters of a higher sort, an imitation of an action that is serious, complete, and of a certan magnitude", for to him and to the Greeks all forms of poetry and music sprang from two causes, one, the desire of human beings to imitate, and the other, the universal instinct for harmony and rhythm.

"Twice only has tragedy flowered to full perfection. Once in Periclean Athens, and again in Elizabethan England. The great tragic artists number but four, three Greek, and one English." Prof. Davis compared the national background of these and found them much the same. In each case there was involved a country relatively small and poor, with a people of mixed racial elements who were wonderfully alive.

"Greek literature stands in the position of an ancestral literature toward the various literatures of Europe and America." The Greek imprint, clear or faint, is on all our literary forms except one. Epic, lyric, elegiac, dramatic, didactic, poetry, history, biography, rhetoric and oratory, the epigram, the essay, the sermon, the novel, letterwriting, and literary criticism are all of Greek origin."

"Tragedies at Athens were given at festivals in honor of the god Dionysus in a place sacred to the god, and were preceded by a sacrifice to him. Though we think of Dionysus (Bacchus) as the god of wine and revelry, to the Greeks he was the god of fertility and productiveness. A choral song and dance practiced in early times in honor of Dionysus was called a Dithyrhamb. The poet Arion trained a chorus to sing dithyrhambs while disguised as satyrs, or goat-like followers of Dionysus, and introduced an element

(Continued on page four)

Dr. Hunter Attends Conference Of Deans

On last Wednesday Dr. Hunter attended the annual meeting of the Academic Deans, held in connection with the convention of the Southern Association of Colleges. The conference in which deans of the South met and exchanged ideas was held at Nashville and was of great value to those who participated.

Subjects discussed during the morning and afternoon sessions were, "Principles of Curriculum Construction", "Selective Admission of College Students", "Orientation of Freshmen", and "The Value and Use of Objective Tests in College".

Alpha Sigma Society Play Is Successful

Players Give Creditable Performance of "The Gentle Rogue"

The Alpha Sigma Literary Society opened the Maryville Mid-winter dramatic season Friday evening, presenting "The Gentle Rogue", a three-act comedy written by John C. Brownell.

Using as a vehicle for their artistry a somewhat overworked plot, which moved rather slowly, the Alpha Sigma players, composed largely of new faces to the Maryville audience, furnished a pleasant evening's entertainment.

The acting, taken as a whole, was good, with general honors going to the group comprising the West family, special mention being given to the work of Newman Smith, who found himself much better cast than in his previous stage appearance in "The Enchanted April".

Consistently good acting was furnished by Glover Leitch, who had a gruelling role, being on stage during most of the play. Mr. Leitch's suave manner and well controlled voice enhanced the effects of the makeup to give him an appearance of early middle age. Among the new actors, there were no sensational finds. Mr. Christie in a well adapted role did work worthy of comment, while Carl Fisher, as the bawdy villian handled his part well, The other characterizations were accomplished equally well, with no actor doing exceptional work.

The stage set was comparatively simple, all three acts taking place in one room. The stage was well arranged, lighting effects were especially good, and between-act mechanical operations were accomplished with little apparent disturbance. A well arranged and well adapted program furnished enjoyable entertainment during these shifts.

Y. M. C. A.

Dec. 10, 1933—1:15 p. m.
Prelude—Ensemble
Call to Worship—John Gouge
Song No. 32—Brightly Gleams Our Banner
Proverbs 3:13-26—Burton Toms
Prayer—LeRoy Obert
Song No. 279—God of Our Fathers
"Playing the Game"—Dr. J. H. McMurray
Special Music
Presentation of Cross Country Awards—W. W. Warman
Song No. 175—I Would Be True
The Lord's Prayer
Postlude—Ensemble

"Little Women" To Be Presented December 12 In Voorhees Chapel

Theta Epsilon Cast Should Give Excellent Interpretation

Louisa Alcott's "Little Women" is now being completed in final rehearsals under the direction of Mrs. Nita West. The play is to be presented by Theta Epsilon's cast on December 12th at 8:00 p. m. It will present a type of entertainment entirely different from that of "The Gentle Rogue" and is expected to offer keen competition for the Theta Alpha Phi cup.

Jessie Bonstelle has staged the play in New York and London. The original production however, was given by William Brady at the Play House in New York in 1912.

The "Little Women" are widely known and well loved among all readers. The traits of Jo, Beth, Amy and Meg have been made common knowledge. This fact alone renders the interpretation of the characters very difficult. Theta's production, to be successful, will demand superior characterization from the entire cast.

The plot secures charm and interest in its intimate portrayal of a Massachusetts home during the Civil War. It is strikingly human, and, with its stirring movement from joys to sorrow and back again, it bridges nearly three quarters of a century and makes the audience live back in the sixties with the players.

Throughout the story there is a refreshing tone of real simplicity which cannot fail to delight an audience and, by its very quaint naivete, achieve a flavor of ingenious novelty.

The cast for the play is exceedingly well-chosen with Eleanor Denslow playing the part of the inimitable Jo, Roberta Howie as the incorrigible Amy, Maria Wynn as the sensible Meg, and Marian Faulkner as petite Beth.

Others taking part are Lucille Swafford as Mrs. March, Louise Reichelderfer as Aunt March, Jonathan Gillingham in the role of Mr. March, Eccles Huff as Laurie. Hannah is played by Edith Nicolai, John by Robert Borcer, Professor Bhaer by Malvern Clopton, and Mr. Laurence by Robert Byar.

The business staff of the play is composed of Lynn Anne Brown, Thelma Iles, Hazel White, Clifford Withers, Ercelle Hunter and Marjorie Steffner, all of whom have been busily engaged during the past few weeks with business details of the production.

Wide Holiday Program Enjoyed By Students

Numerous Programs Combined To Occupy Time

An interesting holiday season was enjoyed last week by most Maryville students. Observance of Thanksgiving Day was begun with the service held in the Y. W. C. A. Reading Room at 7:45 last Thursday morning. In keeping with the season, Miss Green spoke informally about Thanksgiving.

After an early luncheon, two busloads of eager students left for the Carson-Newman game, which was played in Jefferson City.

At 6:30 the same night a formal diner was served in the dining hall. Candles lighted the room attractively decorated with pumpkins, autumn leaves, and corn stalks. Music was furnished for the occasion by the Alpha Sigma Orchestra.

In the evening the Annual Barnwarming was held in the Alumni Gymnasium. Under the leadership of Lucille Swafford the program proved to be one of the most successful and entertaining ever presented on the Hill. It included a variety of musical numbers, tap dances, and skits.

The decorations and effective lighting as planned by Samuel Waid and his committee added greatly to the festivities. Corn stalks and pumpkins formed a suitable background for the throne of the queen, Veta Mae Stephens, who had been elected by popular vote. Bleachers were placed along one side of the room to accommodate the audience. About four hundred students and townspeople were present.

In addition to the functions held on the day itself, the Thanksgiving spirit was carried over to the following night, the occasion of the annual Y. M. C. A. Laffalot Minstrel Show. Spontaneous wit and humor prevailed throughout the entire performance, which was well received by a large audience. Thus a mosst successful Thanksgiving season was concluded.

SUNDAY VESPERS

December 10

Dr. Stevenson will speak on "The Changes Christ Has Wrought." The Choir will sing: "Calm on The Listening Ear of Night"—Worthing.

Nearly 50 totally or partially blind persons in this country are engaged in writing as a means of livelihood.

Dr. Lloyd Visits Many Cities In East, Speaking At Numerous Churches

Vassar and Princeton Among Schools Visited by President

Dr. Lloyd's recent three weeks trip in the east took him to Washington, Philadelphia, and New York, He traveled in the interest of the college, and in each of these cities filled numerous speaking engagements.

The two days spent in Washington were occupied in conferring with government officials concerning the way in which Maryville College might work into the program of the new financial policies and benefit by them. Judge Tate, a member of the Interstate Commerce Commission as well as a director of the college, and Senator McKellar of Tennessee were both consulted.

While in Philadelphia Dr. Lloyd spoke in several churches including the Chambers-Wylie Memorial church and the Bethany Temple Presbyterian. He also addressed the Presbyterian Men's Association of that city at a Men's Fellowship banquet. In addition to his speaking he was engaged in various conferences relative to the financial concerns of the college. During his stay he had the opportunity of attending the annual convention of the World Fellowship Alliance.

Dr. Lloyd also spent some days in New York and its vicinity and on one occasion preached in Dr. Stevenson's former church at Yonkers. Conferences with friends of the college occupied much time here, too.

During his trip he visited Vassar College and Princeton University, at the Seminary of the latter he, with six Maryville alumni, was entertained at the home of the president, J. Ross Stevenson.

Dr. Lloyd states that his observations during his three week sojourn in the north incline him to agree with James Truslow Adams: the United States is facing a three-fold crisis in economics, politics, and character, the last of which is generally conceded to be the most vital.

A shorter trip of the Maryville president was made on Thursday and Friday of this week to Nashville, where the annual meeting of the Southern Association of Colleges convened. This association is the official accrediting agency of this region hereabout. Mr. F. L. Proffitt,

Next week Dr. Lloyd will leave on another extended eastern trip, on which he will visit Hartford, Connecticut, Summit, New Jersey, and other points.

FEATURE—M. MARTIN

Mrs. Adams, a typical mother of 1933, is aroused from her sleep at 2:00 a. m. by the sound of the doorbell.

"Oh, dear!" she sighs, "it must be Eva", and muttering something about the younger generation, she rises from her bed and sleepily descends the stairs. She opens the door just in time to see her incorrigible daughter receiving a final goodnight. Eva comes in.

"H'lo, Mom. Why, Mom, what's the matter?"

"Matter enough", answers her exasperated mother. "This is only Wednesday and it's the third time this week I've had to get up and let you in after two o'clock. I don't know what you young people are coming to. Now, back when I was a girl we never thought of staying out later than ten, and we always had a chaperone. A girl would have been ashamed then, to look at her mother if she were caught, right on the front porch, allowing a young man kiss her."

"But, Mother, Jack and I are going to be married."

"Eva, it's ridiculous for a girl of your age to even think of marriage."

To this Eva replies, "But you and Dad were married when you were only eighteen."

"Oh, but it was quite different then. Come on upstairs, now, it's nearly half past two."

Mrs A.dams, a typical mother of 1890 sits rocking nervously back and forth, glancing now and then at the clock, which shows the time to be almost 9:30. Every five minutes for the past hour she has gone to the window and peered into the darkness. Finally she hears her daughter's step. She opens the door just in time to see her incorrigible daugher receiving a last goodnight. Eva comes in.

"Hello, Mother. Why Mother, what's wrong?"

"Now Eva", her mother begins. "I have no objection if that young man wants to bring you home from the social in his new surrey if you'd ge here at a reasonable hour; but this is the third time his week you have been out till past nine o'clock. And, as for actually allowing that fellow to kiss you, I wonder you don't feel disgraced."

"But Mother, John and I are going to be married."

"Don't offer excuses, my dear. Why when I was your age—"

"When you were my age you and

(Continued on page four)

Miss Clemmie Henry Has Profitable Trip

During her trip, Miss Clemmie Henry addressed women's organizations in connection with the Church, Suday-School, and D. A. R. in Philadelphia, Harrisburg, New York City, New Jersey, and Connecticut. Many of these organization she had visited in previous years, but at several she spoke for the first time.

In addition to her contact with these groups and societies, Miss Henry met the parents of many students who are at present in Maryville College, and visited with many former Maryville students.

The College was glad to welcome Miss Henry back to the Hill.

The Italian Alps were the scene of the shooting of a royal eagle which measured six feet from wing tip to wing tip, recently.

THE HIGHLAND ECHO

Verton M. Queener - - - - Faculty Adviser
Kay Carpenter - - Editor-in-Chief

Staff Editors
Bernard Mattingly - Literary Editor
Charles Beale - - Sports Editor
Richard K. Orr - Activities Editor

Junior Associate Editor
Violet Webb - - Managing Editor
Dorothy Nethery - - - - Associate Literary Editor
Grace Proffitt - - - - Alumni and Feature Editor

Sophomore Cubs
Katharine Orr - - - - - - Associate Activities Editor
Helen Rusk - Asso. Literary Editor
Elizabeth Kunkel - - - - Associate Activities Editor
R. Bryan Payne - - - - Associate Sports Editor
George R. Greiner - - - - Associate Sports Editor
Alex Christie - Asso. Feature Editor

Freshman Apprentices
Helen Chambers, Ann McCambridge, Bernice Gaines, Frances Henson, Mary Porter Hatch, Boyce Jarman, Edward Thom, Douglas Woods, Richard Meadows

Business
Jesse Willis - Business Manager
Sam Waid - - - Asst. Bus. Mgr.
G. Edward Friar - Asst. Bus. Mgr.

Subscription Rates - - - - $1.25 per annum

Entered at the Post Office, Maryville, Tenn., as Second Class Matter, November 11, 1915

Saturday, December 9, 1933

Apparently the agitation over the much discussed Prohibition Amendment is drawing to a close, at least as far as the amendment itself is concerned. Whether or not prohibition has been practical, whether it has enriched labor, enlarged business, increased public savings, is no longer a vital issue. Further argument on the part of the drys in the matter of the efficacy of the law is out of place.

Those who feel the loss of the war against liquor traffic a lamentable one should now direct their thoughts and energies toward measures which so far as possible protect us from a return of the deplorable pre-war conditions. President Roosevelt tells us in confident tones that there will not be a return of the old-time saloon. We ask him what he proposes in its place, and how he intends to maintain an orderly distribution of liquors. We shall be interested also in statistics on speakeasies which were to disappear so rapidly on the return of legalized liquor.

We shall watch, too, the efficiency with which governmental administration protects the dry states which they have assured so confidently of protection.

Whatever the drys can do in the matter of protecting youth, family welfare and other relevant problems, must be done immediately. Methods of distribution, an apportionment plan which might prevent the wholesale sale of liquor to any person desiring it, measures which prevent and insure such sale to the very young, which protect those who desire to live in some measure of peace, tranquility, and safety, must not only be set forth, but must be executed with a remarkable degree of effectiveness if the old time regime does not reappear with evils even worse than those which characterized it before.

The trend of American thought on such questions in the next few months will unquestionably affect the general atmosphere of comfortable public life.

Book Browsing

"Talifer" is the happiest of all Robinson. New York. The Macmillan Company. $1.75.

"Talifer", by Edwin Arlington Robinson's longer poems—and it is also the best.' This is the advance report of Mr. Robingon's latest book which promises the confirmation of any reader who is a lover of Robinson for his character portraits; for his sense of humor which can be described only as being "Robinsonian"; and for his progressive narrative.

This is one of the least complicated productions of the author. There are four characters who manage to maladjust and readjust all in the course of 96 pages of fast moving poetry. Althea, whom we might call the heroine, is introduced to us first in a very pretty figure. . . . . and as a very pretty figure:

Althea, like a white bird left alone
In a still cage of leaves and memories,
Sat watching summer, seeing no more of it
Than scattered sunlight—which was better at least
For her to see than rain. There was no sound,
Or sight of sound, to say that even a leaf
Had left in it a whisper.

Dr. Quick who loves everyone. and very self sympathetically regrets the lack of sufficient recompense, acts as the catalytic agent in the bringing about of a very unusual reconciliation, and a reconciliation that would have been highly unreasonable, and slightly unprintable in less modern literature. Quick is "your servant" to everyone.

Then there is Talifer, "a splendid sort of asg", and Karen. It is Karen to whom Talifer goes for Peace, always spelt with a capital. We find them both subtly characterized: Talifer as unprofitably emotional and somewhat impetuous; Karen, the woman of more beauty than brains, in the following, as Talifer speaks to Karen:

Karen, Karen,
In a land burning certainly to ashes,
You are as cool and lovely as a trout.
Of just what unimpassioned particles
Are you composed, I wonder. In this weather,
How do you show yourself so heinously
Refrigerated, and so heavenly clean?

Althea's more considered (but slightly less considerate) judgment of Karen is given in these words:

"If Job had three of her,"
Althea said, "he would have had enough
Without his boils."

Some of the most touching parts of the poem are the very confidential talks of Quick with Althea in which Quick is quite the modern psychologist along with his burdensome work as a physician. Quick says once, and intimates often, that he would be a better doctor if his heart were not so large.

"I should have been a priest;
For I might then have comforted the wicked,
If not the selfish and infatuated
Who are God's own to save."

After one of Quick's fatherly "addresses" in which there is too much reason for Althea to gather: Althea smiled, with a satirical Affection in her eyes: "You like your voice;
You like your voice more than you like your friends;
Or you would tell them, confidentially,
What you are trying to say."

Mr. Robinson very successfully introduces us to a very brilliant child whose behavior and importance commands considerable interest in the last part of the book. This is another respect in which this book is different from previous long poems of the author. Young Samuel Talifer (who is not called "Junior") is presented as a very young child, very brilliant for his age, and as, incidentally, a means for Dr. Quick to get off a great amount of expository material which might have seemed cumbersome between any other two characters. We have introduced the child as he performs in his perambulator:

The son and heir,
From his perambulator, scanned his father
Somewhat as if in doubt of his importance;
And having striven in vain to change his mind,
He fixed a beaming gaze upon his mother,
And with a language of one syllable
And of two hands, made himself understood.

Talifer in his attempt to show himself the qualified father performs in this manner:

Like one who had read somewhere in a treatise
How it was done, he touched his infant's nose
With an abrupt unfaltering fore-finger,
And sat back with an air of one who knew
What was expected and could always do it. . . .

One can see the compressed humour in such bits of poetry. There is a legitimate plot to the poem, but it is not by reason of its plot that such people as Louis Untermeyer find it expedient to call it the best of Robinson's long poems. Rather it is for its poetic quality which can never be described within he confines of a newspaper column. As one of Robinson's poems it is of the best literary quality; and as one of Robinson's best productions it is a poem very much to be read. If one misses the "Satanic Kink" he will find it very ably and profitably displaced by a more angelic humor than could be preconceived.

SUPERIOR SCOTTIES

Maryville College cannot claim to be distinctly southern either in enrollment or in influence. It can, however, boast at least one real southerner, a man who is unmistakably from the South and proud of it. His characteristic speech, his aversion to an undue amount of hurrying, his ability to make people like him for what he is, his name—all these are marks indicative of the fact that he is a southerner born and bred. We are speaking of our worthy senior, Charles Roddenbery Beale, of Cairo, Georgiah. He is otherwise known as Charlie Beale.

Charlie will soon have spent four years on this campus. During that time people have come to know him and to appreciate him as a person who has made a place for himself here in a good-humoured, leisurely fashion. That, in the endless rush of our generation is, we believe, an accomplishment.

In the course of his college career Charlie has proved that he has journalistic capabilities. He was editor of the 1933 Chilhowean. He has worked on the Highland Echo staff since his freshhman year, and for the last two years he has been sports editor of the Echo. Charlie, moreover, is a successful debater, nd during his sophomore year he was a member of the Varsity Debate Team. He has served two terms in the Y.M.C.A. cabinet. Last year he was a member of the Athletic Board of Control.

In addition to other enviable attributes he has a good mind. His much better than average grades are one proof of that. But still another, is the story which we shall relate here, give it whatever credence you may. He can, we are told, go to sleep in class, wake up long enough to give a creditable answer to any question asked him, resume then his peaceful slumber, and in the process absorb enough knowledge to pass an examination quite acceptably.

In short, Charlie Beale, in his own particular way, has won a place in the ranks of the clan of Superior Scotties.

CLUBS

BAINONIAN—ATHENIAN

Bainonian Literary Society and her brother society Athenian held their mid-year election of officers during the past week with the following results:

Bainonian
President—Veta May Stephens
Vice President—Katherine Wayland
Secretary—Viola Lightfoot
Program Secretaries—Cecelia Conover, Eleanor Johnson
Poster Chairman—Virginia Worth
Sergeant-at-Arms—Emily Watson
House Chairman—Muriel Waechter

Athenian
Vice President—Sam Waid
Secretary—Joseph Truxton
Program Secretaries—James Shaw, George Hoglan
Critics—Earl Crawford, Douglas Carhart
Sergeant-at-Arms—Sam Blizzard
Editor—Robert E. Lodwick

Installation services will be held tonight.

THETA

At the meting of the Theta Epsilon Literary Society last Saturday evening. Miss Jessie Johnson, a former member of Theta, presented a most enjoyable program, consisting of a discussion of "The Poetic Element of Negro Spirituals" The points of the talk were well illustrated by some very lovely spirituals sung by the speaker.

At the meeting of the society tonight at 6:45 the election of officers will be held. All Thetas are urged to be present to vote.

ALPHA SIGMA

A varied program was enjoyed ast Saturday night by Alpha Sigma. Bill Downes, Lee Shanor and one, "The Observer" presented the entertainment.

OHIO CLUB PICNIC

Thirty members of the Ohio Club atended the club picnic held in the college woods last Saturday afternoon. The picnickers participated in a treasure hunt, which was followed by other games. Later in the afternoon the guests roasted weiners.

GEORGIA CLUB

The Georgia Club met Tuesday night, November 28, in Bainonian Hall. After the business meeting a program was presented, consisting of musical numbers by Marion and Charlotte King. Tom Weese gave a talk on "Facts About Atlanta."

PI KAPPA DELTA

At a meeting on Wednesday, November 29, the Maryville Chapter of Pi Kappa Delta, the resignation of Frederick Kirchner as president was accepted.

Mr. Kirchner's resignation was tendered on the fact that this year it is impossible for him to actively particiuate in debate work.

At a meeting on Wednesday morning James Smith was elected succeeding president.

Professor Queener feels confident that again this year, a successful debaitng season will be enjoyed by his apt and hard-working debaters.

"AS YOU LIKE IT" TONIGHT

An "As You Like It" party will be held tonight in Thaw Hall at 7:30. There will be no specific program or acts of entertainment. Games will be supplied or suggested by the committee in charge. The committee, however, is open to the suggetion of ay student in the matter of suitable entertainment for the evening.

No admission fee will be charged, and large numbers are expected.

Y. W. C. A.

Jesus' attitude toward Women will be presented in a novel way in Y. W. C. A. tomorrow. A senior sextet will furnish special music.

DR. S. D. MOUNT
Dentist
First National Bank Bldg.
Phone 323

CARLISLE'S
5c AND 10c STORE
We appreciate your patronage

WHITE STAR LINE, Inc.
Effective June 12, 1932

Lv. Maryville	Lv. Knoxville
6:00 a. m.	7:00 a. m.
7:00 a. m.	8:00 a. m.
8:00 a. m.	9:00 a. m.
10:00 a. m.	11:00 a. m.
12:00 Noon	1:00 p. m.
2:00 p. m.	*3:00 p. m.
3:00 p. m.	§4:00 p. m.
4:00 p. m.	5:00 p. m.
5:00 p. m.	6:30p. m.
8:00 p. m.	9:30 p. m.

Maryville-Townsend

Lv. Townsend	Lv. Maryville
7:00 a. m.	4:00 p. m.

§Connections for Madisonville, Etowah and Cleveland
*Direct connections to Townsend

PALACE THEATRE
NEXT WEEK
MON.-TUES.
WILL ROGERS
.. In ..
"TOO BUSY TO WORK"
Never more humorous nor more human. Patches on his pants—holes in his shoes—a song on his lips—just a tramp chuckling at life.
You'll regret you missed this picture.

MEMORY FAILS
But Wilson's Index never forgets!
The perfect Christmas Present for teachers, students, ministers, writers for $7.00
"It is the best thing of the kind I have ever seen."
—Roy E. Vale, D. D.
WINN T. BARR, Agent for Wilson Index Co.

Echo Sports

Sport Talk

BY

BRYAN PAYNE

And once more, dear readers, we move on down that glamorous old road, the pride of America, and come to the end of a trail which has been fraught with ruggedness and sweet victories, and hardships and bitter defeats for the Highlanders. But thru it all the Maryville spirit and Scott battle-reputation have ridden abreast of the clouds, not inflated with the pride of success, nor flattened by destruction and defeat. And, folks, you've seen a clean year. Good sportsmanship has been the consistent factor on the part of the Highlanders in every game. You have seen them bow before their most bitter rivals, and yet they were not once penalized for foul play. That's great, isn't it?

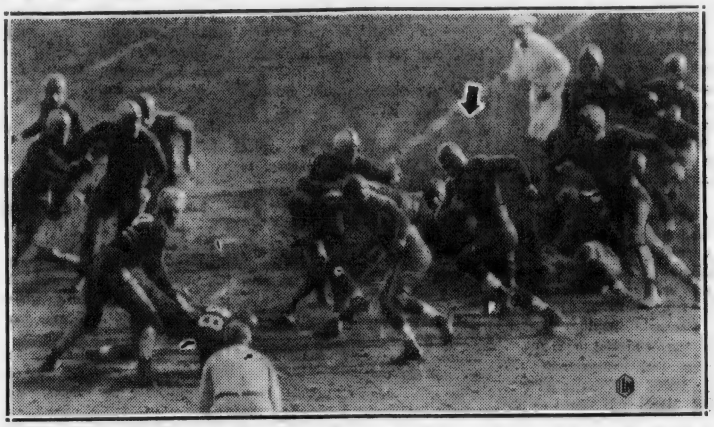
—S—

The end of the trail always brings its smiles and its tears. Smiles to the freshmen who have weathered the seasosn on the "Bulldog" bench, looking forward to a varsity nod next year. Tears for those gallant seniors who have charged in the last line, who have punted a last punt, and who have scored a last goal in the battle-togs of the Orange and Garnet. Thanksgiving Day they were the men of the hour, and they carried away with them the full glory of a good fight. Today, they are through, washed up, looking toward a bigger game. . . . . but never forgotten. Heigh ho, lack-a-day, and so long, Seniors—you've been good Highlanders.

—S—

Ben Clark had his 75-yard jaunt and Childers his revenge at end for Carson-Newman, Steve galloped up and down the gridiron and West heaved spirals to his hearts fill, Bailey played a faultless game at center and Atkins proved the key man in aerial offensives, but glittering far above them all was the superb defensive game played by Martin Gillespie at fullback. After he had mastered the secret of their deceptive shift he was THE man who was responsible for stopping their line charges and end runs. Super-man that he was that day, we think we see another side of the story. Captain Russell, you know, was out of the game, and they're great buddies, being roommates, and all. Yessir! Bet you Martin was out there playing for ole "Fink", and if he was, it was a fine gesture. Anyway, as "Moon" Murphy would tell you, it was quite touching to think of it thus.

—S—



Carson-Newman college has a good football team, but it is not without its faults. For a team losing seventy five yards for unnecessary roughness there is a trifle left to learn; not much, maybe, but a trifle. Football is necessarily rough, it is true, and then the jealousy of old rivals was rooting here and there, but hair-pulling and ear-pinching, to say nothing of nose-twisting in the clinches, such as we had the patience to watch is not done among men, with a finer regard for the game. It is with a savage countenance that the Scot awaits the Eagle's visit next year, and tho the seeds of bitterness will have scattered somewhat from former years, maybe some old grads will come along and revive the feud again.

—S—

Did you ever hear of a chicken with elephant ears, a monkey's tail, and horns like a bull. We never did either. . . they just don't belong on a chicken. The chicken we happen to be thinking of is the 1933 "cream" of the Smoky Mountain Conference crop. If Boretsky had been left out the chicken would have had a giraffe's neck, but fortunately for those who have to swallow it. . .no. Any-

(Continued on page four)

Another Carideo Stars as Notre Dame Beats Army

Fred Carideo (arrow), sophomore quarterback of Notre Dame, smashing through Army's tackle for a short gain in the opening quarter of the grid upset at Yankee Stadium, New York. The defeat of the Cadets by the lowly Ramblers, by the score of 13-12, stunned 70,000 spectators.

Boretsky Makes All-Conference Eleven

Point System Girls Elect Basket Ball Captains; Tourney In February

Girls participating in the Point System elected captains and managers for basketball Tuesday afternoon, November 29th. The juniors-seniors elected Johnson as captain and Coats as manager. The freshmen-sophomores chose Chambers for captain and Dexter for manager.

Basketball practice began last week. The tournament between the juniors-seniors and freshmen-sophomores is scheduled for the second week in February. Until then practices will be held every Tuesday and Thursday in the gym.

Twenty Receive M's At Football Banquet

Squad Votes To Appoint Captain For Each Game In 1934

The varsity "M" and a sweater was given to each of nineteen football players as well as to Manager Charles Lewis Tuesday night at the annual banquet. Almost fifty members of the squad, together with Coaches Honaker and Thrower and the managers, were present.

Seven of those receiving letters, Kiser, Gilespie, West, Payne, Boretsky, the all-conference half, Atkins, and Gwynn will receive their sheepskins this year. But, though this will hurt the squad, sophomore and freshman ability will partially compensate for the loss.

Election of a captain for the 1934 season, as has been the custom at past banquets, was not held at this one. The lettermen voted to appoint a captain for each game, a method which they think will prove more satisfactory.

The names and positions of the players awarded the letters and sweaters are as follows: Atkins, Gwynn, Kalman, Gamble, Millsaps, Atchison, Klink, Collins, Holaday, Pieper, and Bailey, linemen; and Blazer, Boretsky, West, Gillespie, Kiser, Payne, Krainock, and Loessberg, backs.

The seventh Pan-American conference was opened on Decembr 3rd with a powerful address by President Terra of Uruguay. He appealed for peace and urged the delegates not to leave without finding means of insuring lasting peace in the American hemisphere. He also expressed hope that the conference would find effective remedies for American economic problems.

Atkins, West, and Atchison Cop Second String Positions on 1933 Eleven

Steve Boretsky, known in Smoky Mountain League circles as one of the hardest driving, most elusive backs ever to roam at large on local football plains, was unanimously placed at left half on the 1933 mythical conference eleven at a meeting of the board of selection last week.

After a close contest with McAmis, Tusculum wingman, Atkins was chosen to fill that post on the second string, along with Tom West at quarter, and Atchison at right guard.

Those from the Highlanders receiving honorable mention are Gamble at tackle, Collins at guard, Russell at center, and Kizer in the backfield.

Participating in the selection were coaches from the colleges in the conference, including Coaches Honaker and Thrower from Maryville.

Carson-Newman college led the field with five men filling first team positions, Teachers and Tusculum scored two men each, and Maryville and King followed with one man each.

All-Smoky Mountain

First Team	Pos.	Second Team
Childers, Carson-Newman	left end	Atkins Maryville
Rogers Carson-Newman	left tackle	Holan King
Smith Carson-Newman	left guard	Palinchek Tusculum
Davis Carson-Newman	center	Armstrong Tusculum
Oken, King	right guard	Atchison Maryville
Congdon Teachers	right tackle	Green, Milligan
McAmis Tusculum	right end	Massengill Teachers
Clark Carson-Newman	quarterback	West Maryville
Boretsky Maryville	left half	Davis King
Bailey Teachers	right half	Bricker King
Kmetz Tusculum	fullback	Hunt Teachers

Twenty Promising Men Enlist Under Thrower For Varsity Grappling Season

Twenty men reported to Coach Thrower last Tuesday afternoon for the first wrestling practice of the season. Nearly all of these men are newcomers, only two or three of them having been members of last year's team.

The squad will be increased next Monday when eight varsity performers on the 1933 team report. These wrestlers played football this season, and will be in good condition.

The first practices have been limbering up and stretching exercises and a few elementary holds. Work on actual wrestling will not be started until the men have attained better condition.

Scots Open 1934 Card With Kentucky W-cats

Larger Conference Schedule Is Planned; Carson-Newman Plays Here

The 1934 football schedule has not been definitely decided upon, but the opening game of the season will be played against the Kentucky Wildcats in Lexington.

Games are being arranged also, with Tusculum, King, Cumberland, East Tennessee Teachers, Milligan,

(Continued on page four)

1934 Cage Team Faces 13 Conference Games

Warm-up Tilts Played With Gulf, Harriman Independents December 12, 18

The 1934 Highlander basketball team faces a schedule which includes thirteen conference games and eight non-conference games. With the exception of Cumberland, each conference foe will be played twice.

The opening game of the season will be a warm-up affair against the Gulf team December 12. The first conference scrap will be played against Lincoln Memorial University at Maryville January 15.

Although games against King and Tennessee Wesleyan are pending, details for them are expected to be completed during a conference meeting which is to be held at Carson-Newman next Monday, December 11.

The complete schedule, including pending games, is as follows:

Dec. 12—Gulf
Dec. 18—Harriman Independents
Jan. 12—Cullowhee—Here
Jan. 15—L. M. U.—Here
Jan. 18—King (pending)—Here
Jan. 20—Tusculum—There
Jan. 23—Emory-Henry—Here
Jan. 25—Tenn. Wesleyan (pending)—Here
Jan. 27—Carson-Newman—There
Jan. 30—East Tenn. Teachers—Here
Feb. 1—King (pending)—There
Feb. 2—Pikeville, Ky.—There
Feb. 3—L. M. U.—There
Feb. 5—Cumberland—Here
Feb. 16—Tusculum—Here
Feb. 21—E. Tenn. Teachers—There
Feb. 22—Milligan—There
Feb. 23—Appalachian Teach.—There
Feb. 24—Emory-Henry—There
Feb. 28—Milligan—Here

The University of Chicago has the largest football stadium in the country. It seats 110,000 people.

Buy her a new Singer Electric Vacuum Cleaner for Christmas

SINGER SEWING MACHINE CO.

Attractive proposition open for 3 salesmen; all or part time duty.

Phone 73

... The ...

BYRNE DRUG CO.

The Students' Drug Store

For That Christmas Gift

Have an elargement made from your annual negative.—It is yourself—and a personal gift is always appreciated.

THE WEBB STUDIO

OBSERVATIONS

We just stepped in from a little observing of a post season football battle (the game was being played in the Highland Echo office's front yard) between two teams composed chiefly of the intelligentsia. But it didn't last so long. Lloyd blocked from behind, kind of a clipping act according to Honaker, and in spite of the arbitrary methods of young Hunter and the Unknown the show was off. Honaker took his books and went home, as did Hunter, and we resorted to watching a game of kick-back between Hal Lloyd and the Unknown. The final of this was a tie. Darkness got the victory.

—O—

Dr. Hunter was reading to a group of veritable poetry lovers in the Y. W. C. A. rooms the other day, quoting at one time from Henry IV. where someone says to someone (we've got to brush up on this), "And he was cold as a stone". The lines were repeated three times which provoked two women of interpretable feelings to promptly arise and don their coats. Not bad influence, we'd say.

—O—

Another faculty member comes forth. . . this being the Philosophy professor who reports a good crop of pecans this year. He says there's just plenty of them, folks, but he asks that we not all come out. Maybe we could appoint a delegation to go and bring some back to those of us who stay home to comply with the Doctor's wishes. . . .and that might be construed to mean the M. D. from the recent experience we've had from ovrindulging in the forbidden kernels.

—O—

Ah! Anothr faculty member. Two of them! Miss Mary Ellen Caldwell writes Miss Clemmie Henry a note asking her to do a bit of chaperoning of some kind, signing the note "M. E. C.". That is to be expected, if the Dean of Women chooses to use the initials. She must have dealt quite impersonally, and abstractly, however, for when Miss Henry was stopped, she was quite well on the way to the Methodist Episcopal Church. . . . which, we believe does not write notes. Or if it does, it doesn't sign them!

—O—

And some croked guy. . . . we did not get the name put on a show of some kind in Alpha Sigma last week, identifying himself as "The Observer". We didn't care for that at all. Sort of stealing our stuff, to speak in common language, and we never could see the virtue in another man's doing that.

—O—

The story goes about (this is not the story of Mike Testa being caught minus the things of wear in the Y. M. C. A. hallway. We were asked special by Mike not to write an O on that, so we mention that with this other one) that Mr. Burckhalter has learned the secret of cheap prices for services rendered in the way of laundry work. Mr. Burckhalter is a freshman.

—O—

Mr. Burckhalter also gives dancing lessons to the boys (those who wish to learn) for fifteen cents a round. That just leads to the main event, which follows. Roy offered to give the Laundry Woman dancing lessons for not that price, but for doing a reasonably large amount of shirts and things for him. Things went along well, and Roy had spending money till the inevitable occurred. The laundry woman showed up one day with one of those things which are (according to Mr. Burckhalter) so hard to make understand. She came through with a husband. From now on it's 5 cents a shirt.

—O—

We haven't seen the Olympic Signboard for two days. We refer to the sweater (we guess there's a sweater under the sign) that is worn by Miss Bond (please, editor, don't let this go under the classification of "women's clothing"; Mr. Queener will cut it) quite often. All About the Olympic Games! We're sort of wishing for a hot day in January . . . . or a hot week, so we can rest our weary 'ighs of such. . . . .

—O—

People are still wondering how they can tell one Rink from another. We sat at their table at the dining hall for two years, and never found any cue. The record made by each of them only perplexes one more. Since those two students have been in tis college the only discrepancy in teir marks is that of one letter, made the second semester last year. One made one letter higher in one subject. Rumor has it that only one of them is in love. Perhaps that accounts for the deviation from the line of conformity. The record includes absences too. We wonder if Julia is Mary's little lambie who goes everyplace. . . . in which case she'd be the woman in love.

—O—

We announce (this announcement deserves a headline, by rights) the forming of a new club! This club will comprise those college students who cannot afford to pay six bits, or whatever it is, for the cleaning and pressing of a suit. The president will in all probability will be Fred Kirchner. . . . . (this isn't a matter of observating; he is the originater) and we'll accept the vice-presidency if it has no more work connected with it than the usual run of vice presidencies. The name of the Club, unless someone proposes a better name, is "The Baggy Knees Club" and we refer to the knees of the trousers, not of the member.

Class Sponsors To Be Chosen for Chilhowean

A novel feature of this year's Chilhowean will be class sponsors, girls elected by each class in that capacity. In past years it has been the custom to select the supposedly pretiest, most beautiful and, most popular girls, a practice which has always resulted in great controversy, and often in hard feelings among candidates and backers. The new plan is expected to do away with such unpleasantry.

The Chilhowean Staff announces this plan some time in advance of the actual elctions in order to forestall the usual complain of voters that here has been lack of time to choose and decide on prospective nominees for the honor.

Any campus snapshots, taken in the grounds or on various hikes and week-end trips may be given to Douglas Carhart, Phyllis Dexter, Katherine Orr, and Bryan Payne.

STEVENSONS ENTERTAIN FOR MISS ANNA JONES

Since she expects to occupy her own home very soon, Miss Anna J. Jones was honored by a surprise shower at the home of Dr. Stevenson on Thursday evening. About fifty guests were present, including women members of the faculty and wives of faculty membrs.

Th first part of the entertainment was composed of games. These were followed by rfreshments and a shower of gifts for Miss Jones. Household articles of all kinds were presented. Miss Kellar will reside with Miss Jones in the new home.

SPANISH CLUB

